Transcriber's Note

The cover image was created by the transcriber, and is placed in the public domain.

Footnotes have been moved to the end of the poem or extract in which they occur.

Variant spelling and use of accents, inconsistent hyphenation and capitalization are retained, as are English words spelt in the French manner. There are many words with irregular placing of the apostrophe in possessive plurals (e.g. womens', Fishermens') these have not been changed.

The changes that have been made are listed at the end of the book.

PREFACE.

THE publication of a dictionary of French cant and slang demands some explanation from the author. During a long course of philological studies, extending over many years, I have been in the habit of putting on record, for my own edification, a large number of those cant and slang terms and quaint expressions of which the English and French tongues furnish an abundant harvest. Whatever of this nature I heard from the lips of persons to whom they are familiar, or gleaned from the perusal of modern works and newspapers, I carefully noted down, until my note-book had assumed such dimensions that the idea of completing a collection already considerable was suggested. It was pointed out to me, as an inducement to venture on so arduous an undertaking, that it must prove, from its very nature, not only an object of curiosity and interest to the lover of philological studies and the public at large, but also one of utility to the English reader of modern French works of fiction. The fact is not to be ignored that the chief works of the so-called Naturalistic School do certainly find their way to this country, where they command a large number of readers. These productions of modern French fiction dwell with complaisance on the vices of society, dissect them patiently, often with power and talent, and too often exaggerate them. It is not within my province to pass a judgment upon their analytical study of all that is gross in human nature. But, from a philological point of view, the men and women whom they place as actors on the stage of their human comedy are interesting, whatever they may be in other respects. Some of them belong to the very dregs of society, possessing a language of their own, forcible, picturesque, and graphic. This language sometimes embodies in a single word a whole train of philosophical ideas, and is dashed with a grim humour, with a species of wit which not often misses the mark. Moreover, these labourers, roughs, street arabs, thieves, and worse than thieves—these Coupeaus, Bec-Salés, Mes-Bottes, Lantiers—are not the sole possessors of a vernacular which, to a certain extent, is the exponent of their idiosyncrasies. Slang has invaded all classes of society, and is often used for want of terms sufficiently strong or pointed to convey the speaker's real feelings. It seems to be resorted to in order to make up for the shortcomings of a well-balanced and polished tongue, which will not lend itself to exaggeration and violence of utterance. Journalists, artists, politicians, men of fashion, soldiers, even women talk argot, sometimes unawares, and these as well as the lower classes are depicted in the Naturalistic novel. Now, although the study of French is daily acquiring more and more importance in England, the professors of that language do not as a rule initiate their pupils—and very naturally so—into the mysteries of the vernacular of the highest and lowest strata of society, into the cynical but pithy and humorous jargon of the voyou from the heights of Montmartre or Ménilmontant, nor even into the lisping twaddle of the languid gommeux who lolls on the Boulevard des Italiens. Hence English readers of L'Assommoir and other similar works find themselves puzzled at every line, and turn in vain for assistance to their dictionaries. The present volume aims at filling the vacant space on the shelves of all who read for something besides the passing of an idle hour. An English slang equivalent of the English rendering has been inserted whenever that was possible, and because the meaning of a term is better conveyed by examples, as many quotations as the limits of the Dictionary would admit have been reproduced from different authors.

A few words on the manner in which the work has been compiled are due to the reader. In order to complete my own private information, specially with reference to old cant, I have drawn as freely as seemed to me legitimate on works of a similar character—Michel's, Delvau's, Rigaud's, Lorédan Larchey's excellent Dictionnaire Historique d'Argot, Vilatte's Parisismen, a very complete work on French argot rendered into German. But by far the most important portion of my collection has been gathered from Vidocq's productions, Balzac's works, The Memoirs of Monsieur Claude, formerly superintendent of the detective department in Paris, and from other works to be mentioned hereafter. To an inspector of the detective force in Paris, Monsieur Lagaille, I am indebted for many of the terms of the phraseology used by the worthies with whom his functions have brought him in contact.

Again, newspapers of both countries have also brought in their contingent, but the most interesting sources of information, as being the most original, have been workpeople, soldiers, pickpockets, and other malefactors having done their "time," or likely to be "wanted" at a short notice. The members of the light-fingered gentry were not easily to be got at, as their natural suspicions precluded their realizing at once my object, and it required some diplomacy and pains to succeed in enlisting their services. In one particular instance I was deprived of my informants in a rather summary manner. Two brothers, members of a family which strongly reminded one of E. Sue's Martials, inasmuch as the father had mounted the scaffold, the mother was in prison, and other members had met with similar accidents, had volunteered to become my collaborators, and were willing to furnish information the more valuable, it seemed to me, as coming from such distinguished individuals. Unfortunately for the Dictionary the brothers were apprehended when coming to my rendez-vous, and are now, I believe, far on their way to the penal settlement of New Caledonia.

I have to thank numerous correspondents, French and English officers, journalists, and artists, for coming to my assistance and furnishing me with valuable information. My best thanks are due also to M. Godefroy Durand for his admirable etching.

As regards the English part, I am considerably indebted to the Slang Dictionary published by Messrs. Chatto and Windus, to the History and Curious Adventures of Bampfylde-Moore Carew, King of the Mendicants, as well as to the various journals of the day, and to verbal inquiries among all classes of people.

I have not attempted, except in a few cases, to trace the origin of words, as an etymological history of cant would be the work of a lifetime.

It is somewhat difficult to know exactly where to draw the line, and to decide whether a word belongs to slang or should be rejected. I have been guided on this point by Littré, and any terms mentioned by him as having passed into the language I have discarded. I have introduced a small number of what might be termed eccentricities of language, which, though not strictly slang, deserve recording on account of their quaintness. To the English reader I need not, I trust, apologize for not having recoiled, in my desire for completeness, before certain unsavoury terms, and for having thus acted upon Victor Hugo's recommendation, "Quand la chose est, dites le mot."

INTRODUCTION.

ARGOT pervades the whole of French society. It may be heard everywhere, and it is now difficult to peruse a newspaper or open a new novel without meeting with a sprinkling of some of the jargon dialects of the day. These take their rise in the slums, on the boulevards, in workshops, barracks, and studios, and even in the lobbies of the Houses of Legislature. From the beggar to the diplomatist, every class possesses its own vernacular, borrowed more or less from its special avocations. The language of the dangerous classes, which so often savours of evil or bloody deeds, of human suffering, and also of the anguish and fears of the ever-tracked and ever-watchful criminal, though often disguised under a would-be humorous garb, cannot but be interesting to the philosopher. "Everybody," says Charles Nodier, "must feel that there is more ingenuity in argot than in algebra itself, and that this quality is due to the power it possesses of making language figurative and graphic. With algebra, only calculations can be achieved; with argot, however ignoble and impure its source, a nation and society might be renovated.... Argot is generally formed with ability because it is the outcome of the urgent necessities of a class of men not lacking in brains.... The jargon of the lower classes, which is due to the inventive genius of thieves, is redundant with sparkling wit, and gives evidence of wonderfully imaginative powers."

If criminals are odious, they are not always vulgar, and a study of their mode of expression possesses certain features of interest. The ordinary slang of the higher strata of French society, as compared with that of the lower classes, being based often on mere distortion of words or misappropriation of meaning, is in many cases vulgar and silly; it casts a stain over a language which has already suffered so much at the hands of the lesser stars of the Naturalistic School. A coarse sentiment, a craving for more violent sensations, will find expression in the jargon of the day. People are no longer content with being astonished, they must be crushed or flattened (épatés), or knocked over (renversés), and so forth; and the silly "on dirait du veau," repeated ad nauseam, seldom fails to raise a laugh. Our English neighbours do not seem to be better off. "So universal," says a writer in Household Words, September 24, 1853, "has the use of slang terms become, that in all societies they are substituted for, and have almost usurped the place of wit. An audience will sit in a theatre and listen to a string of brilliant witticisms with perfect immobility, but let some fellow rush forward and roar out 'It's all serene,' or 'catch'em alive, oh!' (this last is sure to take), pit, boxes, and gallery roar with laughter." It must be said, however, on the other hand, that the slang term is often much more expressive than its corresponding synonym in the ordinary language. Moreover, it is often witty, and capable of suggesting a humorous idea with singular felicity.

Argot is but a bastard tongue grafted on the mother stem, and though it is no easy matter to coin a word that shall remain and take rank among those of any language, yet the field of argot, already so extensive, is ever pushing back its boundaries, the additions surging in together with new ideas, novel fashions, but especially through the necessities of that class of people whose primary interest it is to make themselves unintelligible to their victims, the public, and their enemies, the police. "Argot," again quoting Nodier's words, "is an artificial, unsettled tongue, without a syntax properly so called, of which the only object is to disguise under conventional metaphors ideas which are intended to be conveyed to adepts. Consequently its vocabulary must needs change whenever it has become familiar to outsiders, and we find in Le Jargon de l'Argot Réformé curious traces of a like revolution. In every country the men who speak a cant language belong to the lowest, most contemptible stratum of society, but its study, if looked upon as an outcome of the intellect, presents important features, and synoptic tables of its synonyms might prove interesting to the linguist."

The use of argot in works of any literary pretensions is of modern introduction. However, Villon, the famous poet of the fifteenth century, a vaurien whose misdeeds had wellnigh brought him to the gallows, as he informs us:—

Je suis François, dont ce me poise,
Né de Paris emprès Ponthoise,
Or, d'une corde d'une toise,
Saura mon col que mon cul poise—

Villon himself has given, under the title of Jargon ou Jobelin de Maistre François Villon, a series of short poems worded in the jargon of the vagabonds and thieves his boon companions, now almost unintelligible.

In our days Eugène Sue, Balzac, and Victor Hugo have introduced argot in some of their works, taking, no doubt, Vidocq as an authority on the subject; while more recently M. Jean Richepin, in his Chanson des Gueux, rhymes in the lingo of roughs, bullies, vagabonds, and thieves; and many others have followed suit. Balzac thus expresses his admiration for argot: "People will perhaps be astonished if we venture to assert that no tongue is more energetic, more picturesque than the tongue of that subterranean world which since the birth of capitals grovels in cellars, in sinks of vice, in the lowest stage floors of societies. For is not the world a theatre? The lowest stage floor is the ground basement under the stage of the opera house where the machinery, the phantoms, the devils, when not in use, are stowed away. Each word of the language recalls a brutal image, either ingenious or terrible. In the jargon one does not sleep, ‘on pionce.’ Notice with what energy that word expresses the uneasy slumbers of the tracked, tired, suspicious animal called thief, which, as soon as it is in safety, sinks down and rolls into the abysses of deep and necessary sleep, with the powerful wings of suspicion constantly spread over it—an awful repose, comparable to that of the wild beast, which sleeps and snores, but whose ears nevertheless remain ever watchful. Everything is fierce in this idiom. The initial or final syllables of words, the words themselves, are harsh and astounding. A woman is a largue. And what poetry! Straw is ‘la plume de Beauce.’ The word midnight is rendered by douze plombes crossent. Does not that make one shudder?”

Victor Hugo, after Balzac, has devoted a whole chapter to argot in his Misérables, and both these great authors have left little to be said on the subject. Victor Hugo, dealing with its Protean character, writes: “Argot being the idiom of corruption, is quickly corrupted. Besides, as it always seeks secrecy, so soon as it feels itself understood it transforms itself... For this reason argot is subject to perpetual transformation—a secret and rapid work which ever goes on. It makes more progress in ten years than the regular language in ten centuries.”

In spite of the successive revolutions referred to, a number of old cant words are still used in their original form. Some have been, besides, more or less distorted by different processes, the results of these alterations being subjected in their turn to fresh disguises. As for slang proper, it is mostly metaphoric.

A large proportion of the vocabulary of argot is to be traced to the early Romance idiom, or to some of our country patois, the offsprings of the ancient Langue d’oc and Langue d’oil. Some of the terms draw their origin from the Italian language and jargon, and were imported by Italian quacks and sharpers. Such are lime (shirt), fourline (thief), macaronner (to inform against), rabouin (devil), rif (fire), escarpe (thief, murderer), respectively from lima, forlano, macaronare, rabuino, ruffo, scarpa, some of which belong to the Romany, as lima. The German schlafen has given schloffer, and the Latin fur has provided us with the verb affurer. Several are of Greek parentage: arton (bread), from the accusative ἄρτον; ornie (fowl), from ὄρνις; pier (to drink), piolle (tavern), pion (drunk), from πιεῖν.

The word argot itself, formerly a cant word, but which has now gained admittance into the Dictionnaire de l'Académie, is but the corruption of jargon, called by the Italians “lingua gerga,” abbreviated into “gergo,” from which the French word sprang,—gergo itself being derived, according to Salvini, from the Greek ἱερός (sacred). Hence lingua gerga, sacred language, only known to the initiated. M. Génin thus traces the origin of argot: lingua hiera, then lingua gerga, il gergo; hence jergon or jargon, finally argot. Other philologists have suggested that it comes from the Greek ἄργός, idler; and this learned derivation is not improbable, as, among the members of the “argot”—originally the corporation of pedlars and vagabonds—were scholars like Villon (though there exists no evidence of the word having been used in his time), and runaway priests who had, as the French say, “thrown the cassock to the nettles.” M. Nisard, however, rejects these derivations, and believes that argot comes from argutus, pointed, cunning. It seems, in any case, an indubitable fact that the term argot at first was applied only to the confraternity of vagabonds or “argotiers,” and there is no evidence of its having been used before 1698 as an appellation for their language, which till then had been known as “jargon du matois” or “jargon de l’argot.” Grandval, in his Vice puni ou Cartouche, offers the following derivation, which must be taken for what it is worth.

Mais à propos d’argot, dit alors Limosin,
Ne m’apprendrez-vous pas, vous qui parlez latin,
D’où cette belle langue a pris son origine?
—De la ville d’Argos, et je l’ai lu dans Pline,
Répondit Balagny. Le grand Agamemnon
Fit fleurir dans Argos cet éloquent jargon.

· · · · ·
—Tu dis vrai, Balagny, reprit alors Cartouche;
Mais cette langue sort d’une plus vieille souche,
Et j’ai lu quelque part, dans un certain bouquin
D’argot traduit en grec, de grec mis en latin,
Et depuis en françois, que Jason et Thésée,
Hercule, Philoctète, Admète, Hylas, Lyncée,
Castor, Pollux, Orphée et tant d’autres héros
Qui trimèrent pincer la toison à Colchos,
Dans le navire Argo, pendant leur long voyage,
Inventèrent entre eux ce sublime langage
Afin de mieux tromper le roi Colchidien
Et que de leur projet il ne soupçonnât rien.

· · · · ·
Enfin tous les doubleurs de la riche toison,
De leur navire Argo lui donnèrent le nom.

Amis, voici quelle est son étymologie.

A certain number of slang terms proceed from uniform and systematic alterations in the body of the French word, but these methods do not seem to have produced many expressions holding a permanent place in the dialect. Such is the “langage en lem,” much used by butchers some forty years ago, but now only known to a few. But a very small number of words thus coined have passed into the main body of the lingo, as being too lengthy, and because argot has a general tendency to brevity.

The more usual suffixes used are mar, anche, inche, in, ingue, o, orgue, aille, ière, muche, mon, mont, oque, ègue, igue, which give such terms as—épicemar	for	épicier,

boutanche	—	boutique,
aminceminche	—	ami,
burlin	}	— bureau,
burlingue
camaro	—	camarade,
bonorgue	—	bon,
vouzaille	—	vous,
mézière	—	me,
petmuche	—	pet,
cab尔蒙	—	cabaret,
gilmont	—	gilet,
loufoque	—	fou,
chamègue	—	chameau,
mézigue	—	me.

The army has furnished a large contingent to slang, and has provided us with such words as colon (colonel); petit colon (lieutenant-colonel); la femme du régiment (big drum); la malle (prison); un bleu (recruit); poulet d’Inde (steed), and the humorous expression, sortir sur les jambes d’un autre (to be confined to barracks, or to the guard-room).

Much-maligned animals have been put into requisition, the fish tribe serving to denominate the Paris bully, that plague of certain quarters.

With the parts of the body might be formed a complete orchestra. Thus “guitare” stands for the head; “flûtes” for legs; “grosse caisse” for the body; “trompette” does duty for the face, “mirliton” for the nose, and “sifflet” for the throat.

The study of the slang jargon of a nation—a language which is not the expression of conventional ideas, but the unvarnished and rude expression of life in its true aspects—may give us an insight into the foibles and predominant vices of those who use it.

Now though the French as a nation are not hard drinkers, yet we must come to the conclusion—in the face of the many synonyms of the single word drunk, whilst there is not one for the word sober—that Parisian workmen have either a lively imagination, or that they would scarcely prove eligible for recruits in the Blue Ribbon Army. Intoxication—from a state of gentle inebriation, when one is “allumé,” or “elevated,” to the helpless state when the “poivrot,” or “lushington,” is “asphyxié,” or “regularly scammered,” when he can’t “see a hole in a ladder,” or when he “laps the gutter”—has no less than eighty synonyms.

The French possess comparatively few terms for the word money; but, in spite of the well-worn saying, “l’or est une chimère,” or the insincere exclamation, “l’or, ce vil métal!” the argot vocabulary shows as many as fifty-four synonyms for the “needful.” The English are still richer, for Her Majesty’s coin is known by more than one hundred and thirty slang words, from the humble “brown” (halfpenny) to the “long-tailed one” (bank-note).

Though there is no evidence that the social evil has a greater hold on Paris than on London or Berlin, yet the Parisians have no less than one hundred and fifty distinct slang synonyms to indicate the different varieties of “unfortunates,” many being borrowed from the names of animals, such as “vache,” “chameau,” “biche,” &c. Some of the other terms are highly suggestive and appropriate. So we have “omnibus,” “fleur de macadam,” “demoiselle du bitume,” “autel de besoin,” the dismal “pompe funèbre,” the ignoble “paillasse de corps de garde,” and the “grenier à coups de sabre,” which reflects on the brutality of soldiers towards the fallen ones.

For the head the French jargon can boast of about fifty representative slang terms, some of which have been borrowed from the vegetable kingdom. Homage is rendered to its superior or governing powers by such epithets as “boussole” and “Sorbonne,” and a compliment is paid to its inventive genius by the term, “la boîte à surprises,” which is, however, degraded into “la tronche” when it has rolled into the executioner's basket. But it is treated with still more irreverence when deprived of its natural ornament,—so that a man with a bald pate is described as having no more “paillason à la porte,” or “mouron sur la cage.” He is also said sometimes to sport a “tête de veau.”

Grim humour is displayed in the long list of metaphors to describe death, the promoters of the slang expressions having borrowed from the technical vocabulary of their craft. Thus soldiers describe it as “défiler la parade,” for which English military men have the equivalent, “to lose the number of one's mess;” “passer l'arme à gauche;” “descendre la garde,” after which the soldier will never be called again on sentry duty; “recevoir son décompte,” or deferred pay. People who are habitual sufferers from toothache have no doubt contributed the expression, “n'avoir plus mal aux dents;” sailors, “casser son câble” and “déralinguer;” coachmen, “casser son fouet;” drummers, “avalier ses baguettes,” their sticks being henceforth useless to them; billiard-players are responsible for “dévisser son billard;” servants for “déchirer son tablier.” Then what horrible philosophy in the expression, “mettre la table pour les asticots!”

A person of sound mind finds no place in the argot vocabulary; but madness, from the mild state which scarcely goes beyond eccentricity to the confirmed lunatic, has found many definitions, the single expression “to be cracked” being represented by a number of comical synonyms, many of them referring to the presence of some troublesome animal in the brain, such as “un moustique dans la boîte au sel” or “un hanneton dans le plafond.”

Courage has but one or two equivalents, but the act of the coward who vanishes, or the thief who seeks to escape the clutches of the police, has received due attention from the promoters of argot. Thus we have the highly picturesque expressions, “faire patatrot,” which gives an impression of the patter of the runaway's feet; “se faire une paire de mains courantes,” literally to make for oneself a pair of running hands; “se déguiser en cerf,” to imitate that swift animal the deer; “fusilier le plancher,” which reminds one of the quick rat-tat of feet on the boards.

To show kindness to one, as far as I have been able to notice, is not represented, but the act of doing bodily injury, or fighting, has furnished the slang vocabulary with a rich contingent, the least forcible of which is certainly not the amiable invitation expressed in the words of the Paris rough, “viens que j'te mange le nez!” or “numérote tes abattis que j'te démolisse!”

What ingenuity and precision of simile some of these vagaries of language offer! The man who is annoyed, badgered, is compared to an elephant with a small tormentor in a part of his body by which he can be effectually driven to despair, whilst deprived of all means of retaliation—he is then said to have “un rat dans la trompe!” He who gets drunk carves out for himself a wooden face, and “se sculpter une gueule de bois” certainly evokes the sight of the stolid, stupid features of the “lusington,” with half-open mouth and lack-lustre eyes.

The career of an unlucky criminal may thus be described in his own picturesque but awful language. The “pègre” (thief), or “escarpe” (murderer), who has been imprudent enough to allow himself to be “paumé marron” (caught in the act) whilst busy effecting a “choppin” (theft), or committing the more serious offence of “faire un gas à la dure” (to rob with violence), using the knife when “lavant son linge dans la saignante” (murdering), or yet the summary process of breaking into a house and killing all the inmates, “faire une maison entière,” will probably be taken by “la rousse” (police), first of all before the “quart d’œil” (police magistrate), from whose office he will be conveyed to the dépôt in the “panier à salade” (prison van), having perhaps in the meanwhile spent a night in the “violon” (cells at the police station). In due time he will be brought into the presence of a very inquisitive person, the “curieux,” who will do his utmost to pump him, “entraver dans ses flanches,” or make him reveal his accomplices, “manger le morceau,” or, again, to say all he knows about the affair, “débiter le truc.” From two to six months after this preliminary examination, he will be brought into the awful presence of the “léon” (president of assize court), at the “carré des gerbes,” where he sits in his red robes, administering justice. Now, suffering from a violent attack of “fièvre” (charge), the prisoner puts all his hopes in his “parrains d’altèque” (witnesses for the defence), and in his “médecin” (counsel), who will try whether a “purgation” (speech for the defence) will not cure him of his ailment, especially should he have an attack of “redoublement de fièvre” (new charge). Should the medicine be ineffectual, and the “hésiteurs opinants” (jurymen) have pronounced against him, he leaves the “planche au pain” (bar) to return whence he came, to the “hôpital” (prison), which he will only leave when “guéri” (free). But should he be “un cheval de retour” (old offender), he will probably be given a free passage to go “se laver les pieds dans le grand pré” (be transported) to “La Nouvelle” (New Caledonia), or “Cayenne les Eaux;” or, worse still, he may be left for some time in the “boîte au sel” (condemned cell) at La Roquette, attired in a “ligotante de rifle” (strait waistcoat), attended by a “mouton” (spy), who tries to get at his secrets, and now and then receiving the exhortations of the “ratichon” (priest). At an early hour one morning he is apprised by the “maugrée” (director) that he is to suffer the penalty of the law. After “la toilette” by “Charlot” (cutting off the hair by the executioner), he is assisted to the “Abbaye de Monte-à-regret” (guillotine), where, after the “sanglier” (priest) has given him a final embrace, the “soubrettes de Charlot” (executioner’s assistants) seize him, and make him play “à la main chaude” (hot cockles). Charlot pulls a string, when the criminal is turned into “un bœuf” (is executed) by being made to “éternuer dans le son” (guillotined). His “machabée” (remains) is then taken to the “champ de navets” (cemetery).

For the following I am indebted to the courtesy of the Rev. J. W. Horsley, Chaplain to H. M. Prison, Clerkenwell, who, in his highly interesting Prison Notes makes the following remarks on thieves’ slang: “It has its antiquity, as well as its vitality and power of growth and development by constant accretion; in it are preserved many words interesting to the student of language, and from it have passed not a few words into the ordinary stock of the Queen’s English. Of multifold origin, it is yet mainly derived from Romany or gipsy talk, and thereby contains a large Eastern element, in which old Sanscrit roots may readily be traced. Many of these words would be unintelligible to ordinary folk, but some have passed into common speech. For instance, the words bamboozle, daddy, pal (companion or friend), mull (to make a mull or mess of a thing), bosh (from the Persian), are pure gipsy words, but have found some lodging, if not a home, in our vernacular. Then there are survivals (not always of the fittest) from the tongue of our Teutonic ancestors, so that Dr. Latham, the philologist, says: ‘The thieves of London’ (and he might still more have said the professional tramps) ‘are the conservators of Anglo-Saxonisms.’ Next, there are the cosmopolitan absorptions from many a tongue. From the French bouilli we probably get the prison slang term ‘bull’ for a ration of meat. Chat, thieves’ slang for house, is obviously château. Steel, the familiar name for Coldbath Fields Prison, is an appropriation and abbreviation of Bastille; and he who ‘does a tray’ (serves three months’ imprisonment) therein, borrows his word from our Gallican neighbours. So from the Italian we get casa for house, filly (figlia) for daughter, donny (donna) for woman, and omee (uomo) for man. The Spanish gives us don, which the universities have not despised as a useful term. From the German we get durrynacker, for a female hawker, from dorf, ‘a village,’ and nachgehen, ‘to run after.’ From Scotland we borrow duds, for clothes, and from the Hebrew shoful, for base coin.

“Considering that in the manufacture of the domestic and social slang of nicknames or pet names not a little humour or wit is commonly found, it might be imagined that thieves’ slang would be a great treasure-house of humorous expression. That this is not the case arises from the fact that there is very little glitter even in what they take for gold, and that their life is mainly one of miserable anxiety, suspicion, and fear; forced and gin-inspired is their merriment, and dismal, for the most part, are their faces when not assuming an air of bravado, which deceives not even their companions. Some traces of humour are to be found in certain euphemisms, such as the delicate expression ‘fingersmith’ as descriptive of a trade which a blunt world might call that of a pickpocket. Or, again, to get three months’ hard labour is more pleasantly described as getting thirteen clean shirts, one being served out in prison each week. The tread-wheel, again, is more politely called the everlasting staircase, or the wheel of life, or the vertical case-grinder. Penal servitude is dignified with the appellation of serving Her Majesty for nothing; and even an attempt is made to lighten the horror of the climax of a criminal career by speaking of dying in a horse’s nightcap, i.e., a halter.”

The English public schools, but especially the military establishments, seem to be not unimportant manufacturing centres for slang. Only a small proportion, however, of the expressions coined there appear to have been adopted by the general slang-talking public, as most are local terms, and can only be used at their own birthplace. The same expressions in some cases have a totally different signification according to the places where they are in vogue. Thus gentlemen cadets at the “Shop,” i.e., the Royal Military Academy, will talk of the doctor as being the “skipper,” whereas elsewhere “skipper” has the signification of master, head of an establishment. The expression “tosh,” meaning bath, seems to have been imported by students from Eton, Harrow, and Charterhouse, to the “Shop,” where “to tosh” means to bathe, to wash, but also to toss an obnoxious individual into a cold bath, advantage being taken of his being in full uniform. Another expression connected with the forced application of cold water at the above establishment is termed “chamber singing” at Eton, a penalty enforced on the new boys of singing a song in public, with the alternative (according to the Everyday Life in our Public Schools of C. E. Pascoe) of drinking a nauseous mixture of salt and beer; the corresponding penalty on the occasion of the arrival of unfortunate “snookers” at the R. M. Academy used to consist some few years ago of splashing them with cold water and throwing wet sponges at their heads, when they could not or would not contribute some ditty or other to the musical entertainment.

“Extra” at Harrow is a punishment which consists of writing out grammar for two and a half hours under the supervision of a master. The word extra at the “Shop” already mentioned is corrupted into “hoxter.” The hoxter consists in the painful ordeal of being compelled to turn out of bed at an early hour, and march up and down with full equipment under the watchful eye of a corporal. Again, we have here the suggestive terms: "greasers," for fried potatoes; "squish," for marmalade; "whales," for sardines; "vaseline," for honey; "grass," for vegetables; and to be "roosted" is to be placed under arrest; whilst "to q." means to qualify at the term examination. Here a man who is vexed or angry "loses his shirt" or his "hair;" at Shrewsbury he is "in a swot;" and at Winchester "front." At the latter school a clique or party they term a "pitch up;" the word "Johnnies" (newly joined at Sandhurst, termed also "Johns,") being sometimes used with a like signification by young officers, and the inquiry may occasionally be heard, "I say, old fellow, any more Johnnies coming?"

BALLADE III.

SPÉLICANS,
Qui, en tous temps,
Avancez dedans le pogois
Gourde piarde,
Et sur la tarde,
Desboursez les povres nyois,
Et pour soustenir vostre pois,
Les duppes sont privez de caire,
Sans faire haire,
Ne hault braiere,
Mais plantez ils sont comme joncz,
Pour les sires qui sont si longs.

Souvent aux arque
A leurs marques,
Se laissent tous desbouser
Pour ruer,
Et enterver
Pour leur contre, que lors faisons
La fée aux arque respons.
Vous ruez deux coups, ou bien troys,
Aux gallois.
Deux, ou troys
Mineront trestout aux frontz,
Pour les sires qui sont si longs.

Et pource, benars
Coquillars,
Rebecquez vous de la Montjoye
Qui desvoye

Votre proye,
Et vous fera de tout brouer,
Pour joncher et enterver,
Qui est aux pigeons bien cher;
 Pour rifler
 Et placquer
Les angels, de mal tous rondz
Pour les sires qui sont si longs.

ENVOI.

De paour des hurmes
 Et des grumes,
Rassurez vous en droguerie
 Et faerie,
Et ne soyez plus sur les joncz,
Pour les sires qui sont si longs.

TRANSLATION.

Police spies, who at all times drink good wine at the tavern, and at night empty poor simpletons' purses, and to provide for your extortions silly thieves have to part with their money, without complaining or clamouring, yet they are planted in jail, like so many reeds, to be plucked by the gaunt hangmen.

Ofentimes at the cashboxes, at places marked out for plunder, they allow themselves to be despoiled, when righting and resisting to save their confederate, while we are practising our arts on the hidden coffers. You make two or three onsets on the boon companions. Two or three will mark them all for the gallows.

Hence, ye simple-minded vagabonds, turn away from the gallows, which gives you the colic and will deprive you of all, that you may deceive and steal what is of so much value to the dupes, that you may outwit and thrash the police, so eager to bring you to the scaffold.

For fear of the gibbet and the beam, exert more cunning and be more wily, and be no longer in prison, thence to be brought to the scaffold.

SEVENTEENTH CENTURY.
DIALOGUE DE DEUX ARGOTIERS.^[101]

L'UN POLISSON^[102] ET L'AUTRE MALINGREUX,^[103] QUI SE
RENCONTRENT JUSTE À LA LOURDE^[104] D'UNE VERGNE.^[105]

(Extrait du Jargon de l'Argot.)

Le Malingreux. La haute^[106] t'aquige^[107] en chenastre^[108] santé.

Le Polisson. Et tézière^[109] aussi, fanandel;^[110] où trimardes^[111]-tu?

Le Malingreux. En ce pasquelin^[112] de Berry, on m'a rouscaillé^[113] que trucher^[114] était chenastre; et en cette vergne fiche-t-on la thune^[115] gourdement?^[116]

Le Polisson. Quelque peu, pas guère.

Le Malingreux. La rousse^[117] y est-elle chenastre?

Le Polisson. Nenni; c'est ce qui me fait ambier^[118] hors de cette vergne; car si je n'eusse eu du michon,^[119] je fusse cosni^[120] de faim.

Le Malingreux. Y a-t-il un castu^[121] dans cette vergne.

Le Polisson. Jaspin.^[122]

Le Malingreux. Est-il chenu?^[123]

Le Polisson. Pas guère; les pioles^[124] ne sont que de fretille.^[125]...

Le Malingreux. Veux-tu venir prendre de la morfe^[126] et piausser^[127] avec mézière^[128] en une des pioles que tu m'as rouscaillées?

Le Polisson. Il n'y a ni ronds,^[129] ni herplis,^[130] en ma felouse;^[131] je vais piausser en quelque grenasse.^[132]

Le Malingreux. Encore que n'y ayez du michon, ne laissez pas de venir, car il y a deux menées^[133] de ronds en ma henne,^[134] et deux ornies^[135] en mon gueulard,^[136] que j'ai égraillées^[137] sur le trimar;^[138] bions^[139] les faire riffoder,^[140] veux-tu?

Le Polisson. Girole,^[141] et béni soit le grand havre,^[142] qui m'a fait rencontrer si chenastre occasion; je vais me réjouir et chanter une petite chanson....

Le Malingreux. Si tu veux trimer^[143] de compagnie avec mézière, nous aquigerons grande chère,^[144] je sais bien aquiger les luques,^[145] engrailer l'ornie, casser la hane aux frémions,^[146] pour épouser la fourcandière,^[147] si quelques rovaux^[148] me mouchaillent.^[149]

Le Polisson. Ah! le havre garde mézière, je ne fus jamais ni fourgue^[150] ni doubleux.^[151]

Le Malingreux. Ni mézière non plus, je rouscaille^[152] tous les luisans^[153] au grand havre de l'oraison.

SEVENTEENTH CENTURY. ENGLISH GIPSIES' OATH.

(Extract from Bampfylde-Moore Carew, King of the Mendicants.)

WHEN a fresh recruit is admitted into this fraternity, he is to take the following oath, administered by the principal maunder,^[154] after going through the annexed form:—

First a new name is given him, by which he is ever after to be called; then, standing up in the middle of the assembly, and directing his face to the dimber damber, or principal man of the gang, he repeats the following oath, which is dictated to him by some experienced member of the fraternity:—

“I, Crank Cuffin, do swear to be a true brother, and that I will in all things obey the commands of the great tawny prince,^[155] keep his counsel, and not divulge the secrets of my brethren.

“I will never leave or forsake the company, but observe and keep all the times of appointment, either by day or by night, in every place whatever.

“I will not teach anyone to cant; nor will I disclose any of our mysteries to them.

“I will take my prince's part against all that shall oppose him, or any of us, according to the utmost of my ability; nor will I suffer him, or anyone belonging to us, to be abased by any strange abrams,^[156] ruffies,^[157] hookers,^[158] palliardes,^[159] swaddlers,^[160] Irish toyles,^[161] swigmen,^[162] whip Jacks,^[163] Jarkmen,^[164] bawdy baskets,^[165] dommerars,^[166] clapper dogeons,^[167] patricoes,^[168] or curtails,^[169] but I will defend him, or them, as much as I can, against all other outliers whatever. I will not conceal aught I win out of libkins,^[170] or from the ruffmans,^[171] but will preserve it for the use of the company. Lastly, I will cleave to my doxy,^[172] wap^[173] stiffly, and will bring her duds,^[174] margery praters,^[175] gobblers,^[176] grunting cheats,^[177] or tibs of the buttery,^[178] or anything else I can come at, as winnings for her wappings.”^[179]

EIGHTEENTH CENTURY.
JERRY JUNIPER'S CHANT.

(From Ainsworth's Rookwood.)

In a box^[180] of the stone jug^[181] I was born,
Of a hempen widow^[182] the kid^[183] forlorn,
 Fake away!
And my father, as I've heard say,
 Fake away!
Was a merchant of capers gay,
Who cut his last fling with great applause,
Nix my doll pals, fake away!^[184]
To the tune of hearty choke with caper sauce.
 Fake away!
The knucks^[185] in quod^[186] did my schoolmen^[187] play,
 Fake away!
And put me up to the time of day,^[188]
Until at last there was none so knowing,
No such sneaksman^[189] or buzgloak^[190] going,
 Fake away!
Fogles^[191] and fawnies^[192] soon went their way,
 Fake away!
To the spout^[193] with the sneezers^[194] in grand array,
No dummy hunter^[195] had forks so fly,^[196]
No knuckler so deftly could fake a cly,^[197]
 Fake away!
No slourd hoxter^[198] my snipes^[199] could stay,
 Fake away!
None knap a reader^[200] like me in the lay.^[201]
Soon then I mounted in swell street-high,
Nix my doll pals, fake away!
Soon then I mounted in swell street-high,
And sported my flashest toggery,^[202]
 Fake away!

Fainly resolved I would make my hay,
Fake away!
While Mercury's star shed a single ray;
And ne'er was there seen such a dashing prig,^[203]
Nix my doll pals, fake away!
And ne'er was there seen such a dashing prig,
With my strummel faked^[204] in the newest twig,^[205]
Fake away!
With my fawnied famms^[206] and my onions gay,^[207]
Fake away!
My thimble of ridge,^[208] and my driz kemesa,^[209]
All my togs^[210] were so niblike^[211] and plash.^[212]
Readily the queer screens^[213] I then could smash.^[214]
Fake away!
But my nuttiest blowen,^[215] one fine day,
Fake away!
To the beaks^[216] did her fancy man betray,
And thus was I bowled at last,
And into the jug for a lay was cast,
Fake away!
But I slipped my darbies^[217] one morn in May,
And gave to the dubsman^[218] a holiday.
And here I am, pals, merry and free,
A regular rollicking romany.^[219]

BEGINNING OF NINETEENTH CENTURY. VIDOCQ'S SLANG SONG.

EN roulant de vergne en vergne^[232]
Pour apprendre à goupiner,^[233]
J'ai rencontré la mercandière,^[234]
Lonfa malura dondaine,
Qui du pivois solisait,^[235]
Lonfa malura dondé.

J'ai rencontré la mercandière
Qui du pivois solisait;
Je lui jaspine en bigorne;^[236]
Lonfa malura dondaine,
Qu'as tu donc à morfiller?^[237]
Lonfa malura dondé.

Je lui jaspine en bigorne;
Qu'as tu donc à morfiller?
J'ai du chenu^[238] pivois sans lance.^[239]
Lonfa malura dondaine,
Et du larton savonné^[240]
Lonfa malura dondé.

J'ai du chenu pivois sans lance
Et du larton savonné,
Une lourde^[241] et une tournante,^[242]
Lonfa malura dondaine,
Et un pieu^[243] pour roupiller^[244]
Lonfa malura dondé.

Une lourde, une tournante
Et un pieu pour roupiller.
J'enquille^[245] dans sa cambriole,^[246]
Lonfa malura dondaine,

Espérant de l'entifler,^[247]
Lonfa malura dondé.

J'enquille dans sa cambriole
Espérant de l'entifler;
Je rembroque^[248] au coin du rifle,^[249]
Lonfa malura dondaine,
Un messière^[250] qui pionçait,^[251]
Lonfa malura dondé.

Je rembroque au coin du rifle
Un messière qui pionçait;
J'ai sondé dans ses vallades,^[252]
Lonfa malura dondaine,
Son carle^[253] j'ai pessigué,^[254]
Lonfa malura dondé.

J'ai sondé dans ses vallades,
Son carle j'ai pessigué,
Son carle et sa tocquante,^[255]
Lonfa malura dondaine,
Et ses attaches de cé,^[256]
Lonfa malura dondé.

THE SAME SONG VERSIFIED BY WILLIAM MAGINN.

As from ken^[272] to ken I was going,
Doing a bit on the prigging lay,^[273]
Who should I meet but a jolly blowen,^[274]
 Tol lol, lol lol, tol derol ay;
Who should I meet but a jolly blowen,
Who was fly^[275] to the time o' day?^[276]

Who should I meet but a jolly blowen,
Who was fly to the time of day.
I pattered in flash,^[277] like a covey^[278] knowing,
 Tol lol, &c.,
“Ay, bub or grubby,^[279] I say.”

I pattered in flash like a covey knowing,
“Ay, bub or grubby, I say.”
“Lots of gatter,”^[280] quo' she, “are flowing,
 Tol lol, &c.,
Lend me a lift in the family way.^[281]

“Lots of gatter,” quo' she, “are flowing,
Lend me a lift in the family way.
You may have a crib^[282] to stow in,
 Tol lol, &c.,
Welcome, my pal,^[283] as the flowers in May.”

“You may have a crib to stow in,
Welcome, my pal, as the flowers in May.”
To her ken at once I go in,
 Tol lol, &c.,
Where in a corner out of the way;

To her ken at once I go in

Where in a corner out of the way,
With his smeller^[284] a trumpet blowing,
Tol lol, &c.,
A regular swell cove^[285] lushy^[286] lay.

With his smeller a trumpet blowing,
A regular swell cove lushy lay.
To his clies^[287] my hooks^[288] I throw in,
Tol lol, &c.,
And collar his dragons^[289] clear away.

To his clies my hooks I throw in,
And collar his dragons clear away.
Then his ticker^[290] I set a-going,
Tol lol, &c.,
And his onions,^[291] chain and key.

Then his ticker I set a-going,
With his onions, chain and key;
Next slipt off his bottom clo'ing,
Tol lol, &c.,
And his ginger head topper gay.

Next slipt off his bottom clo'ing,
And his ginger head topper gay.
Then his other toggery^[292] stowing,
Tol lol, &c.,
All with the swag^[293] I sneak away.

Then his other toggery stowing,
All with the swag I sneak away.
Tramp it, tramp it, my jolly blowen,
Tol lol, &c.,
Or be grabbed^[294] by the beaks^[295] we may.

Tramp it, tramp it, my jolly blowen,
Or be grabbed by the beaks we may.
And we shall caper a-heel-and-toeing,

Tol lol, &c.,
A Newgate hornpipe some fine day.

And we shall caper a-heel-and-toeing,
A Newgate hornpipe some fine day,
With the mots^[296] their ogles^[297] throwing,
Tol lol, &c.,
And old Cotton^[298] humming his pray.^[299]

NINETEENTH CENTURY.
AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF A THIEF IN THIEVES' LANGUAGE.

By J. W. HORSLEY,
Chaplain of H. M. Prison, Clerkenwell.

TRANSLATED INTO THE LANGUAGE OF FRENCH THIEVES.

I WAS born in 1853 at Stamford Hill, Middlesex. My parents removed from there to Stoke Newington, when I was sent to an infant school. Some time afterwards I was taken by two pals (companions) to an orchard to cop (steal) some fruit, me being a mug (inexperienced) at the game. This got to my father's ears. When I went home he set about me with a strap until he was tired. He thought that was not enough, but tied me to a bedstead. You may be sure what followed. I got loose, tied a blanket and a counterpane together, fastened it to the bedstead, and let myself out of the window, and did not go home that night, but met my two pals and dossed (slept) in a haystack. Early next morning my pals said they knew where we could get some toke (food), and took me to a terrace. We went down the dancers (steps) to a safe, and cleared it out. Two or three days after I met my mother, who in tears begged of me to go home; so I went home. My parents moved to Clapton, when they sent me to school. My pals used to send stiffs (notes) to the schoolmaster, saying that I was wanted at home; but instead of that we used to go and smug snowy (steal linen) that was hung out to dry, or rob the bakers' barrows. Things went from bad to worse, so I was obliged to leave home again. This time I palled in with some older hands at the game, who used to take me a parlour-jumping (robbing rooms), putting me in where the windows was open. I used to take anything there was to steal, and at last they told me all about wedge (silver-plate), how I should know it by the ramp (hall-mark—rampant lion?); we used to break it up in small pieces and sell it to watchmakers, and afterwards to a fence down the Lane (Petticoat Lane). Two or three times a week I used to go to the Brit. (Britannia Theatre) in Hoxton, or the gaff (penny music-room) in Shoreditch. I used to steal anything to make money to go to these places. Some nights I used to sleep at my pals' houses, sometimes in a shed where there was a fire kept burning night and day. All this time I had escaped the hands of the reelers (police), but one day I was taken for robbing a baker's cart, and got twenty-one days. While there I made pals with another one who came from Shoreditch, and promised to meet him when we got out, which I did, and we used to go together, and left the other pals at Clapton.

JE suis né en 1853 à Stamford Hill, Middlesex. Mes parents, de lago, allèrent se pioler à Stoke Newington, et l'on m'envoya à une école maternelle. Peu de temps après, deux de mes fanandels me menèrent à un verger pour grinchir des fruits, mais je n'étais qu'un sinve à ce flanche. Mon dab apprit la chose, et quand je rentolai à la cagiotte il me refila une purge avec une courroie jusqu'à plus soif. Pensant que ce n'était pas assez, il me ligota au pieu. Vous vous doutez de ce qui arriva. Je me débarrassai des ligotes, attachai un embarras à une couverture que je fixai au pieu, et je me laissai glisser par la vanterne. Je ne rappliquai pas à la niche cette nogue-là, mais j'allai retrouver mes deux fanandes et je pionçai dans une meule de foin. Au matois mes fanandels me bonnirent qu'ils conobraient où nous pouvions acquiger de la tortillade et me menèrent à une rangée de pioles. Nous dégringolons les grimpants. Nous embardons dans un garde-manger et nous le rinçons. Deux ou trois reluis après, je me casse le mufle sur ma dabuche, qui, en chialant, me supplie de rappliquer à la niche, ce que j'ai fait. Mes parents alors ont déménagé et sont allés à Clapton. Alors on m'a envoyé à l'école. Mes camerluches balançaient des lazagnes au maître d'école disant qu'on me demandait à la niche, mais au lieu de cela nous allions déflorer la pictouse ou rincer les bagnoles des lartonniers. Les choses allèrent de mal en pis et je fus obligé de redécarrer de la niche. Cette fois je me mis avec des fanandes plus affranchis, qui me menaient avec eux rincer les cambriolles, me faisant enquiller par les vanternes ouvertes. Je mettais la pogne sur toute la camelote bonne à grinchir, et enfin ils me firent entraver tout le truc de la blanquette, et comment je la reconobrerai par la marque; nous la frangissions en petits morceaux et nous la fourgattions chez des boguistes et ensuite chez un fourgue qui demeurait dans la Lane. Deux ou trois fois par semaine je suis allé au Brit. de Hoxton ou au beuglant de Shoreditch. Je grinchissais n'importe quelle camelote pour affurer de la thune afin d'aller à ces endroits. Des sorgues, je pionçais dans les pioles de mes fanandels, quelquefois sous un hangar où il y avait un rif qui riffodait jorne et sorgue. Cependant, j'avais échappé aux pinces de la riflette, mais un reluis j'ai été pomaqué pour avoir rincé une bagnole de lartonnier et enflacqué pendant vingt et un reluis. Lago j'ai eu pour amarre un autre qui venait de Shoreditch et je lui ai promis un rendez-vous pour quand nous serions défouraillés; alors nous sommes devenus amarres d'attaques et nous avons laissé les autres zigues à Clapton.

At last one day we was at St. John's Wood. I went in after some wedge. While picking some up off the table I frightened a cat, which upset a lot of plates when jumping out of the window. So I was taken and tried at Marylebone Police Court and sent to Feltham Industrial School. I had not been there a month before I planned with another boy to guy (run away), and so we did, but was stopped at Brentford and took back to the school, for which we got twelve strokes with the birch. I thought when I first went there that I knew a great deal about thieving, but I found there was some there that knew more, and I used to pal in with those that knew the most. One day, while talking with a boy, he told me he was going home in a day or so. He said his friends was going to claim him out because he was more than sixteen years old. When my friends came to see me I told them that they could claim me out, and with a good many fair promises that I would lead a new life if they did so. They got me out of the school. When I got home I found a great change in my father, who had taken to drink, and he did not take so much notice of what I done as he used. I went on all straight the first few moons at costering. One day there was a "fête" at Clapton, and I was coming home with my kipsy (basket); I had just sold all my goods out. I just stopped to pipe (see) what was going on, when a reeler came up to me and rapped (said), "Now, —, you had better go away, or else I shall give you a drag (three months in prison)." So I said "all right;" but he rapped, "It is not all right; I don't want any sauce from you or else I shall set about (beat) you myself." So I said, "What for? I have done nothing; do you want to get it up for me?" Then he began to push me about, so I said I would not go at all if he put his dukes (hands) on me. Then he rammed my nut (head) against the wall and shook the very life out of me. This got a scuff (crowd) round us, and the people ask him what he was knocking me about for, so he said, "This is young — just come home from a schooling (a term in a reformatory)." So he did not touch me again; so I went home, turned into kip (bed) and could not get up for two or three days, because he had given me such a shaking, him being a great powerful man, and me only a little fellow. I still went on all straight until things got very dear at the market. I had been down three or four days running, and could not buy anything to earn a deaner (shilling) out of. So one morning I found I did not have more than a caser (five shillings) for stock-pieces (stock-money). So I thought to myself, "What shall I do?" I said, "I know what I will do. I will go to London Bridge rattler (railway) and take a deaner ride and go a wedge-hunting (stealing plate)." So I took a ducat (railway ticket) for Sutton in Surrey, and went a wedge-hunting. I had not been at Sutton very long before I piped a slavey (servant) come out of a chat (house), so when she had got a little way up the double (turning), I pratted (went) in the house. When inside I could not see any wedge lying about the kitchen, so I screwed my nut in the washhouse and I piped three or four pair of daisy roots (boots). So I claimed (stole) them, and took off the lid of my kipsy and put them inside, put a cloth over them, and then put the lid on again, put the kipsy on my back as though it was empty, and guyed to the rattler and took a brief (ticket) to London Bridge, and took the daisies to a Sheney (Jew) down the gaff, and done (sold) them for thirty blow (shillings).

Enfin, un jour nous nous trouvions à St. John's Wood et j'étais à soulever de la blanquette. Pendant que je mettais la pogne dessus, je coquai le taf à un greffier qui fit dégringoler un tas de morfiantes en sautant par la vanterne. De cette façon, je fus pomaqué, mis en gerbement au carré des gerbes de Marylebone et envoyé au pénitencier de Feltham. Y avait pas une marque que j'y étais que je me préparai avec un autre à faire la cavale. Après avoir décarré, nous fûmes engraillés à Brentford et renflacqués au pénitencier où l'on nous donna douze coups de la verge. Je croyais, quand j'y avais été enfouraillé tout d'abord, que j'étais un pègre bien affranchi, mais je trouvai là des camerluches qui en conobraient plus que mézigue et j'avais pour amarres ceux qui étaient les plus mariolles. Un reluis en jaspinant avec un gosselin, il me jacte que dans un luisant ou deux il allait rappliquer à la niche. Il me bonnit que ses parents allaient le réclamer parcequ'il avait plus de seize brisques. Quand mes parents sont venus me voir je leur bonnis qu'ils pouvaient me faire défourailler, et leur ayant fait de belles promesses de rengracier s'ils y consentaient ils m'ont fait défourailler. Quand j'ai aboulé à la kasbah, j'ai trouvé du changement chez mon dab qui s'était mis à se poivrer, et il n'a pas fait autant d'attention que d'habitongue à mes flanches. Rangé des voitures pendant les premières marques comme marchand des quatre saisons. Un reluis il y avait une fête à Clapton et je rappliquais avec mon panier. Je venais de laver toute ma camelote et de m'arrêter pour rechasser ce qui se passait quand un roussin aboule à moi et me bonnit, "Allons, décampe d'ici, ou je te mets à l'ombre pour trois marques.” Je lui bonnis “c’est bien;” mais il me jacte, “C’est pas tout ça, tâche de filer doux, autrement je te passé à travers tocquardement.” Que je lui bonnis, “Pourquoi? Je n’ai rien fait; c’est une querelle d’allemand que vous me cherchez là.” Alors il se met à me refiler des poussées et je lui dis que je ne le suivrais pas s’il me harponnait. Alors il me sonne la tronche contre le mur et me secoue tocquardement. Le trèpe s’assemble autour de nouzailles et les gonces lui demandent pourquoi il me bouscule. Alors, qu’il dit, “C’est le jeune — qui vient de sortir du pénitencier.” Puis, il me laisse tranquille, de sorte que j’ai rappliqué à la niche, et je me suis mis au pucier où je suis resté deux ou trois reluis, car il m’avait harponné tocquardement, lui qui était un grand balouf et moi un pauvre petit gosselin. Tout a marché chouettement pendant quelque temps mais la camelote est devenue très chère au marché. Depuis trois ou quatre reluis je n’avais pas le moyen d’abloquer de quoi affurer un shilling. Alors un reluis je me suis aperçu que je n’avais pas plus de cinq shillings comme fonds de commerce et je me suis demandé: quel truc est-ce que je vais maquiller? Je me bonnis, je connais bien mon flanchede. J’acquigerai le roulant vif de London Bridge pour un shilling et je tâcherai de mettre la pogne sur de la blanquette. Alors je prends une brème pour Sutton en Surrey et je me mets en chasse pour la blanquette. Y avait pas longtemps que j’étais à Sutton quand j’allume une combrousière qui décarrait d’une piole. Dès qu’elle a tourné le coin de la rue, j’embarde dans la piole. Une fois dedans je n’ai pas remouché de blanquette dans la cuisine, et, passant ma sorbonne dans l’arrière-cuisine, j’ai mouchaillé trois ou quatre paires de ripatons. J’ai mis la pogne dessus, et ôtant le couvercle de mon panier, je les y ai plaqués avec une pièce d’étoffe par dessus et j’ai remis le couvercle, puis j’ai plaqué mon panier sur mon andosse comme s’il était vide, et je me suis cavalé jusqu’au roulant vif; acquigé un billet pour London Bridge, porté les ripatons à un youtre près du beuglant et fourgué pour trente shillings.

The next day I took the rattler to Forest Hill, and touched for (succeeded in getting) some wedge and a kipsy full of clobber (clothes). You may be sure this gave me a little pluck, so I kept on at the old game, only with this difference, that I got more pieces for the wedge. I got three and a sprat (3s. 6d.) an ounce. But afterwards I got 3s. 9d., and then four blow. I used to get a good many pieces about this time, so I used to clobber myself up and go to the concert. But though I used to go to these places I never used to drink any beer for some time afterwards. It was while using one of those places I first met a sparring bloke (pugilist), who taught me how to spar and showed me the way to put my dukes up. But after a time I gave him best (left him) because he used to want to bite my ear (borrow) too often. It was while I was with him that I got in company with some of the widest (cleverest) people in London. They used to use at (frequent) a pub in Shoreditch. The following people used to go in there—toy-getters (watch-stealers), magsmen (confidence-trick men), men at the mace (sham loan offices), broadsmen (card-sharpers), peter-claimers (box-stealers), busters and screwsmen (burglars), snide-pitchers (utterers of false coin), men at the duff (passing false jewellery), welshers (turf-swindlers), and skittle-sharps. Being with this nice mob (gang) you may be sure what I learned. I went out at the game three or four times a week, and used to touch almost every time. I went on like this for very near a stretch (year) without being smugged (apprehended). One night I was with the mob, I got canon (drunk), this being the first time. After this, when I used to go to concert-rooms, I used to drink beer. It was at one of these places down Whitechapel I palled in with a trip and stayed with her until I got smugged. One day I was at Blackheath, I got very near canon, and when I went into a place I claimed two wedge spoons, and was just going up the dancers, a slavey piped the spoons sticking out of my skyrocket (pocket), so I got smugged. While at the station they asked me what my monarch (name) was. A reeler came to the cell and cross-kidded (questioned) me, but I was too wide for him. I was tried at Greenwich; they ask the reeler if I was known, and he said no. So I was sent to Maidstone Stir (prison) for two moon. When I came out, the trip I had been living with had sold the home and guyed; that did not trouble me much. The only thing that spurred (annoyed) me was me being such a flat to buy the home. The mob got me up a break (collection), and I got between five or six foont (sovereigns), so I did not go out at the game for about a moon.

Le lendemain j'ai acquigé le roulant vif jusqu'à Forest Hill, et j'ai mis la pogne sur de la blanquette et un panier plein de fringues. Bien sûr, cela m'a donné un peu de courage, alors j'ai continué le même flanche avec cette différence seulement, que j'ai affuré plus d'auber pour la blanquette. On m'en a foncé trois shillings sixpence l'once. Mais après j'en ai eu trois shillings neuf pence, et puis quatre shillings. J'affurais pas mal de *galto*s à cette époque, de sorte que je me peaussais chouettement pour aller au beuglant. Mais si j'allais à ces sortes d'endroits, je ne pictais jamais de moussante. C'est à ce moment et dans un de ces endroits que j'ai fait la connaissance d'un lutteur qui m'a appris la boxe et à me servir de mes louches. Mais peu après, je l'ai lâché parcequ'il me coquait trop souvent des coups de pied dans les jambes. C'est en sa compagnie que j'ai fait la connaissance de quelques-uns des pègres les plus mariolles de Londres. Ils fréquentaient un cabermon de Shoreditch. Ceux qui y allaient étaient des grinchisseurs de bogues, des américains, des guinals à la manque, des grecs, des valtreusiers, des grinchisseurs au fric-frac, des passeurs de galette à la manque, des voleurs à la broquille, des bookmakers à la manque, et des grinches joueurs de quilles. Etant avec cette gironde gance, vous pouvez imaginer ce que j'ai appris. J'allais turbiner trois ou quatre fois par quart de marque, et je réussissais presque toujours. J'ai continué ainsi pendant près d'une brisque sans être enfilé. Une nogue que j'étais avec les fanandes, j'ai été poivre pour la première fois. Et après ça, quand j'ai été au beuglant, j'ai pitanché de la moussante. C'est à un de ces endroits dans Whitechapel que je me suis collé avec une largue, et je suis resté avec elle jusqu'à ce que j'ai été enfouraillé. Un reluis, j'étais à Blackheath, je me suis presque poivrotté, et embardant dans une piole, j'ai grinchi deux poches de plâtre. Je grimpais le lève-pieds, quand une cambrousière a remouché les cuillers qui sortaient de ma profonde, c'est comme cela que j'ai été pomaqué. Au bloc, on m'a demandé mon centre. Un rousse est venu à la boîte et m'a fait la jactance, mais j'ai été trop mariolle pour entraver. J'ai été mis en sapement à Greenwich; on a demandé au rousse s'il me conobrait et il a répondu nibergue. Alors on m'a envoyé à la motte de Maidstone pour deux marques. Quand j'ai été défouraillé, la largue avec qui je vivais avait tout lavé et s'était fait la débinette, mais cela m'était égal. La seule chose qui m'a ennuyé, c'est que j'avais été assez sinve pour abloquer le fourbi. La gance m'a fait une manche et j'ai eu de cinq à six sigues, de sorte que je n'ai pas rappliqué au turbin pour près d'une marque.

The first day that I went out I went to Slough and touched for a wedge kipsy with 120 ounces of wedge in it, for which I got nineteen quid (sovereigns). Then I carried on a nice game. I used to get canon every night. I done things now what I should have been ashamed to do before I took to that accursed drink. It was now that I got acquainted with the use of twirls (skeleton-keys).

Le premier reluis de ma guérison je suis allé à Slough et j'ai soulevé un panier, qui contenait 120 onces de blanquette, pour lequel j'ai reçu dix-neuf livres sterling. Alors j'étais bien à la marre. J'étais pion toutes les sorgues. J'ai maquillé des flanches alors que j'aurais eu honte de faire si je ne m'étais pas mis à pitancher gourdement. C'est alors que j'ai appris le truc des caroubles.

A little time after this I fell (was taken up) again at St. Mary Cray for being found at the back of a house, and got two moon at Bromley Petty Sessions as a rogue and vagabond; and I was sent to Maidstone, this being the second time within a stretch. When I fell this time I had between four and five quid found on me, but they gave it me back, so I was landed (was all right) this time without them getting me up a lead (a collection).

Peu après j'ai été emballé de nouveau à St. Mary Cray pour avoir été pigé derrière une piole et j'ai été gerbé à deux marques au juste de Bromley comme ferlampier et purotin, puis j'ai été envoyé à Maidstone pour la seconde fois dans la brisque. Quand j'ai été emballé, j'avais de quatre à cinq signes sur mon gniasse, mais on me les a rendus, de sorte que j'ai pu cette fois me passer de la manche.

I did not fall again for a stretch. This time I got two moon for assaulting the reelers when canon. For this I went to the Steel (Bastille—Coldbath Fields Prison), having a new suit of clobber on me and about fifty blow in my brigh (pocket). When I came out I went at the same old game.

Je n'ai pas été emballé pendant une brisque. Cette fois, j'ai été sapé à deux marques pour avoir refilé une voie aux rousses pendant que j'étais pion. On m'a envoyé, pour ce flanche, à la Steel. J'avais des fringues d'altèque et environ cinquante shillings dans ma fouillouse. Quand j'ai décarré j'ai rappliqué au truc.

One day I went to Croydon and touched for a red toy (gold watch) and red tackle (gold chain) with a large locket. So I took the rattler home at once. When I got into Shoreditch I met one or two of the mob, who said, "Hallo, been out to-day? Did you touch?" So I said, "Usher" (yes). So I took them in, and we all got canon. When I went to the fence he bested (cheated) me because I was drunk, and only gave me £8 10s. for the lot. So the next day I went to him, and asked him if he was not going to grease my duke (put money into my hand). So he said, "No." Then he said, "I will give you another half-a-quid;" and said, "Do anybody, but mind they don't do you." So I thought to myself, "All right, my lad; you will find me as good as my master," and left him.

Un reluis, je suis allé à Croydon et j'ai fait un bogue de jonc et une bride de jonc avec un gros médaillon. Puis j'ai acquigé dare-dare le roulant vif. Quand j'ai aboulé à Shoreditch, je suis tombé en frime avec deux pègres de la gance qui m'ont bonni, "Eh bien, tu as turbiné ce luisant, as-tu fait quelque chose?” Alors que je jacte, “Gy.” Puis je les ai emmenés et nous nous sommes tous piqué le blaire. Quand je suis allé chez le fourgat il m’a refait parceque j’étais poivre et m’a aboulé seulement £8 10s. pour le tout. Alors le lendemain, je suis allé à lui et lui ai demandé s’il n’allait pas me foncer du michon. Il répond, “Nibergue.” Puis il ajoute, “Je vais te foncer un autre demi-sigue,” et aussi, “Mène en bateau les sinves, mais ne te laisse pas mener en bateau.” Je me suis dit, “Chouette, ma vieille branche; tu me trouveras aussi mariolle que mon maître,” et je l’ai quitté.

Some time after that affair with the fence, one of the mob said to me, “I have got a place cut and dried; will you come and do it?” So I said, “Yes; what tools will you want?” And he said, “We shall want some twirls and the stick (crowbar), and bring a neddie (life preserver) with you.” And he said, “Now don’t stick me up (disappoint); meet me at six to-night.” At six I was in the meet (trysting-place), and while waiting for my pal I had my daisies cleaned, and I piped the fence that bested me go along with his old woman (wife) and his two kids (children), so I thought of his own words, “Do anybody, but mind they don’t do you.” He was going to the Surrey Theatre, so when my pal came up I told him all about it. So we went and screwed (broke into) his place, and got thirty-two quid, and a toy and tackle which he had bought on the crook. We did not go and do the other place after that. About two moon after this the same fence fell for buying two finns (£5 notes), for which he got a stretch and a half. A little while after this I fell at Isleworth for being found in a conservatory adjoining a parlour, and got remanded at the Tench (House of Detention) for nine days, but neither Snuffy (Reeves, the identifier) nor Mac (Macintyre) knew me, so I got a drag, and was sent to the Steel. While I was in there, I see the fence who we done, and he held his duke at me as much as to say, “I would give you something, if I could;” but I only laughed at him. I was out about seven moon, when one night a pal of mine was half drunk, and said something to a copper (policeman) which he did not like; so he hit my pal, and I hit him in return. So we both set about him. He pulled out his staff, and hit me on the nut, and cut it open. Then two or three more coppers came up, and we got smugged, and got a sixer (six months) each. So I see the fence again in Stir.

Quelque temps après ce flanche avec le fourgat une des poisses de la gance me bonnit, “J’ai un poupard nourri, veux-tu en être?” Que je lui bonnis, “Gy, de quelles alènes as-tu besoin?” Il me jacte, “Il nous faut des rossignols et le sucre de pomme; tu apporteras un tourne-clef.” Il me bonnit, “Ne me lâche pas au bon moment, nous nous rencontrerons à six plombes cette nogue.” Six plombes crossaient quand j’ai aboulé au rendez-vous, et en attendant mon fanande je faisais cirer mes ripatons, quand j’ai mouchaillé le fourgue qui m’avait refait qui se balladait avec sa fesse et ses deux mômes. Alors j’ai pensé à ce qu’il m’avait bonni, “Mène les sinves en bateau mais ne laisse pas gourer tézigue.” Il allait à la misloque de Surrey, alors, quand mon poteau aboule, je lui déqueularde tout le flanche. Puis nous filons le lucrème, nous enquillons dans la piole et nous mettons la pogne sur trente-deux siges, sur un bogue et une bride que le fourgue avait abloqués à la manque. Nous ne sommes pas allés aux autres endroits après cela. Deux marques après, ce même fourgue a été poissé pour avoir abloqué deux fafiots de cinq livres sterling, et sapé à une longe et six marques. Peu de temps après j’ai été emballé à Isleworth pour avoir été pigé dans une serre voisine d’un parloir et remis à la Tench pour neuf reluis, mais ni Snuffy ni Mac ne me conobraient, de sorte que j’ai été sapé à trois marques et malade à la motte. Pendant que j’y étais, j’ai vu le fourgue que nous avions refait, et il a tendu la pince de mon côté comme pour bonnir, “Je te refilerais une purge si je pouvais,” mais cela m’a fait rigoler. J’étais guéri depuis environ sept marques quand une sorgue, un de mes fanandes, qui était poivre, jacte quelque chose à un roussin qui ne l’ayant pas à la bonne, l’a sonné et moi j’ai sonné le roussin à mon tour. Tous deux alors nous lui avons travaillé le cadavre. Il a tiré son bâton, m’a sonné le citron et me l’a fendu. Alors deux ou trois roussins sont arrivés, nous ont emballés et nous avons été gerbés à six marques. De sorte que j’ai revu le fourgue au château.

On the Boxing-day after I came out I got stabbed in the chest by a pal of mine who had done a schooling. We was out with one another all the day getting drunk, so he took a liberty with me, and I landed him one on the conk (nose); so we had a fight, and he put the chive (knife) into me. This made me sober, so I asked him what made him such a coward. He said, “I meant to kill you; let me kiss my wife and child, and then smug me.” But I did not do that. This made me a little thoughtful of the sort of life I was carrying on. I thought, “What if I should have been killed then!” But this, like other things, soon passed away.

Au Boxing-day après ma guérison, un de mes fanandes m’a refilé un coup de bince dans le haricot. Il avait été déjà enfouraillé au collège. Nous nous étions balladés tout le luisant en nous poivrottant, de sorte que m’ayant manqué de respect, je lui ai collé une châtaigne sur le morviau. Nous nous sommes empoignés et il a joué du surin. Cela m’a dégrisé et je lui ai demandé pourquoi il s’était montré aussi lâche. Il me bonnit, “Je voulais t'estourbir. Laisse-moi aller sucer la pomme à ma large et mon même et fais-moi emballer.” Mais je n'ai pas voulu. Cela m'a fait réfléchir un peu au genre de vie que je menais et je me dis, “J'aurais bien pu être refroidi.” Mais bientôt je n'y pensai plus.

After the place got well where I was chived, me and another screwed a place at Stoke Newington, and we got some squeeze (silk) dresses, and two sealskin jackets, and some other things. We tied them in a bundle, and got on a tram. It appears they knew my pal, and some reelers got up too. So when I piped them pipe the bundle, I put my dukes on the rails of the tram and dropped off, and guyed down a double before you could say Jack Robinson. It was a good job I did, or else I should have got lagged (sent to penal servitude), and my pal too, because I had the James (crowbar) and screws (skeleton keys) on me. My pal got a stretch and a half. A day or two after this I met the fence who I done; so he said to me, “We have met at last.” So I said, “Well, what of that?” So he said, “What did you want to do me for?” So I said, “You must remember you done me; and when I spoke to you about it you said, ‘Do anybody; mind they don't do you.’” That shut him up.

Une fois guéri du coup de bince, nous avons refilé le luçtrème d'une piole à Stoke Newington, et nous avons grinchi des robes de lyonnaise et deux jaquettes de peau de phoque et d'autre camelote. Nous en avons fait un pacsin et nous avons pris le tram. On conobrait mon fanande, paraît-il, et des rousses y montent avec nouzailles. Quand je vois qu'ils remouchent le pacsin, je mets mes agrafes sur le pieu d'appui du tram, je saute, je fais patatrot au coin de la rue et je cours encore. C'est bate pour moi d'avoir agi ainsi autrement j'aurais été gerbé à bachasse et mon fanande aussi parceque j'avais le Jacques et les caroubles sur mézigue. Mon fanande a été sapé à une longe et demie. Un reluis ou deux après, je me casse le mufle sur le fourgat que j'avais refait, et il me jacte, “Te voilà enfin!” Je lui réponds, “Eh bien, et puis après?” “Pourquoi m'as-tu refait?” dit-il. Et je lui réponds, “Rappelle-toi que tu as refait mon gniasse, et quand je t'en ai jacté tu m'as répondu, ‘Mène en bateau qui tu voudras, mais ne te laisse pas enfonce.’” Et cela a coupé la chique à sézigue.

One day I went to Lewisham and touched for a lot of wedge. I tore up my madam (handkerchief) and tied the wedge in small packets and put them into my pockets. At Bishopsgate Street I left my kipsy at a barber's shop, where I always left it when not in use. I was going through Shoreditch, when a reeler from Hackney, who knew me well, came up and said, “I am going to run the rule over (search) you.” You could have knocked me down with a feather, me knowing what I had about me. Then he said, “It’s only my joke; are you going to treat me?” So I said “Yes,” and began to be very saucy, saying to him, “What catch would it be if you was to turn me over?” So I took him into a pub which had a back way out, and called for a pint of stout, and told the reeler to wait a minute. He did not know that there was an entrance at the back; so I guyed up to Hoxton to the mob and told them all about it. Then I went and done the wedge for five-and-twenty quid.

Un jour je vais à Lewisham et je grinchis un lot de blanquette. Je déchire mon blavin, je fais des petits pacsins de la blanquette et je les plaque dans mes profondes. A Bishopsgate St. je dépose mon panier dans la boutogue d’un merlan où je le laissais toujours quand je ne m’en servais pas. Je traversais Shoreditch, quand un rousse de Hackney, qui me conobrait bien, aboule et jacte, “Je vais te rapioter.” J’avais la frousse en pensant à ce que j’avais sur mon gniasse. Alors il me bonnit, “C’est une batterie douce; est-ce que tu ne vas pas me rincer les crochets?” Je lui jacte, “Gy,” et je me mets à blaguer avec lui, lui disant, “Quelle bonne prise, si vous me fouilliez?” Je l’emmène alors dans un cabermon qui avait une sortie de derrière, je demande une pinte de stout, et je dis au rousse d’attendre une broquille. Il ne conobrait pas la lourde de derrière; alors je me la tire jusqu’à Hoxton et j’apprends aux fanandes ce qui s’était passé. Puis je fourgue la blanquette pour vingt-cinq livres.

One or two days after this I met the reeler at Hackney, and he said, “What made you guy?” So I said that I did not want my pals to see me with him. So he said it was all right. Some of the mob knew him and had greased his duke.

Un ou deux reluis après, je tombe en frime avec la riflette à Hackney, et il me jacte, “Pourquoi t’es-tu débiné?” Et je lui réponds que je ne voulais pas que mes fanandes me remouchent en sa compagnie. Quelques pègres de la gance le conobraient et lui avaient foncé du micchon.

What I am about to relate now took place within the last four or five moon before I fell for this stretch and a half. One day I went to Surbiton. I see a reeler giving me a roasting (watching me), so I began to count my pieces for a jolly (pretence), but he still followed me, so at last I rang a bell, and waited till the slavey came, and the reeler waited till I came out, and then said, “What are you hawking of?” So I said, “I am not hawking anything; I am buying bottles.” So he said, “I thought you were hawking without a licence.”

As soon as he got round a double, I guyed away to Malden and touched for two wedge teapots, and took the rattler to Waterloo.

Ce que je vais raconter maintenant a eu lieu dans le courant des quatre ou cinq marques avant mon sapement à une longe et demie. Un reluis je vais à Surbiton. Je remouche une riflette qui me poireautait. Je fais la frime de compter mon carle, mais il me prend en filature. A la fin je tire une retentissante, et j'attends que la larbine aboule, le rousse attend que je décarre et me jacte, "Qu'est-ce que vous vendez donc?" Et je réponds, "Je ne vends rien; j'achète des bouteilles." Il me dit alors, "Je croyais que vous faisiez le commerce sans patente." Aussitôt qu'il a tourné le coin, je vais à Malden et je fais deux théières de plâtre, puis j'acquie le roulant pour Waterloo.

One day I took the rattler from Broad Street to Acton. I did not touch there, but worked my way to Shepherd's Bush; but when I got there I found it so hot (dangerous), because there had been so many tykes (dogs) poisoned, that there was a reeler at almost every double, and bills posted up about it. So I went to the Uxbridge Road Station, and while I was waiting for the rattler I took a religious tract, and on it was written, "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" So I thought to myself, What good has the money done me what I have had? So instead of getting out at Brondesbury, I rode on to Broad Street, and paid the difference, and went home, and did not go out for about a week.

Un jour j'acquie le roulant de Broad Street à Acton. Lago, je ne fais rien, et je continue ma route jusqu'à Shepherd's Bush; mais quand j'y dévale je trouve qu'il y avait tant de pet à cause de tous les tambours qu'on avait empoisonnés, qu'on avait mis une riflette presque à chaque coin de rue et des babilles partout. Alors je vais à la station du roulant de Uxbridge Road, et pendant que je poireautais pour le roulant je prends une brochure religieuse et il y avait capi dessus, "A quoi bon acquérir le monde entier si l'on doit perdre son âme?" Et je me jacte, A quoi m'a servi le carme que j'ai affuré? Et alors au lieu de descendre à Brondesbury, je continue jusqu'à Broad Street et j'aboule la différence. Je rapplique à la caginotte d'où je ne décarre pas d'un quart de marque.

The Sunday following when I went to Uxbridge Road, I went down a lane called Mount Pleasant, at Clapton; it was about six o'clock. Down at the bottom of the lane you could get a fine view of Walthamstow; so while I was leaning against the rails I felt very miserable. I was thinking about when I was at Feltham. I thought I had threw away the only chance I had of doing better; and as I stood thinking, the bells of St. Matthew's Church began to play a hymn-tune I had heard at Feltham. This brought tears to my eyes: this was the first time in my life that I thought what a wretch I was. I was going home very downcast, when I met some pals, who said, "Why, what is the matter? you look miserable." So I said, "I don't feel very well." So they said, "Are you coming to have something to drink?—that will liven you up." So I went in with them, and began to drink very hard to drown my thoughts.

Le dimanche d'après, en allant à Uxbridge Road, je dégringole une ruelle appelée Mount Pleasant, à Clapton; il était à peu près six plombes. Au fond de la ruelle on avait une vue magnifique de Walthamstow; donc pendant que je m'appuyais contre la palissade j'avais des papillons noirs dans la sorbonne. Je pensais au temps où j'étais à Feltham. Je voyais que j'avais perdu la seule occasion que j'avais de rengracier et étant là à réfléchir, les retentissantes de la rampante de Saint-Matthew se mirent à jouer un hymne que j'avais entendu à Feltham. Ceci me fit baver des clignots: pour la première fois de ma vie je jacte à mézigue, Quel misérable tu es! Je rappliquais à la niche, en paumant mes plumes, quand je tombe en frime de deux fanandes qui bonnissent, "Eh bien, qu'est-ce qu'il y a; tu as une sale bobinette? "Alors je jacte, "Je suis tocquard." "Alors viens avec nous te rincer la dalle, ça te ragaillardira." Je suis allé avec eux, et j'ai commencé à picter d'attaque pour noyer le chagrin.

Monday morning I felt just the same as I always did; I felt ready for the old game again. So I went to Hoxton, and some of the mob said to me, "Why, where have you been the last week or so—we thought you had fell?" So I told them I had been ill.

Le lundi matin d'après, je me suis senti comme d'habitongue et prêt à rappliquer au turbin. Je suis allé à Hoxton, et quelques-uns de la gance m'ont fait la jactance, "Eh bien, où as-tu été pendant tous ces reluis—nous pensions que tu t'étais fait emballer?" Je leur réponds que j'avais été tocquard.

I went out the next day to Maidenhead, and touched for some wedge and a poge (purse), with over five quid in it.

Le lendemain je suis allé à Maidenhead. J'ai fait de la blanquette et une filoche qui contenait plus de cinq sigues.

A little while after this I went with two pals to the Palace at Muswell Hill; the races were on. So when we got there, there was some reeler there what knew me, and my pals said, "You had better get away from here; if we touch you will take your whack (share) just the same." So I went and laid down on the grass. While laying there I piped a reeler whom I knew; he had a nark (a policeman's spy) with him. So I went and looked about for my two pals and told them to look out for S. and his nark. About an hour after this they came to me and woke me up, and they said, "Come on, we have had a lucky touch for a half century in pap" (£50 in paper, i.e. notes). I thought they was only kidding (deceiving) at first, so they said, "Let us guy from here, and you will see if we are kidding to you." When we got into the rattler they showed me the pap; yes, there it was, fifty quids in double finns (£10 notes). We did them for £9 10s. each to a fence.

Peu après, je suis allé avec deux fanandels à Muswell Hill où il y avait des courses. Quand nouzailles y avons dévalé, il y avait des roussins qui me conobraient et mes fanandes me jactent, "Tu ferais mieux de te cavaler; si nous rinçons, tu auras ton fade tout de même." Alors j'allai me plaquer sur l'herbe. Pendant que j'y étais, je remouche un rousse que je conobrais. Il était accompagné d'une riflette. Je cherche alors mes deux fanandes et leur dis, "Acresto, attention à S. et à sa riflette!" Une plombe après, environ, ils aboulent vers mézigue, m'éveillent, et me jactent, "Aboule, nous avons barboté schpille, nous avons acquigé cinquante livres en faffes." Je croyais qu'ils me collaient des vannes mais ils me jactent, "Dévalons d'icigo et tu verras si nous te gourrons." Quand nous nous sommes plaqués dans le roulant vif ils m'ont montré les faffes; gy, il y avait bien cinquante sigues en faffes de dix livres. Nous les avons lavés pour £9 10s. à un fourgue.

I took the rattler one day to Reigate and worked my way to Red Hill. So I went into a place and see some clobber hanging up, so I thought to myself, I will have it and take the rattler home at once; it will pay all expense. So while I was looking about I piped a little peter (parcel). When I took it up it had an address on it, and the address was to the vicarage; so I came out and asked a boy who lived there, and he said "Yes," but to make sure of it I went back again. This time I looked to the clobber more closely, and I see it was the same as clergymen wear, so I left it where it was. I always made it a rule never to rob a clergyman's house if I knew one to live there. I could have robbed several in my time, but I would not. So I took the rattler to Croydon and touched for some wedge, and come home. I used to go to Henley most every year when the rowing matches was on which used to represent Oxford and Cambridge, only it used to be boys instead of men. The day the Prince of Wales arrived at Portsmouth when he came home from India, me and two pals took the rattler from Waterloo at about half-past six in the morning. When we got to Portsmouth we found it was very hot, there was on every corner of a street bills stuck up, "Beware of pickpockets, male and female," and on the tramcars as well. So one of my pals said, "There is a reeler over there who knows me, we had better split out" (separate). Me and the other one went by ourselves; he was very tricky (clever) at getting a poge or a toy, but he would not touch toys because we was afraid of being turned over (searched). We done very well at poges; we found after we knocked off we had between sixty or seventy quid to cut up (share), but our other pal had fell, and was kept at the station until the last rattler went to London, and then they sent him home by it. One day after this I asked a screwsman if he would lend me some screws, because I had a place cut and dried. But he said, "If I lend you them I shall want to stand in" (have a share); but I said, "I can't stand you at that; I will grease your duke, if you like." But he said, "That would not do;" so I said, "We will work together then;" and he said, "Yes." So we went and done the place for fifty-five quid. So I worked with him until I fell for this stretch and a half. He was very tricky at making twirls, and used to supply them all with tools. Me and the screwsman went to Gravesend and I found a dead 'un (uninhabited house), and we both went and turned it over and got things out of it which fetched us forty-three quid. We went one day to Erith; I went in a place, and when I opened the door there was a great tyke (dog), laying in front of the door, so I pulled out a piece of pudding (liver prepared to silence dogs) and threw it to him, but he did not move. So I threw a piece more, and it did not take any notice; so I got close up to it, and found it was a dead dog, being stuffed, so I done the place for some wedge and three overcoats; one I put on, and the other two in my kipsy. We went to Harpenden Races to see if we could find some dead 'uns; we went on the course. While we was there we saw a scuff, it was a flat that had been welshed, so my pal said, "Pipe his spark prop" (diamond pin). So my pal said, "Front me (cover me), and I will do him for it." So he pulled out his madam and done him for it. After we left the course, we found a dead 'un and got a peter (cashbox) with very near a century of quids in it. Then I carried on a nice game, what with the trips and the drink I very near went balmy (mad). It is no use of me telling you every place I done, or else you will think I am telling you the same things over again.

Je prends un jerne le roulant pour Reigate et je trimarde jusqu'à Red Hill. Puis j'embarde en une piole et je remouche des harnais suspendus. Je me jacte, je vais les pégrer et acquiger aussitôt le roulant; cela couvrira toutes mes dépenses. Alors en gaffinant par ci par là je remouche un petit pacsin. Je mets la pogne dessus et je reluque une adresse. Celle du curé. Alors je décarre et je demande à un gosse si ce n'est pas un raticchon qui demeure lago? “gy,” qu’il dit. Mais pour qu’il n’y ait pas d’erreur, je retourne. Cette fois, je gaffine de plus près le harnais, je vois que c’était celui d’un prêtre, et alors je l’ai laissé où il était. J’ai toujours eu soin de ne jamais barboter une cambriolle de prêtre quand je savais que c’en était une. J’aurais pu en barboter mais je n’ai pas voulu. Alors j’ai pris le roulant vif pour Croydon, j’ai effarouché de la blanquette et rappliqué à la kasbah. J’allais à Henley presque chaque berge pendant les régattes qui étaient comme celles entre Oxford et Cambridge, seulement c’était des gosses au lieu de gonces. Le reluis où le linspré de Galles a dévalé à Portsmouth quand il a renquillé des Indes, mézigue et deux fanandes, nous avons acquigé le roulant vif vers six plombes et trente broquilles au matois. Quand nous avons dévalé à Portsmouth nous avons trouvé qu’il faisait très chaud; il y avait aux coins des trimes des babilles, “Prenez garde aux filous, mâles et femelles,” et aussi sur les trains de vache. De sorte qu’un de mes fanandes jacte, “Il y a un roussin labago qui conobre mon gniasse, et il vaut mieux nous séparer.” Mézigue et l’autre nous nous débinons de notre côté; il n’était pas très mariolle pour faire une filoche ou un bogue, mais il ne voulait pas grincher de bogues parcequ’il avait le taf d’être rapioté. Nous avons eu de la bate pour les morningues; nous avons trouvé, après avoir turbiné, que nous avons de soixante à soixante-dix sigues à fader, mais notre autre fanande avait été pigé et gardé au bloc jusqu’au dernier roulant vif pour Londres, puis renvoyé chez lui par ce roulant. Un reluis après ce flanche, je demande à un caroubleur s’il voulait me prêter des caroubles parceque j’avais un poupard nourri. Mais il bonnit, “Si je les prête, je veux mon fade.” Que je répons, “Ça fait nib dans mes blots, mais je te carmerai tout de même, si tu l’as à la bonne.” Mais qu’il bonnit, “Ça fait nib dans mes blots aussi.” Alors je jacte, “Nous turbinerons ensemble,” et il me rentasse “gy.” Alors nous avons rincé la piole et acquigé cinquante-cinq sigues. J’ai turbiné ensuite avec lui puis j’ai été pigé et sapé à ces dix-huit marques. Il était très mariolle pour maquiller les caroubles et il fournissait des alènes à toute la gance. Mézigue et le caroubleur nous sommes allés à Gravesend ou nous avons trouvé une piole vide. Nous avons embardé dedans et l’avons rincée ce qui nous a affuré quarante-trois sigues. Nous sommes allés un reluis à Erith. J’ai enquillé dans une piole, et quand j’ai débâclé la lourde il y avait un gros tambour couché devant, de sorte que j’ai tiré de ma profonde un morceau de bidoche et je la lui ai balancée, mais il n'a pas bougé. Je lui en ai jeté un autre morceau mais il est resté tranquille. Alors je m'approche et je vois que c'était un cab empaillé. J'ai rincé la piole pour la blanquette et trois temples, j'en ai peaussé un et plaqué les deux autres dans mon panier. Nous sommes allés ensuite aux courses de Harpenden pour voir si nous pouvions trouver des pioles sans lonsgué; nous allons sur la piste. Pendant que nous y sommes, nous remouchons une tigne, c'était un gonsse qui venait d'être refait, alors mon fanande me jacte, "Gaffine son épingle. Couvre-moi, et je vais la lui faire." Alors il tire son blavin et la lui poisse. Après avoir quitté la piste, nous trouvons une piole vide et nous faisons un enfant qui contenait une centaine de sigues. A partir de ce jour je me suis mis à la rigolade et à force d'aller avec les chamègues et de pitancher, je suis presque devenu louffoque. Il est inutile de vous raconter toutes les pioles que j'ai rincées, ce serait toujours la même histoire.

I will now tell you what happened the day before I fell for this stretch and a half. Me and the screwsman went to Charlton. From there we worked our way to Blackheath. I went in a place and touched for some wedge which we done for three pounds ten. I went home and wrung myself (changed clothes), and met some of the mob and got very near drunk. Next morning I got up about seven, and went home to change my clobber and put on the old clobber to work with the kipsy. When I got home my mother asked me if I was not a going to stop to have some breakfast? So I said, "No, I was in a hurry." I had promised to meet the screwsman and did not want to stick him up. We went to Willesden and found a dead 'un, so I came out and asked my pal to lend me the James and some twirls, and I went and turned it over. I could not find any wedge. I found a poge with nineteen shillings in it. I turned everything over, but could not find anything worth having, so I came out and gave the tools to my pal and told him. So he said, "Wasn't there any clobber?" So I said, "Yes, there's a cartload." So he said, "Go and get a kipsy full of it, and we will guy home." So I went back, and as I was going down the garden, the gardener it appears had been put there to watch the house, so he said, "What do you want here?" So I said, "Where do you speak to the servants?" So he said, "There is not anyone at home, they are all out." So he said, "What do you want with them?" So I said, "Do you know if they have any bottles to sell, because the servant told me to call another day?" So he said, "I do not know, you had better call another time." So I said, "All right, and good day to him." I had hardly got outside when he came rushing out like a man balmy, and said to me, "You must come back with me." So I said, "All right. What is the matter?" So when we got to the door he said, "How did you open this door?" So I said, "My good fellow, you are mad! how could I open it?" So he said, "It was not open half-an-hour ago because I tried it." So I said, "Is that any reason why I should have opened it?" So he said, "At any rate you will have to come to the station with me."

Je vous raconterai maintenant ce qui est arrivé juste la veille du reluis où j'ai été enfouraillé pour dix-huit marques. Mézigue et le caroubleur nous allons à Charlton. De lago nous trimardons jusqu'à Blackheath. J'enquille en une piole et j'effarouche de la blanquette que nous fourguons pour trois livres dix. Je rapplique à la niche et je change de fringues, je rencontre quelques fanandes de la gance et je me poivrotte presque. Le lendemain matin je me lève vers sept plombes pour changer de fringues et je me peausse du vieux harnais pour aller turbiner avec le panier. Quand je rapplique à la niche ma dabuche me jacte de rester pour la refaite du matois. Je bonnis, "Non, j'ai à me patiner." J'avais promis de rencontrer le grinchisseur au fric-frac et je ne voulais pas flancher. Nous sommes allés à Willesden et j'ai trouvé une piole sans personne, de sorte que j'en suis décarré et j'ai demandé à mon fanandel de me prêter le Jacques et des caroubles, j'ai renquillé et j'ai cherché la camelote. Je n'ai pas trouvé de blanquette. J'ai trouvé une filoche avec dix-neuf shillings. J'ai tout retourné mais je n'ai trouvé rien de schpille de sorte que j'ai décarré. J'ai refilé les alènes à mon fanandel et je lui ai dit le flanche. Alors, qu'il jacte, "N'y avait-il pas de fringues?" Et je lui réponds, "Gy, il y en a une charretée." Alors, qu'il dit, "Acquies-en plein un panier et débinons-nous." Je retourne, et comme je dévalais le long du jaffier, l'arroiseur de verdouze qui paraît-il, avait été plaqué lago pour faire le gaffe, me bonnit, "Qu'est-ce que tu maquilles icigo?" Je réponds, "Où peut-on parler aux larbins?" Et il dit, "Il n'y a personne à la maison, ils sont tous sortis. Que leur voulez-vous?" et je lui réponds, "Savez-vous s'ils ont des bouteilles à vendre, parceque la servante m'a dit de revenir?" "Je ne sais pas, revenez un autre jour." "C'est bien," que je lui dis; "je vous souhaite le bonjour." J'avais à peine décarré qu'il aboule comme un louffoque et me jacte, "Vous allez revenir avec moi." Je lui dis, "C'est bien, mon brave; qu'est-ce qu'il y a?" Et quand nous aboulons juxte la lourde il jacte, "Comment avez-vous fait pour ouvrir cette porte?" "Mon brave homme," lui dis-je, "vous êtes fou, comment aurais-je fait?" Alors il jacte, "Elle n'était pas ouverte il y a une demi-heure, car je l'ai essayée pour voir." Alors je bonnis, "Est-ce une raison pour que je l'aie ouverte?" Et il jacte, "Dans tous les cas, vous allez m'accompagner au poste de police.”

The station was not a stone’s throw from the place, so he caught hold of me, so I gave a twist round and brought the kipsy in his face, and gave him a push and gayed. He followed, giving me hot beef (calling “Stop thief”). My pal came along, and I said to him, “Make this man leave me alone, he is knocking me about,” and I put a half-James (half-sovereign) in his hand, and said, “Guy.” As I was running round a corner there was a reeler talking to a postman, and I rushed by him, and a little while after the gardener came up and told him all about it. So he set after me and the postman too, all the three giving me hot beef. This set other people after me, and I got run out. So I got run in, and was tried at Marylebone and remanded for a week, and then fullied (fully committed for trial), and got this stretch and a half. Marylebone is the court I got my schooling from.—From Macmillan’s Magazine, October, 1879.

Le bloc était à deux pas, alors il me met la louche au colas et je pirouette en lui refilant un coup de panier sur le citron; puis je lui refile une pousse et je fais patatrot. Il me suit en gueulant à la chienlit. Mon fanande me suivait et je lui bonnis, “Défends-moi contre ce pante, il me passé à travers;” je refile à son gniasse un demi-souverain dans sa louche et je lui dis, “Crompe! crompe!” Comme je tournais le coin, il y avait un flique qui jactait avec un facteur, je le dépasse en faisant la paire, et peu après l’arroseur de verdouze aboule et lui débine le truc. Alors, il me cavale avec le facteur, tous les trois gueulant à la chienlit. De cette façon, d’autres pantes se mettent à me refiler et je suis pigé. On m’emballe, on me met sur la planche au pain à Marylebone et on me remet à huitaine, alors gerbé à une longe et six marques. Marylebone est le carré où j’ai été gerbé au collège.

Bande noire, f., a gang of swindlers who procure goods on false pretences and sell them below their value, “long firm.”

La Bande Noire comprises four categories of swindlers working jointly: “le courtier à la mode,” who, by means of false references, gets himself appointed as agent to important firms, generally wine merchants, jewellers, provision dealers. He calls on some small tradesmen on the verge of bankruptcy, denominated “petits faisans,” or “frères de la côte,” and offers them at a very low price merchandise which they are to dispose of, allowing him a share in the profits. The next step to be taken is to bribe a clerk of some private information office, who is thus induced to give a favourable answer to all inquiries regarding the solvency of the “petit faisans.” The courtier à la mode also bribes with a like object the doorkeeper of his clients. At length the goods are delivered by the victimized firms; now steps in the “fusilleur” or “gros faisans,” who obtains the merchandise at a price much below value—a cask of wine worth 170 francs, for instance, being transferred to him at less than half that sum—the sale often taking place at the railway goods station, especially when the “petit faisans” is an imaginary individual represented by a doorkeeper in confederacy with the gang.—Translated from the “République Française” newspaper, February, 1886.

Bourdonniste, m. (printers'), one in the habit of making bourdons (which see).

Bourgeois, m. (thieves'), for bourg, a large village. Literally man of the middle class. The peasants give this appellation to the townspeople; a coachman to his "fare;" workmen and servants to their employer; workpeople to the master of a house; soldiers to civilians; artists and literary men use it contemptuously to denote a man with matter-of-fact, unartistic tastes, also a man outside their profession; the anarchists apply the epithet to one who does not share their views. (Popular) Mon —, my husband, "my old man." Eh! dites donc, —, I say, governor. (Officers') Se mettre en —, to dress in plain clothes, in "mufti." (Familiar) C'est bien —, it is vulgar, devoid of taste.

Bourgeoisade, f., anything, whether it be deed or thought, which savours of the bourgeois' ways; a vulgar platitude. The bourgeois, in the disparaging sense of the term of course, is a man of a singularly matter-of-fact, selfish disposition, and one incapable of being moved by higher motives than those of personal interest. His doings, his mode of life, all his surroundings bear the stamp of an unrefined idiosyncrasy. Though a staunch Conservative at heart, he is fond of indulging in a timid, mild opposition to Government, yet he even goes so far sometimes as to send to Parliament men whose views are at variance with his own, merely to give himself the pleasure of "teaching a lesson" to the "powers that be." A man of Voltairian tendencies, yet he allows his wife and daughters to approach the perilous secrecy and the allurements of the confessional. When he happens to be a Republican, he rants furiously about equality, yet he protests that it is a shocking state of affairs which permits of his only son and spoilt child being made to serve in the ranks by the side of the workman or clodhopper. By no means a fire-eater, he is withal a bloodthirsty mortal and a loud-tongued Chauvinist, but as he has the greatest respect for the integrity of his person, and entertains a perfect horror of blows, he likes to see others carry out for him his pugnacious aspirations in a practical way.

M. Academy), such as tossing one in a blanket, together with boots, spurs, and brushes, or trying him by a mock court-martial for some supposed offence. An illustration with a vengeance of such practical joking occurred some years ago at an English garrison town. Some young officers packed up a colleague's traps, without leaving in the rooms a particle of property, nailed the boxes to the floor, and laid a he-goat in the bed. On the victim's arrival they left him no time to give vent to his indignant feelings, for they cast him into a fisherman's net and dragged him downstairs, with the result that the unfortunate officer barely escaped with his life.

Charriage, m. (thieves'), swindle; — à l'Américaine is a kind of confidence trick swindle. It requires two confederates, one called "leveur" or "jardinier," whose functions are to exercise his allurements upon the intended victim without awakening his suspicions. When the latter is fairly hooked, the pair meet—by chance of course—with "l'Américain," a confederate who passes himself off for a native of America, and who offers to exchange a large sum of gold for a smaller amount of money. The pigeon gleefully accepts the proffered gift, and discovers later on that the alleged gold coins are nothing but base metal. This kind of swindle goes also by the names of "vol à l'Américaine," "vol au change." Charriage à la mécanique, or vol au père François, takes place thus: a robber throws a handkerchief round a person's neck, and holds him fast half-strangled on his own back while a confederate rifles the victim's pockets. Charriage au coffret: the thief, termed "Américain," leaves in charge of a barmaid a small box filled to all appearance with gold coin; he returns in the course of the day, but suddenly finding that he has lost the key of the box, he asks for a loan of money and disappears, leaving the box as security. It goes without saying that the alleged gold coins are nothing more than brand-new farthings. Charriage au pot, another kind of the confidence trick dodge. One confederate forms an acquaintance with a passer-by, and both meet with the other confederate styled "l'Américain," who offers to take them to a house of ill-fame and defray all expenses, but who, being fearful of getting robbed, deposits his money in a jug or other receptacle. On the way he suddenly alters his mind, and sends the victim for the sum, not without having exacted bail-money from him as a guarantee of his return, after which both scamps make off with the fool's money. Swindlers of this description are termed "magsmen" in the English slang.

Vas-tu t’ taire, vas tu t’ taire,
Celle-là faudrait pas m’la faire,
As-tu fini tes façons?
Celle-là nous la connaissons!
Parisian Song.

La — à, to seek to impose upon by an affected show of some feigned sentiment. La — à la pose, to show off; to pose.

J’ pense malgré moi à la gueule dégoûtée que f’rait un décadent, ou un pessimiste au milieu de ce méli-mélo... Y nous la f’rait diantrement à la pose.—TRUBLOT, Cri du Peuple, Sept., 1886.

La — à la raideur, to put on a distant manner, to look “uppish.” La — à l’oseille, to treat one in an off-hand manner; to annoy one, or “to huff;” to play a scurvy trick; to exaggerate, “to come it too strong.” According to Delvan, the origin of the expression is the following:—A certain restaurant keeper used to serve up to her clients a mess of eggs and sorrel, in which the sorrel was out of all proportion to the quantity of eggs. One day one of the guests exclaimed in disgust, “Ah! cette fois, tu nous la fais trop à l’oseille!” (Popular) Se — caramboler is said of a woman who gives her favours.

Elle sentit très bien, malgré son avachissement, que la culbute de sa petite, en train de se faire caramboler, l’enfonçait davantage ... oui, ce chameau dénaturé lui emportait le dernier morceau de son honnêteté.—ZOLA, L’Assommoir.

Se — relicher, to get kissed.

Ah! bien! qu’elle se laissât surprendre à se faire relicher dehors, elle était sûre de son affaire... Dès qu’elle rentrait, ... il la regardait bien en face, pour deviner si elle ne rapportait pas une souris sur l’œil, un de ces petits baisers.—ZOLA, L’Assommoir.

S’en — éclater le péritoine, or péter la sous-ventrière, to eat or drink to excess, “to scorf.” Tu t’en ferais péter la sous-ventrière, or tu t’en ferais mourir, expressive of ironical refusal; don’t you wish you may get it? or, as the Americans have it, “Yes, in a horn.” Se — baiser, or choper, to get abused; to be apprehended. See Piper. Se — la débinette, to run away, “to guy,” “to slope.” See Patatrot. Se — enturer, to be robbed, swindled; to lose one's money at a game, or "to blew it." La — à l'anguille, to strike one with an eelskin or handkerchief filled with sand.*

Ah! gredins, dit-il, vous me l'avez faite à l'anguille.... L'anguille ... est cette arme terrible des rôdeurs de barrière qui ne fournit aucune pièce de conviction, une fois qu'on s'en est servi. Elle consiste dans un mouchoir qu'on roule après l'avoir rempli de terre. En tenant cette sorte de fronde par un bout, tout le poids de la terre va à l'autre extrémité et forme une masse redoutable.—A. LAURIN, Le Million de l'Ouvrière.

Rabelais has the expression "donner l'anguillade," with the signification of to strike. (Military schools') Faire une brimade, or brimer, to ill-treat, to bully, termed "to brock" at Winchester School.

Du gai plaisir, ils avaient l'espérance,

Quand on est pègre on peut passer partout.

From a song composed by Clément, a burglar (quoted by Pierre Delcourt, Paris Voleur, 1886). This poet of the “family men” was indiscreet enough, some days after the burglary described, to sing his production at a wine-shop frequented by thieves, and, unfortunately, by detectives also, with the result that he was sent over the water and given leisure time to commune with the Muses. (Sailors’ and popular) Filer son nœud, or son câble, to go away; to run away, “to cut the cable and run before the wind.” See Patatrot. Filer un nœud, to spin a yarn. File ton nœud, go on with your story or your discourse, “pay away.” With regard to the latter expression the Slang Dictionary says:—

Pay-away ... from the nautical phrase pay-away, meaning to allow a rope to run out of a vessel. When the hearer considers the story quite long enough, he, carrying out the same metaphor, exclaims, “hold on!”

Galifarde, f. (popular), shop-girl.

Galimard, m. (artists’), se touche! The expression is used in reference to a brother artist who extols his own self or own productions. For the following explanation I am indebted to Mr. G. D., a French artist well known to the English public:—“Galimard se touche, phrase que vous avez lue probablement dans tous les Rambuteau de Paris, a pris origine dans notre atelier Cogniet. Galimard, un artiste de quelque talent, mais qui se croyait un génie, trouvant qu’on ne s’occupait pas assez de lui, écrivit sur le salon des articles fort bien faits mais par trop sévères pour les confrères. Il avait mis au bas un pseudonyme quelconque. Arrivé au tour de sa fameuse Léda, il ne tarissait pas d’éloges sur cette peinture vraiment médiocre. Bertall, que je connaissais fort bien, découvrit le pot aux roses. Galimard était son propre panégyriste! J’arrive à l’atelier et je dis: ‘Galimard se fait jouir lui-même, c’est lui l’auteur des articles en question.’ De là, le fameux ‘Galimard se touche’ expression maintenant consacrée lorsqu’un artiste parle trop de lui-même. Il faut ajouter que les mots furent écrits dans tous les Rambuteau du Quartier du Temple puis, non seulement à Paris, mais par toute la France. L’empereur acheta la Léda après une tentative criminelle de la part d’un malfaiteur et sur la toile et sur Galimard. On fit une enquête et l’on découvrit que le malfaiteur n’était autre que ... Galimard. L’affaire en resta là. La Léda fut placée au Musée du Luxembourg, après cicatrisation des coups de poignard, bien entendu.”

Gombeux, adj. (popular), nasty.

Gomme, f. (familiar), fashion; elegance, "swelldom." La haute —, the "pink" of fashion. Etre de la —, to be a dandy, a "masher." See Gommeux. The term formerly signified excellence, and was used specially in reference to wine.

Mais non pas d'un pareil trésor,
Que cette souveraine gomme.
Parnasse des Muses.

Gommeuse, f. (familiar), showily dressed girl or woman, a "dasher."

Gommeux, adj. and m. (familiar), pretty; dandy.

C'était elle qui, pour la première fois, recevant un de ses amants astiqué des pieds à la tête, empesé, ciré, frotté, tiré, semblant, en deux mots, trempé dans de la gomme arabique en dissolution, avait dit de lui: un gommeux! Le petit-crevé avait un successeur.—E. MONTEIL, Cornebois.

The different appellations corresponding to various periods are as follows:— Under Louis XIV., "mouchar, muguet, petit-maître, talon-rouge." After the revolution of 1793, "muscadin." Under the government of the Directoire from '95 to '99, "incroyable, merveilleux." Then from the Restoration come in succession, "mirliflor, élégant, dandy, lion, fashionable, and gandin." Under the Third Empire, "cocodès, crevé, petit-crevé, col-cassé." From 1870 to the present day, "gommeux, luisant, poisseux, boudiné, pschutteux, exhumé, gratiné, faucheur, and finally bécarre.” The English have the terms “swell, gorgier, masher,” and the old expression “flasher,” mentioned in the following quotation from the English Supplementary Glossary:—

They are reckoned the flashers of the place, yet everybody laughs at them for their airs, affectations, and tonish graces and impertinences.—MADAME D’ARBLAY, Diary.

The Spectator termed a dandy a “Jack-pudding,” and Goldsmith calls him a “macaroni,” “The Italians,” he says, “are extremely fond of a dish they call macaroni, ... and as they consider this as the summum bonum of all good eating, so they figuratively call everything they think elegant and uncommon macaroni. Our young travellers, who generally catch the follies of the countries they visit, judged that the title of macaroni was very applicable to a clever fellow; and accordingly, to distinguish themselves as such, they instituted a club under this denomination, the members of which were supposed to be the standards of taste. The infection at St. James’s was soon caught in the City, and we have now macaronies of every denomination, from the Colonel of the Train’d-Bands down to the printer’s devil or errand-boy. They indeed make a most ridiculous figure, with hats of an inch in the brim, that do not cover, but lie upon the head; with about two pounds of fictitious hair, formed into what is called a club, hanging down their shoulders, as white as a baker’s sack; the end of the skirt of their coat reaching not down to the first button of their breeches.... Such a figure, essenced and perfumed, with a bunch of lace sticking out under its chin, puzzles the common passenger to determine the thing’s sex; and many have said, by your leave, madam, without intending to give offence.”

The Americans give the name of “dude” to one who apes the manners of swells. It may be this word originated from a comparison between the tight and light-coloured trousers sported by swells, and the stem of a pipe termed “dudeen” by the Irish. Compare the French expression “boudiné,” literally sausage-like, for a swell in tight clothing.

Gomorrhe, m. (familiar), un émigré de —, Sodomite.

Gosse, m. and f. (general), child, “kid.” Ah! l'affreux gosse! pialle-t'y! Asseyez-vous dessus! et qu' ça finisse! The horrible child! how he does squall! Sit upon him, and let there be an end of it. This seemingly uncharitable wish is often expressed in thought, if not in speech, in France, where many children are petted and spoilt into insufferable tyrants.

Arrive l'enfant de la maison qui pleure. Au lieu de lui dire: Ah! le joli enfant, même quand il pleure, on croirait entendre la voix de la Patti.... Maintenant ce n'est plus ça, l'on dit: Ah! l'affreux gosse! Pialles-t'y! ... en v'là un qui crie! ... pour sûr il a avalé la pratique à Thérèse!—Les Locutions Vicieuses.

Grèce, f. (familiar), the tribe of card-sharpers. Tomber dans la —, to become a card-sharper. Vol à la —, card swindle. (Thieves’) Grèce, or soulasse, swindler who offers one a high profit on the change of gold coins, for which he substitutes base coin when the bargain has been struck. A variety of the confidence trick. Vidocq thus describes the mode of operating of these gentry. A confederate forms an acquaintance with a farmer or country tradesman on a visit to town. While the new pair of friends are promenading, they are accosted by another confederate, who pretends to be a foreigner, and who exhibits gold coin which he wishes to exchange for silver. Subsequently the three adjourn to a wine-shop, where the pigeon, being entrusted with one of the coins, is requested to have it tested at a changer's, when he finds it to be genuine. A bargain is soon struck, and, when the thieves have decamped, the victim finds that in exchange for sound silver coin he has received a case full of coppers or gunshot.

Le Grinche, terme d’argot signifiant voleur, a servi de titre à un journal Montagnard qui a fait paraître deux numéros au mois de juin, 1848.—G. BRUNET, Dictionnaire de la Conversation et de la Lecture.

Nous étions dix à douze,
Tous grinches de renom;
Nous attendions la sorgue,
Voulant poisser des bogues,
Pour faire du billon.

VIDOCQ.

Un — de cambrouse, a highwayman. In the old English cant, “bridle-cull.” Other varieties of the tribe of malefactors go by the appellations of “grinchisseur, pègre, chevalier de la grippe, fourline, escarpe, poisse, limousineur, charron, truqueur, locandier, vanternier, cambrioleur, caroubleur, solitaire, compagnon, deffardeur, pogne, tireur, voleur à la tire, doubleur, fil de soie, mion de boule, grinchisseur de bogues, friauche, tirebogue, Américain, jardinier, ramastiqueur, enfant de minuit, philosophe, philibert, voleur au bonjour, bonjourier, philanthrope, frère de la manicle, garçon de campagne, garçon de cambrouse, tiretaine, enfant de la matte, careur, chène affranchi, droguiste, &c.; the English brethren being denominated “prig, cracksman, crossman, sneaksman, moucher, hooker, flash cove, bug-hunter, cross-cove, buz-faker, stook-hauler, toy-getter, tooler, prop-nailer, area-sneak, palmer, dragsman, lob-sneak, bouncer, lully-prigger, thimble-twister, gun, conveyancer, dancer, pudding-snammer, beak-hunter, ziff, drummer, buttock-and-file, poll-thief, little snakesman, mill-ben, a cove on the cross, flashman, finder, gleaner, picker, tax-collector,” and formerly “a good fellow, a bridle-cull” (highwayman).

Grincher (thieves’), to rob. See Grinchir.

Quand ils vont décarrer nous les empaumerons. Je grincherai le sinve. Il est avec une largue, il ne criblera pas.—E. SUE. (We’ll follow them when they come out. I’ll rob the cove. He is with a woman, he will not cry out.)

Grincheur, m. (thieves’), young thief, or “ziff.”

Grinchie, adj. (thieves’), camelotte —, stolen goods, “swag.”

Grinchir (thieves’), to steal. Rabelais in his Pantagruel says of Panurge: —“Toutesfois il avoit soixante et trois manières d’en trouver toujours à son besoing (de l’argent), dont la plus honorable et la plus commune estoit par façon de larrecin furtivement faict.” One may judge from what follows, and by the numerous varieties of “larrecin furtivement faict” described under the head of “grinchissage,” that the imitators of Panurge have not remained far behind in the art of filling their pockets at the expense of the public. Some of the many expressions to describe robbery pure and simple, or the different varieties, are:—“Mettre la pogne dessus, travailler, faire, décrasser, rincer, entiffler, retirer l’artiche, savonner, doubler, barbotter, graisser, dégauchir, dégraisser, effaroucher, évaporer, agripper, soulever, fourmiller, filer, acheter à la foire d’empoigne, pégrer, goupiner à la desserte, sauter, marnier, cabasser, mettre de la paille dans ses souliers, faire le saut, secouer, gressier, faire le bobé, faire la bride, faire le morlingue, faire un poivrot, faire un coup d’étal, faire un coup de radin, rincer une cambriolle, faire la soulasse sur le grand trimar, ramastiquer, fourlourer, faire le mouchoir, faire un coup de roulotte, faire grippe-cheville,” &c., &c. The English synonyms are as follows:—“To cop, to touch, to claim, to prig, to wolf, to snake, to pinch, to nibble, to clift, to collar, to nail, to grab, to jump, to nab, to hook, to nim, to fake, to crib, to ease, to convey, to buz, to be on the cross, to do the sneaking-budge, to nick, to fang,” &c., &c.

Grinchissage, m. (thieves’), thieving; theft, or “sneaking-budge.” The latter expression is used by Fielding.

Wild looked upon borrowing to be as good a way of taking as any, and, as he called it, the genteel kind of sneaking-budge—FIELDING, Jonathan Wild.

Le ——— à domicile is practised by rogues known under the following denominations:—“Le bonjourier,” see this word; “le cambrioleur,” who operates in apartments; “le caroubleur,” who effects an entrance by means of skeleton keys; “le chevalier du pince-linge,” one who steals linen, “snow-gatherer;” “le déménageur,” who takes possession of articles of furniture, descending the staircase backwards, so that on an emergency he may at once make a show of ascending, as if he were bringing in furniture; “le grinchisseur à la desserte,” thief who enters a dining-room just after dinner-time, and lays hands on the plate; “le gras-doublier,” who steals lead off the roofs, who “flies the blue pigeon;” “le matelassier,” a thief who pretends to repair and clean mattresses; “le vanternier,” who effects an entrance through a window, “dancer;” “le voleur à la location,” who pretends to be in quest of apartments to let; “le voleur au recensement,” who pretends to be an official employed in the census. Le grinchissage à la ballade, or à la trimballade, the thief makes some purchases, and finding he has not sufficient money, requests a clerk to accompany him home, entrusting the parcel to a pretended commissionnaire, a confederate. On the way the rogues suddenly vanish. Le ——— à la broquille consists in substituting sham jewellery for the genuine article when offered for inspection by the tradesman. Le ——— à la carre. See Carreur. Le ——— à la cire, purloining a silver fork or spoon at a restaurant by making it adhere under the table by means of a piece of soft wax. After this preliminary operation the rogue leaves the place, generally after having been searched by the restaurant keeper; then an accomplice enters, takes his confederate's place at the table, and obtains possession of the property. Le — à la détourne, the thief secretes goods in a shop while a confederate distracts the attention of the shopkeeper. The rogue who thus operates is termed in English cant a "palmer." The thief is sometimes a female who has in her arms an infant, whose swaddling-clothes serve as a receptacle for the stolen property. Le —, or vol à la glu, takes place in churches by means of a rod with birdlime at one end, plunged through the slit in the alms-box, termed tronc; the coins adhering to the extremity of the rod are thus fished out. Le —, or vol à l'Américaine, confidence-trick robbery. It is the old story of a traveller meeting with a countryman and managing to exchange the latter's well-filled purse for a bag of leaden coins. Those who practise it are termed "Américains," or "magsmen."

Il est aussi vieux que le monde. Il a été raconté mille fois!... Ce vol suranné réussit toujours! il réussira tant qu'il y aura des simples, jusqu'à la consommation des siècles.—Mémoires de Monsieur Claude.

Le — à la mélasse, the rogue has a tall hat, with the inside of the crown besmeared with treacle, which he suddenly places on the head of the tradesman, pushing it far down over his eyes, and thus making him temporarily helpless (Pierre Delcourt, Paris Voleur). Le — à la quête, stealing part of the proceeds of a collection in a church when the plate is being passed round. Le —, or vol à la reconnaissance, consists in picking the pockets of a passer-by while pretending to recognize him and greeting him as an old friend. Le —, or vol à la tire, according to Monsieur Claude, formerly head of the detective department, this species of theft is the classical one in which the celebrated Cartouche, a kind of French Jack Sheppard, was an adept. It consists in picking waistcoat pockets by means of a pair of scissors or a double-bladed penknife. Le —, or vol à l'épate, is high-class swindling. It comprises "le brodage," "le chantage," "le négoce," and "le vol au cautionnement." The first of these consists in the setting-up of a financial establishment and opening an account for unwary merchants, who are made to sign bills in exchange for the swindlers' paper endorsed by them. When these bills become due they are returned dishonoured, so that the victimized merchants are responsible for the payment not only of their own notes of hand but those of the swindlers as well. "Le chantage" is extorting money by threat of exposure. The proceeds are termed in the English slang "socket-money." For full explanation see Chanteur. "Le négoce" is practised by English swindlers who represent themselves as being the agents of some well-known firm, and thus obtain goods from continental merchants in exchange for fictitious bills. "Le vol au cautionnement," the rogues set up a sham financial establishment and advertise for a number of clerks to be employed by the firm on the condition of leaving a deposit as a guarantee. When a large staff of officials, or rather pigeons, have been found, the managers decamp with the deposit fund. Le —, or vol à la roulotte or roulante, the thief jumps on the box of a vehicle temporarily left in the street by its owner and drives off at a gallop. Sometimes the horse alone is disposed of, the vehicle being left in some out-of-the-way place. The "roulottiers" also steal hawkers' hand-barrows, or "shallows." One of these rogues, when apprehended, confessed to having stolen thirty-three hand-barrows, fifty-three vans or carts, and as many horses. Sometimes the "roulottier" will rob property from cabs or carriages by climbing up behind and cutting the straps that secure the luggage on the roof. His English representative is termed a "dragsman," according to Mr. James Greenwood. See The Seven Curses of London, p. 87. Le —, or vol à l'esbrouffe, picking the pockets of a passer-by while hustling him as if by accident, termed "ramping." Le —, or vol à l'étourneau, when a thief who has just stolen the contents of a till is making his escape, an accomplice who is keeping watch outside scampers off in the opposite direction, so as to baffle the puzzled tradesman, whose hesitation allows of the rogues gaining ground. Le —, or vol à l'opium, robbery from a person who has been drugged. The scoundrels who practise it are generally Jewish money-lenders of the lowest class, who attract their victims to their abode under pretence of advancing money. A robber who first makes his victim insensible by drugs is termed in the English cant a "drummer." Le — au boulon, stealing from a shop by means of a rod or wire passed through a hole in the shutter, "hooking." Le —, or vol au cerf-volant, is practised by women, who strip little girls of their trinkets or ease them of their money or parcels. The little victims sometimes get their hair shorn off as well. Le —, or vol au chatouillage, a couple of rogues pretend to recognize a friend in a man easing himself. They begin to tickle him in the ribs as if in play, meanwhile rifling the pockets of the helpless victim. Le —, or vol au colis, the thief leaves a parcel in some coffee-house with the recommendation to the landlord not to give it up except on payment of say twenty francs. He then seeks a commissionaire simple-minded enough to be willing to fetch the parcel and to pay the necessary sum, after which the swindler returns to the place and pockets the money left by the pigeon. Le —, or vol au fric-frac, housebreaking, or "crib-cracking." Le —, or vol au gail or gayet, horse-stealing, or "prad-napping." Le —, or vol au grim pant, a young thief, or "little snakesman," climbs on to the roof of a house and throws a rope-ladder to his accomplices below, who thus effect an entrance. When detected they pass themselves off for workmen engaged in some repairs. Le —, or vol au parapluie, a shoplifter, or “sneaksman,” drops the stolen property in a half-open umbrella. Le —, or vol au poivrier, consists in robbing drunkards who have come to grief. Rogues who practise it are in most cases apprehended, detectives being in the habit of impersonating drunkards asleep on benches late at night. Le — au prix courant, or en pleine trèpe, picking pockets or scarf-pins in a crowd, “cross-fanning.” Le —, or vol au radin, the landlord of a wine-shop is requested to fetch a bottle of his best wine; while he is busy in the cellar the trap which gives access to it is closed by the rogues, and the counter, or “radin,” pushed on to it, thus imprisoning the victim, who clamours in vain while his till is being emptied. It also takes place in this way: the rogues pretend to quarrel, and one of them throws the other’s cap into a shop, thus providing him with an excuse for entering the place and robbing the till, or “pinching the bob or lob.” Le —, or vol au raton, a little boy, a “raton,” or “anguille” (termed “tool or little snakesman” in the English cant), is employed in this kind of robbery, by burglars, to enter small apertures and to open doors for the others outside (Pierre Delcourt, Paris Voleur). Le —, or vol au rigolo, appropriating the contents of a cash-box opened by means of a skeleton key.

Le Pince-Monseigneur perfectionné, se porte aujourd’hui dans un étui à cigares et dans un porte-monnaie ... les voleurs au rigolo ouvrent aujourd’hui toutes les caisses.—Mémoires de Monsieur Claude.

Le —, or vol au suif, variety of card-sharpping swindle.

Il s’opère par un grec qui rôde chez les marchands de vin, dans les cafés borgnes, pour dégouter, en bon suiffeur, une frimousse de pante ou de daim.—Mémoires de Monsieur Claude.

Le —, or vol au timbre, a tobacconist is asked for a large number of stamps, which the thief carefully encloses in an envelope. Suddenly, when about to pay for them, he finds he has forgotten his purse, returns the envelope containing the stamps to the tradesman and leaves to fetch the necessary sum. Needless to say, the envelope is empty. Le —, or vol au tiroir, the thief enters a tobacconist’s or spirit shop, and asks for a cigar or glass of spirits. When the tradesman opens his till to give change, snuff is thrown into his eyes, thus making him helpless. This class of thieves is termed in the English cant “sneeze-lurkers.”

Grinchisseur, m. (thieves’), thief, or “prig,” see Grinche; — de bogues, pickpocket who devotes his attention to watches, a “toy-getter,” or “tooler.”

VILLON, Les Repeues franchises de François Villon et de ses compagnons, 15th century.

Joberie, f. (popular), nonsense, “tomfoolery.”

Jobisme, m. (popular), poverty.

Desroches a roulé comme nous sur les fumiers du Jobisme.—BALZAC.

Compare with the English expression, “as poor as Job’s turkey;” “as thin and as badly fed,” says the Slang Dictionary, “as that ill-conditioned and imaginary bird.”

Jocko, m. (familiar), pain —, loaf of an elongated shape.

Jocko, pain long à la mode depuis 1824, année où le singe Jocko était à la mode.—L. LARCHEY, Dict. Hist. d’Argot.

Jocrissiade, f. (familiar), stupid action. Jocrisse, simpleton.

Jojo, adj. and m. (popular), pretty; simpleton. Faire son —, to play the fool.

Jonc, m. (thieves’), gold, or “redge.” Etre sur les joncs, to be in prison, “in quod.” Un bobbe, or un bobinot de —, a gold watch, a “red toy.”

Joncher (thieves’), to gild.

Joncherie, f. (popular), deceit, swindle. The word is old.

Adonc le Penancier vit bien
Qu’il y ent quelque tromperie;
Quand il entendit le moyen,
Il congnet bien la joncherie.

Poésies attribuées à Villon, 15th century.

Joncheur, m. (thieves’), gilder.

Jonquille, adj. (popular), mari —, injured husband. An allusion to the alleged favourite colour of cuckolds.

Jorne, m. (thieves’), day (Italian giorno). Refaite de —, breakfast.

Jose, m. (popular), bank-note. From papier Joseph, tracing paper.

Joseph, m. (familiar), over-virtuous man. Faire le or son —, to give oneself virtuous airs. An allusion to the story of Madame Potiphar and Joseph.

Je me disais aussi: voilà un gaillard qui fait le Joseph. Il doit y avoir une raison.—A. DUMAS FILS.

Joséphine, f. (thieves’), skeleton key, or “betty.”

Tel grinche s’arrêtera à faire le barbot dans une cambriolle (à voler dans une chambre). S’il a oublié sa joséphine (fausse clef), jamais il ne se servira de la joséphine d’un autre de peur d’attraper des punaises, c’est-à-dire de manquer son coup ou d’avoir affaire à un mouchard.—Mémoires de Monsieur Claude.

(Popular) Faire sa —, is said of a woman who puts on virtuous airs, indignantly tossing her head, or blushingly casting down her eyes, &c.

Jouasser (familiar), to play badly at a game or on an instrument.

Jouasson (familiar), poor player.

Jouer (popular), à la ronfle, or de l’orgue, to snore, “to drive one’s pigs to market;” — des guibolles, to run away, “to leg it;” see Patatrot; — du cœur, to vomit, “to shoot the cat;” (familiar and popular) — de la harpe, to stroke a woman’s dress as Tartuffe with Elmire, or otherwise to take certain liberties with her. See Harpe. Jouer des mandibules, to eat, “to grub;” see Mastiquer; — du Napoléon, to be generous with one’s money, “to come down handsome;” an allusion to napoléon, a twenty-franc coin; — du fifre, to go without food; — du piano is said of a horse which has a disunited trot, or of a man who is knock-kneed; — du pouce, to give money, “to fork out;” to spend freely one’s money. The expression is old; Villon uses it in his dialogue of Messieurs de Mallepaye et de Baillevent, 15th century:—

M. Sang bien, la mousse
M'a trop cousté. B. Et pourquoy? M. Pource.
B. Hay! hay! tout est mal compassé.
M. Comment? B. On ne joue plus du poulce.

Jouer comme un fiacre, to play badly; — la fille de l'air, to run away, “to slope.” See Patatrot. (Theatrical) Jouer à l'avant-scène, to stand close to the footlights when acting; — devant les banquettes, to perform before an empty house; (thieves') — à la main chaude, to be guillotined. Literally to play hot cockles. See Fauché. Jouer de la harpe, to be in prison, or “in quod;” — du linve, or du vingt-deux, to knife, or “to chive;” — du violon, to file iron bars or irons.

Joujouter (popular), to play; to frolic.

Jour de la Saint Jean Baptiste, m. (thieves'), execution day, or “wry-neck day.”

Journée gourd (Breton cant), good day's profits.

Journoyer (popular), to do nothing at all.

Jouste, or juste (thieves'), near. From the old word jouxte, Latin juxta. Je trimardais jouste la lourde, I was passing close to the door.

Joyeuse, f. (thieves'), sword, or “poker.”

Joyeux, m. pl. (military), men of the “bataillon d'Afrique,” a corps recruited with military convicts, who on being liberated serve the remainder of their term of service in this corps.

Jubile, f. (glove-makers'), pieces of glove skins, the perquisites of glove-makers.

Jubile, peau économisée par l'ouvrier gantier sur celles qu'on lui a confiées pour tailler une douzaine de paires de gants.—L. LARCHEY, Dict. Hist. d'Argot.

Judas, m. (popular), barbe de —, red beard. Bran de —, speckles. Le point de —, thirteen.

Judasser (popular), to betray; to act as a “cat in the pan,” or, in thieves' cant, “to turn snitch.”

Judasserie, f. (popular), treacherous show of friendship.

Judée, f. (thieves'), la petite —, Préfecture de police, headquarters of the police, situated formerly in the Rue de Jérusalem; hence the expression.

Jugé, m. (prisoners'), young offender who has been sentenced to be confined in a house of correction.

Juge de paix, m. (thieves'), stick; a kind of roulette at wine-shops; (gamblers') pack of cards, or "book of broads."

Jugeotte, f. (popular), intellect.

Juguler (popular), to strangle; to bore; to cry out. Scrongnieugneu! que j'jugulais! darn it, I cried!

Jumelles, f. pl. (popular), breech.

Juponnier, m. (common), one fond of the petticoat.

Jus, m. (familiar and popular), wine; — de bâton, thrashing with a stick; — d'échalas, wine; — de réglisse, negro; — de chapeau, weak coffee. Avoir du —, to be elegant, dashing. Avoir du — de navet dans les veines, to be devoid of energy. (Popular) Jus, profits in business. Hardi! du — de bras, now, with a will, my lads!

Encore un tour au treuil! Hardi! Du jus de bras!

RICHEPIN, La Mer.

Se coller un coup de —, to get drunk. (Sailors') Jus de cancre, landsman, or "land-lubber." Du — de botte premier brin, rum of the best quality.

Jusqu'à la gauche (military), to a great extent; for a long time.

Vous serez consigné jusqu'à la gauche ... c'était son mot ce "jusqu'à la gauche," une expression de caserne ... qui ne signifiait pas grand chose ... mais personnifiait l'éternité.—G. COURTELINE.

Jusqu'à plus soif (popular), to excess.

Juste, f. (thieves'), the assizes.

Juste-milieu, m. (familiar), the behind. See Vasistas.

Juter de l'œil (popular), to weep.

Spèce de tourte, n'jute donc pas d' l'œil d'une façon aussi incongrue.—G. FRISON.

Juteux, adj. (dandies'), elegant; dashing. (Familiar) Affaire juteuse, profitable transaction, a "fat job."

K

Kébir, m. (military), commander of a corps. From the Arab. Also colonel.

Kif-kif (popular), all the same.

Expression qui vient des Arabes, importée assurément dans l'atelier par quelque Zéphir ou quelque Zouave typographe. Dans le patois algérien, kif-kif signifie, semblable à.—BOUTMY.

C'est ——— bourico or bourriquo, it is all the same; it comes to the same thing.

Que tu dises comme moi ou qu' tu dises pas comme moi ça fait jus' kif-kif bourrique.—G. COURTELINE.

Kil, m. (roughs'), litre of wine. Je me suis traversé d'un ———, I have drunk a litre of wine.

Kilo, m. (popular), litre of wine; false chignon. Déposer un ———, to ease oneself.

Klebjér (popular), to eat.

Kolback, m. (popular), small glass of brandy; a large glass of wine.

Koxnoff, adj. (popular), excellent.

Krak, m. (familiar), general collapse of financial firms in Austria some years ago.

Kroumir, m. (popular), rough fellow; dirty or "chatty" fellow.

L

La, m. (familiar), donner le —, to give the tone.

Labadens (theatrical), old school-fellow.

Depuis le vaudeville amusant de Labiche (l'affaire de la Rue de Lourcine) qui a mis ce terme à la mode, il a pris, avec le procès Bazaine, une valeur historique. Quand Régnier voulut en effet être mis en la présence du maréchal, il se fit annoncer ainsi: "Dites que c'est un vieux Labadens."—LORÉDAN LARCHEY.

Labago (thieves'), is equivalent to là-bas, yonder. Gaffine —, la riflette t'exhibe, look yonder, the spy has his eye on you.

Là-bas (prostitutes'), the Saint-Lazare prison, a place of confinement for prostitutes who offend against the law, or are detected plying their trade without due authorization of the police; (thieves') the convict settlement in New Caledonia or at Cayenne.

Laboratoire, m. (eating-house keepers'), the kitchen, a place where food is often prepared by truly chemical processes; hence the appellation.

L'absinthe ne vaut rien après dîner (printers'), words used ruefully by a typo to express his bitter disappointment at finding, on returning from dinner, that he has corrections of his own to attend to.

Dans cette locution, on joue sur "l'absinthe," considérée comme breuvage et comme plante. La plante possède une saveur "amère." Avec quelle "amertume" le compagnon restauré, bien dispos, se voit obligé de se "coller" sur le marbre pour faire un travail non payé, au moment où il se proposait de pomper avec acharnement. Déjà, comme Perrette, il avait escompté cet après-dîner productif.—BOUTMY.

Lac, m. (thieves'), être dans le —, to be very "hard up;" to be in a fix or in trouble, in a "hole." Mettre dans le —, to deceive, to make one fall into a trap. (Gamblers') Mettre dans le —, to lose all one's money, to have "blewed" it.

Au cercle, où la conversation vient de rouler sur la mort tragique du roi de Bavière, un ponte perd un louis au baccarat, en tirant à cinq:—allons, dit-il d'un air résigné, encore un louis dans le lac!—Le Voltaire, Juin, 1886.

In the above quotation an allusion is made to Louis, King of Bavaria, who committed suicide.

Lacets, m. pl. (thieves'), handcuffs, or "bracelets." Marchand or solliceur de —, gendarme.

Lâchage, m. (popular), the act of forsaking one.

Lâche, m. (popular), Saint —, lazy workman; one who likes to lounge about, who is “Mondayish.” Réciter la prière de Saint —, to sleep, or “to doss.”

Lâcher (popular), les écluses, son écureuil, or une naïade, to void urine, or “to pump ship.” Termed also “changer ses olives d’eau, lascailler, écluser, faire le petit, changer son poisson d’eau, faire pleurer son aveugle, lancer, quimper la lance, gâter de l’eau, arroser les pissenlits;” — une pastille, to break wind; (familiar and popular) — d’un cran, to leave one; to rid him of one’s presence; — la perche, to die; — les écluses, to weep, to blubber, “to nap a bib;” — le coude, to leave one alone.

Lâchez-nous donc le coude avec votre politique! cria le zingueur. Lisez les assassinats, c’est plus rigolo.
—ZOLA, L’Assommoir.

Lâcher le paquet, to disclose.

Et Madame Lerat, effrayée, répétant qu’elle n’était même plus tranquille pour elle, lâcha tout le paquet à son frère.—ZOLA, L’Assommoir.

Lâcher la mousseline, to snow.

Le ciel restait d’une vilaine couleur de plomb, et la neige, amassée là-haut, coiffait le quartier d’une calotte de glace.... Gervaise levait le nez en priant le bon Dieu de ne pas lâcher sa mousseline tout de suite.
—ZOLA, L’Assommoir.

Lâcher une femme, to break off one’s connection with a mistress, “to bury a moll;” — un cran, to undo a button or two after dinner. Se — d’une somme, to spend reluctantly a sum of money. (Theatrical) Lâcher la rampe, to die, see Pipe; (thieves’) — un pain, to give a blow, or “wipe.” (General) Se —, Rigaud says: “Produire en société un bruit trop personnel.”

Lacromuche, m. (popular), women’s bully, or “Sunday man.” For synonymous expressions see Poisson.

Lafarger (popular), to poison. An allusion to the celebrated Lafarge poisoning case.

Laffe, f. (thieves’), soup.

Lagad-ijen (Breton cant), five-franc piece.

Lago (thieves’), there. Gaffine — le pante se fait la débinette, look there, the “cove” is running away.

Lagout, m. (thieves’), water (“agout” with the article).

Laigne, f. (thieves’), fair; market. Michel says this word is no other than the adjective “alaigre,” of which the initial letter has disappeared.

Laine, f. (tailors’), work, “graft.” Avoir de la —, to have some work to do. (Thieves’) Tirer la —, was formerly the term for stealing cloaks from the person; hence the old expression tire-laine, thief who stole cloaks.

Lainé, m. (thieves’), sheep, or “wool-bird.”

Laisée, f. (thieves’ and roughs’), prostitute, or “bunter.” See Gadoue.

Laisser (familiar and popular), aller le chat au fromage (obsolete), is said of a girl who allows herself to be seduced, who loses her rose; — tomber son pain dans la sauce (obsolete), to manage matters so as to get profit out of some transaction; — ses bottes quelque part, to die. The expression is found in Le Roux’s Dict. Comique. Laisser fuir son tonneau, to die, “to kick the bucket.” See Pipe. Laisser pisser le mérinos, to wait for one’s opportunity. Synonymous of Laisser pisser le mouton, a proverbial saying.

A peine le couplet est-il chanté, au milieu des applaudissements payés, que Biétry ... salue ... tous les applaudisseurs ... il n’est pas le seul, ce soir-là, à boire du lait, comme on dit en style de théâtre.—Mémoires de Monsieur Claude.

Laius (familiar), speech, or discourse. Piquer un —, to make a speech.

Lambiasse, f. (popular), rags.

Lamine (thieves’), Le Mans, a town.

Lampagne du cam, f. (thieves’), country, or “drum.” It is the word “campagne” itself disguised in the following way. The first consonant is replaced by the letter l, and the word is followed by its first syllable preceded by “du” (Richepin). English thieves and gypsies have a similar mode of distorting words, termed gibberish; called also pedlar’s French, St. Giles’s Greek, and the Flash tongue. Gibberish means a kind of disguised language formed by inserting any consonant between each syllable of an English word, in which case it is called the gibberish of the letter inserted; if F, it is the F gibberish; if G, the G gibberish; as in the sentence, How do you do? Howg dog youg dog?

Lampas, m. (common), throat, or “red lane.”

Pour l’histoire de s’assurer de la qualité du liquide et s’arroser le lampas.—LADIMIR.

Lampe, f. (freemasons’), drinking-glass.

Lampie, f. (thieves'), meal. From lamper, to gulp down.

Lampion, m. (thieves'), hat; bottle; — rouge, police officer, “copper, or reeler.” For synonymous expressions see Pot-à-tabac.

Lampions, m. pl. (thieves'), eyes, or “glaziers,” see Mirettes; — fumeux, inflamed eyes. Des —! Des —! a call expressive of the impatience of a crowd, or rough elements of an audience, and made more forcible by stamping of feet.

Lance, f. (popular and thieves'), water, or “Adam’s ale;” rain, or “parney.”

C'est gagné! faites servir! six litres de vin! six litres sans lance!—Catéchisme Poissard.

This word is “ance” with the article. Michel says, “ance vient du terme de la vieille germania espagnole (Spanish cant) ansia, qui lui-même est une apocope d'angustia; en effet l'eau était un instrument de torture fort employé autrefois.” Il tombe de la —, it rains. Lance, broom; shoemaker's awl. Chevalier de la courte —, or de Saint-Crépin, shoemaker, or “snob.” Du chenu pivois sans —, good wine without water. Lance had formerly the same signification as Flageolet, which see.

Lancé, m. and adj. (popular), agile play of dancers' legs at dancing halls.

Paul a un coup de pied si vainqueur et Rigolette un si voluptueux saut de carpe! Les spectateurs s'intéressaient à cet assaut de lancé vigoureux.—VITU.

Lancequiner (popular), to rain; to weep; to void urine.

Lancer (thieves'), to void urine. See Lâcher. (Popular) Lancer son prospectus, to ogle.

Lanceur, m. (familiar), bon —, bookseller who is clever at making known to the public a new publication, “un étouffeur” being the reverse. (Police) Lanceur allumeur, a politician, generally a journalist, in the employ of the police of the Third Empire. His functions consisted in exciting people to rebellion either by inflammatory speeches at public meetings or by violent articles.

On appelle allumeurs, en termes de police, les agents provocateurs chargés de se mêler aux sociétés secrètes, aux manifestations populaires.... Les allumeurs furent créés sous l'empire; ils devinrent, sous la direction de M. Lagrange, la fleur du panier de la préfecture. Ce fonctionnaire fut lui-même ... avec un nommé P. le metteur en œuvre du complot de l'Opéra-Comique ... qui aboutit à cinquante-sept arrestations ... et finit par mettre sur la défensive tous les républicains.—Mémoires de Monsieur Claude.

Lanceuse, f. (familiar), superannuated cocotte who acts as the chaperone of a younger one.

Lancier, m. (thieves' and cads'), individual, or "cove."

Que'qu' j'y foudrai dans la trompette,
A c' lancier-là, s'il vient vivant?

RICHEPIN.

Lancier du préfet, street-sweeper in the employ of the municipal authorities.

Lanciers, m. pl. (popular), oui, les —! nonsense! "tell that to the marines!"
"how's your brother Job?" or "do you see any green in my eye?"

Landau à baleines, m. (popular), umbrella, "mush, or rain-napper."

Landernau, m. (familiar), name of a small town in Brittany. Il y aura du bruit dans —, is said of an insignificant event which will set going the tongues of people who have nothing else to do. The expression has passed into the language.

Landier, m. and adj. (thieves'), official of the octroi. The "octroi" is the office established at the gates of a town for the collection of a tax due for the introduction of certain articles of food or drink. (Thieves') Landier, white.

On sait que le Landit était une foire célèbre qui se tenait à Saint-Denis.—Michel.

Landreux, adj. (popular), invalid.

Langouste, f. (popular), simpleton, greenhorn, "flat."

Langue, f. (familiar), verte, slang of gamblers. Also slang. The expression is Delvau's. (Popular) Avaler sa —, to die, "to kick the bucket." See Pipe. Prendre sa — des dimanches, to use choice language. (Familiar and popular) Une — fourrée, lingua duplex, id est quum basiis lingua lingue promiscetur (RIGAUD).

Languineur, m. (popular), man whose functions are to examine the tongues of pigs at the slaughter-house to ascertain that they are not diseased.

Lansquiller (thieves'). See Lascailler.

Lansque (popular), abbreviation of lansquenet.

Lansquinage, m. (thieves'), weeping.

Lansquine, f. (thieves'), rain, or "parny."

Aussi il'en est qui quand la lansquine

Aussi j suis gai quand la lansquiere,
M'a trempé l'cuir, j' m'essuie l'échine
Dans l'vent qui passe et m'fait joli.

RICHEPIN.

Lansquiner (thieves' and cads'), to rain; — des chasses, to weep, “to nap a bib.”

Lanteoz (Breton cant), butter.

Lanterne, f. (popular), window, “jump.” Radouber la —, to talk, to tattle. The expression is old. Avoir la —, or se taper sur la —, to be hungry, “to be bandied, or to cry cupboard.” Vieille —, old prostitute. See Gadoue. (Popular) Lanternes de cabriolet, large goggle eyes.

Oh! c'est vrai! t'as les yeux comme les lanternes de ton cabriolet.—GAVARNI.

Lantimèche, m. (popular), lamp-lighter; also a word equivalent to “thingumbob.” Il a filé avec — pour mener les poules pisser, a derisive reply to one inquiring about the whereabouts of a person.

Lanturlu, m. (popular), madcap.

Laou Pharaou (Breton cant), body lice.

Lapin, m. (popular), apprentice. Des lapins, shoes, or “trotter-cases.” (Familiar and popular) Lapin, a clever or sturdy fellow.

Ah! tu es un lapin! ... lui disaient tous ceux qu'il abordait, il paraît que tu viens de faire une fameuse découverte! on parle de toi pour la croix!—E. GABORIAU, M. Lecoq.

Etre en —, to ride by the side of the coachman. Un — de gouttière, cat, or “long-tailed beggar.” Coller or poser un —, to deceive, to take in, “to bilk.” It is said the expression draws its origin from the practice of certain sportsmen who used to invite themselves to dinner at some friend's house in the country, and repaid their host by leaving a rabbit as a compensation. The Slang Dictionary says that when a person gets the worst of a bargain he is said “to have bought the rabbit,” from an old story about a man selling a cat to a foreigner for a rabbit. With reference to deceiving prostitutes the act is described in the English slang as “doing a bilk.”

Je vous demande pardon, mais le vocable est consacré. “Poser un lapin” fut longtemps une définition malséante, bannie des salons où l'on cause. Maintenant, elle est admise entre gens de bonne compagnie, et le lapin cesse, dans les mots, de braver l'honnêteté.—MAXIME BOUCHERON.

Un fameux, or rude —, a strong fearless man, one who is “spry.”

L'homme qui me rendra rêveuse pourra se vanter d'être un rude lapin.—GAVARNI.

Also a man who begets many children. Voler au —, or étouffer un —, is said of a bus conductor who swindles his employers by pocketing part of the fares. Mon vieux —! old fellow! “old cock!” (Thieves’) Lapin ferré, mounted gendarme. (Printers’) Manger un —, to attend a comrade’s funeral.

Cette locution vient sans doute de ce que, à l’issue de la cérémonie funèbre, les assistants se réunissaient autrefois dans quelque restaurant avoisinant le cimetière et, en guise de repas de funérailles, mangeaient un lapin plus ou moins authentique.—BOUTMY.

Concerning this expression, there is an anecdote of a typo who was lying in hospital at the point of death, and who informed his sorrowing friends that he would try and wait till the Friday morning, so that they might have all the Saturday and Sunday for the funeral feast.

Je tâcherai d’aller jusqu’à demain soir ... parceque les amis auraient ainsi samedi et dimanche pour boulotter mon “lapin.” Cela ne vaut-il pas le “plaudite!” de l’empereur Auguste, ou le “Baissez le rideau, la farce est jouée!” de notre vieux Rabelais?—BOUTMY.

(Familiar and popular) C’est le — qui a commencé is said ironically in allusion to a difference or fight between a strong man and a weak one, when the latter is worsted and blamed into the bargain. A cartoon of the late artist Gill, on the occasion of the assassination of Victor Noir by Pierre Bonaparte in the last days of the Third Empire, depicted the two principal actors in that mysterious affair under the features of a fierce bull-dog and a rabbit, with the saying, “C’est le lapin qui a commencé,” for a text line.

Lapiner (general), to cheat a prostitute by not paying her her dues.

Laqueuse, f. (familiar and popular), cocotte who walks in the vicinity of the lake at the Bois de Boulogne. See Gadoué.

Larantqué, m. (popular and thieves’), two-franc coin.

Larbin, m. (general), man-servant, footman, “flunkey,” or “bone-picker.”

Le savoureux Lebeau ... ancien valet de pied aux Tuileries, laissait voir le hideux larbin qu’il était, âpre au gain et à la curée.—A. DAUDET, Les Rois en Exil.

Larbine, f. (popular), maid-servant, “slavey.”

Larbinerie, f. (familiar), set of servants, “flunkeydom, or flunkeyism.”

Larcottier, m. (old cant), one who yields too often to the promptings of a well-developed bump of amativeness, a “beard-splitter.”

Lard, m. (popular), disreputable woman; mistress; skin, or body. Sauver son ——, to save one's "bacon." Perdre son ——, to become thin. Faire son ——, to put on a conceited look. (General) Faire du ——, to lie in bed of a morning. (Thieves') Manger du ——, to inform against, "to turn snitch."

Larda (Breton cant), to beat.

Lardé, m. (popular), un —— aux pommes, mess of potatoes and bacon.

Au prix où sont les lardés aux pommes aux trente-neuf marmites.—Tam-Tam du 6 Juin, 1880.

Lardée, f. (printers'), composition full of italics and roman.

Larder (obsolete), explained by quotation:—

Terme libre, qui signifie, faire le déduit, se divertir avec une femme.—LE ROUX, Dict. Comique.

(Popular and military) to pierce with a sword or knife. Se faire ——, to be stabbed or to receive a sword-thrust.

Lardives, f. pl. (prostitutes'), female companions of prostitutes.

Après tout, mes lardives ne valent pas mieux que moi et leurs megs valent le pante que j'ai lâché parcequ'il m'embêtait.—Mémoires de Monsieur Claude.

Lardoire, f. (popular), sword, or "toasting fork."

Large, adj. and m. (popular), il est ——, mais c'est des épaules is said ironically of a close-fisted man. N'en pas mener ——, to be ill at ease; crest-fallen. Envoyer quelqu'un au ——, to send one to the deuce.

Largonji, m. (thieves'), cant, slang. Properly the word jargon disguised by a process described under the heading Lampagne (which see).

Largue, f. (popular and thieves'), woman, "hay-bag, cooler, shakester, or laced mutton." Concerning the word Michel says: "Je crains bien qu'une pensée obscène n'ait présidé à la création de ce mot: ce qui me le fait soupçonner, c'est que je lis, p. 298 du livre d'Antoine Oudin, 'Loger au large, d'une femme qui a grand ... or, large se prononçait largue à l'italienne et à l'espagnole dès le xiv^e siècle.'"

Deux mots avaient suffi. Ces deux mots étaient: vos largues et votre aubert, vos femmes et votre argent, le résumé de toutes les affections vraies de l'homme.—BALZAC.

Largue, mistress, or "poll;" —— d'altèque, handsome woman, or "dimbermort;" —— en panne, forsaken woman, or a "moll that has been buried;" —— en vidange, female in childbed, or "in the straw." Balancer une ——, to forsake a mistress, "to bury a moll." (Sailors') Grand' ——, excellent, "out and out." C'est grand' —— et vrai marin, it is "out and out," and quite sailor-like.

Larguepé, f. (thieves'), prostitute, or thief's wife, "mollisher." See Gadoué. According to Michel this word is formed of largue, woman, and putain, whore.

Larme du compositeur, f. (printers'), comma.

Larnac, arnac, or arnache, m. (thieves'), police officer, "copper," or "reeler." Rouse à l'——, detective. For synonymous expressions see Vache.

Mannezingue, m. (popular), landlord of wine-shop. Termed also "mastroc, mastroquet."

Pas seulement une goutte de cric à mettre dans ma demi-tasse. La Martinet en a acheté, elle, pour quinze sous chez le mannezingue.—P. MAHALIN.

Mannezingueur, m. (popular), habitué of wine-shops.

Manon, f. (popular), mistress; sweetheart, or "young woman."

Manquant-sorti, m. (popular), one who cannot understand a joke.

Manque, f. (popular and thieves'), treachery.

Gaffré était comme la plupart des agents de police, sauf la manque (perfidie), bon enfant, mais un peu licheur, c'est à dire gourmand comme une chouette.—VIDOCQ.

A la —, to the left, from the Italian alla manca; damaged; ill; bad. Etre à la —, to betray; to leave one in the lurch; to be short of cash; to be absent. Affaire à la —, bad piece of business. Gonse à la —, man not to be relied upon, who will leave one in the lurch; traitor, or "snitcher." Fafiots, or fafelard à la —, forged bank-notes, or "queer soft." (Popular) Un canotier à la —, awkward rowing man. Termed also "cafouilleux."

Ecumeurs de calicot!—Ohé! les canotiers à la manque!—Viens que je te fasse avaler ta gaffe!—E. MONTEIL.

Une balle à la —, face of a one-eyed man.

Manquer le train, to lose one's opportunities in life, and consequently to be the reverse of prosperous.

A débute par un beau livre; B à vingt-cinq ans, expose un beau tableau... Les mille obstacles de la bohème leur barrent le chemin... Ils resteront intelligents, mais ... ils ont manqué le train.—TONY RÉVILLON.

Manquesse, f. (thieves'), bad character given to a prisoner on trial. Raffiler la —, to give a bad character.

Manuscrit belge, m. (printers'), printed copy to be composed. According to Eugène Boutmy the origin of the expression is to be found in the practice which existed formerly of entrusting Belgian compositors in Paris with printed copy only, and not manuscript, on account of their ignorance of the language.

Mappemonde, f. (popular), bosoms, “Charlies, or dairies.” Termed also “avant-scènes, œufs sur le plat, avant-postes,” &c.

Maqua, f. (familiar and popular), obsolete, mistress of a brothel.

Maquart, m. (popular), bidoche, or bifteck de —, horseflesh. From the name of a knacker.

Maque. See Mac.

Maquécée, f. (popular), mistress of a brothel. Called also “abbesse.”

Maquereutage. See Macrotage.

Maquereautin. See Macrotin.

Maqui, m. (popular and thieves’), paint for the face, or complexion powder, “slap, or splash.” Mettre du —, to paint one’s face. (Card-sharpers’) Mettre du —, to prepare cards for cheating, “to stock broads.”

Maquignon, m. (popular), kind of Jack of all trades, not honest ones. Properly horse-dealer; — à bidoche, woman’s bully, or “pensioner.” See Poisson.

Maquignonnage, m. (familiar and popular), cheating on the quality of goods; making a living on the earnings of prostitutes.

Maquignonnage, pour maquerillage, métier des maquereaux et des maquerelles, qui font négoce de filles de débauche.—CHOLIÈRES.

Maquignonnage, swindling operation. Properly horse-dealing.

Maquillage, m. (popular and thieves’), work, or “elbow-grease,” the act of doing anything, “faking,” (card-sharpers’) card playing, tampering with cards, or “stocking of broads,” (familiar) the act of painting one’s face.

Elles font une prodigieuse dépense de comestiques et de parfumeries. Presque toutes se fardent les joues et les lèvres avec une naïveté grossière. Quelques-unes se noircissent les sourcils et le bord des paupières avec le charbon d’une allumette à demi-brûlée. C’est ce qu’on appelle le “maquillage.”—LÉO TAXIL.

Maquillée, f. (familiar), harlot, or “mot.” Literally one with painted face.

Maquiller (thieves’), to do, “to fake,” — des caroubles, to manufacture false keys; — les brèmes, to tamper with cards, “to stock broads,” to play cards; to cheat at cards; — le papelard, to write, “to screeve,” — son truc, to prepare a dodge; — un suage, to make preparations for a murder. From faire suer, to murder; — une cambriole, to strip a room, “to do a crib.” The word “maquiller” has as many different meanings as the corresponding term “to fake.” (Popular) Maquiller, to do; to manage; to work; — le vitriol, to adulterate brandy.

Vieille drogue, tu as changé de litre!... Tu sais, ce n'est pas avec moi qu'il faut maquiller ton vitriol.
—ZOLA, L'Assommoir.

Maquilleur, m., maquilleuse, f. (thieves'), card-player; card-sharper, or "broadsman."

Maraille, f. (thieves'), people; world.

Marant, adj. (popular), laughable. Etre —, to be ridiculous.

Marcandier, m., marcandière, f. (thieves'), tradespeople; also a variety of the mendicant tribe, "cadger."

Marcandiers sont ceux qui bient avec une grande hane à leur costé, avec un assez chenastre frusquin, et un rabas sur les courbes, feignant d'avoir trouvé des sabrieux sur le trimard qui leur ont osté leur michon toutime.—Le Jargon de l'Argot. (Marcandiers are those who journey with a great purse by their side, with a pretty good coat, and a cloak on their shoulders, pretending they have met with robbers on the road who have stolen all their money.)

Marcassin, m. (popular), signboard painter's assistant. Properly a young wild boar.

Marchand, m. (familiar), de soupe, head of a boarding-school; (popular) — de larton, baker, "crumb and crust man, master of the rolls, or crummy." Termed also "marchand de bricheton, or lartonnier;" — d'eau chaude, "limonadier," or proprietor of a café; — d'eau de javelle, wine-shop landlord; — de cerises, clumsy horseman, one who rides as if he had a basket on his arm; — de morts subites, surgeon or quack, "crocus;" — de sommeil, lodging-house keeper, "boss of a dossing crib;" — de patience, man who, having secured a place in the long train of people waiting at the door of a theatre before the doors are opened, and known as "la queue," allows another to take it for a consideration.

Si l'attente est longue ... les places seront plus chères; et comme je l'ai entendu dire un jour à l'un de ces curieux gagne-petit: V'la le monde qui s'agace, chouette! Y aura gras pour les marchands de patience!
—RICHEPIN, Le Pavé.

Le gendarme a différents noms en argot: quand il poursuit le voleur, c'est un marchand de lacets; quand il l'escorte, c'est une hirondelle de la Grève; quand il le mène à l'échafaud, c'est le hussard de la guillotine.—BALZAC.

Un — de babillards, a bookseller, or an "et cetera." (Military) Marchand de morts subites, professional duellist, a "fire-eater;" — de puces, official who has charge of the garrison bedding. The allusion is obvious; (convicts') — de cirage, captain of a ship.

Est-ce que le marchand de cirage (elles appelaient ainsi le commandant), nous faisait peur?—HUMBERT, Mon Baigne.

(Journalists') Marchands de lignes, authors who write for the sake of gain more than to acquire literary reputation.

Je crois fermement que le jour où n'auraient plus accès à l'Académie certains hommes éminents qui ne font point de livres, elle tomberait, de bonne heure, au niveau de cette corporation de "marchands de lignes" qu'on nomme la Société des Gens de lettres.—A. DUBRUJEAUD.

Marchande, f. (popular), aux gosses, seller of toys; — de chair humaine, mistress of a brothel.

Marché des pieds humides, m. (familiar), la petite Bourse, or meeting of speculators after the Exchange has been closed. Takes place on the Boulevards.

Marchef, m. (military), abbreviation of maréchal-des-logis chef, quartermaster sergeant.

Marcher (popular), dans les souliers d'un mort, to inherit a man's property; — plan plan, to walk slowly; — sur une affaire, to make a mull of some business. (Printers') Marcher, to be of another's opinion. Qu'en pensez-vous? Je marche. What do you think of it? I am of your opinion. (Thieves') Marcher dessus, to prepare a robbery, or "lay a plant."

Marches du palais, f. pl. (popular), wrinkles on forehead.

Marcheuse, f. (theatrical), walking female supernumerary in a ballet.

La marcheuse est ou un rat d'une grande beauté que sa mère, fausse ou vraie, a vendue le jour où elle n'a pu devenir ni premier, ni second, ni troisième sujet de la danse.—BALZAC.

L'emploi des "marcheuses" n'existe pas dans le ballet, en Russie. Le personnel féminin est entièrement composé de sujets qui dansent ou miment, selon les exigences de la situation.—A. BIGUET, Le Radical, 18 Nov., 1886.

Leurs fonctions les plus ordinaires sont de rester à la porte, d'indiquer la maison, d'accompagner, de surveiller et de donner la main aux jeunes. On les désigne dans le public sous le nom de marcheuses.—LÉO TAXIL.

Marchis. See Marchef.

Mardi s'il fait chaud (popular), never (obsolete), at Doomsday, "when the devil is blind."

Marie-mange-mon-prêt, f. (military), mistress. Literally Mary spends my pay.

Marin, m. (popular), d’eau douce, one who sports a river-boat; — de la Vierge Marie, river or canal bargee.

Maringotte, f. (popular), mountebank’s show-waggon, or “slang.”

Mariol, mariolle, adj. and m. (popular and thieves’), cunning, “downy, or fly to wot’s wot.”

Mariolisme, m. (popular and thieves’), cunning.

Mariolle, m. and adj. (popular and thieves’), cunning, knowing man, a deep or artful one, “one who has been put up to the hour of day, who is fly to wot’s wot.” Termed also a “file,” originally a term for a pickpocket, when to file was to cheat and to rob.

C'est d'nature, on a ça dans l'sang:
J'suis paillasson! c'est pas d'ma faute,
Je m'fais pas plus marioll' qu'un aut'e:
Mon pèr' l'était; l'Emp'reur autant!

GILL, La Muse à Bibi.

Marionnette, f. (popular), soldier, or “grabby.”

Mari Robin (Breton cant), gendarmes.

Marlou, m. and adj. (general), prostitute's bully, “ponce, or pensioner.” See Poisson.

Les marlous qui soutiennent les filles en carte, les insoumises du trottoir et les femmes des maisons de bas étage, ne se contentent pas de rançonner ces malheureuses qu'ils appellent leur marmite, leur dabe; ils détoussent sans cesse les passants et assassinent pour s'entretenir la main.—LÉO TAXIL.

Marlou, cunning, “downy.”

La viscope en arrière et la trombine au vent
L'œil marlou, il entra chez le zingue.

RICHEPIN.

Marloupatte, or marloupin, m. (popular), prostitute's bully, or “petticoat's pensioner.”

Ce marloupatte pâle et mince
Se nommait simplement Navet;
Mais il vivait ainsi qu'un prince ...
Il aimait les femmes qu'on rince.

RICHEPIN.

Marloupin, m. (popular and thieves'), prostitute's male associate, “pensioner, petticoat's pensioner, Sunday man, prosser, or ponce.” See Poisson.

Quand on paie en monnai' d'singe
Nous aut' marloupins,
Les sal's michetons qu'a pas d'linge,
On les pass' chez paings.

RICHEPIN.

Marlousier. See Marloupin.

Marmier, m. (thieves'), shepherd.

Marmite, f. (bullies'), mistress of a bully. Literally flesh-pot. The allusion is obvious, as the bully lives on the earnings of his associate.

Un souteneur sans sa marmite (sa maîtresse) est un ouvrier sans travail, ... pour lui tout est là: fortune, bonheur, amour, si ce n'est pas profaner ce dernier mot que de lui donner une acception quelconque à l'égard du souteneur.—Mémoires de Canler.

Marmite de terre, prostitute who does not pay her bully; — de cuivre, one who brings in a good income; — de fer, one who only brings in a moderate one. (Military) La — est en deuil, the fare is scanty at present, that is, the flesh-pot is empty.

Marmiton de Domange, m. (popular), scavenger employed in emptying cesspools, or “gold-finder.” Domange was a great contractor in the employ of the city authorities.

Marmot, m. (thieves’), nourrir un —, to make preparations for a robbery, “to lay a plant.” Literally to feed, to nurse a child.

Marmottier, m. (popular), a native of Savoy. Literally one who goes about exhibiting a marmot.

Marmouse, f. (thieves’), beard.

Marmouset, m. (thieves’), flesh-pot. Le — riffode, the pot is boiling.

Marmousin, m. (popular), child, or “kid.”

Marmyon, m. (thieves’), flesh-pot, and figuratively purse.

Marne, f. (popular), faire la —, is said of prostitutes who prowl about the river-side.

Marner (popular), to steal, or “to nick.” See Grinchir. Marner, to work hard, “to sweat.”

Marneur, m. (popular), strong, active labourer.

Marneuse, f. (popular), prostitute of the lowest class who plies her trade by the river-side. See Gadoué.

Maron, or marron, adj. (thieves’), caught in the act.

Non, il n'est pas possible, disait l'un; pour prendre ainsi “marons” les voleurs, il faut qu'il s'entende avec eux.—VIDOCQ.

Maron, or muron, salt.

Maronner (thieves’), to fail. Une affaire maronnée, fruitless attempt at robbery.

Il y a du renaud à l'affaire de la chique, elle est maronnée, le dabe est revenu.—VIDOCQ. (There is some trouble about the job at the church, it has failed, father is returned.)

Marot, adj. (popular), cunning; “up to snuff, one who knows wot’s wot, one who has been put up to the hour of day, one who knows what’s o’clock, leary.”

Marottier, m. (thieves’), hawker, or “barrow-man;” pedlar travelling about the country selling stuffs, neckerchiefs, &c., to country people. Termed, in the English cant, a “dudder” or “dudsman.” “In selling a waistcoat-piece,” says the Slang Dictionary, “which cost him perhaps five shillings, for thirty shillings or two pounds, he would show great fear of the revenue officer, and beg the purchasing clodhopper to kneel down in a puddle of water, crook his arm, and swear that it might never become straight if he told an exciseman, or even his own wife. The term and practice are nearly obsolete. In Liverpool, however, and at the East-end of London, men dressed up as sailors, with pretended silk handkerchiefs and cigars, ‘only just smuggled from the Indies,’ are still to be plentifully found.”

Marpaut, or marpeau, m. (old cant), man; master of a house (obsolete).

Pour n’offenser point le marpaut,
Afin qu’il ne face deffaut
De foncer à l’appointement.

Le Pasquil de la rencontre des Cocus.

The word was formerly used by the Parisians with the signification of fool, greenhorn, loafer.

Marpaud. Mot de Paris, pour sot, niais, nigaut, badaud.—LE ROUX, Dict. Comique.

Again, Cotgrave renders it as an ill-favoured scrub, a little ugly, or swarthy wretch; also a lickorous or saucy fellow; one that catches at whatever dainties come in his way. Michel makes the remark that morpion (crab-louse, a popular injurious term) must be derived from marpaut.

Marquant, m. (thieves’), man; master; chief of a gang, or “dimber damber;” women’s bully, or “Sunday man,” see Poisson; drunkard, or one who gets “canon.”

Marque, f. (familiar), horizontale de grande —, very fashionable cocotte.
Horizontale de petite —, the ordinary sort of cocottes.

Décidément je ne sais quelle ardeur guerrière a soufflé sur nos horizontales de grande marque et de petite marque, mais depuis un mois nous avons à enregistrer un nouveau combat singulier dont elles sont les héroïnes.—Le Figaro, Oct., 1886.

(Thieves’) Marque, girl, or “titter;” woman, “laced mutton, hay-bag, cooler, shakester;” prostitute, or “bunter;” month, or “moon.” Il a été messiadien à six marques pour pégrasse, he has been sentenced to six months' imprisonment for theft. Six marques, six months, or "half a stretch." Une — de cé, a thief's wife. Termed, in old cant, "autem-mort;" autem, a church, and mort, woman. Marque franche, or marquise, a thief's female associate, or "mollisher." Concerning this expression, Michel says:—

On trouve dans l'ancienne germania espagnole "marca, marquida et marquisa" avec le sens de "femme publique."—Dict. d'Argot.

Quart de —, week. Tirer six marques, to be imprisoned for six months, "to do half a stretch, or a sixer."

Marqué, m. and adj. (thieves'), month, "moon." From the Italian marchese. Concerning this word, Michel says:—

Il ne saurait être douteux que ce nom ne soit venu à cette division de l'année, de l'infirmité périodique qu'ont les "marques" ou femmes, "lors que la Lune, pour tenir sa diette et vaquer à ses purifications menstruelles, fait marquer les logis féminins par son fourrier, lequel pour escusson n'a que son impression rouge."—Dict. d'Argot.

(Popular) Etre —, to have a black eye, or "mouse." (Printers') Marqué à la fesse, tiresome, over-particular man.

Marque-mal, m. (printers'), one who receives the folios from the printing machine; (popular) an ugly man, one with a "knocker face."

Marquer (popular), à la fourchette is said of a restaurant or coffee-house keeper who adds imaginary items to a bill; — le coup, to clink glasses when drinking. Bien —, to show a good appearance, marquer mal being the reverse. Ne plus —, is said of a woman who is past her prime; that is, who no longer has her menses. (Thieves') Marquer, to have the appearance of a man in good circumstances.

Marquin, m. (thieves'), hat or cap, "tile." See Tubard.

Marquis d'Argentcourt, m. (popular), or de la Bourse Plate, needy and vain-glorious man.

Marquise, f. (familiar), kind of mulled white claret; (thieves') wife, or "raclan."

Nouzailles pairons notre proie,
A ta marquise d'un baiser,
A toi d'un coup d'arpion au proye.

RICHEPIN.

Marraine, f. (thieves'), female witness.

Marre, f. (popular), amusement. Etre à la —, to be joyously inclined; to amuse oneself. J'en ai pris une —, I have enjoyed myself.

Marrer (popular), se —, to amuse oneself; to be amused. Pensez si je me marre? Mince! Don't I get amused, just!

Marron, or maron, adj. (popular), sculpté, grotesque, ugly face, or “knocker-head.” Cocher —, “cabby” without a licence. Etre —, to be taken in, “bamboozled.” (Military) Marron, report of an officer who goes the rounds; (printers’) clandestine print; also compositor working on his own account at a printer’s, who furnishes him with the necessary plant for a consideration. (Thieves’) Paumer or pommer —, to catch in the act, red-handed.

On la crible à la grive,
Je m’la donne et m’esquive,
Elle est pommée marron.

VIDOCQ.

Que je sois servie marron au premier messière que je grinchirai si je lui en ouvre simplement la bouche.
—VIDOCQ.

Marronner, or maronner (thieves’), un grinchissage, to make an unsuccessful attempt at a robbery through lack of skill or due precautions. Maronner, to suspect.

Je maronne que la roulotte de Pantin trime dans le sabri.—V. HUGO, Les Misérables. (I suspect that the Paris mail-coach is going through the wood.)

Marseillaise, f. (popular), short pipe, or “cutty,” called “dudeen” by the Irish. Avoir une — dans le kiosque, to be “cracked.” For synonyms see Avoir.

Enfin, pour sûr la politique lui aura tourné la tête! Il a une Marseillaise dans le kiosque.—Baumaine et Blondelet.

Marsouin, m. (popular), smuggler; (military) marine, or “jolly.” Literally porpoise.

Martin, m. (popular), fournir —, to wear furs. “Martin” is the equivalent of “Bruin.” Le mal Saint-Martin had formerly the signification of intoxication. An allusion to the sale of wine at fairs held on Saint Martin’s day.

Martinet, m. (thieves’), punishment irons used at the penal servitude settlements. Properly a cat-o’-nine tails.

Martingalier, m. (gamblers’), gamester who imagines he is master of an infallible process for winning.

C'est un martingalier. C'est un des abstracteurs de quintessence moderne, qui s'imaginent avoir trouvé la marche infaillible pour faire sauter les banques.—RICHEPIN.

Martyr, m. (military), corporal. Termed also “chien de l'escouade.”

Mascotte, f., gambler's fetish.

Masquer en alezan (horsedealers'), to paint a horse so as to deceive purchasers. Termed also “maquiller un gayet.” Among other dishonest practices, horsedealers play improper tricks with an animal to make him look lively: they “fig” him, the “fig” being a piece of wet ginger placed under a horse's tail for the purpose of making him appear lively, and enhance his price.

Massage, m. (popular), work, “graft,” or “elbow grease.”

Masse, f. (military), avoir la ——— complète, to possess a well-filled purse. La ——— noire, mysterious cash-box, supposed, by suspicious soldiers, to enclose the proceeds of unlawful profits made at the expense of the aforesaid by non-commissioned officers entrusted with the victualling or clothing department. (Thieves' and cads') Masse, work, “graft,” or “elbow grease.”

Masser (popular and thieves'), to work, “to graft.”

Tu sais, j'dis ça à ton copain,
Pa'c'que j'vois qu' c'est un gonc' qui boude,
Mais entre nous, mon vieux lapin,
J'ai jamais massé qu'à l'ver l'coude.

RICHEPIN.

Masseur, m. (popular), active workman.

Mastar au gras-double, f. (thieves'), faire la ———, or la faire au mastar, to steal lead off roofs, “to fly the blue pigeon.”

Mastaré, adj. (thieves'), leaden.

Mastaroufleur, m. (thieves'), one who steals lead, a “bluey cracker.”

Mastic, m. (freemasons'), bread or meat; (popular) deceit. Péter sur le ———, to forsake work. (Thieves') Mastic, man, or “cove;” (printers') long, entangled speech; (theatrical) painting and otherwise making-up one's face. Faire son ———, to paint one's face, “to stick slap on.”

C'est l'ensemble de ces travaux de badigeon qui constitue le mastic. Un mastic consciencieux exige près d'une heure de peine.—P. MAHALIN.

Mastiquer (popular), to cobble; (familiar and popular) to eat, “to grub,” “to yam.” It seems this latter term is connected with the word yam, the English name of the large edible tuber Dioscorea, a corruption of the name used in the West Indies at the time of the discovery, iniama or inhame. With regard to the expression the Slang Dictionary says:—“This word is used by the lowest class all over the world; by the Wapping sailor, West Indian negro, or Chinese coolie. When the fort called the ‘Dutch Folly,’ near Canton, was in course of erection by the Hollanders, under the pretence of being intended for an hospital, the Chinese observed a box containing muskets among the alleged hospital stores. ‘Hy-aw!’ exclaimed John Chinaman, ‘how can sick man yam gun?’ The Dutch were surprised and massacred the same night.” The synonyms for the term to eat, in the various kinds of French slang, are the following: “Tortiller du bec, becqueter, béquiller, chiquer, bouffer, boulotter, taper sur les vivres, pitancher, passer à la tortore, tortorer, se l’envoyer, casser la croustille, briffer, brouter, se caler, se calfater le bec, mettre de l’huile dans la lampe, se coller quelque chose dans le fanal, dans le fusil, or dans le tube, chamailler des dents, jouer des badigoinces, jouer des dominos, déchirer la cartouche, gobichonner, engouler, engueuler, friturer, gonfler, morfiaillier, cacher, se mettre quelque chose dans le cadavre, se lester la cale, se graisser les balots, se caresser l’Angoulême, friper, effacer, travailler pour M. Domange, clapoter, débrider la margoulette, croustiller, charger pour la Guadeloupe, travailler pour Jules, se faire le jabot, jouer des osanores.”

Mastiqueur, m. (popular), cobbler.

Mastroc, mastro, or mastroquet, m. (popular), landlord of wine-shop. Termed also “bistrot, troquet, mannezingue, empoisonneur.”

Tout récemment, j’étais à la Bourbe, allé voir
 Une fille, de qui chez un mastroc, un soir,
 J’avais fait connaissance.

GILL.

Mata, m. (printers’), abbreviation of matador, swaggerer, one who “bulldozes,” as the Americans say.

Matador, m. (popular), faire son —, to give oneself airs; to swagger, to look “botty.” From the Spanish matador, bull-killer.

Matagot, m. (obsolete), funny eccentric individual who amuses people by his antics. Rabelais used it with the signification of monkey, monk:—

Ci n’entrez pas, hypocrites, bigots,
 Vieux matagots, mariteux, boursoflé.

Gargantua.

Je ne suis pas de ces vieux frères premier brin
Qui devant qu’être nés parlaient jà mathurin,
Au ventre de leur mère apprenant ce langage,
Roulant à son roulis, tanguant à son tangage.

RICHEPIN.

Ces objets doivent leur nom d’argot à leur ressemblance avec le costume des Trinitaires, vulgairement appelés Mathurins, qui chez nous portaient une soutane de serge blanche, sur laquelle, quand ils sortaient, ils jetaient un manteau noir.—MICHEL.

Matignon, m. (thieves’), messenger.

Matois, or matouas, m. (thieves’), morning.

Le condé de Nanterre et un quart d’œil, suivis d’un trèpe de cuisiniers sont aboulés ce matois à la taule.

Mendigoter (popular), to beg.

Menée, f. (thieves'), dozen. Une — d'ornichons, a dozen chickens.

Mener (military), pisser quelqu'un, to compel one to fight a duel. (Popular) On ne le mène pas pisser, he has a will of his own, one can't do as one likes with him. N'en pas — large, to be ill at ease, or crestfallen, "glum."

Puis une fois la fumée dissipée, on verra une vingtaine d'assistants sur l'flanc, foudroyés du coup en n'en m'nant pas large.—TRUBLOT, Cri du Peuple.

(Thieves') Mener en bateau, to deceive, "to stick."

Ces patriarches, pères et fils de voleurs, ne restent pas moins fidèles à leur abominable lignée. Ils n'instruisent la préfecture que pour la mener en bateau.—Mémoires de Monsieur Claude.

Mener en bateau un pante pour le refaire, to deceive a man in order to rob him, "to bamboozle a jay and flap him."

Menêtre, f. (thieves'), soup.

Meneuse, f. (popular), woman who entices a passer-by to some back alley, where he is robbed, and sometimes murdered, by accomplices. Also woman whose calling is to take charge of babies, and take them to some country place, where they are left to the care of a wet nurse.

Mengin, or Mangin, m. (familiar), political or literary charlatan. From the name of a celebrated quack, a familiar figure of crossways and squares in Paris under the Third Empire. He was attired in showy costume of the Middle Ages, and sported a glistening helmet topped by enormous plumes. He sold pencils, drew people's caricatures at a moment's notice, and was attended by an assistant known under the name of Vert-de-gris.

Ménilmonte, or Ménilmuche (popular), Ménilmontant, formerly one of the suburbs of Paris. According to Zola, the word is curiously used in connection with the so-called sign of the cross of drunkards:—

Coupeau se leva pour faire le signe de croix des pochards. Sur la tête il prononça Montpernasse, à l'épaule droite Ménilmonte, à l'épaule gauche la Courtille, au milieu du ventre Bagnolet, et dans le creux de l'estomac trois fois Lapin sauté.—L'Assommoir.

Méruchée, f. (thieves’), stoveful.

Merveilleux, m. (familiar), dandy of 1833. See Gommeux.

A l’avant-scène se prélassait un jeune merveilleux agitant avec nonchalance un binocle d’or émaillé.
—TH. GAUTIER.

The Slang Dictionary includes the word “dandy” among slang expressions. It says: “Dandy, a fop, or fashionable nondescript. This word, in the sense of a fop, is of modern origin. Egan says it was first used in 1820, and Bee in 1816. Johnson does not mention it, although it is to be found in all late dictionaries. Dandies wore stays, studied a feminine style, and tried to undo their manhood by all manner of affectations which were not actually immoral. Lord Petersham headed them. At the present day dandies of this stamp have almost entirely disappeared, but the new school of muscular Christians is not altogether faultless. The feminine of dandy was dandizette, but the term only lived for a short season.”

Mésigo, mézière, mézigue, (thieves’), I, me, “dis child,” as the negroes say; — roulait le trimard, I was tramping along the road.

Messe, f. (popular), être à la —, to be late. Nous avons été à la — de cinq minutes, we were five minutes late. (Thieves’) La — du diable, examination of a prisoner by a magistrate, or trial, an ordeal the unpleasant nature of which is eloquently expressed by the words. Termed by English rogues “cross kidment.”

Messiadien, adj. and m. (thieves’), convicted, sentenced, “booked.” The epithet is applied to one who has been compelled to attend “la messe du diable,” with unpleasant consequences to himself. Il est — à six bergarès plombes, he is in for six years' prison, "put away" for "six stretches;" — pour pégrasse, convicted for stealing, "in for a vamp." Il fagaut ta magnette blague de maniagnère que tu n'es paga les pindesse dans le dintesse pour pégrasse, autrement tu es messiadien et tu laveragas tes pieds d'agnet dans le grand pré, which signifies, in the thieves' jargon of the day, You must take an alias, so that you may escape the clutches of the police; if not, you will be convicted and transported.

Messier, or messière, m. (thieves'), man; inhabitant. A form of mézière, a fool. Les messiers de cambrouse, the country folk, or "clods."

Messière, m. (thieves'), man; victim; — de la haute, well-to-do man, "nib cove, or gentry cove;" — franc, citizen; individual, or "cove."

Messire Luc, m. (familiar), breech, or "Nancy." See Vasistas.

Mesure, f. (popular), prendre la — des côtes, to thrash, "to wollop."

Méthode Chevè, f. (familiar and popular), playing billiards in an out-of-the-way fashion—with two cues, for instance, or by pushing the balls with the hand.

Métier, m. (artists'), skill in execution; clever touch. Avoir un — d'enfer, to paint with great manual skill.

Mètre, m. (familiar and popular), chevalier du —, shopman, "counter-jumper, or knight of the yard."

Metteux, m. (printers'), metteur en pages, or maker-up.

Mettre (general), au clou, to pawn, "to put in lug," or "to pop up the spout." An allusion to the spout up which the brokers send the ticketed articles until such time as they shall be redeemed. The spout runs from the ground-floor to the wareroom at the top of the house. English thieves term pawning one's clothes, "to sweat one's duds." Le —, is explained by the following:—

Mot libre, pour chevaucher, faire le déduit, se divertir avec une femme. Ce mot est équivoque et malicieux, car une personne laisse-t-elle tomber son busque ou son gant? On dit, Mademoiselle, voulez-vous que je vous le mette?—LE ROUX, Dict. Comique.

Termed, in the language of the Paris roughs, "mettre en prison." Mets ça dans ta poche et ton mouchoir par dessus, said of a blow or repartee, and equivalent to, take that and think over it, or digest it, or let it be a warning to you, "put that in your pipe and smoke it." Mettre à l'ombre, or dedans, to imprison, "to give the clinch." See Piper. Mettre à l'ombre signifies also to kill, "to cook one's goose;" — du pain dans le sac de quelqu'un, to beat one, or to kill him; — dans le mille, to be successful, to have a piece of good luck, or “regular crow;” to hit the right nail on the head.

D’abord en passant, faut y’ régler son affaire à mon aminche eul’ zig Gramont d’ l’Intransigeant, qu’a mis dans l’mille en disant qu’ eul’ Théâtre de Paris sera naturaliste ou qu’i ne sera pas.—TRUBLOT, Cri du Peuple.

Mettre quelqu’un dedans, to deceive, to cheat one, to outwit, “to take a rise out of a person.”

A metaphor from fly-fishing, the silly fish rising to be caught by an artificial fly.—Slang Dictionary.

Le — à quelqu’un, to deceive one, “to bamboozle” one.

Du reste, c’est un flanche, vous voulez me le mettre ... je la connais.—V. HUGO.

(Popular) Mettre la tête à la fenêtre, to be guillotined. See Fauché. Mettre une pousse, to strike, to thrash, “to wallop;” — à pied, to dismiss from one’s employment temporarily or permanently; — quelqu’un dans la pommade, to beat one at a game; — en bringue, to smash; — des gants sur ses salsifis, to put gloves on; — la table pour les asticots, to become food for the worms. See Pipe. Mettre sous presse, to pawn, to put “in lug.” Se — sur les fonts de baptême, to get involved in some difficulty, to be in a fix, in a “hole.” (Theatrical) Se — en rang d’oignons is said of actors who place themselves in a line in front of the foot-lights. Formerly mettre en rang d’oignons meant to admit one into a company on an equal standing with the others. (Thieves’) Mettre en dedans, to break open a door, “to strike a jigger;” — la pogne dessus, to steal, “to nim.” From the old English nim, to take, says the Slang Dictionary. Motherwell, the Scotch poet, thought the old word nim (to snatch or pick up) was derived from nam, nam, the tiny words or cries of an infant when eating anything which pleases its little palate. A negro proverb has the word:—

Buckra man nam crab,
Crab nam buckra man.

Or, in the buckra man’s language,

White man eat (for steal) the crab,
And then crab eat the white man.

Shakespeare evidently had the word nim in his head when he portrayed Nym. Mettre une gamelle, to escape from prison. Se — à table, to inform against one, “to blow the gaff,” “to nick.” See Grinchir.

En v’là un malheur si la daronne et les frangines allaient se mettre à table.—VIDOCQ. (That’s a misfortune if the mother and the sisters inform.)

Mon magistrat, ... nous nous sommes tirés pour faire la noce. Nous sommes en bombe! Nous n'avons plus de braise et nous venons nous rendre.—Un Flâneur.

Mettre sur la planche au pain, to put a prisoner on his trial, "in for patter;" (military) — le chien au cran de repos, to sleep; — le moine, to fasten a cord to a sleeping man's big toe, and to teaze him by occasionally jerking it; — les tripes au soleil, to kill.

A force d'entendre des phrases comme celles-ci: crever la paillasse, mettre les tripes au soleil, taillader les côtes, brûler les gueules, ouvrir la panse, je m'y étais habitué et j'avais fini par les trouver toutes naturelles.—H. FRANCE, L'Homme qui Tue.

(Bullies') Mettre un chamègue à l'alignement, to send a woman out to walk the streets as a prostitute.

Meuble, m. (popular), sorry-looking person.

Meubler (familiar), to pad.

Meudon, m. (thieves'), grand —, police, the "reelers."

Meulan. See Artie.

Meulard, m. (thieves'), calf. In old English cant "lowing cheat."

Meules de moulin, f. pl. (popular), teeth, or "grinders."

Meunier, m. (thieves'), receiver, or "fence." Porter au moulin is to take stolen property to the receiver, "to fence the swag."

Meurt-de-faim, m. (popular), penny loaf.

Mézière, adj., pron., and m. (thieves'), simple-minded, gullible. Etre —, to be a "cull or flat." The word, says Michel, derives its origin from the confidence-trick swindle, when one of the confederates who acts the part of a foreigner, and who pretends to speak bad French, addresses the pigeon as "mézière" instead of "monsieur."

Moi vouloir te faire de la peine! plutôt être gerbé à vioque (jugé à vie); faut être bien mézière (nigaud) pour le supposer.—VIDOCQ.

Mézière, I, me, myself. Le havre protège —, God protect me. Un —, a "flat," name given by thieves to their victims.

Depuis que nous nous sommes remis à escarper les mézières, il ne nous en est pas tombé sous la poigne un aussi chouette que celui-ci.—VIDOCQ. (Since we began again to kill the flats, we haven't had in our claws a single one as rich as that one.)

Mézigue, mézigo (thieves'), I, myself.

Auquel cas, c' serait pas long; mézigue sait c' qu'y lui rest'rait à faire.—TRUBLOT, Le Cri du Peuple.

Mib, or mibre, m. (street boys'), thing in which one excels; triumph. C'est mon —, that's just what I am a dab at. C'est ton —, you'll never do that; that beat's you hollow.

Michaud, m. (thieves'), head, or "tibby, nob, or knowledge box." Faire son —, to sleep, "to doss."

Miche, f. (popular and thieves'), lace, or "driz." An allusion to the holes in a loaf of white bread. Miche, or — de profonde, money. The term in this case exactly corresponds to the English "loaver."

Miché, m. (general), client of a prostitute. Literally one who has "michon," or money, who "forks out."

Les filles isolées, soit en carte, soit insoumises ... ont, par contre, le désagrément d'éprouver souvent certains déboires. Le client n'est pas toujours un "miché" consciencieux.—LÉO TAXIL.

Faire un —, to find a client, or "flat." Un — de carton, client who does not pay well, or who does not pay at all. Un — sérieux, one who pays.

Les femmes appellent "michés sérieux" les clients qui "montent" et "flanelles" ceux qui se contentent de "peloter" et de payer un petit verre.—LÉO TAXIL.

Concerning the language of such women Léo Taxil says:—"On a prétendu que toutes les prostituées de Paris avaient un argot ou un jargon qui leur était particulier ... ceci n'est pas exact ... nous avons vu qu'elles désignent le client sous le nom de 'miché,' le visiteur qui ne monte pas sous celui de 'flanelle.' Pour elles, les inspecteurs des mœurs sont des 'rails,' un commissaire de police un 'flique,' une jolie fille une 'gironde' ou une 'chouette,' une fille laide un 'roubiou,' etc. Ce sont là des expressions qui font partie du langage des souteneurs qui, eux, possèdent un véritable argot; elles en retiennent quelques mots et les mêlent à leur conversation. Quant aux prostituées qui s'entendent avec les voleurs et qui n'ont recours au libertinage que pour cacher leur réelle industrie, il n'est pas étonnant qu'elles aient adopté le jargon de leurs suppôts; mais on ne peut pas dire que ce langage soit celui des prostituées." (Popular) Miché, fool. From Michel. It is to be remarked, after Montaigne, that many names of men have been taken to signify the word fool; such are Grand Colas, Jean-Jean, and formerly Gautier, Blaise. (Photographers') Miché, client. (Familiar and popular) Un vieux —, an old beau.

Tel, au printemps, un vieux miché
Parade en galante toilette.

GILL.

Michel, m. (fishermen's), cassant ses œufs, thunder. (Military) Ça fait la rue —, it's the same for everybody.

Eh bien, si j'y coups pas, v'là tout, j'coucherai à la boîte comme les camarades, et ça fera la rue Michel.—G. COURTELINE.

Michelet, m. (popular), faire le —, to feel about in a crowd of women, not exactly with righteous intentions.

Michet, miché, or micheton, m. (popular), client of a prostitute.

Elles tourment la tête et jetant sur ce type,
Par dessus leur épaule, un regard curieux,
Songent: oh! si c'était un miché sérieux!

GILL.

Michon, m. (thieves'), money which procures a miche, or a loaf, "loaver." See Quibus.

C'est ce qui me fait ambier hors de cette vergne; car si je n'eusse eu du michon je fusse cône de faim.—
Le Jargon de l'Argot.

Foncer du —, to give money, "to grease the palm."

Midi! (popular), too late! Il est —, a warning to one to be on his guard; I don't take that in! "not for Joe!" Il est — sonné, it's not for you; it is impossible.

Faut pas te figurer comme ça qu' t'as l'droit de t'coller un bouc ... quand tu seras de la classe, comme me v'là, ça s'pourra; mais jusque-là c'est midi sonné.—G. COURTELINE.

Mie, f. (popular), de pain, louse, or "grey-backed 'un;" (printers') thing of little value, or "not worth a curse." Compositeur — de pain, an unskilled compositor, or clumsy "donkey."

Miel! (popular), euphemism for a coarser word, "go to pot!" "you be hanged!" C'est un —, is expressive of satisfaction, or is used ironically. Of a good thing they say: "C'est un miel!" On entering a close, stuffy place: "C'est un miel!" Of a desperate street fight: "C'est un miel!" "a rare spree!" "what a lark!" (DELVAU).

Miellé! adj. (popular), du sort, happy; fortunate in life.

Il n'était pas plus miellé du sort, il n'avait pas la vie plus en belle.—RICHEPIN, La Glu.

Mignard, m. (popular), term of endearment; child, or "kid."

Mignon, m. (thieves'), mistress, or "mollisher."

J'avais bonheur, argent, amour tranquille, les jours se suivent mais ne se ressemblent pas. Mon mignon connaissait l'anglais, l'allemand, très bien le français, l'auvergnat et l'argot.—From a thief's letter, quoted by L. Larchey.

(Popular and thieves') Mignon de port (obsolete), porter. Mignon had formerly the signification of foolish, ignorant.

Mignoter (popular), to fondle, “to forkytoodle.”

Mikel, m. (mountebanks'), dupe, or “gulpin.”

Milieu, m. (popular), breech, or “Nancy.”

Millards, m. pl. (old cant), in olden times a variety of the cadger tribe.

Millards sont ceux qui trolent sur leur andosse de gros gueulards; ils truchent plus aux champs qu'aux vergnes, et sont haïs des autres argotiers, parce qu'ils morfient ce qu'ils ont tout seuls.—Le Jargon de l'Argot. (The “millards” are those who carry a large bag on their back; they beg in the country in preference to the towns, and are hated by their brethren because they eat all alone what they get.)

Mille, m. and f. (familiar), mettre dans le —, to meet with a piece of good luck, or “regular crow;” to be successful. One often sees at fairs a kind of machine for testing physical strength. A pad is struck with the fist, and a needle marks the extent of the effort, “le mille” being the maximum. (Thieves') Mille, woman, or “burrick” (obsolete).

Mille-langues, m. (popular), talkative person; tatter.

Mille-pertuis, m. (thieves'), watering pot (obsolete).

Millerie, f. (thieves'), lottery. Thus termed on account of the thousands which every holder of a ticket hopes will be his.

Millet, millot, m. (popular), 1,000 franc bank-note. From mille.

Milliardaire, m. (familiar), very rich man, one who rolls on gold.

C'est de cette époque que date aujourd'hui sa fortune car il est aujourd'hui milliardaire.—A. SIRVEN.

Millour, m. (thieves'), rich man, “rag splawger” (obsolete). From the English my lord.

Milord, m. (familiar and popular), rich man; — l'Arsouille, nickname of Lord Seymour. See Arsouille.

Les Folies-Belleville ... où Milord l'Arsouille engueulait les malins, cassait la vaisselle et boxait les garçons.—P. MAHALIN.

Mince, m. and adv. (thieves'), note-paper; bank-note, or “soft.” (Popular) The word has many significations: it means, of course; certainly; much.

DOIS-tu comme waider,
Et comme la muscade,
Te donner mince d'air
Après ton escapade?

RAMINAGROBIS.

Mince! no; certainly not. It is sometimes expressive of disappointment or contempt. Tu n'as plus d'argent? ah! — alors, you have no money? hang it all then! Il a — la barbe, he is completely drunk. Pensez si je me marre, ah! —! don't I get amused, just! Aux plus rupins il disait —, even to the strongest he said, “you be hanged! “Mince de potin! a fine row! — de crampon! an awful bore! — que j'en ai de l'argent! haven't I money? of course I have! Ah! — alors! to the deuce, then! Mince de chic, glass of beer. The ejaculation mince! in some cases may find an equivalent in the English word rather! an exclamation strongly affirmative. It is also used as an euphemism for an obscene word.

Et moi sauciss', j'su quand j'turbine.
Mais, bon sang! la danse s'débine
Dans l'coulant d'air qui boit ma sueur.
Eux aut's, c'est pompé par leur linge.
Minc' qu'ils doiv' emboucanner l'singe.
Vrai, c'est pas l'linge qui fait l'bonheur.

RICHEPIN.

Mine, f. (popular), à poivre, low brandy shop.

Lui était un bon, un chouette, un d'attaque. Ah! zut! le singe pouvait se fouiller, il ne retournait pas à la boîte, il avait la flemme. Et il proposait aux deux camarades d'aller au Petit bonhomme qui tousse, une mine à poivre de la barrière Saint-Denis, où l'on buvait du chien tout pur.—ZOLA, L'Assommoir.

Une — à chier dessus, ugly face, “knocker face.”

Qu'est-ce qu'il vient nous em ... ieller, celui-là, avec sa mine à chier dessus.—RIGAUD.

Minerve, f. (printers'), small printing machine worked with the foot.

Minerviste, m. (printers'), one who works the Minerve (which see).

Mineur, m. (thieves'), Manceau, or native of Le Mans.

Minik (Breton cant), small.

Ministre (military), sumpter mule; (peasants') ass, “moke,” or mule.

Minois, m. (thieves'), nose, or “conk” (obsolete).

Minotaure, m. (familiar), deceived husband, “stag face.” The expression is Balzac's.

Je serais le dernier de M. Paul de Kock; minotaure, comme dit M. de Balzac.—TH. GAUTIER.

Minotauriser quelqu'un (familiar), to seduce one's wife. An allusion to the horns of the Minotaur.

Quand une femme est inconséquente, le mari, serait, selon moi, minotaurisé—BALZAC.

Minson (Breton cant), bad; badly.

Minsoner (Breton cant), mean.

Mintzingue, m. (popular), landlord of wine-shop.

Mais sapristi, jugez d' mon embargo,
Depuis ce temps elle est toujours pompette,
Et chez l' mintzingue ell' croque le magot.

Almanach Chantant, 1869.

Minuit, m. (thieves'), negro. Termed also, in different kinds of slang, "Bamboula, boule de neige, boîte à cirage, bille de pot-au-feu, mal blanchi," and in the English slang, "snowball, Sambo, bit o' ebony, blacky." Enfant de — meant formerly thief. Enfants de la messe de minuit, says Cotgrave, "quiresters of midnights masse; night-walking rakehells, or such as haunt these nightly rites, not for any devotion, but only to rob, abuse, or play the knaves with others."

Minzingue, or minzingo, m. (popular), landlord of tavern. Termed also manzinguin, mindzingue.

La philosophie, vil mindzingue, quand ça ne servirait qu'à trouver ton vin bon.—GRÉVIN.

Mion, m. (thieves'), child, or "kid;" — de gonesse, stripling; — de boule, thief, "prig." See Grinche.

Mipe, m. (thieves'), faire un — à quelqu'un, to outdrink one.

Miradou, m. (thieves'), mirror.

Mirancu, m. (obsolete), apothecary.

Respect au capitaine Mirancu! Qu'il aille se coucher ailleurs, car s'il s'avisait de jouer de la seringue, nous n'avons pas de canesons pour l'en empêcher.—L'Apothicaire empoisonné, 1671.

Mirancu, a play on the words mire en cul, which may be better explained in Béralde's words, in Molière's Le Malade Imaginaire:—

Allez, monsieur; on voit bien que vous n'avez pas accoutumé de parler à des visages.

Mirecourt, m. (thieves'), violin. The town of Mirecourt is celebrated for its manufactures of stringed instruments. Rigaud says that it is thus termed from a play on the words mire court, look on from a short distance, the head of the performer being bent over the instrument, thus bringing his eyes close to it.

Mire-laid, m. (popular), mirror. An expression which cannot be gratifying to those too fond of admiring their own countenances in the glass.

Mirettes, f. pl. (popular and thieves'), eyes, "peepers, ogles, top-lights, or day-lights." Fielding uses the latter slang term:—

Good woman! I do not use to be so treated. If the lady says such another word to me, damn me, I will darken her day-lights.—FIELDING, Amelia.

In old cant eyes were termed “glaziers.”

Tourez out with your glaziers, I swear by the ruffin,
That we are assaulted by a queer cuffin.

BROOME, A Jovial Crew.

Which means look out with all your eyes, I swear by the devil a magistrate is coming. Mirettes en caoutchouc, or en caouche, telescope; — glacées, or en glacis, spectacles, or “gig-lamps.” Sans —, blind, or “hoodman.”

Mireur, m. (popular), one who looks on intently; spy; person employed in the immense underground store cellars of the Halles to inspect provisions by candle-light.

Deux cents becs de gaz éclairent ces caves gigantesques, où l’on rencontre diverses industries spéciales. ... Les “mireurs,” qui passent à la chandelle une délicate révision des sujets. Les “préparateurs de fromages” qui font “jaunir” le chester, “pleurer” le gruyère, “couler” le brie ou “piquer” le roquefort.—E. FRÉBAULT.

Mirliflore, m. (familiar), a dandy of the beginning of the present century. For synonyms see Gommeux. The term has now passed into the language with the signification of silly conceited dandy or fop.

Nos mirliflors
Vaudroient-ils cet homme à ressorts?
Chansons de Collé.

Concerning the derivation of this word Littré makes the following remarks: “Il y avait dans l’ancien français mirlifique, altération de mirifique; on peut penser que mirliflore est une altération analogue où flor ou fleur remplace fique: qui est comme une fleur merveilleuse. Francisque Michel y voit une altération de mille-fleurs, dénomination prise des bouquets dont se paraient les élégants du temps passé.” It is more probable, however, that the term is connected with eau de mille-fleurs, an elixir of all flowers, a mixed perfume, and this origin seems to be borne out by the circumstance that after the Revolution of 1793 dandies received the name of “muscadins,” from musc, or musk, their favourite perfume. Workmen sometimes call a dandy “un puant.” See this word.

Mirliton, m. (popular), nose, or “smeller.” For synonyms see Morviau. Also voice. Avoir le — bouché, to have a bad cold in the head. Jouer du —, to talk, “to jaw;” to blow one’s nose. Mirliton properly signifies a kind of reed-pipe.

Mirobolamment (familiar and popular), marvellously, “stunningly.”

Mirobolant, adj. (familiar and popular), excellent, “slap-up, or scrumptious;” marvellous, “crushing.”

Eh! c’est la bande! c’est la fameuse, la superbe, l’invincible, à jamais triomphante, séduisante et mirobolante bande du Jura.—Bande du Jura. Madame de Gasparin.

“Mirobolant” is a corruption of admirable. Another instance of this kind of slang formation is “abalobé,” from abalourdi.

Miroir, m. (card-sharpers’), a rapid glance cast on the stock of a game of piquet, or on the first cards dealt at the game of baccarat. A tricky “dodge” which enables the cheat to gain a knowledge of his opponent’s hand. (Popular) Un — à putains, synonymous of bellâtre, a handsome but vulgar man, one likely to find favour with the frail sisterhood. Rigaud says: “Miroir à putains, joli visage d’homme à la manière des têtes exposées à la vitrine des coiffeurs.” The phrase is old.

Dis-lui qu’un miroir à putain
Pour dompter le Pays Latin
Est un fort mauvais personnage.
SCARRON.

Fielding thus expatiates on the readiness of women to look with more favour on a handsome face than on an intellectual one:—

How we must lament that disposition in these lovely creatures which leads them to prefer in their favour those individuals of the other sex who do not seem intended by nature as so great a masterpiece!... If this be true, how melancholy must be the consideration that any single beau, especially if he have but half a yard of ribbon in his hat, shall weigh heavier in the scale of female affection than twenty Sir Isaac Newtons!—Mr. Jonathan Wild the Great.

Mirquin, m. (thieves’), woman’s cap.

Mirzales, f. pl. (thieves’), earrings.

Mise, f. (prostitutes’), faire sa —, to pay a prostitute her fee, or “present.” (Popular) Mise à pied, temporary or permanent dismissal from one’s employment, the “sack.”

Mise-bas, f. (popular) strike of work; (servants’) cast-off clothes which servants consider as their perquisites.

Miser (gamesters’), to stake.

Et si je gagne ce soir cinq à six mille francs au lansquenet, qu’est-ce que soixante-dix mille francs de perte pour avoir de quoi miser?—BALZAC.

Misérable, m. (popular), one halfpenny glass of spirits, “un monsieur” being one that will cost four sous, and “un poisson” five sous.

Misloque, or mislocq, f. (thieves’), theatre; play. Flancher, or jouer la —, to act.

Ah! ce que je veux faire, je veux jouer la mislocq.—VIDOCQ.

Misloquier, m., misloquière, f. (thieves’), actor, “cackling cove,” or “mug faker,” and actress.

Mississippi, m. (popular), au —, very far away.

Miston (thieves’). See Allumer. (Popular) Mon —, my boy, “my bloater.”

Mistouf, or mistouffle, f. (popular), practical joke; scurvy trick. Faire une — à quelqu’un, to pain, to annoy one.

Vous lui aurez fait quelque mistouf, vous l’aurez menacée de quelque punition, et alors.—A. CIM, Institution de Demoiselles.

Coup de —, scurvy trick brewing. Faire des mistouffles, to teaze, “to spur,” to annoy one. (Thieves’) Mistouffle à la saignante, trap laid for the purpose of murdering one.

Voilà trop longtemps ... que le vieux me la fait au porte-monnaie. Il me faut son sac. Mais ... pas de mistouffle à la saignante, je n’aime pas ça. Du barbotage tant qu’on voudra.—Mémoires de Monsieur Claude.

Mistron, m. (popular), a game of cards called “trente et un.”

Mistronneur, m. (popular), amateur of “mistron” (which see).

Mitaine, f. (thieves’), grinchisseuse à la —, female thief who causes some property, lace generally, to fall from a shop counter, and by certain motions of her foot conveys it to her shoe, where it remains secreted.

Mitard, m. (police), unruly prisoner confined in a punishment cell.

Mite-au-logis, f. (popular), disease of the eyes. A play on the words mite and mythologie.

Miteux, adj. (familiar and popular), is said of one poorly clad, of a wretched-looking person.

Quand nous arrivâmes à la posada, on ne voulut pas nous recevoir, l'aubergiste nous trouvant, comme disait La Martinière mon compagnon de route, trop "miteux."—HECTOR FRANCE, A travers l'Espagne.

Mitraille, f. (general), pence, coppers. The expression is old. This term seems to be derived from the word "mite," copper coin worth four "oboles," used in Flanders.

Mitrailleuse, f. (popular), étouffer une —, to drink a glass of wine. Synonymous of "boire un canon."

Mitre, f. (thieves'), prison, or "stir. See Motte. Meant formerly itch, the word being derived from the name of a certain ointment termed "mithridate."

Mobilier, m. (thieves'), teeth, or "ivories." Literally furniture.

Moblot, m. (familiar), used for Mobile in 1870. "La garde mobile" at the beginning of the war formed the reserve corps.

Mocassin, m. (popular), shoe. See Ripaton.

Moc-aux-beaux (thieves'), quarter of La Place Maubert.

Moche, or mouche, adj. (popular and thieves'), bad.

Mode, f. (swindlers'), concierge à la —, a doorkeeper who is an accomplice of a gang of swindlers termed Bande noire (which see).

La "bande noire" était—et est encore, car le dixième à peine des membres sont arrêtés—une formidable association, ayant pour spécialité d'exploiter le commerce des vins de Paris, de la Bourgogne et du Bordelais.... Pour chaque affaire, le courtier recevait dix francs. Le concierge, désigné sous le nom bizarre de concierge à la mode, n'était pas moins bien rétribué. Il touchait dix francs également.—Le Voltaire, 6 Août, 1886.

Modèle, m. (familiar), grandfather or grandmother.

Moderne, m. (familiar), young man of the "period," in opposition to antique, old-fashioned.

Modillon, f. (modistes'), a second year apprentice at a modiste's.

Modiste, m. (literary), formerly a journalist who sought more to pander to the tastes of the day than to acquire any literary reputation.

Moelleux, m. (popular), cotton, which is soft.

Moelonneuse, f. (popular), prostitute who frequents builders' yards. See Gadoue.

Moignons, m. pl. (popular), thick clumsy ankles. The Slang Dictionary says a girl with thick ankles is called a “Mullingar heifer” by the Irish. A story goes that a traveller passing through Mullingar was so struck with this local peculiarity in the women, that he determined to accost the next one he met. “May I ask,” said he, “if you wear hay in your shoes?” “Faith, an’ I do,” said the girl, “and what then?” “Because,” said the traveller, “that accounts for the calves of your legs coming down to feed on it.”

Moine, m. (familiar), earthen jar filled with hot water, which does duty for a warming pan; (printers’) spot on a forme which has not been touched by the roller, and which in consequence forms a blank on the printed leaf. Termed “friar” by English printers. (Popular) Mettre le —, to fasten a string to a sleeping man’s big toe. By jerking the string now and then the sleeper’s slumbers are disturbed and great amusement afforded to the authors of the contrivance. This sort of practical joking seems to be in favour in barrack-rooms. Donner, or bailler le —, was synonymous of mettre le —, and, used as a proverbial expression, meant to bear ill luck.

Moine-lai, m. (popular), old military pensioner who has become an imbecile.

Moinette, f. (thieves’), nun, moine being a monk.

Moïse, m. (familiar and popular), man deceived by his wife. The term is old, for, says Le Roux, “Moïse, mot satirique, qui signifie cocu, homme à qui on a planté des cornes.”

Moitié, f. (popular), tu n’es pas la — d’une bête, you are no fool.

Oui, t’es pas la moitié d’une bête. Là-dessus aboule tes quatre ronds.—G. COURTELINE.

Molanche, f. (thieves’), wool. From mol, soft.

Molard, m. (familiar and popular), expectoration, or “gob.”

Molarder (familiar and popular), to expectorate.

Molière, m. (theatrical), scenery which may be used for the performance of any play of Molière.

Molle, adj. (popular and thieves’), être —, to be penniless, alluding to an empty pocket, which is flabby; “to be hard up.”

Mollet, m. (popular). M. Charles Nisard, in his Parisianismes Populaires, says of the word, “Gras de la partie postérieure de la jambe” (the proper meaning), and he adds, “Partie molle de diverses autres choses.”

Vous ne cachez pas tous vos mollets dans vos bas: c'est comme la barque d'Anières, ça n'sart plus qu'à passer l'iau.—Le Déjeuner de la Rapée.

Following the adage, “Le latin dans les mots brave l'honnêteté,” M. Nisard gives the following explanation of the above:—“Hæc sunt verba cujusdam petulantis mulierculæ ad quemdam jam senescentem virum, convalescentem e morbo, et carnale opus adhuc penes se esse male jactantem. In eo enim Thrasone mulieroso pars ista corporis quam proprie vocant ‘Mollet,’ non solum in tibialibus ejus inclusa erat, sed et in bracis, ubi, mutata ex toto forma, nil valebat nisi, scaphæ Asnieræ instar, ‘à passer l'eau,’ id est, ad meiendum. Sed, animadvertas, oro, sensum locutionis ‘passer l'eau’ æquivocum; hic enim unda transitur, illic eadem transit.”

Mollusque, m. (familiar), narrow-minded man; routine-loving man; huître being a common term for a fool.

Momaque, m. (thieves’), child, or “kid.”

Momard, or momignard, m. (popular), child, or “kid.”

Môme, m. and f. (popular and thieves’), child, or “kid.”

Ces mômes corrompus, ces avortons flétris,
Cette écume d'égoût c'est la levure immonde,
De ce grand pain vivant qui s'appelle Paris,
Et qui sert de brioche au monde.

RICHEPIN.

Môme noir, student at a priest's seminary. Thus termed on account of their clerical attire. Called also by thieves, “Canneur du mec des mecs,” afraid of God. Une —, young woman, “titter.”

Va, la môme, et n'fais pas four.

RICHEPIN.

Une —, or mômeresse, mistress, “blowen.” C'est ma —, elle est ronflante ce soir, It is my girl, she has money to-night. Un — d'altèque, handsome young man. Taper un —, to commit a theft; to commit infanticide.

Car elle est en prison pour un môme qu'elle a tapé.—From a thief's letter, quoted by L. Larchey.

Madame Tire-mômes, midwife. Termed in the seventeenth century, “madame du guichet, or portière du petit guichet.” (Convicts') Môme bastaud, convict who is a Sodomist, a kind of male prostitute.

Mômeuse, f. See Mômière.

Momicharde, f. (popular), little girl.

Envoie les petites ... qu'elles aboutent, les momichardes!—LOUISE MICHEL.

Mômière, f. (thieves'), midwife. Termed also “Madame Tire-mômes, Madame Tire-monde, or tête-minette.”

Momignard, m. (popular and thieves'), child, or “kid;” baby; — d'altèque, a fine child.

Frangine d'altèque, je mets l'arguemine à la barbue, pour te bonnir que ma largue aboute de mômir un momignard d'altèque.—VIDOCQ. (My good sister, I take the pen to say that my wife has just given birth to a fine child.)

Momignardage à l'anglaise, m. (popular), miscarriage.

Momignarde, f. (popular and thieves'), little girl; young girl, “titter.”

Mes momignardes ... allons, c'est dit, on rebâtira le sinve. Il faut espérer que la daronne du grand Aure nous protégera.—VIDOCQ. (My little girls ... come, it's settled, the fool shall be killed. Let us hope the Holy Virgin will protect us.)

Mômir (popular and thieves'), to be delivered of a child, “to be in the straw.”

The Slang Dictionary says: “Married ladies are said to be in the straw at their accouchement.” The phrase is a coarse metaphor, and has reference to farmyard animals in a similar condition. It may have originally been suggested to the inquiring mind by the Nativity. Mômir pour l'aff, to have a miscarriage. Termed also “casser son œuf, décarrer de crac.”

Monacos, m. pl. (familiar and popular), money. See Quibus.

Je vais te prouver à toi et à ta grue, ... que je suis encore bonne pour gagner des monacos. Et allez-y! —HECTOR FRANCE, Marie Queue-de-Vache.

Avoir des —, to be wealthy. Termed also “être foncé, être sacquard, or douillard; avoir le sac, de l'os, des sous, du foin dans ses bottes, de quoi, des pépettes, or de la thune; être californien.” The English synonyms being “to be worth a plum, to be well ballasted, to be a rag-splawger, to have lots of tin, to have feathered one's nest, to be warm, to be comfortable.” Aboutier les —, to pay, “to fork out, to shell out, to down with the dust, to post the pony, to stump the pewter, to tip the brads.”

Monant, m., monante, f. (thieves'), friend.

Monarque, m. (popular), five-franc piece. Termed also “roue de derrière,” the nearly corresponding coin, a crown piece, being called in English slang a “hind coach wheel.” (Prostitutes') Monarque, money. Faire son —, to have found clients.

Monde, m. (popular), renversé, guillotine. See Voyante. Il y a du — au balcon is said of a woman with large breasts, of one with opulent “Charlies.” (Familiar) Demi —, world of cocottes, kept women.

Dans ce qu'on appelle le demi-monde il y a nombre de filles en carte, véritables chevaliers d'industrie de la jeunesse et de l'amour qui, bien en règle avec la préfecture, mènent joyeuse vie pendant quinze ans et éludent constamment la police correctionnelle.—LÉO TAXIL.

(Showmen's) Du —, public who enter the show. There may be a large concourse of people outside, but no “monde.”

Monfier (thieves'), to kiss.

Mon gniasse (popular and thieves'), me, “my nibs.”

Mon linge est lavé (popular), I give in, “I throw up the sponge.”

Monnaie, f. (popular), plus que ça de —! what luck!

Mon œil! (popular), expressive of refusal or disbelief, “don't you wish you may get it?” or “do you see any green in my eye?” See Nèfles.

Monseigneur, m. (thieves'), or pince —, short crowbar with which housebreakers force open doors or safes. Termed “Jemmy, James, or the stick.”

Ils font sauter gâches et serrures ... avec une espèce de pied de biche en fer qu'ils appellent cadet, monseigneur, ou plume.—CANLER.

Monseigneuriser (thieves'), to force open a door, “to strike a jigger.”

Monsieur, m. (artists'), le —, the principal figure in a picture. (Popular) Un —, a twopenny glass of brandy; a five-sous glass of wine from the bottle at a wine retailer's; — Vautour, or Père Vautour, the landlord; also an usurer.

Vous accorder un nouveau délai pour le capital? ... mais depuis trois ans ... vous n'avez pas seulement pu rattraper les intérêts.—Ah! père Vautour, ça court si vite vos intérêts!—GAVARNI.

Monsieur à tubard, a well-dressed man, one who sports a silk hat; — bambou, a stick, a gentleman whose services are sometimes put in requisition by drunken workmen as an irresistible argument to meet the remonstrances of an unfortunate better half, as in the case of Martine and Sganarelle in Molière's Le Médecin malgré lui; — Lebon, a good sort of man, that is, one who readily treats others to drink; — de Pètesec, stuck-up man, with dry, sharp manner; — hardi, the wind; — Raidillon, or Pointu, proud, stuck-up man; (thieves') — de l'Affure, one who wins money at a game honestly or not; — de la Paume, he who loses; (theatrical) — Dufour est dans la salle, expression used by an actor to warn another that he is not acting up to the mark and that he will get himself hissed, or "get the big bird." (Familiar and popular) Un — à rouflaquettes, prostitutes bully, or "pensioner." For list of synonyms see Poisson. Monsieur de Paris, the executioner. Formerly each large town had its own executioner: Monsieur de Rouen, Monsieur de Lyon, &c. Concerning the office Balzac says:—

Les Sanson, bourreaux à Rouen pendant deux siècles, avant d'être revêtus de la première charge du royaume, exécutaient de père en fils les arrêts de la justice depuis le treizième siècle. Il est peu de familles qui puissent offrir l'exemple d'un office ou d'une noblesse conservée de père en fils pendant six siècles.

Monsieur personne, a nobody. (Brothels') Monsieur, husband of the mistress of a brothel.

Monsieur, avec son épaisse barbiche aux poils tors et gris.—E. DE GONCOURT, La Fille Elisa.

(Cads') Monsieur le carreau dans l'œil, derisive epithet applied to a man with an eye-glass; — bas-du-cul, man with short legs.

Monstre, m., any words which a musician temporarily adapts to a musical production composed by him.

Monstrico, m. (familiar), ugly person, one with a "knocker face."

Montage de coup, m. (popular), the act of seeking to deceive by misleading statements.

Mon vieux, entre nous,
Te n'coup' pas du tout
Dans c'montage de coup;
Faut pas m'monter l'coup.

AUG. HARDY.

Montagnard, m. (popular), additional horse put on to an omnibus going up hill.

Montagne du géant, f. (obsolete), gallows, "scrag, nobbing cheat, or government signpost."

Montant, m. and adj. (thieves'), breeches, "trucks, hams, sit-upons, or kicks."

Montante, f. (thieves'), ladder. Literally a thing to climb up.

Monte-à-regret (thieves'), abbaye de —, the guillotine. Formerly the gallows. This name was given the scaffold because criminals were attended there by one or more priests, and on account of the natural repugnance of a man for this mode of being put out of his misery. Michel records the fact, that at Sens, one of the streets leading to the market-place, where executions took place, still bore, a few years ago, the name of Monte-à-regret. Chanoine de —, one sentenced to death. Termed also “grognon,” or grumbler. Monter à l’abbaye de —, to be guillotined, meant formerly to be hanged, to suffer the extreme penalty of the law on “wry-neck day,” when the criminal before being compelled to put on the “hempen cravat,” would perhaps utter for the edification of the crowd his “tops, or croaks,” that is, his last dying speech. It is curious to note how people of all nations have always striven to disguise the idea of death by the rope by means of some picturesque or grimly comical circumlocution. The popular language is rich in metaphors to describe the act. In the thirteenth century people would express hanging by the term “mettre à la bise;” in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries an executed criminal was spoken of as “vendangeant à l’eschelle, avoir collet rouge, croître d’un demi-pied, faire la longue lettre, tomber du haut mal,” and later on: “Servir de bouchon, faire le saut, faire un saut sur rien, donner un soufflet à une potence, donner le moine par le cou, approcher du ciel à reculons, danser un branle en l’air, avoir la chanterelle au cou, faire le guet à Montfaucon, faire le guet au clair de la lune à la cour des monnoyes.” Also, “monter à la jambe en l’air.” Then a hanged man was “un évêque des champs” (on account of executions taking place in the open country) “qui bénit des pieds,” and hanging itself, “une danse où il n’y a pas de plancher,” which corresponds to the expression, “to dance upon nothing.” The poor wretch was also said to be “branché,” a summary proceeding performed on the nearest tree, and he was made to “tirer la langue d’un demi-pied.” The poet François Villon being in the prison of the Châtelet in 1457, under sentence of death for a robbery supposed to have been committed at Rueil by himself and some companions, several of whom were hanged, but whose fate he luckily did not share, thus alludes with grim humour to his probable execution:—

Je suis François, dont ce me poise,
 Né de Paris emprès Ponthoise,
 Or, d’une corde d’une toise,
 Saura mon col que mon cul poise.

When Jonathan Wild the Great is about to expiate his numerous crimes, and his career is soon to be terminated at Tyburn, Fielding makes him say: “D—n me, it is only a dance without music; ... a man can die but once.... Zounds!

Who's afraid?" Master Charley Bates, in common with his "pals," called hanging "scragging":—

"He'll come to be scragged, won't he?" "I don't know what that means," replied Oliver. "Something in this way, old feller," said Charley. As he said it, Master Bates caught up an end of his neckerchief, and holding it erect in the air, dropped his head on his shoulder, and jerked a curious sound through his teeth; thereby intimating, by a lively pantomimic representation, that "scragging" and hanging were one and the same thing.—DICKENS, Oliver Twist.

The expression is also to be met with in Lord Lytton's Paul Clifford:—

"Blow me tight, but that cove is a queer one! and if he does not come to be scragged," says I, "it will only be because he'll turn a rusty, and scrag one of his pals!"

Again, the same author puts in the mouth of his hero, Paul Clifford, the accomplished robber, the "Captain Crank," or chief of a gang of highwaymen, a poetical simile, "to leap from a leafless tree":—

Oh! there never was life like the Robber's—so
Jolly, and bold, and free;
And its end—why, a cheer from the crowd below
And a leap from a leafless tree!

Penny-a-liners nowadays describe the executed felon as “taking a leap into eternity;” facetious people say that he dies in a “horse’s nightcap,” i.e., a halter, and the vulgar simply declare that he is “stretched.” The dangerous classes, to express that one is being operated upon by Jack Ketch, use the term “to be scragged,” already mentioned, or “to be topped;” and “may I be topped!” is an ejaculation often heard from the mouths of London roughs. Formerly, when the place for execution was at Tyburn, near the N. E. corner of Hyde Park, at the angle formed by the Edgware Road and the top of Oxford Street, the criminal brought here was said to put on the “Tyburn tippet,” i.e., Jack Ketch’s rope. The Latins used to describe one hanged as making the letter I with his body, or the long letter. In Plautus old Staphyla says: “The best thing for me to do, is with the help of a halter, to make with my body the long letter.” Modern Italians say of a man about to be executed, that he is sent to Picardy, “mandato in Picardia.” They also use other circumlocutions, “andare a Longone,” “andare a Fuligno,” “dar de’ calci al vento,” “ballar in campo azzurro.” Again, the Italian “truccante” (thief), in his “lingue furbesche” (cant of thieves), says of a criminal who ascends the scaffold, the “sperlunga, or faticosa” (gallows), with the “margherita, or signora” (rope) adjusted on his “guindo” (neck) by the “cataron” (executioner), that he may be considered as “aver la fune al guindo.” The Spanish “azor” (thief, in Germania, or Spanish cant), under sentence of a “tristeza” (sentence of death), when about to be executed left the “angustia” (prison) to go to the gallows, or “balanza,” which is now a thing of the past, having been superseded by the hideous “garote.” The German “broschem-blatter” (thief, in “rothwelsch,” or German cant), when sentenced to death was doomed to the “dolm,” or “nelle,” on which he was ushered out of this world by the “caffler” (German Jack Ketch).

Monter (popular), d’un cran, to obtain an appointment superior to that one possesses already; to be promoted; — à l’arbre, or à l’échelle, to be fooled. Alluding to a bear at the Zoological Gardens being induced to climb the pole by the prospect of some dainty bit which is not thrown to him after all. Also to get angry, “to get one’s monkey up;” — en graine, to grow old. Literally to run to seed; — des couleurs, le Job, or un schtosse, to deceive one by false representations, “to bamboozle;” — une gamme, to scold, “to bully-rag;” — un coup, to find a pretext; to lay a trap for one.

C'est des daims huppés qui veulent monter un coup à un ennemi.—E. SUE.

Monter le coup, or un battage, to deceive one by misleading statements. Ça ne prend pas, tu ne me monteras pas le coup, “No go,” I am aware of your practices and “twig” your manœuvre, or “don't come the old soldier over me.” Faire —— à l'échelle, to make one angry, “to make one lose his shirt.” Se —— le bourrichon, or le baluchon, to fly into a passion about some alleged injustice. Also to be too sanguine, to form illusions about one's abilities, or about the success of some project.

Oh! je ne me monte pas le bourrichon, je sais que je ne ferai pas de vieux os.—ZOLA, L'Assommoir.

Se —— le coup, se —— le verre en fleurs, to form illusions. Essayer de —— un bateau à quelqu'un, to seek to deceive one, “to come the old soldier” over one. (Thieves') Monter un arcat, to swindle, “to bite;” —— un gandin, to deceive, “to stick, or to best;” —— un chopin, to make all necessary preparations for a robbery, “to lay a plant;” —— à la butte, to be guillotined.

Un jour, j'ai pris mon surin pour le refroidir. Après tout, mon rêve c'est de monter à la butte.—Mémoires de Monsieur Claude.

Monter sur la table, to make a clean breast of it; to inform against one, “to blow the gaff.” It also means to tell a secret, “to split.”

While his man being caught in some fact
(The particular crime I've forgotten),
When he came to be hanged for the act,
Split, and told the whole story to Cotton.
Ingoldsby Legends.

(Theatrical) Monter une partie, to get together a small number of actors to give out of Paris one or two performances; (military) —— en ballon, practical joke at the expense of a new-comer. During the night, to both ends of the bed of the victim are fixed two running nooses, the ropes being attached high up on a partition by the side of the bed. At a given signal the ropes being pulled, the occupant of the bed finds himself lifted in the air, with his couch upside down occasionally.

Monteur, m. (theatrical), de partie, an actor whose spécialité is to get together a few brother actors for the purpose of performing out of town; (popular) —— de coups, or de godans, swindler; one who is fond of hoaxing people; one who imposes on others, “humbug.” Concerning the latter term the Slang Dictionary says: “A very expressive but slang word, synonymous at one time with hum and haw. Lexicographers for a long time objected to the adoption of this term. Richardson uses it frequently to express the meaning of other words, but, strange to say, omits it in the alphabetical arrangement as unworthy of recognition! In the first edition of this work, 1785 was given as the earliest date at which the word could be found in a printed book. Since then 'humbug' has been traced half a century further back, on the title-page of a singular old jest-book, 'The Universal Jester, or a pocket companion for the Wits: being a choice collection of merry conceits, facetious drolleries, &c., clenchers, closers, closures, bon-mots, and humbugs, by Ferdinando Killigrew.' London, about 1735–40. The notorious orator Henley was known to the mob as Orator Humbug. The fact may be learned from an illustration in that exceedingly curious little collection of caricatures published in 1757, many of which were sketched by Lord Bolingbroke, Horace Walpole filling in the names and explanations. Haliwell describes humbug as 'a person who hums,' and cites Dean Milles's MS., which was written about 1760. In the last century the game now known as double-dummy was termed humbug. Lookup, a notorious gambler, was struck down by apoplexy when playing at this game. On the circumstance being reported to Foote, the wit said, 'Ah, I always thought he would be humbugged out of the world at last!' It has been stated that the word is a corruption of Hamburg, from which town so many false bulletins and reports came during the war in the last century. 'Oh, that is Hamburg (or Humbug),' was the answer to any fresh piece of news which smacked of improbability. Grose mentions it in his Dictionary, 1785; and in a little printed squib, published in 1808, entitled Bath Characters, by T. Goosequill, humbug is thus mentioned in a comical couplet on the title-page:—

Wee Thre Bath Deities bee
Humbug, Follie, and Varietee.

Gradually from this time the word began to assume a place in periodical literature, and in novels written by not over-precise authors. In the preface to a flat, and most likely unprofitable poem, entitled The Reign of Humbug, a Satire, 8vo, 1836, the author thus apologizes for the use of the word: 'I have used the term humbug to designate this principle (wretched sophistry of life generally), considering that it is now adopted into our language as much as the words dunce, jockey, cheat, swindler, &c., which were formerly only colloquial terms.' A correspondent, who in a number of Adversaria ingeniously traced bombast to the inflated Doctor Paracelsus Bombast, considers that humbug may, in like manner, be derived from Homberg, the distinguished chemist of the Court of the Duke of Orleans, who, according to the following passage from Bishop Berkeley's Siris, was an ardent and successful seeker after the philosopher's stone:—

Of this there cannot be a better proof than the experiment of Monsieur Homberg, who made gold of mercury by introducing light into its pores, but at such trouble and expense that, I suppose, nobody will try the experiment for profit. By this injunction of light and mercury, both bodies became finer, and produced a third different to either, to wit, real gold. For the truth of which fact I refer to the memoirs of the French Academy of Sciences.—BERKELEY, Works.”

The Supplementary English Glossary gives the word “humbugs” as the North-country term for certain lumps of toffy, well flavoured with peppermint. (Roughs’) Monter à cheval, to be suffering from a tumour in the groin, a consequence of venereal disease, and termed poulain, foal, hence the jeu de mots; (wine retailers’) — sur le tonneau, to add water to a cask of wine, “to christen” it. Adding too much water to an alcoholic liquor is termed by lovers of the “tipple” in its pure state, “to drown the miller.”

Monteur de coups, m. (popular), story-teller; cheat.

Monteuse de coups, f. (popular), deceitful woman; one who “bamboozles” her lover or lovers.

Montparno (thieves’), Montparnasse. See Ménilmonte.

J’ai flasqué du poivre à la rousse.
Elle ira de turne en garno,
De Ménilmuche à Montparno,
Sans pouvoir remoucher mon gniasse.
RICHEPIN.

Montrer (theatrical), la couture de ses bas, to break off a stage engagement by the simple process of leaving the theatre; (familiar and popular) — toute sa boutique, to expose one’s person.

Ah! non ... remettez votre camisole. Vous savez, je n’aime pas les indécentes. Pendant que vous y êtes, montrez toute votre boutique.—ZOLA.

Montre-tout, m. (popular), short jacket. Termed also “ne te gêne pas dans le parc.” (Prostitutes’) Aller à —, to go to the medical examination, a periodical and compulsory one, for registered prostitutes, those who shirk it being sent to the prison of Saint-Lazare.

Monu, m. (cads’), one-sou cigar.

Monument, m. (popular), tall hat, or “stove-pipe.”

Monzu, or mouzu, m. (old cant), woman’s breasts. Termed, in other varieties of jargon, “avant-postes, avant-scènes, œufs sur le plat, oranges sur l’étagère,” and in the English slang, “dairies, bubbies, or Charlies.”

Morasse, f. (printers’), proof taken before the forme is finally arranged; —

final proof of a newspaper article. Also workman who remains to correct such a proof, or the time employed in the work. (Thieves') Morasse, uneasiness; remorse. Battre —, to make a hue and cry, "to romboyle," in old cant, or "to whiddle beef."

Morassier, m. (printers'), one who prints off the last proof of a newspaper article.

Morbaque, m. (popular), disagreeable child. See Morbec.

Morbec, m. (popular), a variety of vermin which clings tenaciously to certain parts of the human body.

Morceau, m. (freemasons'), d'architecture, speech; (popular) — de gruyère, pockmarked face, "cribbage-face;" — de salé, fat woman. Un —, a slatternly girl. (Thieves') Manger le —, to peach, "to blow the gaff."

Le morceau tu ne mangeras
De crainte de tomber au plan.

Mordante, f. (thieves'), file; saw. The allusion is obvious.

Mordre (popular), se faire —, to be reprimanded, "to get a wiggling;" to get thrashed, or "wolloped."

Moresque, f. (thieves'), danger.

Morfe, f. (thieves'), meal; victuals, or "toke."

Veux-tu venir prendre de la morfe et piausser avec mézière en une des pioles que tu m'as rouscaillée?—
Le Jargon de l'Argot.

Morfiente, f. (thieves'), plate.

Morfigner, morfiler (thieves'), to do; to eat. From the old word morfier. Rabelais uses the word morfialler with the signification of to eat, to gorge oneself.

La, la, la, c'est morfiallé cela.—RABELAIS, Gargantua.

Morfiler, or morfiller (thieves'), to eat, "to yam."

Un vieux fagot qui s'était fait raille pour morfiller.—VIDOCQ. (An old convict who had turned spy to get a living.)

Termed also morfier. Compare with morfire, or morfizzare, to eat, in the lingue furbesche, or Italian cant. Se —— le dardant, to fret. Dardant, heart.

Morgane, f. (old cant), salt.

C'est des oranges, si tu demandais du sel ... de la morgane! mon fils, ça coûte pas cher.—VIDOCQ. (Here are some potatoes; just you ask for salt, my boy; it's cheap enough.)

Morganer (roughs' and thieves'), to bite. Morgane le gonse et chair dure! Bite the cove! pitch into him!

Moricaud, m. (thieves'), coal; wine-dealer's wooden pitcher.

Mori-larve, f. (thieves'), sunburnt face.

Morlingue, m. (thieves'), money; purse, "skin." Faire le ——, to steal a purse, "to fake a skin."

Mornante, f. (thieves'), sheepfold. From morne, sheep.

Morne, f. and adj. (thieves'), sheep, or "wool-bird." Termed "bleating cheat" by English vagabonds. Courbe de ——, shoulder of mutton. Morne, stupid; stupid man, "go along."

Mornée, f. (thieves'), mouthful.

Mornier, morneux, or marmier, m. (thieves'), shepherd.

Morniffer (popular), to slap one's face, "to fetch a bang," or "to give a biff," as the Americans have it. Termed to give a "clo," at Winchester School.

Mornifle, f. (thieves'), money, or "blunt."

When the slow coach paused, and the gemmen storm'd,
I bore the brunt—
And the only sound which my grave lips form'd
Was "blunt"—still "blunt!"
LORD LYTTON, Paul Clifford.

Mornifle tarte, spurious coin, or "queer bit." Refiler de la —— tarte, to pass off bad coin; to be a "snide pitcher, or smasher." Properly mornifle has the signification of cuff on the face.

Mornifleur tarte, m. (thieves'), coiner, or "queer-bit faker."

Morningue, or morlingue, m. (thieves'), money, or "pieces;" purse. Faire le ——, to pick a pocket. In the old English cant "to fang" a pocket.

O shame o' justice! Wild is hang'd,
For thatten he a pocket fang'd,
While safe old Hubert, and his gang,
Doth pocket of the nation fang.

FIELDING, J. Wild.

Termed in modern English cant “to fake a cly,” a pickpocket being called, according to Lord Lytton, a “buzz gloak”:—

The “eminent hand” ended with—“He who surreptitiously accumulates bustle, is, in fact, nothing better than a buzz gloak.—Paul Clifford.

Porte —, purse, “skin, or poge.”

Mornos, m. (thieves’), mouth, “bone-box, or muns.” Probably from morne, mutton, the mouth’s most important function being to receive food.

Morpion, m. (popular), strong expression of contempt; despicable man, or “snot.” Literally crab-louse. Also a bore, one who clings to you as the vermin alluded to.

Morpionner (popular), is said of a bore that you cannot get rid of.

Morse (Breton cant), barley bread.

Mort, f. and adj. (popular), marchand de — subite, physician, “pill.”

C’est bien sûr le médecin en chef ... tous les marchands de mort subite vous ont de ces regards-là.
—ZOLA.

Lampe à —, confirmed drunkard whose thirst cannot be slaked. (Familiar and popular) Un corps —, an empty bottle. The English say, when a bottle has been emptied, “Take away this bottle; it has ‘Moll Thompson’s’ mark on it,” that is, it is M. T. An empty bottle is also termed a “marine, or marine recruit.” “This expression having once been used in the presence of an officer of Marines,” says the Slang Dictionary, “he was at first inclined to take it as an insult, until someone adroitly appeased his wrath by remarking that no offence could be meant, as all that it could possibly imply was: one who had done his duty, and was ready to do it again.” (Popular) Eau de —, brandy. See Tord-boyaux. (Thieves’) Etre —, to be sentenced, “booked.” Hirondelle de la —, gendarme on duty at executions. (Military school of Saint-Cyr) Se faire porter élève-mort is to get placed on the sick list. (Gamesters’) Mort, stakes which have been increased by a cheat, who slyly lays additional money the moment the game is in his favour.

Morte paye sur mer, f. (thieves’), the hulks (obsolete).

Morue, f. (popular), dirty, disgusting woman.

Vous voyez, Françoise, ce panier de fraises qu'on vous fait trois francs; j'en offre un franc, moi, et la marchande m'appelle ... Oui, madame, elle vous appelle ... morue!—GAVARNI.

Also prostitute. See Gadoué. Grande ——— dessalée, expression of the utmost contempt applied to a woman. Pedlars formerly termed “morue,” manuscripts, for the printing of which they formed an association, “clubbed” together.

Morviau, m. (popular), nose. Termed also “pif, bourbon, piton, pivase, bouteille, caillou, trompe, truffe, tubercule, trompette, nazareth;” and, in English slang, “conk, boko, nob, snorter, handle, post-horn, and smeller.” Lécher le ———, to kiss. The expression is old.

Lécher le morveau, manière de parler ironique, qui signifie caresser une femme, la courtiser, la servir, faire l'amour. Dit de même que lécher le grouin, baiser, être assidu et attaché à une personne.—LE ROUX, Dict. Comique.

The term “snorter” of the English jargon has the corresponding equivalent “soffiante” in Italian cant.

Morviot, m. (popular), secretion from the mucous membrane of the nose, “snot.”

Dans les veines d'ces estropiés,
Au lieu d'sang il coul' du morviot.
Ils ont des guiboll's comm' leur stick,
Trop d'bidoche autour des boyaux,
Et l'arpion plus mou qu' du mastic.

RICHEPIN.

Morviot, term of contempt, not quite so forcible as the English expression “snot,” which has the signification of contemptible individual. Petit ———, little scamp.

Moscou, m. (military), faire brûler ———, to mix a vast bowl of punch. Alluding to the burning down of Moscow by the Russians themselves in 1812.

Mossieu à tubard, m. (popular), well-dressed man, a “swell cove.” Tubard is a silk hat.

Mot, m. (popular), casser un ———, to have a chat, or “chin music.”

Motte, f. (general), pudenda mulierum. Termed also “chat,” and formerly by the poets “le verger de Cypris.” Le Roux, concerning the expression, says:—

La motte de la nature d'une femme, c'est proprement le petit bois touffu qui garnit le penil d'une femme.—Dict. Comique.

Formerly the false hair for those parts was termed in English “merkin.”

(Thieves') Motte, central prison, or house of correction. Dégringoler de la —, to come from such a place of confinement. The synonyms of prison in different varieties of slang are: "castue, caruche, hôpital, mitre, chetard or jetard, collège, grosse boîte, l'ours, le violon, le bloc, boîte aux cailloux, tuneçon, austo, mazaro, lycée, château, lazaro." In the English lingo: "stir, clinch, bastille, steel, sturrabin, jigger, Irish theatre, stone-jug, mill," the last-named being an abbreviation of treadmill, and signifying by analogy prison. The word is mentioned by Dickens:—

"Was you never on the mill?" "What mill," inquired Oliver. "What mill? why the mill,—the mill as takes up so little room that it'll work inside a stone-jug.—Oliver Twist."

In Yorkshire a prison goes by the appellation of "Toll-shop," as shown by this verse of a song popular at fairs in the East Riding:—

But if ivver he get out agean,
And can but raise a frind,
Oh! the divel may tak' toll-shop,
At Beverley town end!

This "toll-shop" is but a variation of the Scottish "tolbooth." The general term "quod" to denote a prison originates from the universities. Quod is really a shortening of quadrangle; so to be quodded is to be within four walls (Slang Dict.).

Motus dans l'entrepont! (sailors'), silence! "put a clapper to your mug," or "mum's the word."

Mou, m. (popular), avoir le — enflé, to be pregnant, or "lumpy."

Mouchailler (popular and thieves'), to scan, "to stag;" to look at, "to pipe;" to see.

J'itre mouchaillé le babillard ... je n'y itre mouchaillé floutière de vain.—Le Jargon de l'Argot.

Mouchard, m. (popular), portrait hung in a room; (popular and thieves') — à becs, lamp-post, the inconvenient luminary being compared to a spy. Mouchard, properly spy, one who goes busily about like a fly. It formerly had the signification of dandy.

A la fin du xvii^e siècle, on donnait encore ce nom aux petits-mâîtres qui fréquentaient les Tuileries pour voir autant que pour être vus; C'est sur ce fameux théâtre des Tuileries, dit un écrivain de l'époque, qu'une beauté naissante fait sa première entrée au monde. Bientôt les "mouchars" de la grande allée sont en campagne au bruit d'un visage nouveau; chacun court en repaître ses yeux.—MICHEL.

Moucharde, f. (thieves'), moon, "parish lantern, or Oliver."

Mais déjà la patrarque,

Au clair de la moucharde,
Nous reluque de loin.
VIDOCQ.

La — se débine, the moon disappears, “Oliver is sleepy.”

Mouche, f., adj., and verb (general), police, or police officer; detective. Compare with the “mücke,” or spy, of German cant; (thieves’) muslin; (students’) — à miel, candidate to the Ecole Centrale des Arts et Manufactures, a great engineering school. Alluding to the bee embroidered in gold on their caps. (Popular) Mouche, bad, or “snide;” ugly; stupid. C’est bon pour qui qu’est —, it is only fit for “flats.” Mouche, weak.

Il a reparu, l’ami soleil. Bravo! encore bien débile, bien pâlot, bien “mouche,” dirait Gavroche.
—RICHEPIN.

Non, c’est q’ j’ me —, ironical negative expression meant to be strongly affirmative. Synonymous of “non, c’est q’ je tousse!” Vous n’avez rien fait? Non, c’est q’ j’ me —, you did nothing? oh! didn’t I, just!

Moucher (popular), le quinquet, to kill, “to do” for one; to strike, to give a “wipe.”

Allons, mouche-lui le quinquet, ça l’esbrouffera.—TH. GAUTIER.

Moucher la chandelle, to give oneself up to solitary practices; to act according to the principles of Malthus with a view of not begetting children. For further explanation the reader may be referred to a work entitled The Fruits of Philosophy; — sa chandelle, to die, “to snuff it.” For synonyms see Pipe. Se — dans ses doigts (obsolete), to be clever, resolute. Se faire — le quinquet, to get one’s head punched. (Gamesters’) Se —, is said of attendants who, while pretending to make use of their handkerchiefs, purloin a coin or two from the gaming-table. It is said of such an attendant, who on the sly abstracts a gold piece from the stakes laid out on the table, il s’est “mouché” d’un louis.

Moucheron, m. (popular), waiter at a wine-shop; child, or “kid.”

Mouches, f. pl. (popular), d’hiver, snow-flakes. Tuer les —, to emit a bad smell, capable of killing even flies. Termed also tuer les — à quinze pas. (Theatrical) Envoyer des coups de pied aux —, to lead a disorderly life.

Mouchettes, f. pl. (popular), pocket-handkerchief, “snottinger, or wipe.” Termed “madam, or stook,” by English thieves. Des —! equivalent to du flan! des navets! des nèfles, &c., forcible expression of refusal; may be rendered by “Don’t you wish you may get it!” or, as the Americans say, “Yes, in a horn.”

Moucheur de chandelles, m. (popular). See Moucher.

Mouchique, adj. (popular and thieves'), base, worthless, bad, "snide."

C'était un' tonn' pas mouchique,
C'était un girond tonneau,
L'anderlique, l'anderlique,
L'anderliqu' de Landerneau!

GILL.

The English cant has the old word "queer," signifying base, roguish, or worthless—the opposite of "rum," which signified good and genuine. "Queer, in all probability," says the Slang Dictionary, "is immediately derived from the cant language. It has been mooted that it came into use from a 'quære' (?) being set before a man's name; but it is more than probable that it was brought into this country by the gipsies from Germany, where quer signifies cross, or crooked." (Thieves') Etre — à sa section, or à la sec, to be noted as a bad character at the police office of one's district. The word "mouchique," says Michel, is derived from "mujik," a Russian peasant, which must have become familiar in 1815 to the inhabitants of the parts of the country invaded by the Russians.

Moussante, f. (popular and thieves’), beer, or “gatter.” Un pot de —, a “shant of gatter.” A curious slang street melody, known in Seven Dials as Bet the Coaley’s Daughter, mentions the word “gatter”:—

But when I strove my flame to tell,
Says she, “Come, stow that patter,
If you’re a cove wot likes a gal,
Vy don’t you stand some gatter?”
In course I instantly complied,
Two brimming quarts of porter,
With sev’ral goes of gin beside,
Drain’d Bet the Coaley’s daughter.

Moussante mouchique, bad, flat beer, “swipes, or belly vengeance.”

Moussard, m. (thieves’), chestnut tree.

Musardine, f. (familiar), name given some forty years ago to a more than fast girl, or to a girl of indifferent character, termed sometimes by English "mashers," a "blooming tartlet."

On dit une musardine, comme jadis on disait une lorette.—ALBÉRIC SECOND.

The synonyms corresponding to various epochs are:—Under the Restauration "femme aimable," a term of little significance. In Louis Philippe's time, "lorette," on account of the frail ones mostly dwelling in the Quartier Notre Dame de Lorette. Under the Third Empire "chignon doré" (it was then the fashion, as it still is, for such women to dye their hair a bright gold or auburn tint), or "cocodette," the feminine of "cocodès," young dandy. Now-a-days frequenters of the Boulevards use the term "boudinée," "boudiné, bécarre, or pschutteux," being the latest appellations for the Parisian "masher." The term "musardine" must first have been applied to fast girls frequenting the Bals Musard, attended at the time by all the "dashing" elements of Paris. "In English polite society, a fast young lady,” says the Slang Dictionary, “is one who affects mannish habits, or makes herself conspicuous by some unfeminine accomplishment, talks slang, drives about in London, smokes cigarettes, is knowing in dogs and horses, &c.”

Musicien, m. (thieves’), dictionary; variety of informer, or “snitcher;” (familiar) ——— par intimidation, a street melodist who obtains money from people desirous of getting rid of him.

J’y ai retrouvé aussi le “musicien par intimidation,” l’homme à la clarinette, qui s’arrête devant les cafés du boulevard en faisant mine de porter à ses lèvres le bec de son instrument. Les consommateurs épouvantés se hâtent de lui jeter quelque monnaie afin d’éviter l’harmonie.—ELIE FRÉBAULT, La Vie de Paris.

It, however, occurs occasionally that people annoyed by the harmonists of the street have their revenge whilst getting rid of them without having to pay toll, as in the case of the “musicien par intimidation.” One day a French artist in London, who every day was almost driven mad by the performances of a band of green-coated German musicians, hit upon the following singular stratagem. Placing himself at the window, and facing his tormentors, he applied a lemon to his lips. The effect was instantaneous, as through an association of ideas the mouths of the musicians began to water to such an extent that, unable to proceed with their symphony, they surrendered the battlefield to the triumphant artist. (Popular) Des musiciens, beans, alluding to the wind they generate in the bowels. (Printers’) Des musiciens, large number of corrections made on the margin of pages; unskilled compositors who are unable to proceed with their work.

La chambre noire, a council-chamber where Napoleon III. received his agents and formed secret plans.

Ce fut dans ce cabinet secret que furent résolus la mort de Kelch et l'enlèvement secret des premiers fomentateurs du complot de l'Opéra-Comique.—Mémoires de Monsieur Claude.

Bande noire, a gang of swindlers. See Bande. The Echo de Paris, August, 1886, mentions a gang of this description which formed a vast association and victimized wine merchants in all parts of the country:—

Les associés se divisaient en quatre catégories: 1° “Les Faisans;” 2° “Les Courtiers à la mode;” 3° “Les Concierges dans le mouvement;” 4° “Les Fusilleurs.” Les “Courtiers à la mode” étaient des individus qui avaient réussi à se faire agréer comme représentants par des maisons de gros. Les “Faisans,” par l'intermédiaire des “courtiers,” et avec la complaisance des “concierges dans le mouvement,” se faisaient faire des envois de pièces de vins soit en gare, soit à domicile. Les “Fusilleurs” achetaient ces pièces de vin à vil prix et les revendaient aussi cher que possible.

Nonnant, m., nonnante, f. (thieves'), friend.

Nonne, f. (thieves'), abettor of a pickpocket. The accomplices press round the victim during the thief's operations. The proceeds of the robbery pass at once into the hands of one of the "nonnes," called "coqueur," or "bob," in English cant. Faire —, to form a small crowd in the street so as to attract idlers, and thus to facilitate a pickpocket's operations. Those who thus aid a confederate are termed "jollies" in the English slang.

Nonneur, m. (thieves'), accomplice. Termed by English thieves "stallsman, or Philiper." The "Philiper" stands by and looks out for the police while the others commit a robbery, and calls out "Philip!" when anyone approaches. According to Vidocq, there is a variety of "nonneurs" who are merely in the service of other thieves. Their functions are to watch, to hustle the intended victim, and to make off with the valuables handed to them by their principal. The "nonneur" is not always rewarded by a share in the proceeds of the robbery; he generally receives wages for the day proportionate to the profits obtained in the "business." Manger sur ses nonneurs, to inform against one's accomplices, "to blow the gaff, or to turn snitch."

Le quart d'œil lui jabotte

Mange sur tes nonneurs,

Lui tire une carotte,

Lui montant la couleur.

VIDOCQ, Mémoires.

N’y pas couper (military), to be confined in the guard room or cells, “to be roosted.” Literally to be prevented from shirking one’s duties, or deceiving one’s superiors.

Ah! tu es garde de nuit, fit-il; eh bien, attends, mon vieux, tu n’vas pas y couper!

—Quoi, y couper? hurla le malheureux.

Mais l’autre écumait de colère. Il beuglait:—... Laisse faire, va, je vas l’dire au major, et tu n’y couperas pas de tes quinze jours de boîte!—G. COURTELINE.

Also to be prevented from taking advantage of others, of “taking a rise out of them.” Vous n’y couperez pas, I’ll stop your “little game.”

Ah! hurla-t-il alors, vous faites de l’esprit! Eh bien, mon petit ami, allez vous rhabiller, je vous fiche mon billet que vous n’y couperez pas.—G. COURTELINE.

N’y pas couper de cinq ans de biribi, not to escape five years’ service in the “Compagnies de discipline,” or punishment companies in Africa.

Vous avez beau être de la classe, allez, vous n’y couperez pas de cinq ans de biribi.—G. COURTELINE.

Ogresse, f. (thieves’), proprietress of a wine-shop frequented by thieves, or “cross-crib;” proprietress of a brothel.

Oie, f. (familiar), la petite — (obsolete), preliminary caresses, better explained by quotation.

Ce sont les petites faveurs qu’accordent les femmes à leurs amants, comme petits baisers tendres, attouchements et autres badineries, qui conduisent insensiblement plus loin. La petite oie, c’est proprement les préludes de l’amour.—LE ROUX, Dict. Comique.

Oignes, m. pl. (popular), aux petits —, excellently, in first-rate style. For aux petits oignons.

Oignon, m. (popular), money, or “blunt.” For synonyms see Quibus. It has been said that the term “blunt” is from the French “blond,” sandy or golden colour, and that a parallel may be found in brown or browns, the slang for halfpence. This etymology, it has been said again, may be correct, as it is borne out by the analogy of similar expressions; blanquillo, for instance, is a word used in Morocco and southern Spain for a small Moorish coin. The “asper” (ασπρὸν) of Constantinople is called by the Turks akcheh, i.e., little white. It seems to me more probable, however, that the word is derived from blanc, an old French coin, or from the nature of the coin itself, which has a blunt circular edge. Arranger aux petits oignons, to scold vehemently, “to bully-rag.” Chaîne d’oignons, ten of cards. Champ d’oignons, see Champ. Il y a de l’——, there is much groaning and gnashing of teeth. An allusion to the tears brought to the eyes by the proximity of onions. Peler des oignons, to scold, “to give a wiggling.” (Familiar and popular) Faire quelque chose aux petits oignons, to do something excellently, in first-rate style.

Vous savez, elle est cocasse votre chanson, et vous l’avez détaillée ... aux petits oignons!—E. MONTEIL.

Un ——, a large watch, “turnip.”

Oiseau, m. (popular), faire l’——, to play the fool. Aux oiseaux, very fine, or very good, excellent, perfect, “out-and-out, first-class.”

Ca m’ paroît bien tapé, “aux oiseaux,” mamzelle. Fourrez un peu la main sous l’empeigne pour voir tout l’ fini d’ l’ouvrage.—SAINT-FIRMIN, Le Galant Savetier.

The origin of this expression comes, no doubt, from certain bindings in fashion in the eighteenth century, which bore birds in the corners. People would say then, une reliure aux oiseaux. Se donner des noms d’——, is said ironically of gushing lovers who give one another fond appellations. Oiseau de cage, prisoner, “canary;” —— fatal, crow. The expression reminds one of Virgil’s—

Sæpe sinistra cava prædixit ab ilice cornix, and of La Fontaine’s—

Un corbeau

Tout à l’heure annonçait malheur à quelque oiseau.

Olive de savetier, f. (popular), turnip. See Changer.

Ombre, f. (general), prison, or “quod.”

Elle sera condamnée dans le gerbement de la Pouraille, et grâciée pour révélation après un an d’ombre!

Omettre (thieves’), l’——, to kill him.

Omnibus, m. (popular), overflow of liquids on the counter of a wine-shop collected in a tank and retailed at a low price; glass holding a demi-setier of wine. On some wine-shops in the suburbs may yet be seen the inscription: “Ici on prend l’omnibus.” Un —, a prostitute, or “mot.” Literally one who may be ridden by all. For synonyms see Gadoué. Omnibus, extra waiter at a restaurant or café; also one who loafes about the streets of Paris without any visible means of livelihood.

Omnibus, batteur de pavé, c’est-à-dire des gens que l’on rencontre sur tous les points de Paris comme les véhicules dont ils portent le nom, mais qui diffèrent de ceux-ci en ce qu’ils n’ont ni couleur, ni enseigne, ni lanterne pour indiquer où ils vont et d’où ils viennent.—PAUL MAHALIN.

Attendre l’—, to wait for one’s glass to be filled; (thieves’) — de conis, hearse; — à pègres, prison van, or “black Maria.”

Omnibusard, m. (popular), beggar who plies his trade in omnibuses. He pretends not to have sufficient money wherewith to pay his fare, and by a pitiful tale awakens the compassion of the passengers.

Omnicochemar à la colle, m. (thieves’), bus driver. Thus called because he seems stuck to his box.

Omnicroche, f. (thieves’), omnibus, “chariot.” Faire l’—, to pick pockets in an omnibus, an operation which goes among English thieves by the name of “chariot-buzzing.” Gaule d’—, bus driver. Termed also échalas d’—.

On (thieves’), à sa gin, here is; — à lavarès, drunken man. On à sa gin on à lavarès, here is a drunken man. I have given the expression in my informant’s own spelling. (Popular) On pave! words which mean that a certain street is to be avoided for fear of meeting a creditor.

Exclamation pittoresque qui exprime l’effroi d’un débiteur amené par hasard à passer dans une rue où se trouve un “loup.” Le “typo” débiteur fait alors un circuit plus ou moins long pour éviter la rue où l’ “on pave.”—BOUTMY.

Ici-bas, chacun sur terre
Cherche à faire du nouveau;
Soit un engin pour la guerre,
Soit à distiller de l’eau.
Ce que j’veux faire est pratique:
Changer: “On dirait du veau”
Par cette phrase plus énergique:
 Va donc, eh! fourneau!
A. QUEYRIAUX.

Onchets, m. pl. (military), partie d'——, a duel. Onchets, properly spellicans.

C'est-à-dire que tu es dans l'intention d'entamer une seconde partie d'onchets, conséquemment.—C. DUBOIS DE GENNES.

Oncle, m. (popular), usurer.

Ce mot symbolise l'usure, comme dans la langue populaire ma tante signifie le prêt sur gage.—BALZAC.

Orpheline de Lacenaire (journalists’), prostitute of the Boulevard.

Orphie, m. (thieves’), bird.

Os (familiar and popular), money, “oof, or stumpy.” See Quibus. With regard to the English slang expression, Mr. T. Lewis O. Davies, in his Supplementary English Glossary, says: “Stumpy, money, that which is paid down on the nail or stump.”

Reduced to despair, they ransomed themselves by the payment of sixpence a head, or, to adopt his own figurative expression in all its native beauty: “till they was reg’larly done over, and forked out the stumpy.”—Sketches by Boz.

Called also “pécune,” which corresponds to the Eton boys’ term “pec” for money, from pecunia. Avoir de l'——, to have money, to have the "oof-bird." (Popular) Os à moelle, a repulsive term for nose, "conk, smeller, snorter, boko." See Morviau. Faire juter l'—— à moelle, to use one's fingers as a handkerchief. Casser les —— de la tête, to kiss one heartily.

Pantouflards, m. pl. (familiar and popular), name given during the siege of 1871 to Parisians serving in the "Garde nationale sédentaire," whose duties were to keep guard in the interior of the city.

Pantoufle, f. (popular), et cetera ... —! words used jocularly on completing some arduous, tiresome task, meaning nothing more, and so on. The expression is also used in lieu of an objectionable word forming a climax in sequence to an enumeration, and which, consequently, may easily be divined. In the phrase, C'est un sot, un âne bête, "et cætera pantoufle," the quaint term acts as a substitute for an obscene word of three letters, which, in the mouth of a Frenchman, expresses the acme of his contempt for another's intellectual worth. The Voltaire newspaper says concerning the expression: "Et cætera ... pantoufle! Que signifie cette expression, employée dans le langage populaire? Lorédan Larchey, répond le Courrier de Vaugelas, déclare cette locution peu traduisible et dit que le peuple s'en sert comme d'un temps d'arrêt dans une énumération qui menace de devenir malhonnête. Elle est même tout à fait intraduisible si l'on ne considère que le mot français en lui-même et sa signification vulgaire de chaussure de chambre. A ce point de vue étroit, il est impossible de saisir la corrélation existant entre cette pantoufle et un discours dont on veut taire la fin, ou plutôt qu'on n'achève pas parce que la conclusion est trop connue. Le français, qui souvent s'est taillé un vêtement dans la chlamyde des Grecs, n'a pas dédaigné non plus de s'introduire dans leurs pantoufles. Nous disons: Et cætera pantoufle. Les Grecs entendaient par là: Et les autres choses, toutes de même sorte. Nous sommes en France des traducteurs si serviles, nous avons serré le grec de si près que nous nous sommes confondus avec lui, nous avons traduit le mot grec par pantoufle! Mais d'où nous est venue cette bizarre expression? Comment a-t-elle passé dans notre langue? M. Ch. Toubin pense qu'elle nous est vraisemblablement arrivée par Marseille. C'est possible, mais nous aimons mieux croire que les écoliers du moyen âge, élevés dans le jardin des racines grecques, ont été frappés de la consonnance de pantoufle avec l'expression grecque et l'ont adoptée en la francisant, à la façon plaisante des écoliers.”

Pantouflé, m. (popular), tailor's assistant.

Pantre, m. (thieves'), fool, “flat.” An appellation applied by thieves to their victims.

Montron drogue à sa largue,
Bonnis-moi donc, girofle,
Qui sont ces pègres-là?
Des grinchisseurs de bogues,
Esquinteurs de boutogues,
Les conobres-tu pas?
VIDOCQ.

Fielding uses the term “prig” for a thief:—

He said he was sorry to see any of his gang guilty of a breach of honour; that without honour “priggery” was at an end; that if a “prig” had but honour he would overlook every vice in the world.—Mr. Jonathan Wild the Great.

Un — à marteau, rogue who confines his attentions to property of small value. La pègre, the confraternity of thieves, swindlers, burglars, &c., or “family-men.” La haute-pègre, the swell-mob. La basse-pègre, low thieves.

La Haute-Pègre comprend généralement tous les voleurs en habit noir ... la haute-pègre s'affirme par une adresse incomparable; la basse-pègre, par une férocité qui ne se retrouve que dans le pays des cannibales.—Mémoires de Monsieur Claude.

Un — de la haute, one of the swell-mob.

Il résultera la preuve que le susdit marquis est tout simplement un pègre de la haute.—VIDOCQ.

Pégrenne, f. (thieves'), hunger. "Pigritia," says V. Hugo, "est un mot terrible. Il engendre un monde, la pègre, lisez le vol, et un enfer, la pégrenne, lisez la faim. Ainsi la paresse est mère. Elle a un fils, le vol, et une fille, la faim." Caner la —, to be starving, "to be bandied."

Si quelquefois la fourgate et Rupin ne lui collaient pas quelques sigues dans l'arguemine, il serait forcé de caner la pégrenne.—VIDOCQ. (Should the receiver and Rupin not put some money in his hand now and then he would starve.)

Pégrenner (thieves'), to have but scanty fare; to suffer from hunger.

Pégrer (thieves'), to arrest, "to smug;" to steal, "to claim." See Grincher. Pégrer, to be destitute, to be "quisby". Je me suis fait — toute ma galette, I have been "done" of all my "tin." Je viens de — l'artiche à son gniasse, je me suis fait cric et la riflette a cavale derrière moi pour me —, I have just eased him of his money and the policeman ran after me to apprehend me.

Pégriote, m., (thieves'), young thief, "ziff."

Le pégriote débute dans cette triste carrière à l'âge de dix à douze ans: alors il vole aux étagères des épiciers, fruitiers ou autres.—CANLER.

Pégriote, thief who steals only articles of small value.

Le pégriote occupe les derniers degrés de l'échelle au sommet de laquelle sont placés les pègres de la haute.—Mémoires de Canler.

Brûler le —, to obliterate all traces of a robbery or crime.

Peigne, m. (thieves'), key, or "screw;" (popular) — d'allemand, the fingers. The expression is old. Rabelais uses it:—

Après se peignoit du peigne de Almaing, c'estoit des quatre doigts et le poulce.—Gargantua.

Peigne-cul, m. (popular), coarse, rude fellow; contemptible fellow.

Peignée, f. (popular), se repasser, or se foutre une —, to fight, "to have a mill."

Peinturlure, f. (familiar), worthless picture, a “daub.”

Peinturlurer (familiar), se —, to paint one’s face, to put “slap” on.

Peinturlureur, m. (familiar), artist devoid of any ability, a “dauber.”

Peinturomanie, f. (familiar), mania for pictures.

Pékin, peckin, or péquin, m. (military), civilian. Michel traces it to pequichinus, and Du Cange to piquechien, both meaning low fellow; but more probably it is meant for habitant de Pékin, or it originated from an allusion to the cloth called pékin, much worn under the First Empire by civilians.

Je suis fantassin,
Cet état j’l’aim’ bien
Et j’fais autant d’béguins,
Que si j’étais peckin.

E. OUVRRARD.

The expression is used also by civilians with the signification of man, “party.” The term “party” is said to have arisen in the old English justice courts, where, to save “his worship” and the clerk of the court any trouble in exercising their memories with the names of the different plaintiffs, defendants, and witnesses, the word party was generally employed. (Familiar and popular) Pékin chic, swell; generous or clever fellow. S’habiller en —, to dress in mufti. (Popular) Bousculeur de —, workman who hates middle-class people, and who seeks to annoy them—a mason, for instance, who, going by a well-dressed person, brushes with his sackful of plaster against the person’s coat, &c. (Saint-Cyr cadets’) Pékin de bahut, a cadet who has finished his studies. The word “pékin” is synonymous of “chinois,” a term of contempt.

Pélago, or Pélague, f. (thieves’), the prison of Sainte-Pélagie, where offenders against the press laws are confined.

On l’a fourré dans la tirelire
Avec les pègres d’Pélago.

RICHEPIN.

Pourquoi ce qui n’avait pas réussi jusqu’alors a-t-il été, cette fois, un événement de librairie? ce qu’on appelle, en argot artistique, un pétard.—Gazette des Tribunaux, 1882.

Also a sensational play.

Si je fais du théâtre, ce sera pour être joué, et, tout en le faisant comme je comprends qu’il doit être,—l’image de la vie. Je ne casserai aucune vitre, ne lancerai aucun pétard.—ZOLA.

J’aimerais mieux encore turbiner d’achar du matois à la sorgue pour affurer cinquante pétards par luisant que de goupiner.—VIDOCQ. (I had rather work hard from morning till night to get fifty sous a day than to steal.)

(Popular) Pétard, a box on the ear, or “bang in the gills;” disturbance, noise, quarrel, scandal. Faire du —, to create a disturbance, “to kick up a row.”

J’sais ben c’que vous m’dit’s: qu’il est tard,
Que j’baloche et que j’vagabonde.
Mais j’suis tranquill’, j’fais pas d’pétard,
Et j’crois qu’la rue est à tout l’monde.

RICHEPIN.

Des pétards, haricot beans. Faire du —, to make a fuss.

Inutile de faire tant de pétard ... l’homme de garde refuse de se lever, c’est très bien, j’en rendrai compte au major.—G. COURTELINE.

Le chanteur est un homme jeune encore ... toutefois, seul, il ne peut "travailler;" il lui faut un compère, ... puis un jeune et beau garçon qu'il appelle un petit Jésus," entièrement vendu à ses intérêts, ayant perdu tout sentiment d'honnêteté, de pudeur.... Celui-ci doit servir d'appeau.—LÉO TAXIL.

(Familiar) Bon — camarade is said ironically of an ill-disposed malevolent colleague. (Prostitutes') Petit Jésus, lover or associate of a prostitute, "Sunday-man." (Printers') Aligner les petits soldats de plomb, to compose.

Quand on sait bien aligner les petits soldats de plomb, on vous colle devant une casse, et vous bourrez à quart de pièces; un peu plus tard vous avez demi-pièces et ça vous mène à la fin de l'apprentissage.—From a Paris printers' newspaper.

Pourquoi des coupeurs, des culottiers, des giletiers ... des pompiers, des tartares (apprentis) nommés aussi petits-bœufs.—MACÉ, Mon Premier Crime.

Petit-bocson, m. (popular), church. Termed also rampante.

Petit-crevé, m. (familiar), dandy, or "masher." For synonyms see Gommeux. A dandy in the seventeenth century went by the quaint appellation of "quand pour Philis." In explanation M. Génin, in his Récréations Philologiques, says that all the fops of the period thought themselves bound to be able to sing a certain ditty which was then all the rage and began by the words, "Quand pour Philis." Hence the expression. Tallemant des Réaux, in his Historiettes, says of a certain Turcan:—

Turcan ne saurait vivre
S'il ne fait le coquet;
A l'une il donne un livre
Et à l'autre un bouquet.
Il dit de belles choses,
Ne parle que de roses,
Que d'œillets et de lys:
C'est un quand-pour-Philis.

Scarron also mentions the expression:—

A cette heure de tous costés,
Arrivent ici des beautés,
Qu'y n'y viennent qu'à la nuit sombre;
A cette heure quand-pour-Philis
Poudrez, frisez, luisans, polis,
Les appelans soleils à l'ombre,
Leur disent fleurettes sans nombre,
Sur leurs roses et sur leurs lys.

Petite, adj. (familiar), dame, an euphemism for “cocotte,” or “pretty horse-breaker.”

Il arrivera que les “petites dames,” bien conseillées par les “petits messieurs,” comprendront qu'elles ont infiniment plus d'avantages à nous poursuivre devant les juges—qu'à se faire suivre sur les boulevards.
—Echo de Paris, Oct., 1886.

Petite main, girl apprenticed to a fleuriste.

Petit-hôtel, m. (thieves'), police station. Faire une pose au —, to be locked up in jail, “to be in quod.”

Vous savez, Nana vient d'arriver ... oh! une entrée, mes enfants! quelque chose de pharamineux!—ZOLA.

Phare, m. (printers'), lamp. Properly lighthouse.

Pharmacope, m. (popular), apothecary, “pill-driver.”

Pharos, or pharaut, m. (old cant), governor of a town. Michel thinks the word comes from the Spanish faraute, head man.

Philantrope, m. (pedlars'), thief, “prig.” For synonyms see Grinche.

Philibert, m. (thieves'), thief, "prig;" swindler or sharper, "shark." See Grinche.

Philippe, m. (popular), silver or gold coin. An allusion to the effigy of Louis Philippe.

On dit que tu as poissé nos philippes (filouté nos pièces d'or).—BALZAC.

Philippine, f. (familiar and popular). When a person cracks an almond for another, should there be a double kernel, he who cries out first, "Bonjour, Philippine!" can exact a present from the other. The word seems to be a corruption of the German vielliebchen.

Philistin, m. (artists'), a man who belongs to a different set, an outsider, a bourgeois, a "Philistine." The Slang Dictionary says: "Society is supposed to regard all outside its bounds as belonging to the Philistine world. Bohemians regard all cleanly, orderly people who conform to conventionality as Philistines;" (medical) medical man who, not being on the staff of an hospital, visits the establishment, generally prolonging his stay more than is pleasant or convenient for the members of the staff; (tailors') journeyman tailor. In the English slang a Philistine is a policeman. The German students call all townspeople not of their body "Philister," as English ones say "cads." The departing student says, mournfully, in one of the Burschenlieder: "Muss selber nun Philister sein!" i.e. "I must now Philistine be!"

Philosophe, m. (popular), poverty-stricken, or "quisby;" old or cheap shoe.

Plus d'une ci-devant beauté, aujourd'hui réduite à l'humble caraco de drap, à la jupe de molleton et aux sabots, si elle ne préfère les "philosophes" (souliers à quinze, vingt et vingt-cinq sols).—VIDOCQ.

Philosophe, rag-picker, or "bone-grubber." Philosophes de neuf jours, shoes out at the sole. (Thieves') Un —, one of the light-fingered gentry, see Grinche; card-sharper who dispenses with the assistance of an accomplice.

Philosophie, f. (popular), poverty, neediness.

Photographier (popular), allez vous faire —, go to the deuce, "go to pot."

Pi, parler en —, to add "pi" to each syllable of a word. Thus couteau becomes coupiteaupi.

Piaf, m. (thieves'), pride; boasting, "bouncing."

Pianiste, m. (popular), executioner's assistant. He is the accompanist to the executioner, the principal performer.

Piano, m. (horse-dealers'), jouer du —, is said of a horse which has a disunited trot. Maîtresse de ——. See Maîtresse.

Pianoter (familiar), to be a poor performer on the piano.

On ne devait pas pianoter pendant la nuit—BALZAC.

Piau, m. (printers'), falsehood, "cram." From la peau! nonsense! (thieves') bed.
Pincer le ——, to go to bed, to get into "kip." See Pieu.

Piaulle, piole, or piole, f. (thieves'), house, "crib, hangs-out, ken;" tavern. Same origin as picter. La —— a l'air rupin, there's plenty to steal in that house.

Piausseau, m. (printers'), liar; humbug.

Picaillons, m. pl. (popular), money, "tin." See Quibus. Avoir des ——, to be well off, or "well ballasted." Picaillons is probably a corruption of picarons, Spanish coin.

Picanti, adj. (thieves'), gau ——, louse, "gold-backed 'un." See Basourdir.

Piccolet, or piccolo, m. (popular), thin wine. From picton, which itself comes from the Greek $\pi\epsilon\tilde{\iota}\nu$, through picter.

Le suave fromage à la pie ... et qu'ils mangeaient avec un chateau de pain bis, avant de boire un gobelet de piccolo, de ce vert petit reginglard qui leur piquait un cent d'épingles dans la gorge.—RICHEPIN, Le Pavé.

Piche, m. (popular), for pique, spades of cards.

Pichenet, m. (popular), thin wine. See Picton.

Le pichenet et le vitriol l'engraissaient positivement.—ZOLA.

Pickpocket (familiar), to pick pockets.

Picorage, m. (thieves'), highway robbery.

Picoure, f. (thieves'), hedge. Déflotter, or défleurer la ——, to steal linen laid out on a hedge to dry, "lully priggling." A thief who steals linen is termed "snow-gatherer." La —— est fleurie, there is linen on the hedge, "snowy on the ruffman."

Picter (popular and thieves'), to drink, "to liquor up," or, as the Americans say, "to smile, or to see the man." From the Greek $\pi\epsilon\tilde{\iota}\nu$.

Laissez-le donc, nous le ferons picter à la refaite de sorgue.—VIDOCQ. (Leave him alone, we'll make him drink at dinner.)

Picter des canons, to drink glasses of wine.

Comme moi gagne de la pièce,
Tu pourras picter des canons.
Et sans aller trimer sans cesse.
Te lâcher le fin rigaudon.
Ne crains pas le pré que je brave,
Car de la bride je n'ai pas peur;
Dans une tôle enquille en brave,
Fais-toi voleur!
VIDOCQ.

Allons — un kil, let us go and drink a litre of wine. Picter du pivois sans lance, to drink wine without water. Picter une rouillarde, to drink a bottle of wine. La — à la douce, to sit over a bottle of wine.

Encore un coup d'picton,
La mère Bernard, il n'est pas tard,
Encore un coup d'picton
Pour nous mettre à la raison.
Old Song.

Pictonner (popular), to drink heavily, "to swill." See Rincer.

Pictonneur, m. (popular), drunkard, "lushington." See Poivrot.

Pièce, f. (military), de quatre, syringe; — grasse, cook, or "dripping;" — de sept, stout man, "forty guts;" (freemasons') — d'architecture, speech; (literary) — de bœuf, gushing article on the topics of the day; (theatrical) — de bœuf, a play in which one obtains the most success; — à tiroirs, play with transformation scenes; — d'été, bad play; (prostitutes') — d'estomac, lover, "Sunday man." (Thieves') Vol à la — forcée. This kind of theft requires two confederates, one of whom tenders in payment of a purchase a marked coin. His friend then steps in, makes a purchase, and maintains he has paid for it with a coin of which he gives a description, and which of course is found in the till by the amazed tradesman. (Popular) Une — du pape, or suisse, an ugly woman. La — de dix sous, or de dix ronds, the anus. N'avoir plus sa — de dix ronds, to be a Sodomite. Cracher des pièces de dix sous, to be parched, dry.

Coupeau voyant le petit horloger cracher là-bas des pièces de dix sous, lui montra de loin une bouteille; et, l'autre ayant accepté de la tête, il lui porta la bouteille et un verre.—ZOLA.

The English have the expression, “to spit sixpences,” to be thirsty.

He had thought it a rather dry discourse; and beginning to spit sixpences (as his saying was), he gave hints to M. Wildgoose to stop at the first public-house they should come to—GRAVES, Spiritual Quixote.

Pied, m. (popular), à dormir debout, large flat foot; — de cochon, pistol, or “barking iron;” — de nez, one sou; — plat, a Jew, or “mouchey, Ikey, or sheney.” Mettre à —, to dismiss, “to give the sack.” En avoir son —, to have had enough of it. (Thieves’) Pied de biche, short crowbar, or “jemmy.” Termed also “Jacques, l’enfant, sucre de pomme, biribi.” Le —, the ground; termed also “la dure;” share, or “whack.” Mon —, ou je casse! my share, or I peach, or “my whack, or I blow the gaff.” (Military) Pied, or — bleu, recruit, or “Johnny raw.”

Je t’en fiche; y prend un air digne, toise l’infirmier du haut en bas, et te l’engueule comme un pied.—G. COURTELINE.

Pied de banc, sergeant. There are just as many sergeants in a company as there are feet to a bench.

Les sous-officiers sont l’âme de l’armée si les officiers en sont la tête ... les soldats le savent et le disent bien, et se rendant compte de l’utilité de ces humbles subalternes, ils les appellent les pieds de banc. Enlevez un officier à la compagnie, nul ne s’apercevra du vide; ôtez un sergent elle deviendra boiteuse.—HECTOR FRANCE, L’Homme qui Tue.

Pieds, m. pl. (popular), avoir mangé ses —, to have an offensive breath. Se tirer des —, to go away, to run away, “to hook it.” See Patatrot. (Thieves’) Avoir les — attachés dans le dos, to be dogged by the police, “to get a roasting.” (Popular and thieves’) Bénir des pieds, to be hanged, “to swing, to be scragged.” Termed formerly “to fetch a Tyburn stretch,” or “to preach at Tyburn Cross,” alluding to the penitential speeches made on such occasions. In olden times a hanged person was termed in France “évêque des champs,” alluding to the cap which was drawn over the face of the convict, and which represented the mitre, also to the convulsive movements of his legs. It was the custom to erect the gallows in the open country. Hence the expression, “évêque des champs qui donne la bénédiction avec les pieds.”

Pier (thieves’), old word, to drink. In English slang, “to liquor up,” and, as the Americans term the act, “to smile,” or “to see the man.” See Rincer.

Pierre, f. (popular), à affûter, bread, or “soft tommy;” (freemasons’) — brute, bread; (thieves') — de touche, confrontation of a malefactor with his victim or with witnesses.

Pierreau, m. (military), recruit, or “Johnny raw.” Also soldier who has been for one year in the corps.

Ils tranchaient les questions d'un mot, ... considéraient du haut de leur importance les brigadiers qu'ils qualifiaient de bleus et de pierreaux, comme s'ils fussent arrivés de la veille.—G. COURTELINE.

Pierreuse, f. (popular), prostitute of the lowest class, who generally prowls near heaps of stones on the road, or in building yards, “draggle-tail.” See Gadoue. Concerning this class of prostitutes Léo Taxil says: “Il est une classe absolument ignoble, qui est la lie des filles en carte: les pierreuses. On donne ce nom à un genre particulier de femmes qui ont vieilli dans l'exercice de la prostitution du plus bas étage ... elles sortent la nuit ... elles stationnent auprès des chantiers ou à proximité des terrains vagues.”

Pierrot, m. (popular), glass of white wine. Asphyxier un —, to drink a glass of white wine. Pierrot, properly, is a pantomimic character with face painted white and dressed in white attire. (Hairdressers') Pierrot, application of lather on the face; (military) recruit, or “Johnny raw.” Termed also “bleu.”

Les anciens commencèrent par faire la sourde oreille, supportèrent avec patience les quolibets et les piqûres d'aiguille jusqu'au jour où un “pierrot,” tout nouvellement arrivé ... reçut une paire de calottes.—G. COURTELINE.

Also bad soldier who shirks his duty and incurs punishment.

De temps en temps, l'adjudant Flick, en cherchant ses deux “pierrots,” constatait leur disparition. Les deux pierrots ... s'étaient donné un peu d'air. Ces bordées duraient six journées, au bout desquelles ils revenaient fiers comme des paons, frisant la désertion de cinq minutes.—G. COURTELINE.

Piesto, m. (popular), money, “the needful, gilt, or loaver.” See Quibus.

Piètre, m. (thieves'), rogue who plays the lame man so as to excite the commiseration of the public.

Pieu, m. (thieves'), crossbar; — de la vanterne, crossbar of a window; (popular and thieves') bed. From old word piautre, straw, rags. Hence the old peaultraille, canaille, ragamuffins. An instance of the insertion of the i is shown by pieu, a stake, from pau.

Les pant's sont couchés dans leurs pieux,
Par conséquent je n'gên' personne.
Laissez-moi donc! j'suis un pauv' vieux.
Où qu' vous m'emm'nez, messieurs d'la sonne?

RICHEPIN.

Spelt also pieux.

Dès que le réveil entendras
Tes deux châssis épongeras;
La botte aux Cocos donneras,
Et leur crottin enlèveras,
A la chambre remonteras
Faire ton pieux.

Les Litanies du Cavalier.

Se coller dans le —, to go to bed, to get into the “kip.” Etre en route pour le —, to feel sleepy. Etre rivé au —, to be passionately attached to a woman.

Pieuté, adj. (popular), être —, to be in bed.

Pieuvre, f. (familiar), kept woman. Properly octopus. See Gadoue.

Pieuvrisme, m. (familiar), prostitution; the world of prostitutes.

Pif, or pifre, m. (familiar and popular), nose, “handle, conk, or snorter.” See Morviau. The word “pifre” is used by Rabelais with the signification of fife. It is, therefore, not improbable that the nasal organ received the appellation on account of its being assimilated to that wind instrument, the more so as other parts of the body bear the names of musical instruments, as trompette, or musette, face; sifflet, throat; guitare, or guimbarde, head; grosse caisse, body; flûtes, legs; mirliton, nose.

Où que j'vas? ça vous r'garde pas.
J'vas où que j'veux, loin d'où que j'suis.
C'est à côté, tout près d'là-bas.
Mon pif marche d'avant, et je l'suis.

RICHEPIN.

C'est pas pour ton —, that's not for you. (Thieves') Etre dans le — comme grinche, to be noted as a swindler. (Prostitutes') Faire un — d'ocas, to find a client, or “flat.”

J'ai fait que poirotter sous les lansquines en battant mon quart pour faire un pif d'ocas, qui me donne de quoi que mon marlou ne m'éreinte pas de coups.—LOUISE MICHEL.

Piffard, m. (popular), the possessor of a nose remarkable on account of its large proportions or vermilion hue, like that of a drunkard, an “Admiral of the Red,” whose nasal organ bears “grog blossoms.”

Piffe, m. (thieves'), breech, or "blind cheek." See Vasistas.

Piffer (popular), to be discontented, or to look disappointed, "down in the mouth." Synonymous of "faire son nez."

Pigeon, m. (card-sharpers'). Elever des pigeons, to entice dupes into playing in order to fleece them of their money. (General) Pigeon, a gullible or soft person, a "pigeon." The vagabonds and brigands of Spain also used the word in their "germania," or robber's language, "palomo," ignorant, simple. In the sporting world "sharps and flats" are often called "rooks and pigeons" respectively—sometimes "spiders and flies." When the "pigeon" has been done, he then is entitled to the appellation of "muggins." Pigeon voyageur, a girl of indifferent character who travels up and down a line seeking for clients. (Cocottes') Avoir son —, to have found a client, to have a "flat." (Theatrical) Pigeon, part payment of a fee due to an author by the manager of a theatre. (Familiar) Aile de —, old-fashioned. An allusion to the headdress preserved by émigrés on their return to France.

Pigeonner (familiar and popular), to dupe, or "to do."

Dans celle-là, ce n'est plus moi qui pige, c'est moi qui suis pigeonné.—Mémoires de Monsieur Claude.

Pigeonnier, m. (familiar), the boudoir of a cocotte.

Piger (general), to detect; to take, "to collar;" to apprehend, "to nab."

Eh! la Gribouille, comment que t'as été pigée, dit une vagabonde à une autre.—LOUISE MICHEL.

Piger, to understand, "to twig," or, as the Americans say, "to catch on."

Moi aussi ... mais piges-tu, pas de braise; ceux qu'ont du poignon dans les finettes peuvent décaniller.—LOUISE MICHEL. (Oh, I also ... but do you understand, no money; those who have money in their pockets can go.)

Piger, to race; to compete.

Et je vous jure bien que dans cette foule de fillettes de magasin qui descendent en capeline, ... petites gueules fraîches tousotant à la brume, toujours talonnées de quelque galant, aucune n'aurait pu piger avec elle.—A. DAUDET.

Piger, to find.

Tiens, v'là Casimir, c'est ta femme, cette colombe-là? où as-tu pigé ce canasson-là, c'est bon pour le muséum, mon cher.—BAUMAINE ET BLONDELET, Les Locutions Vicieuses.

Piger la vignette, to look attentively and with pleasure on some funny person or amusing scene, “to take it in.” Se faire —, to allow oneself to be detected or apprehended; to allow oneself to be done, or “bested.” Piger, to catch, “to nab.”

On grimpe pas su' les parapets!
Attends! attends! j'y vas ... cré garce,
Pigé, j'te tiens! Dit's donc, c'est farce
Tout d'même.

GILL.

Piget, or pipet, m. (thieves'), castle. The root of this word is pigeon, in the Low Latin pipio.

Pignard, m. (thieves'), breech, or “blind cheek.” See Vasistas.

Pignocher (popular). Means properly to pick one's food. Se —, to fight, “to slip into one another;” (artists') to put too much finish in a work.

Pignouf, m. (general), one who behaves like a cad; coarse fellow; mean, paltry fellow.

J'ai vu que tu avais par moments ennuyé les critiques. Tu sais, il ne faut pas faire attention à eux, c'est des tas de pignoufs.—E. MONTEIL.

(Shoemakers') Pignouf, apprentice, the master being denominated “pontife,” and a workman “gniaf.”

Pignoufle, m. (general), cad.

La faille rose braquant sa jumelle—“A qui en ont-ils ces pignoufles?”—P. MAHALIN.

Pigoche, f., a game. Some coins being placed inside a circumference traced out on the ground, are to be knocked out of it by aiming with another coin.

Nous arrachions tout, les boutons
Des portes et des pantalons
Pour la pigoche.

DE CHATILLON.

Piocher (barristers'), les larmes, to prepare a pathetic oration with a view to exciting the commiseration of the jury, and enlisting their sympathy in favour of the accused. There is an old joke about a barrister who, having undertaken to defend a scoundrel accused of murdering his own father and mother, wound up his speech by beseeching the jury to be merciful unto his client, on the plea of his being a "poor orphan left alone and unprotected in this wicked world." The celebrated and truthful author of a recent diatribe on the manners and customs of the French, reproduces the story, presenting it to his readers as a striking but "genuine" specimen of the forensic eloquence in favour with John Bull's neighbours! (Thieves') Piocher, to carry on the business of a pickpocket, "to be on the cross." See Grinchir.

Piole, or piole, f. (thieves'), house. The synonyms are, "cambuse, cassine, boîte, niche, kasbah, barraque, creux, bahut, baite, case, taule, taudion," and, in the English slang, "diggings, ken, hangs-out, chat, crib," &c. Piole, lodging-house, or "dossing-ken."

Veux-tu venir prendre de la morfe et piausser avec mézière en une des pioles que tu m'as rouscaillées?—Le Jargon de l'Argot. (Will you come eat and sleep with me in one of the cribs which you were talking about?)

Piole, tavern, or "lush-crib;" — blindée, fortress; — à machabées, cemetery; — de lartonnier, baker's shop, or "mungarly casa." The English cant term is a corruption of the Lingua Franca phrase for an eating-house. Mangiare, to eat, in Italian.

Piollier, m. (popular and thieves'), landlord of a drinking-shop, "the boss of a lush-crib."

Pion, m. and adj. (familiar), un —, an usher at a school, or “bum-brusher.” Properly a pawn; (thieves’) louse, “grey-back, or German duck.” The Slang Dictionary says: “These pretty little things are called by many names, among others by those of ‘grey-backs’ and ‘gold-backed ’uns,’ which are popular among those who have most interest in the matter.” Etre —, to be drunk. From an old word pier, to drink. Villon in his Grand Testament, fifteenth century, has the word with the signification of toper, drunkard:—

Brief, on n'eust sçeu en ce monde chercher
Meilleur pion, pour boire tost et tard.
Faictes entrer quand vous orrez trucher
L'ame du bon feu maistre Jehan Cotard.

Rabelais uses pion with the same signification:—

Ce feut ici que mirent à bas culs
Joyeusement quatre gaillards pions,
Pour banqueter à l'honneur de Bacchus,
Buvants à gré comme beaulx carpions.
Pantagruel, chap. xxvii.

Pionce, f., or pionçage, m. (popular), sleep, or “balmy.” Camarade de —, bedfellow.

Il avait couché dans un garno où l'on est deux par paillasse. Son camarade de pionce était un gros père à mine rouge qui avait une tête comme un bonnet d'astrakan.—RICHEPIN, Le Pavé.

Pioncer (familiar and popular), to sleep. From piausser.

Quoi? vrai! vous allez m'ramasser?
Ah! c'est muf! Mais quoi qu'on y gagne!
J'm'en vas vous empêcher d'pioncer
J'ronfle comme un' toupie d'All'magne.
RICHEPIN, La Chanson des Gueux.

The latter is to be met with in Reade's Cloister and Hearth:—

"Several arbalestriers turned their toes up, and I among them." "Killed, Denys? Come now!" "Dead as mutton."

Pipé, adj. (thieves'), être — sur le tas, to be caught red-handed.

Pipelet, m. (general), doorkeeper. A character in Eugène Sue's Les Mystères de Paris.

Je les ai vus causer ensemble,
Mes deux Pip'lets.
Et j'ai dit dans ma peau qui tremble,
Dieu! qu'ils sont laids.

J. DE BLAINVILLE, Mes deux Pipelets.

The Pipelet of Eugène Sue was the victim of a ferocious practical joker, a painter, Cabrion by name, who made his life a burden to him. The doorkeepers have retaliated by calling "un Cabrion" a lodger who does not pay his rent.

Je sais aussi qu'on me traite d'ivrogne,
Si du raisin je rapporte le fard.
Que Cabrion aperçoive ma trogne
Il s'écriera: le Pip'let est pochard!
Mais ce matin, j'ai vu Anastasie,
Qui du cognac savourait les roideurs;
Je m'consol'rai dans les bras d'une amie.
Les m'lons sont verts, les chardons sont en fleurs.

DUBOIS, Rêves de Vieillesse ou le Départ de Pipelet.

Pipelette, f. (general), the wife of a concierge or doorkeeper. Termed also Madame Pipelet. See Pipelet.

Vous n'connaissez pas ma concierge,
 La nommée Madam' Benoiton,
 Une grand' sèch' longu' comm' un cierge
 Et sourd' comm' un bonnet d'coton.
 Si malheureus'ment j'm'attarde,
 C'est l'diable pour la réveiller.
 Pendant deux heur's je mont' la garde,
 D'avant la porte et j'ai beau crier:
 Ous-qu'est ma pip', ous-qu'est ma pip', ous-qu'est ma pip'lette?
 A. BEN ET H. D'HERVILLE.

Piper (familiar and popular), to smoke, or “to blow a cloud.”

Il me semble qu'on a pipé ici.—GAVARNI.

Comprend-on après cela qu'un homme qui changeait si fréquemment de nom ... ait été se loger ... sous le nom de Mahossier qui lui avait servi à piper sa victime?—CANLER.

Piper un pègre, to apprehend a thief, “to smug a prig.” The different expressions signifying to apprehend or to imprison are: “poisser, grimer, coquer, enflacquer, enfourailler, mettre dedans, fourrer dedans, mettre à l'ombre, mettre au violon, boucler, grappiner, poser un gluau, empoigner, piger, emballer, gripper, empioler, encoffrer, encager, accrocher, ramasser, souffler, faire tomber malade, agraffer, mettre le grappin dessus, enchetiber, enfourner, coltigger, colletiner, poser le grappin, faire passer à la fabrication, fabriquer,” and, in the English slang, “to smug, to nab, to run in.”

Pister (popular), is said of hotel touts who follow and generally bore travellers; (thieves’) to follow. La riflette me pistait mais je me suis fait une paire de mains courantes à la mode, the spy was following me, but I ran away.

Elle la piste, elle arrive essouffée au Bureau des mœurs pour prévenir la police.—DR. JEANNEL.

Pisteur, m. (familiar), an admirer of the fair sex, whose principal occupation is to follow women in the streets. Rigaud makes the following remarks: “Il ne faut pas confondre le pisteur avec le suiveur. Le suiveur est un fantaisiste qui opère à l’aventure. Il emboîte le pas à toutes les femmes qui lui plaisent, ou, mieux, à toutes les jolies jambes. Parmi cent autres, il reconnaîtra un mollet qu’il aura déjà chassé. Il va, vient, s’arrête, tourne, retourne, marche devant, derrière, croise, coupe l’objet de sa poursuite, qu’il perd souvent au détour d’une rue. Plus méthodique, le pisteur surveille d’un trottoir à l’autre son gibier. Il suit à une distance respectueuse, pose devant les magasins, sous les fenêtres, se cache derrière une porte, retient le numéro de la maison, fait sentinelle et ne donne de la voix que lorsqu’il est sûr du succès. Le pisteur est, ou un tout jeune homme timide, plein d’illusions, ou un homme mûr, plein d’expérience. Le pisteur d’omnibus est un désœuvré qui suit les femmes en omnibus, leur fait du pied, du genou, du coude, risque un bout de conversation, et n’a d’autre sérieuse opération que celle de se faire voiturier de la Bastille à la Madeleine et vice versa. Cet amateur du beau sexe est ordinairement un quinquagénaire dont le ventre a, depuis longtemps, tourné au majestueux. Il offre à tout hasard aux ouvrières le classique mobilier en acajou; les plus entreprenants vont jusqu'au palissandre. Les paroles s'envolent, et acajou et palissandre restent ... chez le marchand de meubles. Peut-être est-ce un pisteur qui a trouvé le proverbe: promettre et tenir font deux.”

Pistole, f. (popular). Grande —, ten-franc piece. Petite —, fifty-centime coin.

Pistolet, m. (obsolete), de manœuvres, stone.

Ils chassèrent le sergent et tous ceux qui étoient avec lui, à grands coups de pierres que ces palots nommoient des pistolets de manœuvres.—L'Apothicaire empoisonné.

Plumet, m. (familiar and popular), avoir son —, to be drunk, or “tight.” Termed also “avoir son petit jeune homme, être paf, s’être piqué le nez.” For other synonyms see Pompette. One day, in 1853, Alfred de Musset, who then had become a confirmed tippler of absinthe, called on M. Empis, the manager of the Théâtre Français, and asked one of the officials of the theatre to introduce him into his presence. The official entered the directorial office, says Philibert Audebrand, when the following dialogue took place:—

—Monsieur le directeur ...

—Quoi? qu’y a-t-il?

—Eh bien, c’est M. Alfred de Musset.

—Mais, monsieur le directeur...

—Quoi donc?

—C’est qu’il a son “petit jeune homme.”

—Qu’est-ce que ça fait, Lachaume? Faites entrer M. Alfred de Musset avec son petit jeune homme.

Le plus piquant de l’histoire, c’est que M. Empis ne savait pas ce que voulaient dire ces mots: “avoir son petit jeune homme.”

The expression led to the following conversation between two savants:—

Un Grammairien. Eh bien, “avoir son petit jeune homme,” qu’est-ce que ça veut dire?

Un Philologue. C’est “avoir son plumet.”

Le Grammairien. Bon! me voilà bien avancé! Qu’est-ce qu’avoir son plumet?

Le Philologue. Monsieur, c’est “être paf.”

Le Grammairien. De mieux en mieux. Qu’est-ce donc qu’ “être paf”?

Le Philologue. Selon le dictionnaire de la langue verte, le mot se dit de ceux qui “se piquent le nez.”

Le Grammairien. Je ne comprends toujours pas.

Le Philologue. Eh bien, traduisez: ceux qui se saoulent.

Le Grammairien. Pour le coup, j’y suis!

Faux —, wig, “flash, or periwinkle.”

Une ——— à la détourne, a shoplifter, or “sneaksman,” termed formerly “buttock-and-file.” “Robbing a shop by pairs is termed ‘palming’—one thief bargaining with apparent intent to purchase,” says the Slang Dictionary, “whilst the other watches his opportunity to steal. The following anecdote will give an idea of their modus operandi. A man once entered a ‘ready-made’ boot and shoe shop, and desired to be shown a pair of boots, his companion staying outside and amusing himself by looking in at the window. The one who required to be fresh shod was apparently of a humble and deferential turn, for he placed his hat on the floor directly he stepped into the shop. Boot after boot was tried on until at last a fit was obtained, when in rushed a man, snatched up the customer’s hat left near the door, and ran down the street as fast as his legs could carry him. Away went the customer after his hat, and Crispin, standing at the door, clapped his hands, and shouted, ‘Go it, you’ll catch him?’ little thinking that it was a concerted trick, and that neither his boots nor the customer would ever return.” Detectives occasionally learn something from thieves, as appears from the stratagem resorted to by a French member of the Sûreté some time ago, who, himself a small man, and having a warrant for the arrest of an herculean and desperate scoundrel, proceeded as follows. He dogged his man, who pretended to hawk chains and watches, and, watching his opportunity, when the man had laid down his merchandise on the table of a wine-shop, he suddenly caught up one of the articles, and made off in the direction of the police station, followed thither by his quarry in hot pursuit, and crying out, “Stop thief!” Needless to say that the result was quite the reverse of that anticipated by the burly malefactor. (Dandies’) La ——, the world of cads, of “rank outsiders.”

Poisson, m. (familiar and popular), one who lives on the earnings of a prostitute, whom he terms “sa marmite,” as providing him with his daily bread.

Seulement ... tout souteneur qui ne venge pas sa largue est considéré comme un fainéant. Il est condamné par la bande des poissons.—Mémoires de Monsieur Claude.

Bullies frequent all parts of Paris, but principally the outer Boulevards and Quartier Montmartre. Those of the lower sort are recognizable by their vigorous appearance, kiss-curls, tight light-coloured trousers, and tall silk cap. These degraded creatures, who are the bane of the outer quarters, readily turn murderers when “business” is slack. Léo Taxil says: “Every day the newspapers are full of the exploits of these wretches, who ply the knife as jugglers do their balls. The police are powerless against them.” In a curious pamphlet, written in 1830, as a protest of the Paris bullies against a police order, forbidding prostitutes from plying their trade in public places, we have a marlou’s portrait painted by himself:—

Un marlou, monsieur le Préfet, c’est un beau jeune homme, fort, solide, sachant tirer la savate, se mettant fort bien, dansant le chahut et le cancan avec élégance, aimable auprès des filles dévouées au culte de Vénus, les soutenant dans les dangers éminents (sic), sachant les faire respecter et les forcer à se conduire avec décence ... vous voyez bien qu’un marlou est un être moral, utile à la société.—Le beau Théodore Cancan.

The synonyms of “poisson” are the following: “Alphonse, baigne-dans-le-beurre, barbise, barbe, barbillon, barbeau, marlou, benoît, brochet, dos, dos vert, casquette à trois ponts, chevalier du bidet, chevalier de la guiche, chiqueur de blanc, bouffeur de blanc, costel, cravate verte, guiche, dessous, écaillé, fish, foulard rouge, gentilhomme sous-marin, ambassadeur, gonce à écailles, goujon, lacromuche, retrousseur, dos d’azur, dauphin, macchoux, machabée, macque, macquet, macrottin, maq, maquereau, poisson frayeur, releveur de fumeuse, maquignon à bidoche, mangeur de blanc, tête de patère, marloupatte, marloupin, marlousier, marquant, mec, mec de la guiche, monsieur à nageoires, monsieur à rouflaquettes, nég en viande chaude, patenté, porte-nageoires, roi de la mer, rouflaquette, roule-en-cul, soixante-six, un qui va aux épinards, valet de cœur, visqueux, bibi, and formerly bras de fer.” The English slang has “Sunday-man, petticoat pensioner, pensioner with an obscene prefix, ponce, prosser,” &c. (Popular) Poisson, large glass of brandy.

Pomper meant formerly to make a sacrifice to Venus. Le Roux gives the explanation in the following words: "Dans un sens équivoque et malicieux, pour faire le déduit."

Pompette, adj. (general), être —, to be intoxicated.

Ce serait moule de ne pas rigoler parfois.... On se sépara à trois heures, délicatement pompettes.—EMILE KAPP, La Joie des Pauvres.

Rabelais uses the word with the signification of "grog-blossoms." The terms graduating the scale of drunkenness, beginning with those which denote mild intoxication, are: "Avoir sa pointe, son allumette, sa pistache, un grain; être bien, monté, en train, lancé, parti, poussé, en patrouille, émêché, ému, bamboche; voir en dedans, être dessous, dans les brouillards, pavois, allumé, gai, dans un état voisin, mouillé, humecté, casquette, bu, bien pansé, pochard, poche, gavé, cinglé, plein, rond, complet, rond comme une balle, raide, raide comme la justice, paf, slasse, poivre, riche, chargé, dans la paroisse de Saint-Jean le Rond, dans les vignes du seigneur, vent dessus dessous, fier, dans les broussailles, dans les brindezingues; avoir un coup de bouteille, de sirop, de soleil, de gaz, de feu, sa chique, un sabre, son paquet, son casque, une culotte, le nez sale, son plumet, son jeune homme, son caillou, sa cocarde, une barbe, son pompon, son poteau, son toquet, son sac, sa cuite, son affaire, son compte, son plein, sa pente, en avoir une vraie mufée; être saoul comme un âne, comme un hanneton, comme une grive, comme un Polonais; être pion, en avoir jusqu'à la troisième capucine, saoul comme trente mille hommes, être asphyxié." According to the Slang Dictionary the slang terms for mild intoxication are certainly very choice; they are, "beery, bemused, boozy, bosky, buffy, corned, foggy, fou, fresh, hazy, elevated, kisky, lushy, moony, muggy, muzzy, on, screwed, slewed, tight, and winey." A higher or more intense state of beastliness is represented by the expressions, "podgy, beargerred, blued, cut, primed, lumpy, ploughed, muddled, obfuscated, swipecy, three sheets in the wind, and top-heavy." But the climax of fuddlement is only obtained when the “disguised” individual “can’t see a hole in a ladder,” or when he is “all mops and brooms,” or “off his nut,” or “with his mainbrace well spliced,” or with “the sun in his eyes,” or when he has “lapped the gutter,” and got the “gravel-rash,” or is on the “ran-tan,” or on the “ree-raw,” or when “sewed up,” and regularly “scammered,”—then, and not till then, is he entitled, in vulgar society, to the title of “lushington,” or recommended to “put in the pin,” i.e., the lynch-pin, to keep his legs steady. We may add to this long list the expression which is to be found in A Supplementary English Glossary, by T. Lewis O. Davies, “to hunt a tavern fox,” or “to be foxed.”

Else he had little leisure time to waste,
Or at the ale-house huff-cap ale to taste;
Nor did he ever hunt a tavern fox.

J. TAYLOR, Lift of Old Parr, 1635.

The same author gives “muckibus,” tipsy, to be found in Walpole’s Letters.

Pompier, m. (popular), drunken man, one who is “screwed;” drunkard, or “lushington;” a mixture of vermouth and cassis; pocket-handkerchief, “snottinger;” — de nuit, scavenger employed in emptying the cesspools, “gold-finder.” (Tailors’) Pompier, journeyman tailor whose functions are to touch up the ill-fitting parts of garments; (Ecole Polytechnique) musical rigmarole which the students sing on the occasion of certain holidays; (military) soldier who is the reverse of smart; (literary) productions written in a conventional, commonplace style; (students’) member of the Institut de France; a student preparing for an examination. (Artists’) Faire son —, consisted in painting a large picture representing some Roman or Greek hero in full armour, and armed with shield, lance, or sword. For the following explanation I am indebted to Mr. G. D., a French artist well known to the English public:—

Du temps de David et plus tard on disait d’un artiste qui n’avait pas eu le prix de Rome: bah! il fera son pompier, il réussira tout de même. Or, faire son pompier, c’était peindre un grand tableau représentant un Grec ou un Romain célèbre avec casque, bouclier et lance; une ville en flammes dans le fond; et si le nu,—car il n’y avait d’autre costume que l’armure,—si le nu dis-je, était bien, l’artiste obtenait un succès. Le pompier était acheté généralement par le gouvernement pour être placé dans un musée de province. Quand vous visiterez les musées de France, vous n’aurez pas de chance si vous ne trouvez pas au moins trois pompiers. Il paraît que les greniers du Louvre en possèdent des quantités qui y restent faute de place dans les musées.

Pompon, m. (popular), head, “nut,” or “tibby.” See Tronche. Dévisser le — à quelqu’un, to break one’s head. Un vieux —, an old fool, “doddering old sheep’s head.” Avoir son —, to be drunk, or “screwed.” See Pompette.

L'unique cabaret de Hanoï le vit donc à l'heure de l'absinthe, mêlé aux uniformes, et il connut les réunions de table par "fractions de corps," les popottes où les officiers dévoraient joyeusement les vivres ferrugineux des boîtes de conserves.—P. BONNETAIN, L'Opium.

Popotter. See Popotte.

Populo, m. (familiar), populace, or "mob." Swift informs us, in his Art of Polite Conversation, that "mob" was, in his time, the slang abbreviation of mobility, just as nob is of nobility at the present day.

It is perhaps this humour of speaking no more words than we need which has so miserably curtailed some of our words, that in familiar writing and conversation they often lose all but their first syllables, as in mob, red. pos. incog. and the like.—ADDISON'S Spectator.

Burke called the populace "the great unwashed."

Porc-épic, m. (thieves'), the Holy Sacrament. An allusion to the metal beams which encircle the Host.

Portanche, m. (thieves'), doorkeeper.

Port d'armes, m. (military), laisser au —, to leave the service before another; to leave one waiting.

Porte, f. (familiar and popular), ne plus pouvoir passer sous la — Saint-Denis, to be an injured husband. Alluding to the height of his horns. Un clos —, a doorkeeper. A play on the words clot porte and cloporte, woodlouse. It must be said that in Paris the concierges are generally much detested by lodgers, and deservedly so.

Et quoique d'aucuns m'appell't clos porte

J'n'ai pas fait l'vœu d'passer pour sot.

Lamentations du Portier d'en face.

Porté, adj. (familiar and popular), sur l'article, one with a well-developed bump of amativeness; (military schools') — sur la liste des élèves morts, on the sick list.

Le garçon.—Trente-sept francs soixante-quinze, messieurs.

Deuxième provincial, bondissant.—Trente-sept francs soixante-quinze! Comment, nous n'avons que nos deux "assinthes" et les deux bocks de ce monsieur!

Le garçon.—Oui, mais il y a l'addition de ce monsieur qui a déjeûné avec une dame ... vous êtes du Midi, n'est-ce pas, messieurs?... Eh bien, croyez-moi: à Paris, mieux vaut encore parler tout seul que de lier conversation avec un "poseur de lapins."—PAUL MAHALIN.

The epithet is also applied to a man who deceives a woman of indifferent character by making promises of money or presents, one who does a "bilk."

Eva sonne sa femme de chambre qui vient pendant qu'il murmure: chàmante, chàmante!

—Tu peux le prendre, s'il te convient, moi, je n'aime pas les poseurs de lapins.—MATHURINE, La Marotte.

Poseuse, f. (theatrical), female singer whose business is to pose.

Là, il put à son aise imposer son répertoire aux chanteurs, répertoire fort varié, du reste, car pour les "poseuses" on fit murmurer le rossignol et le papillon se poser sur la rose à peine éclore.—J. SERMET.

Pousse-cul, m. (familiar and popular), obsolete, "archer," or soldier of the watch.

Pousse-cul, pour archer, ou ce qu'on appelle vulgairement à Paris des sergens, ou des archers de l'écuelle, qui vont d'un côté et d'autre pour prendre les gueux.—LE ROUX.

Nisard, in his interesting work, De quelques Parisianismes populaires, says that the foot-soldiers of the watch were termed "pousse-culs," whereas the mounted police went by the name of "lapins ferrés," lapin being the general term for a soldier, as shown by a letter from a general of the army in Italy to

Bonaparte, written in true Spartan-like spirit:—

Citoyen général en chef—Les lapins mangent du pain; pas de pain, pas de lapins; pas de lapins, pas de victoire: ainsi ouvre l'œil n, i, ni, c'est fini.

Pousse-cul (obsolete), Loveline. It now has the signification of police-officer.

Poussée, f. (popular), reprimand, or “wiggling;” urgent work. Voilà une belle — de bateaux is expressive of disappointment at finding that something which has been praised falls short of one's expectations.

Pousse-moulin, m. (popular), water, “Adam's ale.” Termed “lage” in old English cant. Evidently the old French word “aigue, aige,” preceded by the article. “Lagout” in old French cant.

Pousser (popular), le boum du cygne, to die, “to kick the bucket.” For synonyms see Pipe. Pousser son rond, to ease oneself by evacuation. See Mouscailler. Pousser un bateau, to tell a falsehood, or “flam;” — son glaire, to talk, “to jaw.” Se — de l'air, to go away, “to mizzle.” S'en — dans le battant, le cornet, or le fusil, to drink or eat heartily. (Familiar and popular) Se — du col, to feel proud of one's achievements.

Quand j'la descendis de voiture
J'me dis en me poussant du col,
Vieux veinard, c'est pas d'la p'tit' bière,
J'vais r'cevoir dans mon entresol,
Je l'parierais, une rosière!

E. DU BOIS.

(Roughs') Pousser son pas d'hareng saur, to dance; (thieves') — la goulante, to sing, “to lip a chant.” Se — un excellent, to eat a dish of the ordinary prison fare. Prandionner (artists’), to make a hearty meal.

Prantarsac, m. (thieves’), purse, or “skin.”

Prat, m. (popular), girl of indifferent character, “mot.”

Pratique, f. (military), worthless soldier; unscrupulous soldier who is always seeking to shirk his duties, or to deceive others.

Du reste, il n’y a ici ni blanc-bec, ni carapatas, ni moutard; vous êtes deux pratiques qui, en voyant des conscrits vous êtes dit qu’il serait facile ... de leur faire payer la consommation.—C. DUBOIS DE GENNES.

Il ne faudrait pas cependant exagérer l’héroïsme des “pratiques.” Si d’aucuns se battent bien, un plus grand nombre ne sont que des maraudeurs et des pillards.—HECTOR FRANCE, L’Armée de John Bull.

Praule, m. (thieves’), central prison, “stir, or steel.”

Elles en avaient pour dix ans de praule (centrale) comme elles disaient et pourtant la même (enfant) n’avait pas été estourbie (tuée).—LOUISE MICHEL.

Pré, m. (thieves’), convict settlement. Formerly the galleys. Termed also “pré des fagots,” or “grand pré.” Acresto, gaffine labago.—Tout est franco, y a pas d’trepe. Quand le pante et la gonzesse décarreront de la cassine, nous les farguerons à la dure pour pagour leurs bobinarès, et leurs prantarsacs. Toi, tu babillonneras la largue. S’ils font du renaud et de l’harmonarès, nous les emplâtrerons et chair dure! Si tu veux nous les balancarguerons dans la vassarès; et après, pindarès. Ne manquons pas le coup, autrement nous irions laver nos pieds d’agnet dans le grand pré. Which signifies, in the jargon of modern malefactors, Be careful, look yonder.—All right, there’s nobody. When the man and woman leave the house, we’ll attack them to ease them of their watch and purse. You gag the female. Should they resist and make a noise, we’ll knock them over and smash them. If you wish it, we’ll pitch them into the water, after which we wash our hands of the matter. Let us not make a mull of it, otherwise we can make sure of being transported. Faucher au grand —, to be a convict in a penal servitude settlement. Le — salé, the sea, or “briny.” Etre au — à vioque, to be at the penal servitude settlement for life.

Apprête-toi à retourner au pré à vioque.... Tu dois t'y attendre.—BALZAC.

Le —— au dab court toujours, the prison of Mazas. Le —— est en taupé, it is a bad job.

Voyons, c'est pas la peine de remonter dans vote guimbarde, le pré est en taupé d'abord.—LOUISE MICHEL.

Litanies du Cavalier.

Premier-Paris, m. (common), leading article.

Prendre (thieves'), un rat par la queue, to steal a purse, "to fake a poge;" (gamesters') —— la culotte, to lose a large sum of money, "to win the shiny rag;" (theatrical) —— au souffleur, to perform throughout with the aid of the prompter; —— des temps de Paris, to add to the effect of a tirade by preliminary by-play. Also to bring in by-play when one has forgotten his part and wishes to gain time; (popular) —— Jacques Déloge pour son procureur, to run away, to escape, to abscond.

Cette expression qui est encore usitée avec ces autres "prendre de la poudre d'escampette, lever le paturon, dire adieu tout bas" avait déjà cours au xvii^e siècle, où l'on disait surtout, en plaisantant, "Faire Jacques desloges," pour s'enfuir.—MICHEL.

Prendre de l'air, to vanish, "to bunk," see Patatrot; —— son café aux dépens de quelqu'un, to laugh at one, to quiz him; —— un billet de parterre, to fall, "to come a cropper." A play on the words billet de parterre, pit-ticket, and par terre, on the ground. (Saint-Cyr cadets') Prendre ses draps, to go to the guard-room under arrest, "to be roasted;" (police) —— en filature, to follow and watch a thief, to give him a "roasting". Synonymous of "pousser de la ficelle;" (roughs') —— d'autor une femme, to ravish a woman; (printers') —— une barbe, to get drunk, or "tight".

La "barbe" a des degrés divers. "Le coup de feu" est la "barbe" commençante. Quand l'état d'ivresse est complet, la barbe est simple; elle est indigne quand le sujet tombe sous la table, cas extrêmement rare. Il est certains “poivreux” qui commettent la grave imprudence de “promener leur barbe” à l’atelier; presque tous deviennent alors “pallasseurs,” surtout ceux qui sont taciturnes à l’état sec.—BOUTMY.

“Prendre une barbe” is “to quad out” in the slang of English printers. Prendre la mesure du cul avec le pied (obsolete), to bring one’s foot in violent contact with another’s posteriors.

S’il me regarde de travers, je lui prends la mesure de son cul avec mon pied, de son muflle avec mon poing.—Dialogue, 1790.

(Military) Prendre le train d’onze heures, punishment inflicted on a soldier by his comrades, the culprit being dragged about in his bed by means of ropes attached.

Prince, m. (popular), one who suffers from the itch. See Principauté. Prince du sang, murderer; — russe, man who keeps a woman.

Principauté, f. (popular), the itch. A play on principauté de Galles and gale, itch. Termed in English slang, "Scotch fiddle." "To play the Scotch fiddle," says the Slang Dictionary, "is to work the index finger of the right hand like a fiddlestick between the index and middle fingers of the left. This provokes a Scotchman in the highest degree, as it implies that he has the itch. It is supposed that a continuous oatmeal diet is productive of cutaneous affection." In Scotland the ejaculation, "God bless the Duke of Argyle!" is an insinuation made, when one shrugs his shoulders, of its being caused by parasites, or cutaneous affection. It is said to have been originally the thankful exclamation of the Glasgow folk at finding a certain row of iron posts, erected by his Grace in that city to mark the division of his property, very convenient to rub against. Some say the posts were put up purposely for the benefit of the good folk of Glasgow, who were at the time suffering from the "Scotch fiddle."

Prine, wife of the "prin" (which see).

Prison, f. (popular), être dans la — de Saint-Crépin, to have tight boots on. Saint-Crépin is the patron saint of shoemakers.

Probité, f. (thieves'), kindness.

Si je ne suis pas si gironde (gentille) j'ai un bon cœur; tu l'as vu lorsque je lui portais le pagne à la Lorcéfé (la provision à la Force); c'est là qu'il a pu juger si j'avais de la probité (bonté).—VIDOCQ.

Problème, m. (students'), watch chain in the possession of the owner. The problem is, how comes it that such an ornament is not at the pawnshop?

Produisante, f. (thieves'), the earth.

Profonde, or parfonde, f. (thieves'), cellar; pocket, "cly, sky-rocket, or brigh."

Il rôde autour des beaux cafés
Où boivent les gommeux, ineptement coiffés,
A la porte des grands hôtels, autour des gares,
Il ramasse des bouts, mordillés, de cigares,
Les met dans sa profonde.

me; what's that to me?

Quelpoique (thieves'), nothing, or "nix;" never. Literally quel poique, how little.
Poique for pouic.

On peut enquiller par la venterne de la cambriolle de la larbine qui n'y pionce quelpoique, elle roupille dans le pieu du raze.—VIDOCQ. (One may effect an entrance by the window of the servant's room, where she never sleeps; she sleeps in the parson's bed.)

Quelque part (familiar and popular), in the behind. Donner un coup de pied —, to kick one in the seat of honour, "to toe one's bum." Aller —, to go to the privy, or "Mrs. Jones." The secret memoirs of Bachaumont mention this term in the repartee of the financier La Popelinière, to a courtier who said disdainfully, "Il me semble, monsieur, vous avoir vu quelque part." A quoi le financier répondit, "En effet, monsieur, j'y vais quelquefois." Avoir quelqu'un, or quelque chose —, to be superlatively bored by a person or thing.

Quelqu'un, m. (familiar), faire son —, to give oneself airs.

Si madame fait un peu sa quelqu'une.—BALZAC.

Quem, m. (thieves'), faire son —, to give oneself airs.

Queniente (thieves'), not; not at all. From the Italian.

Quenottier, m. (old cant), dentist.

Quépette (roughs'), an expression referring to the hour. Il est deux heures —, it is two o'clock. Il est midi —, it is twelve o'clock. Madame milord quépette, a lazy woman who gets up late in the day, a "lady-fender."

Quéquette, f. (general), penis.

Que t'es (printers'), derisive exclamation uttered by printers to interrupt one who is making use of a word which gives them their cue for the joke.

Riposte saugrenue que les compositeurs se renvoient à tour de rôle, quand l'un d'eux, en lisant ou en discourant, se sert d'un qualificatif prêtant au ridicule. Donnons un exemple pour nous faire mieux comprendre. Supposons que quelqu'un dans l'atelier lise cette phrase: "Sur la plage nous rencontrâmes un sauvage ..." un plaisant interrompt et s'écrie: "Que t'es!"—BOUTMY.

Queue, f. (familiar and popular), faire une —, to be unfaithful conjugally. Also to leave part of debt unpaid. Faire la — à quelqu'un, to deceive one, "to bamboozle" him, or to take a "rise" out of him. Habit en — de pie, dress coat. Termed also "sifflet d'ébène."

Mon gendr' pour la cérémonie,
A voulu s'ach'ter un chapeau,

Lâcher l'habit noir à queue d'pie,
La cravat' blanche et les gants d peau.
E. CARRÉ, J'ai mon Coup d'Feu.

Habit en — de morue, dress coat.

Il donna un coup de poing dans son tuyau de poêle, jeta son habit à queue de morue et jura sur son âme qu'il ne le remettrait de sa vie.—TH. GAUTIER.

Une — de rat, a snuff-box, "sneezer."

Au dîner (c'que l'vin vous fait faire!
"Voyez un peu si j'suis distrait!)
Mathieu m' demande la poivrière.
Au lieu d'y passer c'qu'i' voulait,
J'y tends ma queu' d'rat, qu'était pleine,
Aussi distrait qu' moi, v'là Mathieu
Qui met l'tabac dans sa Julienne!
E. CARRÉ, J'ai mon Coup d'Feu.

Une — de renard, vomit. Piquer une — de renard, to vomit, "to cast up accounts, or shoot the cat." Des queues, nonsensical phrases tailed on to one another and uttered rapidly without taking breath. Çam'épatedemouche-artichautshuredesanglierarchiecorémifasolaugratintamarre, that is, ça m'épate, patte de mouche, mouchard, artichaut, chaussure, hure de sanglier, hiérarchie, chicorée, ré mi fa sol, sole au gratin, tintamarre. (Thieves') Faire la queue, to pick pockets in a crowd at the door of a theatre. Couper une — de rat, to steal a purse, "to fake a poge, or to nip a boung." An allusion to the strings of purses. (Journalists') Queue, newspaper which has the same matter as another with a different title.

A Bruxelles, plus d'un journal quotidien compte de quatre à cinq "queues," c'est-à-dire qu'il transforme son titre en conservant la même matière de texte ou à peu près, et sert ainsi plusieurs catégories d'abonnés.—Le Figaro.

Queuiste, m. (popular), man who secures a place in the crowd, or "queue," at the door of a theatre, and sells his chance to another.

Et puis surtout il y a les queuistes de profession pour qui la place tenue est un gagne-pain ... choisir dans la queue est encore une science difficile ... les toutes premières places ne sont pas forcément les meilleures. Les plus courues sont celles où l'on peut s'appuyer, s'asseoir, les encoignures, les pas de portes, les bornes.... N'est pas queuiste qui veut.—RICHEPIN, Le Pavé.

Qui a du onze corps-beau? (printers'), "qui a du onze" is a call for certain type; "corps-beau" stands for corbeau, crow; phrase used to warn one's fellow-workers that a priest has just entered the workshop.

Quibus, m. (familiar and popular), money, abbreviation of quibus fiunt omnia.

S'il vous vient des enfants, les voir, dès leur jeune âge,...
Se corrompre au contact du quibus paternel,
Sachant bien que quand vous passerez l'arme à gauche
Ils trouveront de quoi rigoler amplement.

GILL.

Termed also, in different kinds of slang: “De l’os, des monacos, du nerf, des pépettes, des achetoires, de la galette, des picaillons, de ce qui se pousse, de quoi, de l’oignon, de l’oseille, de la douille, des jaunets, des sous, de la graisse, du piesto, du galto, du pognon, de l’artiche, du morningue, du foin, du plâtre, du poussier, des soldats, de la mornifle, de la sauvette, de l’huile, du beurre, de la braise, du bathe, du graissage, de la thune, de la miche de profonde, de l’oignon pèse, du sable, des pimpions, des mouscaillons, des rouscaillons, de l’affaire, du métal, du zinc, du pèse, du pedzale, des noyaux, des plombes, des sonnettes, du quantum, du gras, de l’atout, de l’huile de mains, des patards, de la vaisselle de poche, du carme, de la pécune, du pouiffe, des ronds, de la bille, du sine qua non, du sit nomen.” An amusing remark of the journal La France may not be here out of place. “Though the word money,” it says, “be the object of everybody’s preoccupation, it is mentioned as infrequently as possible. The banker says, mes ‘fonds;’ the young girl, ma ‘dot;’ and the young man, mes ‘espérances;’ the trooper, mon ‘prêt;’ the employé, mes ‘appointements;’ the administrator, mes ‘jetons de présence;’ the female attendant at a theatre, mes ‘petits bénéfices;’ the lawyer, mes ‘honoraires;’ the editors of certain journals, ma ‘subvention;’ the actor or singer, mes ‘feux;’ the servant, mes ‘gages;’ the heir, mes ‘legs;’ the landlord, ma ‘fortune;’ the rough, mes ‘picaillons;’ the monk, ma ‘prébende;’ the Pope, mon ‘denier de Saint-Pierre;’ the prince, ma ‘dotation.’ Finally, from the ‘liste civile’ of our kings to the ‘tirelire’ of our children, synonyms are in every case substituted for the proper terms.” The English slang has the following: “Oof, stumpy, muck, ballast, brass, loaver, blunt, needful, rhino, bustle, gilt, dust, dimmock, coal, feathers, brads, chink, quids, pieces, clinkers, stuff, dumps, chips, corks, dibbs, dinarly, gent, horse nails, huckster, mopusses, palm oil, posh, ready, Spanish, rowdy,” &c. Abouler du —, or de la braise, to pay, “to shell out, to fork out, to down with the dust, to stump the pewter, to flap the dimmock, to tip the brads, to sport the rhino.”

Quilles, f. pl. (familiar and popular), legs.

La madame du pavillon qui met ses bas?—Plus que ça de quilles.—GAVARNI.

The synonyms are, “flûtes, guibes, guibonnes, guibolles, trimoires, gambettes, échalias, ambes, train numéro onze, bâtons de cire, bâtons de tremplin,” and, in the English slang, “gambs, pins, spindle-shanks, Shanks’ mare, stumps, pegs, timbers, stems,” &c. Jouer des —, to bolt, “to skedaddle.” For synonyms see Patatrot. (Popular and thieves’) Quilles d’échasse, long-legged man, “daddy long-legs.”

J’té connais, toi, l’gros, et toi aussi, les quilles d’échasse.—LOUISE MICHEL.

Quimper (thieves’), to fall; — la lance, to void urine.

Quinquets, m. pl. (popular), eyes. Termed also “mirettes, reluits, calots, chas, or châsses, châssis, falots, lampions, apics, ardents;” in the English slang, “peepers, glaziers, ogles, daylights, top-lights.” Allumer ses —, to gaze about attentively, “to stag.” Eteindre les —, to put out a person’s eyes. (Roughs’) Remoucher un pante avec des quinquets comme des roues de derrière, to look at a man with eyes like crown pieces, “to pipe at a cove with glaziers like hind coach-wheels.” Baisser les abat-jour de ses —, to shut ones eyes; to go to sleep.

Il est temps de baisser les abat-jour de nos quinquets. Bonsoir donc et bonne nuit.—DUBOIS DE GENNES.

Quinte, f. (popular), avoir — et quatorze, to suffer from a venereal disease; to be unlucky, “down on one’s luck.” J’en ai-t’y de la chance! En v’la une quinte et quatorze. That’s just my cursed ill-luck! (Popular and military) Avoir —, quatorze, et le point, to be suffering from a complicated venereal disease.

Notre héros ... ne le porta pas cependant en paradis. Une belle Italienne lui donna son compte. Quinte, quatorze et le point. Jeu complet. Il est mort à l’hôpital.—HECTOR FRANCE, Le Roman du Curé.

English sailors use the term, “to take one’s coals in,” to express that they have caught the venereal disease. “It means,” says the Slang Dictionary, “that they have gotten that which will keep them hot for a good many months.” Quinte mangeuse is the quinte majeure at the game of piquet.

Quinze, m. (popular), vingts, blind man. Alluding to an inmate of the Government home for the blind, known under the name of Les Quinze-Vingts; — cents francs, one-year volunteer in the army. He has to pay the State a sum of 1,500 francs for his outfit; — broquilles, a quarter of an hour; (familiar and popular) — ans et pas de corset! “sweet sixteen!” is said of any female whose charms have still a youthful appearance.

Oui, c’était ça! quinze ans, toutes ses dents et pas de corset!—ZOLA.

Quiqui, m. (rag-pickers’), fowl; scraps of food of all kind, “scran.”

Quirtourne, f. (popular), window.

Au moment où j’avais fini d’allumer la quirtourne (d’allumer la lumière derrière le rideau de la fenêtre).

Mes mirettes (mes yeux) l'avaient chauffé. Mais moi qui, pourtant, faisait le crottard (trottoir) pour pêcher un Philistin, je me défie du pante. Je ne l'ai pas plutôt attiré dans ma turne que je le fais sortir du pieu, prétextant que j'ai besoin, avant de batifoler avec le zig, de fader (partager) avec lui, sur le comptoir du mastro, un verre de verte. Nous redescendons et je lui rends sa bougie (argent). Chance! car j'évitais le butteur qui, quatre heures après, attirait chez la Blafarde (conduisait à la mort) ma faridole (compagne) avec son gosse. Ah! le gredin!... m'a-t-il fait baver des clignots (pleurer) depuis qu'il a suriné ma vieille Mage et son gosse! Que je serai heureuse le jour où je verrai son mufler mouffonner dans le son (quand je verrai sa tête tomber dans le panier du bourreau).—Mémoires de Monsieur Claude.

Qui-va-là, m. (popular), donner le —, to ask for one's passport.

Qui-va-vite, f. (popular), diarrhœa, or “Jerry go nimble.”

Quocqter (thieves'), to deceive, “to do.”

Quoniam, m., or quoniam bonus (obsolete). The signification is given by the quotation:—

Mot inventé, pour signifier à mots couverts la nature d'une femme, et est fort usité à Paris.—LE ROUX.

Quoquante, f. (thieves'), cupboard.

Quoquard, m. (thieves'), tree.

Quoqueret, or ququeret, m. (old cant), curtain.

Quoquille, m. (thieves'), arrant fool, “go along.”

R

Rabat, m. (popular and thieves'), cloak, "ryder, or topper."

Rabateux de sorgue, m. (old cant), night thief. Termed also "doubleur de sorgue." Michel says: "On donnait le nom de 'rabats' aux lutins et c'est ainsi que le chartreux Jacques de Clusa, ou Junterburck, qui a écrit un traité des Apparitions des âmes après la mort et de leurs retraites, remarque qu'ils sont appelés. Rabelais, qui écrivait postérieurement au crédule chartreux, place dans la bibliothèque de Saint-Victor la Mommerie des rabats et luitins. De rabat est venu rabater, lutiner, que Nicot, Pontus de Tyard et Trippault dérivent de ραβάττειν, dont les Grecs se sont servis pour dire se promener haut et bas, frapper, et faire du bruit.... En somme, il n'est pas douteux que 'rabateux' ne vienne de 'rabater,' et ne signifie étymologiquement rôdeur de nuit."

Rabatteur de pantes, m. (thieves'), detective, "cop." Termed also "baladin." Literally a beater, man being the quarry.

Rabatteuse, f. (popular), procuress; small omnibus which plies between Paris and the outlying districts.

Rabattre (thieves'), to return.

C'est égal, t'as beau en coquer, tu rabattras au pré.—VIDOCQ. (Never mind, in spite of all your informing, you will one day return to the hulks.)

Rabiage, m. (thieves'), income; profits.

Rabiau, rabio, or rabiot, m. (military), what remains of provisions or drink after all have had their share; profits on victuals or forage. The word has the general signification of remainder, over-plus.

—C'que c'est que c' paquet-là?

—Mon colonel, c'est ... du sel.

—Du sel ... tant qu' ça de sel! c'que vous f... d'tant qu' ça d'sel?

—Mon colonel, c'est que ... c'est un peu de rabio.

—Rabio! c'ment ça, rabio? Pour lors vous avez volé tout c'sel-là aux hommes! S'crongnieugnieu!... allons f... moi tout ça dans la soupe!—CH. LEROY, Guibollard et Ramollot.

Rabiot, convalescent soldier; what remains of a term of service; term of service in the compagnies de discipline, or punishment companies, termed "biribi."

Il acheva la journée dans des transes indicibles, poursuivi de l'atroce pensée qu'il allait faire du rabiote, se voyant déjà à Biribi, en train de casser des cailloux sur les routes.—G. COURTELINE.

Rabibochage, m. (familiar and popular), reconciliation.

Rabiboche (familiar), to effect a reconciliation between people who have quarrelled. Se ———, to forget one's differences, to become friends again.

Les moindres bisbilles maintenant, finissaient par des attrapages, où l'on se jetait la débîne de la maison à la tête; et c'était le diable pour se rabiboche, avant d'aller pioncer chacun dans son dodo.—ZOLA, L'Assommoir.

Rabiote. See Rabiau.

Rabiote. See Rabiauter.

Raboin, m. (thieves'), devil, "ruffin, black spy, darble, old hairy."

En v'là un de bigoteur qui a le taffetas d'aller en glier où le Raboin le retournera pour le faire riffauder.—VIDOCQ.

Michel says: "Ce mot doit venir de l'espagnol 'rabo,' queue, le raboin est donc le personnage à la queue. Je ne serais pas étonné que le nom de rabbin, par lequel on désigne encore les docteurs juifs, ne fût l'origine de la croyance qui régnait parmi le peuple, au moyen âge, que les Israélites naissaient avec une queue." Termed also "rabouin."

Il lansquine à éteindre le riffe du rabouin.—VICTOR HUGO.

Compare the word with the Italian cant "rabuino," which has a like signification.

Raboter (popular), l'andosse, to thrash one, "to dust one's jacket." Se ——— le sifflet, to drink a glass of strong brandy. A metaphor which recalls the action of a plane on a piece of wood.

Raboteux. See Rabateux.

Rabouillère, f. (familiar), wretched looking house, a "hole."

Rabouler (popular and thieves'), to return. American thieves term this, "to hare it; "——— à la cassine, to return home, "to speel to the crib."

Raccord, m. (theatrical), partial rehearsal of a play.

Raccourcir (familiar and popular), to guillotine. The expression dates from 1793. We find the following synonyms in Le Père Duchêne of '93, edited by Hébert: "cracher dans le sac," an allusion to the head falling into the basket and the blood spouting up; “mettre la tête à la fenêtre,” shows the condemned one passing his head through the aperture; “jouer à la main-chaude,” which alludes to his hands tied behind his back, la main-chaude being literally hot cockles; “passer sous le rasoir national,” which needs no explanation. After '93 Louis XVI. was called “Louis le raccourci.”

Raccourcisseur, m. (popular), the executioner. Called also “Charlot.” See Monsieur de Paris.

Rachevage, m. (popular), depraved individual; a foul-mouthed man.

Racine de buis, f. (popular), epithet applied to a humpback, to a “lord.” Also long yellow tooth.

Râclette, f. (popular), chimney-sweep; (thieves’) spy, “nose;” detective, “cop.”

Râclure d’aubergine, f. (familiar), the ribbon of the decoration of officier d’Académie, which is violet.

Des hommes un peu plus âgés et portant à la boutonnière la “râclure d’aubergine” (le ruban d’officier d’Académie).—DIDIER, Echo de Paris, 1886.

Rade, radeau, m. (thieves’), till, or “lob;” shop, “chovey.” Encasquer dans un rade, to enter a shop.

Radicaile, or radicanaille, f. (familiar), the Radical party.

Radicaillon, m. (familiar), contemptuous epithet applied to a Radical.

Radicon, m. (thieves’), priest, “devil-dodger.” Termed also “Bible-pounder, white choker.”

Radin, m. (thieves’), fob. Friser le —, to pick a fob. Un — fleuri, a well-filled pocket. Un —, a till, or “lob.” Faire un coup de —, to steal the contents of a till. Termed by English thieves, “lob sneaking,” or “to draw a damper.” Un —, a cap, or “tile.” Vol au —, robbery in a shop. Two rogues pretend to quarrel, and one of them, as if in anger, throws the other’s cap into a shop, thus providing his accomplice with a pretext for entering the place, and an excuse should he be detected. See Vol au radin.

Radiner (thieves’), to return, “to hare it;” to arrive, “to tumble up.” Rigaud says, “Radiner est sans doute une déformation du verbe rabziner qui, dans le patois picard, a la même signification.”

Radis (familiar and popular), money, “tin.” N’avoir pas un —, to be penniless, to be “dead broke.” Ne pas foutre un —, not to give a farthing.

Qu’a pleur’, qu’a rigol’; c’est tout comme;
Sûr! J’y foutrai pas un radis.
“T’as qu’à turbiner, comme j’y dis,
J’travaill’ ben, moi qui suis un homme!”
Gill, La Muse à Bibi.

Un — noir, priest, “white choker;” police officer, or “crusher.”

Radouber (popular), se —, or passer au grand radoub, to eat, “to yam.”

Radurer (thieves’), to whet.

Radureur, m. (thieves’), grinder.

Rafale, f. (popular and thieves’), poverty. A poor man without a farthing is said to be “dead broke, or a willow.”

Cela est assez étonnant, dit la brune, tous les “nierts” qui sont venus pioncer “icigo” étaient dans la “rafale;” c’est un vrai guignon.—VIDOCQ.

Rafalé, m. and adj. (popular and thieves’), poor, “willow;” one with squalid clothes. (Familiar) Un visage —, face with worn features.

Rafalement, m. (popular), humiliation; squalid poverty.

Rafaler (popular), to humiliate; to make one wretched. Se —, to become poor or squalid.

Raffe, f. (popular and thieves’), booty, spoil, “swag.” “He cracked a case and fenced the swag,” he broke into a house and took the booty to a receiver’s.

Raffiler la manquesse (thieves’), to give one a bad character.

Raffiné, m., name given to court gallants and to duellists under Charles IX.

Un raffiné est un ... homme qui se bat quand le manteau d’un autre touche le sien, quand on crache à quatre pieds de lui.—P. MÉRIMÉE, Chronique du Règne de Charles IX.

Raffurer (thieves’), to recover; to recoup. From re and affurer, to procure money. From the Latin fur.

Rafiot, m. (popular), thing of small importance, “no great shakes;” adulterated article of inferior quality. Termed “surat” in the English slang. This word affords a remarkable instance of the manner in which slang phrases are coined. In the report of an action for libel in the Times, some few years back, it was stated that since the American Civil War it has been not unusual for manufacturers to mix American cotton with Surat, and, the latter being an inferior article, the people in Lancashire have begun to apply the term “surat” to any article of inferior or adulterated quality.

Rafraîchir (military), se —, to fight with swords. From rafraîchir, to trim, the swords being the trimming instruments. (Popular) Se — les barbes, to drink, “to wet one’s whistle.” American thieves term this, “to sluice one’s gob.”

Rage de dents, f. (popular), great hunger.

Ragot, m. (thieves’), quarter of a crown; (popular) short fat person, “humpty-dumpty.” The famous Ragotin of Scarron’s Roman Comique is short and fat. Faire du —, to talk ill of one, to slander.

Ragougnasse, f. (popular), unsavoury stew.

Ragoût, m. (painters’), vigorous style of painting.

Les mots dont ils se servaient pour apprécier le mérite de certains tableaux étaient vraiment bizarres. Quelle superbe chose!... comme c’est tripoté! comme c’est torché! Quel ragoût!—TH. GAUTIER.

(Popular) Ragoût de poitrine, breasts, or “Charlies.”

T’as encore une belle nature pour parler d’z’autres! Est-ce parceque j’nons pas d’ragoût d’poitrine sus l’estoma? J’ons la place, plus blanche que la tienne, et j’n’y mettons pas d’chiffons comme toi.—Amusemens à la Grecque.

Ragoûter (thieves’), to awake suspicion.

Raguse. See Coup.

Raide, adj. and m. (popular), drunk, “tight.” See Pompette. Raide comme balle, with the utmost rapidity. Filer — comme balle, to disappear rapidly, “like winkin’,” or, as American thieves say, “to amputate like a go-away.” “This panny’s all on fire (house is dangerous). I must amputate like a go-away, or the frogs (police) will nail me.” La trouver —, to be dissatisfied or offended. Je la trouve raide, it is coming it rather too strong. Raide comme la justice, completely drunk, or “drunk as a lord.”

Ces noceurs-là étaient raides comme la justice et tendres comme des agneaux. Le vin leur sortait par les yeux.—ZOLA, L’Assommoir.

Du —, brandy, “French cream.” Termed “bingo” in old English cant. Siffler un verre de —, to have a dram, “a drop o’ summat’ short, or a nail in one’s coffin.” The lower orders say to each other at the moment of lifting a glass of spirits to their lips, “Well, good luck! here’s another nail in my coffin.” Other phrases are “shedding a tear, or wiping an eye.”

Raideur, f. (popular), la faire à la —, to give oneself dignified, “noli me tangere” airs.

Raidir (popular), or — l’ergot, to die, “to snuff it.” See Pipe. To express that one is dead English and American thieves say that he has been “put to bed with a shovel.”

Played out they lay, it will be said
A hundred stretches (years) hence;
With shovels they were put to bed
A hundred stretches hence!

Thieves’ Song.

Raie. See Gueule.

Raille, f. and m. (thieves’), la —, the police, the “reelers.” Etre —, to be in the employ of the police, a “nose.”

C’est vrai, mais vous ne m’avez pas dit que vous étiez raille (mouchard).—VIDOCQ.

Un —, or railleux, police officer, or “copper;” a detective, or police spy.

Ils parlaient aussi des railles (mouchards). A propos de railles, vous n’êtes pas sans avoir entendu parler d’un fameux coquin, qui s’est fait cuisinier (mouchard).—VIDOCQ.

Victor Hugo says the word comes from the English “rascal,” but Michel derives it with more reason from “raillon,” a kind of javelin with which the archers or police were armed formerly.

Ci gist et dort en ce sollier,
Qu’Amour occist de son raillon,
Ung pouvre petit escollier
Jadis nommé François Villon.

Le Grand Testament de François Villon.

Raisiné, m. (thieves’), blood. Properly jam made of grapes. Faire couler le —, to shed blood.

Je suis sûr que tu es marqué. Qu’avons-nous fait? Avons-nous tué notre mère ou forcé la caisse à papa? Avons-nous fait suer le chêne et couler le raisiné?—TH. GAUTIER.

Raisins, m. pl. (popular), huile de —, wine; “red tape,” in the jargon of English thieves.

Auguste, un peintre en bâtiment,
Qui travaillait en face,
Entre, et nous dit comm’ ça m’z’enfans
J’ai l’gosier qui s’encrasse.
Faut y mettr’ de l’huil’ de raisin.

H. P. DENNEVILLE

Raisons, f. pl. (familiar and popular), avoir des — avec quelqu’un, to have a quarrel with one.

Râler (popular), to deceive, “to best;” to cheapen.

Râleur, m. (second-hand booksellers’), person who handles the books without buying any, and generally one who bargains for a long time and buys nothing. Also liar.

Râleuse, f. (shop-keepers’), female who cheapens many articles and leaves without having made a purchase. Also liar.

Rallie-papier, m. (familiar), paper chase on horseback.

Rama, parler en —, formerly mode of using the word as a suffix to other words. The invention of the Diorama had brought in the fashion of using the word rama as stated above. It was much in vogue in Balzac’s time, and had been first used in the studios.

Le soir, après la soupe, on nous mit au rama; nous étions étonnés. Ce n’était pas l’habitude de nous enchaîner sitôt.—HUMBERT, Mon Bagne.

Ramamichage, m. (familiar), reconciliation.

Ramamicher (popular), to bring about a reconciliation.

Ramasser (military), de la boîte, to be locked up.

J’ai mon truc à matriculer pour à c’soir; si c’est pas fait, j’ ramasserai de la boîte.—G. COURTELINE.

Ramasser les fourreaux de bayonnette, to come up after the battle has been fought; (thieves’ and roughs’) — les pattes, or filer une ratisse à un gas, to thrash one. See Voie. Ramasser un bidon, to make off, “to make beef.” See Patatrot. (Popular) Ramasser ses outils, to die, “to snuff it;” — quelqu’un, to apprehend, “to nail” one; to thrash one. Se faire —, to be locked up by the police, to be “run in;” to get a thrashing.

Si le patron m’embête, je te le ramasse et je te l’asseois sur sa bourgeoise, tu sais, collés comme une paire de soles!—ZOLA, L’Assommoir.

Ramasse-toi (popular), words addressed to a person who is talking incoherently.

Ramastiquer (thieves’), to pick up; to do the ring-dropping trick, or “fawney rig.” See Ramastiqueur.

Ramastiqueur, or ramastiqué, variety of thief, “money-dropper.” The rogue scrapes up an acquaintance with a dupe by inquiring about a coin or article of sham jewellery which he pretends to have just picked up in the street, and offers for sale, or otherwise fleeces the pigeon. Many of these rogues are rascally Jews. This kind of swindle is varied by dropping a pocket-book, the accomplice being termed in this case “heeler.” The heeler stoops behind the victim and strikes one of his heels as if by mistake, so as to draw his attention to the pocket-book. Also beggar who picks up halfpence in courts thrown to him from windows.

Les arcassineurs sont les mendiants à domicile. Les ramastiqueurs les mendiants de cours qui ramassent les sous. Les tendeurs de demi-aune, les mendiants des rues.—Mémoires de Monsieur Claude.

(Popular) Ramastiqueur d’orphelins, poor wretch who goes about picking up cigar and cigarette ends, a “hard up.”

Rameneur, m. (gamesters’), man of gentlemanly appearance, whose functions are to induce people to attend a gaming-house or gaming club.

Un personnel de rameneurs qui, membres réguliers du cercle, gentlemen en apparence ... ont pour mission de racoler ... ceux qui bien nourris à la table d’hôte, seront une heure après dévorés à celle du baccara.—HECTOR MALOT, Baccara.

The American “picker-up” somewhat corresponds to the “rameneur.” The picker-up takes his man to a gambling saloon, and leaves him there to be enticed into playing. The picker-up is always a gentleman in manners, dress, and appearance. He first sees the man’s name on the hotel register and where he is from. Many of the servants of hotels are in the pay of pickers-up, and furnish them with information concerning guests. (Familiar) Rameneur, old beau who seeks to conceal his baldness by brushing forward the scanty hair from the back of his head.

Rameneuse, f. (popular), girl who makes it a practice to wait for clients at the doors of cafés at closing time.

Ramicher, or ramamicher (popular), to bring about a reconciliation. Se ———, to be friends again.

Rampe, f. (familiar), princesse de la ———, actress. Une pomme de ———, a bald head, or "bladder of lard." (Theatrical) Se brûler à la ———, to approach close to the footlights, and play as if no other actors were present. Lâcher la ———, to die. See Pipe.

Ramponner (popular), to drink, "to lush;" to get drunk, or "screwed."

Rancart, m. (familiar), object of little value, "no great shakes." (Thieves') Faire un ———, to procure information.

Rancké, m. (thieves'), two-franc coin.

Rangé des voitures, adj. (thieves'), is said of one who has become honest.

A vingt et un ans rangé des voitures.—From a thief's letter.

Ranger (popular), se ——— des voitures, to become honest. Is said also of a man who, after having sown his wild oats, leads a quiet life.

Rapapiotage, m. (popular), reconciliation.

Rapapioter (popular), to effect a reconciliation.

Rapapioteur, m. (popular), one by whose kind efforts a reconciliation is effected.

Rapatu, m. (thieves'), body-louse.

Râpe, f. (thieves'), back. Used more in reference to a humpback.

Râpé, m. and adj. (military), officer without any private means; (popular) ——— comme la Hollande, very poor, “quisby.” An allusion to râper, to rasp, and Dutch cheese.

Râper (popular), to sing, “to lip.” Also to sing in a monotonous fashion.

Rapiat, subst. and adj. (familiar and popular), stingy, “close-fisted, or near.” Termed “brum” at Winchester School. Une ———, a miserly woman.

C'est égal, t'es une jolie fille; ça faisait mal de te voir chez cette mauvaise rapiat de bonapartiste de mère Lefèvre.—HECTOR FRANCE.

Un ———, a native of Auvergne. The natives of each province of France are credited with some particular characteristics; thus, as seen above, the Auvergnats are said to be thrifty, stingy, miserly; the Normans thievish, fond of going to law; the Picards are hot-headed, of an irate disposition; the Bretons have a reputation for being pig-headed; the Gascons for possessing a mind fertile in resource, and for being great story-tellers—also for bragging; the Champenois is supposed to be stupid; the Parisians are “artful dodgers;” the Lorrains are, it is alleged, treacherous; and the natives of Cambrai are all mad. Hence the proverbial sayings: avare comme un Auvergnat; voleur comme un Normand; entêté comme un Breton; 99 moutons et un Champenois font cent bêtes, &c. Again, among soldiers “un Parisien” is synonymous with a soldier who seeks to shirk his duty; sailors apply the epithet to a bad sailor, horsedealers to a “screw,” &c., &c.

Rapiot, m. (popular), patch on a coat or shoe; (thieves') searching on the person, “frisking, or ruling over.” Formerly the term referred to the searching of convicts about to be taken to the hulks. Le grand ———, was the general searching of convicts. Michel says, “Il est à croire que ce mot n'est autre chose que le substantif rappel qui faisait autrefois rappiaus au singulier; mais le rapport entre une visite et un rappel? C'est que sans doute cette opération était annoncés par une batterie de tambour.”

Rapioter (popular), to patch up.

Monsieur, faites donc rapioter les trous de votre habit.—MORNAND.

(Thieves') To search, “to frisk.”

Butons les rupins d'abord, nous refroidirons après la fourgate et nous rapioterons partout. Il y a gros dans la taule.—VIDOCQ.

Rapioteur, m., rapioteuse, f. (popular), one who patches up old clothes.

Georges Cadoudal, avant son arrestation, avait trouvé asile chez une jeune rapioteuse du Temple.—F. MORNAND, La Vie de Paris.

Rapointi, m. (popular), clumsy, awkward workman.

Rappliquer (popular and thieves'), to return, “to hare it;” —— à la niche, or à la taule, to return home.

Tout est tranquille ... la sorgue est noire, les largues ne sont pas rappliquées à la taule, la fourgate roupille dans son rade.—VIDOCQ. (All “serene” ... the night is dark, the women have not returned home, the receiver sleeps inside his counter.)

Rasé, or razi, m. (thieves'), priest. From his shaven crown.

Raser (familiar), to annoy, to bore one.

Nous avons été voir les Mauresques. Dieu! les avons-nous rasées avec nos plaisanteries.—LORiot.

Also to ruin one.

Elle s'est essayée sur le sieur Hulot qu'elle a plumé net, oh! plumé, ce qui s'appelle rasé.—BALZAC.

(Shopmen's) Raser, to swindle a fellow shop-assistant out of his sale;
(sailors') to tell “fibs;” to humbug.

Rase-tapis, m. (familiar), a horse that trots or gallops without lifting its feet much from the ground, “daisy-cutter.”

Raseur, m. (familiar), a bore.

Ce type est en même temps un “raseur” de l'espèce spéciale dite “des déboutonneurs à histoires bien bonnes.” Vous savez bien ces braves gens à qui vous ne pouvez pas adresser la parole sans qu'ils vous répondent par: “Je vais vous raconter une bien bonne histoire” et qui commencent immédiatement par vous arracher, un à un, les boutons de votre redingote.—Gil Blas.

(Shopmen's) Raseur, one who swindles a fellow shop-assistant out of his sale.

Rasibus, m. (popular), le père ——, the executioner. A play on the word raser, to shave.

Et le coup de la bagnole au père Rasibus, quand il fouette les cadors au galop et que les cognes font un blaire.—RICHEPIN.

Rasoir, m. and adj. (familiar and popular), bore; boring.

On commence à nous embêter avec les bleus. Tout le temps les bleus, ça devient rasoir à la fin; on nous prend trop pour de bonnes têtes.—G. COURTELINE.

Rasoir de Birmingham, superlative of bore. (Popular) Rasoir! expression of contemptuous refusal; may be rendered by the Americanism, "yes, in a horn."
Faire —, to be penniless. (Gamblers') Banque —, gaming "banque" which has a run of luck, and in consequence leaves the players penniless.
Faire —, to lose all one's money, "to blew" it. Ça fait —, nothing is left.

Mangeux de tout; excepté l'tien,
Car tu n'as rien; ça fait rasoir.

Riche-en-gueule.

(Thieves') Rasoir à Roch, or — de la Cigogne, guillotine. M. Roch was formerly the executioner, and la Cigogne is the epithet applied to the Préfecture de Police. The knife of the guillotine was termed in '93, "rasoir national."

Raspail, m. (popular), brandy, "French cream," and "bingo" in old English cant. Termed also "troix-six, fil-en-quatre, dur, raide, chenique, rude, crik, eau d'aff, schnapps, camphre, sacré chien, goutte, casse-poitrine, jaune, tord-boyaux, consolation, riquiqui, eau de mort."

Rassembler (military), se faire —, to get reprimanded or punished.

Rastacouère, or rastaquouère, foreign adventurer or swindler, generally hailing from the sunny south, or from South America, who lives in high style, of course at somebody or other's expense.

La petite Raymonde D..., sa chère adorée, qu'on avait surnommée, je ne sais pourquoi, sa "chair à saucisses," l'a lâché comme un vulgaire rastaquouère, pour se mettre avec un jockey.—Gil Blas.

Rat, m. (thieves'), young thief who is generally passed through a small aperture to open a door and let in the rest of the gang, or else conceals himself under the counter of a shop before the doors are closed, "little snakesman, or tool."

He kept him small on purpose, and let him out by the job. But the father gets lagged.—CH. DICKENS, Oliver Twist.

Also thief who exercises his skill at inns or wine-shops. Courir le —, to steal at night in lodgings, or at lodging-houses. Rat, thief who steals bread; — de prison, barrister, or "mouthpiece." Prendre des rats par la queue meant formerly to steal purses, when persons wore their purses at their girdles. A cut-purse was formerly called a “nypper.” A man named Wotton, in 1585, kept in London an academy for the education of pickpockets. Cutting them was a branch of the light-fingered art. Instruction in the practice was given as follows: a purse and a pocket were separately suspended, attached to which, both around and above them, were small bells; each contained counters, and he who could withdraw a counter without causing any of the bells to ring was adjudged to be a “nypper.” The old English cant termed cutting a purse, “to nyp a bunge.” Dickens, in Oliver Twist, shows Fagin educating the Dodger and Charley Bates by impersonating an old gentleman walking about the streets, the two boys following him and seeking to pick his pockets. (Popular) Rat de cave, excise officer, gauger; — d’égout, scavenger. (Ecole Polytechnique) Rat, student who is late; — de pont, student whose total of marks at the final examination does not entitle him to an appointment in the corps of government civil engineers of the Ponts et Chaussées; — de soupe, one late for dinner. From rater, to miss. (Familiar) Rat, or — d’opéra, young ballet dancer between the ages of seven and fourteen. (Sailors’) Rat de quai, man who looks out for odd jobs in harbours.

Le grand-père est un rat de quai,
Le petit-fils mousse embarqué.
La grand' mère, aux jours les meilleurs,
Porte la hotte aux mareyeurs.

RICHEPIN, La Mer.

Etre ——, to be stingy, “close-fisted.”

Ce jeune rat—moins “rat” que son adversaire.—Gil Blas.

Rata, m. (general), kind of stew.

Le rata diminutif de ratatouille ... se compose de pommes de terre ... avec assaisonnement d'un morceau de lard ... en société d'une botte d'oignons.—DUBOIS DE GENNES.

La mère Nassau lui vociféra une longue kyrielle d'injures dont une partie sans doute lui avait été adressée à elle-même le jour où elle fut surprise crachant dans le rata.—H. FRANCE, La Pucelle de Tebessa.

Rata, used in a figurative sense, signifies a coarse, unmeaning article, or literary production.

Vous avez lu la lettre si digne de ——? Xau, poli, comme un marbre, a dû faire un signe d'assentiment, mais il est trop occupé pour absorber ce rata soi-disant naturaliste.—Gil Blas, 1887.

Rataconniculer (obsolete), to cobble. Referred also to the carnal act.

Ratafia de grenouille, m. (popular), water. Called, in the English slang, “Adam's ale,” and the old term “fish broth,” as appears from the following:—

Mademoiselle Augustine Brohan.—Vous vous trompez, mon cher directeur.... A la cour de Napoléon III., on dit maintenant: il a "remercié son boulanger."—P. AUDEBRAND.

The above conversation, according to the author of Petits Mémoires d'une Stalle d'Orchestre, took place at the Théâtre Français, of which M. Arsène Houssaye was then the manager. To explain this invasion of the Parisian jargon in the house of Molière, it must be said, that it coincided with the publication of a decree by M. Achille Fould, then Secretary of State. Being aware that the idiom of the hulks and gutter was used to an alarming extent on the Parisian stage, his Excellency had declared that the Government, declining to be an accomplice of these literary misdemeanours, had prohibited the use of the degrading lexicology, and had ordered a "commission de censure" (whose functions are somewhat similar, in theatrical matters, to those of the Lord Chamberlain in England) to taboo any play offering such enormities. The injunction had been specially enforced with respect to the Théâtre Français as being the official guardian of the purity of the French language and the leading playhouse. But the offended comedians, in retaliation, began to affect making use of the “langue verte.”

Retiquer (students'), to disqualify one at an examination, "to spin." Etre retoqué, to fail to pass an examination, "to be ploughed." About twenty years ago "pluck," the word then used, began to be superseded by "plough." It is said to have arisen from a man who could not supply the examiner with any quotation from Scripture, until at last he blurted out, "And the ploughers ploughed on my back, and made long furrows." "Etre retoqué" may also be rendered into English slang by "to be plucked." The supposed origin of "pluck" is that when, on degree day, the proctor, after having read the name of a candidate for a degree, walks down the hall and back, it is to give any creditor the opportunity of plucking his sleeve, and informing him of the candidate being in debt. Un retoqué du suffrage universel, an unreturned candidate for parliament.

Riffaudeur, m. (thieves'), incendiary. Les riffaudeurs, better known under the name of “chauffeurs,” were brigands who, towards 1795, overran the country in large gangs, and spread terror among the rural population. They besmeared their faces with soot, or concealed them under a mask. They burned the feet of their victims in order to compel them to give up their hoardings. The government of the Directoire was powerless against these organized bands, and it was only under Bonaparte's consulate in 1803 that they were hunted down and captured by the military. Le — à perpète, the devil, or “Ruffin.”

Riffer. See Riffauder.

Rogne, adj. and f. (familiar and popular), être —, to be in a rage, "to be shirty." Avoir des rognés avec un gas, to have a quarrel. Flanquer la —, to get one in a rage. Properly rogne signifies itch, mange, and it stands to reason that anyone suffering from the ailment would naturally be in anything but a good humour.

Les hôtes de la posada, intimidés et méfiants, nous prenant pour des bandits, "avaient la frousse" selon l'expression pittoresque de L. M. qui, mourant de faim, comme d'habitude, déclara furieux que cette réception lui "flanquait la rogne," surtout lorsqu'il vit la vieille mégère, horrible compagne, faire signe à son mari de charger le tromblon.—HECTOR FRANCK, A Travers l'Espagne.

Avoir la —, to be out of temper, or "riled." A person is then said to have his "monkey up." An allusion to the evil spirit which was supposed to be always present with a man, but more probably to the unenviable state of mind of a man who should have such a malevolent animal firmly established on his shoulders, comparable only to the maddening sensation expressed by "avoir un rat dans la trompe," i.e., "to be riled," to be badgered.

Rogner (thieves'), to guillotine. Literally to pare off. (Popular) Rogner, to be in a rage.

L'infirmier se fout à rogner, naturellement.—Comment, qu'y dit, vous osez dire ça.—G. COURTELINE.

(Popular) Tirer le chausson, to run away. In the English slang, "to pike it," as appears from quotation:—

Joe quickly his sand had sold, sir,

And Bess got a basket of rags;

Then up to St. Giles's they roll'd, sir;

To every bunter Bess brags.

Then unto the gin-shop they pike it,

And Bess was admitted, we hear;

For none of the crew dare but like it,
As Joey, her kiddy, was there.
The Sand-Man's Wedding.

Tirer la dig-dig, to pull the bell, "to jerk the tinkler;" (police) — la droite, or de la droite, to have a peculiar limp of the right leg, caused by the weight of the fetters which a convict has worn when at the penal servitude settlement.

Ce n'est pas un sanglier, ... c'est un cheval de retour. Vois comme il tire la droite! Il est nécessaire d'expliquer ici ... que chaque forçat est accouplé à un autre (toujours un vieux et un jeune ensemble) par une chaîne. Le poids de cette chaîne, rivée à un anneau au-dessus de la cheville, est tel, qu'il donne, au bout d'une année, un vice de marche éternel au forçat.... En termes de police, il tire la droite.—BALZAC.

Nul, d'ailleurs, n'entraît à la malle sans avoir passé par ses mains, Flick tenant à bien se convaincre qu'aucun de ses lascars ne lui tirait de carotte.—G. COURTELINE.

The Italians have the corresponding expression, "piantar carota," the origin being that, in a soft soil, an appropriate image of credulity, the carrot will thrive wonderfully. The wary Italian only plants the aforesaid vegetable, biding his time and watching his opportunity, whilst the impetuous Gaul at once plucks it by the roots. (Military) Tirer de la cellule, to be confined in a military cell.

Oui, c'est comme ça; je tire de la cellule avant que je me tire moi-même.—G. COURTELINE.

Tirer au cul, to shirk one's duties. An allusion to unfair thrusts not allowed in fencing.

Tu vas me foutre le camp au pansage, tout de suite, et tu coucheras à la boîte ce soir pour t'apprendre à tirer au cul. Ah! carotier! ah! fricoteur!—G. COURTELINE.

Termed also Tirer au grenadier, — au renard, — aux flancs.

De tous les coins de l'infirmerie des cris de colère montaient: Y tire aux flancs, ce cochon-là.—G. COURTELINE.

Tirer au cul, to deceive one's superiors by feigning sickness, &c.

Eh bien oui, hurla-t-il, c'est vrai! C'est vrai que j'ai tiré au cul ... mais si j'ai pas la diarrhée, comme j'ai voulu le faire accroire, c'est pas faute que j'aye tout fait pour l'attraper; je vous en fiche mon billet ... j'm'ai flanqué douze paquets de bismuth dans l'estomac; j'pouvais pourtant pas faire pluss!—G. COURTELINE.

Ca se tire, things are progressing favourably. La chose se tire, the plan is being carried out, the thing is being done.

Il faut lui crever la paillasse; qui est-ce qui en est?... Il n'y eut pas une désertion ... ni parmi ceux de la classe, pour qui "ça se tirait."—G. COURTELINE.

(Thieves') Tirer la longue, to limp; — sa crampe, to escape from prison; — son plan, to be in prison; — un congé à la Maz, to be imprisoned in the prison of Mazas.

Moi, j'ai besoin qu'ma Louis turbine,

Se dit en parlant de quelqu'un que la peur paralyse, parceque, alors, selon l'expression vulgaire, il “serre les fesses.”—Dict. d'Argot Moderne.

Faire un — à la lune, to fail in business, to be bankrupt. It formerly signified to disappear. Literally to vanish behind the moon. (Thieves') Trou, prison, or “quod.”

Vive le vin! vive la bonne chère!
Vive la grinche! vive les margotons!
Vive les cigs! vive la bonne bière!
Amis, buvons à tous les vrais garçons!
Ce temps heureux a fini bien trop vite,
Car aujourd'hui nous v'là tous dans l'trou.

Song written by CLÉMENT, a burglar.

Troubade, or troubadour, m. (popular), infantry soldier.

Ta tournure guerrière,
Ta de rata, tata, ta de rata, ta taire,
Sait captiver la plus fière!
Et, pour le parfait amour,
En filant un doigt de cour,
Tu te montreras toujours
Plus fort que dix troubadours.

DUBOIS DE GENNES.

Trouée, f. (thieves'), lace, or "driz."

Troufignard, troufignon, m. (popular), the behind; the anus.

Troufion, m. (popular), soldier.

Trouillarde, f. (popular), prostitute. From the verb trôler, to roam about.

Trouille, f. (popular), dirty servant; slut; dissipated-looking woman; trull; (thieves') fear. Avoir la —, to be afraid. Synonymous of "avoir le taf, le trac, le flubart, la frousse."

Trouilloter (popular), to stink.

Troupe, f. (theatrical), d'argent, second-rate company; — de carton, company composed of very inferior actors; — de fer-blanc, one numbering actors of ordinary ability. Termed also "troupe d'été," the Paris season taking place in winter; — d'or, or d'hiver, first-rate theatrical company. In the language of journalists the expressions, "troupe de fer-blanc," "troupe d'or," are used to denote respectively a middling or excellent staff of writers.

Trousse, f. (thieves'), anus.

Troussequin, m. (popular), the behind, or "Nancy." See Vasistas.

Trouvé, adj. (artists' and journalists'), new, original.

Trouver (familiar), la — mauvaise, to be highly dissatisfied. Trouver des puces, to have a quarrel, or to get a thrashing. Se — mal sur, to appropriate another's property.

Troyen, m. (domino players'), three of dominoes.

Truc, m. (familiar and popular), affair; mode; knack; dodge. Avoir le —, to have the knack, to have the secret.

Est-ce que je ne connais pas toutes les couleurs? J'ai le truc de chaque commerce.—BALZAC.

Avoir le —, to find a dodge.

Ce farceur de Mes-Bottes avait eu le truc d'épouser une dame très décatie.—E. ZOLA.

Truc, any kind of small trade in the streets. Avoir du —, to be ingenious; to possess a mind fertile in resource. Le — vert, billiards, or "spooof." (Popular and thieves') Piger le —, to discover the fraud, the dodge. Le — de la morgane et de la lance, christening.

Le —, thieving, "lay." Le grand —, murder. Des trucs, things, objects. Donner le —, to give the watchword. Boulotter le —, to reveal the watchword. (Theatrical) True, engine used to effect a transformation scene. Pièce à trucs, play with transformation scenes. (Prostitutes') Faire le —, to walk the streets. (Military) Truc, room.

Nous arrivons dans une espèce de sale truc, grand à peu près comme v'là la chambre, seul'ment pas t'tafait aussi haut.—G. COURTELINE.

Also military equipment. Truc, from the Provençal tric, deceit. Then we have the old-fashioned word "triche," which corresponds to the English trick at cards. A thief in Italian lingo is termed "truccante." Literally trickster. In old French "truc" meant blow, and in the Italian jargon "trucco" is used to denominate a stick, from a correlation between the effect and the cause.

Trucage, m., selling new articles for antiquities.

Trucageur, m., manufacturer of articles sold as genuine antiquities.

Trucard, m. (popular), artful dodger.

Truche, f. (thieves' and tramps'), begging, "cadging."

Je suis ce fameux argotier,

Le grand Coesre de ces mions.

J'enterve truche et doubler

Dedans les boules et frémions.

La Chanson des Argotiers.

La faire à la —, to beg, “to cadge.”

Trucher (old cant), to beg, “to cadge;” — sur l’entiffe, to beg on the road.
From truc.

Trucheur, or truchoux, m. (old cant), beggar, or “cadger;” tramp, or “pikey.”

Qui veut rouscailler,
D’un appelé du grand Coesre,
Dabusche des argotiers,
Et des trucheurs le grand maître,
Et aussi de tous ses vassaux.
Vive les enfans de la truche,
Vive les enfans de l’argot.

La Chanson des Argotiers.

Trucsin, m. (thieves’), house of ill-fame, “flash-drum, nanny-shop, or Academy.” In America certain establishments of this description are termed “panel-cribs.” I find the following description in a book called the Slang Dictionary of New York, London, and Paris (the last-named town might have been left out): Panel-crib, a place especially fitted up for the robbery of gentlemen, who are enticed thereto by women who make it their business to pick up strangers. Panel-cribs are sometimes called badger-cribs, shake-downs, and touch-cribs, and are variously fitted for the admission of those who are in the secret, but which defy the scrutiny of the uninitiated. Sometimes the casing of the door is made to swing on well-oiled hinges which are not discoverable in the room, while the door itself appears to be hung in the usual manner, and well secured by bolts and lock. At other times the entrance is effected by means of what appears to be an ordinary wardrobe, the back of which revolves like a turnstile on pivots. When the victim has got into bed with the woman, the thief enters, and picking his pocket-book out of his pocket, abstracts the money, and supplying its place with a small roll of paper, returns the book to its place. He then withdraws, and coming to the door raps and demands admission, calling the woman by the name of wife. The frightened victim dresses himself in a hurry, feels his pocket-book in its proper place, and escapes through another door, congratulating himself on his happy deliverance. The panel-thief who fits up a panel-crib tries always to pick up gentlemen that are on a visit to the city on business or pleasure, who are not likely to remain and prosecute the thieves.

Truelle, f. (freemasons’), spoon. Termed also “pelle.”

Truffard, or truffardin, m. (popular), soldier, “swaddy.” Truffard also means happy, lucky.

Truffe, f. (popular), nose of considerable proportions, or “conk;” potato, “spud;” — de savetier, chestnut. Aux truffes, excellent, “first-class, fizzing, out-and-out, nap.” Il a un nez à chercher des truffes is used to compare a man to a pig, as a porcine assistant is necessary for the finding and rooting up of truffles.

Truffé, adj. and m. (familiar), arrant, or “captious” fool; — de chic, superlatively elegant or stylish, “tsing tsing.”

Truffer (popular), to deceive, “to cram up.”

Trufferie, f. (popular), fib, “cramming up.”

Truffeur, m. (popular), one who tells fibs, who “throws the hatchet,” or “draws the long-bow.” The English slang expressions come from the wonderful stories which used to be told of the Norman archers, and more subsequently of Indians’ skill with the tomahawk.

Truffier, m., truffière, f. (popular), fat person. An allusion to a pig used for finding truffles, and which is called truffier in certain parts of France. It appears that peasants, in order to discover an animal with a fine nose, go to the fair with a bit of truffle in their shoe, and they know a good truffle-finder at once, as he never fails to sniff at their heels.

Truquage, m. (artists’), putting the name of an old master to a modern picture.

Truquer, m. (popular), to live by one’s wits; (thieves’) to swindle, “to bite;” to give oneself up to prostitution; — de la pogne, to beg, “to cadge.” (Tradespeoples’) Truquer, to manufacture articles sold as genuine antiquities.

Truqueur (popular), one who lives by his wits; swindler, one of the “swell-mob;” card-sharper, “rook;” Sodomist, “gentleman of the back door;” seller of theatre checks; one who does sundry odd jobs, such as opening the doors of carriages, &c., “one who lives on the mooch,” or who sells small articles in the streets; pedlar.

Je vous assure qu’il me répugne de verser le raisiné de ces deux truqueurs.—VIDOCQ.

Truqueur de cambrouse, tramp, or “pikey.”

Les deux truqueurs de cambrouse nous entendront si on rebâtit le sinve.—VIDOCQ.

Truye, f. fils de — (obsolete), used to be said of a man who vanishes, alluding to La Truye qui file, the signboard of a celebrated wine-shop of the seventeenth century.

Tual (Breton cant), fox.

Tuant, adj. (familiar), dull in the superlative degree.

Tubard, m. (popular), silk hat. Various kinds of covering for the head are termed: “capet, carbeluche, combre, combrieu, capsule, tuyau de poêle, tromblon, tube, tube à haute pression, casque, viscope, bolivar, couvre-amour, tuile, épécéphale, galurin, lampion, nid d’hirondelle, caloquet, cadratin, ardoise, marquin, bêche, décalitre, corniche, couvercle, couvrante, loupion, bosselard;” and in the English slang: “tile, chimney-pot, stove-pipe, goss.” To complete this chapitre des chapeaux, which has nothing in common with the one said by Sganarelle to have been written by Aristotle, we may add that Fielding calls hats “principles,” and in explanation of the term he says:—

As these persons wore different “principles,” i.e. hats, frequent dissensions grew among them. There were particularly two parties, viz. those who wore hats fiercely cocked, and those who preferred the “nab” or trencher hat, with the brim flapping over their eyes. The former were called “cavaliers” and “tory rory ranter boys,” &c. The latter went by the several names of “wags, roundheads, shakebags, oldnolls,” and several others. Between these continual jars arose, insomuch that they grew in time to think there was something essential in their differences, and that their interests were incompatible with each other, whereas, in truth, the difference lay only in the fashion of their hats.—Jonathan Wild.

Tube, m. (familiar and popular), silk hat, “stove-pipe.” See Tubard.

Et ... le tube sur l’oreille ... suivi d’horizontales, de verticales, de déhanchées et d’agenouillées, on le verra s’en aller dans les rues.—Le Voltaire.

(Popular) Le —, the throat, “gutter-lane, or whistler;” the nose, or “smeller.” See Morviau. Se coller quelque chose dans le —, to eat, “to grub.” Se piquer le —, to get drunk, or “tight.” Se flanquer du terreau dans le —, to take snuff. Un —, a musket, or “dag.” Un — à haute pression, silk hat.

Tuber (popular), to smoke. Tubons en une, let’s “blow a cloud.”

Tubercule, m. (familiar), big nose, “conk.”

Tué, adj. (familiar), astounded, aghast, “flabbergasted.”

Tuer (thieves’), le ver, to silence the calls of one’s conscience, a not unusual thing for thieves to do. (Popular) Tuer les mouches à quinze pas, to have an offensive breath; — le colimaçon, to have a morning glass of white wine; — le ver, to have an early glass of spirits, a “dew-drink.”

Ensuite on tue le ver abondamment: vin blanc, mêlé-cassis, anisette de Bordeaux, d'aucunes grognardes, à la peau couleur de tan ne crachent pas sur une couple de perroquets, le demi-setier de casse-poitrine ou la chopine d'eau-de-vie de marc.—P. MAHALIN.

Tuffre, m. (thieves'), tobacco, "stuff."

Tuile, f. (freemasons'), plate; (familiar) disagreeable and unforeseen event; (roughs') hat, or "tile."

Tuileau, m. (roughs'), cap, "tile."

I'm a gent, I'm a gent,
In the Regent-Street style,—
Examine my costume
And look at my tile.
Popular Song.

Tuiler (popular), to measure, to judge of one's character or abilities; to survey one with suspicious eye. Se ———, to reach the stage of intoxication when the drunkard looks apoplectic, when he is as "drunk as Davy's sow."

Tulipe orageuse, f., a step of the cancan, a pas seul danced in such places as Bullier or L'Elysée Montmartre by a young lady with skirts and the rest tucked up so as to disclose enough of her person to shock the sense of decorum of virtuous lookers-on, whose feelings must be further hurt by the energetic and suggestive gyratory motions of the performer's body. This pas is varied by the "présentez armes!" when the lady handles her leg as a soldier does his musket on parade. Other choregraphic embellishments are, "le passage du guet, le coup du lapin, la chaloupe en détresse, le pas du hareng saur," &c.

Tune, or thune, f. (thieves'), money, or "pieces;" five-franc piece.

J'suis un grinche, un voleur, un escarpe; je buterais le Père Eternel pour affurer une tune, mais ... trahir des amis, jamais!—VIDOCQ.

La ———, or tunebée (old cant), the old prison of Bicêtre. In the fifteenth century the king of mendicants was called Roi de Thune, or Tunis, as mentioned by V. Hugo in his description of La Cour des Miracles under Louis XI. (see Notre Dame de Paris), in imitation of the title of Roi d'Egypte, which the head of the gipsies bore at that time. It is natural that rogues should have given the appellation to the prison of Bicêtre, where so many of the members of the "canting crew" were given free lodgings, and which was thus considered as a natural place of meeting for the subjects of the King of Thune.

Tuneçon, f. (old cant), prison, or "stir."

Tuner (old cant), to beg, “to maunder.” The latter term seems to be derived from mendier, to beg.

Tuneur, m. (old cant), beggar, “maunderer.”

Tunnel, m. (medical students’), the anus.

Tunodi (Breton cant), to talk cant, “to patter flash.”

Turbin, m. (popular), annoyance.

Bon sang d’bon Dieu! quel turbin!
J’viens d’mett’mon pied dan’ eun’ flaque:
C’est l’hasard qui m’offre un bain,
Vlan! v’là l’vent qui m’fiche eun’ claque.

RICHEPIN.

Turbin, work, “graft.”

Après six jours entiers d’turbin
J’m sentais la gueule un peu sale.
Vrai, j’avais besoin d’prend’un bain;
Seul’ment j’l’ai pris par l’amygdale.

RICHEPIN.

(Thieves’) Le —, thieving. (Prostitutes’) Le —, prostitution. Aller au —, to walk the streets as a street-walker.

Turbiner (popular), to work, to do “elbow grease.”

Plus joyeux encore l’ouvrier qui turbine en plein air, suspendu sur un échafaudage, plus près du bleu, éventé par les souffles de l’horizon.—RICHEPIN, Le Pavé.

Tutu, m. (familiar), kind of short muslin drawers worn by ballet girls. Termed also “cousu.”

Son maillot tendu sans un pli, avant d'enfiler cette sorte de jupon-caleçon de mousseline, bouffant aux hanches, fermé au-dessus du genou et qui répond au joli petit nom harmonieux de tutu ou cousu.—A. SIRVEN.

Tuyau, m. (popular), ear, or “wattle;” throat, or “red lane.” Se jeter quelque chose dans le —, to eat or drink. Avoir le — bouché, to have a cold in the head. (Familiar and popular) Tuyau de poêle, silk hat, “stove-pipe.”

Ni blouses, ni vestes, ni casquettes: redingotes, paletots, tuyaux de poêle.—A. SIRVEN.

(Military) Tuyau de poêle, regulation boots. (Popular) Les tuyaux, legs, “pins.” Ramoner ses tuyaux, to run away; to wash one's feet. See Patatrot.

(Sporting) Tuyau, “tip,” that is, confidential information about a horse that is likely to win. Given in le tuyau de l'oreille.

Après mon opération, le cheval que j'ai pris devient subitement le tuyau.—Le Gil Blas.

Donner un —, to give such information, “to give the office.”

Tuyaux de poêle, m. pl. (popular), high boots; worn-out shoes.

Des tuyaux de poêle qui reniflent la poussière des ruisseaux.—E. DE LA BÉDOLLIÈRE.

Type, m. (familiar and popular), individual, “bloke, cove,” or “cuss,” as the Americans say.

Nous ne parlerons que pour mémoire du garçon de café qui, dédaignant aujourd'hui le pourboire, ne rend jamais exactement la monnaie, lorsqu'il a flairé un type à ne pas compter.—A. SIRVEN.

Type has also the signification of odd fellow, “queer fish.” The term “type” was first used by cocottes as synonymous of dupe, or “flat,” as appears from the following dialogue between two “soupeuses,” frequenters of Brébant's restaurant.

—Avec qui as-tu passé ta soirée?

—M'en parle pas: avec deux types qui m'ont embêtée à cent francs par tête.—P. AUDEBRAND, Petits Mémoires d'une Stalle d'Orchestre.

Typesse, f. (familiar and popular), woman.

Un peu de courage à la poche (mountebanks'), a phrase used as an appeal to the generosity of the public when the sum required before the performance of any feat is not forthcoming. May be rendered by "tuppence more and up goes the donkey," a vulgar street phrase, says the Slang Dictionary, for extracting as much money as possible before performing any task. The phrase had its origin with a travelling showman, the finale of whose performance was the hoisting of a donkey on a pole or ladder. (Familiar) Un de plus refers to an injured husband.

Uonik (Breton cant), the sun.

Urf, adj. (popular), excellent, first-class. C'est rien —! excellent, "real jam."
Le monde —, fine people.

Urge, m. The word is used by the ladies or "tartlets" of the Boulevards to qualify a man's financial status. The scale ranges from the humble "un urge," denoting a poor or very stingy man, to the superlative "dix urges." A stingy man is also said to wear gloves of the size 6½, whilst a generous One sports the 8½.

Ainsi un gandin passe d'un air dégagé sur le boulevard, lorgnant les femmes qui font espalier à la porte des cafés. Trois urges! diront celles-ci en l'apercevant. Trois urges, c'est-à-dire: ce monsieur n'est pas généreux, il gante dans les numéros bas. Si, au contraire, elles disent: Six urges! ou huit urges! oh! alors, c'est un banquier mexicain qui passe là, elles le savent, il leur en a donné des preuves la veille ou l'avant-veille. L'échelle n'a que dix échelons; le premier urge s'emploie à propos des pignoufs; le dixième urge seulement à propos des grands seigneurs.—DELVAU.

Vaquerie, f. (old cant), bier en —, to sally forth on a thieving expedition.

Vase, m. and f. (familiar), étrusque, chamber-pot, or “jerry.” Concerning this utensil Viscount Basterot, in his work De Québec à Lima, speaks of a curious custom of the Peruvians. He says: “On a su de tout temps que les Espagnols ne se font pas prier pour annoncer bruyamment qu’ils ont bien dîné; témoin une certaine histoire du Maréchal Bassompierre. Mais il est une certaine habitude péruvienne dont vraiment je n’avais jamais entendu parler. Il est un peu embarrassant de la décrire, mais pourquoi la tairais-je? Ne faut-il pas raconter, quels qu'ils soient, les usages et les mœurs? Quel serait sans cela l'intérêt des voyages? Le fait est qu'au Pérou, le pot de chambre est arrivé à la hauteur d'une institution nationale. On se mettrait plutôt en route sans malle que sans cet ustensile précieux. Les personnes riches les font faire en argent. Mais, hélas! la vieille aristocratie est sur son déclin, et la faïence domine aujourd'hui. Les dames surtout les étalent avec une complaisance infinie; il est vrai qu'ils servent aussi quelquefois de meuble de toilette. On voit arriver une brillante senora; elle tient quelque chose à la main: c'est sans doute un bouquet de fleurs, ou un mouchoir de dentelle? Non, c'est son vase de nuit! Encore si elles se dispensaient de s'en servir publiquement! Mais elles pensent probablement, avec quelques cyniques, que les choses naturelles ne sont pas indécentes." (Popular and thieves') De la —, rain, or "parney." Il tombe de la —, or de la flotte, it rains.

Vaser (popular and thieves'), to rain. Termed also "lansquiner, tomber de la lance."

Vergne, f. (thieves'), town. La grande —, Paris. Une — de miséricorde, literally une ville de misère et corde, a town where thieves have little chance of success. Michel says vergne is literally winter quarters, from the Italian verno, winter. More probably, however, it comes from vergne, alder plantation. Every small town has a square planted out with trees, used as a promenade, or for the holding of fairs, &c., a meeting-place for pedlars (who have contributed so many expressions to the jargon). Thus aller à la vergne possibly signified to go to the public square, and, by an association of ideas, to go to the town. It is to be noted, on the other hand, that the Latin verna, vernaculus, respectively mean slave born in the house of his master, native; so that the word vergne would be a native house, collection of native houses—hence town.

Vermeil, m. (thieves'), blood, “claret.”

Vermicelles, m. pl. (popular), hair, “thatch.”

Viédaser (obsolete), to work carelessly.

Vieille, adj. (familiar), un verre de —, a glass of old brandy. La — garde, the set of superannuated cocottes, of “played-out tarts.”

Tout ce qu’on appelait déjà, il y a quinze ans, la vieille-garde, a passé par le Moulin-Rouge. C’étaient Esther Guimond, dont un ministre de la guerre disait: “Elle est de ma promotion.”—MAHALIN.

(Familiar and popular) Ma — branche, old fellow, my hearty, “old chump, my ribstone, or my bloater.”

D’là-haut j’applaudis chaque acteur
Surtout si la pièce est bien franche.
J’cri’: chaud! chaud! vas-y, ma vieill’ branche.

BURANI ET BUGUET.

Vieille barbe, old-fashioned politician who will not keep up with the times.

Invitez là tous ces fossiles

Vingt-deux, m. (thieves'), knife, or “chive.”

Prends le vingt-deux en cas de malheur.—VIDOCQ.

(Printers') Le —, the master or chief overseer. Vingt-deux! is used to notify that the master is approaching. A signal of the same description used by English schoolboys or workmen is “nix!”

Vingt-huit-jours, m. (popular), soldier of the reserve. Thus termed on account of his yearly twenty-eight days' service.

Viocque, adj. and f. (thieves') old; life. From the old word viouche, pronounced viouque.

Violon, m. (popular), boîte à —, lock-up at a police station.

J'suis connu d'tous les sergents d'ville,
J'connais tout's les boît's à violon,
C'est chez eux qu' j'élis domicile,
J'pourrais pas vivr' dans les salons!

E. DU BOIS, C'est Pitanchard.

The word violon itself signifies lock-up, on account of the window-bars of a cell being compared to the strings of that instrument. The lingo terms, “jouer de la harpe,” to be in prison, and “jouer du violon,” to file through the window-bars of a cell, seem to bear out this explanation. Some philologists, however, think that the stocks being termed psaltérion, “mettre au psaltérion,” to put in the stocks, became synonymous of to imprison, the expression being superseded in time by “mettre au violon” when that instrument itself superseded the psaltérion.

Violoné, adj. (thieves'), poor. A man who comes out of prison is generally

“hard-up.”

Violets, m. (obsolete), explained by quotation:—

Pour les testicules, les génitoires, les marques de virilité d'un homme.—LE ROUX.

Visuel, m. (popular), s'en injecter, or s'en humecter le —, to look attentively.

Vitam (Breton cant), brandy.

Vitelotte, f. (popular), red nose, one with “grog blossoms.”

Vitres, f. pl. (popular), eyes, or “glaziers.”

Vitriers, m. pl. (military), chasseurs à pied, or rifles. Thus nicknamed, either from their high knapsack compared to an itinerant glazier's plant, or from the expression, casser les vitres, to be reckless. The appellation forms the theme of the following verse set to one of their bugle marches:—

Encore un carreau d'cassé,
V'là l'vitrier qui passe,
Encore un carreau d'cassé,
V'là l'vitrier passé.

Tierce major dans les vitriers, vingt-trois; trois bœufs, vingt-six; trois larbins, vingt-neuf; trois borgnes, quatre-vingt-douze.—ZOLA.

Vitriol, m. (popular), brandy.

Vitrioler (general), to throw oil of vitriol at one's face.

Je la vitriolerais!... je la tuerais plutôt, la vieille greline, à coups de revolver.—D. DE LAFOREST.

Vitrioleuse, f. (general), woman who out of revenge throws vitriol at her lover or rival.

Les vitrioleuses font décidément fortune: les graves jurés les acquittent avec une complaisance singulière ... place aux récidivistes du vitriol.—Un Flâneur.

Vitriolisateur, m. (journalists'), imaginary instrument recommended for the use of those of the fair sex who throw oil of vitriol at their lovers.

Cet instrument n'est autre que le vitriolisateur, qui, sur, la table de toilette de ces dames, prendra place à côté du vaporisateur.—Un Flâneur.

Vlan, adj. and m. (familiar), pink of fashion; the world of dandies, or "swelldom."

Voici, d'abord, les Trossuli, comme ils s'appelaient autrefois: le "pschutt," le "vlan," les "luisants," comme nous les nommons aujourd'hui. Oh! ce n'est plus à des "Troyens" qu'ils ont l'ambition de ressembler.—P. DE MAHALIN.

Vlan, or v'lan, elegant; of the fashionable world.

La pauvre Mathilde C. est dans la désolation. Elle croyait avoir mis la main sur un homme v'lan et voilà qu'elle découvre que c'est rien du tout.—Gil Blas.

Voie, f. (popular), foutre une — de bois à quelqu'un, to thrash, to cudgel one.

Refiler une —, to thrash. The synonyms to describe the act in the various kinds of slang are: "donner une tournée, graisser les bottes, reconduire, faire la conduite, donner du tabac, passer chez paings, rouler, retourner, donner une roulée, une frottée, une froteska de la salade; faire valser, déshabiller, faire danser sans violons, faire chanter un Te Deum raboteux, chiquer, refiler une purge, une séance, une ratisse, une pousse, estuquer, bûcher, démolir, mettre en compote, flaupier, manger le nez, aplatir, astiquer, suifer, murer, donner une dandinette, caresser or tricoter les côtes, pointer, schlaguer, savonner, faire danser la malaisée, amocher, faire chanter une gamme, sabouler, saborder, donner une râclée, une danse, une torchée, une brûlée; flanquer une tripotée, une cuite, une dégelée, une peignée, une broyée, une tatouille, une ratatouille, une trempe, une trempée, une rincée, une pile, une trépignée, une grattée, de l'huile de cotterets; tremper une soupe, descendre le crayon sur la colonne, raboter l'andosse, balayer, dandiner, coller des châtaignes, accommoder au beurre noir, passer quelqu'un à travers, foutre du tabac, faire trinquer, tomber sur le casaquin, tamponner, tanner le cuir, travailler le cadavre, le casaquin; ramasser les pattes, atiger, tomber sur le poil, trépigner, pommader, cogner, faire étrenner, secouer les tripes, les puces; ratisser la couenne, panser de la main, donner une pâtée, repasser le bufle, emplâtrer, encaisser, flanquer une ratapiau;” and in the English slang: “to give a hiding, a walloping, to dust one’s jacket, to set about, to tan, to walk into, to slip into, to quilt, to pay, to manhandle, to give one Jessie, to give one gas, to dowse,” &c.

Voile, m. (freemasons’), table-cloth. Termed also “grand drapeau.”

Voir (familiar), to have one’s menses; (popular) — en dedans, to sleep, “to doss.” Also to be drunk. See Pompette. Voir la lune, to lose one’s maidenhead. A girl whose “rose has thus been plucked” is said to have “vu le loup,” or, in the English slang, “to have seen the elephant;” — à travers la verte, to labour under a delusion caused by overindulgence in absinthe drinking. (Military) Ne pas — quelqu’un blanc, to entertain fears concerning one’s prospects or one’s affairs. (Thieves’) Voir, to apprehend, “to smug.”

Voirie, f. (popular), disreputable woman; vagabond.

Voite, f. (popular and thieves’), vehicle, “drag.” Regarde donc ce pante qui s’fait trimballer dans une voite, look at that “cove” who sports a carriage.

Voiture à talons, f. (popular), the legs, or “Shanks’s mare.”

Vol, m. See Américain, Bonjour, Grinchissage, Rendème. (Thieves’) Vol à l’endormage, robbery by hocusing the victim. The thief is called “drummer” in the English lingo.

Une certaine quantité de pavots et de pommes épineuses (datura stramonium) mise dans un litre d’eau ... produit un narcotique très violent ... l’endormeur en emporte toujours sur lui dans une petite fiole.
—CANLER.

Vol à la bousculade, robbery by hustling the victim; — au poupon, robbery from a shop by a woman with a baby in her arms; — au radin. See Grinchissage. Vol sous-comptoir, robbing a tradesman of articles taken away for another person to choose from.

Volailier (familiar), to make friends with the first comer; (popular) to keep company with disreputable women.

Volailon, m. (popular), clumsy thief.

Volant, m. (old cant), cloak, or “ryder.”

Volante, f. (thieves’), feather; pen.

Volapuk, m. (familiar), bustle, or “back-staircase.” Properly “volapuk,” says the Echo, “is the artificial language, or gibberish, which an industrious German savant has been inventing by eclectic process from all languages of the world. It is intended by its ingenious author to undo the mischief caused by the confusion of tongues at Babel. But, judging by the published specimens of it, it is horribly cacophonous." A Volapuk grammar has already been published in Paris.

Vol-au-vent, m. (popular), head. See Tronche, Avoir. (Thieves') Vol-au-vent, kind of robbery from the person described as follows:—

L'opérateur choisit son sujet parmi les passants qui n'ont pas leur chapeau bien assujéti sur la tête. Il s'élançe alors vers lui, le heurte, reçoit son couvre-chef entre les mains et le lui rend avec un gracieux sourire. Pendant que le monsieur se confond en remerciements, l'escroc lui fait son porte-monnaie avec une adresse exquise.—E. FRÉBAULT.

Voleur, m. (printers'), scrap of paper which gets stuck to the composition in the press; (military) — d'étiquettes, quartermaster. He is supposed to steal the card (which is placed over every soldier's bed, and bears his name, number, and other particulars) so as to be able to charge for a new one.

Tour à tour, c'était ... le "voleur d'étiquettes" qui n'y couperait pas à cause que depuis un quart d'heure le trompette le sonnait au trot.—G. COURTELINE.

Volige, f. (popular), thin person.

Voltigeante, f. (popular), mud.

Voltigeur, m. (popular), hodman.

Vousaille, vouzaille, vouzig, vozières, vozigue (thieves'), you.

Vousoyer (familiar), to say "vous" to a person whom one is in the habit of addressing as "tu."

Voyage, m. (common), faire un — au long cours, to be transported.

Voyager (ballet-dancers'), to whirl rapidly up and down the stage.

Voyageur, m. (hotel-keepers'), sec, traveller who spends little in the hotel at which he puts up. (Popular) Voyageurs à quinze francs le cent, passengers on top of bus.

Voyante, f. (thieves'), the guillotine. Termed also: "butte or bute, le monde renversé, Marianne, la veuve, la passe, la mère au bleu, la bute à regret, l'abbaye de Monte-à-regret, l'abbaye de Monte-à-rebours, la bascule, la béquillarde, les deux mâts."

C'est le docteur Louis, secrétaire du Collège des chirurgiens, qui fit, en 1792, le rapport pour l'adoption de la première guillotine. Elle fut établie par un nommé Tobias Schmitz, fabricant de pianos ... c'était à tort que le nom du docteur Guillotin avait été donné à l'instrument de supplice.—G. FRISON.

Voyeur, m. (brothels'), better explained by quotation:—

Je ne puis pourtant omettre une catégorie de sadistes assez étonnants; ce sont ceux qu'on désigne sous le nom de "voyeurs." Ceux-ci cherchent une excitation dans les spectacles impudiques.—LÉO TAXIL.

Voyoucratados, m. (familiar), one-sou cigar. From voyou, cad.

Qu'y voulez-vous faire? Il y aura toujours plus de fumeurs de voyoucratados à un sou que d'aristocratès à un franc.—SCAPIN, Le Voltaire.

Voyoucrate, m. (familiar), a politician whose sympathies, real or pretended, are with the mob.

Voyoucratie, f. (familiar), mob government, mobocracy.

Voyoutados, m. (familiar), one-sou cigar.

Vrignole, f. (thieves'), meat, or "carnish."

W

Wagon, or wagon à bestiaux, m. (popular), dirty prostitute, “draggle-tail.”
Wagon, large glass of wine.

Wallace, m. (popular), water.

Et comme il faut boire en mangeant,
Comme ils adorent boire à la fraîche, à la glace,
Comme ils ne veulent pas dépenser leur argent,
Ils s'ingurgitent du Wallace.

RICHEPIN.

Wallacer (popular), to drink water at a fountain. Sir Richard Wallace has endowed Paris with numerous drinking fountains.

Wateri (Breton cant), to rain; to void urine.

X

X, m. (students'), un —, a student at the Ecole Polytechnique. Aller à l'X, to go to that school. (Familiar) L'—, mathematics. Termed the "swat" by gentlemen cadets of the Royal Military Academy. Un —, a thorough mathematician, one who devotes himself entirely to the study of mathematics. There is a story about a mathematician (some say he was no other than Arago) who used to work out problems wherever he found himself at the time they occurred to him. One day he was drawing figures with a piece of chalk on the back of a hackney coach when it began to move, but so wrapped up was he in his favourite occupation that he followed his extemporized blackboard at a walk at first, then at a run, but never stopped till he had found a solution of the problem. Un fort en —, one well up in mathematics, but who knows little of other subjects. Une tête à —, one who has a good head for mathematics. A pun on the formula $\theta \chi$, pronounced théta X.

Y

Y (military), a du bon, good news.

Eh ben, mon vieux, y a du bon! les bleus ne vont pas y couper!—G. COURTELINE.

Mais y paraît qu'il' des Pins, y a pas mèche.

Y a déjà quelqu'un c'est épatant.

L'gouvernement maronn'! Moi j'suis content.

J'suis en bateau et j'ai lâché la dèche.

GRINGOIRE, Le Contentement du Récidiviste, à l'ancre!

Yeux, m. pl. (familiar), culottés, eyes surrounded with a dark circle; — en trou de vrille, small eyes with stupid expression.

Youte, or youtre, m. (popular), Jew. From the German. Termed also “frisé, pied plat, guinal,” and, in the English slang, “ikey, sheney, mouchey.” Jardin des youtres, Jewish cemetery.

Youtrerie, f. (popular), gathering of Jews; avarice.

You-you, m. (convicts'), warder at the penal servitude settlement.

Z

Zéph, m. (popular), wind. Se pousser du —, to run away. See Patatrot.

Zépher, m. (military), soldier of the “bataillon d’Afrique,” a corps serving in Africa only, composed of soldiers who have been in prison for a common law offence, and who have not completed their term of service. A pun on the words voler comme le zépher.

Dans la plaine tourbillonne
La nuée aux burnous blancs;
A la tête de la colonne
Allons rejoindre nos rangs.
Déjà le soleil levant
Nous jette un regard oblique!
Pan! du bataillon d’Afrique,
Pan! les zéphirs en avant.

H. FRANCE, Chanson du Bataillon d’Afrique.

Zer (Breton cant), apples.

Zerasined-douar (Breton cant), potatoes.

Zif, m. See Solliceur.

Zig, zigue, zigorneau, or zigard, m. (popular), a jolly fellow, a “regular brick;” a friend.

Polyte Chupin lui eût tendu la main comme à un ami ... à un “zig.”—GABORIAU.

Mince! s’écria l’autre, j’me fais rien de belles journées depuis quelque temps. Vous êtes vraiment des zigues, les artisses!—J. RICHEPIN, Braves Gens.

Mon vieux —, old “cock,” old fellow, “my bloater, my ribstone.” Mes bons zigues, my good fellows, old fellows.

Mes bons zigues, dit le lutteur, inutile de crier ainsi comme la truie de David.—HECTOR FRANCE.

Bon — d’attaque, a staunch friend. Un — à la rebiffe, old offender. Quel —! a splendid chap! a rare un’!

Quel sacré zig, tout de même, ce Mes-Bottes. Est-ce qu’un jour il n’avait pas mangé douze œufs durs et bu douze verres de vin pendant que les douze coups de midi sonnaient.—ZOLA.

Un bon zig is synonymous of un bon bougre (whose origin is Bulgare), and concerning the expression M. Génin says: “Un fait d’argot des plus curieux, c'est le synonyme que donne aujourd'hui le peuple à un mot (bougre) qui commence apparemment à lui sembler trop grossier: 'c'est un bon zigue!' 'tu es un bon zigue!' Or il se trouve que les Zigues figurent à côté des Bulgares dans une chronique grecque, en vers politiques, des premières années du XIV^e siècle.—'Théodore Lascaris, dit l'auteur, approvisionna ses forteresses et prit à son service, moyennant salaire, des Turcs, des Cumans, des Lains, des Zigues et des Bulgares' (Buchon, Chronique de Roumanie). Comment peut-être venue, à des hommes du peuple, l'idée de cette maligne substitution des Zigues aux Bulgares? C'est un trait d'érudition très raffinée! Je ne vois d'autre explication sinon que ce mot et ce rapprochement s'étaient conservés au fond de la tradition populaire depuis la conquête de Constantinople et l'établissement des Français en Morée. Mais cette explication même donne beaucoup à réfléchir, et montre combien le langage du peuple mérite l'attention des philosophes."

Zinc, m. (popular), money; venereal ailment, "Venus' curse;" elegance, dash; wine-shop bar. Tomber un —, to have a glass of liquor at the bar. (Theatrical) Avoir du —, or être zingué, to possess a clear, sonorous voice; to play in dashing style.

Je joue le rôle d'un pigeon du Jockey-Club qui se croit aimé pour lui-même.... Il faut que j'y aie du zinc ce soir. Sans ça, les vieux de l'orchestre regretteraient trop Déjazet; et ils appelleraient Azor.—P. AUDEBRAND.

Zingo, m. (wine retailers'), a good fellow, "a brick."

Zinguer (popular), to drink at a bar. Etre zingué, to be well off, "well ballasted."

Zingueur, m. (cocottes'), le —, he who furnishes the funds, who keeps a woman.

Je t'engage donc à raconter tout ce que tu me racontes là au zingueur! Il te croira parcequ'il t'aime! Et lui du moins est assez riche pour se permettre le luxe de la paternité.—Mémoires de Monsieur Claude.

Zousiller (Breton cant), drunkard.

Zousill-tan (Breton cant), brandy.

Zouzou, m. (familiar), a Zouave.

Zozotte, f., appellation given by bullies to the money given them by prostitutes.

Zut! (familiar and popular), exclamation expressive of refusal, careless defiance, &c. Je te dis zut! you be hanged! go to the deuce! Ah! zut alors! confound it, then! I give it up, "it's no go." Je dis zut au service, I say good-bye to the service.

Zut pour les aristos! Coupeau envoyait le monde à la balançoire.—ZOLA.

THE FULL PROJECT GUTENBERG LICENSE
PLEASE READ THIS BEFORE YOU DISTRIBUTE OR USE THIS WORK

To protect the Project Gutenberg-tm mission of promoting the free distribution of electronic works, by using or distributing this work (or any other work associated in any way with the phrase "Project Gutenberg"), you agree to comply with all the terms of the Full Project Gutenberg-tm License available with this file or online at www.gutenberg.org/license.

Section 1. General Terms of Use and Redistributing Project Gutenberg-tm electronic works

1.A. By reading or using any part of this Project Gutenberg-tm electronic work, you indicate that you have read, understand, agree to and accept all the terms of this license and intellectual property (trademark/copyright) agreement. If you do not agree to abide by all the terms of this agreement, you must cease using and return or destroy all copies of Project Gutenberg-tm electronic works in your possession. If you paid a fee for obtaining a copy of or access to a Project Gutenberg-tm electronic work and you do not agree to be bound by the terms of this agreement, you may obtain a refund from the person or entity to whom you paid the fee as set forth in paragraph 1.E.8.

1.B. "Project Gutenberg" is a registered trademark. It may only be used on or associated in any way with an electronic work by people who agree to be bound by the terms of this agreement. There are a few things that you can do with most Project Gutenberg-tm electronic works even without complying with the full terms of this agreement. See paragraph 1.C below. There are a lot of things you can do with Project Gutenberg-tm electronic works if you follow the terms of this agreement and help preserve free future access to Project Gutenberg-tm electronic works. See paragraph 1.E below.

1.C. The Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation ("the Foundation" or PGLAF), owns a compilation copyright in the collection of Project Gutenberg-tm electronic works. Nearly all the individual works in the collection are in the public domain in the United States. If an individual work is unprotected by copyright law in the United States and you are located in the United States, we do not claim a right to prevent you from copying, distributing, performing, displaying or creating derivative works based on the work as long as all references to Project Gutenberg are removed. Of course, we hope that you will support the Project Gutenberg-tm mission of promoting free access to electronic works by freely sharing Project Gutenberg-tm works in compliance with the terms of this agreement for keeping the Project Gutenberg-tm name associated with the work. You can easily comply with the terms of this agreement by keeping this work in the same format with its attached full Project Gutenberg-tm License when you share it without charge with others.

1.D. The copyright laws of the place where you are located also govern what you can do with this work. Copyright laws in most countries are in a constant state of change. If you are outside the United States, check the laws of your country in addition to the terms of this agreement before downloading, copying, displaying, performing, distributing or creating derivative works based on this work or any other Project Gutenberg-tm work. The Foundation makes no representations concerning the copyright status of any work in any country outside the United States.

1.E. Unless you have removed all references to Project Gutenberg:

1.E.1. The following sentence, with active links to, or other immediate access to, the full Project Gutenberg-tm License must appear prominently whenever any copy of a Project Gutenberg-tm work (any work on which the phrase "Project Gutenberg" appears, or with which the phrase "Project Gutenberg" is associated) is accessed, displayed, performed, viewed, copied or distributed:

This eBook is for the use of anyone anywhere in the United States and most other parts of the world at no cost and with almost no restrictions whatsoever. You may copy it, give it away or re-use it under the terms of the Project Gutenberg License included with this eBook or online at www.gutenberg.org. If you are not located in the United States, you'll have to check the laws of the country where you are located before using this ebook.

1.E.2. If an individual Project Gutenberg-tm electronic work is derived from texts not protected by U.S. copyright law (does not contain a notice indicating that it is posted with permission of the copyright holder), the work can be copied and distributed to anyone in the United States without paying any fees or charges. If you are redistributing or providing access to a work with the phrase "Project Gutenberg" associated with or appearing on the work, you must comply either with the requirements of paragraphs 1.E.1 through 1.E.7 or obtain permission for the use of the work and the Project Gutenberg-tm trademark as set forth in paragraphs 1.E.8 or 1.E.9.

1.E.3. If an individual Project Gutenberg-tm electronic work is posted with the permission of the copyright holder, your use and distribution must comply with both paragraphs 1.E.1 through 1.E.7 and any additional terms imposed by the copyright holder. Additional terms will be linked to the Project Gutenberg-tm License for all works posted with the permission of the copyright holder found at the beginning of this work.

1.E.4. Do not unlink or detach or remove the full Project Gutenberg-tm License terms from this work, or any files containing a part of this work or any other work associated with Project Gutenberg-tm.

1.E.5. Do not copy, display, perform, distribute or redistribute this electronic work, or any part of this electronic work, without prominently displaying the sentence set forth in paragraph 1.E.1 with active links or immediate access to the full terms of the Project Gutenberg-tm License.

1.E.6. You may convert to and distribute this work in any binary, compressed, marked up, nonproprietary or proprietary form, including any word processing or hypertext form. However, if you provide access to or distribute copies of a Project Gutenberg-tm work in a format other than "Plain Vanilla ASCII" or other format used in the official version posted on the official Project Gutenberg-tm web site (www.gutenberg.org), you must, at no additional cost, fee or expense to the user, provide a copy, a means of exporting a copy, or a means of obtaining a copy upon request, of the work in its original "Plain Vanilla ASCII" or other form. Any alternate format must include the full Project Gutenberg-tm License as specified in paragraph 1.E.1.

1.E.7. Do not charge a fee for access to, viewing, displaying, performing, copying or distributing any Project Gutenberg-tm works unless you comply with paragraph 1.E.8 or 1.E.9.

1.E.8. You may charge a reasonable fee for copies of or providing access to or distributing Project Gutenberg-tm electronic works provided that

- * You pay a royalty fee of 20% of the gross profits you derive from the use of Project Gutenberg-tm works calculated using the method you already use to calculate your applicable taxes. The fee is owed to the owner of the Project Gutenberg-tm trademark, but he has agreed to donate royalties under this paragraph to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation. Royalty payments must be paid within 60 days following each date on which you prepare (or are legally required to prepare) your periodic tax returns. Royalty payments should be clearly marked as such and sent to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation at the address specified in Section 4, "Information about donations to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation."
- * You provide a full refund of any money paid by a user who notifies you in writing (or by e-mail) within 30 days of receipt that s/he does not agree to the terms of the full Project Gutenberg-tm License. You must require such a user to return or destroy all copies of the works possessed in a physical medium and discontinue all use of and all access to other copies of Project Gutenberg-tm works.
- * You provide, in accordance with paragraph 1.F.3, a full refund of any money paid for a work or a replacement copy, if a defect in the electronic work is discovered and reported to you within 90 days of receipt of the work.
- * You comply with all other terms of this agreement for free distribution of Project Gutenberg-tm works.

1.E.9. If you wish to charge a fee or distribute a Project Gutenberg-tm electronic work or group of works on different terms than are set forth in this agreement, you must obtain permission in writing from both the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation and The Project Gutenberg Trademark LLC, the owner of the Project Gutenberg-tm trademark. Contact the Foundation as set forth in Section 3 below.

1.F.

1.F.1. Project Gutenberg volunteers and employees expend considerable effort to identify, do copyright research on, transcribe and proofread works not protected by U.S. copyright law in creating the Project Gutenberg-tm collection. Despite these efforts, Project Gutenberg-tm electronic works, and the medium on which they may be stored, may contain "Defects," such as, but not limited to, incomplete, inaccurate or corrupt data, transcription errors, a copyright or other intellectual property infringement, a defective or damaged disk or other medium, a computer virus, or computer codes that damage or cannot be read by your equipment.

1.F.2. LIMITED WARRANTY, DISCLAIMER OF DAMAGES - Except for the "Right of Replacement or Refund" described in paragraph 1.F.3, the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation, the owner of the Project Gutenberg-tm trademark, and any other party distributing a Project Gutenberg-tm electronic work under this agreement, disclaim all liability to you for damages, costs and expenses, including legal fees. YOU AGREE THAT YOU HAVE NO REMEDIES FOR NEGLIGENCE, STRICT LIABILITY, BREACH OF WARRANTY OR BREACH OF CONTRACT EXCEPT THOSE PROVIDED IN PARAGRAPH 1.F.3. YOU AGREE THAT THE FOUNDATION, THE TRADEMARK OWNER, AND ANY DISTRIBUTOR UNDER THIS AGREEMENT WILL NOT BE LIABLE TO YOU FOR ACTUAL, DIRECT, INDIRECT, CONSEQUENTIAL, PUNITIVE OR INCIDENTAL DAMAGES EVEN IF YOU GIVE NOTICE OF THE POSSIBILITY OF SUCH DAMAGE.

1.F.3. LIMITED RIGHT OF REPLACEMENT OR REFUND - If you discover a defect in this electronic work within 90 days of receiving it, you can receive a refund of the money (if any) you paid for it by sending a written explanation to the person you received the work from. If you received the work on a physical medium, you must return the medium with your written explanation. The person or entity that provided you with the defective work may elect to provide a replacement copy in lieu of a refund. If you received the work electronically, the person or entity providing it to you may choose to give you a second opportunity to receive the work electronically in lieu of a refund. If the second copy is also defective, you may demand a refund in writing without further opportunities to fix the problem.

1.F.4. Except for the limited right of replacement or refund set forth in paragraph 1.F.3, this work is provided to you 'AS-IS', WITH NO OTHER WARRANTIES OF ANY KIND, EXPRESS OR IMPLIED, INCLUDING BUT NOT LIMITED TO WARRANTIES OF MERCHANTABILITY OR FITNESS FOR ANY PURPOSE.

1.F.5. Some states do not allow disclaimers of certain implied warranties or the exclusion or limitation of certain types of damages. If any disclaimer or limitation set forth in this agreement violates the law of the state applicable to this agreement, the agreement shall be interpreted to make the maximum disclaimer or limitation permitted by the applicable state law. The invalidity or unenforceability of any provision of this agreement shall not void the remaining provisions.

1.F.6. INDEMNITY - You agree to indemnify and hold the Foundation, the trademark owner, any agent or employee of the Foundation, anyone providing copies of Project Gutenberg-tm electronic works in accordance with this agreement, and any volunteers associated with the production, promotion and distribution of Project Gutenberg-tm electronic works, harmless from all liability, costs and expenses, including legal fees, that arise directly or indirectly from any of the following which you do or cause to occur: (a) distribution of this or any Project Gutenberg-tm work, (b) alteration, modification, or additions or deletions to any Project Gutenberg-tm work, and (c) any Defect you cause.

Section 2. Information about the Mission of Project Gutenberg-tm

Project Gutenberg-tm is synonymous with the free distribution of electronic works in formats readable by the widest variety of computers including obsolete, old, middle-aged and new computers. It exists because of the efforts of hundreds of volunteers and donations from people in all walks of life.

Volunteers and financial support to provide volunteers with the assistance they need are critical to reaching Project Gutenberg-tm's goals and ensuring that the Project Gutenberg-tm collection will remain freely available for generations to come. In 2001, the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation was created to provide a secure and permanent future for Project Gutenberg-tm and future generations. To learn more about the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation and how your efforts and donations can help, see Sections 3 and 4 and the Foundation information page at www.gutenberg.org

Section 3. Information about the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation

The Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation is a non profit 501(c)(3) educational corporation organized under the laws of the state of Mississippi and granted tax exempt status by the Internal Revenue Service. The Foundation's EIN or federal tax identification number is 64-6221541. Contributions to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation are tax deductible to the full extent permitted by U.S. federal laws and your state's laws.

The Foundation's principal office is in Fairbanks, Alaska, with the mailing address: PO Box 750175, Fairbanks, AK 99775, but its volunteers and employees are scattered throughout numerous locations. Its business office is located at 809 North 1500 West, Salt Lake City, UT 84116, (801) 596-1887. Email contact links and up to date contact information can be found at the Foundation's web site and official page at www.gutenberg.org/contact

Section 4. Information about Donations to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation

Project Gutenberg-tm depends upon and cannot survive without wide spread public support and donations to carry out its mission of increasing the number of public domain and licensed works that can be freely distributed in machine readable form accessible by the widest array of equipment including outdated equipment. Many small donations ($1 to $5,000) are particularly important to maintaining tax exempt status with the IRS.

The Foundation is committed to complying with the laws regulating charities and charitable donations in all 50 states of the United States. Compliance requirements are not uniform and it takes a considerable effort, much paperwork and many fees to meet and keep up with these requirements. We do not solicit donations in locations where we have not received written confirmation of compliance. To SEND DONATIONS or determine the status of compliance for any particular state visit www.gutenberg.org/donate

While we cannot and do not solicit contributions from states where we have not met the solicitation requirements, we know of no prohibition against accepting unsolicited donations from donors in such states who approach us with offers to donate.

International donations are gratefully accepted, but we cannot make any statements concerning tax treatment of donations received from outside the United States. U.S. laws alone swamp our small staff.

Please check the Project Gutenberg Web pages for current donation methods and addresses. Donations are accepted in a number of other ways including checks, online payments and credit card donations. To donate, please visit: www.gutenberg.org/donate Section 5. General Information About Project Gutenberg-tm electronic works.

Professor Michael S. Hart was the originator of the Project Gutenberg-tm concept of a library of electronic works that could be freely shared with anyone. For forty years, he produced and distributed Project Gutenberg-tm eBooks with only a loose network of volunteer support.

Project Gutenberg-tm eBooks are often created from several printed editions, all of which are confirmed as not protected by copyright in the U.S. unless a copyright notice is included. Thus, we do not necessarily keep eBooks in compliance with any particular paper edition.

Most people start at our Web site which has the main PG search facility: www.gutenberg.org

This Web site includes information about Project Gutenberg-tm, including how to make donations to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation, how to help produce our new eBooks, and how to subscribe to our email newsletter to hear about new eBooks.
