

Margaret Ferguson

Mary Jo Salter

Jon Stallworthy

Shorter Fifth Edition

The NORTON ANTHOLOGY of
POETRY

The Norton Anthology
of Poetry

FIFTH EDITION

Editors Emeriti

Alexander Allison

LATE OF THE UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN

Herbert Barrows

PROFESSOR EMERITUS, UNIVERSITY OF MI CHIGAN

Caesar R. Blake

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

Arthur J. Carr

LATE OF WILLIAMSCOLLEGE

Arthur M. Eastman

LATE OF VIRGINIA POLYTECHNIC INSTITUTE AND STATE UNIVERSITY

Hubert M. English, Jr.

UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN

The Norton Anthology
of Poetry

FIFTH EDITION

Margaret Ferguson

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, DAVIS

Mary Jo Salter

MOUNT HOLYOKE COLLEGE

Jon Stallworthy

OXFORD UNIVERSITY

W • W • NORTON & COMPANY • New York • London

W. W. Norton & Company has been independent since its founding in 1923, when William Warder Norton and Mary D. Herter Norton first published lectures delivered at the People's Institute, the adult education division of New York City's Cooper Union. The Nortons soon expanded their program beyond the Institute, publishing books by celebrated academics from America and abroad. By mid-century, the two major pillars of Norton's publishing program—trade books and college texts—were firmly established. In the 1950s, the Norton family transferred control of the company to its employees, and today—with a staff of four hundred and a comparable number of trade, college, and professional titles published each year—W. W.

Norton & Company stands as the largest and oldest publishing house owned wholly by its employees.

Copyright © 2005, 1996, 1983, 1975, 1970 by W. W. Norton & Company, Inc.

All rights reserved.

Printed in the United States of America.

Since this page cannot legibly accommodate all of the copyright notices, pp. 2140—50 constitute an extension of the copyright page.

The text of this book is composed in Fairfield Medium with the display set in Bernhard Modern.

Composition by Binghamton Valley Composition.

Manufacturing by R. R. Donnelley & Sons, Inc.

Editor: Julia Reidhead

Developmental Editor: Kurt Wildermuth

Electronic Media and Ancillaries Editor: Eileen Connell

Assistant Editor: Erin Dye

Permissions Manager and Associate: Nancy Rodwan, Margaret Gorenstein Book Designer: Antonina Krass

Production Manager: Diane O'Connor

Managing Editor, College: Marian Johnson

Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication Data

The Norton anthology of poetry / [edited by] Margaret Ferguson, Mary Jo Salter, Jon Stallworthy.—5 th ed.

p. cm.

Includes bibliographical references and index.

ISBN 0-393-97920-2 (pbk.)

1. English poetry. 2. American poetry. I. Ferguson, Margaret, W., 1948— II. Salter, Mary Jo. III. Stallworthy, Jon.

PR1174.N6 2004b

821.008—dc22 2004058100

W. W. Norton & Company, Inc., 500 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10110

www.wwnorton.com

W. W. Norton & Company Ltd., Castle House, 75/76 Wells
Street, London W I T 3QT

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 0

Contents

PREFACE TO THE FIFTH EDITION lix

Editorial Procedures lxi

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS lxiii

M D M O N ' S HYMN (translated by John Pope) 1

From BEOWULF (translated by Seamus Heaney) 2

R I D D L E S (TRANSLATED BY R I C H A R D H A M E
R) 1 0

1 ("I am a lonely being, scarred by swords")

2 ("My dress is silent when I tread the ground") 10

3 ("A moth ate words; a marvellous event") 11

THE WIFE'S LAMENT (translated by Richard Hamer) 11

THE SEAFARER (translated by Ezra Pound) 12

ANONYMOUS

Now Go'thS LYRIC

Sun

S O

undeFr THE

WooTdHIRTEE

1 NTH AN

5 D FOURTEENTH CENTURIES 15

The Cuckoo Song 15

Ubi Sunt Qui ante Nos Fuerunt? 16

Alison 18

Fowls in the Frith 19

I Am of Ireland 19

G E O F F R E Y C H A U C E R (ca. 1343-1400) 19

T H E C A N T E R B U R Y T A L E S 1 9

The General Prologue 19

The Wife of Bath's Prologue and Tale 39

T R O I L U S A N D C R I S E I D E 6 7

Cantus Troili 67

L Y R I C S A N D O C C A S I O N A L V E R S E 6 8

To Rosamond 68

Truth 69

Complaint to His Purse 69

To His Scribe Adam 70

W I L L I A M L A N G L A N D (ca. 1330-ca. 1400)

7 1

Piers Plowman, lines 1—111 71

v i / C O N T E N T S

PEARL, 1-5 (1375-1400)

CHARLES D'ORLEANS (1391-1465)

The Smiling Mouth 77

Oft in My Thought 78

A N O N Y M O U S LYRICS OF THE F I F T E E N T H C
E N T U R Y

Adam Lay I-bounden 79

I Sing of a Maiden 79

Out of Your Sleep Arise and Wake 80

I Have a Young Sister 81

I Have a Gentle Cock 82

Timor Mortis 82

The Corpus Christi Carol 83

Western Wind 84

A Carol of Agincourt 84

The Sacrament of the Altar 85

See! Here, My Heart 86

WILLIAM DUNBAR (ca. 1460-ca. 1525)

Lament for the Makaris 86

Done Is a Battle 89

JOHN SKELTON (1460-1529)

Mannerly Margery Milk and Ale 90

To Mistress Margaret Hussey 91

From Colin Clout 92

Phillip Sparow 94

EARLY M O D E R N BALLADS

The Douglas Tragedy 97

Lord Randal 100

The Three Ravens 101

The Twa Corbies 102

Sir Patrick Spens 103

The Unquiet Grave 104

The Wife of Usher's Well 105

Bonny Barbara Allan 107

Mary Hamilton 108

Get Up and Bar the Door 110

The Bitter Withy 112

The Knight and Shepherd's Daughter 113

A N O N Y M O U S ELIZABETHAN AND JACOBEAN P O E M S

Love Me Little, Love Me Long 117

Fine Knacks for Ladies 119

To His Love 119

Weep You No More, Sad Fountains 120

There Is a Lady Sweet and Kind 121

The Silver Swan 121

C O N T E N T S / v i i

A Song Bewailing the Time of Christmas, So Much Decayed
in England 122

Tom o' Bedlam's Song 124

THOMAS WYATT (1503-1542) 126

The Long Love, That in My Thought Doth Harbor 126

Whoso List to Hunt 126

My Galley 127

They Flee from Me 127

Patience, Though I Have Not 128
My Lute Awake! 129
Is It Possible 130
Forget Not Yet 131
Blame Not My Lute 131
What Should I Say 132
Lucks, My Fair Falcon 133
Stand Whoso List 134
Mine Own John Poins 134
HENRY HOWARD, EARL OF SURREY (ca. 1517-1547) 137
The Soote Season 137
Love, That Doth Reign and Live within My Thought 137
Wyatt Resteth Here 138
So Cruel Prison 139
ANNE ASKEW (1521-1546) 140
The Ballad Which Anne Askew Made and Sang When She
Was in Newgate 140
QUEEN ELIZABETH I \(1533-1603\) 142
When I Was Fair and Young 142
[The Doubt of Future Foes Exiles My Present Joy] 142
[Ah Silly Pug, Wert Thou So Sore Afraid] 143
GEORGE GASCOIGNE \(ca. 1534-1577\) 144
And If I Did, What Then? 144
For That He Looked Not upon Her 144
Gascoigne's Lullaby 145
ISABELLA WHITNEY \(fl. 1567-1573\) 146
A S W E E T N O S E G A Y 1 4 6

A Communication Which the Author Had to London, Before
She Made Her Will 146

From The Manner of Her Will, & What She Left to London,
and to All Those in It, at Her Departing 147

CHIDIOCK TICHBORNE (d. 1586)

1128

[My Prime of Youth Is but a Frost of Cares] 151

viii / CONTENTS

SIR WALTER RALEGH (ca. 1552-1618) 151

A Vision upon the Fairy Queen 151

The Nymph's Reply to the Shepherd 152

The Passionate Man's Pilgrimage 153

The Lie 154

Nature, That Washed Her Hands in Milk 156

If Cynthia Be a Queen, a Princess, and Supreme 157

[Fortune Hath Taken Thee Away, My Love] 158

EDMUND SPENSER (1552-1599) 159

THE SHEPHEARDES CALENDER 159

Aprill 159

THE FAERIE QUEENE 165

Book 1, Canto 1 166

Book 1, Canto 2 179

AMORETTI 190

Sonnet 1 ("Happy ye leaves when as those lilly hands") 190

Sonnet 8 ("More then most faire, full of the living fire") 190

Sonnet 15 ("Ye tradefull Merchants that with weary toyle") 191

Sonnet 23 ("Penelope for her Ulisses sake") 191

Sonnet 54 (“Of this worlds Theatre in which we stay”) 192

Sonnet 67 (“Lyke as a huntsman after weary chace”) 192

Sonnet 68 (“Most glorious Lord of lyfe that on this day”) 192

Sonnet 70 (“Fresh spring the herald of loves mighty king”) 193

Sonnet 71 (“I joy to see how in your drawn work”) 193

Sonnet 75 (“One day I wrote her name upon the strand”) 194

Sonnet 79 (“Men call you fayre, and you doe credit it”) 194

Sonnet 81 (“Fayre is my love, when her fayre golden heares”) 194

Sonnet 89 (“Lyke as the Culver on the bared bough”) 195

Epithalamion 195

FULKE GREVILLE, LORD BROOKE (1554-1628) 206

C A E L I C A 2 0 6

4 (“You little stars that live in skies”) 206

39 (“The nurse-life wheat within his green husk growing”) 206

JOHN LYLY (1554-1606) 207

Cupid and My Campaspe 207

Oh, For a Bowl of Fat Canary 207

SIR PHILIP SIDNEY (1554-1586) 208

Ye Goatherd Gods 208

What Length of Verse? 210

The Nightingale 211

Ring Out Your Bells 212

C O N T E N T S / i x

A S T R O P H I L A N D S T E L L A 2 1 3

1 (“Loving in truth, and fain in verse my love to show”) 213

14 (“Alas, have I not pain enough, my friend”) 213

21 (“Your words my friend [right healthful caustics] blame”) 214

25 (“The wisest scholar of the wight most wise”) 214

31 (“With how sad steps, Oh Moon, thou climb’st the skies”) 214

39 (“Come sleep, Oh sleep, the certain knot of peace”) 215

47 (“What, have I thus betrayed my liberty?”) 215

48 (“Soul’s joy, bend not those morning stars from me”) 216

49 (“I on my horse, and Love on me, doth try”) 216

52 (“A strife is grown between Virtue and Love”) 216

63 (“O Grammar rules, o now your virtues show”) 217

71 (“Who will in fairest book of Nature know”) 217

72 (“Desire, though thou my old companion art”) 218

Fourth Song (“Only joy, now here you are”) 218

Seventh Song (“Whose senses in so evil consort, their stepdame

Nature lays”) 219

90 (“Stella, think not that I by verse seek fame”) 220

107 (“Stella, since thou so right a princess art”) 220

GEORGE PEELE (1557-1596) 221

His Golden Locks Time Hath to Silver Turned 221

Hot Sun, Cool Fire 221

THOMAS LODGE (1558-1625) 222

Rosalind’s Madrigal 222

ROBERT SOUTHWELL (ca. 1561-1595) 223

The Burning Babe 223

New Heaven, New War 223

MARY SIDNEY \(1561-1621\) 225

Psalm 58: Si Were Utique 225

Psalm 114: In Exitu Israel 226

To the Thrice-Sacred Queen Elizabeth 226

SAMUEL DANIEL \(1563-1619\) 230

DELIA 230

1 (“Unto the boundless Ocean of thy beauty”) 230

2 (“Go wailing verse, the infants of my love”) 230

6 (“Fair is my love, and cruel as she’s fair”) 231

36 (“But love whilst that thou mayst be loved again”) 231

37 (“When men shall find thy flower, thy glory pass”) 231

49 (“Care-charmer Sleep, son of the sable Night”) 232

50 (“Let others sing of knights and paladins”) 232

53 (“Unhappy pen and ill accepted papers”) 233

Ulysses and the Siren 233

Are They Shadows 235

x / C O N T E N T S

MICHAEL DRAYTON (1563-1631) 235

A Roundelay between Two Shepherds 235

IDEA 236

To the Reader of these Sonnets 236

6 (“How many paltry, foolish, painted things”) 237

14 (“If he from heaven that filched that living fire”) 237

61 (“Since there’s no help, come let us kiss and part”) 238

CHRISTOPHER MARLOWE (1564-1593) 238

Hero and Leander 238

The Passionate Shepherd to His Love 256

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE (1564-1616) 257

SONNETS 257

Dedication 257

- 1 ("From fairest creatures we desire increase") 257
- 2 ("When forty winters shall besiege thy brow") 258
- 3 ("Look in thy glass and tell the face thou viewest") 258
- 12 ("When I do count the clock that tells the time") 258
- 15 ("When I consider everything that grows") 259
- 18 ("Shall I compare thee to a summer's day?") 259
- 20 ("A woman's face, with nature's own hand painted") 260
- 29 ("When, in disgrace with fortune and men's eyes") 260
- 30 ("When to the sessions of sweet silent thought") 261
- 33 ("Full many a glorious morning have I seen") 261
- 35 ("No more be grieved at that which thou hast done") 261
- 55 ("Not marble, nor the gilded monuments") 262
- 60 ("Like as the waves make towards the pebbled shore") 262
- 65 ("Since brass, nor stone, nor earth, nor boundless sea") 263
- 71 ("No longer mourn for me when I am dead") 263
- 73 ("That time of year thou mayst in me behold") 263
- 76 ("Why is my verse so barren of new pride") 264
- 87 ("Farewell, thou art too dear for my possessing") 264
- 94 ("They that have power to hurt and will do none") 265
- 97 ("How like a winter hath my absence been") 265
- 106 ("When in the chronicle of wasted time") 265
- 107 ("Not mine own fears, nor the prophetic soul") 266
- 116 ("Let me not to the marriage of true minds") 266

126 (“O thou, my lovely boy, who in thy power”) 267
129 (“Th’ expense of spirit in a waste of shame”) 267
130 (“My mistress’ eyes are nothing like the sun”) 267
135 (“Whoever hath her wish, thou hast thy Will”) 268
138 (“When my love swears that she is made of truth”) 268
144 (“Two loves I have of comfort and despair”) 269
146 (“Poor soul, the center of my sinful earth”) 269

The Phoenix and the Turtle 270

SONGS FROM THE PLAYS 272

When Daisies Pied 272

Under the Greenwood Tree 273

Blow, Blow, Thou Winter Wind 273

It Was a Lover and His Lass 274

Sigh No More 274

Oh Mistress Mine 275

Come Away, Come Away, Death 275

When That I Was and a Little Tiny Boy 276

Fear No More the Heat o’ the Sun 276

Full Fathom Five 277

Where the Bee Sucks, There Suck I 277

THOMAS CAMPION (1567-1620)

My Sweetest Lesbia 278

I Care Not for These Ladies 278

Follow Thy Fair Sun 279

When to Her Lute Corinna Sings 280

When Thou Must Home 280

Rose-cheeked Laura 280

Now Winter Nights Enlarge 281

There Is a Garden in Her Face 282
T H O M A S N A S H E (1567-1601)
S U M M E R ‘ S L A S T W I L L 2 8 2
[Spring, the Sweet Spring] 282
[Adieu, Farewell, Earth’s Bliss] 283
A E M I L I A L A N Y E R (1569-1645)
Frow Salve Deus Rex Judaeorum 284
The Description of Cooke-ham 288
J O H N D O N N E (1572-1631)
The Good-Morrow 293
Song (“Go and catch a falling star”) 294
Woman’s Constancy 294
The Apparition 295
The Sun Rising 295
The Canonization 296
Song (“Sweetest love, I do not go”) 298
The Anniversary 299
Love’s Growth 300
A Valediction of Weeping 300
A Valediction of the Book 301
Love’s Alchemy 303
A Nocturnal upon St. Lucy’s Day, Being the Shortest Day
A Valediction Forbidding Mourning 306
The Ecstasy 307
The Funeral 309
The Flea 309
The Relic 310
Elegy VII 311

Elegy XIX. To His Mistress Going to Bed 312

Satire III 314

x i i / C O N T E N T S

Good Friday, 1613. Riding Westward 317

Holy Sonnets 318

1 (“Thou hast made me, and shall thy work decay?”) 318

5 (“I am a little world made cunningly”) 318

7 (“At the round earth’s imagined corners, blow”) 319

9 (“If poisonous minerals, and if that tree”) 319

10 (“Death, be not proud, though some have called thee”) 320

14 (“Batter my heart, three-personed God; for You”) 320

18 (“Show me, dear Christ, thy spouse so bright and clear”) 320

A Hymn to God the Father 321

Hymn to God My God, in My Sickness 322

BEN JONSON (1572-1637) 323

To the Reader 323

On My First Daughter 323

On My First Son 323

On Spies 324

To Fool or Knave 324

To Sir Henry Cary 324

On Playwright 325

To Elizabeth, Countess of Rutland 325

On English Monsieur 325

To John Donne 326

Inviting a Friend to Supper 326

On Gut	328
Epitaph on Elizabeth, L. H.	328
To Penshurst	328
Song: To Celia (I)	331
Song: To Celia (II)	331
A Fit of Rhyme against Rhyme	332
A Hymn to God the Father	333
Her Triumph	334
An Elegy	335
An Ode to Himself	336
To the Immortal Memory and Friendship of That Noble Pair, Sir Lucius Cary and Sir Henry Morison	337
Still to Be Neat	341
Though I Am Young and Cannot Tell	341
To the Memory of My Beloved, the Author Mr. William Shakespeare	342
A Sonnet to the Noble Lady, the Lady Mary Wroth	344
Slow, Slow, Fresh Fount	344
Queen and Huntress	345
JOHN FLETCHER (1579-1625)	345
Take, Oh, Take Those Lips Away	345
EDWARD HERBERT (1582-1648)
1865
Sonnet of Black Beauty	346
Another Sonnet to Black Itself	346
C O N T E N T S / x i i i
MARY WROTH (1587-1651?)	347
Pamphilia to Amphilanthus	347

I (“When night’s black mantle could most darkness prove”) 347
3 (“Yet is there Hope: then Love but play thy part”) 347
II (“You endless torment that my rest oppress”) 348
22 (“Like to the Indians, scorched with the sun”) 348
25 (“Poor eyes be blind, the light behold no more”) 349
37 (“Night, welcome art thou to my mind distressed”) 349
39 (“If I were giv’n to mirth, ‘twould be more cross”) 350
74 Song (“Love a child is ever crying”) 350
A Crown of Sonnets Dedicated to Love 351
77 (“In this strange labyrinth how shall I turn”) 351
78 (“Is to leave all and take the thread of Love”) 351
82 (“He may our prophet, and our tutor prove”) 352
85 (“But where they may return with honor’s grace”) 352
Urania 353
Song (“Love what art thou? A vain thought”) 353
ROBERT HERRICK (1591-1674)

354

The Argument of His Book 354
The Vine 354
To the Sour Reader 355
Delight in Disorder 355
Corinna’s Going A-Maying 356
To the Virgins, to Make Much of Time 357
Upon Julia’s Breasts 358
Upon a Child That Died 358
His Prayer to Ben Jonson 358

The Night Piece, to Julia	359
Upon Julia's Clothes	359
Upon Prue, His Maid	360
Upon Ben Jonson	360
An Ode for Him	360
The Pillar of Fame	361
Neutrality Loathsome	361
To His Conscience	361
To Find God	362
The White Island, or Place of the Blest	362
HENRY KING (1592-1669)	363
An Exequy to His Matchless, Never-to-Be-Forgotten Friend	363
The Boy's Answer to the Blackmoor	366
GEORGE HERBERT (1593-1633)	367
THE TEMPLE : SACRED POEMS AND PRIVATE EJACULATIONS 3 6 7
The Altar	367
Redemption	367
Easter Wings	368
Sin (I)	369
Affliction (I)	369
x i v / C O N T E N T S
Prayer (I)	371
The Temper (I)	372
Jordan (I)	373
The Windows	373

Denial 374
Vanity (I) 374
Virtue 375
Man 376
Life 377
Artillery 378
The Collar 379
The Pulley 379
The Flower 380
The Forerunners 381
Discipline 382
The Elixir 383
Death 384
Love (III) 385
THOMAS CAREW (ca. 1595-1640) 385
A Song (“Ask me no more where Jove bestows”) 385
The Spring 386
Mediocrity in Love Rejected 387
Song. To My Inconstant Mistress 387
An Elegy upon the Death of the Dean of Paul’s, Dr. John Donne 388
JAMES SHIRLEY \(1596-1666\) 390
AJAX 390
Dirge (“The glories of our blood and state”) 390
[THE MASSACHUSETTS BAY PSALM BOOK
\(1640\) 391](#)
Psalm 58 391
Psalm 114 392

EDMUND WALLER \(1606-1687\) 393

Song (“Go, lovely rose!”) 393

Of the Last Verses in the Book 393

JOHN MILTON (1608-1674) 394

On the Morning of Christ’s Nativity 394

On Shakespeare 401

L’Allegro 402

II Penseroso 405

How Soon Hath Time 410

Lycidas 410

Comus 415

Song (“Sweet Echo, sweetest nymph, that liv’st unseen”) 415

Song (“Sabrina fair”) 416

To Mr. H. Lawes, On His Airs 416

I Did but Prompt the Age 417

C O N T E N T S / x v

To the Lord General Cromwell 417

When I Consider How My Light Is Spent 418

On the Late Massacre in Piedmont 418

Cyriack, Whose Grandsire 419

Methought I Saw 419

PARADISE L O S T 4 2 0

The Verse 420

Book 1 [The Invocation] 421

From Book 4 [lines 1-113] 422

Book 9 425

From Samson Agonistes 450

SIR JOHN SUCKLING (1609-1642) 452

Song (“Why so pale and wan, fond lover?”) 452

Sonnet II (“Of thee, kind boy, I ask no red and white”) 452

Upon My Lady Carlisle’s Walking in Hampton Court Garden 453

A Ballad upon a Wedding 454

Out upon It! 458

ANNE BRADSTREET (ca. 1612-1672) 458

In Honor of that High and Mighty Princess, Queen Elizabeth, of Most Happy Memory 458

The Prologue 462

Before the Birth of One of Her Children 464

To My Dear and Loving Husband 465

The Author to Her Book 465

A Letter to Her Husband, Absent upon Public Employment 466

Here Follows Some Verses upon the Burning of Our House
July 10th, 1666 466

RICHARD CRASHAW (1613-1649)

468

On the Baptized Ethiopian 468

To the Infant Martyrs 468

Upon the Infant Martyrs 468

The Tear 468

ABRAHAM COWLEY (1618-1667)

470

The Wish 470

Platonic Love 471

RICHARD LOVELACE (1618-1658)

472

To Althea, from Prison 472

To Lucasta, Going to the Wars 473

To Amarantha, That She Would Dishevel Her Hair 473

The Grasshopper 474

1128

ANDREW MARVELL (1621-1678)

The Coronet 475

Bermudas 476

x v i / C O N T E N T S

A Dialogue between the Soul and Body 477

To His Coy Mistress 478

The Fair Singer 480

The Definition of Love 480

The Picture of Little T. C. in a Prospect of Flowers 481

The Mower against Gardens 482

The Mower to the Glowworms 483

The Garden 484

An Horatian Ode 486

HENRY VAUGHAN (1621-1695) 490

Regeneration 490

The Retreat 492

The World 493

They Are All Gone into the World of Light! 494
The Waterfall 496
The Night 497
MARGARET CAVENDISH (1623-1673) 499
An Apology for Writing So Much upon This Book 499
The Sea Similized to Meadows and Pastures: the Mariners, to Shepherds: the Mast, to a May-pole: the Fish, to Beasts 499
Of Many Worlds in This World 500
JOHN DRYDEN (1631-1700)
500
Song from The Indian Emperor 500
Song from Troilus and Cressida 501
From Absalom and Achitophel: A Poem 501
Mac Flecknoe 517
To the Memory of Mr. Oldham 523
A Song for St. Cecilia's Day 524
KATHERINE PHILIPS (1632-1664) 526
Epitaph 526
To Mr. Henry Lawes 527
On the Welsh Language 528
To My Excellent Lucasia, on Our Friendship 530
THOMAS TRAHERNE (1637-1674) 531
The Salutation 531
Wonder 532
To the Same Purpose 533
Shadows in the Water 534

EDWARD TAYLOR (ca. 1642-1729)	536
Meditation 8 (“I kenning through astronomy divine”)	536
Upon Wedlock, and Death of Children	537
Upon a Spider Catching a Fly	538
Housewifery	540
CONTENTS / x v i i
APHRA BEHN (1640?-1689)	540
Song (“Love Armed”)	540
The Disappointment	541
Song (“On Her Loving Two Equally”)	545
On the Death of the Late Earl of Rochester	546
To the Fair Clarinda, Who Made Love to Me, Imagined More Than Woman	548
A Thousand Martyrs	549
JOHN WILMOT, EARL OF ROCHESTER (1647-1680)	549
The Disabled Debauchee	549
The Imperfect Enjoyment	551
The Mock Song	552
A Song of a Young Lady to Her Ancient Lover	553
ANNE KILLIGREW (1660-1685)	554
Alexandreis	554
ANNE FINCH, COUNTESS OF WINCHILSEA (1661-1720)	556
The Introduction	556
The Spleen	558
Adam Posed	562
To Death	562
Friendship between Ephelia and Ardelia	563

A Nocturnal Reverie	563
The Answer (To Pope's Impromptu)	565
On Myself	566
MATTHEW PRIOR (1664-1721)	566
A Fable	566
To a Lady: She Refusing to Continue a Dispute with Me, and Leaving Me in the Argument	567
An Ode ("The merchant, to secure his treasure")	568
JONATHAN SWIFT (1667-1745)	568
A Description of the Morning	568
A Description of a City Shower	569
Stella's Birthday	570
The Lady's Dressing Room	572
A Beautiful Young Nymph Going to Bed	575
Verses on the Death of Dr. Swift, D.S.P.D.	577
ISAAC WATTS (1674-1748)	589
The Day of Judgment	589
A Prospect of Heaven Makes Death Easy	590
Our God, Our Help	591
Psalm 58	592
Psalm 114	593
x v i i i / C O N T E N T S
JOHN GAY (1685-1732)	594
Songs from The Beggar's Opera	594
Air X—"Thomas, I Cannot"	594
Air XI—"A Soldier and a Sailor"	595
Air XVI—"Over the Hills, and Far Away"	595
Air IV—"Cotillion"	595

Air XXII—"The Lass of Patie's Mill" 596

Air XXVII—"Green Sleeves" 596

ALEXANDER POPE (1688-1744) 596

An Essay on Criticism 596

Part II 596

The Rape of the Lock 604

Epistle to Miss Blount 621

An Essay on Man, in Four Epistles 623

From Epistle 1 (lines 1-130) 623

Epistle to Dr. Arbuthnot 626

The Universal Prayer 635

Impromptu 637

The Dunciad 638

[The Triumph of Dulness] 638

LADY MARY WORTLEY MONTAGU (1689-1762) 639

Saturday (The Smallpox) 639

The Lover: A Ballad 641

A Receipt to Cure the Vapors 642

Epistle from Mrs. Yonge to Her Husband 643

MATTHEW GREEN (1696-1737)

645

From The Spleen 645

JAMES THOMSON (1700-1748)

649

The Seasons 649

From Winter (lines 223-358) 649

CHARLES WESLEY (1707-1788)

652

H Y M N S 6 5 2

[My God! I Know, I Feel Thee Mine]

652

[Come on, My Partners in Distress]

653

SAMUEL JOHNSON (1709-1784) 655

Prologue Spoken by Mr. Garrick 655

The Vanity of Human Wishes 656

On the Death of Dr. Robert Levet 664

THOMAS GRAY (1716-1771) 666

Ode on a Distant Prospect of Eton College 666

Ode (On the Death of a Favorite Cat, Drowned in a Tub of Goldfishes) 668

C O N T E N T S / x i x

Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard 669

Sonnet (On the Death of Mr. Richard West) 673

WILLIAM COLLINS (1721-1759)

673

Ode Written in the Beginning of the Year 1746

673

Ode on the Poetical Character 674

Ode to Evening 675

JEAN ELLIOT (1727-1805) 677

The Flowers of the Forest 677

CHRISTOPHER SMART (1722-1771) 678

Jubilate Agno, lines 697—770 (“For I will consider my Cat Jeoffry”) 678

From A Song to David 680

Psalm 58 684

Psalm 114 685

OLIVER GOLDSMITH (ca. 1730-1774) 686

When Lovely Woman Stoops to Folly 686

The Deserted Village 686

WILLIAM COWPER (1731-1800) 695

Olney Hymns 695

Light Shining out of Darkness 695

Epitaph on a Hare 696

The Task 697

From Book IV: The Winter Evening 697

From Book VI: The Winter Walk at Noon 699

The Castaway 702

Lines Written during a Period of Insanity 704

ANNA LAETITIA BARBAULD \(1743-1825\) 705

The Rights of Woman 705

To the Poor 706

Life 706

HANNAH MORE (1745-1833) 707

Inscription in a Beautiful Retreat Called Fairy Bower 707

From The Slave Trade 709

CHARLOTTE SMITH (1749-1806) 711

Written in the Church Yard at Middleton in Sussex 711

To the Shade of Burns 711

Written near a Port on a Dark Evening 712

Written in October 712

Nepenthe 713

Stanzas 713

Ode to Death 714

From Beachy Head 715

x x / C O N T E N T S

PHILIP FRENEAU (1752-1832) 716

The Indian Burying Ground 716

To Sir Toby 717

PHILLIS WHEATLEY (ca. 1753-1784) 719

A Farewell to America. To Mrs. S. W. 719

On Being Brought from Africa to America 720

To S. M., a Young African Painter, on Seeing His Works 721

On Imagination 722

GEORGE CRABBE (1754-1832) 723

From The Parish Register: I 723

The Borough 730

From Letter XXII, The Poor of The Borough: Peter Grimes 730

WILLIAM BLAKE (1 7 5 7 - 1 8 2 7) 7 3 2

P O E T I C A L S K E T C H E S 7 3 2

To the Muses 732

Song (“How sweet I roam’d from field to field”) 732

To the Evening Star 733

S O N G S O F I N N O C E N C E 7 3 3

Introduction (“Piping down the valleys wild”) 733

The Lamb 734

Holy Thursday [I.] 734

The Divine Image 735

The Little Black Boy 735

The Little Boy Lost 736

The Little Boy Found 737

T H E B O O K O F T H E L 7 3 7

SONGS OF EXPERIENCE 740

Introduction (“Hear the voice of the Bard!”) 740

A Divine Image 741

Holy Thursday [II.] 741

The Clod & the Pebble 742

The Sick Rose 742

A Poison Tree 743

The Tyger 743

Ah Sun-flower 744

The Garden of Love 744

London 744

SONGS AND BALLADS 745

I Asked a Thief 745

Mock on, Mock on, Voltaire, Rousseau 745

Eternity 746

A Question Answered 746

MILTON 746

And Did Those Feet 746

JERUSALEM 747

England! Awake! Awake! Awake! 747

CONTENTS / x x i

ROBERT BURNS (1759-1796)

747

Green Grow the Rashes 747

To a Mouse 748

Holy Willie’s Prayer 750

Of A ‘ t h e A i r t s 752

Auld Lang Syne 753

John Anderson My Jo 754
Tam O'Shanter 754
The Banks o' Doon 759
A Red Red Rose 759
O Wert Thou in the Cauld Blast
760
JOANNA BAILLIE (1762-1851) 760
A Mother to Her Waking Infant 760
Song: Woo'd and Married and A' 762
WILLIAM WORDSWORTH (1770-1850) 763
Expostulation and Reply 763
The Tables Turned 764
Lines Composed a Few Miles above Tintern Abbey 765
The Ruined Cottage 768
Anecdote for Fathers 780
The Prelude 781
Book I, lines 301—647 ("Fair seedtime had my soul, and I grew up") 781
She Dwelt among the Untrodden Ways 789
Three Years She Grew 789
A Slumber Did My Spirit Seal 790
Resolution and Independence 790
It Is a Beauteous Evening 794
London, 1802 795
Composed upon Westminster Bridge, September 3, 1802 795
Nuns Fret Not at Their Convent's Narrow Room 796
My Heart Leaps Up 796

Ode: Intimations of Immortality	796
I Wandered Lonely as a Cloud	801
She Was a Phantom of Delight	802
The World Is Too Much with Us	802
The Solitary Reaper	803
Surprised by Joy	804
Mutability	804
Scorn Not the Sonnet	804
SAMUEL TAYLOR COLERIDGE (1772-1834)	805
The Aeolian Harp	805
This Lime-Tree Bower My Prison	807
Kubla Khan	809
Frost at Midnight	810
The Rime of the Ancient Mariner	812
Dejection: An Ode	828
x x i i / C O N T E N T S
WALTER SAVAGE LANDOR (1775-1864)	831
Rose Aylmer	831
Past Ruined Iliion Helen Lives	832
Dirce	832
To Robert Browning	832
Dying Speech of an Old Philosopher	833
GEORGE GORDON, LORD BYRON (1788-1824)	833
Written after Swimming from Sestos to Abydos	833
She Walks in Beauty	834
The Destruction of Sennacherib	834
When We Two Parted	835
So We'll Go No More A-Roving	836

Don Juan 837
Fragment on the Back of the Ms. of Canto I 837
Canto the First. Stanzas 1-119 837
Stanzas (When a Man Hath No Freedom to Fight for at Home) 862
On This Day I Complete My Thirty-sixth Year 862
PERCY BYSSHE SHELLEY (1792-1822) 863
To Wordsworth 863
Mutability 864
Hymn to Intellectual Beauty 864
Mont Blanc 866
Ozymandias 870
Stanzas Written in Dejection, Near Naples 870
England in 1819 871
Ode to the West Wind 872
The Cloud 874
To a Skylark 876
Adonais 879
H E L L A S 8 9 2
The World's Great Age 892
JOHN CLARE (1793-1864) 893
Badger 893
Gypsies 894
Song: Love Lives beyond the Tomb 894
First Love 895
Farewell 896
I Am 896
FELICIA DOROTHEA HEMANS (1793-1835) 897

England's Dead 897
The Landing of the Pilgrim Fathers in New England 898
Casabianca 899
Indian Woman's Death-Song 901
WILLIAM CULLEN BRYANT (1794-1878) 902
To a Waterfowl 902
Thanatopsis 903
JOHN KEATS (1795-1821)
On First Looking into Chapman's Homer 905
On Sitting Down to Read King Lear Once Again 905
When I Have Fears 906
To Homer 906
The Eve of St. Agnes 907
On the Sonnet 916
La Belle Dame sans Merci 917
Lamia 918
Ode to Psyche 933
Ode to a Nightingale 935
Ode on Melancholy 937
Ode on a Grecian Urn 938
To Autumn 939
Bright Star 940
This Living Hand 940
RALPH WALDO EMERSON (1803-1882)
Concord Hymn 941
The Rhodora 941
The Snow-Storm 942
Ode (Inscribed to W. H. Channing) 943

Intellect 945

Brahma 945

Days 946

Fate 946

ELIZABETH BARRETT BROWNING (1806-1861)

Sonnets from the Portuguese 947

1 (“I thought once how Theocritus had sung”) 947

43 (“How do I love thee? Let me count the ways”) 947

Aurora Leigh 948

From Book 5 [Poets and the Present Age] 948

A Musical Instrument 950

HENRY WADSWORTH LONGFELLOW (1807-1882)

From Evangeline 951

The Jewish Cemetery at Newport 952

The Song of Hiawatha 954

From Part III: Hiawatha’s Childhood 954

Snow-Flakes 956

The Cross of Snow 956

JOHN GREENLEAF WHITTIER (1807-1892)

Telling the Bees 957

From Snowbound: A Winter Idyl 958

EDWARD FITZGERALD (1809-1883)

The Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam of Naishapur 961

x x i v / C O N T E N T S

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES (1809-1894) 974

The Chambered Nautilus 974

EDGAR ALLAN POE (1809-1849) 975

Sonnet—To Science 975

To Helen 975
The City in the Sea 976
The Raven 977
Eldorado 980
Annabel Lee 981
ALFRED, LORD TENNYSON (1809-1892) 982
Mariana 982
The Kraken 984
The Lady of Shalott 984
The Lotos-Eaters 988
Ulysses 992
Break, Break, Break 994
Songs from The Princess 994
The Splendor Falls 994
Tears, Idle Tears 995
Now Sleeps the Crimson Petal 995
In Memoriam A. H. H. 996
1 ("I held it truth, with him who sings") 996
2 ("Old Yew, which graspest at the stones") 997
7 ("Dark house, by which once more I stand") 997
11 ("Calm is the morn without a sound") 997
19 ("The Danube to the Severn gave") 998
50 ("Be near me when my light is low") 998
54 ("Oh yet we trust that somehow good") 999
55 ("The wish, that of the living whole") 999
56 (" 'So careful of the type?' but no") 1000
67 ("When on my bed the moonlight falls") 1001
88 ("Wild bird, whose warble, liquid sweet") 1001

95 (“By night we lingered on the lawn”) 1001
119 (“Doors, where my heart was used to beat”) 1003
121 (“Sad Hesper o’er the buried sun”) 1003
130 (“Thy voice is on the rolling air”) 1004
The Eagle 1004
The Charge of the Light Brigade 1005
Tithonus 1006
“Frater Ave atque Vale” 1008
Crossing the Bar 1008
ROBERT BROWNING (1812-1889) 1009
Porphyria’s Lover 1009
Soliloquy of the Spanish Cloister 1010
My Last Duchess 1012
The Bishop Orders His Tomb at Saint Praxed’s Church 1014
Home-Thoughts, from Abroad 1017
A Toccata of Galuppi’s 1017
Memorabilia 1019
“Childe Roland to the Dark Tower Came” 1020
Fra Lippo Lippi 1026
Andrea del Sarto 1034
Two in the Campagna 1040
EDWARD LEAR (1812-1888)
There Was an Old Man with a Beard 1041
There Was an Old Man in a Tree 1042
There Was an Old Man Who Supposed 1042
The Owl and the Pussy-Cat 1042
How Pleasant to Know Mr. Lear 1043
JONES VERY (1813-1880)

The Dead 1044

The Lost 1044

HENRY DAVID THOREAU (1817-1862)

I Am a Parcel of Vain Strivings Tied 1045

Smoke 1046

EMILY BRONTE (1818-1848)

[Long Neglect Has Worn Away] 1046

Hope 1046

Remembrance 1047

The Prisoner. A Fragment 1048

No Coward Soul Is Mine 1050

ARTHUR HUGH CLOUGH (1819-1861)

Amours de Voyage 1051

From Canto I 1051

The Latest Decalogue 1052

Say Not the Struggle Nought Availeth 1053

JULIA WARD HOWE (1819-1910)

Battle-Hymn of the Republic 1054

HERMAN MELVILLE (1819-1891)

The Portent 1054

Shiloh 1055

The Maldive Shark 1055

The Berg 1056

Monody 1057

SPIRITUALS

Go Down, Moses 1057

Steal Away to Jesus 1058

Ezekiel Saw the Wheel 1059

x x v i / C O N T E N T S

WALT WHITMAN (1819-1892) 1060

Song of Myself 1060

I (“I celebrate myself, and sing myself”) 1060

5 (“I believe in you my soul, the other I am must not abase itself to you”) 1061

6 (“A child said What is the grass? fetching it to me with full hands”) 1061

II (“Twenty-eight young men bathe by the shore”) 1062

13 (“The negro holds firmly the reins of his four
h o r s e s . . . ”) 1063

24 (“Walt Whitman, a kosmos, of Manhattan the son”) 1064

52 (“The spotted hawk swoops by and accuses me . . .”) 1065

Crossing Brooklyn Ferry 1066

When I Heard the Learn’d Astronomer 1071

Vigil Strange I Kept on the Field One Night 1071

Beat! Beat! Drums! 1072

Cavalry Crossing a Ford 1073

Out of the Cradle Endlessly Rocking 1073

The Dalliance of the Eagles 1078

Reconciliation 1078

When Lilacs Last in the Dooryard Bloom’d 1078

A Noiseless Patient Spider 1085

To a Locomotive in Winter 1085

FREDERICK GODDARD TUCKERMAN (1821-1873) 1086

Sonnets, Third Series 1086

IV (“Thin little leaves of wood fern, ribbed and toothed")	1086

V ("How well do I recall that walk in state")	1087
VI ("I looked across the rollers of the deep")	1087
MATTHEW ARNOLD (1822-1888)	1087
Shakespeare	1087
To Marguerite	1088
The Scholar-Gypsy	1089
Thyrsis	1095
Dover Beach	1101
DANTE GABRIEL ROSSETTI (1828-1882)	1102
The Blessed Damozel	1102
Sudden Light	1105
The Woodspurge	1105
The House of Life	1106
A Sonnet	1106
19. Silent Noon	1106
70. The Hill Summit	1107
GEORGE MEREDITH (1828-1909)	1107
Modern Love	1107
1 ("By this he knew she wept with waking eyes")	1107
17 ("At dinner, she is hostess, I am host")	1108
C O N T E N T S / x x v i i
30 ("What are we first? First, animals; and next")	1108
48 ("Their sense is with their senses all mixed in")	1108
49 ("He found her by the ocean's moaning verge")	1109
50 ("Thus piteously Love closed what he begat")	1109
Lucifer in Starlight	1110
EMILY DICKINSON (1830-1886)

1110

39 (49) ("I never lost as much but twice -") 1110

68 (89) (Some things that fly there be -") 1110

112 (67) ("Success is counted sweetest") 1111

'Safe in their Alabaster Chambers -" (1 8 5 9) 1 1 1 1

'Safe in their Alabaster Chambers -" (1 8 6 2) 1 1 1 2

A little East of Jordan") 1112

' 'Faith' is a fine invention") 1113

'A Clock stopped -" 1113

'I'm Nobody! Who are you?") 1113

'Wild nights - Wild nights!") 1114

' 'Hope' is the thing with feathers -" 1114

'There's a certain Slant of light") 1114

'I like a look of Agony") 1115

'I felt a Funeral, in my Brain") 1115

'I would not paint - a picture -" 1116

'A Bird, came down the Walk -" 1116

'After great pain, a formal feeling comes -" 1117

'I like to see it lap the Miles -" 1117

'The Soul selects her own Society -" 1118

'Mine - by the Right of the White Election!") 1118

'They shut me up in Prose -" 1119

'Because I could not stop for Death -" 1119

'I reckon - When I count at all -" 1120

'The Heart asks Pleasure - first -" 1120

'I heard a Fly buzz - when I died -" 1121

'Much Madness is divinest Sense -" 1121

'On a Columnar Self-" 1121

‘My Life had stood - a Loaded Gun -“)	1122
‘Remorse - is Memory - awake -“)	1122
‘Renunciation - is a piercing Virtue -“)	1123
‘Publication - is the Auction”)	1123
(“Further in Summer than the Birds -“)	1124
“Split the Lark - and you’ll find the Music -“)	1124
(“As imperceptibly as Grief”)	1125
(“A narrow Fellow in the Grass”)	1125
1108 (1078) (“The Bustle in a House”)	1126
1263 (1129) (“Tell all the Truth but tell it slant -“)	1126
1489 (1463) (“A Route of Evanescence”)	1126
1577 (1545) (“The Bible is an antique Volume -“)	1127
1793 (1732) (“My life closed twice before it’s close”)	1127
1788 (1763) (“Fame is a bee”)	1127
CHRISTINA ROSSETTI (1830-1894)
1128
Song (“When I am dead, my dearest”)	1128
Remember	1128
x x v i i i / C O N T E N T S
Echo	1128
In an Artist’s Studio	1129
Up-Hill	1129
The Convent Threshold	1130
Passing Away, Saith the World, Passing Away	1133
AmorMundi	1134
LEWIS CARROLL (CHARLES LUTWIDGE DODGSON)
(1832-1898)	1135
Jabberwocky	1135

[Humpty Dumpty's Explication of Jabberwocky] 1136

The White Knight's Song 1137

WILLIAM MORRIS \(1834-1896\) 1139

The Haystack in the Floods 1139

From The Earthly Paradise 1143

W. S. GILBERT (1836-1911) 1144

I Am the Very Model of a Modern Major-General 1144

Titwillow 1146

ALGERNON CHARLES SWINBURNE \(1837-1909\) 1146

Chorus from Atalanta in Calydon 1146

When the Hounds of Spring Are on Winter's Traces 1146

The Garden of Proserpine 1148

A Forsaken Garden 1150

THOMAS HARDY (1840-1928)

1152

Hap 1152

Neutral Tones 1153

I Look into My Glass 1153

Drummer Hodge 1154

A Broken Appointment 1154

The Darkling Thrush 1155

The Ruined Maid 1156

The Convergence of the Twain 11

Channel Firing 1157

Under the Waterfall 1159

The Voice 1160

During Wind and Rain 1160

In Time of "The Breaking of Nations"

1161

Afterwards 1162

SIDNEY LANIER (1842-1881) 1162

From the Flats 1162

The Marshes of Glynn 1163

GERARD MANLEY HOPKINS (1844-1889) 1166

God's Grandeur 1166

The Windhover 1166

Pied Beauty 1167

[As Kingfishers Catch Fire, Dragonflies Draw Flame]

1167

Felix Randal 1168

Spring and Fall 1168

[Carrion Comfort] 1169

[No Worst, There Is None. Pitched Past Pitch of Grief]

1169

[I Wake and Feel the Fell of Dark, Not Day] 1170

[My Own Heart Let Me More Have Pity On] 1170

That Nature is a Heraclitean Fire and of the comfort of the Resurrection 1171

[Thou Art Indeed Just, Lord ...] 1172

EMMA LAZARUS (1849-1887)

The New Colossus 1172

A. E. HOUSMAN (1859-1936)

Loveliest of Trees, the Cherry Now 1173

Reveille 1173

When I Watch the Living Meet 1174

To an Athlete Dying Young 1174

Is My Team Ploughing 1175
On Wenlock Edge the Wood's in Trouble 1176
From Far, from Eve and Morning 1177
With Rue My Heart Is Laden 1177
"Terence, This Is Stupid Stuff ... " 1177
Astronomy 1179
Epitaph on an Army of Mercenaries 1180
Crossing Alone the Nighted Ferry 1180
Here Dead Lie We Because We Did Not Choose 1180
RUDYARD KIPLING (1865-1936)
Tommy 1181
Recessional 1182
Epitaphs of the War 1183
WILLIAM BUTLER YEATS (1865-1939)
The Stolen Child 1188
The Lake Isle of Innisfree 1190
When You Are Old 1190
Adam's Curse 1190
No Second Troy 1191
The Wild Swans at Coole 1192
An Irish Airman Foresees His Death 1193
The Scholars 1193
Easter 1916 1194
The Second Coming 1196
A Prayer for My Daughter 1196
To Be Carved on a Stone at Thoor Ballylee 1198 Sailing to Byzantium 1199
Leda and the Swan 1200

Among School Children 1200

x x x / C O N T E N T S

Byzantium 1202

Crazy Jane Talks with the Bishop 1204

Lapis Lazuli 1204

Long-Legged Fly 1206

The Circus Animals' Desertion 1207

Under Ben Bulbin 1208

ERNEST DOWSON (1867-1900) 1211

Vitae summa brevis spem nos vetat incohare longam 1211

Non sum qualis eram bonae sub regno Cynarae 1211

EDWIN ARLINGTON ROBINSON (1869-1935) 1212

Richard Cory 1212

George Crabbe 1212

Reuben Bright 1213

Miniver Cheevy 1213

The Mill 1214

Mr. Flood's Party 1215

CHARLOTTE MEW (1869-1928) 1216

The Farmer's Bride 1216

In Nunhead Cemetery 1218

STEPHEN CRANE (1871-1900) 1220

From The Black Riders and Other Lines 1220

I ("BLACK RIDERS CAME FROM THE SEA") 1220

III ("IN THE DESERT") 1220

XXV ("BEHOLD, THE GRAVE OF A WICKED
MAN") 1220

LVI ("A MAN FEARED THAT HE MIGHT FIND AN ASSASSIN”) 1221

From War is Kind 1221

[A Man Adrift on a Slim Spar] 1221

PAUL LAURENCE DUNBAR (1872-1906) 1222

A Summer’s Night 1222

We Wear the Mask 1223

Little Brown Baby 1223

Sympathy 1224

JOHN McCRAE \(1872-1918\) 1225

In Flanders Fields 1225

WALTER DE LA MARE \(1873-1956\) 1225

The Listeners 1225

Fare Well 1226

ROBERT FROST \(1874-1963\) 1227

Mending Wall 1227

Home Burial 1228

CONTENTS / x x x i

After Apple Picking 1231

The Wood-Pile 1232

The Road Not Taken 1232

The Oven Bird 1233

Birches 1233

The Hill Wife 1235

Stopping by Woods on a Snowy Evening 1237

Acquainted with the Night 1237

West-Running Brook 1238

Neither Out Far Nor In Deep 1240

Design 1240

Provide, Provide 1241

The Silken Tent 1241

Come In 1242

Never Again Would Birds' Song Be the Same 1242

The Most of It 1243

The Gift Outright 1243

Directive 1244

AMY LOWELL (1874-1925) 1245

Patterns 1245

The Weather-Cock Points South 1248

GERTRUDE STEIN (1874-1946) 1248

Stanzas in Meditation 1248

Part I, Stanza XIII ("She may count three little daisies very well") 1248

Part III, Stanza II ("I think very well of Susan but I do not know her name") 1249

Part III, Stanza V ("It is not a range of a mountain") 1249

Part V, Stanza XXXVIII ("Which I wish to say is this") 1249

Part V, Stanza LXIII ("I wish that I had spoken only of it all.") 1250

TRUMBULL STICKNEY (1874-1904) 1250

[And, the Last Day Being Come, Man Stood Alone] 1250

An Athenian Garden 1251

Fragments 1252

IX ("I hear a river thro' the valley wander") 1252

CARL SANDBURG (1878-1967) 1252

Chicago 1252

Grass	1253
EDWARD THOMAS (1878-1917)	1253
Adlestrop	1253
The Owl	1254
In Memoriam [Easter 1915]	1254
Rain	1255
As the team's head brass	1255
x x x i i / C O N T E N T S
WALLACE STEVENS (1879-1955)	1256
The Snow Man	1256
The Emperor of Ice-Cream	1256
Sunday Morning	1257
Anecdote of the Jar	1260
Thirteen Ways of Looking at a Blackbird	1260
Peter Quince at the Clavier	1262
The Idea of Order at Key West	1264
Waving Adieu, Adieu, Adieu	1265
The Poems of Our Climate	1266
The House Was Quiet and the World Was Calm	1267
Table Talk	1267
A Room on a Garden	1268
Of Mere Being	1268
WITTER BYNNER (1881-1968)	1269
Haskell	1269
Chinese Drawings	1270
A Philosopher	1270
The Wintry Mind	1270
More Lovely than Antiquity	1270

E.J. PRATT (1883-1964) 1270

Come Not the Seasons Here 1270

From Stone to Steel 1271

WILLIAM CARLOS WILLIAMS (1883-1963) 1272

Danse Russe 1272

Portrait of a Lady 1273

Queen-Anne's-Lace 1273

The Red Wheelbarrow 1274

This Is Just to Say 1274

Poem 1275

The Yachts 1275

A Sort of a Song 1276

Asphodel, That Greeny Flower 1276

Book I 1276

Pictures from Brueghel 1283

Landscape with the Fall of Icarus 1283

D. H. LAWRENCE (1885-1930) 1284

Love on the Farm 1284

Piano 1285

Snake 1286

Elemental 1288

Self-Protection 1288

Trees in the Garden 1289

The English Are So Nice! 1290

Andraitx—Pomegranate Flowers 1290

Bavarian Gentians 1291

The Ship of Death 1291

EZRA POUND (1885-1972)

Portrait d'une Femme 1295

The Garden 1296

A Pact 1296

Ts'ai Chi'h 1296

In a Station of the Metro 1297

The River-Merchant's Wife: a Letter 1297

Hugh Selwyn Mauberley: Life and Contacts 1298

Medallion 1306

The Cantos 1306

I ("And then went down to the ship") 1306

XLV (“With Usura”) 1309
ELINOR WYLIE (1885-1928)
Full Moon 1310
Doomsday 1311
H. D. (HILDA DOOLITTLE) (1886-1961)
Sea Rose 1311
Sea Violet 1312
Helen 1312
Wine Bowl 1313
The Walls Do Not Fall 1315
[1] (“An incident here and there”) 1315
SIEGFRIED SASSOON (1886-1967)
Christ and the Soldier 1317
“They” 1318
The General 1318
Glory of Women 1319
Everyone Sang 1319
On Passing the New Menin Gate 1320
ROBINSON JEFFERS (1887-1962)
Shine, Perishing Republic 1320
Boats in a Fog 1321
Hurt Hawks 1321
The Purse-Seine 1322
Birds and Fishes 1323
RUPERT BROOKE (1887-1915)
Sonnet 1324
From The Old Vicarage, Grantchester 1325
The Soldier 1327

MARIANNE MOORE (1887-1972)

To a Steam Roller 1328

To a Chameleon 1328

The Fish 1328

Poetry 1329

x x x i v / CONTENTS

A Grave 1330

The Steeple-Jack 1331

No Swan So Fine 1333

What Are Years? 1334

Nevertheless 1334

The Mind Is an Enchanting Thing 1335

EDWIN MUIR (1887-1959) 1336

Childhood 1336

The Return of the Greeks 1337

Adam's Dream 1338

T. S. ELIOT (1 8 8 8 - 1 9 6 5) 1 3 4 0

The Love Song of J. Alfred Prufrock 1340

The Waste Land 1344

The Hollow Men 1356

Journey of the Magi 1359

F O U R Q U A R T E T S 1 3 6 0

Little Gidding 1360

J O H N C R O W E R A N S O M (1888-1974) 1367

Bells for John Whiteside's Daughter 1367

Piazza Piece 1367

Blue Girls 1368

Parting, without a Sequel 1368

Lady Lost 1369

CONRAD AIKEN \(1889-1973\) 1370

Senlin: A Biography 1370

II. His Futile Preoccupations, 2 1370

IVOR GURNEY \(1890-1937\) 1371

To His Love 1371

The Silent One 1372

First Time In 1372

ISAAC ROSENBERG \(1890-1918\) 1373

Break of Day in the Trenches 1373

Louse Hunting 1374

Dead Man's Dump 1374

HUGH MACDIARMID (CHRISTOPHER MURRAY GRIEVE)

(1892-1978) 1376

From Lament for the Great Music 1376

Another Epitaph on an Army of Mercenaries 1379

From In Memoriam James Joyce 1380

ARCHIBALD MACLEISH (1892-1982)

1865

Ars Poetica 1381

The Snowflake Which Is Now and Hence Forever 1382

C O N T E N T S / x x x v

EDNA ST. VINCENT MILLAY (1892-1950) 1382

First Fig 1382

Second Fig 1382

Euclid Alone Has Looked on Beauty Bare 1383

Spring 1383

[I, Being Born a Woman and Distressed] 1383
The Buck in the Snow 1384
I Dreamed I Moved among the Elysian Fields 1384
Ragged Island 1385
Armenonville 1385
WILFRED OWEN (1893-1918) 1386
Anthem for Doomed Youth 1386
Dulce Et Decorum Est 1387
Insensibility 1387
Strange Meeting 1389
Futility 1390
DOROTHY PARKER (1893-1967) 1391
Unfortunate Coincidence 1391
Resume 1391
One Perfect Rose 1391
E. E. CUMMINGS (1894-1962) 1392
All in green went my love riding 1392
the Cambridge ladies who live in furnished souls 1393
Spring is like a perhaps hand 1393
“next to of course god america i 1394 since feeling is first 1394 somewhere i have never travelled,gladly beyond 1395 may I feel said he 1395 anyone lived in a pretty how town 1396
who are you,little I 1397
JEAN TOOMER (1894-1967) 1398
C A N E 1 3 9 8
Reapers 1398

Face	1398
Georgia Dusk	1398
Portrait in Georgia	1399
Harvest Song	1399
ROBERT GRAVES (1895-1985)	1400
Love Without Hope	1400
In Broken Images	1400
Warning to Children	1401
The Persian Version	1402
To Juan at the Winter Solstice	1402
The White Goddess	1404
xxxvi / C O N T E N T S
EDMUND BLUNDEN (1896-1974)	1404
Forefathers	1404
1916 seen from 1921	1405
LOUISE BOGAN (1897-1970)	1406
Medusa	1406
Juan's Song	1407
Man Alone	1407
Roman Fountain	1408
Song for the Last Act	1408
Night	1409
HART CRANE (1899-1932)	1410
My Grandmother's Love Letters	1410
At Melville's Tomb	1410
Voyages	1411
The Bridge	1415
Proem: To Brooklyn Bridge	1415

To Emily Dickinson 1416
ALLEN TATE (1899-1979) 1417
Ode to the Confederate Dead 1417
The Swimmers 1419
BASIL BUNTING \(1900-1985\) 1421
From Briggflatts 1421
LAURA \(RIDING\) JACKSON \(1901-1991\) 1425
The Wind Suffers 1425
Ding-Donging 1426
STERLING A. BROWN \(1901-1989\) 1426
Slim in Atlanta 1426
Chillen Get Shoes 1428
Bitter Fruit of the Tree 1428
Conjured 1429
LANGSTON HUGHES (1902-1967) 1429
The Weary Blues 1429
The Negro Speaks of Rivers 1430
Dream Variations 1431
Cross 1431
Bad Luck Card 1432
Song for a Dark Girl 1432
Harlem Sweeties 1432
Harlem 1433
Theme for English B 1434
Dinner Guest: Me 1435
CONTENTS / x x x v i i
ROY CAMPBELL (1902-1957) 1436
The Zulu Girl 1436

The Sisters 1436
OGDEN NASH (1902-1971) 1437
The Cow 1437
Reflections on Ice-breaking 1437
Requiem 1437
Columbus 1438
The Turtle 1438
STEVIE SMITH (1902-1971) 1439
No Categories! 1439
Mr. Over 1439
The Death Sentence 1440
Not Waving but Drowning 1440
The Celts 1441
Thoughts about the Person from Porlock 1441
COUNTEE CULLEN \(1903-1946\) 1443
Heritage 1443
Incident 1446
Yet Do I Marvel 1446
EARLE BIRNEY (1904-1991) 1447
Bushed 1447
The Bear on the Delhi Road 1447
C. DAY LEWIS \(1904-1972\) 1448
Two Songs 1448
("I've heard them lilting at loom and belting") 1448
("Come, live with me and be my love") 1449
Where are the War Poets? 1449
RICHARD EBERHART (b. 1904) 1450
The Fury of Aerial Bombardment 1450

PATRICK KAVANAGH (1904-1967) 1450

Sanctity 1450

From The Great Hunger 1451

Epic 1453

Canal Bank Walk 1453

STANLEY KUNITZ(b. 1905) 1454

He 1454

Robin Redbreast 1454

Touch Me 1455

ROBERT PENN WARREN (1905-1989) 1456

Bearded Oaks 1456

x x x v i i i / C O N T E N T S

Masts at Dawn 1457

There's a Grandfather's Clock in the Hall 1458

Evening Hawk 1459

JOHN BETJEMAN (1906-1984) 1460

Death in Leamington 1460

The Arrest of Oscar Wilde at the Cadogan Hotel 1461

East Anglian Bathe 1462

False Security 1463

WILLIAM EMPSON (1906-1984) 1463

Legal Fiction 1463

Missing Dates 1464

W. H. AUDEN (1907-1973) 1465

Lullaby [Lay your sleeping head, my love] 1465

Spain 1937 1466

As I Walked Out One Evening 1468

Twelve Songs 1470

IX [Funeral Blues] 1470
XII [Tell Me the Truth About Love] 1470
Musee des Beaux Arts 1471
In Memory of W. B. Yeats 1472
September 1, 1939 1474
In Praise of Limestone 1477
Their Lonely Betters 1479
The Shield of Achilles 1479
A. D. HOPE (1907-2000) 1481
Australia 1481
Imperial Adam 1482
Advice to Young Ladies 1483
Inscription for a War 1485
LOUIS MACNEICE (1907-1963) 1485
The Sunlight on the Garden 1485
Bagpipe Music 1486
Autumn Journal
IV (“September has come and I wake”) 1487
London Rain 1489
Star-gazer 1490
JOSEPHINE JACOBSEN (1908-2003) 1491
The Primer 1491
Bush 1492
Hourglass 1492
THEODORE ROETHKE (1908-1963)
1865
Root Cellar 1493
Child on Top of a Greenhouse 1494

CONTENTS / x x x i x

My Papa's Waltz 1494

The Lost Son 1495

Elegy for Jane 1499

The Waking 1500

I Knew a Woman 1500

Wish for a Young Wife 1501

In a Dark Time 1501

R I C H A R D W R I G H T (1908-1960) 1502

H A I K U : T H I S O T H E R W O R L D 1 5 0 2

21 ("On winter mornings") 1502

31 ("In the falling snow") 1502

120 ("Crying and crying") 1502

490 ("Waking from a nap") 1503

762 ("Droning autumn rain") 1 503

783 ("I cannot find it") 1503

M A L C O L M L O W R Y (1909-1957) 1503

Delirium in Vera Cruz 1503

The Wild Cherry 1504

Eye-Opener 1504

Strange Type 1504

S T E P H E N S P E N D E R (1909-1995) 1505

I Think Continually of Those Who Were Truly Great 1505

Ultima Ratio Regum 1505

Seascape 1506

ROBERT FITZGERALD \(1910-1985\) 1507

Figlio Maggiore 1507

NORMAN MACCAIG \(1910-1996\) 1508

Summer Farm 1508

Return to Scalpay 1509

Kingfisher 1510

CHARLES OLSON \(1910-1970\) 1511

Merce of Egypt 1511

Variations Done for Gerald Van De Wiele 1512

ELIZABETH BISHOP \(1911-1979\) 1515

Casabianca 1515

The Fish 1516

Filling Station 1517

Sandpiper 1518

The Armadillo 1519

Sestina 1520

In the Waiting Room 1521

The Moose 1523

One Art 1527

x 1 / C O N T E N T S

ALLEN CURNOW (1911-2001)

1528

Landfall in Unknown Seas 1528

IRVING LAYTON (b. 1912)

1530

The Birth of Tragedy 1530

The Cold Green Element 1531

Berry Picking 1532

ROBERT HAYDEN (1913-1980)

1533

Those Winter Sundays 1533

Mourning Poem for the Queen of Sunday 1533
Night, Death, Mississippi 1534
” ‘Mystery Boy’ Looks for Kin in Nashville” 1535
Paul Laurence Dunbar 1536
MURIEL RUKEYSER (1913-1980) 1537
Boy with His Hair Cut Short 1537
Night Feeding 1537
Rondel 1538
Ballad of Orange and Grape 1538
MAY SWENSON (1913-1989) 1540
Motherhood 1540
Cardinal Ideograms 1541
Waterbird 1542
Goodbye, Goldeneye 1543
R. S. THOMAS (1913-2000) 1544
Welsh Landscape 1544
The View from the Window 1544
On the Farm 1545
Lore 1545
JOHN BERRYMAN (1914-1972) 1546
Homage to Mistress Bradstreet 1546
17-21 1546
A Sympathy, A Welcome 1547
The Dream Songs 1548
1 (“Huffy Henry hid the day”) 1548
4 (“Filling her compact & delicious body”) 1548
14 (“Life, friends, is boring. We must not say so”) 1549
29 (“There sat down, once, a thing on Henry’s heart”) 1549

40 (“I’m scared a lonely. Never see my son”) 1550
145 (“Also I love him: me he’s done no wrong”) 1550
324. An Elegy for W.C.W., The Lovely Man 1551
382 (“At Henry’s bier let some thing fall out well:”) 1551
RANDALL JARRELL (1914-1965)
1552
90 North 1552
The Death of the Ball Turret Gunner 1553
Eighth Air Force 1553
A Front 1554
A Field Hospital 1554
Next Day 1555
A Man Meets a Woman in the Street 1556
WELDON KEES (1914-1955)
What the Spider Heard 1559
For H. V. (1901-1927) 1559
When the Lease Is Up 1560
Robinson 1560
NORMAN NICHOLSON (1914-1987)
To the River Duddon 1561
Halley’s Comet 1562
HENRY REED (1914-1986)
Chard Whitlow 1563
Lessons of the War 1 564
1. Naming of Parts 1564
2. Judging Distances 1565
DYLAN THOMAS (1914-1953)
The Force That Through the Green Fuse Drives the

Flower 1566

The Hand That Signed the Paper 1 567

After the Funeral 1567

The Hunchback in the Park 1 568

A Refusal to Mourn the Death, by Fire, of a Child in London 1569

The Conversation of Prayer 1570

Fern Hill 1571

In My Craft or Sullen Art 1 572

Do Not Go Gentle into That Good Night 1 572

ALUN LEWIS (1915-1944)

All Day It Has Rained 1573

Song 1574

Goodbye 1575

MARGARET WALKER (1915-1998)

Since 1619 1576

Childhood 1577

JUDITH WRIGHT (1915-2000)

Woman to Man 1577

Train Journey 1578

Request to a Year 1 578

Eve to Her Daughters 1579

x l i i / CONTENTS

DAVID GASCOYNE (1916-2001)

1580

Yves Tanguy 1580

Ecce Homo 1581

P. K. PAGE (b. 1916)

1583

Stories of Snow 1 583

Deaf-Mute in the Pear Tree 1 584

GWENDOLYN BROOKS (1917-2000)

1586 kitchenette building 1586

my dreams, my works, must wait till after hell 1586

the birth in a narrow room 1586

the rites for Cousin Vit 1 587

The Bean Eaters 1587

We Real Cool 1588

MedgarEvers 1588

Boy Breaking Glass 1 589

CHARLES CAUSLEY (1917-2003)

1590

Armistice Day 1 590

At the British War Cemetery, Bayeux

1590

Eden Rock 1591

ROBERT LOWELL (1917-1977) 1592

The Quaker Graveyard in Nantucket 1592

Mr. Edwards and the Spider 1 596

My Last Afternoon with Uncle Devereux Winslow 1597

Skunk Hour 1601

Water 1602

For the Union Dead 1603

Harriet 1605

Epilogue 1605

LAWRENCE FERLINGHETTI \(b. 1919\) 1606

Sometime During Eternity ... 1606

WILLIAM MEREDITH \(b. 1919\) 1608

The Illiterate 1608

Rhode Island 1608

AMY CLAMPITT \(1920-1994\) 1609

Beach Glass 1609

Beethoven, Opus 111 1610

The Sun Underfoot Among the Sundews 1613

The Cormorant in Its Element 1614

Syrinx 1614

BARBARA GUEST (b. 1920)

1616

Roses 1616

Twilight Polka Dots 1617

CONTENTS / x l i i i

EDWIN MORGAN (b. 1920) 1618

Strawberries 1618

King Billy 1618

The Dowser 1619

KEITH DOUGLAS (1920-1944) 1620

Vergissmeinnicht 1620

Aristocrats 1621

Gallantry 1622

On a Return from Egypt 1622

HOWARD NEMEROV\(1920-1991\) 1623

The Goose Fish 1623

A Primer of the Daily Round 1624

The Blue Swallows 1625

Boy with Book of Knowledge 1626

Strange Metamorphosis of Poets 1626

A Cabinet of Seeds Displayed 1627

GEORGE MACKAY BROWN \(1921-1996\) 1627

The Old Women 1627

Haddock Fishermen 1628

Shroud 1628

MONA VAN DUYN (b. 1921) 1629

Letters from a Father 1629

Falling in Love at Sixty-Five 1631

RICHARD WILBUR \(b. 1921\) 1632

First Snow in Alsace 1632

Love Calls Us to the Things of This World 1633

Piazza di Spagna, Early Morning 1634

A Plain Song for Comadre 1635

A Baroque Wall-Fountain in the Villa Sciarra 1635

Advice to a Prophet 1637

Junk 1638

Cottage Street, 1953 1640

Zea 1640

DONALD DAVIE (1922-1995) 1641

Remembering the Thirties 1641

The Fountain 1643

Time Passing, Beloved 1643

SIDNEY KEYES (1922-1943) 1644

Elegy 1644

From The Foreign Gate 1645

War Poet 1647

x l i v / C O N T E N T S

PHILIP LARKIN (1922-1985) 1648

For Sidney Bechet 1648

Born Yesterday 1648

Church Going 1649

An Arundel Tomb 1650

The Whitsun Weddings 1652

MCMXIV 1653

Talking in Bed 1654

Ambulances 1655

The Trees 1656

Sad Steps 1656

The Explosion 1657

This Be The Verse 1657

Aubade 1658

HOWARD MOSS (1922-1987) 1659

The Persistence of Song 1659

Tourists 1660

JAMES DICKEY \(1923-1997\) 1661

The Lifeguard 1661

Buckdancer's Choice 1663

Sled Burial, Dream Ceremony 1664

PETER KANE DUFAULT \(b. 1923\) 1665

A Letter for All-Hallows (1949) 1665

A First Night 1666

Burden 1666

ANTHONY HECHT \(1923-2004\) 1667

A Hill 1667

The Dover Bitch 1668

The Ghost in the Martini 1669

Still Life 1671

The Book of Yolek 1672

Death the Painter 1673

RICHARD HUGO (1923-1982) 1674

The Way a Ghost Dissolves 1674

The Lady in Kicking Horse Reservoir 1675

DENISE LEVERTOV (1923-1997) 1677

Scenes from the Life of the Peppertrees 1677

Triple Feature 1678

O Taste and See 1678

Tenebrae 1679

Caedmon 1680

JOHN ORMOND (1923-1990)

1681

Cathedral Builders 1681

Lament for a Leg 1681

C O N T E N T S / x l v

JAMES SCHUYLER (1923-1991) 1683

Freely Espousing 1683

Shimmer 1684

DONALD JUSTICE (1925-2004) 1684

Counting the Mad 1684

Men at Forty 1685
Nostalgia of the Lakefronts 1686
Pantom of the Great Depression 1687
CAROLYN KIZER (b. 1925) 1688
The Erotic Philosophers (Part Five of “Pro Femina”) 1688
KENNETH KOCH (1925-2002) 1691
Permanently 1691
You Were Wearing 1692
Variations on a Theme by William Carlos Williams 1693
Energy in Sweden 1693
To My Twenties 1694
A. R. AMMONS (1926-2001) 1695
Corsons Inlet 1695
The City Limits 1698
The Arc Inside and Out 1699
Pet Panther 1700
All’s All 1701
JAMES K. BAXTER \(1926-1972\) 1701
Wild Bees 1701
East Coast Journey 1702
New Zealand 1703
ROBERT BLY\(b. 1926\) 1704
Waking from Sleep 1704
Johnson’s Cabinet Watched by Ants 1704
ROBERT CREELEY(b. 1926) 1705
Heroes 1705
I Know a Man 1705
The World 1706

Bresson's Movies 1707
ALLEN GINSBERG (1926-1997) 1708
Howl 1708
P a r t i 1708
A Supermarket in California 1713
To Aunt Rose 1714
JAMES MERRILL (1926-1995)
1716
The Broken Home 1716
x l v i / C O N T E N T S
The Victor Dog 1719
Lost in Translation 1720
The Book of Ephraim 1725
C. ("Correct but cautious, that first night, we asked") 1725
Arabian Night 1727
FRANK O'HARA (1926-1966) 1728
The Day Lady Died 1728
How to Get There 1729
Ave Maria 1730
Why I Am Not a Painter 1730
W. D. SNODGRASS (b. 1926) 1731
Heart's Needle 1731
2 ("Late April and you are three; today") 1732
3 ("The child between them on the street") 1732
7 ("Here in the scuffled dust") 1733
10 ("The vicious winter finally yields") 1733
Mementos, 1 1734
ELIZABETH JENNINGS (1926-2001) 1735

My Grandmother 1735
One Flesh 1735
JOHN ASHBERY (b. 1927) 1736
The Painter 1736
Soonest Mended 1737
Ode to Bill 1739
Paradoxes and Oxymorons 1739
Brute Image 1740
GALWAY KINNELL (b. 1927) 1740
First Song 1 740
The Correspondence School Instructor Says Goodbye to His Poetry Students 1741
After Making Love We Hear Footsteps 1742
W. S. MERWIN (b. 1927) 1743
The Drunk in the Furnace 1743
Odysseus 1743
Separation 1744
Losing a Language 1744
Whoever You Are 174 5
CHARLES TOMLINSON (b. 1927) 1746
Farewell to Van Gogh 1746
The Picture of J.T. in a Prospect of Stone 1746
Mr. Brodsky 1747
Ararat 1748
CONTENTS / x l v i i
JAMES WRIGHT \(1927-1980\) 1749
A Note Left in Jimmy Leonard's Shack 1749
A Blessing 1750

Speak 1750

PETER DAVISON \(b. 1928\) 1751

Equinox 1980 1751

Peaches 1752

DONALD HALL \(b. 1928\) 1753

Exile 1753

The One Day 1753

Prophecy 1753

Independence Day Letter 1756

THOMAS KINSELLA \(b. 1928\) 1757

Another September 1757

Ancestor 1757

Tear 1758

PHILIP LEVINE \(b. 1928\) 1761

They Feed They Lion 1761

You Can Have It 1761

The Simple Truth 1763

ANNE SEXTON (1928-1974) 1764

The Truth the Dead Know 1764

And One for My Dame 1764

L. E. SISSMAN \(1928-1976\) 1766

Dying: An Introduction 1766

IV. Path. Report 1766

V. Outbound 1766

A Deathplace 1767

THOM GUNN (1929-2004) 1768

On the Move 1768

A Map of the City 1769

Black Jackets 1770
My Sad Captains 1771
From the Wave 1771
“All Do Not All Things Well” 1772
The Missing 1774
JOHN HOLLANDER (b. 1929) 1775
Swan and Shadow 1775
Adam’s Task 1776
An Old-Fashioned Song 1776
Variations on a Fragment by Trumbull Stickney 1 777
xlviii / C O N T E N T S
RICHARD HOWARD (b. 1929) 1778
Nikolaus Mardruz to his Master Ferdinand, Count of Tyrol, 1565 1778
JOHN MONTAGUE (b. 1929) 1783
Like Dolmens Round My Childhood, the Old People 1783
Old Mythologies 1784
The Trout 1785
All Legendary Obstacles 1785
PETER PORTER (b. 1929)
1786
A Consumer’s Report 1786
An Angel in Blythburgh Church 1787
An Exequy 1788
ADRIENNE RICH (b. 1929)
1791
Aunt Jennifer’s Tigers 1791

Snapshots of a Daughter-in-Law 1791
Orion 1795
A Valediction Forbidding Mourning 1796
Diving into the Wreck 1797
Eastern War Time 1799
1 (“Memory lifts her smoky mirror: 1943”) 1799
8 (“A woman wired in memories”) 1 799
Modotti 1800
A. K. RAMANUJAN (1929-1993) 1801
Snakes 1801
Breaded Fish 1802
Self-Portrait 1803
EDWARD KAMAU BRATHWAITE (b. 1930) 1803
The Arrivants: A New World Trilogy 1803
New World A-Comin’ 1803
1 (“Helpless like this”) 1803
2 (“It will be a long long time before we see”) 1805
Ancestors 1806
1 (“Every Friday morning my grandfather”) 1806
2 (“All that I can remember of his wife”) 1806
3 (“Come-a look”) 1807
GREGORY CORSO (1930-2001) 1807
Marriage 1807
TED HUGHES (1930-1998) 1810
The Thought-Fox 1810
Wind 1811
Pike 1812

Theology 1813

Examination at the Womb-Door 1813

Daffodils 1814

Platform One 1815

GARY SNYDER (b. 1930)

Above Pate Valley 1816

Four Poems for Robin 1817

Instructions 1819

DEREK WALCOTT(b. 1930)

A Far Cry from Africa 1820

Nights in the Gardens of Port of Spain 1821

The Glory Trumpeter 1821

The Gulf 1822

From The Schooner Flight 1825

Midsummer 1827

Omeros 1827

Chapter XXXVIII 1827

ALAN BROWNJOHN (b. 1931)

Common Sense 1829

J A Y M A C P H E R S O N (b . 1 9 3 1)

The Swan 1830

A Lost Soul 1831

GEOFFREY HILL (b. 1932)

The Distant Fury of Battle 1831

The Guardians 1832

September Song 1832

Mercian Hymns 1833

VI (“The princes of Mercia were badger and raven.
Thrall”) 1833

VII (“Gasholders, russet among fields. Milldams, marlpools”) 1833

VIII (“The mad are predators. Too often lately they harbour”) 1834

Lachrimae 1834

1. Lachrimae Verae 1834

An Apology for the Revival of Christian Architecture in England 1835

9. The Laurel Axe 1835

Veni Coronaberis 1836

SYLVIA PLATH (1932-1963)

The Colossus 1836

Morning Song 1837

Tulips 1838

Elm 1839

Daddy 1840

I / C O N T E N T S

Ariel 1842

Lady Lazarus 1843

JOHN UPDIKE \(b. 1932\) 1846

V. B. Nimble, V. B. Quick 1846

I Missed His Book, but I Read His Name 1846

ANNE STEVENSON \(b. 1933\) 1847

Temporarily in Oxford 1847

Arioso Dolente 1848

FLEUR ADCOCK (b. 1934) 1849

The Ex-Queen Among the Astronomers 1849

Poem Ended by a Death 1850

The Soho Hospital for Women 1851

[P O P U L A R B A L L A D S O F T H E T W E N T I E T H C E
N T U R Y 1 8 5 3](#)

Pete Seeger (b. 1919) • Where Have All the Flowers
Gone? 1853

Bob Dylan (b. 1941) • Boots of Spanish Leather 1854

Dudley Randall (b. 1914) • Ballad of Birmingham 1855

AMIRI BARAKA \(LEROI JONES\) \(b. 1934\) 1856

In Memory of Radio 1856

An Agony. As Now. 1857

AUDRE LORDE \(1934-1992\) 1858

Coal 1858

From the House of Yemanjá 1859

Echoes 1860

N. SCOTT MOMADAY\(b. 1934\) 1861

Headwaters 1861

The Eagle-Feather Fan 1861

The Gift 1861

Two Figures 1862

WOLE SOYINKA (b. 1934) 1862

Telephone Conversation 1862

MARK STRAND (b. 1934) 1863

The Prediction 1863

Always 1863

D A R K H A R B O R 1 8 6 4

XVI (“It is true, as someone has said, that in”) 1864

XX (“Is it you standing among the olive trees”) 1865

CHARLES WRIGHT (b. 1935)

1865

Homage to Claude Lorraine 1865

Chinese Journal 1866

C O N T E N T S / i

As Our Bodies Rise, Our Names Turn into Light 1867

Quotations 1867

DARYL HINE (b. 1936)

1868

Letting Go 1868

Riddle 1869

C. K. WILLIAMS (b. 1936)

1869

Repression 1869

Snow: II 1870

The Question 1870

TONY HARRISON (b. 1937)

1872

On Not Being Milton 1872

Classics Society 1873

Them & [uz] 1873

A Kumquat for John Keats 1875

The Heartless Art 1877

ELEANOR WILNER \(b. 1937\) 1879

Reading the Bible Backwards 1879

High Noon at Los Alamos 1881

DOM MORAES (b. 1938) 1883

Kanheri Caves 1883

Snow on a Mountain 1883

From Two from Israel 1884

LES MURRAY \(b. 1938\) 1885

Noonday Axeman 1885

Once in a Lifetime, Snow 1887

The Quality of Sprawl 1888

Morse 1890

CHARLES SIMIC (b. 1938) 1891

Watch Repair 1891

Prodigy 1892

A Book Full of Pictures 1892

Cameo Appearance 1893

MARGARET ATWOOD (b. 1939) 1894

This Is a Photograph of Me 1894

At the Tourist Center in Boston 1894
You Begin 1896
Flowers 1896
Up 1898
SEAMUS HEANEY (b. 1939)
1899
Digging 1899
The Forge 1900
l i i / C O N T E N T S
Punishment 1900
The Skunk 1902
A Dream of Jealousy 1902
From Station Island 1903
From Clearances 1905
Casting and Gathering 1906
The Settle Bed 1907
Glanmore Revisited 1908
6. Bedside Reading 1908
7. The Skylight 1908
Fosterling 1908
From Squarings 1909
Two Lorries 1909
MICHAEL LONGLEY(b. 1939) 1910
The Linen Industry 1910
Gorse Fires 1911
Ghetto 1911
ROBERT PINSKY(b. 1940) 1913
Essay on Psychiatrists 1913

IV. A Lakeside Identification 1913

V. Physical Comparison With Professors And Others 1914

A Long Branch Song 1914

The Street 1914

ABC 1916

BILLY COLLINS \(b. 1941\) 1917

Japan 1917

Litany 1918

ROBERT HASS (b. 1941) 1919

Meditation at Lagunitas 1919

Tahoe in August 1919

DEREK MAHON (b. 1941) 1921

In Carrowdore Churchyard 1921

A Disused Shed in Co. Wexford 1921

The Window 1923

Girls on the Bridge 1924

ERIC ORMSBY (b. 1941) 1925

Starfish 1925

Skunk Cabbage 1926

Origins 1926

DOUGLAS DUNN (b. 1942)

1927

A Removal from Terry Street 1927

In the Grounds 1927

C O N T E N T S / l i i i

Elegies 1928

Thirteen Steps and the Thirteenth of March 1928

ALFRED CORN \(b. 1943\) 1929

Navidad, St. Nicholas Ave. 1929

A Conch from Sicily 1930

LOUISE GLUCK(b. 1943) 1931

Gretel in Darkness 1931

The Garden 1931

Vita Nova 1932

MICHAEL ONDAATJE \(b. 1943\) 1933

Letters & Other Worlds 1933

Driving with Dominic in the Southern Province We See Hints
of

the Circus 1935

House on a Red Cliff 1935

MICHAEL PALMER (b. 1943) 1936

Of this cloth doll which 1936

I Do Not 1937

EAVAN BOLAND (b. 1944) 1938

That the Science of Cartography Is Limited 1938

The Dolls Museum in Dublin 1939

The Pomegranate 1941

CRAIG RAINE \(b. 1944\) 1942

The Onion, Memory 1942

A Martian Sends a Postcard Home 1943

For Hans Keller 1944

KIT WRIGHT (b. 1944) 1946

Mantles 1946

A Love Song of Tooting 1946

My Version 1947

WENDY COPE \(b. 1945\) 1947

Bloody Men 1947

Flowers 1948

Valentine 1948

Serious Concerns 1949

YUSEF KOMUNYAKAA (b. 1947) 1949

Facing It 1949

Banking Potatoes 1950

The Smokehouse 1950

Sunday Afternoons 1951

J i v / C O N T E N T S

JANE SHORE \(b. 1947\) 1952

High Holy Days 1952

RICHARD KENNEY (b. 1948) 1954

Aubade 1954

Apples on Champlain 1955

Sawmill 1956

ROBYN SARA (b. 1949) 1956

Courtney, Mentioned in Passing, Years After 1956

Relics 1957

AG HA SHAHID ALI \(1949-2001\) 1958

The Dacca Gauzes 1958

Lenox Hill 1959

JAMES FENTON \(b. 1949\) 1961

Dead Soldiers 1961

A German Requiem 1963

God, A Poem 1965

In Paris with You 1966

CHARLES BERNSTEIN (b. 1950) 1967

Of Time and the Line 1967 frequently unasked questions 1968
why we ask you not to touch 1968
this poem intentionally left blank 1968
ANNE CARSON (b. 1950)
1969
New Rule 1969
Sumptuous Destitution 1969
The Beauty of the Husband 1970
IV. HE SHE WE THEY YOU ...
1970
DANA GIOIA (b. 1950) 1972
Prayer 1972
The Next Poem 1972
NICHOLAS CHRISTOPHER (b. 1951) 1973
The Palm Reader 1973
Far from Home 1974
JORIE GRAHAM \(b. 1951\) 1975
The Geese 1975
At Luca Signorelli's Resurrection of the Body 1976
The Surface 1979
PAUL MULDOON (b. 1951)
1979
Why Brownlee Left 1979
Meeting the British 1980
Milkweed and Monarch 1980
Third Epistle to Timothy 1981
RITA DOVE (b. 1952)

Parsley 1985
Dusting 1987
The Bistro Styx 1988
DANIEL HALL (b. 1952)
Love-Letter-Burning 1990
Mangosteens 1991
SEAN O'BRIEN (b. 1952)
Cousin Coat 1992
Welcome, Major Poet! 1993
VIKRAM SETH (b. 1952)
From The Golden Gate 1994
GARY SOTO (b. 1952)
The Soup 1996
Not Knowing 1997
BRAD LEITHAUSER (b. 1953)
The Buried Graves 1998
In Minako Wada's House 1998
Old Bachelor Brother 1999
GJERTRUD SCHNACKENBERG (b. 1953)
Darwin in 1881 2000
Supernatural Love 2003
LOUISE ERDRICH (b. 1954)
The Butcher's Wife 2005
I Was Sleeping Where the Black Oaks Move 2006
Birth 2006
CAROL ANN DUFFY (b. 1955)
Warming Her Pearls 2007
Prayer 2007

Anne Hathaway 2008

Little Red-Cap 2008

DIONISIO D. MARTINEZ (b. 1956)

In a Duplex Near the San Andreas Fault 2009

What the Men Talk About When the Women Leave the Room 2010

Stieglitz 2010

l v i / C O N T E N T S

LI-YOUNG LEE (b. 1957)

2 0 1 1

Persimmons 2011

Out of Hiding 2013

CYNTHIA ZARIN (b. 1959)

2013

The Ant Hill 2013

Song 2014

LAVINIA GREENLAW (b. 1962)

2015

Skin Full 2015

What's Going On 2015

A World Where News Travelled Slowly 2016

GLYN MAXWELL (b. 1962)

2016

From Letters to Edward Thomas 2016

SIMON ARMITAGE (b. 1963)

2021

From Killing Time 2021

The Shout 2022

GREG WILLIAMSON (b. 1964)

2023

Outbound 2023

Double Exposures 2024

III. Visiting Couple Kissing and Halved Onion 2024

XXV. Group Photo with Winter Trees 2024

New Year's: A Short Pantoum 2024

VERSIFICATION 2027

Rhythm 2028

Meter 2029

Rhyme 2036

Forms 2039

Basic Forms 2039

Composite Forms 2046

Irregular Forms 2048

Open Forms or Free Verse 2048

Suggestions for Further Reading 2051

POETIC SYNTAX 2053

What Is Syntax? 2053

Parts of Syntax 2055

Sentences and Words 2055

Clauses 2056

Moves in the Game 2060

Nominal Syntax 2060

Double Syntax 2061

Word Order Inversions 2062

The Game of Interpretation 2065

Emily Dickinson 2065

John Keats 2067

Thomas Gray 2067

John Dryden 2068

William Blake 2069

Scorn Not Syntax 2072

Suggestions for Further Reading 2073

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES

PERMISSIONS ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

INDEX

Preface to the Fifth Edition

What is a poem? The definitions offered over the centuries are almost as numerous as the examples in this book. Although no two people may settle on the qualities all poems share, it might not be foolish to say that the best definition of poetry encompasses all definitions—even those that contradict each other. Poetry, after all, encourages us to embrace paradox and contradiction, the unexpected, the never-thought-of (and also, paradoxically, the universal, the shared, the familiar). Poetry began as song and continues as song; it is usually best appreciated when spoken or sung by a human voice.

Since the advent of writing, however, the act of reading a poem on the page has added new dimensions to our experience. In these pages, we necessarily feature the written pleasures of poetry—even in those poems that were meant originally as song. What all these poems share, we hope, is something in the manner of their telling that cannot be achieved any better way. The best poems, too, make a claim on our memory. W. H. Auden wrote that “of the many definitions of poetry, the simplest is still the best: ‘memorable speech.’ ” Many poems in this book have been part of English-speaking culture for centuries, while the newest poems here might well lodge in readers’ memories in the future.

This Fifth Edition of The Norton Anthology of Poetry brings together more than eighteen hundred such records from “the round earth’s imagined corners.” We have set out to provide readers with a wide and deep sampling of the best poetry written in English. That previous editions have succeeded in this endeavor, within the limits of the pages available in a single volume, seems manifest in the acceptance of those editions by teachers and students alike. But as our friend and advisor M. H. Abrams has said in another context,

“a vital literary culture is always on the move,” both in the appearance of new works and in the altering response to existing texts: hence a Fifth Edition, which broadens and refines that cultural tradition. We believe that the vitality of our literary culture has been demonstrated by this collaboration.

In assembling the new edition, we have aimed to respond to the practical criticism and informed suggestions provided by teachers who have used the anthology. Our goal has been to make the anthology an even better teaching tool for their classes. In response to instructors' requests, a number of important works by major poets have been added to the Fifth Edition, among them a selection from Beowulf in Seamus Heaney's prize-winning translation; Chaucer, "The Wife of Bath's Prologue and Tale"; Spenser, "The Shepheardes Calendar: Aprill" and book 1, canto 2 of The Faerie Queene; Shakespeare, ten additional sonnets; Milton, Book 4 of Paradise Lost; Wroth, seven additional sonnets; Swift, "Verses on the Death of Dr. Swift"; Keats, "Lamia"; Eliot, "Little Gidding" and "The Hollow Men." We have worked toward a balance between the older and the newer. Instructors committed to teaching

lix

l x / P R E F A C E T O T H E F I F T H E D I T I O N

the rich diversity—of forms and techniques as well as historical and geographic range—of English-language poetry in the twentieth century will welcome the Fifth Edition's increased attention to world poetry in English as well as the greater range of American voices. Among the seventeen poets newly included are Richard Wright, Weldon Kees, Robyn Sarah, Charles Bernstein, Anne Carson, Vikram Seth, and Simon Armitage.

In addition to expanding representation, we have reconsidered, and in some instances reselected, the work of poets retained from earlier editions. Among the poets

reselected are John Ashbery, Adrienne Rich, Derek Walcott, Seamus Hea-

ney, Michael Ondaatje, Yusef Komunyakaa, Agha Shahid Ali, Jorie Graham, Carol Ann Duffy, and Li-Young Li.

The vernacular tradition, in which the poet “Anon” has spoken eloquently over the centuries, is brought forward from medieval lyrics and Elizabethan and Jacobean poems to African American spirituals and popular ballads of the twentieth century. Teachers can trace the history of the epic by comparing openings and selections from Beowulf, The Faerie Queene, Paradise Lost, Killigrew’s (unfinished) Alexandreis, Pope’s Rape of the Lock, and Wordsworth’s Prelude. The tradition of light verse, too, can be traced from Lewis Carroll, W. S. Gilbert, and Edward Lear to Ogden Nash and Dorothy Parker to Wendy Cope, James Fenton, and John Updike.

We continue to expand opportunities for teaching intertextual “dialogues”

among poets: the addition of Donne’s “A Hymn to God the Father,” for instance, allows that poem to be read with Jonson’s hymn of the same name.

Among the pairs entirely new to this edition: Elizabeth Bishop’s “Casabianca” responds to Felicia Dorothea Hemans’s poem of that title, which was, as Bishop knew, one of the most often taught and recited poems of the nineteenth century. Also new are Aphra Behn’s “The Disappointment” and John Wilmot, earl of Rochester’s “The Imperfect Enjoyment,” which together form a dialogue about impotence. Other poetic dialogues present English-language responses to foreign sources, which may be secular—a Petrarchan sonnet, for instance, such as the one rendered in English by Wyatt (“Whoso List to Hunt”) and by Spenser (Amoretti 67)—or biblical: we now include four versions of Psalms 58 and 114, ranging from Mary Sidney's to Christopher Smart's. Some poetic conversations present different perspectives on culturally fraught issues: a set of eighteenth-century poems on "spleen"—a malady strikingly like the one we call depression today—includes texts by

Anne Finch, Alexander Pope, and Matthew Green; a newly augmented cluster of poems on the meaning of the color black includes Edward Herbert's

"Sonnet of Black Beauty," Mary Wroth's sonnet 22 ("Like to the Indians),"

Henry King's "The Boy's Answer to the Blackmoor," and Phillis Wheatley's

"On Being Brought from Africa to America." We continue to emphasize call-and-response patterns that extend across periods: our selection from William Cowper's The Task includes the lines that inspired part of Coleridge's "Frost at Midnight"; and we invite readers to consider Marlowe's "The Passionate Shepherd to His Love" with Raleigh's "The Nymph's Reply to the Shepherd," then both of these poems with C. Day Lewis's elegiac, war-shocked "Two Songs," which reprises them as well as Jean Elliot's "The Flowers of the Forest." In turn, Elliot's and Lewis's poems may be set in dialogue with Pete Seeger's modern ballad "Where Have All the Flowers Gone?" To bring these P R E F potential dialogues to readers' attention, we have provided a number of cross-referencing annotations and expanded the discussion of intertextual pairs and groups in the Course Guide.

A C E T O T H E F I F T H E D I T I O N / I x i

The Fifth Edition includes not merely the lyric and the epigrammatic but instead the entire range of poetic genres in English. Among the many longer poems are Aemilia Lanyer's "The Description of Cooke-ham" and Richard Howard's "Nikolaus Mardruz to his Master Ferdinand, Count of Tyrol, 1565," as well as teachable excerpts from John Skelton's "Phillip Sparow" and "Colin Clout," Charlotte Smith's "Beachy Head," Elizabeth Barrett Browning's Aurora Leigh, William Carlos Williams's "Asphodel, That Greeny Flower," and James Merrill's The Changing Light at Sandover. Although it is impossible to include all of The Faerie Queene, Paradise Lost, The Prelude, Song of Myself, or The Dream Songs, readers will find representative and self-sufficient selections from each of these works.

Three other features within the anthology facilitate its usefulness in the classroom. An indispensable aid in helping students become better readers and interpreters of poetry, Margaret Ferguson's new essay, "Poetic Syntax," addresses a perennial stumbling block—how to recognize, describe, analyze, and appreciate syntactic ambiguity in English poetry. Among the "types of ambiguity" (to borrow William Empson's phrase) discussed in the essay are those involving parts of speech, elisions, and punctuation, as well as the difficulties that the poet's traditional license to invert normal English word order can create for readers. Jon Stallworthy's essay, "Versification," has been selectively expanded to offer clearer explanations of rhyme, plus more attention to forms such as prose poetry, found poetry, and shaped poetry and to the metrics of Old and Middle English and Renaissance verse. In addition, the appendix of biographical sketches has been updated, streamlined, and cross-referenced to the individual poets.

Editorial Procedures

The order is chronological, poets appearing according to their dates of birth and their poems according to dates of publication in volume form (or estimated dates of composition in the case of Old and Middle English poets).

The publication date is printed at the end of each poem, and to the right;

when two dates are printed, they indicate published versions that differ in an important way. Dates on the left, when given, are those of composition.

Many of our texts are modernized to help readers, but we continue an ongoing project of remarking editorial decisions in annotations, to let teachers and students consider issues pertaining to the materiality and complex histories of many poems in the anthology.

Annotation in the Fifth Edition has been thoroughly revised. In keeping with recent developments in editing, we have introduced notes that mention significant textual variants. These are intended to spark classroom discussion about poems whose multiple versions challenge the idea of textual “authority.” We have added many notes that provide contextual information and clarify archaisms and allusions; however, as in previous editions, we minimize commentary that is interpretive rather than, in a limited sense, explanatory. As further help with teaching poetic syntax, we have added notes that discuss syntactical difficulties.

Ixii / P R E F A C E TO THE F I F T H E D I T I O N

Marginal glosses for archaic, dialect, or unfamiliar words have been reconsidered and, for many poems, increased in number. For the convenience of the student, we have used square brackets to indicate titles supplied by the editors and have, whenever a portion of a text has been omitted, indicated that omission with three asterisks.

Instructors have long made inventive use of the rich intertextuality of The Norton Anthology of Poetry. Three supplemental resources—two in print and one online—expand the possibilities for teachers who wish to convey how poems speak to each other across time, place, and tradition through literal borrowings, form, theme, cultural concern, and conventions. Teaching with The Norton Anthology of Poetry: A Guide for Instructors, by Tyler Hoffman, makes available to teachers varied reading lists that help shape a course or courses along a number of lines—according to form, figurative language, traditions and countertraditions, and topics—and to establish relationships among poets and poems of different genres, periods, and concerns. Also for instructors, Teaching Poetry: A Handbook of Exercises for Large and Small Classes, by Allan J. Gedalof, offers innovative ideas and exercises for structuring a class centered on performance and discussion. Instructors should visit www.wwnorton.com for further information about obtaining these materials. For students, a new Web site, The Norton Poetry Workshop Online (www.wwnorton.com/nap), prepared by James F. Knapp (based on his innovative Norton Poetry Workshop CD-ROM), contains texts and recordings of thirty of the most-taught poems from the anthology, supported by a rich array of multimedia, exercises, and study aids.

We are indebted to our predecessors, the editors emeriti of The Norton Anthology of Poetry, whose presence on the title page signals their ongoing contribution, and to M. H. Abrams, advisor to the Norton English list, for his wise and ready counsel. We also thank the staff at Norton who helped this book come into being: Julia Reidhead used her remarkable resources of energy, intelligence, and good humor to keep the book on course; Diane

O'Connor guided the book through production; Erin Dye gracefully facilitated communications and meetings; Nancy Rodwan and Margaret Gorenstein handled the massive task of securing permissions; and Eileen Connell capably oversaw the interrelated projects of the Web site and the Course Guide. Our development editor, Kurt Wildermuth, paid attention to (and in many cases perfected) the book's "minute particulars" in ways that William Blake would have admired. Kurt also kept a steady eye on the book's larger shape and primary goal: to bring English-language poems originating in different times and places to modern readers—who will, we hope, find pleasure within these covers.

MARGARET FERGUSON

MARY JO SALTER

JONSTALL WORTHY

Acknowledgments

A m o n g o u r m a n y c r i t i c s , a d v i s o r s , a n d f r i e n d s , t h e f o l l o w i n g w e r e o f s p e c i a l h e l p i n p r e p a r ing the Fifth Edition. For assisting us in research and preparing texts and other materials, thanks to John Barrell, Mike Bell, Steve Cassal, Alfred E. David, Ed Doughtie, Harriet Guest, S. Kristin Hall, Katie Kalpin, Laura Maestrelli, Andy Majeske, Frank Murphy, Marijane Osborn, and Beth Robertson. For preparing the biographical sketches, thanks to Sherri Vandeen Akker and Jane Potter. Special thanks for their invaluable help goes to Andrea Bundy, Sandie Byrne, Sarita Cargas, Stephen L. Carr, Tony Edwards, Barry Goldensohn, Linda Gregerson, Marshall Grossman, Jenny Houlby, Tim Kendall, Elizabeth Langland (dean of arts and letters at the University of California at Davis), David Simpson, Claire M. Waters, and Carolyn Williams.

We take pleasure in thanking those teachers who provided critiques and questionnaire responses: Paul F. Betz (Georgetown University), Michael Borich (Southwest Missouri State University), Suzannah Bowser (Humboldt State University), Joel J. Brattin (Worcester Polytechnic University), Seeta Chaganti (University of California, Davis), John Cobb (Wofford College), Rian Cooney (Santa Rosa Junior College), Martha Crowe (East Tennessee State University), Diana Cruz (Boston College), Jane Donawerth (University of Maryland), Sheila P. Donohue (Northwestern University), Beverly Friend (Oakton Community College), Julie Funderburk (University of North Carolina at Greensboro), Barry Goldensohn (Skidmore College), Marshall Grossman (University of Maryland), Brooke Haley (UC Irvine), Amy Hassinger (Iowa State University), Jeremy Hawthorn (Norwegian University of Science and Technology), Patrick Hicks (University of St. Thomas), Emily A. Bernhard Jackson (Brandeis University), Albert C. Labriola (Duquesne University), Mark Larabee (U.S. Naval Academy), Cynthia Lee Katona (Oholone College), Eric LeMay (Northwestern), Julia Levine, Tim Kendall (University of Bristol), Terry L. Kennedy (University of North Carolina at Greensboro), Millie M. Kidd (Mount St. Mary's College), Stephanie Kuduk (Wesleyan University), Herbert Lindemberger (Stanford University), Leon Litvack (University of Belfast), Debbie Lopez (University of Texas at San Antonio), Christopher Lurasik (Boston University), Stacey Margolis (University of Utah), Patrick McGuire (University of Wisconsin at Parkside), Geoffrey Morley-Mower (James Madison University), Sandra Morris (Bucknell University), Micki Myers (University of Pittsburgh), Laura Orem (Villa Julie College), Kirk Nessel (Allegheny College), Larry Newman, Carol Percy (University of Toronto), Dwight Purdy (University of Minnesota), Morris, Elizabeth Robertson (University of Colorado at Boulder), Jeffrey Robinson (University of Colorado at Boulder), Catherine Robson (University of California, Davis), J. N. R. Saunders (University of Newcastle), Paul

lxiv / ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Schlicke (University of Aberdeen), Mark Silverberg (Dalhousie University), Ellen M. Smith (University of Pittsburgh), David St. John (University of Southern California), Carol Simpson Stern (Northwestern University), John Thomas Stovall (National-Louis University), Herbert Tucker

(University of Virginia), Anita Tully (Nicholls State University), Peter Van Egmond (University of Maryland), Claire Waters (University of California, Davis), Sallie P. Wolf (Anapahoe Community College).

C/EDMON'S HYMN1

N u s c u l o n f o e r i g e a n
f o e o f o n r i c e s W e a r d
N o w w e m u s t p r a i s e
h e a v e n - k i n g d o m ' s G u a r d i a n , M e o t o d e s m e a h t e a n d h i s w o d g e J) a n c t h e M e a s u r e r ' s m i g h t a n d h i s m i n d - p l a n s , w e o r c W u l d o r - F a e d e r s w a h e w u n d r a g e h w a e s t h e w o r k o f t h e G l o r y - F a t h e r , w h e n h e o f w o n d e r s o f e v e r y o n e , e c e D r i h t e n o r o n s t e a l d e
e t e r n a l L o r d ,
t h e b e g i n n i n g e s t a b l i s h e d . 2 5 H e a e r e s t s c e o p i e l d a 3 b e a r n u m
H e f i r s t c r e a t e d
f o r m e n ' s s o n s f o e o f o n t o f o r o f e f o a l i g S c y p p e n d
h e a v e n a s a r o o f , h o l y C r e a t o r ;

5 a m i d d a n g e a r d w o n c y n n e s W e a r d
t h e n m i d d l e - e a r t h
m a n k i n d ' s G u a r d i a n , e c c e D r i h t e n a s f t e r t e o d e
e t e r n a l L o r d , a f t e r w a r d s m a d e —
^ i r u m / o l d a n
F r e a a e l m i h t i g
f o r m e n e a r t h ,
M a s t e r a l m i g h t y .

1. Caedmon's "Hymn" is probably the earliest gift was from God, and he composed other religious poems based on biblical stories they told him. extant Old English poem (composed sometime between 658 and 680). Old English texts have The Germanic tribes had oral poets (the Beowulf been preserved in copies of the Latin Ecclesiastical poet portrays such a bard, or "scop," performing in History of the English People, written by the great the mead hall), and Caedmon might have been scholar Bede (ca. 673—735). Bede tells how trained as such a singer but concealed his knowl- Caedmon, an illiterate herdsman employed by the edge of pagan poetry—what Bede calls "vain and monastery of Whitby, miraculously received the idle songs.” The “Hymn” is typical of Germanic gift of religious song, was received by the monks verse: two half-lines, each containing two stressed as a lay brother, and founded a school of Christian and two or more unstressed syllables, linked by poetry. At feasts where the farmhands took turns alliteration; interweaving of syntactically parallel singing and playing the harp, Caedmon would with-formulaic expressions. For example, eight of the draw to his bed in the stable whenever the harp poem’s half-lines consist of varying epithets for was passed his way. One night a man appeared to God: “Weard” (Guardian), “Meotod” (Measurer), him in a dream and commanded, “Caedmon, sing “Wuldor-Faederu” (Glory-Father), “Drihten” me something.” When Caedmon protested that he (Lord), “Scyppend” (Creator), and “Frea” (Mas- didn’t know how to sing, the man insisted and told ter). The poem is given here in a West Saxon form him to sing about the Creation. “At this, Caedmon with a literal interlinear translation by John Pope. immediately began to sing verses in praise of God In Old English spelling, ae (as in Caedmon’s name the Creator, which he had never heard before.” and line 3) is a vowel symbol that has not survived; (Aicer transcribing the hymn, Bede remarks that it represents the vowel of Modern English cat; P “this is the general sense but not the exact order (line 2) and 3 (line 7) both represent the sound th. of the words that [Caedmon] sang in his sleep; for The large space in the middle of the line indicates it is impossible to make a literal translation, no the caesura. The alliterating sounds that connect matter how well written, of poetry into another lan- the half-lines have been italicized.

guage without losing some of the beauty and dig- 2. I.e., when he established the beginning of every nity.” Bede refers here to his translation of the wonder.

poem from Old English to Latin, but the poem also

3. Later manuscript copies have “eorPan” (earth) changes significantly from an oral to a written in place of “aelda” (West Saxon ield, meaning medium.) After Caedmon told the story to his fore- “men’s”).

man, the monks tested him to establish that the 1

2

FROM BEOWULF 1

[Introduction: History and Praise of the Danes; Account of Grendel's

Attacks on Heorot]

So. T h e S p e a r - D a n e s i n d a y s g o n e b y and t h e k i n g s w h o r u l e d t h e m h a d c o u r a g e a n d greatness.

W e h a v e h e a r d o f t h o s e p r i n c e s ' h e r o i c c a m p a i g n s

.

T h e r e w a s S h i e l d S h e a f s o n , 2 s c o u r g e o f m a n y tribes, 5 a w r e c k e r o f m e a d - b e n c h e s , r a m p a g i n g a m o n g f o e s .

T h i s t e r r o r o f t h e h a l l - t r o o p s h a d c o m e f a r .

A f o u n d l i n g t o s t a r t w i t h , h e w o u l d f l o u r i s h l a t e r o n a s h i s p o w e r s w a x e d a n d h i s w o r t h w a s p r o v e d .

I n t h e e n d e a c h c l a n o n t h e o u t l y i n g c o a s t s

10 b e y o n d t h e w h a l e - r o a d h a d t o y i e l d t o h i m a n d b e g i n t o p a y t r i b u t e . T h a t w a s o n e g o o d k i n g .

A f t e r w a r d a b o y - c h i l d w a s b o r n t o S h i e l d , a c u b i n t h e y a r d , a c o m f o r t s e n t

b y G o d t o t h a t n a t i o n . H e k n e w w h a t t h e y h a d t h o l e d , 0 s u f f e r e d 15 t h e l o n g t i m e s a n d t r o u b l e s t h e y ' d c o m e t h r o u g h

w i t h o u t a l e a d e r ; s o t h e L o r d o f L i f e , t h e g l o r i o u s A l m i g h t y , m a d e t h i s m a n r e n o w n e d .

S h i e l d h a d f a t h e r e d a f a m o u s s o n :

B e o w ' s n a m e w a s k n o w n t h r o u g h t h e n o r t h .

20 A n d a y o u n g p r i n c e m u s t b e p r u d e n t l i k e t h a t , g i v i n g f r e e l y w h i l e h i s f a t h e r l i v e s s o t h a t a f t e r w a r d i n a g e w h e n f i g h t i n g s t a r t s s t e a d f a s t c o m p a n i o n s w i l l s t a n d b y h i m a n d h o l d t h e l i n e . B e h a v i o r t h a t ' s a d m i r e d 25 i s t h e p a t h t o p o w e r a m o n g p e o p l e e v e r y w h e r e .

S h i e l d w a s s t i l l t h r i v i n g w h e n h i s t i m e c a m e a n d h e c r o s s e d o v e r i n t o t h e L o r d ' s k e e p i n g .

H i s w a r r i o r b a n d d i d w h a t h e b a d e t h e m w h e n h e l a i d d o w n t h e l a w a m o n g t h e D a n e s :

30 t h e y s h o u l d e r e d h i m o u t t o t h e s e a ' s f l o o d s t h e c h i e f t h e y r e v e r e d w h o h a d l o n g r u l e d t h e m .

A r i n g - w h o r l e d p r o w r o d e i n t h e h a r b o r , i c e - c l a d , o u t b o u n d , a c r a f t f o r a p r i n c e .

T h e y s t r e t c h e d t h e i r b e l o v e d l o r d i n h i s b o a t ,

35 l a i d o u t b y t h e m a s t , a m i d s h i p s , t h e g r e a t r i n g - g i v e r . F a r - f e t c h e d t r e a s u r e s w e r e p i l e d u p o n h i m , a n d p r e c i o u s g e a r .

I n e v e r h e a r d b e f o r e o f a s h i p s o w e l l f u r b i s h e d

1. This epic poem was written in an Old English the Geats, the poem mixes elements of Christian dialect sometime between the first part of the tradition (the Germanic settlers in England had eighth century and the tenth century. Preserved in been converted to Christianity by the time the a late tenth-century manuscript, it was probably poem was written) with the heroic ideals of a non-composed by a literate poet following the versifi- Christian, warrior society.

cation and style of Germanic oral poetry; the trans- 2. A mythical king of the Scyldings (Danes), of lation here is by the Irish poet Seamus Heaney (b. divine origin and associated with agricultural fer-1939; see pp. 1899-1910). The poem deals with tility. Shield is the father of Beowulf the Dane, not the Germanic forebears of the English people, spe- Beowulf of the Geats.

cifically the Danes, who inhabited the Danish 3. Sea burials for chieftains, such as this one for island of Zealand, and the Geats of southern Swe- Shield Sheafson, were probably more mythical den. In recounting the heroic feats of Beowulf of than historical.

B E O W U L F / 3

w i t h b a t t l e - t a c k l e , b l a d e d w e a p o n s

40 a n d c o a t s o f m a i l . T h e m a s s e d t r e a s u r e w a s l o a d e d o n t o p o f h i m : i t w o u l d t r a v e l f a r

o n o u t i n t o t h e o c e a n ' s s w a y .

They decked his body no less bountifully with offerings than those first ones did 45 who cast him away when he was a child and launched him alone out over the waves.⁴
And they set a gold standard up high above his head and let him drift to wind and tide, bewailing him 50 and mourning their loss. No man can tell, no wise man in hall or weathered veteran knows for certain who salvaged that load.
Then it fell to Beow to keep the forts.
He was well regarded and ruled the Danes 55 for a long time after his father took leave of his life on earth. And then his heir, the great Halfdane, held sway
for as long as he lived, their elder and warlord.
He was four times a father, this fighter prince:
60 one by one they entered the world,
Heorogar, Hrothgar, the good Halga,
and a daughter, I have heard, who was Onela's queen,
a balm in bed to the battle-scarred Swede.
The fortunes of war favored Hrothgar.
65 Friends and kinsmen flocked to his ranks, young followers, a force that grew to be a mighty army. So his mind turned to hall-building: he handed down orders for men to work on a great mead-hall 70 meant to be a wonder of the world forever;

it would be his throne-room and there he would dispense his God-given goods to young and old—but not the common land or people's lives.
Far and wide through the world, I have heard,
75 orders for work to adorn that wallstead were sent to many peoples. And soon it stood there finished and ready, in full view, the hall of halls. Heorot was the name
he had settled on it, whose utterance was law.
so Nor did he renege, but doled out rings and torques' at the table. The hall towered, its gables wide and high and awaiting a barbarous burning. That doom abided, but in time it would come: the killer instinct
85 unleashed among in-laws, the blood-lust rampant.⁶
Then a powerful demon, a prowler through the dark,
4. Shield appeared from the sea as a child, appartreasures to seal a mutual bond of loyalty between ently on a divinely ordained mission.
them.

5. Collars, necklaces, or bracelets. Early Ger-

6. An allusion to the future destruction of Heorot manic tribal kings, such as Hrothgar here, tradi-in a family feud.

tionally presented retainers with rings or other

4 / B E O W U L F

nursed a hard grievance. It harrowed him to hear the din of the loud banquet

every day in the hall, the harp being struck 90 and the clear song of a skilled poet telling with mastery of man's beginnings, how the Almighty had made the earth
a gleaming plain girdled with waters;
in His splendor He set the sun and the moon 95 to be earth's lamplight, lanterns for men, and filled the broad lap of the world with branches and leaves; and quickened life in every other thing that moved.

So times were pleasant for the people there 100 until finally one, a fiend out of hell, began to work his evil in the world.

Grendel was the name of this grim demon haunting the marches, marauding round the heath and the desolate fens; he had dwelt for a time 105 in misery among the banished monsters, Cain's clan, whom the Creator had outlawed and condemned as outcasts.⁷ For the killing of Abel
the Eternal Lord had exacted a price:

Cain got no good from committing that murder
110 because the Almighty made him anathema, and out of the curse of his exile there sprang ogres and elves and evil phantoms and the giants too who strove with God time and again until He gave them their reward.

115 So, after nightfall, Grendel set out for the lofty house, to see how the Ring-Danes were settling into it after their drink, and there he came upon them, a company of the best asleep from their feasting, insensible to pain 120 and human sorrow. Suddenly then the God-cursed brute was creating havoc:

greedy and grim, he grabbed thirty men
from their resting places and rushed to his lair, flushed up and inflamed from the raid,
125 blundering back with the butchered corpses.
Then as dawn brightened and the day broke,
Grendel's powers of destruction were plain:
their wassail⁰ was over, they wept to heaven revelry
and mourned under morning. Their mighty prince, 130 the storied leader, sat stricken and helpless, humiliated by the loss of his guard, bewildered and stunned, staring aghast
at the demon's trail, in deep distress.
He was numb with grief, but got no respite
135 for one night later merciless Grendel
7. Grendel's descent is traced back to the biblical tenced to roam the earth as an outcast (Genesis Cain, son of Adam and Eve. For the crime of killing 4).
his brother Abel, Cain was marked by God and sen-
B E O W U L F / 5
struck again with more gruesome murders.
Malignant by nature, he never showed remorse.
It was easy then to meet with a man shifting himself to a safer distance 140 to bed in the bothies,⁸ for who could be blind to the evidence of his eyes, the obviousness of the hall-watcher's hate? Whoever escaped kept a weather-eye open and moved away.

So Grendel ruled in defiance of right,
145 one against all, until the greatest house in the world stood empty, a deserted wallstead.
For twelve winters, seasons of woe,
the lord of the Shieldings suffered under his load of sorrow; and so, before long,
150 the news was known over the whole world.
Sad lays were sung about the beset king,
the vicious raids and ravages of Grendel,
his long and unrelenting feud,
nothing but war; how he would never 155 parley or make peace with any Dane nor stop his death-dealing nor pay the death-price.⁹
No counselor could ever expect fair reparation from those rabid hands.
All were endangered; young and old i60 were hunted down by that dark death-shadow who lurked and swooped in the long nights on the misty moors; nobody knows where these reavers⁰ from hell roam on their errands.
marauders
So Grendel waged his lonely war,
165 inflicting constant cruelties on the people,

atrocious hurt. He took over Heorot, haunted the glittering hall after dark,
but the throne itself, the treasure-seat,
he was kept from approaching; he was the Lord's outcast.

170 These were hard times, heartbreaking for the prince of the Shieldings; powerful counselors,
the highest in the land, would lend advice,
plotting how best the bold defenders might resist and beat off sudden attacks.

175 Sometimes at pagan shrines they vowed offerings to idols, swore oaths that the killer of souls¹ might come to their aid and save the people. That was their way, their heathenish hope; deep in their hearts
i80 they remembered hell. The Almighty Judge of good deeds and bad, the Lord God,
Head of the Heavens and High King of the World, was unknown to them. Oh, cursed is he

8. "The Irish word bothog means 'hut' or 'shanty,' tion (Norton Critical Edition)].

often for unmarried workers on a farm. Grendel

9. A Germanic law, called wergild, required compensatory payment by a criminal to the victim of a ignores the outlying buildings" [Editor Daniel crime or to the victim's kin.

Donoghue's note, from Beowulf: A Verse Transla-

1. I.e., the Devil.

6 / B E O W U L F

who in time of trouble has to thrust his soul 185 in the fire's embrace, forfeiting help;
he has nowhere to turn. But blessed is he who after death can approach the Lord and find friendship in the Father's embrace.

So that troubled time continued, woe
190 that never stopped, steady affliction for Halfdane's son, too hard an ordeal.

There was panic after dark, people endured raids in the night, riven by the terror.

[The Fight with Grendel]

Then out of the night
came the shadow-stalker, stealthy and swift.
The hall-guards were slack, asleep at their posts, 705 all except one; it was widely understood that as long as God disallowed it,
the fiend could not bear them to his shadow-bourne.

One man,² however, was in fighting mood,
awake and on edge, spoiling for action.

710 In off the moors, down through the mist-bands
God-cursed Grendel came greedily loping.

The bane of the race of men roamed forth,
hunting for a prey in the high hall.

Under the cloud-murk he moved toward it 715 until it shone above him, a sheer keep of fortified gold. Nor was that the first time he had scouted the grounds of Hrothgar's dwelling—

although never in his life, before or since,
did he find harder fortune or hall-defenders.
720 Spurned and joyless, he journeyed on ahead and arrived at the bawn.³ The iron-braced door turned on its hinge when his hands touched it.
Then his rage boiled over, he ripped open the mouth of the building, maddening for blood, 725 pacing the length of the patterned floor with his loathsome tread, while a baleful light, flame more than light, flared from his eyes.
He saw many men in the mansion, sleeping,
a ranked company of kinsmen and warriors 730 quartered together. And his glee was demonic, picturing the mayhem: before morning
he would rip life from limb and devour them, feed on their flesh; but his fate that night was due to change, his days of ravaging

2. I.e., Beowulf.

3. "Fortified outwork of a court or castle" [from Heaney's note to line 523], B E O W U L F / 7

735 had come to an end.

Mighty and canny,
Hygelac's kinsman was keenly watching for the first move the monster would make.
Nor did the creature keep him waiting but struck suddenly and started in;
740 he grabbed and mauled a man on his bench, bit into his bone-lappings, bolted down his blood and gorged on him in lumps, leaving the body utterly lifeless, eaten up hand and foot. Venturing closer, 745 his talon was raised to attack Beowulf where he lay on the bed, he was bearing in with open claw when the alert hero's comeback and armlock forestalled him utterly.

The captain of evil discovered himself
750 in a handgrip harder than anything he had ever encountered in any man on the face of the earth. Every bone in his body quailed and recoiled, but he could not escape.
He was desperate to flee to his den and hide 755 with the devil's litter, for in all his days he had never been clamped or cornered like this.
Then Hygelac's trusty retainer recalled his bedtime speech, sprang to his feet and got a firm hold. Fingers were bursting, 760 the monster back-tracking, the man overpowering.
The dread of the land was desperate to escape,
to take a roundabout road and flee to his lair in the fens. The latching power in his fingers weakened; it was the worst trip 765 the terror-monger had taken to Heorot.
And now the timbers trembled and sang,
a hall-session that harrowed every Dane
inside the stockade: stumbling in fury,
the two contenders crashed through the building.

770 The hall clattered and hammered, but somehow survived the onslaught and kept standing:
it was handsomely structured, a sturdy frame braced with the best of blacksmith's work inside and out. The story goes 775 that as the pair struggled, mead-benches were smashed and sprung off the floor, gold fittings and all.
Before then, no Shielding elder would believe there was any power or person upon earth
capable of wrecking their horn-rigged hall 780 unless the burning embrace of a fire engulf it in flame. Then an extraordinary wail arose, and bewildering fear came over the Danes. Everyone felt it who heard that cry as it echoed off the wall, 785 a God-cursed scream and strain of catastrophe,

8 / B E O W U L F

t h e h o w l o f t h e l o s e r , t h e l a m e n t o f t h e h e l l - s e r f k e e n i n g h i s w o u n d . H e w a s o v e r w h e l m e d
,

m a n a c l e d t i g h t b y t h e m a n w h o o f a l l m e n w a s f o r e m o s t a n d s t r o n g e s t i n t h e d a y s o f t h i s
l i f e .

790 B u t t h e e a r l - t r o o p ' s l e a d e r w a s n o t i n c l i n e d t o a l l o w h i s c a l l e r t o d e p a r t a l i v e :

h e d i d n o t c o n s i d e r t h a t l i f e o f m u c h a c c o u n t t o a n y o n e a n y w h e r e . T i m e a n d a g a i n ,

B e o w u l f ' s w a r r i o r s w o r k e d t o d e f e n d

795 t h e i r l o r d ' s l i f e , l a y i n g a b o u t t h e m as best they could, with their ancestral blades.

Stalwart in action, they kept striking out on every side, seeking to cut straight to the soul. When they joined the struggle 800 there was something they could not have known at the time, that no blade on earth, no blacksmith's art could ever damage their demon opponent.

He had conjured the harm from the cutting edge of every weapon. But his going away

805 out of this world and the days of his life would be agony to him, and his alien spirit would travel far into fiends' keeping.

Then he who had harrowed the hearts of men with pain and affliction in former times 810 and had given offense also to God found that his bodily powers failed him.

Higelac's kinsman kept him helplessly locked in a handgrip. As long as either lived,

he was hateful to the other. The monster's whole 815 body was in pain; a tremendous wound
and appeared on his shoulder. Sinews split and the bone-lappings burst. Beowulf was granted the glory of winning; Grendel was driven

under the fen-banks, fatally hurt,

820 to his desolate lair. His days were numbered,
the end of his life was coming over him,

he knew it for certain; and one bloody clash

had fulfilled the dearest wishes of the Danes.

The man who had lately landed among them,
825 proud and sure, had purged the hall, kept it from harm; he was happy with his night work and the courage he had shown. The Geat captain had boldly fulfilled his boast to the Danes:

he had healed and relieved a huge distress, 830 unremitting humiliations, the hard fate they'd been forced to undergo,
no small affliction. Clear proof of this could be seen in the hand the hero displayed high up near the roof: the whole of Grendel's 835 shoulder and arm, his awesome grasp.

BEOWULF / 9

[The Last Survivor's Speech]

Death had come and taken them all in times gone by and the only one left to tell their tale,
the last of their line, could look forward to nothing 2240 but the same fate for himself: he foresaw that his joy in the treasure would be brief.⁴

A newly constructed barrow stood waiting, on a wide headland close to the waves, its entry way secured.
Into it the keeper of the hoard had carried 2245 all the goods and golden ware worth preserving. His words were few:
"Now, earth, hold what earls once held and heroes can no more; it was mined from my first by honorable men. My own people 2250 have been ruined in war; one by one they went down to death, looked their last on sweet life in the hall. I am left with nobody to bear a sword or to burnish plated goblets, put a sheen on the cup. The companies have departed.

2255 The hard helmet, hasped with gold, will be stripped of its hoops; and the helmet-shiner who should polish the metal of the war-masks sleeps; the coat of mail that came through all fights,

through shield-collapse and cut of sword,

2260 decays with the warrior. No r may webbed mail range far and wide on the warlord's back beside his mustered troops. No trembling harp,

not tuned timber, not tumbling hawk

swerving through the hall, no swift horse

2265 pawing the courtyard. Pillage and slaughter have emptied the earth of entire peoples."

And so he mourned as he moved about the world, deserted and alone, lamenting his unhappiness day and night, until death's flood brimmed up in his heart.

[The Last Survivor's Speech in Old English]

" Heald J)u nu, hruse, nu haeled ne mostan,

eorla ashte! Hwast, hyt aer on 5e gode be geaton. Guf>-dead fornam,

2250 feorh-bealo frecne fyra gehwylcne

l e o d a minra, f>ara 5e f>is lif o f g e a f , g e s a w o n s e l e - d r e a m a s . N a h h w a s w e o r d w e g e 4. This passage comes near the end of the poem.

ished. The “only one left to tell their tale” is the Beowulf, now an old king who has ruled the Geats last survivor of the tribe. He carries the treasure to for fifty years, must fight a fierce flying dragon that the barrow where his people are buried and speaks guards a treasure hoard and terrorizes the region.
these words on the transience of earthly things.

These lines tell the history of the treasure: it is the
The Old English lines coincide with lines 2247—accumulated wealth of a tribe of warriors, now per-66 of the translation.

10 / R I D D L E S

odde feormie fasted waege,
drync-faet deore; dugud ellor scoc.
2255 Sceal se hearda helm hyrsted golde
fastum befeallen; feormynd swefad
|ja 5e beado-griman bywan sceoldon;
ge swylce seo here-pad, sio aet hilde gebad
ofer borda gebrasc bite irena, 2260 brosnad asfter beorne; ne maeg byrnan hring asfter wig-fruman wide feran hasledum be healfe. Nass hearpan wyn gomen gleo-beames, ne god hafoc
geond sasl swinged, ne se swifta mearh 2265 burh-stede beated. Bealo-cwealm hafad fela feorh-cynna ford onsended!”

R I D D L E S 1

1

I am a lonely being, scarred by swords,
Wounded by iron, sated with battle-deeds,
Wearied by blades. Often I witness war,
Perilous fight, nor hope for consolation,
5 That any help may rescue me from strife
Before I perish among fighting men;
But hammered swords, hard edged and grimly sharp,
Batter me, and the handwork of the smith
Bites in the castles; I must ever wait
10 A contest yet more cruel. I could never
In any habitation find the sort
Of doctor who could heal my wounds with herbs;
But cuts from swords ever increase on me
Through deadly contest, both by day and night.

2

My dress is silent when I tread the ground
Or stay at home or stir upon the waters.
Sometimes my trappings and the lofty air
Raise me above the dwelling-place of men,
5 And then the power of clouds carries me far Above the people; and my ornaments
Loudly resound, send forth a melody

1. The Old English riddles, like their counterparts Richard Hamer, are among those found in the Exe-in Latin poetic tradition (from which many of them

ter Book, a tenth-century manuscript collection of are derived), are poems in which beings or objects Old English poetry. The “answers” appear in note from ordinary life are presented disguised in meta-3 below.

phoric terms. The riddles below, translated by

THE WIFE ‘SLAMENT / 11

And clearly sing, when I am not in touch
With earth or water, but a flying spirit.

3

A moth ate words; a marvellous event
I thought it when I heard about that wonder,
A worm had swallowed some man’s lay,² a thief
In darkness had consumed the mighty saying 5 With its foundation firm. The thief was not One whit the wiser when he ate those words.³

[Riddle 3 in Old English]

Modde word fraet. Me Jjaet Jjuhte wraetlicu wyrd, Jja ic Jjaet wundor gefraegn,
Jjaet se wurm forswealg wera gied sumes,
Jjeof in Jjystro, Jjrymfaestne cwide
5 ond Jjaes strangen staJ)ol. Staslgiest ne wass wihte J)j gleawra, J)e he J)am wordum swealg.

THE WIFE ‘SLAMENT 1

I sing this song about myself, full sad,
My own distress, and tell what hardships I
Have had to suffer since I first grew up,
Present and past, but never more than now;

5 I ever suffered grief through banishment.
For since my lord departed from this people
Over the sea, each dawn have I had care
Wondering where my lord may be on land.
When I set off to join and serve my lord,
10 A friendless exile in my sorry plight,
My husband's kinsmen plotted secretly
How they might separate us from each other
That we might live in wretchedness apart
Most widely in the world: and my heart longed.

15 In the first place my lord had ordered me
To take up my abode here, though I had Among these people few dear loyal friends;
Therefore my heart is sad. Then had I found

2. A short poem intended to be sung.

interpretations of the poem; the one below, by

3. The solutions to these riddles are shield, swan, Richard Hamer, suggests that the poem is a draand bookworm, respectively.

matic monologue spoken by a wife separated from

1. This poem appears in the Exeter Book, a tenth-her husband. Some critics have suggested that the century manuscript collection of Old English poem may be an allegory in which the speaker rep-poetry, immediately following a series of riddles.

resents either the soul or the children of Israel dur-

Different translations offer somewhat different

ing the Babylonian captivity.

1 2 / T H E S E A F A R E R

A fitting man, but one ill-starred, distressed,
20 Whose hiding heart was contemplating crime,
Though cheerful his demeanor. We had vowed Full many a time that nought should come between us
But death alone, and nothing else at all.

All that has changed, and it is now as though 25 Our marriage and our love had never been,
And far or near forever I must suffer
The feud of my beloved husband dear.

So in this forest grove they made me dwell,
Under the oak-tree, in this earthy barrow.

30 Old is this earth-cave, all I do is yearn.

The dales are dark with high hills up above,
Sharp hedge surrounds it, overgrown with briars,
And joyless is the place. Full often here

The absence of my lord comes sharply to me.

35 Dear lovers in this world lie in their beds,

While I alone at crack of dawn must walk

Under the oak-tree round this earthy cave,

Where I must stay the length of summer days,

Where I may weep my banishment and all

40 My many hardships, for I never can

Contrive to set at rest my careworn heart,

Nor all the longing that this life has brought me.

A young man always must be serious,

And tough his character; likewise he should

45 Seem cheerful, even though his heart is sad

With multitude of cares. All earthly joy
Must come from his own self. Since my dear lord
Is outcast, far off in a distant land,
Frozen by storms beneath a stormy cliff
50 And dwelling in some desolate abode
Beside the sea, my weary-hearted lord
Must suffer pitiless anxiety.
And all too often he will call to mind
A happier dwelling. Grief must always be 55 For him who yearning longs for his beloved.

T H E S E A F A R E R 1

From the Anglo-Saxon

May I for my own self song's truth reckon,
Journey's jargon, how I in harsh days

1. This poem appears in the Exeter Book, a tenth-century manuscript collection of Old English life, but some critics suggest that it is also a Christian allegory in which life is represented as a difficult journey over rough seas toward the harbor of heaven. Pound's translation plays down the Christian elements of the poem.

translation, is provided in note 8 below. The poem

T H E S E A F A R E R / 1 3

Hardship endured oft.

Bitter breast-cares have I abided,

5 Known on my keel² may a care's hold,

And dire sea-surge, and there I oft spent

Narrow nightwatch nigh the ship's head

While she tossed close to cliffs. Coldly afflicted,

My feet were by frost benumbed.

10 Chill its chains are; chafing sighs

Hew^o my heart round and hunger begot strike

Mere^o-weary mood. Lest man know not sea

That he on dry land loveliest liveth,

List how I, care-wretched, on ice-cold sea,

15 Weathered the winter, wretched outcast

Deprived of my kinsmen;

Hung with hard ice-flakes, where hail-scur^o flew, hailstorms

There I heard naught save the harsh sea

And ice-cold wave, at whiles the swan cries,

20 Did for my games the gannet's^o clamor, large seabird's

Sea-fowls' loudness was for me laughter,

The mews^{'o} singing all my mead-drink. seagulls'

Storms, on the stone-cliffs beaten, fell on the stern

In icy feathers; full oft the eagle screamed

25 With spray on his pinion.^o wing

Not any protector

May make merry man faring needy.

This he little believes, who aye in winsome^o life pleasant

Abides 'mid burghers^o some heavy business, citizens

Wealthy and wine-flushed, how I weary oft

30 Must bide above brine.³

Neareth nightshade, snoweth from north,
Frost froze the land, hail fell on earth then,
Corn of the coldest. Nathless⁴ there knocketh now

The heart's thought that I on high streams

35 The salt-wavy tumult traverse alone.

Moaneth always my mind's lust

That I fare forth, that I afar hence

Seek out a foreign⁰ fastness.⁰ remote /place

For this there's no mood-lofty man over earth's midst,

40 Not though he be given his good, but will have in his youth greed;

Nor his deed to the daring, nor his king to the faithful

But shall have his sorrow for sea-fare

Whatever his lord will.

He hath not heart for harping, nor in ring-having

45 Nor winsomeness to wife, nor world's delight

Nor any whit else save the wave's slash,

Yet longing comes upon him to fare forth on the water.

Bosque⁰ taketh blossom, cometh beauty of berries, grove

Fields to fairness, land fares brisker,

50 All this admonisheth man eager of mood,

2. The timber of a ship or boat upon which the

4. Nevertheless. Corn: small, hard particles or framework of the whole is built.

grains.

3. I.e., must live a life at sea.

1 4 / T H E S E A F A R E R

The heart turns to travel so that he then thinks
On flood-ways to be far departing.
Cuckoo calleth with gloomy crying,
He singeth summerward, bodeth sorrow,
The bitter heart's blood. Burgher knows not—
He the prosperous man—what some perform
Where wandering them widest draweth.
So that but now my heart burst from my breastlock,
My mood 'mid the mere-flood,
Over the whale's acre, would wander wide.⁵
On earth's shelter cometh oft to me,
Eager and ready, the crying lone-flyer,^o cuckoo
Whets for the whale-path the heart irresistibly,
O'er tracks of ocean; seeing that anyhow
My lord deems to me this dead life
On loan and on land,⁶ I believe not
That any earth-weal eternal standeth
Save there be somewhat calamitous
That, ere a man's tide go, turn it to twain.
Disease or oldness or sword-hate
Beats out the breath from doom-gripped body.
And for this, every earl whatever, for those speaking after—
Laud of the living, boasteth some last word,
That he will work ere he pass onward,
Frame on the fair earth 'gainst foes his malice,
Daring^o ado,^o ... brave /deeds
So that all men shall honor him after
And his laud beyond them remain 'mid the English,⁷

Aye, for ever, a lasting life's-blast,
 Delight 'mid the doughty.0 valiant
 Days little durable,
 And all arrogance of earthen riches,
 There come now no kings nor Caesars0 emperors
 Nor gold-giving lords like those gone.
 Howe'er in mirth most magnified
 Who'er lived in life most lordliest,
 Drear all this excellence, delights undurable!
 Waneth the watch, but the world holdeth.
 Tomb hideth trouble. The blade is layed low.
 Earthly glory ageth and seareth.
 No man at all going the earth's gait,
 But age fares against him, his face paleth,
 Gray-haired he groaneth, knows gone companions,
 Lordly men, are to earth o'ergiven,
 Nor may he then the flesh-cover, whose life ceaseth,
 Nor eat the sweet nor feel the sorry,
 Nor stir hand nor think in mid heart,
 And though he strew the grave with gold,

5. Pound changes the original here by substituting 6. Behind Pound's phrase "on loan and on land"

"mood" for the O.E. term for "thoughts" and then is an O.E. phrase meaning "briefly on Earth."

by omitting a line describing the thoughts return- 7. In the original, the sense is "with the angels," ing to the speaker "with greed and longing." not "mid the English."

THE CUCKOO SONG / 15

His born brothers, their buried bodies

Be an unlikely treasure hoard.⁸

[The First Lines of “The Seafarer” in Old English]

Maeg ic be me sylfum sodgied wrecan, sij)as secgan, hu ic geswincdagum earfodhwile oft J)rowade,

bitre breostceare gebiden haebbe,

5 gecunnad in ceole cearselda fela, atol yj)a gewearc, J>aer mec oft bigeat

nearo nihtwaco ast nacan stefnan

J)onne he be clifum crossad ...

ANONYMOUS LYRICS OF THE THIRTEEN TH

AND FOURTEENTH CENTURIES

Now Go’th Sun under Wood¹

Nou goth sonne under wode—

Me reweth, Marie, thi faire rode.²

Nou goth sonne under tre—

Me reweth, Marie, thi sone and the.° thee

The Cuckoo Song³

Sing, cuccu, nu.° Sing, cuccu. now

Sing, cuccu. Sing, cuccu, nu.

8. Pound’s translation omits the part of the original

And let us labor also, so that we sentence that describes the gold buried with the

May pass into eternal blessedness,

brother’s corpse as something that can “bring no

Where life belongs amid the love of God,

help to the soul that's full of sins, / Against God's Hope in the heavens. The Holy One be thanked wrath, although he [the dead person] hide it here /
That He has raised us up, the Prince of Glory, Ready before his death while yet he lives." The Lord without end, to all eternity.

ensuing lines, in Hamer's translation, go as follows:
Amen.

Great is the might of God, by which earth moves;
1. This is one of the earliest Middle English lyrics
For He established its foundations firm, presenting the Passion of Christ (his Crucifixion at
The land's expanses, and the sky above.

Calvary), a subject that occurs frequently in Mid-Foolish is he who does not fear his Lord, dle English lyrics. This poem, which was perhaps For death will come upon him unprepared.

originally part of a longer one on the Passion, is Blessed is he who humble lives; for grace notable for its wordplay: e.g., "sonne" means both Shall come to him from heaven. The Creator

"sun" and "son"; and the "wode" of line 1 refers Shall make his spirit steadfast, for his faith

both to the woods behind which the sun is setting Is in God's might. Man must control himself and to Christ's wooden cross; "rode" (line 2) also With strength of mind, and firmly hold to that, plays on "cross" (the Old English rood), as does

True to his pledges, pure in all his ways.

“tre” (line 3).

With moderation should each man behave
In all his dealings with both friend and foe.

2. Face. According to John 19.25, Christ’s
No man will wish the friend he’s made to burn mother, the Virgin Mary, witnessed the Crucifix-In fires of hell, or on an earthly pyre,
ion. Me reweth: I pity.

Yet fate is mightier, the Lord’s ordaining

3. This song about summer or spring “coming in”
More powerful than any man can know.

is one of the earliest surviving Middle English lyr-

Let us think where we have our real home,

ics. It is written, with music, in a manuscript that

And then consider how we may come thither;

was owned by a religious house.

16 / LYRICS OF THE THIRTEENTH AND FOURTEENTH CENTURIES

Sumer is i-cumen in—

Lhude° sing, cuccu!

loudly

5 Groweth sed and bloweth0 med°

blooms / field

And springth0 the wude° nu.

buds / wood

Sing, cuccu!

Awe° bleteth after lomb, ewe

Lhouth⁰ after calve cu,^o

lows / cow

10 Bulluc sterteth,⁰ bucke verteth⁴-leaps

Murie^o sing, cuccu!

merrily

Cuccu, cuccu.

Wei singes thu,^o cuccu.

thou

Ne swik thu naver nu!⁵

Ubi Sunt Qui ante Nos Fuerunt?⁶

Were beth they biforen us weren,

Houndes ladden⁰ and hauekes⁰ beren^o led / hawks / carried

And hadden⁰ feld and wode?^o owned / wood

The riche levedies⁰ in hoere^o bour,^o ladies / their/bower

That wereden gold in hoere tressour,⁰ headdress

With hoere brightte rode,^o face

Eten and drounken and maden hem^o glad; them

Hoere lif was al with gamen^o i-lad;^o pleasure / led

Men keneleden⁰ hem biforen; knelt

They beren hem wel swithe⁰ heye^o— very / haughtily

And in a twincling of an eye

Hoere soules weren forloren.⁰ completely lost

Were is that lawing⁰ and that song, laughing

That trayling and that proude yong,⁷

Tho hauekes and tho houndes?

Al that joye is went away;
 That wele^o is comen to welaway/happiness / sadness
 To manie harde stoundes.0
times
 Hoere paradis hy^o nomen^o here, they / took 20 And nou they lien in helle i-fere^o—together
 The fuir^o hit brennes0 hevere.0 fire / burns / ever
 Long is ay^o and long is ho,^o
ah / oh
 Long is wy^o and long is wo^o—
alas / woe
 Thennes0 ne cometh they nevere.
thence

4. Farts; thought to derive from the Old English are now those who lived before us?” This lyric is feortan, although some commentators suggest a part of an extensive medieval tradition of ubi sunt derivation from the Latin vertere, “to turn” or “to poems lamenting the mutability of human life and cavort.”

institutions; for an Old English example, see “The 5. Cease (“swik”) thou never now, i.e., don’t ever Seafarer” (p. 12).

stop.

7. That trailing (of garments) and that proud gait.

6. The first line translates the Latin title: "Where

UBISUNTQUIANTENOSFUERUNT? / 17

25 D r e g h y 0 here, m a n , t h e n n e i f t h o u w i l t , suffer
A l u i t e l p i n e , 0 t h a t m e t h e b i t . 8 pain

W i t h d r a u t h i n e e y e s o f t e .

T h e y 0 t h i p i n e b e o u n r e d e , 0 though /severe

A n d ° t h o u t h e n k e o n t h i m e d e , ° if/reward.

30 H i t s a l t h e t h i n k e n s o f t e . 9

I f t h a t f e n d , 1 t h a t f o u l e t h i n g ,

T h o r o u w i k k e r o u n , ° t h o r o u f a l s e g g i n g , 0 temptation /urging N e t h e r e 0 t h e h a v e t h i - c a s t , d o w n

O u p , ° a n d b e g o d c h a u n p i o u n ! up

35 S t o n d , n e f a l ° n a m o r e a d o u n fall

F o r a l u y t e l b l a s t . 0 puff of wind

T h o u t a k t h e r o d e t o 2 t h i s t a f

A n d t h e n k o n h i m t h a t t h e r e o n n e y a P gave

H i s l i f t h a t w e s s o l e f . ° dear

40 H e h i t y a f f o r t h e ; t h o u y e l d e h i t h i m . 3

A y e i n 0 h i s f o t h a t s t a f t h o u n i m , ° against/take

A n d w r e k h i m o f t h a t t h e f . 4

O f r i g h t t e b i l e v e 5 t h o u n i m t h a t s h e l d

T h e w i l e s 0 t h a t t h o u b e s t 0 i n t h a t f e l d .

while /I

T h i n h o n d t o s t r e n k t h e n f o n d e 6

A n d k e p t h y f o w i t h s t a v e s o r d 7

A n d d o t h a t t r a y t r e s e i e n t h a t w o r d .

B i g e t 0 t h a t m u r i e l o n d e

gam

T h e r e i n n e i s d a y w i t h o u t e n n i g h t ,
W i t h o u t e n e n d e s t r e n k t h e a n d m i g h t ,
A n d w r e c h e 0 o P e v e r i c h f o ,

vengeance / on

M i d ° g o d h i m s e l w e n e c h e ° l i f

with / eternal

A n d p e s a n d r e s t w i t h o u t e s t r i f ,

W e l e ° w i t h o u t e n w o .

happiness

55 M a y d e n m o d e r , h e v e n e q u e n e ,

T h o u m i g h t a n d c o n s t 0 a n d o w e s t 0 t o b e n e 0
c a n / o u g h t / h e O u r e s h e l d a y e i n 0 t h e f e n d e .

against

H e l p o u s s u n n e f o r t o f l e n 9

T h a t w e m o t e n 0 t h i s o n e i - s e e n might

60 I n j o y e w i t h o u t e n h e n d e . 0 end

A m e n .

8. That you are asked to bear. Literally, one (“me”)

6. Then try to strengthen your hand; an allusion that bids thee.

to the “shield of faith” (Ephesians 6.16).

9. It shall seem soft to thee.

7. I.e., the point of your staff.

1. Fiend, or enemy (German Feind); i.e., Satan,

8. Make the traitor say the word (of surrender).

whose name means “adversary” in Hebrew; cf. “fo”

Some editors place a comma after “word” and a (line 41): foe.

period after “londe” in the next line. Our editorial

2. Rod to be, with “rode” here also referring to decision about punctuating these difficult lines—Christ’s cross (rood).

a decision that breaks the pattern of syntactically

3. He gave it [his life] for thee; thou repay him for self-contained stanzas—requires “thereinne” of it. Yelde: yield.

line 49 to be interpreted as “wherein.”

4. Against his foe take thou that staff [the cross]

9. Help us to flee from sin—with a play on and revenge him upon that thief [the Devil], “sunne” (line 58) and “sone” (line 59).

5. Right belief, or true faith.

18 / LYRICS OF THE THIRTEENTH AND FORTIETH CENTURIES

Alison1

Bytwene Mersh° and Averil,

March

When spray0 biginneth to springe,0 twigs / open, leaf out

The lutel° foul° hath hire0 wyl

little / bird / its

On hyre lud° to synge.

birdsong

Ich° libbe° in love-longinge

I / live

For semlokest0 of alle thinge—

seemliest

He° may me blisse bringe;

she

Ich am in hire baundoun0

power

An hendy hap ichahhe yhent2—

Ichot° from hevene it is me sent:

I know

From alle wymmen mi love is lent° turned

And lyht° on Alysoun.

fallen

On° heu° hire her° is fayr ynoh,°

in / color / hair / enough

Hire browe broune, hire eye blake—

With lossum chere he on me loh3—

With middel0 smal and wel ymake.°

waist / made

Bote0 he° me wolle to hire take,

unless / she

Forte buen hire owen make,4

Longe to lyven ichulle0 forsake

I will

And feye° fallen adoun

dead, lifeless

An hendy hap ichahhe yhent— ...

Nightes when I wende° and wake-

turn

Forthi° myn wonges0 waxeth won0— therefore / cheeks / wan, pale

Levedi,0 al for thine sake

lady

Longinge is ylent me on.5

In world nis non so wyter mon6

That al hire bounte0 telle con.

excellence

Hire swyre° is whittore then the swon,c neck / sivan

And feyrest may° in toune.

maid

An hendy hap ichahhe yhent— ...

Icham for wowyng al forwake,7

Wery so water in wore,8

Lest eny reve me my make9

Ichabbe y-yerned yore.1

Betere is tholien whyle sore2

Then mournen evermore.

Geynest under gore,3

1. This lyric (like most Middle English poems,

5. I.e., come upon me.

originally untitled) occurs in a famous anthology

6. I.e., in the world there is no man so wise.

containing the so-called Harley Lyrics, written in

7. I.e., I am entirely worn out from wooing.

the west of England in the early fourteenth cen-

8. I.e., like water in a weir, a pool made by damtury; the manuscript is now in the British Library ming up water.

(MS. Harley 2253).

9. I.e., lest anyone deprive me of my mate (“reve”

2. A happy chance I have received.

being a form of the old verb reave, to rob).

3. I.e., with lovely face she laughed at (“loh” “on”)

1. I.e., [the mate] I have desired a long time.

me.

2. I.e., better it is to suffer sorely for a while.

4. For to be her own mate.

3. I.e., kindest of ladies (persons “under gown”).

THE GENERAL PROLOGUE / 19

Herkne⁰ to my roun.^o listen/song

An hendy hap ichahhe yhent— ...

Fowls in the Frith⁴

Fowles in the frith,

The fisshes in the flood,

And I mon^o waxe^o wood:⁰ must/go/mad

Much sorwe^o I walke with sorrow

For beste of boon⁵ and blood.

I Am of Ireland⁶

Ich^o am of Irlonde, I

And of the holy londe

Of Irlonde.

Goode sire, praye ich thee,

5 F o r o f^o s a i n t e⁰ c h a r i t e e , sake of/holy

Com and dance with me

In Irlonde.

G E O F F R E Y C H A U C E R

ca. 1343-1400

FROM THE CANTERBURY TALES

The General Prologue

Whan that April with his^o showres soote^o its/fresh

The droughte of March hath perced to the roote,

And bathed every veine in swich licour,¹

Of which vertu² engendred is the flowr;

5 Whan Zephyrus⁰ eek^o with his sweete breeth the West Wind
/ also Inspired⁰ hath in every holt^o and heeth^o breathed into / grove/field

The tendre croppes,⁰ and the yonge sonne shoots

Hath in the Ram his halve cours yronne,³

4. This poem, with a musical accompaniment

a longer poem; it is written in prose in the manudesigned for two voices, appears on one side of a script. The first three lines are the burden, or page in a manuscript comprised mainly of legal refrain.

texts (it contains no other poems). The title means

1. Such liquid. Veine: i.e., in plants.

“Birds in the Woods.”

2. By the power of which.

5. Either “the best” or “beast” of bone. The ambi-

3. The sun is young because it has run only halfguity allows for both religious and erotic interpreway through its course in Aries, the Ram—the first tations.

sign of the zodiac in the solar year.

6. This lyric may be a fragment or an extract from

20 / G E O F F R E Y C H A U C E R

And smale fowles⁰ maken melodye birds

That sleepen al the night with open ye^o— eye

So priketh hem^o Nature in hir^o corages⁰— them / their / hearts

Thanne longen folk to goon^o on pilgrimages, go

And palmeres for to seeken straunge strondes

To feme halwes,⁴ couthe⁰ in sondry⁰ londes; known / various

And specially from every shires ende

Of Engeland to Canterbury they wende,

The holy blisful martyr⁵ for to seeke

That hem hath holpen⁰ whan that they were seke.^o helped/sick

Bife^P that in that seson on a day, it happened

In Southwerk⁶ at the Tabard as I lay,

Redy to wenden on my pilgrimage

To Canterbury with ful^o devout corage, very

At night was come into that hostelrye

Wei nine and twenty in a compaignye

Of sondry folk, by aventure⁰ yfalle chance

In felawshipe, and pilgrimes were they alle

That toward Canterbury wolden⁰ ride. would

The chambres and the stables weren wide,

And wel we weren esed at the beste.⁷

And shortly, whan the sonne was to reste,⁸

So hadde I spoken with hem everichoon⁰ every one

That I was of hir felawshipe anon,^o at once

And made forward⁹ erly for to rise,
 To take oure way ther as I you devise.¹
 But nathelees,⁰ whil I have time and Space, nevertheless
 Er^o that I ferther in this tale pace,⁰ before / proceed
 Me thinketh it accordant to resoun³
 To telle you al the condicioun
 Of eech of hem, so as it seemed me,
 And whiche they were, and of what degree,⁰ social rank
 And eek in what array that they were inne:
 And at a knight thanne⁰ wol I first biginne. then
 A Knight ther was, and that a worthy man,
 That fro the time that he first bigan
 To riden out, he loved chivalrye,
 Trouthe and honour, freedom and curteisye.⁴
 Ful worthy was he in his lordes werre,^o war
 And therto hadde he riden, no man ferre,^o further
 As wel in Cristendom as hethenesse,⁰ heathen lands
 And⁵ evere honoured for his worthinesse.
 At Alisandre⁶ he was whan it was wonne;

4. Far-off shrines. Palmeres: palmers, wide-

1. I.e., where I describe to you.

ranging pilgrims—especially those who sought out

2. I.e., while I have the opportunity.

the “straunge strondes” (foreign shores) of the

3. It seems to me according to reason.

Holy Land.

4. Courtesy. Trouthe: integrity. Freedom: gener-

5. St. Thomas a Becket, murdered in Canterbury

osity of spirit.

Cathedral (1170); his shrine was associated with

5. I.e., and he was.

healing.

6. The Knight has taken part in campaigns fought

6. Southwark, site of the Tabard Inn, was then a against three groups who threatened Christian suburb of London, south of the Thames River.

Europe during the fourteenth century: the Mus-

7. Accommodated in the best possible way.

lims in the Near East, from whom Alexandria was

8. I.e., had set.

seized after a famous siege; the northern barbari-

9. I.e., (we) made an agreement.

ans in Prussia, Lithuania, and Russia; and the

THE GENERAL PROLOGUE / 21

Ful ofte time he hadde the boord bigonne⁷

Aboven alle nacions in Pruce;

In Lettou had he reised,⁰ and in Ruce, campaigned.

No Cristen man so ofte of his degree;

In Gernade⁰ at the sege eek hadde he be

Granada

Of Algezir, and riden in Belmarye;

At Lyeis was he, and at Satalye,

Whan they were wonne; and in the Grete See^o

Mediterranean Sea

At many a noble arivee^o hadde he be.

military landing

At mortal batailes⁸ hadde he been fifteene,
And foughten for oure faith at Tramissene
In listes⁹ thries,⁰ and ay^o slain his fo.

thrice / always

This ilke^o worthy Knight hadde been also Somtime with the lord of Palatye¹
Against⁰ another hethen in Turkye;

against

And everemore he hadde a sovereign pris.^o

reputation

And though that he were worthy, he was wis,²
And of his port⁰ as meeke as is a maide.

demeanor

He nevere yit no vilainye⁰ ne saide

rudeness

In al his lif unto no manere wight:³
He was a verray,⁰ parfit,⁰ gentil⁰ knight.

true / perfect / noble

But for to tellen you of his array,
His hors^o were goode, but he was nat gay.⁴

horses

Of fustian he wered a gipoun⁵
Al bismotered with his haubergeoun,⁶
For he was late^o come from his viage,^o

lately / expedition

And wente for to doon his pilgrimage.
With him ther was his sone, a yong Squier,⁷

A lovere and a lusty bachelor,
With lokkes crulle⁰ as^o they were laid in presse.

curly / as if

Of twenty yeer of age he was, I gesse.

Of his stature he was of evene^o lengthe,

moderate

And wonderly delivere,⁰ and of greet⁰ strengthe

agile / great

And he hadde been som time in chivachye⁸

In Flandres, in Artois, and Picardye,

And born him wel as of so litel space,⁹

In hope to stonden in his lady^o grace.

lady's

Embrouded⁰ was he as it were a mede,

embroidered / mead, meadow

Al ful of fresshe flowres, white and rede;^o

red

Singing he was, or floiting,⁰ al the day:

whistling

He was as fressh as is the month of May.

Short was his gowne, with sleeves longe and wide.

Moors in North Africa. The place-names in the fol-

4. I.e., gaily dressed.

lowing lines refer to battlegrounds in these contin-

5. I.e., he wore a tunic of thick cloth underneath uing wars.

the coat of mail.

7. Sat in the seat of honor at military feasts.

6. All rust-stained from his hauberk (coat of mail).

8. Tournaments fought to the death.

7. The vague term “Squier” (Squire) here seems

9. Lists, tournament grounds.

the equivalent of “bachelor,” a young knight still in

1. “The lord of Palatye” was a Muslim; alliances
the service of an older one.

of convenience were often made during the Cru-

8. On cavalry expeditions. The places in the next sades between Christians and Muslims.

line are sites of skirmishes in the constant warfare

2. I.e., he was wise as well as bold.

between the English and the French.

3. Any sort of person. In Middle English, negatives

9. I.e., considering the little time he had been in are multiplied for emphasis, as in these two lines:
service.

“nevere,” “no,” “ne,” “no.”

22 / G E O F F R E Y C H A U C E R

Wel coude he sitte on hors, and faire ride;

He coude songes make, and wel endite,⁰ compose verse

Juste and eek daunce,¹ and wel portraye⁰ and write.

sketch

So hote^o he loved that by^o nightertale⁰

hotly /at / night

He slepte namore than dooth a nightingale.

Curteis he was, lowely,⁰ and servisable,

humble

And carf biforn his fader at the table.²

A Yeman hadde he³ and servants namo^o

no more

At that time, for him liste^o ride so;

it pleased to

And he⁴ was clad in cote and hood of greene.

A sheef of pecok arwes,^o bright and keene,

arrows

Under his belt he bar^o ful thriftily;⁰

bore / properly

Wel coude he dresse his takel yemanly:⁵

His arwes drouped nought with fetheres lowe.

And in his hand he bar a mighty bowe.

A not-heed^o hadde he with a brown visage.

close-cut head

Of wodecraft wel coude⁰ he al the usage.

knew

Upon his arm he bar a gay bracer,⁶

And by his side a swerd^o and a bokeler,⁷ sword

And on that other side a gay daggere,

Harneised⁰ wel and sharp as point of spere;

mounted

A Cristophre⁸ on his brest of silver sheene;⁰

bright

An horn he bar, the baudrik⁹ was of greene.

A forster⁰ was he soothly,⁰ as I gesse.

forester / truly

Ther was also a Nonne, a Prioressse,¹
That of hir smiling was ful simple⁰ and coy.^o

sincere / mild

Hir grettteste ooth was but by sainte Loy!²
And she was cleped⁰ Madame Eglantine.

named

Ful wel she soong^o the service divine,

sang

Entuned in hir nose ful semely;³
And Frenssh she spak ful faire and fetisly,⁰ aantly

After the scole of Stratford at the Bowe⁴—
For Frenssh of Paris was to hire unknowe.

At mete^o wel ytaught was she withalle:⁰

meals / besides

She leet^o no morsel from hir lippes falle,

let

Ne wette hir fingres in hir sauce deepe;
Wel coude she carye a morsel, and wel keepe^o

take care

That no drope ne fille^upon hir brest.

should fall

In curteisye was set ful muchel hir lest.⁵

Hir over-lippe wiped she so clene

That in hir coppe^o ther was no ferthing⁰ seene cup / bit

Of grece,^o whan she dronken hadde hir draughte;

grease

Ful semely after hir mete she raughte.0

reached

And sikerly0 she was of greet disport,6 certainly

1. Joust (fight in a tournament) and also dance.

1. The Prioress is the mother superior of her nun-

2. It was a squire's duty to carve his lord's meat.

nery.

3. The Knight. Yeman: Yeoman; an independent

2. Eloi, or Eligius, a saint associated with journeys commoner who acts as the Knight's military ser-and craftsmanship, was also famous for his pervant.

sonal beauty, courtesy, and refusal to swear.

4. I.e., the Yeoman.

3. I.e., chanted in a seemly manner.

5. Tend to his gear in a workmanlike way.

4. The French learned in a convent school

6. Wristguard for archers.

("scole") in Stratford-at-the-Bow, a suburb of Lon-

7. Buckler (a small shield).

don, was evidently not up to the Parisian standard.

8. A medal of St. Christopher, patron saint of trav-

5. I.e., her chief delight lay in good manners.

elers.

6. Of great good cheer.

9. Baldric (a supporting strap).

THE GENERAL PROLOGUE / 23

And ful plesant, and amiable of port,⁰ mien

And pained hire to countrefete cheere⁷

140 Of court, and to been statlich⁰ of manere,

dignified

And to been holden digne⁸ of reverence.

But, for to speken of hir conscience,

She was so charitable and so pitous⁰

merciful

She wolde weepe if that she saw a mous

145 Caught in a trappe, if it were deed⁰ or bledde.

dead

Of⁹ smale houndes hadde she that she fedde

With rosted flessh, or milk and wastelbreed;⁰

fine white bread

But sore wepte she if oon of hem were deed,

Or if men smoot it with a yerde smerte;⁷

150 And al was conscience and tendre herte.

Ful semely hir wimpel⁰ pinched⁰ was,

headdress / pleated

Hir nose tretis, hir yen greye² as glas,

Hir mouth ful smal, and therto⁰ softe and reed,^o

moreover / red

But sikerly she hadde a fair forheed:

155 It was almost a spanne brood, I trowe,³

For hardily,⁰ she was nat undergrowe.

assuredly

Ful fetis⁰ was hir cloke, as I was war;⁰

becoming / aware

Of smal^o coral aboute hir arm she bar

dainty

A paire of bedes, gauded al with greene,⁴

160 And theron heeng⁰ a brooch of gold ful sheene,⁰ hung / bright

On which ther was first writen a crowned A,⁵

And after, *Amor vincit omnia.*⁶

Another Nonne with hire hadde she

That was hir chapelaine,⁰ and preestes three.⁷

secretary

165 A Monk ther was, a fair for the maistrye,⁸

An outridere⁹ that loved venerye,⁰

hunting

A manly man, to been an abbot able.⁰

worthy

Ful many a daintee⁰ hors hadde he in stable, fine

And whan he rood,⁰ men mighte his bridel heere rode

170 Ginglen⁰ in a whistling wind as clere

jingle

And eek as loude as dooth the chapel belle

Ther as this lord was kepere of the celle.¹

The rule of Saint Maure or of Saint Beneit,

By cause that it was old and somdeel strait²—

175 This ilke^o Monk leet olde thinges pace,⁰ same / pass away

And heeld⁰ after the newe world the space.³

held

He yaf nought of that text a pulled hen⁴

That saith that hunteres been⁰ nought holy men, are

Ne that a monk, whan he is recchelees,⁵

180 Is likned til^o a fissh that is waterlees—

to

7. And took pains to imitate the behavior.

8. I.e., a superlatively fine one.

8. And to be considered worthy.

9. A monk charged with supervising property dis-

9. I.e., some.

tant from the monastery.

1. If someone struck it with a rod sharply.

1. Prior of an outlying cell (branch) of the mon-

2. Her nose well-formed, her eyes gray (a conventional color for the eyes of heroines in romances).

2. Somewhat straight. Saint Maure and Saint

3. A handsbreadth wide, I believe.

Beneit: St. Maurus and St. Benedict, authors of

4. Provided with green beads to mark certain monastic rules.

prayers. Paire: string (i.e., a rosary).

3. The course, or direction. I.e., he followed the

5. An A with an ornamental crown on it.

new direction of things.

6. A Latin motto meaning “Love conquers all.”

4. He didn’t give a plucked hen for that text.

7. Later there is only one priest, who tells “The

5. Reckless; careless of rule.

Nun’s Priest’s Tale.”

24 / G E O F F R E Y C H A U C E R

This is to sayn, a monk out of his cloistre;

But thilke0 text heeld he nat worth an oystre.

that same

And I saide his opinion was good:

What0 sholde he studye and make himselven woodc

•why / crazy

Upon a book in cloistre alway to poure,° pour; read intently

Or swinke0 with his handes and laboure,

work

As Austin bit?6 How shal the world be served?

Lat Austin have his swink to him reserved!

Therefore he was a prikasour0 aright.

hard rider

Grehoundes he hadde as swift as fowl in flight.

Of priking0 and of hunting for the hare

riding

Was al his lust,° for no cost wolde he spare.

pleasure

I sawgh his sleeves purfiled0 at the hand

fur-lined

With gris,^o and that the fineste of a land;
gray fur
And for to festne his hood under his chin
He hadde of gold wrought a ful curious⁷ pin:
A love-knotte in the grettere⁰ ende ther was.
greater
His heed was balled,⁰ that shoon as any glas, hald
And eek his face, as he hadde been anoint:
He was a lord ful fat and in good point;⁸
His yen steepe,⁰ and rolling in his heed, protruding
That stemed as a furnais of a leed,⁹
His bootes souple,⁰ his hors in greet estat^o—supple / condition
Now certainly he was a fair prelat.¹
205
He was nat pale as a forpined⁰ gost:
wasted-away
A fat swan loved he best of any rost.
His palfrey⁰ was as brown as is a berye.
saddle horse
A Frere² ther was, a wantoune⁰ and a merye, jovial
A limitour, a ful solempne⁰ man.
ceremonious
In alle the ordres foure is noon that can^o knows

So much of daliaunce⁰ and fair langage:

sociability

He hadde maad ful many a mariage
Of yonge wommen at his owene cost;
Unto his ordre he was a noble post.³
Ful wel biloved and familier was he
With frankelains over al⁴ in his contree,
And with worthy wommen of the town—
For he hadde power of confessioun,
As saide himself, more than a curat,⁰ parish priest

For of^o his ordre he was licenciat.⁵

by

Ful swetely herde he confessioun,
And plesant was his absolucioun.
He was an esy man to yive^o penaunce

give

Ther as he wiste to have a good pitaunce⁶
For unto a poore ordre for to yive
Is signe that a man is wel yshrive;⁰

shriven, absolved

6. I.e., as St. Augustine bids. St. Augustine had a “limitour” (line 209) he has been granted exclusive begging rights within a certain limited area.

7. Of careful workmanship.

3. I.e., pillar, a staunch supporter.

8. In good shape, plump.

4. I.e., with franklins everywhere. Franklins were
 9. That glowed like a furnace with a pot in it.
 well-to-do country men.
1. Prelate (an important churchman).
 5. I.e., licensed to hear confessions.
 2. The “Frere” (Friar) belongs to one of the four
 6. Where he knew he would have a good donation.
 religious orders whose members live by begging; as

THE GENERAL PROLOGUE / 25

For if he yaf, he dorste make avaunt
 He wiste⁷ that a man was repentaunt;
 For many a man so hard is of his herte
 He may nat weepe though him sore smerte:⁸
 Therefore, in stede of weeping and prayeres,
 Men mote^o yive silver to the poore freres.⁹ may
 His tipet^o was ay farsed⁰ ful of knives scarf/packed.
 And pinnes, for to yiven faire wives;
 And certainly he hadde a merye note;
 Wei coude he singe and playen on a rote;^o fiddle
 Of yeddinges he bar outrely the pris.¹
 His nekke whit was as the flowr-de-lis;^o lily
 Therto he strong was as a champioun.
 He knew the tavernes wel in every town,
 And every hostiler⁰ and tappestere,⁰ innkeeper / barmaid
 Bet than a lazar or a beggestere.²
 For unto swich a worthy man as he Accorded nat, as by his facultee,³
 To have with sike^o lazars aquaintaunce: sick

It is nat honeste,0 it may nought avaunce,0 dignified / profit
 For to delen with no swich poraile,4
 But al with riche, and selleres of vitaile;0 foodstuffs
 And over al ther as profit sholde arise,
 Curteis he was, and lowely of servise.
 Ther was no man nowher so vertuous:0 effective
 He was the beste beggere in his hous.° friary
 And yaf a certain ferme for the graunt:5
 Noon of his bretheren cam ther in his haunt.0 assigned territory
 For though a widwe° hadde nought a sho,° widow/shoe
 So plesant was his *In principio*6
 Yit wolde he have a ferthing0 er he wente; small coin
 His purchas was wel bettre than his rente.7
 And rage he coude as it were right a whelpe,8
 In love-dayes9 ther coude he muchel0 helpe, much
 For ther he was nat lik a cloisterer,
 With a thredbare cope,° as is a poore scoler, cloak
 But he was lik a maister1 or a pope.
 Of double worstede was his semicope,0 short cloak
 And rounded as a belle out of the presse.0 bell mold
 Somwhat he lipped for his wantounesse2
 To make his Englissh sweete upon his tonge;
 7. I.e., for if a man gave, the Friar would assert spiritual needs of precisely those classes the Friar that he [the Friar] knew.
 avoids.
 8. Though he is sorely grieved.

5. And he paid a certain rent for the privilege of 9. Before granting absolution, the confessor must begging.

be sure the sinner is contrite; moreover, the abso-

6. A friar's usual salutation: "In the beginning lution is contingent upon the sinner's performance [was the Word]" (John 1.1).

of an act of satisfaction. In the case of Chaucer's

7. I.e., the money he got through such activity was Friar, a liberal contribution served both as proof of more than his regular income.

contrition and as satisfaction.

8. And he could flirt wantonly, as if he were a

1. He absolutely took the prize for ballads.

puppy.

2. Better than a leper or a female beggar.

9. Days appointed for the settlement of lawsuits

3. It was not suitable because of his position.

out of court.

4. I.e., poor people. The oldest order of friars had

1. A man of recognized learning.

been founded by St. Francis to administer to the

2. I.e., lisped in affectation.

26 / G E O F F R E Y C H A U C E R

And in his harping, whan he hadde songe,^o sung

His yen twinkled in his heed aright

As doon the sterres^o in the frosty night.

This worthy limitour was cleped Huberd.
A Marchant was ther with a forked beard,
In motelee,³ and hye on hors he sat,
Upon his heed a Flandrissh⁰ bevere hat,
Flemish
His bootes clasped faire and fetisly.⁰
elegantly
His resons⁰ he spak ful solempnely, opinions
Souning⁰ alway th'encrees⁰ of his winning.
sounding / increase

He wolde the see were kept for any thing⁴
Bitwixen Middelburgh and Orewelle.
Wel coude he in eschaunge sheeldes⁵ selle.
This worthy man ful wel his wit bisette:⁰ employed
Ther wiste^o no wight⁰ that he was in dette, knew / person

So statly⁰ was he of his governaunce,⁶ dignified

With his bargaines,⁰ and with his chevissaunce.⁰ bargainings / borrowing
Forsoothe he was a worthy man withalle;

But, sooth to sayn, I noot^o how men him calle.

don't know

A Clerk⁷ ther was of Oxenforde also

That unto logik hadde longe ygo.⁸

As lene was his hors as is a rake,

And he was nought right fat, I undertake,

But looked holwe,^o and therto sobrelly.

hollow

Ful thredbare was his overeste⁰ courtepy,⁰ outer / cloak

For he hadde geten him yit no benefice,⁹

Ne was so worldly for to have office.⁰

secular employment

For him was levere¹ have at his beddes heed

Twenty bookes, clad in blak or reed,

Of Aristotle and his philosophye,

Than robes riche, or fithel⁰, or gay sautrye.²

fiddle

But al be that he was a philosophre³

Yit hadde he but litel gold in cofre;^o

coffer

But al that he mighte of his freendes hente,^o take

On bookes and on lerning he it spente,

And bisily gan for the soules praye

Of hem that yaf him wherwith to scoleye.⁰

study

Of studye took he most cure⁰ and most heede.

care

Nought oo^o word spak he more than was neede,

one

And that was said in forme⁴ and reverence,

And short and quik,^o and ful of heigh sentence:⁵

lively

Sounding in moral vertu was his speche, resounding

3. Motley, a cloth of mixed color.

of becoming a cleric, but he was not bound to pro-

4. I.e., he wished the sea to be guarded at all costs.

ceed to a position of responsibility in the Church.

The sea route between Middleburgh (in the Neth-

8. Who had long since matriculated in philosophy.

erlands) and Orwell (in Suffolk) was vital to the

9. Ecclesiastical living, such as the income a par-

Merchant's export and import of wool—the basis

ish priest receives.

of England's chief trade at the time.

1. He would rather.

5. Shields, ecus (French coins), were units of

2. Psaltery (a kind of harp).

transfer in international credit, which he ex-

3. The word may also mean "alchemist," someone changed at a profit.

who tries to turn base metals into gold. The Clerk's

6. The management of his affairs.

"philosophy" does not pay either way.

7. The Clerk is a student at Oxford; to become a

4. With decorum.

student, he would have had to signify his intention

5. Elevated thought.

THE GENERAL PROLOGUE / 27

310 And gladly wolde he lerne, and gladly teche.

A Sergeant of the Lawe, war and wis,⁶
That often hadde been at the Parvis⁷
Ther was also, ful riche of excellence.
Discreet he was, and of greet reverence—
315 He seemed swich, his wordes weren so wise.

Justice he was ful often in assise⁰

circuit courts

By patente⁰ and by plein^o commissioun.

royal warrant / full

For his science⁰ and for his heigh renown

knowledge

Of fees and robes hadde he many oon.

320 So greet a purchasour⁰ was nowher noon;

speculator in land

Al was fee simple⁸ to him in effect—

His purchasing mighte nat been infect.⁹

Nowher so bisy a man as he ther nas;^o

was not

And yit he seemed bisier than he was.

325 In termes hadde he caas and doomes¹ alle

That from the time of King William² were falle.

Therto he coude endite and make a thing,³

Ther coude no wight pinchen⁰ at his writing;

cavil

And every statut coude⁰ he plein^o by rote.^o

knew / entire / heart

330 He rood but hoomly⁰ in a medlee cote,⁴ unpretentiously

Girt with a ceint^o of silk, with barres^o smale.

belt / transverse stripes

Of his array telle I no lenger tale.

A Frankelains was in his compaignye:

Whit was his beerd as is the dayesye;^o

daisy

335 Of his complexion he was sanguin.⁶

Wel loved he by the morwe a sop in win.⁷

To liven in delit^o was evere his wone,^o

pleasure / custom

For he was Epicurus⁸ owene sone,

That heeld opinion that plein^o delit

full

340 Was verray felicitee parfit.⁹

An housholdere and that a greet was he:

Saint Julian¹ he was in his contree.

His breed, his ale, was always after oon;²

A bettre envined^o man was nevere noon.

wine-stocked

345 Withouten bake mete was nevere his hous,

Of fissh and flessch, and that so plentevous^o

plenteous

It snewed^o in his hous of mete^o and drinke,

snowed / food

Of alle daintees that men coude thinke.

After^o the sondry sesons of the yeer

according to

350 So chaunged he his mete^o and his soper.^o

dinner / supper

6. Wary and wise; the Sergeant is not only a practice country man, whose lower-class ancestry is not a hindering lawyer but one of the high justices of the impediment to the importance he has attained in nation.

his county.

7. The “Paradise,” the porch of St. Paul’s Cathedral.

6. A reference to the fact that the Franklin’s temple, a meeting place for lawyers and their clients.

perament is dominated by blood as well as to his

8. Owned outright without legal impediments.

red face (see note to line 423).

9. Invalidated on a legal technicality.

7. I.e., in the morning he was very fond of a piece

1. Probably, he had in Year Books (“termes”) all of bread soaked in wine.

the cases (“caas”) and decisions (“doomes”). The

8. The ancient Greek philosopher whose teaching

Year Books were compiled from notes taken at is popularly believed to make pleasure the chief trials.

goal of life.

2. I.e., the Conqueror (reigned 1066—87).

9. I.e., was true perfect happiness.

3. Compose and draw up a deed.

1. The patron saint of hospitality.

4. A coat of mixed color.

2. Always of the same high quality.

5. The “Frankelain” (Franklin) is a prosperous

28 / G E O F F R E Y C H A U C E R

Ful many a fat partrich hadde he in mewe,^o cage

And many a breem,^o and many a luce^o in stewe.^o carp
/pike/fishpond

Wo was his cook but if his sauce were

Poinant^o and sharp, and redy all his gere. pungent

355 His table dormant in his halle alway

Stood redy covered all the longe day.³

At sessions ther was he lord and sire.

Ful ofte time he was Knight of the Shire.⁴

An anlaas^o and a gipser^o al of silk dagger/purse

360 Heeng at his girdel,⁵ whit as morne^o milk. morning

A shirreve^o hadde he been, and countour.⁶ sheriff

Was nowher swich a worthy vavasour.⁷

An Haberdasshere and a Carpenter,

A W e b b e ,^o a D y e r e , a n d a T a p i c e r^o — weaver /
tapestry maker 365 And they were clothed alle in oo liverree⁸

Of a solempne and greet fraternitee.

Ful fresshe and newe hir gere apiked^o was; trimmed

Hir knives were chaped^o nought with bras, mounted

But al with silver; wrought ful clene and weel

370 Hir girdles and hir pouches everydeel.^o

altogether

Wel seemed eech of hem a fair burgeis^o

burgher

To sitten in a yeldehalle^o on a dais.

guildhall

Everich, for the wisdom that he can,^o was capable of

Was shaply⁰ for to been an alderman.
suitable

375 For catel^o hadde they ynough and rente,⁰ property / income

And eek hir wives wolde it wel assente—

And elles certain were they to blame:

It is ful fair to been ycleped⁰ “Madame,”
called

And goon to vigilies all bifore,⁹

380 And have a mantel royalliche ybore.¹

A Cook they hadde with hem for the nones,⁰ occasion

To boile the chiknes with the marybones,⁰ marrowbones

And powdre-marchant tart and galingale.²

Wel coude he knowe^o a draughte of London ale. recognize

385 He coude roste, and seethe,⁰ and broile, and frye, boil

Maken mortreux,⁰ and wel bake a pie. stews

But greet harm was it thoughte⁰ me, seemed to

That on his shine a mormaP hadde he. ulcer

For blankmanger,³ that made he with the beste.

390 A Shipman was ther, woning⁰ fer by weste— dwelling

For ought I woot,^o he was of Dertemouthe.⁴ know

He rood upon a rounchy⁰ as he couthe,⁵ large nag

In a gowne of falding⁰ to the knee. heavy wool

A daggere hanging on a laas^o hadde he strap

3. Tables were usually dismounted when not in nitee,” or guild, a partly religious, partly social use, but the Franklin kept his mounted and set organization.

(“covered”), hence “dormant.”

9. I.e., at the head of the procession. Vigilies:

4. County representative in Parliament. Sessions: feasts held on the eve of saints’ days.

i.e., sessions of the justices of the peace.

1. A covering or cloak with a train, royally carried.

5. Hung at his belt.

2. Like “powdre-marchant,” a flavoring material.

6. Auditor of county finances.

3. A white stew or mousse, from the French blanc

7. Feudal landholder of lowest rank; a provincial (white) + manger (to eat).

gentleman.

4. Dartmouth, a port in the southwest of England.

8. In one livery, i.e., the uniform of their “frater-

5. As best he could.

THE GENERAL PROLOGUE / 29

395 Aboute his nekke, under his arm adown.

The hote somer hadde maad his hewe^o al brown;
color

And certainly he was a good felawe.

Ful many a draughte⁰ of win hadde he ydrawe drink

Fro Burdeuxward, whil that the chapman sleep:6

400 Of nice⁰ conscience took he no keep⁰

fastidious / heed

If that he faught and hadde the hyer hand,
By water he sente hem hoom to every land.⁷
But of his craft, to rekene wel his tides,
His stremes⁰ and his daungers⁰ him bisides,⁸ currents / hazards
405 His herberwe⁰ and his moone, his lodemenage,⁰ anchorage / pilotage
There was noon swich from Hulle to Cartage.⁹
Hardy he was and wis to undertake;
With many a tempest hadde his beard been shake;
He knew alle the havenes⁰ as they were harbors
410 Fro Gotlond to the Cape of Finistere,¹
And every crike^o in Britaine⁰ and in Spaine.
inlet / Brittany
His barge ycleped was the Maudelaine.⁰
Magdalene
With us ther was a Doctour of Physik:⁰
medicine
In al this world ne was ther noon him lik
415 To speken of physik and of surgerye.
For^o he was grounded in astronomye,⁰ because / astrology
He kepte^o his pacient a ful greet deel² tended to
In houres by his magik naturel.³
Wel coude he fortunen the ascendent
420 Of his images⁴ for his pacient.

He knew the cause of every maladye,
Were it of hoot or cold or moiste or drye,
And where engendred and of what humour:5
He was a verray parfit praktisour.6
425 The cause yknowe,0 and of his° harm the roote, known / its

Anoon he yaf the sike man his boote.° remedy

Ful redy hadde he his apothecaries
To senden him drogges0 and his letuaries,0 drugs / medicines

For each of hem made other for to winne:

430 Hir frendshipe was nought newe to biginne.

Wel knew he the olde Esculapius,7

6. I.e., drawn (stolen) wine from Bordeaux (the “humors,” each of which, like the four elements, wine center of France), while the Merchant slept.
was a compound of two of the elementary qualities

7. I.e., he drowned his prisoners.

mentioned in line 422: the melancholy humor,

8. Around him.

seated in the black bile, was cold and dry (like

9. From Hull (in northern England) to Cartagena earth); the sanguine, seated in the blood, hot and (in Spain).

moist (like air); the choleric, seated in the yellow

1. From Gotland (an island in the Baltic) to Finbile, hot and dry (like fire); the phlegmatic, seated isterre (the westernmost point in Spain).

in the phlegm, cold and moist (like water).

2. I.e., closely.

6. True perfect practitioner.

3. Natural—as opposed to black—magic. In

7. The Doctor is familiar with the treatises that houres: i.e., the astrologically important hours

the Middle Ages attributed to the “great names” of

(when conjunctions of the planets might help his medical history, whom Chaucer lists in lines 431 — recovery).

36: the purely legendary Greek demigod Aescula-

4. Assign the propitious time, according to the pius; the Greeks Dioscorides, Rufus, Hippocrates, position of stars, for using talismanic images. Such

Galen, and Serapion; the Persians Hali and images, representing either the patient or points in

Rhazes; the Arabians Avicenna and Averroes; the

the zodiac, were thought to influence the course

early Christians John (?) of Damascus and Con-

of the disease.

stantine Afer; the Scotsman Bernard Gordon; the

5. Diseases were thought to be caused by a dis-

Englishmen John of Gatesden and Gilbert, the for-turbance of one or another of the four bodily mer an early contemporary of Chaucer.

30 / G E O F F R E Y C H A U C E R

And Deiscorides and eek Rufus,

Olde Ipocras, Hali, and Galien,
Serapion, Razis, and Avicen,
Averrois, Damascien, and Constantin,
Bernard, and Gatesden, and Gilbertin.

Of his diete mesurable⁰ was he,
moderate

For it was of no superfluitee,
But of greet norissing⁰ and digestible.
nourishment

His studye was but litel on the Bible.
In sanguin⁰ and in pers^o he clad was al, blood red / blue

Lined with taffata and with sendal;⁰
silk

And yit he was but esy of dispence;⁰
He kepte that he wan in pestilence.⁸ expenditure

For^o gold in physik is a cordial,⁹
Therefore he loved gold in special.
because

A good Wif was ther of biside Bathe,
But she was somdeel deaf, and that was scathe.⁰
a pity

Of cloth-making she hadde swich an haunt,⁰ practice

She passed⁰ hem of Ypres and of Gaunt.¹
In al the pariss wif ne was ther noon
That to the offring² bifore hire sholde goon,

And if ther dide, certain so wroth⁰ was she angry

That she was out of alle charitee.

Hir coverchiefs ful fine were of ground⁰—texture

I dorste⁰ swere they weyeden⁰ ten pound dare / weighed

That on a Sondag weren⁰ upon hir heed.
were

Hir hosen weren of fin scarlet reed,^o
red

Ful straite yteyd,³ and shoes ful moiste⁰ and newe.
supple

Bold was hir face and fair and reed of hewe.

She was a worthy womman al hir live:

Housbondes at chirche dore⁴ she hadde five,

Withouten⁰ other compaigny in youthe—
not counting

But therof needeth nought to speke as nouthe.⁰
now

And thries hadde she been at Jerusalem;

She hadde passed many a straunge⁰ strem;
foreign

At Rome she hadde been, and at Boloigne,

In Galice at Saint Jame, and at Coloigne:⁵

She coude⁰ muchel of wandring by the waye.

knew

Gat-toothed⁶ was she, soothly for to saye.

Upon an amblere⁰ esily she sat, horse
with an easy gait

Ywimpled⁰ wel, and on hir heed an hat veiled

As brood as is a bokeler or a targe,⁷
A foot-mantel⁰ aboute hir hipes large,
riding skirt

And on hir feet a paire of spores⁰ sharpe. spurs

8. He saved the money he made during the plague formed at the church door.
time.

5. Rome, Boulogne (in France), St. James (of

9. A stimulant. Gold was thought to have some Compostella) in Galicia (Spain), Cologne (in Ger-medicinal properties.

many) were all sites of shrines much visited by pil-

1. Ypres and Ghent (“Gaunt”) were Flemish clothgrims.

making centers.

6. Gap-toothed; in medieval physiognomy, such

2. The offering in church, when the congregation teeth indicated an irreverent, luxurious, sexualized brought its gifts forward.

nature.

3. Tightly laced.

7. Like a “bokeler,” a small shield.

4. In medieval times, weddings were often per-

THE GENERAL PROLOGUE / 31

In f e l a w e s h i p e w e l c o u d e s h e l a u g h e a n d c a r p e : °

talk

O f r e m e d i e s o f l o v e s h e k n e w p a r c h a u n c e , °
F o r s h e c o u d e o f t h a t a r t t h e o l d e d a u n c e . 8

A g o o d m a n w a s t h e r o f r e l i g i o u n ,
A n d w a s a p o o r e P e r s o n ° o f a t o w n , parson

B u t r i c h e h e w a s o f h o l y t h o u g h t a n d w e r k .

H e w a s a l s o a l e r n e d m a n , a c l e r k ,

T h a t C r i s t e s g o s p e l t r e w e l y ° w o l d e p r e c h e ;

faithfully

H i s p a r i s s h e n s ° d e v o u t l y w o l d e h e t e c h e .

parishioners

B e n i g n e h e w a s , a n d w o n d e r ° d i l i g e n t , wonderfully

A n d i n a d v e r s i t e e f u l p a c i e n t ,

A n d s w i c h h e w a s p r e v e d ° o f t e ° s i t h e s . °

proved / often / times

F u l l o t h w e r e h i m t o c u r s e n f o r h i s t i t h e s , 9

B u t r a t h e r w o l d e h e y i v e n , o u t o f d o u t e , 1

U n t o h i s p o o r e p a r i s s h e n s a b o u t e

O f h i s o f f r i n g 2 a n d e e k o f h i s s u b s t a n c e : °

property

H e c o u d e i n l i t e l t h i n g h a v e s u f f i s a u n c e . ° sufficiency

W i d w a s h i s p a r i s s h , a n d h o u s e s f e r a s o n d e r ,

B u t h e n e l a f t e 0 n o u g h t f o r r a i n n e t h o n d e r , neglected

I n s i k n e s s e n o r i n m e s c h i e f , 0 t o v i s i t e misfortune

T h e f e r r e s t e 0 i n h i s p a r i s s h , m u c h e a n d l i t e , 3 farthest

U p o n h i s f e e t , a n d i n h i s h a n d a s t a f .

T h i s n o b l e e n s a m p l e 0 t o h i s s h e e p h e y a f

T h a t f i r s t h e w r o u g h t e , 4 a n d a f t e r w a r d h e t a u g h t e .

O u t o f t h e G o s p e l h e t h o ° w o r d e s c a u g h t e , 0 those / took

A n d t h i s f i g u r e 0 h e a d d e d e e k t h e r t o :
metaphor

T h a t i f g o l d r u s t e , w h a t s h a l i r e n d o ?

F o r i f a p r e e s t b e f o u l , o n w h o m w e t r u s t e , N o w o n d e r i s a l e w e d ° m a n t o r u s t e .

uneducated

A n d s h a m e i t i s , i f a p r e e s t t a k e k e e p , 0
heed

A s h i t e n 0 s h e p h e r d e a n d a c l e n e s h e e p . befouled

W e l o u g h t e a p r e e s t e n s a m p l e f o r t o y i v e

B y h i s c l e n n e s s e h o w t h a t h i s s h e e p s h o l d e l i v e .

H e s e t t e n o u g h t h i s b e n e f i c e t o h i r e

A n d l e e t h i s s h e e p 5 e n c o m b r e d i n t h e m i r e

A n d r a n t o L o n d o n , u n t o S a i n t e 0 P o u l e s , 0

St. / Paul's (Cathedral)

To seek en him a chaunterye 6 for soules,
Or with a brether hede to been with holde, 7
But dwel teathoom and keptewel his folde,
So that the wolf ne made it nought miscarye:
He was a shepherde and nought a mercenar
ye.

And though he holy were and vertuous,
He was to sinful men nought despitous, 0 scornful

Ne of his speche daungerous 0 ne digne, 0 disdainful / haughty

But in his teching discreet and benigne,

8. I.e., she knew all the tricks of that trade.

sheep. A priest might rent his parish to another and

9. He would be most reluctant to invoke excomtake a more profitable position.

munication in order to collect his tithes.

6. Chantry, i.e., a foundation that employed

1. Without doubt.

priests for the sole duty of saying Masses for the

2. The offering made by the congregation of his souls of certain persons. St. Paul's had many of church was at the Parson's disposal.

them.

3. I.e., great and small.

7. Or to be employed by a brotherhood; i.e., to

4. I.e., he practiced what he preached.

take a lucrative and fairly easy position as chaplain

5. I.e., he did not hire out his parish or leave his with a parish guild.

32 / GEOFFREY CHAUCER

To drawen folk to hevene by fairnesse

By goodensample — this was his businessse.

But it° were any persone obstinat,

if there

What so he were, of heigh or lowe estat,

Him wolde he sniben 0 sharply for thenones:

8 scold

A bettre prest I trowe° ther now her noon is.

believe

He waited after 9 no pompe and reverence,

Ne made him a spiced conscience, 1

But Cristes lore 0 and his Apostles twelve teaching

He taughte, but first he folwedithimselfe

.

With him ther was a Plowman, was his brother

That hadde ylad° of dong° ful many a fother. 0

carried / dung / load

Atreweswinkere 0 and a good washe,

worker

Living in pees° and parfitcharitee.

peace

God loved he best withal his hoole° herte

whole

At alle times, though him gamedorsmerte, 2

A n d t h a n n e h i s n e i g h e b o r r i g h t a s h i m s e l v e .
H e w o l d e t h r e s s h e , a n d t h e r t o d i k e 0 a n d d e l v e
, 0

make ditches / dig

F o r C r i s t e s s a k e , f o r e v e r y p o o r e w i g h t ,
W i t h o u t e n h i r e , i f i t l a y e i n h i s m i g h t .
H i s t i t h e s p a y e d h e f u l f a i r e a n d w e l , B o t h e o f h i s p r o p r e 0 s w i n k ° a n d h i s c a t e l . °

own / work / property

I n a t a b a r d 0 h e r o o d u p o n a m e r e . 0

workman's smock / mare

T h e r w a s a l s o a R e e v e a n d a M i l l e r e ,
A S o m n o u r , a n d a P a r d o n e r a l s o ,
A M a n c i p l e , a n d m y s e l f — t h e r w e r e n a m o .
3

T h e M i l l e r e w a s a s t o u t c a r l ° f o r t h e n o n e s .

fellow

F u l b i g h e w a s o f b r a w n 0 a n d e e k o f b o n e s — *muscle

T h a t p r e v e d 4 w e l , f o r o v e r a l t h e c a m
A t w r a s t l i n g h e w o l d e h a v e a l w a y t h e r a m . 5
H e w a s s h o r t - s h u l d r e d , b r o o d , 0 a t h i k k e 0 k n a r r e .

broad / stout / fellow

T h e r w a s n o d o r e t h a t h e n o l d e h e v e o f h a r r e , 6
O r b r e k e i t a t a r e n n i n g 0 w i t h h i s h e e d . °

running / head

H i s b e e r d a s a n y s o w e o r f o x w a s r e e d , °

red

A n d t h e r t o b r o o d , a s t h o u g h i t w e r e a s p a d e ;

U p o n t h e c o p ° r i g h t o f h i s n o s e h e h a d e

tip

A w e r t e , ° a n d t h e r o n s t o o d a t u f t o f h e r e s , wart

R e d e a s t h e b r i s t l e s o f a s o w e s e r e s ; ° ears

H i s n o s e t h i r l e s 0 b l a k e w e r e a n d w i d e .

nostrils

A s w e r d a n d a b o k e l e r 0 b a r ° h e b y h i s s i d e .

shield / bore

H i s m o u t h a s g r e e t w a s a s a g r e e t f u r n a i s . 0

furnace

H e w a s a j a n g l e r e 0 a n d a G o l i a r d a i s , 7

chatterer

A n d t h a t w a s m o s t o f s i n n e a n d h a r l o t r i e s . 0 obscenities

W e l c o u d e h e s t e l e n c o r n a n d t o l l e n t h r i e s

8 —

A n d y i t h e h a d d e a t h o m b e o f g o l d , p a r d e e . 9

8. On any occasion.

625; the Pardoner, at line 671.

9. I.e., expected.

4. Proved, i.e., was evident.

1. Nor did he assume an overfastidious con-

5. A ram was frequently offered as the prize in science.

wrestling.

2. Whether he was pleased or grieved.

6. He would not heave off (its) hinge.

3. No more. Reeve: estate manager. Somnour:

7. Goliard, teller of ribald stories.

Summoner, server of summonses to the ecclesi-

8. Take toll thrice—i.e., deduct from the grain far astical court. Pardoner: dispenser of papal pardons.

more than the lawful percentage.

Manciple: Steward. The Somnour appears at line

9. By heaven. Thombe: possibly an ironic refer-

THE GENERAL PROLOGUE / 33

A whit cote and a blewhood were d° he .

wore

A bagge pipe wel coude he blowe and soun e , 0

sound

And therewithal 0 he broughte us out of tow ne .

therewith

A gentil Manciple 1 was ther of a temple ,

570 Of which a chatours 0 might take exem ple *buyers of food

For to been wise in bying of vitale; 0

victuals

For wheither that he paide or took by taile, 2

Algate he waited so in his achat 3

That he was a ybiforn and in good stat. 4

575 Now is nat that of God a ful fair grace

That swich a lewed° mannes with halpace 0

uneducated / surpass

The wisdom of a heep of lerned men?

Of maistres 0 hadde he mo than thrieste n

masters

That were noflawe expert and curious, 0

cunning

580 Of which ether were a doze in e in that ho us Worthy to be enstewardes of rente 0 and l ond *income

Of any lord that is in Engelond,

To make him live by his propre 0 good 0

own / money

In honour dette leas but if he were wood, 5

585 Or live as scarsly as him list desire, 6

And able for to helpen a lashire

In any caas ° that mighte falle ° or happe,
*event / befall

And yit this Manciple sette hir aller cappe! 7

The Reeve was a splendre colerik 8 man;

590 His beard was shave as neigh 0 as ever he e can;

close

His heer was by hiseresful roundyshorn;

His top was dokked 9 lik a preest biforn;

Fullongewere his legges and fullene,

Ylik a staf, ther was no calfyseene. 0

visible

595 Welcoude he keepe ° agerner 0 and a binn
e —

guard / granary

Ther was noon auditour coude on him winne.
e. 1

Wel wiste ° he by the droughte and by the ra in knew

The yeelding of his seed and of his grain.

His lordess sheep, his neet, ° his dayerye, 0
cattle / dairy herd

600 His swin, his hors, his stoor, ° and his pu ltrye stock

Was wholly 0 in this Reeves governinge, wholly

And by his covenantyaf 2 therekeninge,

Sin ° that his lord was twenty-yeer of age.

since

There coude no man bringe him in a rre age
. 3

605 Ther nas baillif, hierde, nor other hine,

That he knew his sleighte and his covine
4 —

They were adrad ° of him as of the deeth. °

afraid / plague

His woning 0 was ful faire upon an heeth; ° dwelling / meadow

ence to the proverb An honest miller hath a golden

8. Slender choleric. “Colerik” (choleric) describes thumb, which apparently means “There are no

a person whose dominant humor is yellow bile

honest millers.”

(choler)—i.e., a hot-tempered person. The Reeve

1. The Manciple is the steward of a community of is the superintendent of a large farming estate.

lawyers in London (a “temple”).

9. Cut short; the clergy wore the head partially

2. By talley, i.e., on credit.

shaved.

3. Always he was on the watch in his purchasing.

1. I.e., find him in default.

4. I.e., he was ahead of the game and in good

2. And according to his contract he gave.

financial condition.

3. Convict him of being in arrears financially.

5. Out of debt unless he were insane.

4. There was no bailiff (i.e., foreman), shepherd,

6. I.e., as economically as he would want.

nor other farm laborer whose craftiness and plots

7. This Manciple made fools of them all.

he didn't know.

34 / G E O F F R E Y C H A U C E R

With greene trees shadwed was his place.

He coude bettre than his lord purchace.0

acquire i

Ful riche he was astored0 prively.0

stocked / secretly

His lord wel coude he plesen subtilly,

To yive and lene^o him of his owene good,0

lend / property

And have a thank, and yit a cote and hood.

In youthe he hadde lerned a good mister:0

occupation

He was a wel good wrighte, a carpenter.

This Reeve sat upon a ful good stot° stallion

That was a pomely⁰ grey and highte⁰ Scot.

dapple / was named

A long surcote of pers upon he hade,^s

And by his side he bar° a rusty blade.

bore

Of Northfolk was this Reeve of which I telle,

Biside a town men clepen Baldeswelle.⁰

Bawdswell

Tukked⁰ he was as is a frere aboute,

with clothing tucked up

And evere he rood the hindreste of oure route.

A Somnour⁷ was ther with us in that place

That hadde a fir-reed cherubinnes⁸ face,

For saucefleem⁰ he was, with yen° narwe,[°]

pimply / eyes / slitlike

And hoot° he was, and lecherous as a sparwe,⁹ hot

With scaled⁰ browes blake and piled¹ beard:

scabby

Of his visage children were aferd.[°]

afraid

Ther nas quiksilver, litarge, ne brimstoon,

Boras, ceruce, ne oile of tartre noon,²

Ne oinement that wolde dense and bite,

That him mighte helpen of his whelkes⁰ white, pimples

Nor of the knobbes⁰ sitting on his cheekes.
lumps

Wel loved he garlek, oinons, and eek leekes,
And for to drinke strong win reed as blood.

Thanne wolde he speke and crye as he were wood;⁰
And whan that he wel dronken hadde the win,
Thanne wolde he speke no word but Latin:

A fewe termes hadde he, two or three,
That he hadde lerned out of som decree;
No wonder is—he herde it al the day,
And eek ye knowe wel how that a jay^o

parrot

Can clepen “Watte”³ as wel as can the Pope—
But whoso coude in other thing him grope,⁰
Thanne hadde he spent all his philosophye;⁴
Ay Questio quid juris”’ wolde he crye.

He was a gentil harlot⁰ and a kinde;

rascal

A bettre felawe sholde men nought finde:

He wolde suffre,0 for a quart of win,

permit

A good felawe to have his concubin

5. I.e., he had on a long blue overcoat.

in art with red faces.

6. Hindmost of our group.

9. The sparrow was traditionally associated with

7. The “Somnour” (Summoner) is an employee of lechery.

the ecclesiastical court, whose defined duty is to

1. Uneven; partly hairless.

bring to court persons whom the archdeacon—the

2. These are all ointments for diseases affecting justice of the court—suspects of offenses against the skin, probably diseases of venereal origin.

canon law. By this time, however, summoners had

3. Call out “Walter” (like modern parrots’ “Polly”).

generally transformed themselves into corrupt

4. I.e., learning.

detectives who spied out offenders and black-

5. “What point of law does this investigation mailed them by threats of summonses.

involve?”: a phrase frequently used in ecclesiastical

8. Fire-red cherub’s. Cherubs were often depicted courts.

THE GENERAL PROLOGUE / 35

A twelfmonth, and excusen him at the fulle;6

Ful prively0 a finch eek coude he pulle.7

secretly

655 And if he foond^o owher^o a good felawe found / anywhere

He wolde techen him to have noon awe

In swich caas of the Ercedekenes curs,⁸

But if⁹ a mannes soule were in his purs,

For in his purs he sholde ypunisshed be.

660 “Purs is the Ercedekenes helle,” saide he.

But wel I woot he lied right in deede:

Of cursing⁰ oughte eech gilty man drede,

excommunication

For curs wol slee⁰ right as assoiling⁰ savith—

slay / absolution

And also war him of a significavit.¹

665 In daunger² hadde he at his owene gise^o disposal

The yonge girles of the diocise,

And knew hir conseil,⁰ and was al hir reed.³

secrets

A gerland hadde he set upon his heed

As greet as it were for an ale-stake;⁴

670 A bokeler hadde he maad him of a cake.

With him ther rood a gentil Pardoner⁵

Of Rouncival, his freend and his compeer,⁰ comrade

That straight was comen fro the Court of Rome.

Ful loude he soong,^o “Com hider, love, to me.”

sang

675 This Somnour bar to him a stif burdoun:6
Was nevere trompe0 of half so greet a soun.

trumpet

This Pardoner hadde heer as yelow as wex,
But smoothe it heeng° as dooth a strike0 of flex;°

hung / hank / flax

By ounces7 heenge his lokkes that he hadde, 680 And therwith he his shuldres overspradde,0 overspread

But thinne it lay, by colpons,0 oon by oon;

strands

But hood for jolitee0 wered0 he noon,

attractiveness / wore

For it was trussed up in his walet:0

pack

Him thoughte he rood al of the newe jet.°

fashion

685 Dischevelee0 save his cappe he rood al bare.

with hair down

Swiche glaring yen hadde he as an hare.

A vernicle8 hadde he sowed upon his cappe,

His walet biforn him in his lappe,

Bretful0 of pardon, comen from Rome al hoot.°

brimful / hot

690 A vois he hadde as smal° as hath a goot;0

fine / goat

No beerd hadde he, ne nevere sholde have;

As smoothe it was as it were late yshave:

I trowe he were a gelding or a mare.⁹

6. Fully. Ecclesiastical courts had jurisdiction

5. A Pardoner dispensed papal pardon for sins to over many offenses that today would come under those who contributed to the charitable institution civil law, including sexual offenses.

that he was licensed to represent; this Pardoner

7. I.e., “to pluck a finch”: to swindle someone; purported to be collecting for the hospital of Roncesvalles (“Rouncival”) in Spain, which had a Lon-

8. Archdeacon’s sentence of excommunication.

don branch.

9. But if: unless.

6. I.e., provided him with a strong bass accompa-

1. And also one should be careful of a significavit niment.

(the writ that transferred the guilty offender from

7. I.e., thin strands.

the ecclesiastical to the civil arm for punishment).

8. Portrait of Christ’s face as it was said to have

2. Under his domination.

been impressed on St. Veronica’s handkerchief,

3. Was their chief source of advice.

i.e., a souvenir reproduction of a famous relic in

4. A tavern was signalized by a pole (“alestake”),

Rome.

rather like a modern flagpole, projecting from its

9. I believe he was a castrated male horse or a front wall; on this hung a garland, or “bush.” female horse.

36 / G E O F F R E Y C H A U C E R

But of his craft, fro Berwik into Ware,¹

Ne was ther swich another pardonere;

For in his male⁰ he hadde a pilwe-beer⁰

bag / pillowcase

Which that he saide was Oure Lady veil;

He saide he hadde a gobet⁰ of the sail

piece

That Sainte Peter hadde whan that he wente

Upon the see, til Jesu Crist him hente.⁰

seized

He hadde a crois⁰ of laton,⁰ ful of stones,

And in a glas he hadde pigges bones,

cross / brassy metal

But with thise relikes² whan that he foond⁰

A poore person dwelling upon lond,³ found

Upon⁰ a day he gat⁰ him more moneye

in / got

Than that the person gat in monthes twaye;⁰

two

And thus with feined⁰ laterye and japes⁰

false / tricks

He made the person and the peple his apes.^o

dupes

But trewely to tellen at the laste,
He was in chirche a noble ecclesiaste;
Wel coude he rede a lesson and a storye,⁰ liturgical narrative
But alderbest⁰ he soong an offertorye,⁴ best of all
For wel he wiste^o whan that song was songe,
knew
He moste⁰ preche and wel affile⁰ his tonge must / sharpen
To winne silver, as he ful wel coude—
Therefore he soong the merierly⁰ and loude.
more merrily
Now have I told you soothly in a clause⁵
Th'estaat, th'array, the nombre, and eek the cause
Why that assembled was this compaignye
In Southwerk at this gentil hostelrye
That highte the Tabard, faste by the Belle;⁶
But now is time to you for to telle
How that we baren^{us}^o that ilke⁰ night bore / ourselves / <
Whan we were in that hostelrye alight;
And after wol I telle of oure viage,⁰ trip
And al the remenant of oure pilgrimage.
But first I praye you of youre curteisye
That ye n'arete it nought my vilainye⁷
Though that I plainly speke in this matere

To telle you hir wordes and hir cheere,0 behavior

Ne though I speke hir wordes proprely;0

accurately

For this ye knowen also wel as I:

Who so shal telle a tale after a man

He moot0 reherce,0 as neigh as evere he can,

must / repeat

Everich a word, if it be in his charge,0 responsibility

AP speke he nevere so rudeliche and large,0

although / broadly

Or elles he moot telle his tale untrewe,

Or feine^o thing, or finde^o wordes newe;

falsify / devise

He may nought spare⁸ although he were his brother:

He moot as wel saye oo word as another.

Crist spake himself ful brode^o in Holy Writ, broadly

1. I.e., from one end of England to another.

5. I.e., in a few words.

2. Relics—i.e., the pigs' bones that the Pardoner

6. Close by the Belle (another tavern in South-represented as saints' bones.

wark, possibly a brothel).

3. A poor parson living upcountry.

7. That you do not charge it to my boorishness.

4. Part of the Mass sung before the offering of

8. I.e., spare anyone.

alms.

THE GENERAL PROLOGUE / 37

And wel ye woot no vilainye⁰ is it;

rudeness

Eek Plato saith, who so can him rede,

The wordes mote be cosin to the deede.

Also I praye you to foryive it me

Al^o have I nat set folk in hir degree

although

Here in this tale as that they sholde stonde:

My wit is short, ye may wel understonde.

Greet cheere made oure Host⁹ us everichoon,

750

And to the soper sette he us anoon.^o

at once

He served us with vitaile⁰ at the beste.

food

Strong was the win, and wel to drinke us leste.^o

it pleased

A semely man oure Hoste was withalle

For to been a marchall in an halle;

755

A large man he was, with yen steepe,⁰ prominent

A fairer burgeis⁰ was ther noon in Chepe²—

townsman

Bold of his speeche, and wis, and wel ytaught,

And of manhood him lakkede right naught.

Eek therto he was right a merye man,

760

And after soper playen he bigan,

And spak of mirthe amonges othere thinges—

Whan that we hadde maad^o oure rekeninges^o—

paid /bills

And saide thus, “Now, lordinges, trewely,

Ye been to me right welcome, hertely.^o heartily

For by my trouthe, if that I shal nat lie,

765

I sawgh nat this yeer so merye a compaignye

At ones in this herberwe^o as is now.

inn

Fain^o wolde I doon you mirthe, wiste I³ how.

gladly

And of a mirthe I am right now bithought,

To doon you ese, and it shal coste nought.

770

“Ye goon to Canterbury—God you speede;

The blisful martyr quite you youre meede.⁴

And wel I woot as ye goon by the waye

Ye shapen you⁵ to talen^o and to playe, tell tales

775

For trewely, confort ne mirthe is noon

To ride by the waye domb as stoon;^o

stone

And therefore wol I maken you disport
As I saide erst,^o and doon you som confort;

before

And if you liketh alle, by oon assent,

780

For to stonden at⁶ my juggement,

And for to werken as I shal you saye,

Tomorwe whan ye riden by the waye—

Now by my fader⁰ soule that is deed, father's

But^o ye be merye I wol yive you myn heed!^o

unless / head

Holde up youre handes withouten more speche.”

785

Oure counseil was nat longe for to seeche;⁰

seek

Us thoughte it was nat worth to make it wis,⁷

And graunted him withouten more avis,^o deliberation

And bade him saye his voirdit as him leste.⁸

790

“Lordinges,” quod he, “now herkneth for the beste;

The Host is the landlord of the Tabard Inn.

5. Ye shapen you: you intend.

Marshal, one who was in charge of feasts.

6. Abide by.

Cheapside, business center of London.

7. We didn't think it worthwhile to make an issue
If I knew.

of it.

Pay you your reward.

8. I.e., give his verdict as he pleased.

38 / G E O F F R E Y C H A U C E R

But taketh it nought, I praye you, in desdain.

This is the point, to speken short and plain,

That eech of you, to shorte⁰ with oure waye shorten

In this viage, shal tellen tales twaye^o— two

795 To Canterburyward, I mene it so,

And hoomward he shal tellen othere two,

Of aventures that whilom⁰ have bifalle; once upon a time

And which of you that bereth him best of alle—

That is to sayn, that telleth in this cas

800 Tales of best sentence⁰ and most solas⁰— meaning / delight

Shal have a soper at oure aller cost,⁹

Here in this place, sitting by this post,

Whan that we come again fro Canterbury.

And for to make you the more mury^o

merry

805 I wol myself goodly⁰ with you ride—

kindly

Right at myn owene cost—and be youre gide.

And who so wol my juggement withsaye⁰

contradict

Shal paye al that we spende by the waye.

And if ye vouche sauf that it be so,
810 Telle me anoon, withouten wordes mo,^o more
And I wol erly shape me¹ therefore.”

This thing was graunted and oure othes swore
With ful glad herte, and prayden² him also
That he wolde vouche sauf for to do so,
815 And that he wolde been oure governour,
And of oure tales juge and reportour,⁰ accountant

And sette a soper at a certain pris,^o price

And we wol ruled been at his devis,⁰ wish, plan

In heigh and lowe; and thus by oon assent
820 We been accorded to his juggement.
And therupon the win was fet^o anoon;
fetched

We dronken and to reste wente eechoon
Withouten any lenger⁰ taryinge.
longer

Amorwe⁰ whan that day bigan to springe
in the morning

825 Up roos oure Host and was oure aller cok,³
And gadred us togidres in a flok,
And forth we riden, a litel more than pas,^o
walking pace

Unto the watering of Saint Thomas;⁴
And ther oure Host bigan his hors arreste,⁰ to halt

830 And saide, “Lordes, herkneth if you leste:°

it please

Ye woot youre forward and it you recorde:’

If evensong and morwesong⁰ accorde,⁰ morningsong / agree

Lat see now who shal telle the firste tale.

As evere mote⁰ I drinken win or ale, may

835 Who so be rebel to my juggement

Shal paye for al that by the way is spent.

Now draweth cut er that we ferre twinne:⁶

He which that hath the shorteste shal biginne.

9. I.e., at the expense of us all. 4. A watering place near Southwark.

1. Will prepare myself. 5. You know your agreement and you recall it.

2. I.e., we prayed. 6. I.e., draw straws before we go farther.

3. I.e., was rooster for us all.

THE WIFE OF BATH ‘ S P R O L O G U E AND T A L
E / 3 9

“Sire Knight,” quod he, “my maister and my lord,

840 Now draweth cut, for that is myn accord.⁰ will

Cometh neer,” quod he, “my lady Prioress,

And ye, sire Clerk, lat be youre shamefastnesse⁰— modesty

Ne studieth nought. Lay hand to, every man!”

Anoon to drawen every wight bigan,

845 And shortly for to tellen as it was,

Were it by aventure,⁰ or sort⁰, or cas,[°] luck I fate I chance

The soothe⁰ is this, the cut fil[°] to the Knight; truth/fell

Of which ful blithe and glad was every wight,

And telle he moste⁰ his tale, as was resoun, must 850 By forward⁰ a n d by composicioun,⁰ agreement I compact
As ye han herd. What needeth wordes mo?
And whan this goode man sawgh that it was so,
As he that wis was and obedient
To keepe his forward by his free assent,
855 He saide, “Sin I shal biginne the game,
What, welcome be the cut, in Goddes name!
Now lat us ride, and herkneth what I saye.”
And with that word we riden forth oure waye,
And he bigan with right a merye cheere⁰ countenance
860 His tale anoon, and saide as ye may heere.

The Wife of Bath’s Prologue and Tale¹

The Prologue

Experience, though noon auctoritee
Were in this world, is right ynough for me
To speke of wo that is in mariage:
For lordinges,⁰ sith I twelf yeer was of age— gentlemen
5 Thanked be God that is eterne on live—
Housbondes at chirche dore² I have had five
(If I so ofte mighte han wedded be),

1. The Wife of Bath’s prologue and tale have no men. In creating a female character who uses a link to a preceding tale and together occupy different positions in the many manuscript versions battle with generations of literate clerks and their

of The Canterbury Tales. Most scholars agree, how-writings about women, Chaucer engages in lively ever, that the Wife's powerful voice begins a but also serious play in an arena of (ongoing) culsequence of tales dealing with marriage. In her tural debate.

prologue, the Wife draws on and often comically
The Wife's tale illustrates some of the claims she questions classical and Christian traditions of anti-makes in her prologue about women's right to be woman and antimarriage discourse in various gen-
"sovereign" (to rule) over men. While the Wife's res. At once embodying and satirizing common prologue draws on contemporary history and her stereotypes of women drawn from Christian and own life story, her tale transports us to a distant, classical "authorities" (whom she sometimes com-

largely fictional world of chivalric romance.
ically misquotes), the Wife speaks from a position
Although the Wife at one point "interrupts" her shaped, she claims, by her "experience," rather fairly tale to continue the authority-citing debate of than by "auctoritee." In so doing, she reminds us the prologue, her argument is mostly carried by a that many fewer women than men had access to plot that combines elements from two traditional literacy—and its cultural prestige—during the stories found in many European languages: that of Middle Ages than do today. This was, in part, a knight and a “loathly” lady and that of a man because fewer girls than boys received formal education, whose life depends on his being able to answer a question, but also because literacy was commonly defined as mastery of Latin, the language of the Church and the priesthood, which was often inaccessible or incomprehensible to women and to lay-

2. The actual wedding ceremony was performed at the church door.

cessible or incomprehensible to women and to lay-

40 / G E O F F R E Y C H A U C E R

And alle were worthy men in hir degree.

But me was told, certain, nat longe agoon is,
That sith that Crist ne wente nevere but ones³
To wedding in the Cane⁴ of Galilee,
That by the same ensample⁰ taughte he me example

That I ne sholde wedded be but ones.

Herke eek, lo, which a sharp word for the nones,⁵ Biside a welle, Jesus, God and man,
Spak in repreve⁰ of the Samaritan:

reproof

“Thou hast yhad five housbondes,” quod he,
“And that ilke^o man that now hath thee
Is nat thyn housbonde.” Thus saide he certain.
What that he mente therby I can nat sayn,
But that I axe^o why the fifthe man

ask

Was noon housbonde to the Samaritan?6

How manye mighte she han in marriage?

Yit herde I nevere tellen in myn age

Upon this nombre diffinicioun.0

definition

Men may divine0 and glosen0 up and down,

guess / interpret

But wel I woot,° expres,0 withouten lie,

know / expressly

God bad us for to wexe7 and multiplie:

That gentil0 text can I wel understonde.

excellent, worthy

Eek wel I woot° he saide that myn housbonde

know

Sholde lete° fader and moder and take to me,8

leave

But of no nombre mencion made he—

Of bigamye or of octogamye:9

Why sholde men thanne speke of it vilainye?

Lo, here the wise king daun° Salomon:

master

I trowe° he hadde wives many oon,1

believe

As wolde God it leveful0 were to me

permissible

To be refreshed half so ofte as he.

Which yifte° of God hadde he for alle his wives!

gift

No man hath swich⁰ that in this world alive is.

such

God woot this noble king, as to my wit,^o

knowledge

The firste night hadde many a merye fit⁰

bout

With eech of hem, so wel was him on live.²

Blessed be God that I have wedded five,

Of whiche I have piked out the beste,³

Bothe of hir nether purs and of hir cheste.⁴

Diverse scoles maken parfit⁰ clerkes,

perfect

And diverse practikes in sondry werkes⁵

3. Once. Ne ... nevere: in Middle English, double become “one” with his wife; see Genesis 2.24 and negatives reinforce each other rather than cancel Matthew 19.5.

each other out.

9. I.e., of two or eight marriages. The Wife is refer-

4. Cana, a town in Galilee where Christ attended ring to successive rather than simultaneous mar- a wedding and turned water into wine (see John riages.

2.1).

1. Solomon had seven hundred wives and three

5. Hark also, lo, what a sharp word to the purpose. hundred concubines (1 Kings 11.3).

6. Christ was actually referring to a sixth man,

2. I.e., so happy was he with life.

with whom the Samaritan woman was living but to

3. Whom I have cleaned out of everything worth-whom she was not married (cf. John 4.16—19).

while.

7. I.e., increase (see Genesis 1.28).

4. Of their lower purse (i.e., testicles) and their

8. Both the Hebrew and Christian Scriptures money box.

explain marriage as a union between husband and

5. Practical experiences in various works.

wife that requires the man to leave his parents to

THE WIFE OF BATH 'S PROLOGUE AND TA

LE / 4 1

Maken the werkman parfit sikerly:0

certainly

Of five housbondes scoleying0 am I.

learning

Welcome the sixte whan that evere he shal!6

For sith I wol nat kepe me chast in al,

Whan my housbonde is fro the world agoon,7

Som Cristen man shal wedde me anoon.0

right away

For thanne th' Apostle0 saith that I am free

St. Paul

To wedde, a Goddes half, where it liketh me.8

He saide that to be wedded is no sinne:

Bet is to be wedded than to brinne.⁹

What rekketh me¹ though folk saye vilainye

Of shrewed Lamech² and his bigamye?

I woot wel Abraham was an holy man,

And Jacob eek, as fer as evere I can,^o

know

And eech of hem hadde wives mo than two,

And many another holy man also.

Where can ye saye in any manere age

That hye God defended⁰ mariage prohibited

By expres word? I praye you, telleth me.

Or where comanded he virginitee?

I woot as wel as ye, it is no drede,^o doubt

Th' Apostle, whan he speketh of maidenhede,⁰ virginity

He saide that precept⁰ therof hadde he noon:

command

Men may conseile a womman to be oon,^o

single

But conseiling nis^o no comandement.

is not

He putte it in oure owene juggement.

For hadde God comanded maidenhede,

Thanne hadde he dampned wedding with the deede;

And certes, if there were no seed ysowe,

Virginitee, thanne wherof sholde it growe?

Paul dorste nat comanden at the leeste
A thing of which his maister yaf^o no heeste.0

gave / command

The dart⁴ is set up for virginitee:

Cacche whoso may, who renneth^o best lat see.

But this word is nought take of every wight,⁵

But ther as⁶ God list^o yive it of his might.

it pleases

I woot wel that th' Apostle was a maide,^o

virgin

But natheless, though that he wroot and saide

He wolde that every wight were swich^o as he,

such

Al nis but conseil to virginitee;

And for to been a wif he yaf^o me leve gave

Of indulgence; so nis it no repreve^o disgrace

To wedde me⁷ if that my make^o die,

mate

Withouten excepcion of bigamye⁸—

6. Number six will be welcome when he comes

3. I.e., then at the same time he condemned along.

(“dampned”) weddings.

7. I.e., when my husband has passed away.

4. I.e., prize in a race.

8. To wed, on God's behalf, as I please.

5. I.e., this word is not applicable to every person.

9. “It is better to marry than to burn” (1 Corinthians 7.9). Many of the Wife’s citations of St. Paul

6. There as: where.

7. For me to marry.

are from this chapter.

8. I.e., as long as there is not a legal objection to

1. What do I care.

the “bigamy,” here understood as occurring when

2. The first man whom the Bible (Genesis 4.19—

a widow remarries (in contrast to the meaning at 24) mentions as having two wives at once (bigamy).

line 60).

Shrewed: cursed.

42 / G E O F F R E Y C H A U C E R

Al° were it good no womman for to touche⁹ although

(He mente as in his bed or in his couche,

For peril is bothe fir° and tow° t’assemble— fire/flax

Ye knowe what this ensample may resemble).¹

This al and som,² he heeld virginitee

More parfit than wedding in freletee.⁰ frailty

(Freletee clepe I but if that³ he and she Wolde leden al hir lif in chastitee.)

I graunte it wel, I have noon envye° hard feelings

Though maidenhede preferre⁰ bigamye. surpass

It liketh hem to be clene in body and gost.° spirit

Of myn estaat ne wol I make no boost;

For wel ye knowe, a lord in his houshold

Ne hath nat every vessel al of gold:
Some been of tree,⁰ and doon hir lord servise. wood
God clepeth⁰ folk to him in sondry wise, calls
And everich hath of God a propre⁴ yifte,
Som this, som that, as him liketh shifte:⁰ ordain
Virginitee is greet perfeccioun,
And continence eek with devocioun,⁵
But Crist, that of perfeccion is welle,^o source
Bad nat every wight he sholde go selle
Al that he hadde and yive it to the poore,
And in swich wise folwe him and his fore:⁶
He spak to hem that wolde live parfitly⁰— perfectly
And lordinges, by youre leve, that am nat I.
I wol bistowe the flour of al myn age
In th'actes and in fruit of mariage.
Telle me also, to what conclusioun⁰ end
Were membres maad of generacioun
And of so parfit wis a wrighte ywrought?⁷
Trusteth right wel, they were nat maad for nought.
Glose^o whoso wol, and saye bothe up and down interpret
That they were maked for purgacioun
Of urine, and oure bothe thinges smale
Was eek^o to knowe a femele from a male, also
And for noon other cause—saye ye no?
Th'experience woot it is nought so.
So that the clerkes be nat with me wrothe,⁰ angry
I saye this, that they been maad for bothe—
That is to sayn, for office⁰ and for ese^o use/pleasure

Of engendrure,0 ther we nat God displese. procreation

Why sholde men elles in hir bookes sette

That man shal yeelde0 to his wif hir dette?° pay / (marital) debt

Now wherwith sholde he make his payement

If he ne used his sely° instrument? innocent

9. “It is good for a man not to touch a woman” (1 unmarried persons and “contenance” for husbands Corinthians 7.1).

and wives.

1. I.e., what this metaphor may refer to.

6. Footsteps. In Matthew 19.21, Christ tells a rich

2. This is all there is to it.

man to give up his wealth if he wishes to gain

3. Frailty I call it unless.

riches in heaven.

4. I.e., his or her own.

7. And made by so perfectly wise a maker.

5. The Wife distinguishes between “virginitie” for

THE WIFE OF BATH ‘SPROLOGUE AND TALE / 43

T h a n n e w e r e t h e y m a a d u p o n a c r e a t u r e

T o p u r g e u r i n e , a n d e e k f o r e n g e n d r u r e .

B u t I s a y e n o u g h t t h a t e v e r y w i g h t i s h o l d e , ° bound

T h a t h a t s w i c h h a r n e i s 0 a s I t o y o u t o l d e , equipment

T o g o o n a n d u s e n h e m i n e n g e n d r u r e :

T h a n n e s h o l d e m e n t a k e o f c h a s t i t e e n o c u r e
. 0

heed

C r i s t w a s a m a i d e ° a n d s h a p e n a s a m a n ,

virgin

A n d m a n y a s a i n t s i t h t h e w o r l d b i g a n ,

Y i t l i v e d t h e y e v e r e i n p a r f i t c h a s t i t e e .

I n i l ° e n v y e n o v i r g i n i t e e :

will not

L a t h e m b e b r e e d 0 o f p u r e d ° w h e t e s e e d , bread / refined

A n d l a t u s w i v e s h o t e ° b a r l y b r e e d —

be called

A n d y i t w i t h b a r l y b r e e d , M a r k t e l l e c a n ,

O u r e L o r d J e s u r e f r e s s h e d m a n y a m a n . 8

I n s w i c h e s t a a t a s G o d h a t h c l e p e d 0 u s

called

I w o l p e r s e v e r e : I n a m n a t p r e c i o u s . 0 careful

I n w i f h o o d w o l I u s e m y n i n s t r u m e n t

A s f r e e l y 0 a s m y M a k e r e h a t h i t s e n t .

generously

I f I b e d a u n g e r o u s , 9 G o d y i v e m e s o r w e :

M y n h o u s b o n d e s h a l i t h a n b o t h e v e a n d m o r w e , °

morning

W h a n t h a t h i m l i s t 1 c o m e f o r t h a n d p a y e h i s d e t t e .

A n h o u s b o n d e w o l I h a v e , I w o l n a t l e t t e , °

leave off, stop

Which shall be both my detour 0 and my thral,
o

debtor / slave

And have his tribulation withal 0

as well

Upon his flesh whil that I am his wif.

I have the power during al my lif

Upon his propre body, and nat he:2

Right thus th' Apostle tolde it unto me,

And bad our hous bondes for to love us weel.

Al this sentence 0 me liketh everydeel. 0 opinion / entirely

[AN INTERLUDE]

Up sterte 0 the Pardonere and that a noon: started 170 "Now dame," quod he, "by God and by Sain nt John, Ye been a noble prechour in this cas.

I was a bouete to wedde a wif: alias,

What 0 shold I bye^o it on my flesh so dere? why / purchase Yit hadde I levere 0 wedde now i ftoyere, "0 rather / this year 175 "Abid," quod she, "my tale is nat b i gone.

Nay, thou shalt drinke of another tonne, 0
tun, barrel Er^o that I go, shal savoure worst than ale.
before And whan that I have told thee forth my tale

Of tribulation in mariage,

180 Of which I am expert in al myn age —

This is to saye, myself hath been the whippe
—

Thanne maistouchese 0 whether thou wol tsippe choose 8. In the descriptions of the miracle of the loaves

not withhold sexual favors, in emulation of God's and fishes, it is actually John, not Mark, who men- generosity (line 156).

tions barley bread (6.9).

1. When he wishes her to.

9. In the vocabulary of romance, dangerous refers

2. I.e., as long as I am alive, he does not even con- to the disdainfulness with which a highborn trol his body.

woman rejects a lover. The Wife means she will

44 / G E O F F R E Y C H A U C E R

Of thilke0 tonne that I shal abroche;0

this same / o-pen

Be war of it, er thou too neigh0 approche,

For I shal telle ensamples mo than ten.

'Whoso that niP be war by othere men,

will not

By him shal othere men corrected be.'

This same wordes writeth Ptolomee:

Rede in his Almageste and take it there."3

"Dame, I wolde praye you if youre wil it were,'

Saide this Pardoner, "as ye bigan,

Telle forth youre tale; spareth for no man,

And teche us yonge men of youre practike."0

mode of operation

"Gladly," quod she, "sith it may you like;0

please

But that I praye to al this compaignye,

If that I speke after my fantasye,⁴
As taketh nat agrief⁰ of that I saye,
For myn entente nis but for to playe.”

[T H E W I F E C O N T I N U E S]

Now sire, thanne wol I telle you forth my tale.

As evere mote I drinke win or ale,
I shal saye sooth: tho^o housbondes that I hadde, those

As three of hem were goode, and two were badde.

The three men were goode, and riche, and olde;

Unnethe⁰ mighte they the statut holde scarcely

In which they were bounden unto me—

Ye woot wel what I mene of this, pardee.⁰
by God

As help me God, I laughe whan I thinke
How pitously anight I made hem swinke⁰
work

And by my fay,^o I tolde of it no stoor:⁵
faith

They hadde me yiven hir land and hir tresor;

Me needed nat do lenger diligence⁶

To winne hir love or doon hem reverence.

They loved me so wel, by God above,

That I ne tolde no daintee of⁷ hir love.

A wis womman wol bisye hire evere in oon⁸

To gete hire love, ye, ther as she hatch noon.

But sith I hadde hem hoolly in myn hand,

And sith that they hadde yiven me al hir land,
What⁰ sholde I take keep⁰ hem for to plese,
why / care

But it were for my profit and myn ese?
I sette hem so awerke,⁰ by my fay,
awork

That many a night they songen⁰ wailaway.
sang

The bacon was nat fet^o for hem, I trowe, brought back

That some men han in Essex at Dunmowe.⁹
I governed hem so wel after⁰ my lawe
according to

3. "He who will not be warned by the example of ther effort.

others shall become an example to others." The 7. Set no value on.

Wife wrongly attributes this proverb to the Alma-

8. I.e., be busy constantly

gest, an astronomical work by the second-century

9. At Dunmow, a side of bacon was awarded to Greek astronomer and mathematician Ptolemy.

the couple who after a year of marriage could claim

4. If I speak according to my fancy.

no quarrels, no regrets, and the desire, if freed, to

5. I set no store by it.

remarry one another.

6. I.e., there was no need for me to make any fur-

THE WIFE OF BATH 'S PROLOGUE AND TALE
E / 45

That eech of hem ful blisful was and fawe° glad
To bringe me gaye thinges fro the faire;
They were ful glade whan I spak hem faire,
For God it woot, I chidde0 hem spitously.0 chided I cruelly
230 Now herkneth how I bar me1 proprely:
Ye wise wives, that conne understonde,
Thus sholde ye speke and bere him wrong on honde2—
For half so boldely can ther no man
Swere and lie as a woman can.
235 I saye nat this by wives that been wise,
But if it be whan they hem misavise,3
A wis wif, if that she can hir good,4
Shal bere him on hande the cow is wood,5
And take witesse of hir owene maide
240 Of hir assent.6 But herkneth how I saide:
“Sire olde cainard, is this thyn array?7
Why is my neighebores wif so gay?
She is honoured overaF ther she gooth: wherever
I sitte at hoom; I have no thrifty0 cloth. decent 245 What doostou at my neighebores hous?
Is she so fair? Artou so amorous?
What roun° ye with oure maide, benedicite?0 whisper / bless
ye
Sire olde lechour, lat thy japes0 be. tricks, intrigues
And if I have a gossib0 or a freend confidant
250 Withouten gilt, ye chiden as a feend,
If that I walke or playe unto his hous.

Thou comest hoom as dronken as a mous,
 And prechest on thy bench, with yvel preef.⁸
 Thou saist to me, it is a greet meschief⁰ misfortune
 255 To wedde a poore womman for costage.⁹
 And if that she be riche, of heigh parage,⁰ descent
 Thanne saistou that it is a tormentrye
 To suffre hir pride and hir malencolye,⁰ bad mood
 And if that she be fair, thou verray knave,
 260 Thou saist that every holour⁰ wol hire have: lecher
 She may no while in chastitee abide
 That is assailed upon eech a side.
 “Thou saist som folk desiren us for richesse,
 Som¹ for oure shap, and som for oure fairnesse,
 265 And som for she can outhere⁰ singe or daunce, either
 And som for gentillesse and daliaunce,⁰ flirtatiousness
 Som for hir handes and hir armes smale^o— slender
 Thus gooth al to the devel by thy tale!²
 Thou saist men may nat keepe³ a castel wal, 270 It may so longe assailed been overal.⁰ everywhere
 And if that she be foul,^o thou saist that she ugly

1. Bar me: behaved. side.

2. I.e., accuse him falsely. 7. I.e., sir old sluggard, is this how you behave?

3. Unless it happens that they make a mistake. 8. I.e., (may you have) bad luck.

4. If she knows what’s good for her. 9. Because of the expense.

5. Shall persuade him the chough has gone crazy. 1. In this and the following lines, meaning “one.”

The chough, a talking bird, was said to tell hus- 2. I.e., according to your story.

bands of their wives' infidelity. 3. I.e., keep safe.

6. And call as a witness her maid, who is on her

1 1 0 / G E O F F R E Y C H A U C E R

Coveiteth0 every man that she may see;

desires

For as a spaniel she wol on him lepe,

Til that she finde som man hire to chepe.°

bargain for

Ne noon so grey goos gooth ther in the lake,

As, saistou, wol be withoute make;0

mate

And saist it is an hard thing for to weelde0

possess

A thing that no man wol, his thanks, heelde.4

Thus saistou, lorel,° whan thou goost to bedde,

wretch

And that no wis man needeth for to wedde,

Ne no man that entendeth0 unto hevene—

With wilde thonder-dint° and firy levene0

thunderbolt / lightning

Mote thy welked nekke be tobroke!5

Thou saist that dropping0 houses and eek smoke

leaking

And chiding wives maken men to flee

Out of hir owene hous: a, benedicite,6

What aileth swich an old man for to chide?

Thou saist we wives wil oure vices hide
Til we be fast,⁷ and thanne we wol hem shewe—
Wel may that be a proverbe of a shrewe!⁸

Thou saist that oxen, asses, hors,^o and houndes,
horses

They been assayed⁰ at diverse stoundes⁰
tried out / times

Bacins, lavours,⁰ er that men hem bye;^o washbowls / buy

Spoons, stooles, and al swich housbondrye,⁰ household goods

And so be^o pottes, clothes, and array⁰—are / clothing

But folk of wives maken noon assay
Til they be wedded—olde dotard shrewe!
And thanne, saistou, we wil oure vices shewe.

Thou saist also that it displeseth me
But if⁹ that thou wolt praise my beautee,
And but thou poure⁰ alway upon my face, gaze

And clepe me ‘Faire Dame’ in every place,
And but thou make a feeste on tilke day
That I was born, and make me fressh and gay,
And but thou do to my norice⁰ honour,
And to my chamberere within my bowr,¹
And to my fadres folk, and his allies⁰—
Thus saistou, olde barel-ful of lies.

relatives by marriage

And yit of our apprentice Janekin,
For his crispe⁰ heer, shining as gold so fin,
And for curly
O he squiereth me bothe up and down,
Yit hastou caught a fals suspeciou;
because
I wil^o him nat though thou were deed⁰ tomorwe.

want/dead

“But tel me this, why hidestou with sorwe⁰

sorrow

The keyes of thy cheste⁰ away fro me?

money box

It is my good⁰ as wel as thyn, pardee.⁰

property / by God

What, weenestou⁰ make an idiot of oure dame?²

do you think to

Now by that lord that called is Saint Jame,
Thou shalt nought bothe, though thou were wood, furious

. No man would willingly hold.

person” (see line 361), but by Chaucer’s time it . May your withered neck be broken!

could also signify a “scolding wife.”

. Oh, blessings upon you. The Wife appropriates

9. But if: unless.

Latin phrase used by priests in the Mass.

1. And to my chambermaid within my bedroom.

. I.e., married.

2. I.e., me, the mistress of the house.

. The word initially meant “rascal” or “malignant

THE WIFE OF BATH ‘SPROLOGUE AND TALE / 47

Be maister of my body and of my good:

That oon thou shalt forgo, maugree thine yen.³

“What helpeth it of me enquire⁰ and spyen?

inquire

I trowe thou woldest loke^o me in thy cheste.

lock

Thou sholdest saye, ‘Wif, go wher thee leste.^o

it may please

Taak youre disport.⁴ I nil leve^o no tales:

believe

I lknowe you for a tre we wif, dame Alis.’

We love no man that taketh keep⁰ or charge⁰

notice / interest

Wher that we goon: we wol been at oure large.⁵

Of alle men yblessed mote he be

The wise astrologen⁰ daun Ptolomee, astronomer

That saith this proverbe in his Almageste:

‘Of alle men his wisdom is the hyeste

That rekketh nat who hath the world in honde.⁶

By this proverbe thou shalt understonde,

Have thou⁷ ynough, what thar^o thee rekke or care need

How merily that othere folkes fare?
For certes, olde dotard, by youre leve,
Ye shal han queinte⁸ right ynough at eve:

He is too greet a nigard that wil werne^o refuse

A man to lighte a candle at his lanterne;
He shal han nevere the lasse^o lighte, pardee.

less

Have thou ynough, thee thar nat plaine thee.⁹

“Thou saist also that if we make us gay
With clothing and with precious array,
That it is peril of oure chastitee,
And yit, with sorwe, thou moste enforce thee,¹
And saye these wordes in th’Apostles⁰ name:

St. Paul’s

‘In habit⁰ maad with chastitee and shame clothing

Ye wommen shal appaile you,’ quod he,
‘And nat in tressed heer and gay perree,²
As perles, ne with gold ne clothes riche.³

After thy text, ne after thy rubriche,⁴

I wol nat werke as muchel as a gnat.

Thou saidest this, that I was lik a cat:

For whoso wolde senge⁰ a cattes skin,

singe

Thanne wolde the cat wel dwellen in his in;^o

lodging

And if the cattes skin be slik^o and gay,

sleek

She wol nat dwelle in house half a day,
But forth she wol, er any day be^o dawed,^o

has / dawned

To shewe her skin and goon a-caterwawed.^o

caterwauling

This is to saye, if I be gay, sire shrewe,
I wol renne^o out, my bore^F for to shewe.

run / clothing

Sir olde fool, what helpeth^o thee t'espyn?

does it help

Though thou praye Argus with his hundred yen⁵

3. Despite your eyes, i.e., despite anything you can

9. I.e., you need not complain.

do about it.

1. Strengthen your position.

4. Enjoy yourself.

2. I.e., not in elaborate hairdo and gay jewelry.

5. I.e., liberty.

3. See St. Paul's prescriptions for modest female

6. That cares not who rules the world.

dress and behavior, in 1 Timothy 2.9.

7. If you have.

4. Rubric, i.e., direction.

8. Elegant, pleasing thing (from the Old French

5. In Roman mythology, Argus was a monster sent adjective coint); also cunt, as Chaucer uses it in by the goddess Juno to watch over one of Jupiter's line 90 of the Miller's tale: "Prively he caught hir (her husband's) mistresses. The god Mercury put by the queynte."

all of Argus's hundred eyes to sleep and killed him.

48 / G E O F F R E Y C H A U C E R

To be my wardecors,⁰ as he can best, bodyguard

In faith, he shal nat keepe me but me lest:⁶

Yit coude I make his beard,⁷ so mote I thee.^o prosper

"Thou saigest eek that ther been thinges three,

The whiche thinges troublen al this erthe,

And that no wight may endure the ferthe.^o fourth

O leve⁰ sire shrewe, Jesu shorte^o thy lif! dear /shorten

Yit prechestou and saist an hateful wif

Yrekened⁰ is for oon of these meschaunces.⁸ is counted

Been ther nat none othere resemblaunces

That ye may lilcne youre parables to,⁹

But if a sely¹ wif be oon of tho?

"Thou liknest eek wommanes love to helle,

To bareine⁰ land ther water may nat dwelle; barren

Thou liknest it also to wilde fir—

The more it brenneth,⁰ the more it hath desir burns

To consumen every thing that brent⁰ wol be; burned

Thou saist right⁰ as wormes shende^o a tree, just/destroy

Right so a wif destroyeth hir housbonde—

This knowen they that been to wives bonde."^o bound

Lordinges, right thus, as ye hand understonde,

Bar I stifly mine olde housbondes on honde²

That thus they saiden in hir dronkenesse—

And al was fals, but that I took witesse
 On Janekin and on my nece also.
 0 Lord, the paine I dide hem and the wo,
 Ful giltelees, by Goddes sweete pine!³
 For as an hors I coude bite and whine;⁰ -whinny
 1 coude plaine and I was in the gilt,⁴
 Or elles often time I hadde been spilt.⁰ ruined
 Whoso that first to mille comth first grint.^o grinds
 I plained first: so was oure werre stint.⁵
 They were ful glade to excusen hem ful blive^o quickly
 Of thing of which they nevere agilte hir live.⁶
 Of wenchis wolde I beren hem on honde,⁷ Whan that for sik⁸ they mighte unnethe⁰ stonde, scarcely Yit tikled I his herte for that he Wende^o I hadde had of him so greet cheertee.⁰ thought /affection
 I swoor that al my walking out by nighte
 Was for to espye wenchis that he dighte.⁰ had intercourse -
with
 Under that colour⁹ hadde I many a mirthe.
 For al swich wit is yiven us in oure birthe:
 Deceite, weeping, spinning God hath yive
 To wommen kindely⁰ whil they may live. naturally
 And thus of oo thing I avaunte me: 1
 6. Guard me unless I please.
 because of the happiness that resulted from it.
 7. I.e., yet could I deceive him.
 4. I could complain if I was in the wrong.
 8. For the other three misfortunes, see Proverbs

5. So was our war ended.

30.21-23.

6. Of which they were never guilty in their lives.

9. Are there no other (appropriate) similitudes to

7. Falsely accuse them.

which you might draw analogies.

8. I.e., sickness.

1. But if a seely: unless an innocent.

9. I.e., pretense.

2. I rigorously accused my husbands.

1. Avaunt me: boast.

3. Christ's suffering ("pine") is called sweet

THE WIFE OF BATH 'S PROLOGUE AND TALE / 49

At ende I hadde the bet^o in eech degree,

better

By sleighte or force, or by som manere thing,

As by continuel murmur^o or grucching;^o

complaint /grumbling

Namely^o abedde hadden they meschaunce:

especially

Ther wolde I chide and do hem no plesaunce;²

I wolde no lenger in the bed abide

If that I felte his arm over my side,

Til he hadde maad his raunson^o unto me;

ransom

Thanne wolde I suffre him do his nicetee.^o

foolishness (sex)

And therefore every man this tale I telle:
Winne whoso may, for al is for to selle;
With empty hand men may no hawkes lure.

For winning⁰ wolde I al his lust endure, profit

And make me a feined^o appetit—pretended

And yit in bacon³ hadde I nevere delit.
That made me that evere I wolde hem chide;
For though the Pope hadde seten^o hem biside, sat

I wolde nought spare hem at hir owene boord.^o
table

For by my trouthe, I quitte⁰ hem word for word.
repaid

As help me verray God omnipotent,
Though I right now sholde make my testament,
I ne owe hem nat a word that it nis quit.⁴

I broughte it so aboute by my wit
That they moste yive it up as for the beste,
Or elles hadde we nevere been in reste;
For though he looked as a wood⁰ leoun,^o

furious / lion

Yit sholde he faile of his conclusioun.⁰
object

Thanne wolde I saye, “Goodelief, taak keep,⁵
How mekely looketh Wilekin,⁰oure sheep!

Willie

Com neer my spouse, lat, me ba^o thy cheeke—

kiss

Ye sholden be al pacient and meeke, •

And han a sweete-spiced^o conscience,

mild

Sith ye so preche of Jobes pacience;

Suffreth alway, sin ye so wel can preche;

And but ye do, certain, we shal you teche

That it is fair to han a wif in pees.^o

peace

Oon of us two moste bowen, doutelees,

And sith a man is more resonable

Than womman is, ye mosten been suffrable.^o patient

What aileth you to grucche^o thus and grone?

grumble

Is it for ye wolde have my queinte^o allone?

sexual organ

Why, taak it al—lo, have it everydeel.^o

all of it

Peter, I shrewe you but ye⁶ love it weel.

For if I wolde selle my bele chose,⁷

I coude walke as fressh as is a rose;

But I wol keepe it for youre owene tooth.^o taste

Ye be to blame. By God, I saye you sooth!“^o

the truth

Swiche manere^o wordes hadde we on honde.

kind of

2. Give them no pleasure.

5. Good friend, take notice.

3. I.e., old meat.

6. By St. Peter, I curse you if you don't.

4. I don't owe them (my husbands) one word that

7. Beautiful thing (French); a euphemism for

I haven't (re)paid; or, I gave as good as I got!

female genitals.

50 / G E O F F R E Y C H A U C E R

Now wol I speke of my ferthe⁰ housbonde. fourth

My ferthe housbonde was a revelour⁰ reveler

This is to sayn, he hadde a paramour⁰ mistress

And I was yong and ful of ragerye,⁰ passion

Stibourne⁰ and strong and joly as a pie:^o

untamable / magpie

How coude I daunce to an harpe smale,^o gracefully

And singe, ywis,^o as any nightingale,

indeed

Whan I hadde dronke a draughte of sweete win.

Metellius,⁸ the foule cherl, the swin,

That with a staf birafte⁰ his wif hir lif deprived

For^o she drank win, though I hadde been his wif,

because

Ne sholde nat han daunted⁰ me fro drinke, frightened

And after win on Venus moste° I thinke,

must

For also siker° as cold engendreth hail,

sure

A likerous0 mouth moste han a likerous0 tail:

greedy / lecherous

In womman vinolent0 is no defence—

who drinks

This knowen leohours by experience.

But Lord Crist, whan that it remembreth me9

Upon my youthe and on my jolitee,

It tikleth me aboute myn herte roote—

Unto this day it dooth myn herte boote°

That I have had my world as in my time.

But age, alias, that al wol envenime,0 poison

Hath me biraft my beautee and my pith1—

Lat go, farewell, the devel go therwith!

The flour is goon, ther is namore to telle:

The bren° as I best can now moste I selle;

bran

But yit to be right merye wol I fonde.°

strive

Now wol I tellen of my ferthe housbonde.

I saye I hadde in herte greet despit

That he of any other hadde delit,

But he was quit,0 by God and by Saint Joce:

paid back

I made him of the same wode a croce²—
Nat of my body in no foul manere—
But, certainly, I made folk swich cheere³
That in his owene grece I made him frye,⁴
For angre and for verray jalousye.
By God, in erthe I was his purgatorye,
For which I hope his soule be in glorye.⁵
For God it woot, he sat ful ofte and soong⁰ sang
Whan that his sho ful bitterly him wroong.⁰ pinched
Ther was no wight save God and he that wiste^o knew
In many wise how sore I him twiste.
He deide whan I cam fro Jerusalem,
And lith ygrave under the roode-beem,⁶
Al^o is his tombe nought SO curious although/ carefully wrought

8. Egnatius Metellius, a Roman whose story is told

3. I.e., pretended to be in love with others.

by the writer Valerius Maximus (ca. 20 B.C.E.—ca.

4. I.e., I made him stew in his own juice.

5 0 C . E .) .

5. I.e., I provided so much suffering on Earth for

9. When I look back.

my husband that his enjoyment of celestial bliss

1. I.e., age has taken away from me (“biraft”) my was assured.

beauty and my vigor (“pith”).

6. I.e., and lies buried under the rood beam (the

2. I made him a cross of the same wood. This provcrucifix beam running between nave and chancel).

erb anticipates the one quoted in line 493.

THE WIFE OF BATH 'S PROLOGUE AND TA
LE / 51

As was the sepulcre of him Darius,

Which that Apelles wroughte subtilly:7

It nis but wast to burye him preciously.0

expensively

Lat him fare wel, God yive his soule reste;

He is now in his grave and in his cheste.°

coffin

Now of my fifthe housbonde wol I telle—

God lete his soule nevere come in helle—

And yit he was to me the moste0 shrewe:0

worst / rascal

That feele I on my ribbes al° by° rewe,°

in! a! row

And evere shal unto myn ending day.

But in oure bed he was so fressh and gay,

And therwithal so wel coulde he me glose°

flatter, coax

Whan that he wolde han my bele chose,

That though he hadde me bet° on every boon,0 beaten / bone

He coude winne again my love anon.0

immediately

I trowe I loved him best for that he

Was of his love daungerous to me.⁸

We wommen han, if that I shal nat lie,

In this matere a quainte⁰ fantasye:⁰

strange / fancy

Waite what⁹ thing we may nat lightly⁰ have,

iily

Therafter wol we crye al day and crave;

Forbede us thing, and that desiren we;

Preesse on us faste, and thanne wol we flee.

With daunger oute we al oure chaffare:¹

Greet prees^o at market maketh dere^o ware,

crowd / expensive

And too greet chepe is holden at litel pris.²

This knoweth every womman that is wis.

My fifthe housbonde—God his soule blesse!—

Which that I took for love and no richesse,

He somtime was a clerk at Oxenforde,

And hadde laft^o scole and wente at hoom to boorde

left

With my gossib,⁰ dwelling in oure town

confidante

God have hir soule!—hir name was Alisoun;

She knew myn herte and eek my privetee⁰

Bet than oure parissch preest, as mote I thee.³

To hire biwrayed⁰ I my conseiP al, disclosed / secrets

For hadde myn housbonde pissed on a wal,

Or doon a thing that sholde han cost his lif,

To hire,0 and to another worthy wif,

her

And to my nece which I loved weel,

I wolde han told his conseil everydeel;0

entirely

And so I dide ful often, God it woot,°

knew

That made his face often reed° and hoot0

red / hot

For verray shame, and blamed himself for he

Hadde told to me so greet a privetee.

And so bifel that ones0 in a Lente—

So often times I to my gossib wente,

For evere yit I loved to be gay,

7. According to medieval legend, the artist Apelles chandise.

decorated the tomb of Darius, king of the Persians.

2. Too good a bargain is held at little value.

8. I.e., he played hard to get.

3. The Wife's friend knew more of her secrets than

9. Waite what: whatever.

did her official confessor. Bet: better. As mote I

1. (Meeting) with reserve, we spread out our mer-thee: as may I prosper (oath).

52 / G E O F F R E Y C H A U C E R

And for to walke in March, Averil, and May,

From hous to hous, to heere sondry tales—

That Janekin clerk and my gossib dame Alis

And I myself into the feeldes wente.
Myn housbonde was at London al that Lente:
I hadde the better leiser⁰ for to playe, leisure
And for to see, and eek for to be seye^o seen
Of lusty folk—what wiste I wher my grace⁴
Was shapen⁰ for to be, or in what place?
destined
Therefore I made my visitaciouns
To vigilies⁵ and to processiouns,
To preching eek, and to thise pilgrimages,
To playes of miracles⁶ and to mariages,
And wered upon⁷ my gaye scarlet gites⁰—gowns
Thise wormes ne thise motthes ne thise mites,
Upon my peril, frete hem reveradeel:⁸
And woostou why? For they were used weel.
Now wol I tellen forth what happed me.
I saye that in the feeldes walked we,
Til trewely we hadde swich daliaunce,⁰ flirtation
This clerk and I, that of my purveyaunce⁰ foresight
I spak to him and saide him how that he,
If I were widwe, sholde wedde me.
For certainly, I saye for no bobaunce,⁰ hoast

Yit was I nevere withouten purveyaunce
Of mariage n' of othere thinges eek.
I holde a mouses herte nought worth a leek
That hath but oon hole for to sterte⁰ to,
And if that faile thanne is al ydo.⁹
I bar him on hand¹ he hadde enchanted me
(My dame^o taughte me that subtiltee);
mother
And eek I saide I mette⁰ of him al night; dreamed
He wolde han slain me as I lay upright,⁰ on my hack
And al my bed was ful of verray blood—
“But yit I hope that ye shul do me good;
For blood bitokeneth gold² as me was taught.”
And al was fals, I dremed of it right naught,³
But as I folwed ay my dames⁰ lore⁰
mother's / teaching
As wel of that as othere thinges more.
But now sire—lat me see, what shal I sayn?
Aha, by God, I have my tale again.
Whan that my ferthe housbonde was on beere,^c funeral bier
I weep,⁰ algate,⁰ and made sory cheere, wept/anyhow
As wives moten,⁰ for it is usage,⁰ must / custom
And with my coverchief covered my visage;⁰

face

4. I.e., how would I know where my favor was desired all (freten: to consume); so she swears, ironically, fated to be bestowed? Grace: luck.

on her peril, i.e., at risk of being damned.

5. Evening services before religious holidays.

9. I.e., the game is up.

6. Plays dealing with the lives of saints or martyrs

1. I pretended that.

that were performed in various English towns.

2. Because both are red. Chaucer, like Shake-

7. Wered upon: wore.

spere, frequently relates the two through their

8. I.e., when attending various religious events, common color.

the Wife wore worldly (gay, scarlet) clothes that

3. I never dreamed of it at all.

neither worms, nor moths, nor mites devoured at

THE WIFE OF BATH 'S PROLOGUE AND TALE / 53

But for I was purveyed of a make.

/ mate

I wepte but smale, and that I undertake.

guarantee

To chirche was myn housbonde born amorwe;

With neighebores that for him maden sorwe,

And Janekin oure clerk was oon of tho.

As help me God, whan that I saw him go

After the beere, me thoughte he hadde a paire
Of legges and of feet so clene⁰ and faire, neat

That al myn herte I yaf unto his hold.⁰

possession

He was, I trowe,⁰ twenty winter old,

believe

And I was fourty, if I shal saye sooth—

But yit I hadde alway a coltes tooth:⁵

Gat-toothed was I,⁶ and that bicam me weel:

I hadde the prente of Sainte Venus seel.⁷

As help me God, I was a lusty oon,

And fair and riche and yong and wel-bigoon,^o

well-situated

And trewely, as mine housbondes tolde me,

I hadde the beste quoniam⁸ mighte be.

For certes I am al Venerien

In feeling, and myn herte is Marcien:⁹

Venus me yaf^o my lust, my likerousnesse,⁰

gave / amorousness

And Mars yaf me my sturdy hardinesse,

Myn ascendent was Taur¹ and Mars therinne—

Alias, alias, that evere love was sinne!²

I folwed ay^o my inclinacioun

By vertu of my constellacioun;³

That made me I coude nought withdrawe

My chambre of Venus from a good felawe.

Yit have I Martes⁰ merk upon my face,

Mars's

And also in another privee place.⁴

For God so wis^o be my savacioun,⁰ surely / salvation

I loved nevere by no discrecioun,⁰ moderation

But evere folwede myn appetit,

Al were he short or long or blak or whit;

I took no keep,⁰ so that he liked⁰ me,

How poore he was, ne eek of what degree.

heed / pleased

What sholde I saye but at the monthes ende

This joly clerk Janekin that was so hende⁰

courteous, nice

Hath wedded me with greet solempnitee,⁰ splendor

And to him yaf I al the land and fee⁰

property

That evere was me given therbifore—

But afterward repented me ful sore:

He nolde suffre no thing of my list.⁵

By God, he smoot^o me ones on the list⁰

struck / ear

4. Carried (on his bier) in the morning.

sign in which Venus is dominant.

5. I.e., youthful appetites.

2. I.e., alas that theologians and others view pas-

6. Gap-toothed women were thought to be lustful.

sionate love as sinful.

7. I.e., I was lascivious because I had the birth-

3. I.e., I always followed my desires because of my mark (print) of Venus's own mark (seal).

“nature,” as determined (she claims) by astrology.

8. Because (Latin); another of the Wife's many

4. I.e., I have a reddish birthmark (thought to be terms for female genitals.

a sign of Mars) on my face and also on my “private”

9. Influenced by Mars, Roman god of war; i.e., my parts.

heart is courageous. Venerien: influenced by

5. He would not allow me anything of my own

Venus, Roman goddess of love and beauty.

way.

1. My birth sign was the constellation Taurus, a

54 / G E O F F R E Y C H A U C E R

For that I rente0 out of his book a leef,

tore

That of the strook0 myn ere weex° al deef.

blow / grew

Stibourne01 was as is a leonesse,

stubborn

And of my tonge a verray jangleresse,0

chatterbox

And walke I wolde, as I hadde doon biforn,

From hous to hous, although he hadde it6 sworn;

For which he often times wolde preche,

And me of olde Romain geestes⁰ teche, stories
How he Simplicius Gallus lafte^o his wif,
left
And hire forsook for terme of al his lif,
Nought but for open-heveded he hire sey⁷
Looking out at his dore upon a day.
Another Romain tolde he me by name
That, for his wif was at a someres game⁸
Withouten his witing,^o he forsook hire eke;
And thanne wolde he upon his Bible seeke
That ilke proverbe of Ecclesiaste⁹
Where he comandeth and forbedeth faste^o strictly
Man shal nat suffre his wif go roule^o aboute;
Thanne wolde he saye right thus withouten doute:
“Whoso that buildeth his hous al of salwes,⁰ willow sticks
And priketh⁰ his blinde hors over the falwes,⁰ spurs / plowed land
And suffreth⁰ his wif to go seeken halwes,⁰ allows / shrines
Is worthy to be hanged on the galwes,⁰ gallows
But al for nought—I sette nought an hawe¹
Of his proverbes n’ of his olde sawe;
N’ I wolde nat of him corrected be:
I hate him that my vices telleth me,

And so doon mo, God woot, of us than I.²

This made him with me wood al outrelly:

entirely

I nolde nought forbere⁰ him in no cas.

submit to

Now wol I saye you sooth, by Saint Thomas,

Why that I rente⁰ out of his book a leef,

tore

For which he smoot me so that I was deaf.

He hadde a book that gladly night and day

For his disport⁰ he wolde rede alway.

entertainment

He cleped it Valerie and Theofraste,³

At which book he lough⁰ alway ful faste;

laughed

And eek ther was somtime a clerk at Rome,

A cardinal,⁴ that highte Saint Jerome,

That made a book again Jovinian;⁵

In which book eek ther was Tertulan,

Crysippus, Trotula, and Helouis,

That was abbesse nat fer fro Paris;⁶

6. I.e., he had forbidden this.

and I'm not the only one, heaven knows.

7. Just because he saw her bareheaded. This story

3. I.e., Walter Map's Letter of Valerius Concerning about Simplicius Gallus comes from the Roman

Not Marrying and Theophrastus's Book Concern-

writer Valerius Maximus, as does the story Jankyn

ing Marriage. Medieval manuscripts often con-told her about “another Roman” (lines 653 ff.).

tained a number of different works, sometimes, as

8. Summer’s game; i.e., sports, bonfires, and here, dealing with the same subject.

merrymaking, similar to events held in England on

4. Until the late Middle Ages, a term applied to Midsummer’s Eve.

prominent priests in important churches.

9. Ecclesiasticus (25.25).

5. St. Jerome’s Against Jovinian denigrates

1. I did not rate at the value of a hawthorn berry.

women. Again: against.

2. I hate anyone who tells me my shortcomings—

6. Tertulan: Tertullian, author of treatises on sex-

THE WIFE OF BATH ‘SPROLOGUE AND TALE / 55

And eek the Parables of Salomon

Ovides Art,⁷ and bookes many oon—

And alle thise were bounden in oo volume.

And every night and day was his custume,

Whan he hadde leiser and vacacioun⁰

free time

From other worldly occupacioun,

To reden in this book of wikked wives.

He knew of hem mo legendes and lives

Than been of goode wives in the Bible.

For trusteth wel, it is an impossible⁰ impossibility

That any clerk wol speke good of wives,
But if it be of holy saintes lives,
N'of noon other womman nevere the mo—
Who painted the leon, tel me who?8
By God, if wommen hadden written stories,
As clerkes han within hir oratories,0 chapels

They wolde han writen of men more wikkednesse
Than al the merk° of Adam may redresse.

mark, sex

The children of Mercurye and Venus9
Been in hir werking0 ful contrarious:0

operation / opposed

Mercurye loveth wisdom and science,
And Venus loveth riot° and dispence;0

revelry / spending

And for hir diverse disposicioun
Each falleth in otheres exaltacioun,1
And thus, God woot, Mercurye is desolat
In Pisces wher Venus is exaltat,2
And Venus falleth ther Mercurye is raised:
Therefore no womman of no clerk is praised.
The clerk, whan he is old and may nought do
Of Venus werkes worth his olde sho,° shoe

Thanne sit° he down and writ0 in his dotage

sits / writes

That wommen can nat keepe hir mariage.
But now to purpose why I tolde thee
That I was beten for a book, pardee:
Upon a night Janekin, that was our⁰ sire,^o
my / husband
Redde on his book as he sat by the fire
Of Eva first, that for hir wikkednesse
Was al mankinde brought to wrecchednesse,
For which that Jesu Crist himself was slain
That boughte⁰ us with his herte blood again—redeemed
Lo, heer expres of wommen may ye finde
That womman was the los^o of al mankinde.

ruin

Tho^o redde he me how Sampson loste his heres:
then

ual modesty. Crysippus: mentioned by Jerome as a 8. In one of Aesop's fables, the lion, shown a pic-writer who "ridiculed" women. Trotula: a female ture of a man killing a lion, asked who painted the doctor believed to have written a treatise on picture. The suggestion is that had the artist been women's diseases. Helouis: Heloise, who wrote a lion, the roles would have been reversed.
well-known letters to her lover, the great scholar
9. I.e., clerks and women, astrologically ruled by Abelard. The Wife draws on some of the anti-Mercury and Venus, respectively.

female Latin texts in Jankyn's book, while resembling Trotula and Heloise in being capable of each one descends (in the belt of the zodiac) as the engaging in learned discourse with clerks.

other rises; hence one loses its power as the other

7. Art of Love, by the Roman poet Ovid (43 B.C.E.— becomes dominant.

? 17 C . E .) . Parables of Salomon: the biblical book of 2. I.e., Mercury is deprived of power in Pisces (the Proverbs.

sign of the fish), where Venus is most powerful.

56 / G E O F F R E Y C H A U C E R

Sleeping his lemman^o kitte^o it with hir sheres, lover / cut

Thurgh which treson loste he both his yen.

Tho redde he me, if that I shal nat lien,

Of Ercules and of his Dianire,

That caused him to sette himself afire.³

No thing forgat he the sorwe and wo

That Socrates hadde with his wives two—

How Xantippa caste pisse upon his heed:⁴

This sely^o man sat stille as he were deed;

poor; hapless

He wiped his heed, namore dorste^o he sayn dared

But “Er that thonder stinte,^o comth a rain.”

stops

Of Pasipha⁵ that was the queene of Crete—
For shrewednesse⁰ him thoughte the tale sweetemalice

Fy, speek namore, it is a grisly thing
Of hir horrible lust and hir liking.⁰
Of Clytermistra⁶ for hir lecherye
That falsly made hir housbonde for to die,
He redde it with ful good devocioun.
He tolde me eek for what occasioun
Amphiorax⁷ at Thebes loste his lif:
Myn housbonde hadde a legende of his wif
Eriphylem, that for an ouche^o of gold trinket

Hath prively unto the Greekes told
Wher that hir housbonde hidde him in a place,
For which he hadde at Thebes sory grace.
Of Livia tolde he me and of Lucie:⁸
They bothe made hir housbondes for to die,
That oon for love, that other was for hate;
Livia hir housbonde on an even⁰ late evening

Empoisoned hath for that she was his fo;
Lucia likerous⁰ loved hir housbonde so lecherous
That for⁹ he sholde alway upon hire thinke,
She yaf him swich a manere love-drinke
That he was deed er it were by the morwe.¹
And thus algates⁰ housbondes han sorwe.

in every way

Thanne tolde he me how oon Latumius
Complained unto his felawe Arrius
That in his garden growed swich a tree,
On which he saide how that his wives three Hanged hemself for herte despitous.0

spiteful

“O leve^o brother,” quod this Arrius,

dear

“Yif me a plante of thilke blessed tree,
And in my gardin planted shal it be.”

Of latter date of wives hath he red

3. In Greek mythology, Dejanira unwittingly gave with her lover, Aegisthus, slew her husband, Aga-Hercules a poisoned shirt, which hurt him so much memnon.

that he committed suicide by fire.

7. Amphiaraus, betrayed by his wife, Eriphyle, and

4. From St. Jerome, the Wife borrows a story forced to go to the war against Thebes.

about the ancient Greek philosopher Socrates

8. I.e., Lucilla, who was said to have poisoned her having two wives; many other sources relate the husband, the poet Lucretius, with a potion story of his patiently enduring the torments of his designed to keep him faithful. Livia murdered her shrewish wife, Xantippa.

husband on behalf of her lover, Sejanus.

5. Pasiphae, Greek mythological figure who had

9. In order that.

intercourse with a bull.

1. He was dead before it was near morning.

6. Clytemnestra, Greek mythological figure who,

THE WIFE OF BATH 'S PROLOGUE AND TALE / 57

That some han slain hir housbondes in hir bed

And lete hir lechour dighte⁰ hire al the night,

have intercourse with

Whan that the cors^o lay in the floor upright;⁰

corpse / on his hack

And some han driven nailes in hir brain

Whil that they sleepe, and thus they han hem slain;

Some han hem yiven poison in hir drinke.

He spak more hram than herte may bithinke,⁰

imagine

And therwithal he knew of mo proverbes

Than in this world ther growen gras or herbes:

“Bet^o is,” quod he, “thyn habitacioun

better

Be with a leon or a foul dragoun

Than with a womman using⁰ for to chide.”

accustomed

“Bet is,” quod he, “hye in the roof abide

Than with an angry wif down in the hous:

They been so wikked⁰ and contrarious,

perverse

They ha ten that hir housbondes loveth ay.”

He saide, “A womman cast⁰ hir shame away

When she cast of hir smoke,“² and ferthermo,

“A fair womman, but^o she be chast also,

unless

Is like a gold ring in a sowes nose.“³

Who wolde weene,^o or who wolde suppose think

The wo that in myn herte was and pine?⁰

suffering

And whan I sawgh he wolde nevere fine⁰

end

To reden on this cursed book al night,

Al sodeinly three leves have I plight⁰

snatched

Out of his book right as he redde, and eke

I with my fist so took⁴ him on the cheeke

That in oure fir he fi^P bakward adown.

fell

And up he sterte as dooth a wood⁰ leoun, raging

And with his fist he smoot⁰ me on the heed⁰

hit / head

That in the floor I lay as I were deed.⁰

dead

And whan he sawgh how stille that I lay,

He was agast, and wolde have fled his way,

Til atte laste out of my swough⁰ I braide:⁰

swoon / started

“O hastou slain me, false thief?” I saide,
“And for my land thus hastou mordred⁰ me?

murdered

Er I be deed yit wol I kisse thee.”

And neer he cam and kneeled faire adown,

And saide, “Dere suster Alisoun,

As help me God, I shal thee nevere smite.

That I have doon, it is thyself to wite.^o

blame

Foryif it me, and that I thee biseeke,“⁰

beseech

And yit eftsoones⁰ I hitte him on the cheeke,

another time

And saide, “Thief, thus muchel am I wreke.⁰

Now wol I die: I may no lenger speke.”

But at the laste with muchel care and wo

We fille accorded by us selven two.⁵

2. Casts off her undergarment.

a fair woman without discretion”).

3. I.e., a fair woman who is not chaste is like a

4. I.e., hit.

gold ring in a sow’s nose. The Wife here makes a

5. I.e., but in the end, after great difficulty and biblical proverb even more derogatory toward complaint, we fell into accord, i.e., made it up women than it is in the original (cf. Proverbs between the two of us.

11.22: “As a jewel of gold in a swine’s snout, so is

58 / G E O F F R E Y C H A U C E R

He yaf me al the brideP in myn hand, bridle

To han the governance of hous and land,

And of his tonge and his hand also;

And made him brenne0 his book anoonright tho. bum

And whan that I hadde geten unto me

By maistrye0 al the sovereyn etee, skill / dominion And that he saide, “Myn owene trewe wif,

Do as thee lust° the terme of al thy lif; it pleases

Keep thyn honour, and keep eek myn estat,”

After that day we hadde nevere debat.

God help me so, I was to him as kinde

As any wif from Denmark unto Inde,° India

And also trewe, and so was he to me.

I praye to God that sit° in majestee, sits

So blesse his soule for his mercy dere.

Now wol I saye my tale if ye wol heere.

[A N O T H E R I N T E R R U P T I O N]

The Frere lough0 whan he hadde herd all this:

laughed

“Now dame,” quod he, “so have I joye or blis,

This is a long preamble of a tale.”

And whan the Somnour6 herde the Frere gale,° exclaim

“Lo,” quod the Somnour, “Goddess armes two,

A frere wol entremette0 him° evermo!

intrude / himself

Lo, goode men, a flye and eek a frere
Wol falle in every dissh and eek matere.⁷
What spekestou of preambulacioun?
What, amble or trotte or pisse or go sitte down!
Thou lettest⁰ oure disport in this manere.”

hinder

“Ye, woltou so, sire Somnour?” quod the Frere.
“Now by my faith, I shal er that I go
Telle of a somnour swich a tale or two
That al the folk shal laughen in this place.”
“Now elles, Frere, I wol bishrewe⁰ thy face,”
Quod this Somnour, “and I bishrewe me,
But if I telle tales two or three
Of freres, er I come to Sidingborne,⁸
That I shal make thyn herte for to moorne⁰—
For wel I woot thy pacience is goon.”
Oure Hoste cride, “Pees,^o and that anoon!”

peace

And saide, “Lat the womman telle hir tale:
Ye fare as folk that dronken been of ale.
Do, dame, tel forth youre tale, and that is best.”
“Al redy, sire,” quod she, “right as you Iest^o—

it pleases

If I have licence of this worthy Frere.”

“Yis, dame,” quod he, “tel forth and I wol heere.”

6. A secular servant of the ecclesiastical courts. feres in everyone else’s affairs.

7. Just as a fly alights on every dish, so a friar inter- 8. Sittingbourne, a town forty miles from London.

THE WIFE OF BATH 'S PROLOGUE AND TALE / 59

The Tale

In th'olde dayes of the King Arthour,
Of which that Britouns⁹ speken greet honour,
Al was this land fulfild of fai'rye:¹
The elf-queene^o with hir joly compaignye queen of the fairies
Daunced ful ofte in many a greene mede^o— meadow
This was the olde opinion as I rede;^o think
I speke of many hundred yeres ago.
But now can no man see none elves mo,
For now the grete charitee and prayeres
Of limitours,² and othere holy freres,
That serchen every land and every stroom,
As thikke as motes⁰ in the sonne-beem,
dust particles
Blessing halles, chambres, kichenes, bowres,
Citees, burghes,⁰ castels, hye towres, townships
Thropes, bernes, shipnes,³ dayeries—
This maketh that ther been no fairies.
For ther as wont to walken was an elf
Ther walketh now the limitour himself,
In undermeles⁰ and in morweninges,⁰ afternoons / mornings
And saith his Matins and his holy thinges,
As he gooth in his limitacioun.⁴
Wommen may go saufly⁰ up and down:

safely

In every bussh or under every tree
Ther is noon other incubus⁵ but he,
And he ne wol doon hem but dishonour.⁶
And so bifel it that this King Arthour Hadde in his hous a lusty bachelor,⁰

young knight

That on a day cam riding fro river,⁷
And happed⁰ that, allone as he was born,

it happened

He sawgh a maide walking him biforn;
Of which maide anoon, maugree hir heed.⁸
By verray force he rafte hir maidenheed;⁹
For which oppression⁰ was swich clamour,

rape

And swich pursuite⁰ unto the King Arthour, petitioning

That dampned was this knight for to be deed¹
By cours of lawe, and sholde han lost his heed—
Paraventure⁰ swich was the statut tho— perchance
But that the queene and othere ladies mo
So longe prayeden the king of grace,
Til he his lif him graunted in the place,
And yaf him to the queene, al at hir wille,
To chese wheither she wolde him save or spille²
9. I.e., Bretons. The stories of the Breton lais, or be only loss of honor, while consorting with an ballads, deal with the trials of lovers and often have incubus would result in conception.

supernatural elements.

7. Hawking, usually carried out on the banks of a

1. I.e., filled full of supernatural creatures.

stream.

2. Friars licensed to beg in a certain territory.

8. Despite her head, i.e., despite anything she

3. Villages (thorps), barns, stables.

could do.

4. I.e., the friar's assigned area. His "holy things"

9. By force, he robbed her of her maidenhead.

are prayers.

1. This knight was condemned to death.

5. An evil spirit that seduces mortal women.

2. To choose whether to save or end his life.

6. I.e., the result of consorting with a friar would

60 / G E O F F R E Y C H A U C E R

The queene thanked the king with al hir might,

And after this thus spak she to the knight,

Whan that she saw hir time upon a day:

"Thou standest yit," quod she, "in swich array0

condition

That of thy lif yit hastou no suretee.0

guarantee

I graunte thee lif if thou canst tellen me

What thing it is that wommen most desiren:

Be war and keep thy nekke boon from iren.3

And if thou canst nat tellen me anoon,0

right away

Yit wol I yive thee leve for to goon

A twelfmonth and a day to seeche⁰ and lere^o

search / learn

An answeere suffisant⁰ in this matere, satisfactory

And suretee wol I han er that thou pace,⁰

•pass

Thy body for to yeelden in this place.”

Wo was this knight, and sorwefully he siketh.⁰

sighs

But what, he may nat doon al as him liketh,

And atte laste he chees⁰ him for to wende,⁰ chose / go

And come again right at the yeres ende,

With swich answeere as God wolde him purveye,⁰ provide

And taketh his leve and wendeth forth his waye.

He seeketh every hous and every place

Wher as he hopeth for to finde grace,

To lerne what thing wommen love most.

But he ne coude arriven in no coost⁴

Wher as he mighte finde in this matere

Two creatures according in fere.⁵

Some saiden wommen loven best richesse;

Some saide honour, some saide jolinesse;⁰

pleasure

Some riche array, some saiden lust abedde,

And ofte time to be widwe and wedde.
Some saide that oure herte is most esed
Whan that we been yflatered and yplesed—
He gooth ful neigh the soothe, I wol nat lie:
truth

A man shal winne us best with flaterye,
And with attendance and with businesse attention / solicitude
Been we ylimed, bothe more and lesse.
ensnared

And some sayen that we loven best
For to be free, and do right as us lest,
it pleases

And that no man repreve us of oure vice, reprove
But saye that we be wise and no thing nice.
foolish

For trewely, ther is noon of us alle,
If any wight wol clawe us on the galle,
rub / sore spot

That we nil kike for he saith us sooth:
kick / because

Assaye and he shal finde it that so dooth.
try

For be we nevere so vicious withinne,
We wol be holden wise and clene of sinne.
considered

And some sayn that greet delit han we

For to be holden stable and eek secree,⁷

3. I.e., be very careful in choosing and save your-

6. The Wife speaks in her own person here and self from execution. Boon: bone.

does not return to her story for more than sixty

4. I.e., country.

lines.

5. Agreeing together.

7. To be held reliable and also closemouthed.

THE WIFE OF BATH 'S PROLOGUE AND TA
LE / 61

And in oo° purpos stedefastly to dwelle,

one

And nat biwraye0 thing that men us telle—

disclose

But that tale is nat worth a rake-stele.0

rake handle

Pardee,0 we wommen conne no thing hele:°

by God / conceal

Witnesse on Mida.° Wol ye heere the tale?

Midas

Ovide, amonges othere thinges smale,

Saide Mida hadde under his longe heres,

Growing upon his heed, two asses eres,

The whiche vice0 he hidde as he best mighte defect

Ful subtilly from every mannes sighte,

That save his wif ther wiste0 of it namo.

knew

He loved hire most and trusted hire also.

He prayed hire that to no creature

She sholde tellen of his disfigure.0

deformity

She swoor him nay, for al this world to winne,

She nolde do that vilainye or sinne

To make hir housbonde han so foul a name:

She nolde nat telle it for hir owene shame.

But natheless, hir thoughte that she dyde^o would die

That she so longe sholde a conseiP hide;

secret

Hire thoughte it swal^o so sore about hir herte

swelled

That nedely som word hire moste asterte,8

And sith she dorste nat telle it to no man,

Down to a mareis0 faste0 by she ran—marsh / close

Til she cam there hir herte was afire—

And as a bitore bombleth9 in the mire,

She laide hir mouth unto the water down:

“Biwray0 me nat, thou water, with thy soun,”^o betray / sound

Quod she. “To thee I telle it and namo:^o

to no one else

Myn housbonde hath longe asses eres two.

Now is myn herte al hool,1 now is it oute.

I mighte no lenger keep it, out of doute.”
Here may ye see, though we a time abide,
Yit oute it moot:0 we can no conseil hide.

must

The remenant of the tale if ye wol heere,
Redeth Ovide, and ther ye may it lere.²
This knight of which my tale is specially,
Whan that he sawgh he mighte nat come thereby—
This is to saye what wommen loven most—Within his brest ful sorweful was his gost,^o spirit

But hoom he gooth, he mighte nat sojourne:0

delay

The day was come that hoomward moste0 he turne.

must

And in his way it happed him to ride
In al this care under0 a forest side,

by

Wher as he sawgh upon a daunce go
Of ladies foure and twenty and yit mo;
Toward the whiche daunce he drow ful yerne,³
In hope that som wisdom sholde he lerne.

8. Of necessity some word must escape her.

2. Learn. In Ovid’s Metamorphoses, Midas’s secret

9. A bittern (type of heron) makes a booming is betrayed not by his wife but by his barber.
noise.

3. Drew very quickly.

1. I.e., sound, calm.

62 / GEOFFREY CHAUCER

But certainly, er he cam fully there,
Vanished was this daunce, he niste^o where.

knew not

No creature sawgh he that bar^o lif,

bore

Save on the greene he sawgh sitting a wiP—

woman

A fouler wight ther may no man devise.0

imagine

Again4 the knight this olde wif gan rise,

And saide, “Sire knight, heer forth lith^o no way.^o”

lies / road

Telle me what ye seeken, by youre fay.^o

faith

Paraventure it may the better be:

Thisse olde folk conne^o muchel thing,” quod she.

know

“My leve moder,”^o quod this knight, “certain,

mother

I nam but deed but if that I can sayn

What thing it is that wommen most desire.

Coude ye me wisse,^o I wolde wel quite youre hire.“s teach

“Plight0 me thy trouthe here in myn hand,” quod she

“The nexte thing that I requere0 thee, require of

Thou shalt it do, if it lie in thy might,
And I wol telle it you er it be night.”

“Have heer my trouthe,” quod the knight. “I graunte.

“Thanne,” quod she, “I dar me wel avaunte⁰ boast

Thy lif is sauf,^o for I wol stande therby.
safe

Upon my lif the queene wol saye as I.
Lat see which is the pruddest⁰ of hem alle proudest

That wereth on⁶ a coverchief or a calle^o headdress

That dar saye nay of that I shal thee teche.
Lat us go forth withouten lenger speche.”

Tho rouned⁰ she a pistel⁰ in his ere,
whispered / message

And bad^o him to be glad and have no fere.
ordered

Whan they be comen to the court, this knight
Saide he hadde holde his day as he hadde hight, promised

And redy was his answeere, as he saide.
Ful many a noble wif, and many a maide,
And many a widwe—for that they been wise—
The queene hirsself sitting as justise,
Assembled been this answeere for to heere,
And afterward this knight was bode^o appere.
bidden to

To every wight comanded was silence,
And that the knight sholde telle in audience⁰
open hearing
What thing that worldly wommen loven best.
This knight ne stood nat stille as dooth a best,⁰ beast

But to his question anoon answerde
With manly vois that al the court it herde.
“My lige^o lady, generally,” quod he,
liege

“Wommen desire to have sovereynetee⁰ dominion

As wel over hir housbonde as hir love,⁷
And for to been in maistrye him above.
This is youre moste desir though ye me kille.
Dooth as you list:⁰ I am here at youre wille.”

4. I.e., to meet.

word was her lover’s law. Here, the knight claims

5. Repay your trouble.

that women want to exercise the same dominion

6. That wears.

over their husbands.

7. In the courtly love tradition, the lady’s lightest

THE WIFE OF BATH ‘SPROLOGUE AND TA
LE / 63

In al the court ne was ther wif ne maide

Ne widwe that contraried⁰ that he saide, contradicted

But saiden he was worthy han^o his lif.

to have

And with that word up sterte⁰ that olde wif, started

Which that the knight sawgh sitting on the greene;

“Mercy,” quod she, “my sovereign lady queene,

Er that youre court departe, do me right.

I taughte this answeere unto the knight,

For which he plighte me his trouthe there

The firste thing I wolde him requere⁰ require

He wolde it do, if it laye in his might.

Bifore the court thanne praye I thee, sire knight,”

Quod she, “that thou me take unto thy wif,

For wel thou woost that I have kept⁰ thy lif.

saved

If I saye fals, say nay, upon thy fay.”

This knight answerde, “Alias and wailaway,

I woot right wel that swich was my biheeste.⁰

promise

For Goddes love, as chees^o a newe requeste:

choose

Taak al my good and lat my body go.”

“Nay thanne,” quod she, “I shrewe⁰ us bothe two.

For though that I be foul and old and poore,

I nolde for al the metal ne for ore

That under erthe is grave⁰ or lith⁰ above,

buried / lies

But if thy wif I were and eek thy love.”

“My love,” quod he. “Nay, my dampnacioun!

damnation

Alias, that any of my nacioun

family

Sholde evere so foule disparaged be.”

degraded

But al for nought, th’ende is this, that he

Constrained was: he needes moste hire wedde,

And taketh his olde wif and gooth to bedde.

Now wolden some men saye, paraventure,

That for my necligence I do no cure

To tellen you the joye and al th’array

That at the feeste was that ilke day.

To which thing shortly answer I shal:

I saye ther nas no joye ne feeste at al;

Ther nas but hevinesse and mucche sorwe.

For prively he wedded hire on^o morwe,^o

in / the morning

And al day after hidde him as an owle,

So wo was him, his wif looked so foule.

Greet was the wo the knight hadde in his thought:

Whan he was with his wif abedde brought,

He walweth and he turneth to and fro.

tosses

His olde wif lay smiling everemo,

And saide, “O dere housbonde, benedicite,

bless ye

Fareth⁰ every knight thus with his wif as ye?

behaves

Is this the lawe of King Arthures hous?

Is every knight of his thus daungerous?⁰

standoffish

I am youre owene love and youre wif;

I am she which that saved hath youre lif;

And certes yit ne dide I you nevere unright.

8. I do not take the trouble.

64 / G E O F F R E Y C H A U C E R

Why fare ye thus with me this firste night?

Ye faren like a man hadde lost his wit.

What is my gilt? For Goddes love, telle it,

And it shal been amended if I may.”

“Amended!” quod this knight. “Alias, nay, nay,

It wol nat been amended neveremo.

Thou art so lothly⁰ and so old also,

hideous

And therto comen of so lowe a kinde,^o

lineage

That litel wonder is though I walwe and winde.^o

turn

So wolde God myn herte wolde breste!“⁰

break

“Is this,” quod she, “the cause of youre unreste?”

“Ye, certainly,” quod he. “No wonder is.”

“Now sire,” quod she, “I coude amende al this,

If that me liste, er it were dayes three,

So° wel ye mighte bere you unto me.9

provided that

“But for ye speken of swich gentillesse0 nobility

As is descended out of old richesse—

That therefore sholden ye be gentilmen—

Swich arrogance is nat worth an hen.

Looke who that is most vertuous alway,

Privee and apert, and most entendeth ay1

To do the gentil deedes that he can,

Taak him for the gretteste0 gentilman.

greatest

Crist woP we claime of him oure gentillesse, desires that

Nat of oure eldres for hir ‘old richesse.’

For though they yive us al hir heritage,

For which we claime to been of heigh parage,0 descent

Yit may they nat biquethe for no thing

To noon of us hir vertuous living,

That made hem gentilmen ycalled be,

And badus folwen hem in swich degree.

ordered

“Wel can the wise poete of Florence,

That highte Dant,° speken in this sentence;0

Dante / topic

Lo, in swich manere rym is Dantes tale:

‘Ful selde up riseth by his braunches smale

Prowesse of man,² for God of his prowesse
Wol that of him we claime oure gentillesse.’
For of oure eldres may we no thing claime
But temporel thing that man may hurte and maime.-
Eek every wight woot this as wel as I,
If gentillesse were planted natureelly
Unto a certain linage down the line,
Privee and apert, thanne wolde they nevere fine⁰ cease

To doon of gentillesse the faire office⁰—function

They mighte do no vilainye or vice.
“Taak fir and beer⁰ it in the derkeste hous bear

Bitwixe this and the Mount of Caucasus,
And lat men shette⁰ the dores and go thenne,⁰ shut/thence

9. I.e., you might behave so satisfactorily toward family tree. The Wife is quoting mainly from me that I could change all this for the better—if I Dante, Purgatorio 7.121—23; she repeats this point so desired—before three days had passed. against inherited nobility at line 1170.

1. I.e., privately and publicly, and always tries.

3. “Man” is the object of the verbs “hurte” and

2. I.e., seldom (“selde”) does man’s excellence “maime.”

(“prowesse”) come through the branches of his

THE WIFE OF BATH 'S PROLOGUE AND TALE / 65

Yit wol the fir as faire lye^o and brenne⁰ blaze / burn

As twenty thousand men mighte it biholde:

His^o office natureel ay wol it holde, its

Up^o peril of my lif, til that it die. upon

Heer may ye see wel how that genterye⁰ gentility

Is nat annexed to possessioun,⁴

Sith folk ne doon hir operacioun

Alway, as dooth the fir, lo, in his kinde.^o nature

For God it woot, men may wel often finde

A lordes sone do shame and vilainye;

And he that wol han pris of his gentrye,⁵

For he was boren^o of a gentil⁰ hous,

born / noble

1160

And hadde his eldres noble and vertuous,

And nil himselven do no gentil deedes,

Ne folwen his gentil auncestre that deed⁰ is,

dead

He nis nat gentil, be he duc^o or erl—

duke

For vilaines sinful deedes maken a cherl.^o

lout

Thy gentillesse nis but renomee⁶

Of thine auncestres for hir heigh bountee,⁰ magnanimity

Which is a straunge⁰ thing for thy persone.

external

For gentillesse cometh fro God allone.⁷
Thanne comth oure verray gentillesse of grace.
It was no thing biquethe us with oure place.
Thenketh how noble, as saith Valerius,
Was thilke Tullius Hostilius⁸
That out of povertē⁰ roos to heigh noblesse. poverty
Redeth Senek and redeth eek Boece:⁹
Ther shul ye seen expres that no drede^o is doubt
That he is gentil that dooth gentil deedes.
And therefore, leve housbonde, I thus conclude:
Al^o were it that mine auncestres weren rude,^o although / lowborn
Yit may the hye God—and so hope I—
Graunte me grace to liven vertuously.
Thanne am I gentil whan that I biginne
To liven vertuously and waive⁰ sinne. avoid
“And ther as ye of povertē me repreve,⁰ reprove
The hye God, on whom that we bileve,
In wilful⁰ povertē chees^o to live his lif; voluntary / chose
And certes every man, maiden, or wif
May understonde that Jesus, hevne king,
Ne wolde nat chese^o a vicious living. choose
Glad povertē is an honeste⁰ thing, certain; honorable
This wol Senek and othere clerkes sayn.
Whoso that halt him paid of¹ his povertē,
I holde him riche al hadde he nat a sherte.⁰ shirt
He that coveiteth² is a poore wight,

For he wolde han that is nat in his might;
4. I.e., is not related to inheritable property.
9. I.e., the Roman philosopher Boethius (ca. 480—
5. Have credit for his noble birth.
524); Chaucer translated Boethius's Consolation of
6. I.e., the gentility you claim isn't just the Philosophy from Latin to English (as Boece). renown.

Senek: the Roman statesman, dramatist, and phi-
7. I.e., nobility cannot be handed down from losopher Seneca (4 B.C.E.—65 C.E.). father to son, but is God's gift to the individual.

1. Considers himself satisfied with.

See lines 1134-36.

2. Covets, desires what another person has.

8. The legendary third king of Rome.

66 / G E O F F R E Y C H A U C E R

But he that nought hath, ne coveiteth⁰ have, desires to
Is riche, although we holde him but a knave.

Verray⁰ poverte it singeth proprely.⁰

true / appropriately

Juvenal saith of poverte, 'Merily

The poore man, whan he gooth by the waye,

Biforn the theves he may singe and playe.'

Poverte is hateful good, and as I gesse,

A ful greet bringere out of business;³

A greet amendere eek of sapience⁰

wisdom

To him that taketh it in pacience;
Poverté is thing, although it seeme elenge,⁰ wretched

Possession that no wight wol challenge;⁰ claim as his property

Poverté ful often, whan a man is lowe,
Maketh⁴ his God and eek himself to knowe;
Poverté a spectacle⁰ is as thinketh me,
pair of spectacles

Thurgh which he may his verray⁰ freendes see.
true

And therefore, sire, sin that I nought you greve,
Of my poverté namore ye me repreve.⁰ reproach

“Now sire, of elde^o ye repreve me: old age

And certes sire, though noon auctoritee

Were in no book, ye gentils of honour

Sayn that men sholde an old wight doon favour,

And clepe him fader for youre gentillesse—

And auctours⁵ shal I finde, as I gesse.

“Now ther ye saye that I am foul and old:

Thanne drede you nought to been a cokewold,⁰ cuckold

For filthe and elde, also mote I thee,⁶

Been grete wardeins⁰ upon chastitee. guardians

But nathelees, sin I knowe your delit,

I shal fulfille youre worldly appetit.

“Chees⁰ now,” quod she, “oon of thise thinges twaye: choose

To han me foul and old til that I deye

And be to you a trewe humble wif,

And nevere you displese in al my lif,
 Or elles ye wol han me yong and fair,
 And take youre aventure of the repair⁷
 That shal be to youre hous by cause of me—
 Or in some other place, wel may be.
 Now chees youreselven wheither⁰ that you liketh.” whichever
 This knight aviseth him⁸ and sore siketh;⁰ sighs
 But atte laste he saide in this manere:
 “My lady and my love, and wif so dere,
 I putte me in youre wise governaunce:
 Cheseth⁰ youreself which may be most plesaunce⁰ choose /
pleasure
 And most honour to you and me also.
 I do no fors the wheither⁹ of the two,
 For as you liketh it suffiseth⁰ me.” satisfies “Thanne have I gete^o of you maistrye,” quod she, got “Sin I may chese and governe as me lest?”⁰ it pleases
 3. I.e., remover of cares. 7. I.e., your chances on the visits.
 4. I.e., makes him. 8. Considers.
 5. I.e., authorities. 9. I do not care whichever.
 6. So may I prosper.
 CANTUSTROILI / 67
 “Ye, certes, wif,” quod he. “I holde it best.”
 “Kisse me,” quod she. “We be no lenger wrothe.
 For by my trouthe, I wol be to you bothe—
 This is to sayn, ye, bothe fair and good.
 I praye to God that I mote sterven wood,¹ But⁰ I to you be al so good and trewe

unless

As evere was wif sin that the world was newe.

And but I be tomorn0 as fair to seene

tomorrow morning

As any lady, emperisse, or queene,

That is bitwixe the eest and eek the west,

Do with my lif and deeth right as you lest:

Caste up the curtin, looke how that it is.“2

And whan the knight sawgh verraily0 al this,

truly

That she so fair was and so yong therto,

For joye he hente0 hire in his armes two;

took

His herte bathed0 in a bath of blisse;

basked

A thousand time are we0 he gan hire kisse,

And she obeyed him in every thing

That mighte do him plesance or liking.0

And thus they live unto hir lives ende

In parfit0 joye. And Jesu Crist us sende

perfect

Housbondes meeke, yonge, and fresshe abedde—

And grace t'overbide0 hem that we wedde.

outlive

And eek I praye Jesu shorte0 hir lives

shorten

That nought wol be governed by hir wives.

And olde and angry nigardes of dispence0—

spending

God sende hem soone a verray⁰ pestilence!

veritable

FROM TROILUS AND CRISEIDE 1

Cantus Troili²

400 “If no love is, O God, what feele I so?

And if love is, what thing and which is he?

If love be good, from whennes cometh my wo?

If it be wikke, a wonder thinketh me,

Whan every torment and adversitee

405 That cometh of him may to me savory⁰ thinke,⁰ pleasant /seem

For ay thurste I, the more that ich^o it drinke. I

And if that at myn owene lust I brenne,⁰ burn

From whennes cometh my wailing and my plainte?⁰ lament

If harm agree me, wherto plaine I thenne?³—

410

I noot, ne why unwery that I fainte.⁴

1. Might die insane.

song just after he has fallen in love with Criseide

2. I.e., lift up the curtain around the bed and see in book 1. Prior to falling in love, Troilus had how things are.

spurned love and mocked other lovers. These stan-

1. In this long poem, Chaucer tells the tragic story zas are adapted from the eighty-eighth sonnet of

of the love between Troilus, the son of King Priam

the Italian poet Petrarch (1304-1374).

of Troy, and Criseide, the daughter of Calkas (a
3. I.e., if suffering is agreeable to me, why, then, Trojan priest who defects to the Greek side during do I lament?
the Trojan War).

4. I.e., I know not, nor why I faint even though I
2. The song of Troilus (Latin). Troilus sings this am not weary.

68 / G E O F F R E Y C H A U C E R

O quikke0 deeth, O sweete harm so quainte,0 *living / strange

How may0 of thee in me swich quantitee, can there be

But if0 that I consente that it be? except

And if that I consente, I wrongfully

415 Complaine: ywis,0 thus possessed0 to and fro, *indeed. / tossed

Al stereless0 within a boot am I rudderless

Amidde the see, bitwixen windes two,

That in contrarye0 stonden everemo. opposition

Alias, what is this wonder maladye?

420 For hoot0 of cold, for cold of hoot I die.“5 heat

L Y R I C S A N D O C C A S I O N A L V E R S E

To Rosamond

Madame, ye been of alle beautee shrine

As fer as cerclid is the mapemounde:6

For as the crystal glorious ye shine,

And like ruby been0 youre cheekes rounde. are

5 Therwith ye been so merye and so jocounde

That at a revel whan that I see you daunce

It is an oinement unto my wounde,
Though ye to me ne do no daliaunce.⁷
For though I weepe of teres ful a tine,⁰ tub
10
Yit may that wo myn herte nat confounde;
Youre semy⁰ vois, that ye so smale outtwine,⁸ small
Maketh my thought in joye and blis habounde:⁰ abound
So curteisly I go with love bounde
That to myself I saye in my penaunce,⁹ 15
“Suffiseth me to love you, Rosemounde,
Though ye to me ne do no daliaunce.”
Was nevere pik walwed in galauntine¹
As I in love am walwed and ywounde,
For which ful ofte I of myself divine
20 That I am trewe Tristam² the secounde;
My love may not refreide⁰ nor affounde;⁰
cool / chill
I brenne⁰ ay in amorous plesaunce:
burn-
Do what you list, I wol youre thra^F be founde, slave
Though ye to me ne do no daliaunce.

5. Such oxymorons were a convention of Petrarch-

8. That you so delicately spin out.

chan love poetry.

9. I.e., pangs of unrequited love.

6. I.e., to the shrine of all beauty, to the farthest

1. Pike rolled in galantine sauce.

circumference of the map of the world.

2. The famous lover of Isolt (Iseult, Isolde) in

7. I.e., show me no encouragement.

medieval legend, renowned for his constancy.

COMPLAINT TO HIS PURSE / 69

Truth

Flee fro the prees and dwelle with soothfastnesse;³

Suffise unto thy thing,⁴ though it be smal;

For hoord hath⁵ hate, and climbing tikelnesse;⁰ insecurity

Prees hath envye, and wele^o blent⁰ overal. prosperity / blinds

5 Savoure⁰ no more than three bihoove shal; relish

Rule wel thyself that other folk canst rede:^o advise

And Trouthe shal deliver,⁶ it is no drede.^o doubt

Tempest thee nought al crooked to redresse⁷

In trust of hire that turneth as a bal;⁸

10 Muche wele stant in litel businesse;⁹

Be war therefore to spurne ayains an al.¹

Strive nat as dooth the crokke⁰ with the wal.² pot

Daunte⁰ thyself that dauntest otheres deede: master

And Trouthe shal deliver, it is no drede.^o fear

15 That thee is sent, receive in buxomnesse;⁰ obedience

The wrastling for the world axeth^o a fal; asks for

Here is noon hoom, here nis but wildernesse:³

Forth, pilgrim, forth! Forth, beest, out of thy stal!

Know thy countree, looke up, thank God of al.

20 Hold the heigh way and lat thy gost⁰ thee lede: spirit

And Trouthe shal deliver, it is no drede.^o fear

Envoy

Therefore, thou Vache,⁴ leve thyn olde wrecchednesse
Unto the world; leve⁵ now to be thral.

Crye him mercy that of his heigh goodnesse

25 Made thee of nought, and in especial

Draw unto him, and pray in general,

For thee and eek for othere, hevenelich meede:^o reward

And Trouthe shal delivere, it is no drede.

Complaint to His Purse

To you, my purs, and to noon other wight,^o person

Complaine I, for ye be my lady dere.

3. Truthfulness. Prees: crowd; also, ambition. In

9. I.e., much happiness will be found in little some early manuscripts and printed editions, this activity.

poem is subtitled “Balade de Bon Conseyl” (“Bal-

1. I.e., be careful therefore not to kick against an lad of Good Counsel”).

awl (a small, sharply pointed tool).

4. Be content with your possessions.

2. I.e., do not strive against impossible odds (as

5. Hoarding causes.

when a clay pot fights with a wall).

6. I.e., truth shall make you free; cf. John 8.32.

3. Here is no home, here is nothing but wilder-

7. Do not struggle to correct all that’s crooked.
ness.

8. I.e., do not trust in Fortune, who turns like a

4. Probably Sir Philip de la Vache, with a pun on ball in that she is always presenting a different the French for “cow.” aspect to people.

5. I.e., cease

70 / G E O F F R E Y C H A U C E R

I am so sory, now that ye be light,
For certes, but if⁶ ye make me hevy cheere,
5 Me were as lief⁷ be laid upon my beere;⁰ bier
For which unto youre mercy thus I crye:
Beeth hevy again, or elles moot⁰ I die. must Now voucheth sauf this day er⁸ it be night
That I of you the blisful soun may heere,
10 Or see youre colour, lik the sonne bright,
That of yelownesse hadde nevere peere.
Ye be my life, ye be myn hertes steere, rudder, guide
Queene of confort and of good compaignye:
Beeth hevy again, or elles moot I die.
15 Ye purs, that been to me my lives light
And saviour, as in this world down here,
Out of this towne⁹ helpe me thurgh your might,
Sith that ye wol nat be my tresorere;⁰ treasurer
For I am shave as neigh as any frere.¹
20 But yit I praye unto youre curteisye:
Beeth hevy again, or elles moot I die.

Envoy to Henry IV

O conquerour of Brutus Albioun,²
Which that by line and free eleccioun

Been verray king, this song to you I sende:

25 And ye, that mowen⁰ alle oure harmes amende, may

Have minde upon my supplicacioun.

To His Scribe³ Adam

Adam scrivain,⁰ if evere it thee bifalle scribe

Boece or *Troilus*⁴ for to written newe,

Under thy longe lokkes thou moste have the scalle,⁵

But after my making thou write more trewe,

5 So ofte a day I moot⁰ thy werk renewe, must

It to correcte, and eek⁰ to rubbe and scrape:⁶ also

And al is thurgh thy necligence and rape.⁰ haste

6. But if: unless.

poet's work.

7. I'd just as soon.

4. Chaucer's long poem Troilus and Criseide (see

8. Now grant this day before.

p. 67). Boece: Chaucer's translation of the Conso-

9. Probably Westminster, where Chaucer had lation of Philosophy, by the Roman philosopher rented a house.

Boethius (ca. 480-524).

1. Shaved as close as any (tonsured) friar, an

5. I.e., may you have scurf, a scaly or scabby dis-expression for being broke.

ease of the scalp.

2. Britain (Albion) was said to have been founded

6. Corrections on parchment were made by scrap-by Brutus, the grandson of Aeneas (the founder of

ing off the ink and rubbing the surface smooth Rome).

again.

3. Copyist, responsible for making copies of the 7 1

W I L L I A M L A N G L A N D

ca. 1330—ca. 1400

Piers Plowman¹

In a somer seson, whan softe was the sonne, Swⁿ

I shoop me into shroudes as I a sheep were,²

In habite as an heremite unholy of werkes,³

Wente wide in this world wondres to here.⁰ hear

Ac⁰ on a May morwenynge⁴ on Malverne Hilles hut; and

Me bifel a ferly, of Fairye me thoghte.⁵

I was wery [of] wandred and wente me to reste

Under a brood bank by a bournes⁰ syde; stream's

And as I lay and lenede and loked on the watres,

I slombred into a slepyng, it sweyed so murye.^o merry

Thanne gan [me] to meten^o a merveillous SWevene — dream / dream

That I was in a wilderness, wiste⁰ I nevere where. knew

As I biheeld into the eest an heigh to the sonne,⁶

I seigh a tour⁰ on a toft⁰ trieliche ymaked,⁷ tower / knoll

A deep dale⁰ bynethe, a dongeon⁰ therinne, valley / dungeon

With depe diches and derke and dredfulle of sighte.

A fair feeld ful of folk fond⁸ I ther bitwene—

Of alle manere⁰ of men, the meene⁰ and the riche, kinds / lowly

Werchyng⁰ and wandryng⁰ as the world asketh.⁰ working / requires

Somme putten hem^o to the plough, pleiden⁰ ful themselves / playing

selde,⁰ seldom

In settyng⁰ and sowyng⁰ swonken⁰ ful harde, planting / toiled

And wonnen that thise wastours with glotonye destroyeth⁹

And somme putten hem⁰ to pride, apparaild hem themselves thereafter,

1. Probably composed between 1360 and 1387,

2. I.e., I dressed in garments as if I were either a

The Vision of Piers Plowman is a long religious, sheep or a shepherd.

social, and political allegory. It is written in allit-

3. Perhaps meaning one without holy works to his erative verse in a west-midlands dialect, which dif-

credit, but not necessarily one of sinful works. In fers in many ways from that used by Chaucer in habite ... heremite: thus the simple clothes resemble the nearly contemporaneous Canterbury Tales.

ble those of a hermit.

Piers survives in several distinct versions, which

4. Traveling forth on a May morning often initi-scholars refer to as the A-, B-, C-, and Z-texts. The ated a dream vision in medieval poetry. As the set-

A-text (about twenty-four hundred lines) breaks off

ting of the vision, the “Malverne Hills,” in the West

inconclusively; the B-text, which we follow here, is

Midlands, are generally thought to have been the about four thousand lines longer. The C-text is site of Langland's early home (if such a person poetically and doctrinally more conservative. existed; see biographical sketch, p. 2107).

Recently, scholars have focused on the Z-text as 5. I.e., a marvel ("ferly") that seemed to be from possibly being an earlier text than the other three. fairyland.

That a large number of manuscripts (and two 6. I.e., looked toward the east on high, toward the sixteenth-century printed editions) survive suggests that the poem was quite popular during the 7. This phrase has several possible meanings, early modern period.

including "well or wonderfully made" and "made The poem takes the form of a dream vision, a like a tree," i.e., like the cross.

popular genre during the Middle Ages in which the 8. Found. The fair field of folk is commonly interpreted as a representation of the world, situated character. The selection here from the poem's prologue introduces the dreamer's vision of the Field in the valley).

of Folk, which represents fourteenth-century

9. I.e., and won that which wasters destroyed with English society and its failures to live in accordance with Christian principles.

ers was a common idea during the period.

72 / W I L L I A M L A N G L A N D

In contenance of clothyng comen disgised.¹

In preieres⁰ and penaunce putten hem manye, prayers

Al for love of Oure Lord lyveden⁰ ful streyte⁰ living / strictly

In hope to have heveneriche⁰ blisse— heavenly

As ances and heremites that holden hem in hire selles,

Coveiten noght in contree to cairen aboute

For no likerous liflode hire likame to plese.²

And somme chosen chaffare;⁰ they cheveden⁰ the trade I succeeded

bette—

As it semeth to oure sight that swiche men thryveth;

And somme murthes⁰ to make as mynstralles entertainments

konne,⁰ know how

And geten gold with hire⁰ glee⁰—synnelees,⁰ I their / singing /guiltless leeve.⁰ believe

Ac japeres⁰ and jangeleres, Judas children,³ jesters

Feynen hem fantasies, and fooles hem maketh,

And han wit at wille to werken if they sholde.⁴

That Poul⁵ precheth of hem I wol nat preve⁰ it here: prove

Qui loquitur turpiloquium is Luciferes hyne.⁶

Bidderes⁰ and beggeres faste aboute yede⁰ beggars/went

[Til] hire bely and hire bagge [were] bredful ycrammed;⁷

Faiteden⁰ for hire foode, foughten at the ale.⁰ begged falsely / alehouse In glotonye, God woot,⁰ go thei to bedde, knows

And risen with ribaudie,⁰ tho Roberdes knaves;⁸ obscenities

Sleep and sory⁰ sleuthe⁰ seweth hem evere.⁰ wretched /sloth /follow

Pilgrymes and palmeres plighen hem togidere

To seken Seint Jame and seintes in Rome;⁹

Wenten forth in hire wey^o with many wise tales,⁰ way / speeches

And hadden leve⁰ to lyen⁰ al hire lif after. leave / tell lies

I seigh⁰ somme that seiden⁰ thei hadde ysought seintes:
saw/said

To ech a tale that thei tolde hire tonge was tempred⁰ to lye tuned

Moore than to seye sooth,⁰ it semed bi hire speche. truth

Heremytes on an heep⁰ with hoked⁰ staves crowd / crooked

Wenten to Walsyngham¹—and hire wenches after:

Grete lobies and longe that lothe were to swynke

1. I.e., and dressed themselves accordingly, dis-resemblance to his words in Ephesians 5.4 and guised in an outward show of finery.

Colossians 3.8.

2. I.e., like anchorites and hermits who keep to

7. I.e., until their bellies and their bags were their cells, instead of coveting to wander (“cairen”)

crammed to the brimful; a bag was carried by beg-

about the land (“contree”) to indulge their bodies

gars for receiving the food bestowed on them as (“likame”) with a luxurious way of life (“likerous

alms.

liflode”). An anchorite (male) or anchoress

8. A term for robbers; “roberdes” men were lawless (female) vowed to live a reclusive, religious life in vagabonds, notorious for their crimes during the a cell.

period when Piers Plowman was written.

3. A proverbial term for sinners.

9. I.e., pilgrims and palmers pledged themselves

4. I.e., they devise fantasies and make fools of to visit famous shrines of the day. Palmers were themselves even though they possess intelligence pilgrims who had gone to the Holy Land and carried if they should choose to work.

ried a palm leaf or a badge in token of their journey.

5. Perhaps an allusion to St. Paul’s words in 2

The shrine of St. James, or Santiago, was a famous Thessalonians 3.10: “For even when we were with place of pilgrimage in Spain, and one of the four you, this we commanded you, that if any would not pilgrimages assigned as penance for particularly work, neither should he eat.”

grave sins. Rome was known for its many shrines.

6. “He who utters foul speech” (Latin) is the

1. The Walsingham shrine was the most famous Devil’s servant; the quotation is not from St. Paul shrine in England dedicated to the Virgin Mary.

(nor does Langland say it is), but it bears some

P I E R S P L O W M A N / 7 3

Clothed hem in copes to ben knowen from othere,

And shopen hem heremytes hire ese to have.²

I fond there freres, alle the foure ordres,³

Prechyng the peple for profit of [the] womb[e]:^o belly

60 Glosed the gospel as hem good liked;⁴

For coveitise of copes construwed it as thei wolde.

Manye of this maistres freres mowe clothen hem at likyng⁵

For hire moneie⁰ and marchaundise marchen togideres. money

For sith charite hath ben chapman and chief to shryve lordes⁶

65 Manye ferlies⁰ han fallen in a fewe yeres. wondrous events

But Holy Chirche and hii holde bettre togidres

The mooste meschief on molde is mountyng up faste.⁷

Ther preched a pardoner as he a preest were:⁸

Broughte forth a bulle with bisshopes seles,

70 And seide that hymself myghte assoillen⁰ hem alle absolve

Of falshede⁰ of fastyng, of avowes⁰ ybroken. deceit I vows

Lewed⁰ men leved hym wel and liked hise wordes, unlearned

Comen up knelyng to kissen hise bulles.

He bonched hem with his brevet and blered hire eighen,
75 And raughte with his rageman rynges and broches.⁹
Thus [ye] gyven [youre] gold glotons to helpe,
And leneth it losels that leccherie haunten!¹
Were the bisshop yblessed and worth bothe his eris,
His seel² sholde nocht be sent to deceyve the peple.
so Ac it is nocht by the bisshop that the boy precheth³—
For the parisshe preest and the pardoner parten⁰ the silver divide
That the povere⁰ [peple] of the parissche sholde have if they poor ne were.

Persons⁰ and parisshe preestes pleynd⁰ hem to rectors / complained

the bisshop

That hire parissches weren povere sith the pestilence⁰ tyme, plague

85 To have a licence and leve⁰ at London to dwelle, permission

2. Lubbers (“lobies”) or tall (“longe”) idle louts, ishment by the Church for the sin, but not for-who are loath to work (“swynke”), disguised them-giveness from the guilt of the sin. While the selves as hermits to have their comfort. Copes: the payment was supposed to be a voluntary contrispecial dress of friars or monks.

bution to the works of the Church, the system was

3. The four orders of friars: the Carmelites;

open to the kind of abuse shown in this pardoner.

Augustinians; Dominicans, or Jacobins; and Fran-

A papal bull was a formal statement of “indulgence,” and the seals of bishops in whose diocese

4. Complaints were frequently made in medieval the pardoner was (ostensibly) licensed to preach literature that friars interpreted (“glosed”) the were affixed to it.

Scriptures to serve their own purposes.

9. I.e., he struck (“bonched”) them with his doc-

5. I.e., many of these masters can (“mowe”) dress ument (“brevet”), and bleared their eyes, and thus themselves as they like.

got (“raughte”) rings and brooches with his bull

6. I.e., since Charity (or those who claim to work (“rageman”: a long parchment with ragged edges), for it) has become a merchant and first (“chief”) to in payment for pardon.

hear the confessions (“shryve”) of noblemen; allud-

1. I.e., thus you give your gold to help gluttons, ing to money received by friars for hearing confes-
and hand it (“leneth”) to wretches (“losels”) who sions.

indulge in lechery.

7. I.e., unless Holy Church and they (“hii”: i.e.,

2. Seal of authorization. Worth bothe his eris: i.e., the friars) hold together better, then great misforworthy to have his ears, being alert and vigilant.

tune (“meschief”) on Earth (“molde”) is coming.

3. I.e., it is not with the bishop's permission that

8. I.e., as if he were a priest. A pardoner was the rogue preaches. Thus, the pardoner has illicitly empowered by the pope to supply an indulgence

obtained the bishop's seal; moreover, he has bribed

for a sin, in return for some payment toward the

the parish priest and divides the money with him.

Church. An indulgence granted remission of pun-

74 / W I L L I A M L A N G L A N D

And syngen ther for symonie⁴ for silver is swete.

Bisshopes and bachelers, bothe maistres and doctours—

That han cure under Crist, and crownynge in tokene

And signe that thei sholden shryven hire parissens,

90 Prechen and praye for hem, and the povere fede—

Liggen in Londoun in Lenten and ellis.⁵

Somme serven the King and his silver tellen,⁰ keep account of

In the Cheker and in the Chauncelrie chalangen hise dettes

Of wardes and of wardemotes, weyves and streyves.⁶

95 And somme serven as servaunts lordes and ladies,

And in stede^o of stywardes sitten and demen.⁰ position / judge

Hire messe^o and hire matyns⁰ and many of Masses / morning prayers

hire houres⁰ divine offices

Arn doone undevoutliche;⁰ drede is at the laste undevoutly

Lest Crist in his Consistorie acorse⁷ ful manye!

100 I parced⁰ of the power that Peter hadde to kepe—comprehended

To bynden and to unbynden, as the Book telleth⁸—

How he it left with love as Oure Lorde highte⁰ commanded

Amonges foure vertues,⁹ most vertuous of alle vertues,
 That cardinals ben called and closynge yates¹
 105 There Crist is in kyngdom, to close and to shette,⁰ shut
 And to opene it to hem and hevene blisse shewe.
 Ac of the Cardinals at court that kaughte of that name
 And power presumed in hem a Pope to make
 To han the power that Peter hadde, impugnen I nelle²—no For in love and lettrure⁰ the eleccion³ bilongeth; learning
 Forthi⁰ I kan and kan naught of court speke moore. therefore
 4. I.e., and sing Masses for payment; simony: the
 8. In Matthew 16.15, Christ tells Peter: “And I practice of buying or selling ecclesiastical prefer-will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of ment. After the plague caused depopulation and a heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth loss of tithes and income, many priests went to shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever thou London to make money by saying Masses for the shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven.”
 souls of rich dead persons.
 9. The four cardinal virtues: prudence, temper-
 5. I.e., those who have responsibility under Christ, ance, fortitude, and justice.
 and clerical tonsure (or “crownynge”: the part of a
 1. Closing gates. A rough translation of Latin car- monk’s or priest’s head that has been shaved) as a dinalis, which is derived from cardo, or hinge; thus symbol of their responsibility to hear the confes-

the power of the four cardinal virtues is made into sions of their parishioners, instead reside (“Lig-
the power of the hinges on the gates to heaven, gen”) in London during Lent (the busiest time of where Christ rules. The word “cardinals” also plays the Christian year) and at other times (“ellis”).

on a double meaning, referring to the cardinals of
6. In the courts, those serving the king claim the papal consistory.

dues arising to him from guardianship cases

2. I.e., but of the cardinals (or church officials) (“wardes”), meetings held in each ward (“warde-who grabbed (“kaughte”) that name, and presumed motes”), lost property (“weyves”) and stray animals to claim they have the power St. Peter had to name (“streyves”). The Exchequer (“Cheker”) was the a pope, I will not find fault with them. Perhaps an commission to receive revenue and the audit of allusion to the French cardinals who elected an accounts; the Chancery (“Chauncelrie”) heard antipope in 1378 (Clement VII, a Frenchman), petitions addressed to the king.

thus creating the Great Schism.

7. Condemn. A consistory court was held by a

3. Election of popes; also, a reference to salva-bishop or his official to consider any case in which tion.

an ecclesiastic was involved.

75

FROM PEARL 1

1375-1400

Perle plesaunte to prynces paye
Pearl,² the precious prize of a
king,

To clanky clos in golde so clere
Chastely set in cherished gold,
Oute of Oryent I hardyly saye
In all the East none equalling,
Ne proued I neuer her precios
No peer to her could I behold.

pere

5 So rounde so reken in vche arave
So round, so rare, a radiant thing,
So smal so smo[^]e her syde³ were
So smooth she was, so small of mold,

Quere so euer I jugged gemme³
Wherever I judged gems

gaye

glimmering

I sette hyr sengely in synglure
I set her apart, her price untold.

Alias I leste hyr in on erbere

Alas, I lost her in earth's green fold;

10 f[>]ur³ gresse to grounde hit fro me

Through grass to the ground, I

yot

searched in vain.

I dewyne fordolke of luf daun-

I languish alone; my heart grows gere

cold

Of þat pryuy perle wythouten spot For my precious pearl without a stain.³

Syben in bat spote hit fro me

Since in that spot it slipped from sprange

me,

Ofte haf I wayted wyschande bat

I lingered, longing for that delight

wele

15 f>at wont wat³ whyle deuoyde my

That from my sins once set me

wrange

free

& heuen my happe & al my hele

And my happiness raised to the highest height.

Pat dot³ bot brych my hert grange

Her going wounds me grievously;

1 . Pearl was written in the latter half of the four-side with the original in Middle English (they modteenth century by an unknown author who prob-ernized only the capitalization). They have ably lived in the northwest midlands of England. attempted to remain true to the original form, The one manuscript of the poem still extant also retaining, where possible, the four-beat alliterative contains the poems Sir Gawain and the Green line, rhyme pattern, and repetition of words and Knight, Purity, and Patience, all generally thought phrases of the original. The first five stanzas of the to be by the same author. Pearl, in the form of a poem, reproduced here, recount the narrator's dream vision, a popular convention of the time, is grief at the loss of his Pearl, and the beginning of an elegy on the death of a child, perhaps the poet's the "slumber" that will produce his dream vision of daughter. Many scholars, however, read the poem the maid. (The roman numeral I above our selec- as an allegory. In the poem's 101 stanzas, the tion marks the first five-stanza section of the orig- dreamer carries on a dialogue with the Pearl inal text.)

maiden, who instructs him in Christian doctrine.

2. In medieval tradition, the pearl symbolizes the The intricate pattern of the poem involves rhyme pure and precious.

and repeated words and phrases that link the stan-

3. The translators note that the word "spot" is zas, forming, finally, a circular structure. The used in the first five stanzas, but because of the translation used here was done by Sara deFord and limited rhyme possibilities, they have substituted a group of her students at Goucher College. The “stain” in the terminal position.

translators chose to print their translation side by

76 / P E A R L

My breste in bale bot bolne &
It burns my breast both day and bele
night.

3et J)o3t me neuer so swete a Yet I never imagined a melody
sange

So sweet as she, so brief, and 20 As stulle stounde let to me stele slight.

But memory flowed through my
For sojje J)er fleten to me fele mind’s sight:

I thought how her color in clods4
To Jjenke hir color so clad in clot had Iain

O dust that dims what once was O moul f)ou marre3 a myry iuele
bright,

My precious pearl without a stain.

My priuy perle wythouten spotte

3

25 Pat spot of spyse³ [mo] t nede³

Rare spices on that spot must sprede spread:

Per such ryche³ to rot is runne

Such riches there to rot have run,

Blome³ blayke & blwe & rede

Blooms of yellow and blue and

red,

Per schyne³ ful schyr agayn $\text{f} > \text{e}$

Their sheen a shimmer against sunne

the sun.

Flor & fryte may not be fede

Flower and fruit nor faded nor

dead,

30 Per hit doun drof in moIde³

Where the pearl dropped down in dunne

mouldering dun;⁵

For vch gresse mot grow of Each grass from a lifeless grain is grayne³ dede

bred,

No whete were elle³ to wone³

Else to harvest no wheat were wonne

won:6

Of goud vche goude is ay bygonne Always from good is good begun.

So semly a sede mo3t fayly not

So seemly7 a seed could not die in vain,

35 Pat spryg ande spyce3 vp ne

That sprig nor spice there would sponne

be none

Of Jjat precios perle wythouten

Of that precious pearl without a spotte

stain.

To Jjat spot Jjat I in speche

To the spot which I in speech

expoun portray,

I entred in Jjat erber grene

I entered in that arbor green,

In Augoste in a hy3 seysoun

In August on a holy day,

40 Quen corne is coruen wyth

When the corn is cut with sickles

croke3 kene

keen.

On huyle £>er perle hit trendeled

On the little rise where my pearl doun

rolled away,

4. I.e., clods of earth.

Except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and

5. “Molde³ dunne” may be translated “dark clods die, it abideth alone; but if it die, it bringeth forth of earth.”

much fruit” (John 12.24).

6. Christ uses this metaphor in reference to his

7. Beautiful.

own Crucifixion: “Verily, verily, I say unto you,

T H E S M I L I N G M O U T H / 7 7

Schadowed f)is \v0rte³ ful schyre

The fairest flowers formed a & schene screen:

Gilofre gyngure & gromylyoun

Gillyflower, ginger, gromwell spray,

& pyonys powdered ay bytwene

With peonies⁸ powdered in between.

45 3if hit wat³ semly on to sene

If they were seemly to be seen,

A fayr reflayr 3et fro hit flot

Far sweeter the scents from that domain,

Per wonys J)at worjyly I wot &
More worthy her dwelling, well I wene
ween,9

My precious pearl without a stain.
My precious perle wythouten spot
5

I mourned, hands clenched, Bifore f)at spot my honde I before that mound,
spenn[e]d

For the piercing cold of grief had 50 For care ful colde f)at to me ca3t caught

Me in the doleful dread and A deuely dele in my hert denned
bound

My heart, though reason solace
Pa3 resoun sette myseluen sa3t sought.

I longed for my pearl, locked in
I playned my perle f)at f)er wat3
the ground,
spenned

While fierce contentions in me
Wyth fyrte skylle3 J)at faste fa3t fought.

55 Pa3 kynde of Kryst me comfort

In Christ, though comfort could kenned
be found,
My wretched will was still
My wreched wyllle in wo ay wra3te dистраught.

I felle vpon f)at floury fla3t
I fell upon that flowery plot.
Suche odour to my herne3 schot
Such odors eddied in my brain,
I slode vpon a slepyng-sla3te
To sudden slumber I was brought 60 On f)at prec[i]os perle wythouten
By that precious pearl without a spot stain.

CHARLES D'ORLEANS

1391-1465

The Smiling Mouth¹

The smiling mouth and laughing eyen⁰ gray, eyes
The breastes round and long small⁰ armes twain,⁰ slender/two
The handes smooth, the sides straight and plain,
Your feetes lit⁰—what should I further say? little

8. All these plants are types of spices; spices were 1. This lyric is a rondel, with a refrain in lines 1 precious plants valued for their rich scent. and 2, 7 and 8, and 13 and 14.

9. Know.

78 / CHARLES D'ORLEANS

5 It is my craft⁰ when ye are far away practice
To muse thereon in stinting⁰ of my pain— soothing
The smiling mouth and laughing eyen gray,
The breastes round and long small armes twain.
So would I pray you, if I durst or may,
10 The sight to see as I have seen,
Forwhy⁰ that craft me is most fain,⁰ because /pleasing
And will be to the hour in which I day⁰— die
The smiling mouth and laughing eyen gray,
The breastes round and long small armes twain.
Oft in My Thought
Oft in my thought full busily have I sought,
Against the beginning of this fresh new year,
What pretty thing that I best given ought
To her that was mine hearte's lady dear;²
5 But all that thought bitane⁰ is fro⁰ me clear taken/from Since death, alas, hath closed her under clay
And hath this world fornaked⁰ with her here— stripped bare
God have her soul, I can no better say.
But for to keep in custom, lo, my thought,
10 And of my seely⁰ service the manere, simple
In showing als⁰ that I forget her not also Unto each wight,³ I shall to my powere
This dead her serve⁴ with masses and prayere;
For all too foul a shame were me, mafay,⁰ by my faith
15 Her to forget this time that nigheth⁰ near— draws
God have her soul, I can no better say.

To her profit now nis0 there to be bought is not
 None other thing all0 will I buy it dear;⁵ although [I]
 Wherefore, thou Lord that lordest0 all aloft, rules
 20 My deedes take, such as goodness steer,
 And crown her, Lord, within thine heavenly sphere
 As for most truest lady, may I say,
 Most good, most fair, and most benign of cheer0—
countenance
 God have her soul, I can no better say.
 25 When I her praise, or praising of her hear,
 Although it whilom0 were to me pleasere, formerly
 It fill enough it doth mine heart today,
 And doth0 me wish I clothed had my bier⁶— makes
 God have her soul, I can no better say.

2. The occasion of the poem is the approaching that he does not forget his lady.

New Year; New Year's Day was the day for gift-

4. I.e., I will serve this dead woman ("her") to the giving during the Middle Ages. The speaker asks best of my power.

what gift he can give his love, who is dead. He can

5. I.e., if anything else could help her, I would pay endow Masses, but the poem itself, a ballade, is a any cost.

symbolic gift in memory of the lady.

6. A movable stand on which a corpse is placed

3. Person; the speaker wants to show everyone before burial; i.e., I wish that I had died.

ANONYMOUS LYRICS OF THE FIFTEENTH CENTURY 1

Adam Lay I-bounden²

Adam lay i-bounden, bounden in a bond;
Foure thousand winter³ thought he not too long.
And all was for an apple, an apple that he took,
As clerkes linden written in their book.

5 Ne hadde the apple taken been,⁴ the apple taken been,
Ne hadde never our Lady aye been heavene queen.

Blessed be the time that apple taken was,
Therefore we moun^o singen, "Deo gracias!"⁵

I Sing of a Maiden⁶

I sing of a maiden

That is makeles:⁷

King of alle kinges

To⁰ her sone she chees.⁰ for/chose

He cam also⁰ stille⁰ as/silently

T h e r⁰ his moder⁰ was where / mother

As dewe in Aprille

That falleth on the gras.

He cam also stille

To his modres bowr⁸

As dewe in Aprille

That falleth on the flowr.

1. The poems in this section do not appear in became associated, as they are today, with the feast chronological order, since they cannot be dated of Christmas.

with any certainty. Like the “Anonymous Lyrics of
2. This poem survives only in a fifteenth-century the Thirteenth and Fourteenth Centuries” (see manuscript collection of carols. It explores the the-pp. 15—19), these works often blend religious and ological idea of the felix culpa (Latin, “happy secular themes; the line between sacred love and fault”). The poet, in a kind of humorous, courtly erotic love is particularly ambiguous in poems such gesture, identifies the happy event not as human-as “I Have a Young Sister” and “The Corpus Christi kind’s redemption but as the elevation of the Virgin Carol.”

Mary as queen of heaven. I-bounden: bound.

English poems explicitly titled “carols” first

3. One tradition placed the Creation at about appear in fifteenth-century manuscripts. In earlier 4000 B.C.E.

centuries, the term usually denoted a ring-dance

4. I.e., if the apple had not been taken.

accompanied by singing that originated in France

5. “Thanks be to God!” (Latin).

(the French carole) and was fashionable during

6. This poem celebrating the purity of Christ’s

Chaucer’s lifetime. In the fifteenth and sixteenth mother and the mystery of Christ’s birth from a centuries, carols were poems with uniform stanzas virgin appears in a manuscript containing a variety often rhyming aaab and linked by the last rhyme of English ballads and carols as well as several to a “burden,” or refrain. The burden typically songs in Latin.

appears at the beginning of the carol and after each

7. A triple pun: mateless, matchless, and spotless.

stanza. Carols initially treated many subjects, even

8. A covert made of leafy branches; also, a bed-celebrations of battle victories as in the “Carol chamber.

of Agincourt” below. Gradually, however, they

80 / ANONYMOUS LYRICS OF THE FIFTEENTH CENTURY

He cam also stille

Ther his moder lay

As dewe in Aprille

That falleth on the spray. budding twig

Moder and maiden⁰ virgin

Was nevere noon but she:

Well may swich⁰ a lady such

Godes moder be.

Out of Your Sleep Arise and Wake

*Noel, noel, noel,*⁹

Noel, noel, noel!

Out of your sleep¹ arise and wake,

For God m a n k i n d ⁰ n o w h a t h i - t a k e , ^o human nature / taken

5 All oP a maid without any make:⁰ from / match, mate

Of all women she beareth the bell.²

Noel, noel, noel...

And through a maide fair and wise

Now man is made of full great price;⁰ worth

10 Now angels kneel to man's servise,

And at this time all this befell.

Noel, noel, noel...

Now man is brighter than the sun;

Now man in heaven on high shall wone;⁰ dwell

15 Blessed be God this game³ is begun,

And his mother empress of hell.⁴

Noel, noel, noel...

That⁰ ever was thrall,⁰ now is he free; who /captive

That ever was small, now great is she;

20 Now shall God deem⁰ both thee and me judge

Unto his bliss if we do well.

Noel, noel, noel...

Now man may to heaven wend;⁰ go

Now heaven and earth to him they bend;

9. A word sung as an expression of joy, originally

2. I.e., takes the prize; also, takes the foremost to commemorate Christ's birth; in this carol,

position; also, with a pun on bearing a child.

included with music in two fifteenth-century man-

3. I.e., joy, delight.

uscripts, the refrain celebrates both Christ and his

4. According to medieval Catholic doctrine, Mary, virgin mother.

as queen of heaven, had the power to intercede for
1. Figuratively, the repose of death; also, inactivity those sent to hell.

or sluggishness.

I H A V E A Y O U N G S I S T E R / 81

25 He that was foe now is our friend.

This is no nay that I you tell.⁵

Noel, noel, noel ...

Now, blessed brother, grant us grace

At doomesday⁰ to see thy face Judgment Day

30 And in thy court to have a place,

That we may there sing noel.

Noel, noel, noel ...

I Have a Young Sister

I have a yong sister

Fer^o beyond the sea;

far

Manye be the druries⁰

love tokens

That she sente me.

5 She sente me the cherry

Withouten any stone,

And so she did the dove

Withouten any bone.

She sente me the brere⁰

briar

io Withouten any rinde;⁰

bark

She bade me love my lemman⁰

sweetheart

Without longing.

How should any cherry

Be withoute stone?

15 And how should any dove

Be withoute bone?

How should any brere

Be withoute rind?

How should I love my lemman

20 Without longing?

When the cherry was a flowr,

Then hadde it no stone.

When the dove was an ey,^o egg

Then hadde it no bone.

25 When the briar was unbred,⁶

Then hadde it no rinde.

When the maiden hath that she loveth,

She is without longinge.

5. I.e., what I tell you cannot be denied. 6. Unknown, i.e., still in the seed.

82 / ANONYMOUS LYRICS OF THE FIFTEEN
CENTURY

I Have a Gentle Cock

I have a gentle⁰ cock,

noble

Croweth me day;

He doth me risen⁷ early

My matins⁰ for to say.

morning prayers

I have a gentle cock,
Comen he is of great;0

lofty lineage

His comb is of red coral,
His tail is of jet.0

black

I have a gentle cock,
Comen he is of kind;0

good stock

His comb is of red coral,
His tail is of inde.0

His legges be of azure,
So gentle and so small;0

slender

His spurres0 are of silver white back claws

Into the wortewale.8

His eyen0 are of crystal,

eyes

Locked0 all in amber;

set

And every night he percheth him

In my lady's chamber.

Timor Mortis9

In what estate1 so ever I be

Timor mortis conturbat me.

As I went on a merry morning,

I heard a bird both weep and sing.

5 This was the tenor⁰ of her talking: meaning

“Timor mortis conturbat me.”

I asked that bird what she meant.

“I am a musket² both fair and gent;⁰ gentle, noble

7. Makes me rise. Croweth me day: crows at day-later poem by William Dunbar (see p. 86). This break.

poem is unusual in combining the carol form with

8. I.e., down to the base or imbedded portion of a narrative convention—that of the “unexpected

the spurs.

encounter”—typical of the chanson d’aventure

9. The title and refrain of this poem come from a (French, “adventure song”).

prayer recited (in Latin) during the Catholic reli-

1. Condition; also, more specifically, an allusion

gious rite known as the Office of the Dead. “Since to the medieval view of society as divided into three

I have been sinning daily and repenting not,” the great “estates”: the nobility, the clergy, and the prayer says, “the fear of death dismays me” (timor workers.

mortis conturbat me). A number of other medieval

2. Male sparrowhawk.

lyrics use the same line as their refrain, as does the

THE CORPUS CHRISTICAROL / 83

For dread of death I am all shent:°

ruined

10 Timor mortis conturbat me.

“When I shall die, I know no day;
What country or place I cannot say;
Wherefore this song sing I may:

Timor mortis conturbat me.

15 “Jesu Christ, when he should die,
To his Father he gan^o say,

began [to]

‘Father,’ he said, ‘in Trinity,³

Timor mortis conturbat me

“All Christian people, behold and see:

20 This world is but a vanity
And replete with necessity.

Timor mortis conturbat me.

“Wake I or sleep, eate or drink,
When I on my last end^o do think,

death

25 For greate fear my soul do shrink:

Timor mortis conturbat me.

“God grant us grace him for to serve,
And be at our end when we sterve,^o

die

And from the fiend^o he us preserve.

Devil

30 Timor mortis conturbat me.”

The Corpus Christi Carol⁴

Lully, lullay, lully, lullay,⁵

The falcon hath born my make0 away.

mate

He bore him up, he bore him down,

He bore him into an orchard brown.

5 Lully, lullay, lully, lullay, ...

In that orchard there was a hall

That was hanged with purple and pall.°

black velvet

3. The Christian doctrine that God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Ghost form one true, eternal God, and some scholars believe that the poem dates from that century rather than from the fifteenth.

The late dating has given rise to a historical-

4. The title of this carol, Latin for “body of Christ,” allegorical interpretation that takes the knight as a alludes both to the sacrament of the Holy Communion and to a feast of the Church in celebration divorced his first wife, Katherine of Aragon, to marry Anne Boleyn, whose heraldic badge was a falcon. The appearance of the words on a stone in the poem’s final line has led some critics to interpret the wounded knight as the crucified

5. This lullabylike refrain appears only in the version of the carol printed here, although several version of a hero in an ancient fertility myth.

Other versions have been recorded by folk-song col-

The version of the carol printed here first lectors.

appears in a sixteenth-century manuscript anthol-

84 / ANONYMOUS LYRICS OF THE FIFTEEN
CENTURY

Lully, lullay, lully, lullay, ...

And in that hall there was a bed,

10 It was hanged with gold so red.

Lully, lullay, lully, lullay, ...

And in that bed there lieth a knight,

His woundes bleeding day and night.

Lully, lullay, lully, lullay, ...

15 By that bed's side there kneeleth a may⁰ maiden

And she weepeth both night and day.

Lully, lullay, lully, lullay, ...

And by that, bed's side there standeth a stone,

Corpus Christi written thereon.

20 Lully, lullay, lully, lullay, ...

Western Wind⁶

Westron wynde, when wylle thou blow,

The smalle rayne down can rayne?

Cryst, yf my love were in my Armys⁰ arms

And I yn my bed a gayne!

A Carol of Agincourt⁷

Deo gracias, Anglia,

*Redde pro victoria.*⁸

Oure kinge went forth to Normandy
With grace and might of chivalry.⁰ men at arms

5 Ther God for him wrought mervelusly:
Wherefore Englonde may calle and cry.

Deo gracias ...

6. This lyric survives, with music, in an early accounts record a number of celebratory proces-sixteenth-century manuscript. Although it seems sions on Henry V's triumphant return to London to be a secular love song, several Tudor composers at which such songs were sting. "Carol" is used used it in settings of the Mass.

here in the sense of a poem in short stanzas with

7. This is one of several poems in carol form cela burden, or refrain, repeated after each stanza.

celebrating the English victory over the French at

8. Return thanks to God, England, for victory Agincourt in 1415. This version is accompanied by (Latin).

music for solo voices and chorus. Contemporary

THE SACRAMENT OF THE ALTAR / 85

He sette a sege, the sothe⁰ for to say,

truth

To Harflu towne with ryal array:⁹

10 That towne he wan and made affray⁰ terror

That Fraunce shall riwe⁰ till Domesday.⁰

rue / Judgment Day

Deo gracias ...

Than went oure kinge with alle his hoste0

army

Throwe Fraunce, for alle the Frenshe boste:1

15 He spared, no drede, of lest ne moste,2

Till he come to Agincourt coste.0

district

Deo gracias ...

Than, forsoth,0 that knight comely0

truly / handsome

In Agincourt feld0 he faught manly.

field

20 Thorw grace of God most mighty

He had bothe the felde and the victory.

Deo gracias ...

There dukis and erlis, lorde and barone,

Where take0 and slaine, and that well sone,0 captured / quickly

25 And summe were ladde0 into Lundone0

led / London

With joye and merthe and grete renone.0

pomp

Deo gracias ...

Now gracious God he save oure kinge,3

His peple and alle his well-willinge:0

friends

30 YeP him gode life and gode ending,

give

That we with merthe mowe0 safely singe, may

Deo gracias ...

The Sacrament of the Altar⁴

It semes white and is red;

It is quike0 and semes dede;0

living / dead

It is fleshe and semes bred;

It is on0 and semes too;⁵

one

⁵ It is God body and no mo.0

more

9. Display of his military forces. Henry laid siege

3. I.e., may he save our king.

to and captured the French port of Harfleur shortly

4. This poem, which dates from about 1450, before the victory at Agincourt.

examines the paradox of the sacrament of the

1. I.e., in spite of French boasts or threats.

bread used in the Communion service. According

2. I.e., he spared, no doubt, neither the great nor to the doctrine of transubstantiation, the bread

the humble. Some editors print this line without becomes the living body of Christ.

punctuation, in which case it may be read: he

5. Two, probably a reference to the bread and the avoided no dangers, great or small.

wine of the Eucharist.

86 / W I L L I A M D U N B A R

See! Here, My Heart⁶

O! Mankinde,

Have in thy minde

My Passion smert,⁰ painful

And thou shall finde

5 Me full kinde—

Lo! here my hert.

W I L L I A M D U N B A R

ca. 1460—ca. 1525

Lament for the Makaris¹

I that in heill⁰ was and gladnes,

health

Am trublit now with gret seiknes,^c sickness

And feblit with infermite:

*Timor Mortis conturbat me.*²

5 Our plesance heir is all vane glory

This fals warld is bot transitory,

The flesche is brukle,⁰ the Fend is sle;^o frail / sly

Timor Mortis conturbat me.

The state of man dois change and vary,

10 Now sound, now seik, now blith,^o now sary,

happy / sorry

Now dansand mery, now like to dee;³

Timor Mortis conturbat me.

No stait in erd^o heir standis sickir;⁰

earth / securely

As with the wynd wavis⁰ the wickir,c waves / willow

Wavis this warldis vanite;

Timor Mortis conturbat me.

On to the ded gois all estatis,⁴

Princis, prelotis,⁰ and potestatis,⁰

prelates / potentates

Baith riche and pur⁰ of al degre;

poor

Timor Mortis conturbat me.

He takis the knychtis⁰ in to feild, knights

Anarmit^under helme and scheid;

armed

6. This poem is an early type of “emblem poem,”

2. The fear of death dismays me (Latin); a line a verse that interprets a symbolic picture. In a manfrom the liturgical Office of the Dead. Cf. the uscript from the early 1500s, the poem appears to anonymous fifteenth-century poem with the same the right of the face of a naked and wounded refrain (p. 82).

Christ, who is offering a kneeling supplicant a large

3. I.e., now dance and be merry, now likely to die.

and bleeding heart (“hert”) with a wound in its

4. Estates. Society was said to be divided into center.

three estates, or groups: those who ruled, those

1. Makers, poets.

who prayed, and those who labored.

L A M E N T F O R T H E M A K A R I S / 8 7

Victour he is at all mellie;0

battles

Timor Mortis conturbat me.

25 That Strang0 unmercifull tyrand strong

Takis on the moderis0 breist sowkand0

mother's / sucking

The bab, full of benignite;0

gentleness

Timor Mortis conturbat me.

He takis the campion0 in the stour,0 champion / battle

30 The capitane closit in the tour,° tower

The lady in bour0 full of bewte;

bower, chamber

Timor Mortis conturbat me.

He sparis no lord for his piscense,0

power

Na clerk0 for his intelligence;

scholar

35 His awful strak0 may no man fie;

stroke

Timor Mortis conturbat me.

Art magicianis,5 and astrologgis,0 astrologers

Rethoris,0 logicianis, and theologgis,

rhetoricians

Thame helpis no conclusionis sle;6

40 Timor Mortis conturbat me.

In medicyne the most0 practicianis,

greatest

Leichis,0 surriganis, and phisicianis,

doctors

Thame self fra ded^o may not supple;0

death / deliver

Timor Mortis conturbat me.

45 I see that makaris amang the laif0 remainder

Playis heir ther pageant, syne0 gois to grave;

then

Sparit0 is nocht0 ther faculte;

spared / not

Timor Mortis conturbat me.

He hes done petuously0 devour

piteously

50 The noble Chaucer, of makaris flour,0

flower

The Monk of Bery, and Gower, all thre;7

Timor Mortis conturbat me.

The gude Syr Hew of Eglintoun,8

And eik^o Heryot, and Wyntoun,

also

55 He hes tane out of this cuntre;

Timor Mortis conturbat me.

That scorpion fell hes done infeck⁰

infected

Maister Johne Clerk and James Afflek,

Fra ballat making and tragidie;

60 Timor Mortis conturbat me.

5. Those practicing the art of magic.

Amantis.

6. I.e., no clever conclusions help them.

8. The first in a list of Scots poets, some well-

7. Three English poets. The Monk of Bery: John known (e.g., Dunbar's contemporary Robert Henry Lydgate (1370?—1451?) wrote a great variety of rison, line 82), some obscure; Dunbar presented verse; he was considered second only to Chaucer Walter Kennedy (line 89) as his adversary in the during the sixteenth century. Gower: John Gower poem Flyting of Dunbar and Kennedie.

(1325?—1408), whose main poem is the Confessio

88 / W I L L I A M D U N B A R

Holland and Barbour he hes berevit;

Allace!^o that he nocht with us levit alas

Schir Mungo Lokert of the Le;^o lea, meado-w

Timor Mortis conturbat me.

65 Clerk of Tranent eik he hes tane,

That maid the Anteris⁰ of Gawane; adventures

Sir Gilbert Hay endit has he;9

Timor Mortis conturbat me.

He has Blind Hary, and Sandy Traill

70 Slaine with his schour° of mortal hail, shower

Quhilk0 Patrick Johnestoun myght nocht which flee;

Timor Mortis conturbat me.

He has reft Merseir his endite,1

That did in luf so lifly write,

75 So schort, so quyk, of sentence hie;° lively

Timor Mortis conturbat me.

He hes tane Roull of Aberdene,

And gentill Roull of Corstorphin;

Two bettir fallowis did no man se;

so Timor Mortis conturbat me.

In Dunfermelyne he has done0 roune° made / a circuit

With Maister Robert Henrisoun;

Schir Johne the Ros embrast hes he;

Timor Mortis conturbat me.

85 And he hes now tane, last of aw,

Gud gentill Stobo and Quintyne Schaw,2

Of quham° all wichtis0 has pete:° whom / creatures / pity

Timor Mortis conturbat me.

Gud Maister Walter Kennedy

90 In poynt of dede lyis veraly,3

Gret reuth° it wer that so suld° be; pity /should

Timor Mortis conturbat me.

Sen he hes all my brether0 tane, brothers

He will nocht lat me lif alane,
95 On forse I man his nyxt pray be;⁴

Timor Mortis conturbat me.

9. The “clerkly” author is not known, but Arthur-Mercer.

rian romances focusing on the hero Gawain were

2. A Scots poet. Stobo: a name for John Reid, popular in Scotland. Sir Gilbert Hay (d. 1456) priest and secretary to James II, III, and IV.

translated from French the poem The Buik [i.e.,

3. I.e., lies truly on the point of death.

Book] of Alexander.

4. Of necessity, I must be his next prey.

1. I.e., Death has taken the practice of poetry from

D O N E I S A B A T T L E / 8 9

Sen for the deid remeid^o is none, remedy

Best is that we for dede dispone,^o prepare

Eftir our deid that lif may we;

100 Timor Mortis conturbat me.

1508

Done Is a Battle⁵

Done is a battle on^o the dragon black, with

Our campion⁶ Christ confoundit has his force;

The yettis^o of hell are broken with a crack, gates

The sign triumphal raisit is of the cross,

5 The devillis trymmillis^o with hiddous voce, tremble

The saulis^o are borrowit^o and to the bliss can go, souls / ransomed

Christ with his bloud our ransonis dois indoce:0 endorse

Surrexit Dominus de sepulchro

Dungan0 is the deidly dragon Lucifer, beaten

The cruewall serpent with the mortal stang;

The auld kene tiger, with his teith on char,8

Whilk0 in a wait has lyen for us so lang, which

Thinking to grip us in his clawis Strang;

The merciful Lord wald0 nocht0 that it were so, would/not

He made him for to failye0 of that fang.0 fail /prey

Surrexit Dominus de sepulchro.

He for our saik that sufferit to be slane,

And lyk a lamb in sacrifice was dicht,0 prepared

Is lyk a lion rissen up agane,

20 And as a gyane0 raxit0 him on hicht;0 giant /stretched / high

Sprungin is Aurora9 rarious0 and bricht, radiant

On loft is gone the glorious Apollo,1

The blissful day departit0 fro the nicht: separated

Surrexit Dominus de sepulchro.

25 The grit victour again is rissen on hicht,

That for our querrell to the deth was woundit;

The sun that wox° all pale now shynis bricht, waxed

And, derkness clearit,0 our faith is now refoundit;0 cleared / reestablished The knell of mercy fra the heaven is soundit,

30 The Christin are deliverit of their wo,

The Jowis0 and their errour are confoundit: Jews

Surrexit Dominus de sepulchro.

5. This Easter hymn depicts Christ's Resurrection

7. The Lord is risen from the grave (Latin); the

as a battle with the Devil. Dunbar draws on the line echoes the opening of the Matins, or Easter-narrative of the harrowing of hell in the apocryphal morning church service.

Gospel of Nicodemus, in which Christ journeys to 8. Ajar, i.e., with his mouth open.

hell to free virtuous souls born before his coming.

9. Roman goddess of the dawn.

6. Champion, i.e., one who fights on behalf of

1. Greek and Roman god of sunlight, prophecy, another.

music, and poetry.

90 / J O H N S K E L T O N

The fo is chasit, the battle is done ceis,^o ceased

The presone broken, the jevellouris^o fleit^o and jailers / fled

flemit;^o banished

The weir^o is gon, confermit is the peis, war

The fetteris^o lowsit^o and the dungeon temit,^o shackles / loosed / emptied

The ransoun made, the prisoneris redeemit;

The field is won, owrecomen is the fo,

Dispuilit^o of the treasure that he yemit:^o

despoiled / kept

Surrexit Dominus de sepulchro.

ca. 1510

JOHNSKELTON

1460-1529

Mannerly Margery Milk and Ale¹

Ay, beshrew⁰ you! by my fay,[°] curse /faith

These wanton clerks be nice² alway!

Avaunt,[°] avaunt, my popinjay!³ get out

What, will ye do nothing but play?

⁵ Tilly vally, straw,⁴ let be I say!

Gup, Christian Clout, gup, Jack of the Vale!⁵

With Mannerly Margery Milk and Ale.

By God, ye be a pretty pode,[°]

toad

And I love you an whole cart-load.⁶

¹⁰ Straw, James Foder,⁷ ye play the fode,[°]

deceiver

I am no hackney⁸ for your rod:[°]

riding

Go watch a bull,⁹ your back is broad!

Gup, Christian Clout, gup, Jack of the Vale!

With Mannerly Margery Milk and Ale.

¹⁵ Ywis[°] ye deal uncourteously; for certain

What, would ye frumple⁰ me? now fy! wrinkle, muss up

1. Two copies of this poem survive, with consid-

3. Parrot; a symbol of vanity.

erable variation between them. Critics disagree

4. Expressions of contemptuous rejection: fiddle-about which lines belong to which speaker and sticks, poppycock, nonsense.

about what “happens” between the third and

5. A contemptuous name. Gup: contracted (?) fourth stanzas. The refrain could be divided from go up; sometimes an exclamation of derision, between Margery and James, or it could be spoken remonstrance, or surprise, sometimes a command

by a third party, as is suggested by an early musical (get along, get out; get up; also, a command to a setting that makes the poem a song for three horse, giddy up). Christian Clout: an epithet for a voices.

rural fellow.

The title is an epithet for a servant girl. Man-

6. I.e., a large amount.

nerly: well-mannered, with a possible ironic reflec-

7. James weed, ragwort, useless stuff. Straw:

tion on a serving girl’s aspirations.

expression of contempt.

2. Variously meant foolish, finicky, or lascivious.

8. I.e., an ordinary riding horse (as distinct from a “Clerk” originally denoted a member of the clergy

warhorse or a plowhorse); a prostitute.

(from Latin, clericus), but it became a general

9. I.e., go look after farm animals.

name for a scholar or student.

T o M I S T R E S S M A R G A R E T H U S S E Y / 9 1

What, and ye shall be my pigesnye?1

By Christ, ye shall not, no hardely:0 indeed
I will not be japed² bodily!
20 Gup, Christian Clout, gup, Jack of the Vale!
With Mannerly Margery Milk and Ale.
Walk forth your way, ye cost me nought;
Now have I found that I have sought:
The best cheap flesh that ever I bought.
25 Yet, for his love that all hath wrought,
Wed me, or else I die for thought.
Gup, Christian Clout, your breath is stale!
Go, Mannerly Margery Milk and Ale!
Gup, Christian Clout, gup, Jack of the Vale!
30 With Mannerly Margery Milk and Ale.

ca. 1 4 9 5 1 5 2 3

To Mistress Margaret Hussey³
Merry Margaret,⁴
As midsummer flower,
Gentle as falcon
Or hawk of the tower:⁵
5 With solace and gladness,
Much mirth and no madness,
All good and no badness;
So joyously,
So maidenly,
10 So womanly
Her demeaning⁰ demeanour
In every thing,
Far, far passing

That I can indite,⁰ compose

15 Or suffice to write

Of Merry Margaret

As midsummer flower,

Gentle as falcon

Or hawk of the tower.

20 As patient and still

And as full of good will

As fair Isaphill,⁶

1. Pet; also, a common flower.

Hussey; she died in August 1492. Mistress: title for

2. Tricked, with a reference to sexual intercourse.

an upper-class married woman; a courteous form.

3. This poem is one of ten lyrics included in Skel-

4. Meaning daisy, the flower.

ton's The Garland of Laurel, in which the poet is

5. A hawk bred and trained to fly high.

crowned with a laurel wreath (the symbol of poetic

6. Hypsipyle, mythological daughter of Thaos, achievement) by the countess of Surrey and her

king of Lemnos, saved her father when the women

ladies; in return, he writes a poem in praise of each of Lemnos killed the men of the island, bore twin of them. "Margaret Hussey," while not identified sons to Jason, and was then deserted by him. She with any certainty, was perhaps the daughter of endured slavery while searching for her father and

Simon Blount of Mangotsfield and married to John her sons.

92 / JOHNSKELTON

Coriander,7

Sweet pomander,8

25 Good Cassander,9

Steadfast of thought,

Well made, well wrought,

Far may be sought

Ere that ye can find

30 So courteous, so kind

As Merry Margaret,

This midsummer flower,

Gentle as falcon

Or hawk of the tower.

1492, 15221523

From Colin Clout1

HEREAFTERFOLLOWETHALITTLEBOOK CALLED COLIN CLOUT, COMPILED BY MASTERSKELTON, POETLAUREATE. 2

Quis consurget mecum adversus malignantes? aut quis stabit mecum

adversus operantes iniquitatem? Nemo, Domine!3

What can it avail4

To drive forth a snail,

Or to make a sail

Of an herring's tail;

5 To rhyme or to rail,

To write or to indict,

Either for delight

Or else for despight;
Or books to compile
10 Of divers manner of style,
Vice to revile
And sin to exile;

7. An aromatic herb, believed to soothe pain.

a blow with the hand. In this poem of more than

8. A mixture of perfumed or aromatic substances twelve hundred lines, Skelton uses his verse as a made into a ball.

satirical weapon against bishops and archbishops

9. Cassandra, mythological daughter of Priam, of the English Church who placed worldly ambiking of Troy; another figure of steadfastness. After tions above their ecclesiastical duties. Skelton's

she refused him as a lover, the god Apollo made prime opponent is Cardinal Thomas Wolsey (ca.

her a prophet whom listeners would always disbe-1475—1530), who rose to and fell from great power

lieve, as they did when she foretold the fall of Troy.

during Henry VIII's reign (1509-47), and who

1. Colin, from the Latin colonus (farmer), was a began the dissolution of monasteries—a process of stock name for a person of humble birth in the late alleged “reform” that Skelton abhorred.

medieval and Renaissance periods; “clout” has

2. In 1488, Skelton received the honorable title of multiple meanings relevant to the poetic persona

“laureate” from Oxford University.

that Skelton creates and that Spenser significantly

3. Who will rise up for me against the evil-doers?

imitates in his Shepheardes Calender (see “Aprill,” or who will stand up for me against the workers of

p. 159). Skelton plays on meanings not only of iniquity? (Latin); from Psalm 94.14. No one, lord humble birth but also of satirical force: “clout”

(Latin); from John 8.11.

(variously spelled in this era) can signify a patch of

4. I.e., what good can it do. The first four lines cloth such as those worn by vagrant clerks, a clot

and many others in the poem are based on well-or clod of earth (recalling Langland’s persona Piers known proverbs.

Plowman; see p. 71), a type of rough shoe, and also

COLINCLOUT / 93

To teach or to preach,

As reason will reach?

15 Say this, and say that,

His5 head is so fat,

He wotteth0 never what knows

Nor whereof he speaketh;

He crieth and he creaketh,

20 He prieth and he peeketh,6

He chides and he chatters,

He prates and he patters,

He clitters0 and he clatters, chatters

He meddles and he smatters, 25 He gloses⁰ and he flatters; interprets
Or if he speak plain,
Then he lacketh brain,
He is but a fool;
Let him go to school,
30 On a three footed stool
That he may down sit,
For he lacketh wit;
And if that he hit
The nail on the head,
35 It standeth in no stead;
The devil, they say, is dead,
The devil is dead.⁷
It may well so be,
Or else they would see 40 Otherwise, and flee
From worldly vanity,
And foul covetousness,
And other wretchedness,
Fickle falseness,
45 Variableness,
With unstableness.
And if ye stand in doubt
Who brought this rhyme about,
My name is Colin Clout.
50 I purpose⁰ to shake out aim
All my connying bag,

Like a clerkly hag;⁸
For though my rhyme be ragged,
Tattered and jagged,
55 Rudely rain beaten,

5. Apparently refers to the poet as seen by his critique of evil.

detractors, who scorn him whether he writes and

8. Wandering clerks (members of the clergy) typically carried pouches; although “hag” usually (line 26).

referred to an old woman, it was sometimes used

6. I.e., he pries into things and goads us (or, possibly, he pries and peeks into things).

“connyng” bag, to which the poet compares his

7. Based on a proverbial saying, these lines evidently express the reaction of an imaginary audience that doesn’t want to be bothered by Skelton’s duping through cleverness.

94 / J O H N S K E L T O N

Rusty and moth eaten,

If ye take well therewith,

It hath in it some pith.^o meaning

ca. 1521-22 ca. 1531

Phillip Sparow⁹

HEREAFTERFOLLOWETH[SELECTIONS
FROM]THEBOOKOF

PHILLIP SPAROW, COMPILED BY MASTERS
KELTON, POET LAUREATE. 1

Pla ce bo,2

Who is there, who?

Di le xi,3

Dame Margery;

5 Fa, re, my, my,4

Wherefore and why, why?

For the soul of Phillip Sparow,

That was late slain at Carow,

Among the Nuns Black,5

10 For that sweet soul's sake,

And for all sparrows' souls,

Set in our bead-rolls,6

Pater noster qui,

With an Ave Mari,7

15 And with the corner of a creed,8

The more shall be your meed,^o reward

Whan I remember again

How my Phillip was slain,

Never half the pain

20 Was between you twain,

Pyramus and Thisbe,9

As then befell^o to me: happened

9. This poem of approximately 1,380 lines begins

3. I love [the Lord, because he hath heard my with a long elegy (lines 1—884) for the pet sparrow voice] (Latin); from Psalm 114.1.

of a gentlewoman named Jane Scrope. (The sec-

4. Musical notes used at the close of the Office of ond part eulogizes Jane, and in the third part Skel-
the Dead.

ton defends himself against a detractor.) Imitating

5. Refers to the black robes worn by members of classical elegies for dead birds by Catullus and

the Benedictine order. Carow: Carrow Abbey,

Ovid and perhaps also the description of how a fox

where Jane Scrope went to live after her mother was killed Chantekler's daughter in William Caxton's widowed for the second time, in 1502. Aseniornun early printed translation of the Dutch Reynard the named Margery is mentioned in the records of this

Fox (1481), Skelton's poem makes Jane the first-abbey, which was founded by the Benedictines.

person comic narrator of the first part, interweav-

6. List of people for whom the nuns prayed with ing her lamenting verse (in the running-rhyme

the "beads" of their rosaries.

form known as "Skeltonic"; see "Versification,"

7. "Hail Mary"; the previous Latin phrase opens

pp. 2046—47) with Latin phrases from the solemn

the Lord's Prayer ("Our Father which ...").

Catholic funeral service called the Office of the

8. A prayer about Christian beliefs (from credere,

Dead.

Latin for “to believe”) that was typically printed,

1. See note 2, p. 92.

along with the “Hail Mary” and “Our Father,” on

2. I shall please [the Lord] (Latin); from Psalm the first page of elementary reading books (prim-

114.9. “Placebo,” like all other citations of the ers). Skelton probably refers to the “corner” of the Psalms in this poem (cited according to their num-

“creed” because only part of that prayer usually fit bering in the Catholic Bible known as the Vulgate),

on the first page of the primer.

is used in the Vespers, or evening service of the

9. Lovers tragically separated in a story told by

Office of the Dead. The spacing of the syllables

Ovid (Metamorphoses) and Chaucer (Legend of suggests the plainsong music of the Mass.

Good Women), among others.

P H I L L I P S P A R O W / 9 5

I wept and I wailed,

The tears down hailed;

But nothing it availed¹

To call Phillip again,

Whom Gib our cat hath slain.

Gib, I say, our cat

Worowed² her on that

Which I loved best:

It can not be expressed

My sorowful heaviness,

But all without redress;
For within that stound,° moment
Half slumb'ring, in a sound⁰ faint
I fell down to the ground.
Unneth° I cast mine eyes scarcely
Toward the cloudy skies:
But when I did behold
My sparrow dead and cold,
No creature but that would
Have rewedūpon me, had pity
To behold and see
What heaviness did me pang;° affect with pain
Wherewith my hands I wrang,
That my sinews cracked,
As though I had been racked,⁰ tortured
So pained and so strained
That no life wellnigh remained.
I sighed and I sobbed,
For that I was robbed
Of my sparrow's life.
O maiden, widow, and wife,
Of what estate ye be,
Of high or low degree,
Great sorow than⁰ ye might see, then
And learn to weep at° me! from Such pains did me fret,
That mine heart did beat,
My visage pale and dead,

Wan, and blue as lead;
The pangs of hateful death
Wellnigh had stopped my breath.
Though I have enrolled⁰ inscribed
750 A thousand new and old
Of these historious⁰ tales, historical
To fill bougets⁰ and males⁰ bags/pouches
With books that I have read,
Yet I am nothing sped ... 3

1. I.e., it did no good. sparrow.

2. Worried, i.e., bit. "Gib," short for Gilbert, was 3. I.e., I've gotten nowhere, a standard name for a cat, as Phillip was for a pet

96 / J O H N S K E L T O N

For, as I tofore⁰ have said, before
I am but a young maid,
And cannot in effect
My style as yet direct⁰ control
With English words elect:⁰ -well chosen
Our natural tongue is rude,⁴
And hard to be ennewed⁰ revived
With polished terms lusty;
Our language is so rusty,
So cankered,⁰ and so full infected
Of f r o w a r d s , ⁰ a n d s o d u l l , badly formed -words
That if I would apply⁰ try
To write ornately,⁵
I wot⁰ not where to find know
Terms to serve my mind.

Wherefore hold me excused
If I have not well perused⁰ studied carefully
Mine English half abused;
Though it be refused,
In worth I shall it take,⁶
And fewer wordes make.
But, for my sparrow's sake,
Yet as a woman may,
My wit I shall assay
An epitaph to write
In Latin plain and light,
Whereof the elegy
Followeth by and by:

*Flos volucrum formose, vale!*⁷

Philippe, sub isto

Marmore jam recubas,

Qui mihi carus eras.

Semper erunt nitido

Radiantia sidera cselo;

Impressusque meo

Pectore semper eris.

Per me laurigerum

Britonum Skeltonida vatem

Hsec cecinisse licet

4. Uneducated, lacking in polish.

birds, beautiful one! Phillip, you lie now beneath

5. With rhetorical embellishment of the kind this marble, you who were dear to me. So long as taught in the grammar schools, which focused dur-the stars shine in the sky, you will always be ing Skelton’s era on Latin rather than English com-engraved in my heart. By me, Skelton, the laureate position and which were generally closed to girls.

poet of Britain, these things could be sung under
6. I.e., I’ll take it in good part.

a feigned likeness. She whose bird you were is a 7. Although Jane claims to write the following maiden of surpassing beauty. Nias [presumably lines, Skelton implicitly (and perhaps ironically) one of the classical water nymphs known as ‘nai-undermines her claim by switching to Latin; he ads’] was fair, but Jane is lovelier; Corinna was explicitly asserts his own authorship of the entire learned, but Jane is wiser.” Corinna is the woman first part of the poem in lines 827—44. Translated, who laments her dead parrot in Ovid’s Amores.

lines 826—43 go as follows: “Farewell, flower of

THE DOUGLASS TRAGEDY / 97

Ficta sub imagine texta.

Cujus eras volucris,

Praestanti corfore virgo:

840 Candida Nais erat,

Formosior ista Joanna est;

Docta Corinna fuit,

Sed magis ista sapit.

Bien m’en souvient.⁸

ca. 1505-07 ca. 1545

EARLY MODERN BALLADS 1

The Douglas Tragedy²

i

“Rise up, rise up, now, Lord Douglas,” she says,

“And put on your armor so bright;

Let it never be said that a daughter of thine

Was married to a lord under night.

2

5 “Rise up, rise up, my seven bold sons,

And put on your armor so bright,

And take better care of your youngest sister,

For your eldest’s awa’^o the last night.” away

3

He’s mounted her on a milk-white steed,

10 And himself on a dapple gray,

With a bugelet^o horn hung down by his side, small bugle

And lightly they rode away.

4

Lord William looked o’er his left shoulder,

To see what he could see,

15 And there he spied her seven brethren bold,

Come riding over the lea.^o meadow

8. I remember it well (French); Skelton uses this tunes. While some ballads originated as folk songs phrase elsewhere in his poetry.

and were written down (and/or printed) much later

I. The following ballads exist in numerous ver-

(sometimes centuries later), other ballads were initially made to be read—and sold—as printed objects. Even manuscript or printed versions of Ballads (five volumes, 1882-98). Child's different ballads, among the latter being the "broadsides" versions, designated by alphabetical letters here printed cheaply on single sheets and sold at fairs and in his edition, reveal different political and and by peddlers along the road, might sub-ethical interpretations of a given story. Ballads frequently be orally transmitted, since they could be often contain topical allusions, and most popular heard and memorized by the non- or partially lit- ballads from the fourteenth through the seven-erate person.

teenth centuries, in contrast to later literary

2. From Child, No. 7.B.

instances of the genre, were sung to well-known

9 8 / E A R L Y M O D E R N B A L L A D S

5

"Light down, light down, Lady Margret," he said,

"And hold my steed in your hand,

Until that against your seven brethren bold,

20 And your father, I mak a stand."

6

She held his steed in her milk-white hand,

And never shed one tear,
Until that she saw her seven brethren fa', ° fall
And her father hard fighting, who loved her so dear.

7

25 “O hold your hand, Lord William!” she said,
“For your strokes they are wondrous sair; ° sore
True lovers I can get many a ane, ° one
But a father I can never get mair.” ° more

8

O she's ta'en out her handkerchief,
30 It was o ' t h e holland ° sae ° fine, linen/so
And aye she dighted ° her father's bloody wounds, dressed
That were redder than the wine.

9

“O choose, O choose, Lady Margret,” he said,
“O whether will ye gang ° or bide?”
35 “I'll gang, I'll gang, Lord William,” she said,
“For ye have left me no other guide.”

io

He's lifted her on a milk-white steed,
And himself on a dapple gray,
With a bugelet horn hung down by his side,
40 And slowly they baith rade away.

II

O they rade on, and on they rade,
And a' by the light of the moon,
Until they came to yon wan ° water, dark
And there they lighted down.

12

45 They lighted down to tak a drink
Of the spring that ran sae clear,
And down the stream ran his good heart's blood,
And sair she 'gan to fear.

THE DOUGLAS TRAGEDY / 99

13

"Hold up, hold up, Lord William," she says,
50 "For I fear that you are slain."
"Tis naething but the shadow of my scarlet cloak,
That shines in the watersae plain."

14

O they rade on, and on they rade,
And a' by the light of the moon,
55 Until they came to his mother's ha'° door,
hall
And there they lighted down.

15

"Get up, get up, lady mother," he says,
"Get up, and let me in!
Get up, get up, lady mother," he says,
60 "For this night my fair lady I've win."

16

"O mak my bed, lady mother," he says,
"O mak it braid and deep, broad
And lay Lady Margret close at my back,
And the soulder I will sleep."

17

Lord William was dead lang 0 ere midnight, long Lady Margret langered day,
And all true loversthatgothegither, 0 together
Maytheyhavemairluckthanthey!

18

Lord William was buried in St. Mary's kirk,^o church 7 0 Lady Margret in Mary's choir; Outo'thelady'sgravegrewabonnyredrose
,Andouto'theknight'sabriar.

19

Andtheytwamet, andtheytwaplat, 0 plaited A ndfaintheywad^o benear; would
75 Anda'theworldmightken^o rightweelknow Theyweretwaloversdear.

20

ButbyandradetheBlackDouglas, Andwowbuthewasrough!
Forhepulledupthebonnybriar, soAndflang'tinSt. Mary'sLoch. 0 lake

100 / EARLY MODERN BALLADS

Lord Randal3

i

"O where ha' you been, Lord Randal, my son?
And where ha' you been, my handsome young man?"
"I ha' been at the greenwood; mother, mak my bed soon,
For I'm wearied wi' huntin', and fain wad0 lie down." would

2

5 "And wha^o met ye there, Lord Randal, my son? who
And wha met you there, my handsome young man?"
"O I met wi' my true-love; mother, mak my bed soon,

For I'm wearied wi' huntin', and fain wad lie down."

3

"And what did she give you, Lord Randal, my son?

10 And what did she give you, my handsome young man?"

"Eels fried in a pan; mother, mak my bed soon,

For I'm wearied wi' huntin', and fain wad lie down."

4

"And wha gat your leavin's, Lord Randal, my son?

And wha gat your leavin's, my handsome young man?"

15 "My hawks and my hounds; mother, mak my bed soon,

For I'm wearied wi' huntin', and fain wad lie down."

5

"And what becam of them, Lord Randal, my son?

And what becam of them, my handsome young man?"

"They stretched their legs out and died; mother, mak my bed soon,

20 For I'm wearied wi' huntin', and fain wad lie down."

6

"O I fear you are poisoned, Lord Randal, my son!

I fear you are poisoned, my handsome young man!"

"O yes, I am poisoned; mother, mak my bed soon,

For I'm sick at the heart, and I fain wad lie down."

7

25 "What d' ye leave to your mother, Lord Randal, my son?

What d'ye leave to your mother, my handsome young man?"

"Four and twenty milk kye^o; mother, mak my bed soon, kine, cattle

For I'm sick at the heart, and I fain wad lie down."

8

“What d’ ye leave to your sister, Lord Randal, my son?
30 What d’ ye leave to your sister, my handsome young man?”

3. Child, No. 12.A.

THE THREE RAVENS / 101

“My gold and my silver; mother, mak my bed soon,
For I’m sick at the heart, and I fain wad lie down.”

9

“What d’ ye leave to your brother, Lord Randal, my son?
What d’ ye leave to your brother, my handsome young
man?”

35 “My houses and my lands; mother, mak my bed soon,
For I’m sick at the heart, and I fain wad lie down.”

10

“What d’ ye leave to your true-love, Lord Randal, my son?
What d’ ye leave to your true-love, my handsome young
man?”

“I leave her hell and fire; mother, mak my bed soon,
40 For I’m sick at the heart, and I fain wad lie down.”

The Three Ravens⁴

i

There were three ravens sat on a tree,

Down a down, hay down, hay down.

There were three ravens sat on a tree,

With a down,

5 There were three ravens sat on a tree,

They were as black as they might be.

With a down derry, derry, derry, down, down.

2

The one of them said to his mate,

“Where shall we our breakfast take?”

3

10 “Down in yonder greene field,
There lies a knight slain under his shield.

4

“His hounds they lie down at his feet,
So well they can their master keep.

5

“His hawks they fly so eagerly,⁰ fiercely
15 There’s no fowl dare him come nigh.”

6

Down there comes a fallow⁵ doe,
As great with young as she might go.

4. Child, No. 26; first printed in a songbook in line repeated in line 5.

1611. All stanzas follow the pattern of the first, 5. A species of pale-brownish or reddish-yellow with the refrain in lines 2, 4, and 7, and the first deer.

1 0 2 / E A R L Y M O D E R N B A L L A D S

7

She lift up his bloody head
And kissed his wounds that were so red.

20 She got him up upon her back
And carried him to earthen lake.⁰ ditch

9

She buried him before the prime;⁶
She was dead herself ere even-song time.

10

God send every gentleman

25 Such hawks, such hounds, and such a leman.° lover, sweetheart

The Twa Corbies⁷

i

As I was walking all alane,

I heard twa corbies making a mane;° moan

The taneunto the t'other say, one

“Where salP we gang⁰ and dine to-day?” shall/go

2

5 “In behint you auld° fail⁰ dyke,° old / turf / ditch

I wot° there lies a new slain knight; know

And naebody kens° that he lies there, knows

But his hawk, his hound, and lady fair.

3

“His hound is to the hunting gane,° gone

10 His hawk to fetch the wild-fowl hame,

His lady's ta'en another mate,

So we may mak our dinner sweet.

4

“Ye'll sit on his white hause-bane,° neck hone

And I'll pike° out his bonny blue een° pick/eyes

15 Wi' ae° lock o' his gowden⁰ hair one /golden

We'll theek° our nest when it grows bare. thatch

5

“Mony° a one for him makes mane, many

But nane° sall° ken° where he is gane; none/shall /know

O'er his white banes,⁰ when they are bare, hones

20 The wind sail blaw for evermair.”

6. According to Catholic Church ritual, the first Scott's Minstrelsy of the Scottish Border (1802-03), hour of the day, between 6 and 9 A.M. this ballad is a cynical version of "The Three Ravens." The two ravens. First printed in Sir Walter Scott's, "above."

SIR PATRICK SPENS / 103

Sir Patrick Spens⁸

The king sits in Dumferling town,
Drinking the blude-reid⁰ wine: blood-red
"O whar will I get guid⁰ sailor, good
To sail this ship of mine?"
Up and spak⁰ an eldern knicht, spoke
Sat at the king's richt knee:
"Sir Patrick Spens is the best sailor
That sails upon the sea."

3

The king has written a braid⁹ letter
And signed it wi' his hand,
And sent it to Sir Patrick Spens,
Was walking on the sand.

4

The first line that Sir Patrick read,
A loud lauch⁰ lauched he; laugh
The next line that Sir Patrick read,
The tear blinded his ee.^o eye

5

"O wha is this has done this deed,
This ill deed done to me,
To send me out this time o' the year,

To sail upon the sea?

6

“Mak haste, mak haste, my mirry men all,
Our guid ship sails the morn.”

“O say na sae,° my master dear, so
For I fear a deadly storm.

7

“Late, late yestre’en I saw the new moon
Wi’ the auld moon in hir arm,
And I fear, I fear, my dear master,
That we will come to harm.”

8. Child, No. 58.A. This ballad, first printed in also named Margaret, was drowned with her escort 1765, tells a story that may be based on two voy-on the way to a marriage in Scotland in 1290. In ages of thirteenth-century Scots noblemen to con-Child version H, Patrick is sent to Norway to bring duct princesses to royal marriages. Margaret, the king’s daughter home. In all versions, Patrick daughter of Alexander III, was married in 1281 to is sent to sea against his will.

Eric of Norway, and many members of her escort

9. Broad, i.e., long.

were drowned on the voyage home. Her daughter,

104 / EARLY MODERN BALLADS

O our Scots nobles were richt laith°

loath

To weet0 their cork-heeled shoon,c wet / shoes

But lang or0 a' the play were played

before

Their hats they swam aboon.1

O lang,° lang may their ladies sit,

long

Wi' their fans into their hand,

Or ere they see Sir Patrick Spens

Come sailing to the land.

O lang, lang may the ladies stand

Wi' their gold kerns0 in their hair, combs

Waiting for their ain dear lords,

For they'll see them na mair.

I I

Half o'er, half o'er to Aberdour

It's fifty fathom deep,

And there lies guid Sir Patrick Spens

Wi' the Scots lords at his feet.

The Unquiet Grave2

i

“The wind doth blow today, my love,

And a few small drops of rain;

I never had but one true-love,

In cold grave she was lain.

2

5 “I'll do as much for my true-love

As any young man may;

I'll sit and mourn all at her grave
For a twelvemonth and a day."

3

The twelvemonth and a day being up,
10 The dead began to speak:
"Oh who sits weeping on my grave,
And will not let me sleep?"

4

" 'T is I, my love, sits on your grave,
And will not let you sleep;

1. I.e., their hats swam above (them).

2. Child, No. 78.A; from a nineteenth-century version collected in the journal Folk Lore Record.

T H E W I F E O F U S H E R ' S W E L L / 1 0 5

15 For I crave one kiss of your clay-cold lips,
And that is all I seek."

5

"You crave one kiss of my clay-cold lips,
But my breath smells earthy strong;
If you have one kiss of my clay-cold lips,
20 Your time will not be long.

6

" 'T is down in yonder garden green,
Love, where we used to walk,
The finest flower that e'er was seen
Is withered to a stalk.

7

25 "The stalk is withered dry, my love,

So will our hearts decay;
So make yourself content, my love,
Till God calls you away.”

The Wife of Usher's Well³

i

There lived a wife at Usher's Well,
And a wealthy wife was she;
She had three stout and stalwart sons,
And sent them o'er the sea.

They hadna been a week from her,

A week but barely ane,^o one

Whan word came to the carlin^o wife old

That her three sons were gane.

3

They hadna been a week from her,

A week but barely three,

Whan word came to the carlin wife

That her sons she'd never see.

4

“I wish the wind may never cease,

Nor fashes^o in the flood, troubles

15 Till my three sons come hame to me,

In earthly flesh and blood.”

3. Child, No. 79.A; from Sir Walter Scott's Minstrelsy of the Scottish Border (1802-03).

106 / EARLY MODERN BALLADS

14

It fell about the Martinmass,⁴

When nights are lang and mirk,0 murky
The carlin wife's three sons came hame,
20 And their hats were o' the birk.0 birch
6

It neither grew in syke0 nor ditch, trench
N o r yet in any sheugh;0 furrow
But at the gates o' Paradise,
That birk grew fair eneugh.

7

25 "Blow up the fire, my maidens,
Bring water from the well;
For a' my house shall feast this night,
Since my three sons are well."
And she has made to them a bed,
She's made it large and wide,
And she's ta'en her mantle0 her about, cloak
Sat down at the bed-side.

9

Up then crew the red, red cock,
And up and crew the gray;
The eldest to the youngest said,
" 'T is time we were away."
The cock he hadna crawled but once,
And clapped his wings at a',
When the youngest to the eldest said,
"Brother, we must awa'".
"The cock doth craw, the day doth daw,
The channerin'0 worm doth chide; fretting

Gin0 we be missed out o' our place, if
A sair0 pain we maun0 bide. sore / must 12

“Fare ye weel, my mother dear!
Fareweel to barn and byre!0 cowhouse
And fare ye weel, the bonny lass,
That kindles my mother’s fire!”

4. The feast of St. Martin (Pope Martin I, martyred 655 C.E.), November 11.

B O N N Y B A R B A R A A L L A N / 1 0 7

Bonny Barbara Allan5

i

It was in and about the Martinmas6 time,
When the green leaves were a falling,
That Sir John Graeme, in the West Country, Fell in love with Barbara Allan.

He sent his man down through the town,
To the place where she was dwelling:

“O haste and come to my master dear, Gin0 ye be Barbara Allan.” *if 3

O hooly,0 hooly rose she up, slowly, gently
To the place where he was lying,

And when she drew the curtain by:

“Young man, I think you’re dying.”

4

“O it’s I’m sick, and very, very sick,
And ‘tis a’ for Barbara Allan.”

“O the better for me ye s’^o never be, shall Though your heart’s blood were a-spilling.

5

“O dinna⁰ ye mind, young man,” said she, don’t
“When ye was in the tavern a drinking,
That ye made the healths gae^o round and round, go
And slighted Barbara Allan?”

6

He turned his face unto the wall,
And death was with him dealing:
“Adieu, adieu, my dear friends all,
And be kind to Barbara Allan.”

7

25 And slowly, slowly raise she up,
And slowly, slowly left him,
And sighing said, she could not stay,
Since death of life had reft him.

8

She had not gane a mile but twa,
30 When she heard the dead-bell ringing,

5. Child, No. 84.A; from the Tea Table Miscellany 6. See note
4, p. 106.

(1763).

108 / EARLY MODERN BALLADS

And every jow^o that the dead-bell geid,⁰ stroke /gave It cried, “Woe to Barbara Allan!”

9

“O mother, mother, make my bed!

O make it soft and narrow!

35 Since my love died for me to-day,

I'll die for him to-morrow."

Mary Hamilton⁷

i

Word's gane to the kitchen,

And word's gane to the ha',^o hall

That Marie Hamilton gangs⁰ wi' bairn⁰ goes/child

To the hichest⁰ Stewart of a'. highest

He's courted her in the kitchen,

He's courted her in the ha',

He's courted her in the laigh cellar,⁸

And that was warst of a'.

3

She's tied it in her apron

And she's thrown it in the sea;

Says, "Sink ye, swim ye, bonny wee babe!

You'll ne'er get mair o' me."

4

Down then cam the auld queen,

Goud⁰ tassels tying her hair: gold

"O Marie, where's the bonny wee babe

That I heard greet⁰ sae⁰ sair?"⁰ cry / so / sorely

5

"There was never a babe intil^P my room, in

As little designs to be;

It was but a touch o' my sair⁰ side, sore

Come o'er my fair body."

7. Child, No. 173.A. This ballad, first cited in ballad form identify the baby's father as the king, 1790 and first printed in the early nineteenth century, probably alluding to Lord Darnley, Mary Stuart's frequently unfaithful second husband. Different versions of the ballad offer different views on Mary Papers, Mary, queen of Scotland, had four maids-in-waiting who bore her first name. The Protestant Child believes that this ballad alludes to events writer John Knox, hostile both to female rulers and that occurred in the Russian court of Peter the Great (1672-1725) rather than in that of Mary Stuart. the maids-in-waiting for murdering a child she had conceived illicitly with the court apothecary (His-

8. Low cellar, basement.
tory of the Reformation). Most versions of the story

MARY HAMILTON / 109

6

“O Marie, put on your robes o’ black,
Or else your robes o’ brown,
For ye maun0 gang wi’ me the night, must
To see fair Edinbro’ town.”

7

“I winna0 put on my robes o’ black, won’t
Nor yet my robes o’ brown;
But I’ll put on my robes o’ white,
To shine through Edinbro’ town.”
When she gaed0 up the Cannogate,⁹ went
She laughed loud laughters three;
But when she cam down the Cannogate
The tear blinded her ee.° eye

9

When she gaed up the Parliament stair,
The heel cam aff her shee;
And lang or0 she cam down again before
She was condemned to dee.

10

When she cam down the Cannogate,
The Cannogate sae free,
Many a lady looked o’er her window,
40 Weeping for this lady.

11

“Ye need nae weep for me,” she says,
“Ye need nae weep for me;
For had I not slain mine own sweet babe,
This death I wadna dee.

12

45 “Bring me a bottle of wine,” she says,
“The best that e’er ye ha’e,
That I may drink to my weil-wishers,
And they may drink to me.

13

“Here’s a health to the jolly sailors,

50 That sail upon the main;

Let them never let on to my father and mother

But what I’m coming hame.

9. The Canongate is the Edinburgh street leading which was both jail and judicial chamber and, on uphill from Holyrood House (where the queen and occasion, the place where Parliament (line 33) sat.

the “four Maries” of line 69 lived) to the Tolbooth,

1 1 0 / E A R L Y M O D E R N B A L L A D S

1 4

“Here’s a health to the jolly sailors,

That sail upon the sea;

55 Let them never let on to my father and mother

That I cam here to dee.

15

“Oh little did my mother think,

The day she cradled me,

What lands I was to travel through,

60 What death I was to dee.

16

“Oh little did my father think,

The day he held up me,

What lands I was to travel through,

What death I was to dee.

17

65 “Last night I washed the queen’s feet,

And gently laid her down;

And a' the thanks I've gotten the night¹
To be hanged in Edinbro' town!

18

“Last night there was four Maries,
70 The night there'll be but three;
There was Marie Seton, and Marie Beton,
And Marie Carmichael, and me.”

Get Up and Bar the Door²

It fell about the Martinmas³ time,
And a gay time it was then,
When our goodwife got puddings to make,
And she's boiled them in the pan.

2

5 The wind sae^o cauld blew south and north, so
And blew into the floor;

Quoth our goodman to our goodwife,

“Gae^o out and bar the door.” go

3

“My hand is in my hussyfskap.⁰ housewife's work

10 Goodman, as ye may see;

1. I.e., tonight. Ancient and Modern Scots Songs (1769).

2. Child, No. 275.A; from David Herd, The 3. See note 4, p. 106.

GET UP AND BARTHE DOOR / 1 1 1

An^o it should nae be barred this hundred year, if

It s'^o no be barred for me.” shall

4

They made a paction⁰ 'tween them twa, pact

They made it firm and sure,
That the first word whae'er should speak,
Should rise and bar the door.

5

Then by there came two gentlemen,
At twelve o'clock at night,
And they could neither see house nor hall,
Nor coal nor candle-light.

6

"Now whether is this a rich man's house,
Or whether is it a poor?"
But ne'er a word wad0 ane o' them speak, would
For barring of the door.

7

And first they ate the white puddings,
And then they ate the black;
Though muckle0 thought the goodwife to hersel, much, a lot
Yet ne'er a word she spak.

Then said the one unto the other,
"Here, man, tak ye my knife;
Do ye tak afP the auld man's beard, off
And I'll kiss the goodwife."

9

"But there's nae water in the house,
And what shall we do then?"
"What ails ye at4 the pudding-broo,0 -broth
That boils into the pan?"

10

O up then started our goodman,
An angry man was he:
“Will ye kiss my wife before my een,^o eyes
And scald^o me wi’ pudding-bree?”^o scald/-broth
Then up and started our goodwife, Gied^o three skips on the floor: gave
4. I.e., what’s the matter with.

1 1 2 / E A R L Y M O D E R N B A L L A D S

“Goodman, you’ve spoken the foremost word,
Get up and bar the door.”

The Bitter Withy⁵

i

As it fell out on a holy day,
The drops of rain did fall, did fall,
Our Saviour asked leave of his mother Mary
If he might go play at ball.

2

5 “To play at ball, my own dear son,
It’s time you was going or gone,
But be sure let me hear no complain of you,
At night when you do come home.”

3

It was upling scorn and downling scorn,⁶
10 Oh, there he met three jolly jerdins;^o fellows
Oh, there he asked the jolly jerdins
If they would go play at ball.

4

“Oh, we are lords’ and ladies’ sons,

Born in bower⁰ or in hall, chamber
15 And you are some poor maid's child
Borned in an ox's stall."

5

"If you are lords' and ladies' sons,
Borned in bower or in hall,
Then at last I'll make it appear
20 That I am above you all."

6

Our Saviour built a bridge with the beams of the sun,⁷
And over it he gone, he gone he.
And after followed the three jolly jerdins,
And drowned they were all three.

7

25 It was upling scorn and downling scorn,
The mothers of them did whoop and call,
5. This ballad was first published in full in 1905,
6. I.e., there was scorn everywhere ("upling," but is believed to be of much earlier origin. It "downling").

describes an event found not in canonical Chris-
7. The miracle of the bridge of sunbeams derives tian writings but rather in pseudo-evangelical from a legend about Christ frequently found in chronicles of Christ's childhood. Withy: willow.
medieval lives of the saints.

THE KNIGHT AND SHEPHERD'S DAUGHTER / 113

Crying out, "Mary mild, call home your child,
For ours are drowned all."

8

Mary mild, Mary mild, called home her child,
30 And laid our Saviour across her knee,
And with a whole handful of bitter withy
She gave him slashes three.

9

Then he says to his mother, "Oh! the withy, oh! the withy,
The bitter withy that causes me to smart, to smart,
35 Oh! the withy, it shall be the very first tree
That perishes at the heart."

The Knight and Shepherd's Daughter⁸

i

There was a shepherd's dochter
Kept sheep on yonder hill;
Bye cam a knicht frae⁰ the High College,⁹ from
And he wad⁰ hae^o his will. would /have

2

Whan he had got his wills o her,
His will as he has taen:⁰ taken
"Wad ye be sae^o gude⁰ and kind so!good
As tell to me your name?"¹

3

"Some ca's me Jock, some ca's me John,
10 Some disna⁰ ken⁰ my name, do not / know
But whan I ' m into the king's court,
Mitchcock² is my name."

4

“Mitchcock! hey!” the lady did say,

And spelt it oure⁰ again; over

15 “If t h a t ‘ s your name in the Latin tongue, Earl Richard is your name!”

5

O jumpt he upon his horse,

And said he wad go ride;

8. This Scottish ballad has several variants in Scottish Ballads.

which the identities of the knight and the shep-

9. King’s court.

herd’s daughter differ but the events and outcome

1. The shepherd’s daughter asks this question.

are similar. The version printed here, the C variant

2. The knight gives the shepherd’s daughter a false of Child Ballad No. 110, is from Kinloch’s Awciewt

name (though she is not fooled).

1 1 4 / E A R L Y M O D E R N B A L L A D S

Kilted⁰ she her green claithing, tucked up

20 And said she wad na^o bide.⁰ not/stay

6

The knicht rade on, the lady ran,

A live-lang simmer’s⁰ day, summer’s

Till they cam to a wan⁰ water dark

Was calld the river Tay.³

7

25 “Jump on behind, ye weill-faurd⁰ may,⁰ well-favored /
maid

Or do ye chuse to ride?”

“No, thank ye, sir,” the lady said,

“I rather chuse to wade”;

And afore that he was mid-water,

30 She was at the ither side.

8

“Turn back, turn back, ye weill-faurd may,

My heart will brak in three:”

“And sae did mine in yon bonny hill-side,

Whan ye was [na] lat me be.”

9

“Whare gat ye that gay⁰ claithing fine

This day I see on thee?”

“My mither was a gude milk-nurse,

And a gude nourice⁰ was she; nurse

She nursd the Earl of Stockford’s daughter,

And gat aw this to me.”

10

Whan she cam to the king’s court,

She rappit wi a ring;⁴

Sae ready as the king himsel

Was to let the lady in!

11

45

“There is a knicht into your court

This day has robbed me:”

“O has he taen your gowd,“0 he says, gold

“Or has he taen your fee?“0 wealth, possessions

12

“He has na taen my gowd,“ she says,

50 “Nor yet has he my fee;

But he has taen my maiden-head,

The flowr o0 my fair bodie.” of

3. The longest river in Scotland.

4. I.e., rapped with the door knocker.

THE KNIGHT AND SHEPHERD ‘ S DAUGHTER / 1 1 5

Then out bespak0 the queen hersel, spoke

Wha sat by the king’s knee:

55 There’s na a knicht in aw° our court all

Wad hae dune that to thee,

Unless it war my brither, Earl Richard,

And forbid it it war he!5

Wad ye ken your love,

60 Amang a hunder0 men? hundred

“I wad,“ said the bonnie ladie,

“Amang five hunder and ten.”

The king made aw his merry men pass,

By ane,° by twa, and three; one

65 Earl Richard us’d to be the first man,

But he was hinmost man that day.

16

He cam hauping0 on ane foot,

And winking with ae° ee;°

one / eye

But “Ha! ha!” said the bonnie ladie,

70 “That same young man are ye.”

17

H e ‘ s taen⁰ her up to a hie towr-head

taken

And offerd her hunder pundis in a glove:⁶

“Gin^o ye be a courteous maid,

if

Ye ‘ 11 choice⁰ anither love.”

choose

18

75 “What care I for your hunder pund?

Na mair⁰ than ye wad for mine; more

W h a t ‘ s a hunder pund to me,

To a marriage wi a king!”

19

Whan the marriage it was oure,

so And ilk^o ane took them horse, each

“It never set a beggar’s brat

At nae knicht’s back to be.”⁷

5. I.e., God forbid (it)! 7. I.e., it never suited a beggar’s child to ride

6. I.e., a hundred pounds tied up in a glove (which behind a lord, he offers in exchange for having to marry her).

1 1 6 / E A R L Y M O D E R N B A L L A D S

2 0

The ladie met wi a beggar-wife,

And gied her half o crown:

85 “Tell aw your neebours, whan ye gang hame,
That Earl Richard’s your gude-son.”^o son-in-law

21

“O hold your tongue, ye beggar’s brat,
My heart will brak in three”;

“And sae did mine on yon bonny hill-side,
90 Whan ye wad na let me be.”

22

Whan she cam to yon nettle-dyke,⁰ nettle-covered ditch

8

“An my auld⁰ mither she was here, old

Sae weill as she wad ye pu.⁹

2 3

95 “She wad boil ye weill and butter ye weill,

And sup till she war fu,¹

And lay her hed upon her dish-doup,²

And sleep like onie⁰ sow.” any 24

Whan she cam to Earl Richard’s house,

100 The sheets war holland fine:³

“O haud⁰ awa thae linen sheets, hold

And bring to me the linsey clouts⁴

I hae been best used⁰ in.⁰” accustomed / to 25

[“Awa, awa wi your siller⁰ spoons, silver

105 Haud them awa frae me;

It would set⁰ me better to feed my flocks suit

Wi the brose-cap⁰ on me knee: oatmeal sack

Sae bring to me the gude ram's horn,

The spoons I've been used wi."]5 26

110 "Hold your tongue, ye beggar's brat,

My heart will brak in three";

"And sae did mine on yon bonnie hillside,

Whan ye wadna lat me be."

8. Line 92 is missing; like most folk ballads, this

1. I.e., and eat till she was full.

poem was transcribed from sung versions. Other

2. The bottom of her bowl.

printed versions suggest, however, that the line

3. A linen fabric made in Holland.

describes how the nettles were spread on the

4. Woven patches of coarse wool and flax.

ground.

5. Child's brackets indicate that stanza 25 had

9. I.e., you would have to pull ("pu") the plough been inserted in Kinloch's copy of Ancient Scottish

as well as she does.

Ballads.

LOVEMELITTLE, LOVEMELONG / 117

27

"I wish I had drank the well-water

Whan first I drank the wine!

Never a shepherd's dochter

Wad hae been a love o mine."

28

“O I wish I’d drank the well-water
Whan first I drank the beer,
That ever a shepherd’s dochter
Shoud hae been my only dear!”

29

“Ye ‘11 turn about, Earl Richard,
And mak some mair° o me;
An ye mak me lady o ae puir plow,⁷
I can mak ye laird⁰ o three.”

lord

3°

“If ye be the Earl of Stockford’s dochter,
As I’ve taen some thoughts ye be,
Aft° hae I waited at your father’s yett,[°]

oft / gate

But your face I coud never see.“⁸

A N O N Y M O U S E L I Z A B E T H A N A N D
J A C O B E A N P O E M S

Love Me Little, Love Me Long¹

Love me little, love me long,

Is the burden⁰ of my S^Ong. refrain

Love that is too hot and strong

Burneth soon to waste.

5 Still, I would not have thee cold,

Not too backward, nor too bold;

Love that lasteth till ‘tis old

Fadeth not in haste.

Love me little, love me long,

10 Is the burden of my song.

6. Child's asterisks signal a gap in the story.

terious at the end; and in one text, the knight is

7. I.e., if you make me the lady of one poor plow revealed to be a blacksmith's son whereas the lady (the area of land one plow will till in a year).

is a king's daughter.

8. With the suggestion that she can make the

1. This song was registered in 1569—70 with the knight lord of three plows, the story begins to Stationers' Company, which authorized all printed reveal that the shepherd's daughter is high born.

texts from 1557 onward. Our source is the Extracts

In some versions, however, her social status is mysterious.
from the Stationers' Company (1848).

118 / ANONYMOUS ELIZABETHAN AND JACOBAN POEMS

If thou lovest me too much,

It will not prove as true as touch;²

Love me little, more than such,

For I fear the end.

15 I am with little well content,

And a little from thee sent

Is enough, with true intent

To be steadfast friend.

Love me little, love me long,

20 Is the hurden of my song.

Say thou lov'st me while thou live;
I to thee my love will give,
Never dreaming to deceive
Whiles that life endures.

25 Nay, and after death, in sooth,
I to thee will keep my truth,
As now, when in my May of youth;
This my love assures.

Love me little, love me long,

30 Is the burden of my song.

Constant love is moderate ever,
And it will through life persever;
Give me that, with true endeavor
I will it restore.

35 A suit of durance⁰ let it be, durability

For all weathers that for me,
For the land or for the sea,
Lasting evermore.

Love me little, love me long,

40 Is the burden of my song.

Winter's cold, or summer's heat,
Autumn's tempests on it beat,
It can never know defeat,
Never can rebel.

45 Such the love that I would gain,
Such the love, I tell thee plain,
Thou must give, or woo in vain;
So to thee, farewell!

*Love me little, love me long,
50 Is the burden of my song.*

ca. 1570

2. Touchstone or hasanite; gold or silver rubbed on touchstone produces a streak, the appearance of which was formerly used as a test for the purity of the metal.

T o H i s L O V E / 1 1 9

Fine Knacks for Ladies³

Fine knacks for ladies, cheap, choice, brave and new!

Good pennyworths—but money cannot move:

I keep a fair but for the fair to view;

A beggar may be liberal of love.

5 Though all my wares be trash, the heart is true,

The heart is true.

Great gifts are guiles⁰ and look for gifts again; deceits

My trifles come as treasures from my mind.

It is a precious jewel to be plain;

10 Sometimes in shell the orient's^t pearls we find. most lustrous

Of others take a sheaf, of me a grain!

Of me a grain!

Within this pack pins, points,⁴ laces, and gloves,

And divers toys fitting a country fair;

15 But in my heart, where duty serves and loves,

Turtles and twins,⁵ court's brood, a heavenly pair.

Happy the heart that thinks of no removes!

Of no removes!

1600

To His Love⁶

Come away! come, sweet love!
The golden morning breaks;
All the earth, all the air,
Of love and pleasure speaks.
5 Teach thine arms then to embrace,
And sweet rosy lips to kiss,
And mix our souls in mutual bliss.
Eyes were made for beauty's grace,
Viewing, rueing, love's long pain,
10 Procured by beauty's rude disdain.

Come away! come, sweet love!

The golden morning wastes,
3. This anonymous peddler's song was set for lute
5. Turtledoves ("turtles") and the "heavenly pair" accompaniment by John Dowland, a well-known of twins, Castor and Pollux of the constellation Elizabethan composer, and included in his Second
Gemini, were symbols of true love and constancy.
Book of Songs or Airs (1600).

6. From England's Helicon (1600), an influential

4. Laces (such as shoelaces) with the ends tagged anthology of verse.

or pointed for convenience in lacing.

120 / ANONYMOUS ELIZABETHAN AND J
ACOB EAN POEMS

While the sun from his sphere

His fiery arrows casts,

15 Making all the shadows fly,

Playing, staying in the grove,
To entertain the stealth of love.
Thither, sweet love, let us hie⁰ go
Flying, dying, in desire,
20 Wing'd with sweet hopes and heavenly fire.
Come away! come, sweet love!
Do not in vain adorn
Beauty's grace that should rise
Like to the naked morn.
25 Lilies on the river's side,
And fair Cyprian⁷ flowers new-blown,
Desire no beauties but their own;
Ornament is nurse of pride.
Pleasure, measure love's delight.
30 Haste then, sweet love, our wished flight!

1600

Weep You No More, Sad Fountains⁸
Weep you no more, sad fountains;
What need you flow so fast?
Look how the snowy mountains
Heaven's sun doth gently waste.
5 But my sun's heavenly eyes
View not your weeping,
That now lie sleeping
Softly, now softly lies
Sleeping.
10 Sleep is a reconciling,
A rest that peace begets.

Doth not the sun rise smiling
When fair at even⁰ he sets? evening
Rest you then, rest, sad eyes,
15 Melt not in weeping
While she lies sleeping
Softly, now softly lies Sleeping.

1603

7. An allusion to Venus, Roman goddess of love 8. From John Dowland's Third Book of Songs or and beauty; the center of her cult was the island Airs (1603).

of Cyprus.

THE SILVER SWAN / 1 2 1

There Is a Lady Sweet and Kind⁹

There is a lady sweet and kind,
Was never face so pleased my mind;
I did but see her passing by,
And yet I love her till I die.

5 Her gesture, motion and her smiles,
Her wit, her voice, my heart beguiles,
Beguiles my heart, I know not why,
And yet I love her till I die.

Her free behavior, winning looks,
10 Will make a lawyer burn his books.

I touched her not, alas, not I,
And yet I love her till I die.

Had I her fast betwixt mine arms,
Judge you that think such sports were harms,
15 Were't any harm? No, no, fie, fie!

For I will love her till I die.
Should I remain confined there,
So long as Phoebus¹ in his sphere,
I to request, she to deny,
20 Yet would I love her till I die.
Cupid² is winged and doth range;
Her country so my love doth change,
But change she earth, or change she sky,
Yet will I love her till I die.

1607

The Silver Swan³

The silver swan, who living had no note,
When death approached, unlocked her silent throat;
Leaning her breast against the reedy shore,
Thus sung her first and last, and sung no more:
5 “Farewell, all joys; Oh death, come close mine eyes;
More geese than swans now live, more fools than wise.”

1612

9. From Thomas Ford’s Music of Sundry Kinds

3. From Orlando Gibbons’s First Set of Madrigals (1607).

and Motets (1612). Gibbons, one of the last mad-

1. Apollo, Greek and Roman god of the sun.

rigalists, may be implying an analogy between him-

2. Roman god of erotic love.

self and the swan.

1 2 2 / A N O N Y M O U S E L I Z A B E T H A N A N D J
A C O B E A N P O E M S

A Song Bewailing the Time of Christmas, So Much Decayed
in England⁴

Christmas is my name, far have I gone, have I gone, have I gone,

have I gone without regard,

Whereas great men, by flocks they be flown, they be flown,
they be flown, they be flown to London ward,

5 Where they in pomp and pleasure do waste that which Christmas had wont^o to feast; been accustomed

Welay day.

Houses where music was wonted^o to ring, accustomed

Nothing but bats, and owls now do sing

10 Welay day, wallay day, wallay day, where should I stay.

Christmas bread and beef is turned into stones, into stones, into stones,

Into stones and silken rags.

And lady money⁵ it doth sleep, it doth sleep, it doth sleep,

It doth sleep in misers' bags.

15 Where many gallants once abound,

Nought but a dog and a shepherd is found,

Welay day.

Places where Christmas revels did keep,

Are now become habitations for sheep.

20 Wallay day, wallay day, wellay day, where should I stay.

Pan, the shepherd's god, doth deface, doth deface, doth deface, doth deface, Lady Ceres' crown,⁶

And tilliges^o doth decay, doth decay, doth decay, plowed land
doth decay in every town.⁷

25 Landlords their rents so highly enhance,
That Peares the plowman⁸ barefoot doth dance,
Welay day.

Farmers that Christmas would entertain,
hath scarcely withal them selves to maintain,
30 Welay day, wellay day, wellay day, where should I stay.

4. This lament for Christmas festivities banned by and huntsmen, here symbolizes Protestant “icon-Protestants after the Reformation (and for other olasts,” who frequently “defaced” Catholic rituals social changes the speaker deplors) comes from a and works of art, especially beheading or otherwise manuscript in the British Library (MS. Additional mutilating statues of religious figures in Catholic 38599); a longer version of the poem was printed churches.

around 1635.

7. Probably a reference to the practice of “enclo-
5. Probably a reference to the money traditionally sure,” whereby peasant farmers who were tenants given out for charity on “Lady Days,” dates in the
of a manor lost their traditional access to “com-Roman Catholic calendar devoted to celebrating mon” lands; during the sixteenth century, many events in the life of the Virgin Mary. One such wealthy landowners enclosed “tilled” land for the celebration occurred (before the Reformation) on sake of the sheep being raised for England’s

December 8, when the Virgin's immaculate con-expanding wool trade.

ception was honored.

8. Peares is a traditional name for a plowman; cf.

6. Ceres was the Roman goddess of grain and William Langland, "Piers Plowman" (p. 71).

hence of the harvest; Pan, Greek god of shepherds

A S O N G B E W A I L I N G T H E T I M E O F C H R I S
T M A S / 1 2 3

Go to the Protestant, he'll protest, he'll protest, he'll protest,
he will protest and boldly boast,

And to the Puritan, he is so hot, he is so hot, he is so hot,
he is so hot he will burn the roast,

35 The Catholic good deeds will not scorn, nor will not see poor Christmas forlorn,
Welay day.

Since Holiness no good deeds will do,
Protestants had best turn Papists too,

40 Welay day, wellay day, wellay day, where should I stay.

Pride and Luxury doth devour, doth devour, doth devour, doth devour house keeping quite,⁰ completely

And beggary doth beget, doth beget, doth beget, doth beget in many a knight.

45 Madam for^o sooth^o in coach she must reel in /truth

Although she wear her hose out at heel,
Welay day.

And on her back were that for her weed,
that would both me, and many other feed,

50 Wellay day, wellay day, wellay day, where should I stay.

Briefly for to end, here I find, here I find,

here I find such great vacation⁰ emptying

That some great houses do seem to have, seem to have,
seem to have,

for to have some great purgation,

55 With purging pills, such effects they have showed,

that out of doors, their owners they have spewed.⁹

Wellay day.

And when Christmas goes by and calls,

Nothing but solitude, and naked walls,

60 Wellay day, wellay day, wellay day, where should I stay.

Philemel's cottages are turned into gold, into gold,

Into gold for harboring Jove.¹

And great mens' houses up for to hold, up for to hold,

up for to hold, make great men moan,

65 But in the city they say they do live,

Where gold by handfuls away they do give,

Wellay day.

And therefor thither I purpose to pass,

hoping at London to find the golden ass,

70 I'll away, I'll away, I'll away, I'll no longer stay.

ca. 1624 1635

9. Probably a reference to the widespread "disso-

1. An allusion to the classical myth of Philemon, lution" of ecclesiastical manors that began during a poor man who was visited by Jove and Mercury the reign of Henry VIII; the king (and his succesin disguise. For entertaining the gods well, Philesors) raised money by dispossessing monasteries of mon and his wife, Baucis, were rewarded by having their lands and houses.

their cottage transformed into a luxurious temple.

124 / ANONYMOUS ELIZABETHAN AND J
ACOBEOAN POEMS

Tom o' Bedlam's Song 2

From the hagg^o and hungry goblin haggard

That into rags would rend ye,

All the spirits that stand by the naked man

In the Book of Moons³ defend ye!

5 That of your five sound senses

You never be forsaken,

Nor wander from your selves with Tom

Abroad to beg your bacon.

While I do sing "any food, any feeding,

10 Feeding, drink or clothing,"

Come dame or maid, be not afraid,

Poor Tom will injure nothing.

Of thirty bare years have I

Twice twenty been enraged,⁰ mad

15 And of forty been three times fifteen

In durance⁰ soundly caged. confinement, prison

On the lordly lofts of Bedlam,

With stubble soft and dainty,

Brave bracelets strong, sweet whip's ding-dong,

20 With wholesome hunger plenty.

And now I sing "any food, any feeding, ...

With a thought I took for Maudlin⁴

And a cruse⁰ of cockle⁰ pottage,⁰ pitcher / shellfish / soup

With a thing thus tall, sky bless you all,

²⁵ I befell into this dotage.

I slept not since the Conquest,⁵

Till then I never waked,

Till the roguish boy⁰ of love where I lay Cupid

Me found and stripped me naked.

30 And now I sing "any food, any feeding, ...

When I short have shorn my sour face

And swigged my horny barrel,

In an oaken inn I pound my skin

As a suit of gilt apparel.

35 The moon's my constant Mistress,

2. This poem, like a number of other anonymous poem has been echoed by writers from Ben Jonson lyrics, purports to be sung by a madman, Tom, through Sir Walter Scott to Rudyard Kipling.

from "Bedlam," that is, the Hospital of St. Mary of

3. Probably an astrological book.

Bethlehem, an asylum in London that housed the

4. Tom's "lady" is frequently named Maudline mentally ill from the fifteenth century on. The earliest (short for Magdalene and probably an allusion to the Christian Scripture character Mary Magdalene) known version of this poem is in a manuscript of songs and verses in the British Museum (MS. lene).

Additional 24665). Edgar in Shakespeare's King

5. William of Normandy's conquest of England, in Lear assumes the persona of "Poor Tom," and this 1066.

T O M o ' B E D L A M ' S S O N G / 1 2 5

And the lowly owl my marrow,

The flaming Drake⁰ and the Nightcrow make male duck

Me music to my sorrow.

While I do sing “any food, any feeding, ...

40 The palsy plagues my pulses

When I prigg^o their pigs or pullen,^o steal / chicken

Your culvers^o take, or matchless make wood pigeons

Your Chanticleare,⁶ or sullen.

When I want provant,^o with Humfry food

45 I sup,⁷ and when benighted,

I repose in Paul’s with waking souls,

Yet never am affrighted.

But I do sing “any food, any feeding, ...

I know more than Apollo,⁸

50 For oft, when hee lies sleeping,

I see the stars at bloody wars

In the wounded welkin^o weeping; sky

The moon embrace her shepherd,

And the queen of Love her warrior,

55 While the first doth horn the star of morn,

And the next the heavenly Farrier.⁹

While I do sing “any food, any feeding, ...

The Gipsy Snap and Pedro¹

Are none of Tom’s comrados.

60 The punk I scorn and the cut purse sworn

And the roaring boys bravado.

The meek, the white, the gentle,

Me handle, touch, and spare not,

But those that cross Tom Rynosseros

65 Do what the panther dare not.

Although I sing “any food, any feeding, ...

With an host of furious fancies,
Whereof I am commander,
With a burning spear, and a horse of air,
70 To the wilderness I wander.

By a knight of ghosts and shadows

6. I.e., take away your rooster's mate.

"heavenly Farrier," or horseshoer. The verb "horn,"

7. Refers to the legendary "Duke Humphrey's printed as "born" in some texts of the poem, sug-Walk," in front of St. Paul's Cathedral in London gests an image of the new moon "embracing" the ("Paul's," line 46), where the poor congregated.

morning star; in the second clause governed by this

8. Greek and Roman god of poetry and the sun.

verb, there is a play on horn's figurative meaning

9. In Greek mythology, the Moon loved the shep-as cuckold.

herd Endymion, and Venus, the goddess of love,

1. I.e., a gypsy rogue (with "Snap" probably con-preferred Mars, the god of war, to her husband, noting thievery) and a Spaniard.

Hephaestos, the god of metalworking and hence a

1 2 6 / T H O M A S W Y A T T

I s u m m o n e d a m t o t o u r n e y 0 take part in a tournament

Ten leagues beyond the wide world's end.

Me thinks it is no journey.

75 Yet will I sing "any food, any feeding, ...

Before 1615 1656

T H O M A S W Y A T T *

1 5 0 3 - 1 5 4 2

The Long Love, That in My Thought Doth Harbor¹

The long⁰ love, that in my thought doth harbor,⁰ enduring / lodge

And in mine heart doth keep his residence,

Into my face presseth with bold pretense,

And therein campeth, spreading his banner.²

⁵ She that me learneth⁰ to love and suffer, teaches

And wills that my trust and lust's negligence

Be reined³ by reason, shame and reverence,

With his hardiness⁰ taketh displeasure. boldness

Wherewithal, unto the heart's⁴ forest he fleeth,

¹⁰ Leaving his enterprise with pain and cry;

And there him hideth, and not appeareth.

What may I do when my master feareth

But in the field with him to live and die?

For good is the life, ending faithfully.

E. MS.

Whoso List⁵ to Hunt

Whoso list to hunt, I know where is an hind,^o female deer

But as for me, alas, I may no more:

The vain travail hath wearied me so sore.

*Though Wyatt apparently meant to publish a col-

Whenever possible, we have used this manuscript's lection of his poems, only a few of the poems were versions of Wyatt's poems. We also print poems printed before his death (several appeared in The

from the Devonshire manuscript (D. MS.) and sev-

Court of Venus, a collection published between eral others in which some of Wyatt's texts are pre-1536 and 1540). Most of his works circulated in manuscript among aristocratic readers. After his death, however, the printer Richard Tottel published the notes.

lished ninety-seven poems attributed to Wyatt—

1. Translated from Petrarch, Rime 140. Cf. the translation by Henry Howard, earl of Surrey, of Surrey (ca. 1517-1547; see pp. 137-40) and “Love, That Doth Reign and Live within My Thought” (p. 137).

and some by “Uncertain Authors”—in the book Songs and Sonnets (1557).

2. Raising the flag, i.e., taking up a position for battle and, figuratively, blushing.

The Egerton manuscript (E. MS.) contains a

3. Checked; with a probable pun on reigned.

number of poems in Wyatt's hand as well as his

4. With a pun on heart and hart (as deer).

corrections of poems in other scribes' hands.

5. Whoever likes.

THEY FLEE FROM ME / 127

I am of them that farthest cometh behind;

5 Yet may I by no means my wearied mind

Draw from the deer: but as she fleeth afore,

Fainting I follow. I leave off therefore,
Since in a net I seek to hold the wind.
Who list her hunt, I put him out of doubt,
10 As well as I may spend his time in vain:
And, graven with diamonds, in letters plain
There is written her fair neck round about:
Noli me tangere,⁶ for Caesar's I am;
And wild for to hold, though I seem tame.

E. MS.

My Galley⁷

My galley charged⁰ with forgetfulness loaded
Thorough⁰ sharp seas in winter nights doth pass through
'Tween rock and rock; and eke^o mine enemy, alas,
also
That is my lord,⁸ steereth with cruelty;
And every oar a thought in readiness,
As though that death were light in such a case.
An endless wind doth tear the sail apace
Of forced sighs and trusty fearfulness.
A rain of tears, a cloud of dark disdain,
Hath done the wearied cords⁹ great hinderance;
Wreathed with error and eke with ignorance.
The stars¹ be hid that led me to this pain;
Drowned is reason that should me consort,⁰ accompany
And I remain despairing of the port.

E. MS.

They Flee from Me

They flee from me that sometime did me seek
With naked foot stalking in my chamber.

I have seen them gentle tame and meek
That now are wild and do not remember

6. Touch me not (Latin). The phrase (in Italian in break with the Roman Catholic Church.

Petrarch) has roots both in Petrarch's sonnet Rime

7. It is difficult to say with certainty when Wyatt 190—Wyatt's main source—and in the Bible (see intended an -ed ending to be pronounced as a sec-especially the Catholic Bible, the Vulgate: John ond syllable and when not. Hence no attempt has 20.17 and Matthew 22.21). Renaissance commenbeen made to mark syllabic endings with an accent tators on Petrarch maintained that the deer in Cae-in any of Wyatt's poems (although in this particular sar's royal forest wore collars bearing a similar poem such endings may occur in lines 1, 8, 11, inscription, to prevent anyone from hunting the and 13). Wyatt's poem is based on Petrarch's Rime animals. The allusion raises questions about 189.

Wyatt's relation to King Henry VIII ("Caesar," line
8. I.e., the god of love.

13). Wyatt was accused during his lifetime of

9. The worn lines of the sail, with a possible pun having been the lover of Anne Boleyn, who became on the Latin for heart (cor, cordis).

Henry VIII's second wife and a major cause of his

1. I.e., the lady's eyes.

1 2 8 / T H O M A S W Y A T T

5 That sometime they put themselves in danger

To take bread at my hand; and now they range

Busily seeking with a continual change.

Thanked be fortune, it hath been otherwise

Twenty times better;² but once in special

10 In thin array after a pleasant guise³

When her loose gown from her shoulders did fall,

And she me caught in her arms long and small;⁰ slender

Therewithal sweetly did me kiss,

And softly said *Dear heart,*⁴ how like you this?

15 It was no dream: I lay broad waking.⁵

But all is turned thorough⁰ my gentleness through

Into a strange fashion of forsaking;

And I have leave to go of her goodness⁶

And she also to use newfangleness.

20 But since that I so kindly⁷ am served,

I would fain know what she hath deserved.

E. MS.

Patience, Though I Have Not

Patience, though I have not

The thing that I require,

I must of force, God wot,^o knows

Forbear my most desire;⁸

5 For no ways can I find

To sail against the wind.

Patience, do what they will

To work me woe or spite,
I shall content me still 10 To think both day and night,
To think and hold my peace,
Since there is no redress.
Patience, withouten blame,⁹
For I offended nought;
15 I know they know the same,
Though they have changed their thought.
Was ever thought so moved
To hate that it hath loved?

2. I.e., better on twenty occasions or twenty times

7. I.e., in the way typical of female nature, or better.

“kind”; in a way that the narrator deserves (accord-

3. In a thin gown made in a pleasing fashion.

ing to his “nature,” or being repaid “in kind”); with

4. With a pun on heart and hart (as deer);

kindness (ironic). Spelled “kyndely” in Wyatt’s

“sweetly” (line 13) is spelled “swetely” in Wyatt’s original and perhaps thus pronounced with three original and perhaps was pronounced with three syllables. Newfangledness: a new fashion; novelty or syllables.

inconstancy in her erotic relationships with men.

5. I.e., wide awake.

8. I.e., restrain or endure my strongest desire.

6. Because of her goodness (ironic).

9. I.e., when one is without blame.

MY LUTE AWAKE! / 129

Patience of all my harm,¹

20 For fortune is my foe;

Patience must be the charm

To heal me of my woe:

Patience without offence

Is a painful patience.

E. MS.

My Lute Awake!

My lute awake! Perform the last

Labor that thou and I shall waste,

And end that I have now begun;

For when this song is sung and past,

5 My lute be still, for I have done.

As to be heard where ear is none,

As lead to grave in marble stone,

My song may pierce her heart as soon;²

Should we then sigh, or sing, or moan?

10 No, no, my lute, for I have done.

The rocks do not so cruelly

Repulse the waves continually

As she my suit and affection.

So that I am past remedy:

15 Whereby my lute and I have done.

Proud of the spoil that thou hast got

Of simple hearts through love's shot,³

By whom, unkind, thou hast them won,

Think not he hath his bow forgot,

20 Although my lute and I have done.

Vengeance shall fall on thy disdain,
 That makest but game on earnest pain;⁴
 Think not alone under the sun
 Unquit^o to cause thy lovers plain,^o unrequited / lamentation
 25 Although my lute and I have done.
 Perchance thee lie withered and old,
 The winter nights that are so cold,
 Plaining in vain unto the moon;
 Thy wishes then dare not be told;
 30 Care then who list,^o for I have done. likes

1. I.e., in all the harm I suffer.
3. The arrow of Cupid (Roman god of erotic love).
2. I.e., it is as likely that sound will be heard with “Through” is spelled “thorough” in Wyatt’s origino ear to hear it, or soft lead will be able to engrave nal, perhaps indicating a two-syllable pronuncia(“grave”) hard marble, as it is that my song will tion. The referent for “thou” is unclear.
- move her. “Ear” is spelled “ere” in Wyatt’s manu-
 4. Makes f u n of or plays games with one in pain.
script.

130 / T H O M A S W Y A T T

And then may chance thee to repent
 The time that thou hast lost and spent
 To cause thy lovers sigh and swoon;
 Then shalt thou know beauty but lent,
 35 And wish and want as I have done.
 Now cease, my lute, this is the last
 Labor that thou and I shall waste,

And ended is that we begun;
Now is this song both sung and past:
40 My lute be still, for I have done.

E. MS.

Is It Possible

Is it possible

That so high debate,

So sharp, so sore, and of such rate,⁰ pace; value

Should end so soon and was begun so late?

Is it possible?

Is it possible

So cruel intent,

So hasty heat and so soon spent,

From love to hate, and thence for to relent?

Is it possible?

Is it possible

That any may find

Within one heart so diverse mind,

To change or turn as weather and wind?

Is it possible?

Is it possible

To spy it in an eye⁵

That turns as oft as chance on die?⁶

The troth⁰ whereof can any try? truth, faith

Is it possible?

It is possible

For to turn so oft,

To bring that lowest that was most aloft,

And to fall highest⁷ yet to light soft?

It is possible.

5. I.e., to spy love; the eyes were often said to be

7. From the highest place. The imagery here plays where a person's true feelings could be seen.

on the Renaissance figure of the wheel of life, the

6. I.e., as often as fortune changes in tosses of the frequent turning of which causes people's fortunes dice. "Turns" is spelled "tornys" in Wyatt's original, to rise and fall unpredictably.

perhaps indicating a two-syllable pronunciation.

B L A M E N O T M Y L U T E / 1 3 1

All is possible,

Whoso^o list^o believe; whoever / cares to Trust therefore first, and after preve:8

As men wed ladies by license and leave,

BO All is possible.

D. MS.

Forget Not Yet

Forget not yet the tried intent

Of such a truth as I have meant,

My great travail so gladly spent

Forget not yet.

Forget not yet when first began

The weary life ye know since whan,^o when

The suit, the service none tell⁹ can.

Forget not yet.

Forget not yet the great assays,⁰ trials

The cruel wrong, the scornful ways,

The painful patience in denays,⁰ denials

Forget not yet.
Forget not yet, forget not this,
How long ago hath been and is
The mind that never meant amiss,
Forget not yet.

Forget not then thine own approved,¹
The which so long hath thee so loved,
Whose steadfast faith yet never moved,
Forget not this.

D. MS.

Blame Not My Lute

Blame not my lute, for he must sound
Of this or that as liketh me;
For lack of wit the lute is bound
To give such tunes as pleaseth me;
5 Though my songs be somewhat strange
And speaks such words as touch thy change,²
Blame not my lute.

I.e., learn by experience.

1. I.e., the one of whom you approved.

Give an account of, estimate. In courtly rheto-

2. I.e., the lute “speaks”—probably through a , “service” often meant the actions of a male change of musical key and/or rhythm—in a way that reflects the lady’s change of heart.

1 3 2 / T H O M A S W Y A T T

My lute, alas, doth not offend,
Though that perforce he must agree
10 To sound such tunes as I intend

To sing to them that heareth me;
Then though my songs be somewhat plain,
And toucheth some that use to fain,³
Blame not my lute.

15 My lute and strings may not deny
But as I strike they must obey;
Break not them then so wrongfully,
But wreak⁰ thyself some wiser way;
avenge

And though the songs which I endite⁰ compose

20 Do quit⁰ thy change with rightful spite, answer

Blame not my lute.
Spite asketh spite and changing change,
And falsed⁰ faith must needs be known, betrayed

The fault so great, the case so strange,
25 Of right it must abroad be blown:
Then since that by thine own desert
My songs do tell how true thou art,
Blame not my lute.

Blame but thy self that hast misdone
30 And well deserved to have blame;
Change thou thy way so evil begun
And then my lute shall sound that same;
But if till then my fingers play
By thy desart their wonted⁰ way, usual

35 Blame not my lute.

Farewell, unknown, for though thou break
My strings in spite with great disdain
Yet have I found out for thy sake
Strings for to string my lute again;
40 And if perchance this foolish rhyme
Do make thee blush at any time
Blame not my lute.

D. MS.

What Should I Say
What should I say
Since faith is dead,
And truth away
From you is fled?

5 Should I be led

3. I.e., some who used to “feign,” meaning both dissemble and desire.

L U C K S , M Y F A I R F A L C O N / 1 3 3

With doubleness?

Nay, nay, Mistress!⁴

I promised you

And you promised me,

10 To be as true

As I would be;

But since I see

Your double heart,

Farewell my part!⁵

15 Though for to take

It is not my mind

But to forsake—

I am not blind—
And as I find
20 So will I trust.
Farewell, unjust!
Can ye say nay?
But you said
That I alway⁰ always
Should be obeyed;⁶
And thus betrayed
Or^o that I wist^o— before / knew
Farewell, unkist!⁰ unkissed
D. MS.

Lucks, My Fair Falcon⁷

Lucks, my fair falcon, and your fellows all,
How well pleasant it were your liberty!
Ye not forsake me that fair might ye befall.⁸
But they that sometime⁰ liked my company: formerly
5 Like lice away from dead bodies they crawl.
Lo what a proof in light adversity!
But ye my birds, I swear by all your bells,⁹
Ye be my friends, and so be but few else.

Ad. Ms.

4. Title for an upper-class married woman; a cour-name evidently puns on luck and on the Latin word teous form.

for light, lux. The first printed version of the poem

5. Share in the relationship; spelled “perte” in gives the falcon’s name as “Lux,” whereas all the Wyatt’s original, suggesting a pun on the French manuscripts give it as “luckes,” possibly pro-word for loss (•perte).

nounced with two syllables. Scholars speculate

6. Some contemporary marriage services included that the poem was written shortly before Wyatt was a vow by the woman to obey the man; the point imprisoned in 1541.

raises the possibility that the poem is addressed to

8. I.e., you do not forsake me so that fair fortune the speaker’s wife.

(good luck) will come to you. This line, with its

7. This poem appears in one manuscript (Addi-compressed syntax, begins a contrast between the tional MS. 36529) in the British Museum; it also faithful falcon and unfaithful humans.

appears in an early printed anthology (Tattel’s Mis-

9. A bell was attached by a leather strap to each cellany, 15 57), with the title “Of Such as Had For-leg of a falcon.

saken Him.” The speaker addresses a falcon whose

1 3 4 / T H O M A S W Y A T T

Stand Whoso List1

Stand whoso list upon the slipper0 top slippery

Of court’s estates,2 and let me here rejoice;

And use me quiet without let or stop,0 hindrance

Unknown in court, that hath such brackish3 joys:

In hidden place, so let my days forth pass,

That when my years be done, withouten noise,
I may die aged after the common trace.⁰

way

For him death gripeth right hard by the crope^o throat

That is much known of other; and of himself alas,
Doth die unknown, dazed with dreadful⁴ face.

Arundel Castle MS.

Mine Own John Poins⁵

Mine own John Poins, since ye delight to know

The cause why that homeward I me draw,

And flee the press of courts whereso they go,⁶

Rather than to live thrall, under the awe

5 Of lordly looks, wrapped within my cloak,

To will and lust learning to set a law;⁷

It is not for because I scorn and mock

The power of them, to whom fortune hath lent

Charge over us, of right, to strike the stroke:⁸

10 But true it is that I have always meant

Less to esteem them than the common sort,

Of outward things that judge in their intent,

Without regard what doth inward resort.⁹

I grant sometime that of glory the fire

15 Doth touch my heart: me^o list⁰ not to report ll care

Blame by honor and honor to desire.¹

But how may I this honor now attain

That cannot dye the color black a liar?²

My Poins, I cannot frame me tune to feign,³

20 To cloak the truth, for praise without desert,

Of them that list all vice for to retain.⁴

1. This poem, a translation of Seneca's play Thyestes

6. In Renaissance England, the royal court frequently moved residence, sometimes through version by Tottel under the title "Of the Mean and highly elaborate "progresses," or processions.

Sure Estate." Whoso list: whoever likes.

7. I.e., learning to set a law to (or keep in check)

2. Society was said to be divided into three groups: my passions. Lust: pleasure.

those who ruled, those who prayed, and those who

8. I.e., rightfully empowered to command and to labored.

punish us.

3. Spoiled, like water that has gone bad.

9. I.e., to have less esteem for them than do the

4. Has a variety of possible meanings, including common people (line 11), who base their judgment awful, terrified, and frightening.

on what appears outwardly (lines 12—13).

5. Wyatt's friend; a member of Henry VIII's court.

1. I.e., I have no wish to represent faults as virtues

This verse epistle of informal satire is based on the or pleasure as honor.

tenth satire of the Italian poet Luigi Alamanni

2. A common proverb held that black will take no

(1495 - 1556), but Wyatt Anglicizes it and adds per-other hue.

sonal details. It apparently was written during

3. I.e., shape my style falsely.

Wyatt's banishment from court in 1536.

4. I.e., desire to keep vice in their service.

MINE OWN JOHN POINS / 135

I cannot honor them that sets their part

With Venus and Bacchus⁵ all their life long;

Nor hold my peace of them although I smart.

25 I cannot crouch nor kneel to do so great a wrong,

To worship them, like God on earth alone,

That are as wolves these sely⁰ lambs among. innocent

I cannot with my words complain and moan,

And suffer naught; nor smart without complaint,

30 Nor turn the word that from my mouth is gone.

I cannot speak and look like a saint,

Use wiles⁰ for wit or make deceit a pleasure, cunning

And call craft⁰ counsel, for profit still to paint;⁰ scheming
/flatter

I cannot wrest the law to fill the coffer

35 With innocent blood to feed myself fat,

And do most hurt where most help I offer.

I am not he that can allow⁰ the state accept

Of high Caesar and damn Cato to die,

That with his death did 'scape out of the gate

40 From Caesar's hands (if Livy do not lie)⁶

And would not live where liberty was lost:

So did his heart the common weal apply.⁷

I am not he such eloquence to boast,

To make the crow singing as the swan,⁸

45 Nor call the lion of coward beasts the most⁹
 That cannot take a mouse as the cat can:
 And he that dieth for hunger of the gold
 Call him Alexander;¹ and say that Pan
 Passeth Apollo in music manifold;²
 50 Praise Sir Thopas for a noble tale,
 And scorn the story that the Knight told.³
 Praise him for counsel that is drunk of ale;
 Grin when he laugheth that beareth all the sway,
 Frown when he frowneth and groan when he is pale;
 55 On others' lust to hang both night and day:
 None of these points would ever frame in me;⁴
 My wit is naught—I cannot learn the way.
 And much the less of things that greater be,
 That asken help of colors of device⁵
 60 To join the mean⁰ with each extremity, middle
 With the nearest virtue to cloak⁰ always the vice: soften; cover
 And as to purpose likewise it shall fall,
 To press⁰ the virtue that it may not rise;⁶ to press down

5. Venus was the Roman goddess of love and prefers glory.

beauty; Bacchus, the Roman god of wine.

2. The Greek god Pan played simple ditties on his

6. The Roman historian Livy recounts the death pipe; the Greek and Roman god Apollo played of Cato the Younger, a statesman who committed divine melodies on his lyre.

suicide rather than submit to Julius Caesar's tyr-

3. Chaucer's tale of Sir Thopas (in The Canterbury

anny.

Tales) is a deliberately dull parody that is cut off
7. I.e., so did his heart practice the common good.
after a few stanzas by the Host. The Knight's tale,
8. Swans supposedly sang beautifully just before according to other pilgrims, is "a noble storie." dying.

4. I.e., suit my character.

9. Nor call a lion (a symbol of bravery) a coward.

5. Artful language that "colors," or falsifies.

1. Say that he is Alexander the Great, who was

6. I.e., and intention will be subsumed by the said to prefer glory and action to riches; i.e., he deceit.

cannot say that one who is greedy for gold instead

1 3 6 / T H O M A S W Y A T T

As drunkenness good fellowship to call;

65 The friendly foe with his double face

Say he is gentle and courteous therewithal;

And say that faveP hath a goodly grace flattery

In eloquence; and cruelty to name

Zeal of justice and change in time and place;

70 And he that suff'reth offense without blame

Call him pitiful; and him true and plain

That railleth reckless⁷ to every man's shame.

Say he is rude that cannot lie and feign;

The lecher a lover; and tyranny

75 To be the right of a prince's reign.

I cannot, I. No, no, it will not be.

This is the cause⁰ that I could never yet reason
Hang on their sleeves that weigh as thou mayst see
A chip⁰ of chance more than a pound of wit. small amount so This maketh me at home to hunt and hawk
And in foul weather at my book to sit.
In frost and snow then with my bow to stalk,
No man doth mark whereso I ride or go;
In lusty⁰ leas⁰ at liberty I walk, pleasant / meadows
85 And of these news I feel nor weal⁰ nor woe, happiness
Save that a clog⁸ doth hang yet at my heel:
No force⁰ for that for it is ordered so, matter
That I may leap both hedge and dike⁹ full well.
I am not now in France to judge the wine,
90 With sav'ry sauce those delicates to feel;¹
Nor yet in Spain where one must him incline
Rather than to be, outwardly to seem.
I meddle not with wits that be so fine,
Nor Flanders' cheer letteth not my sight to deem 95 Of black and white,² nor taketh my wit away
With beastliness, they beasts do so esteem;
Nor am I not where Christ is given in prey
For money, poison, and treason at Rome,³
A common practice used night and day:
100 But here I am in Kent and Christendom
Among the Muses⁴ where I read and rhyme;
Where if thou list, my Poins, for to come,
Thou shalt be judge how I do spend my time.

E. MS.

7. Rants abusively.

in 1557, during the reign of the Catholic Queen

8. Heavy object tied to a prisoner's foot to impede

Mary, these lines read: "where truth is given prey motion.

/ For money, poison and treason; of some."

9. Ditch, used as a boundary.

4. In Greek mythology, nine sister goddesses who

1. To savor exquisite food.

presided over song and poetry and the arts and sci-

2. I.e., to be able to tell the difference between ences. Wyatt had extensive lands in Kent and could black and white. Flanders' cheer: in the sixteenth retire there when out of favor at court. He was century, the Flemings were notorious for drinking.

elected to Parliament from Kent shortly before his Lettesth: hinders.

death.

3. In Tottel's Miscellany, an anthology published

137

HENRY HOWARD, EARL OF SURREY

ca. 1517-1547

The Soote Season¹

The soote⁰ season, that bud and bloom forth brings, sweet

With green hath clad the hill and eke⁰ the vale; also

The nightingale with feathers new she sings;

The turtle⁰ to her make⁰ hath told her tale. turtledove / mate

5 Summer is come, for every spray now springs;

The hart hath hung his old head on the pale;²

The buck in brake⁰ his winter coat he flings, the hushes

The fishes float with new repaired scale;
The adder all her slough away she slings,
10 The swift swallow pursueth the flies small;
The busy bee her honey now she mings.⁰ discharges Winter is worn, that was the flowers' bale.⁰ harm
And thus I see among these pleasant things,
Each care decays, and yet my sorrow springs.

1557

Love, That Doth Reign and Live within My Thought³
Love, that doth reign and live within my thought,
And built his seat within my captive breast,
Clad in the arms⁰ wherein with me he fought, heraldic insignia
Oft in my face he doth his banner rest.
5 But she that taught me love and suffer pain,
My doubtful hope and eke⁰ my hot desire also
With shamefast⁰ look to shadow and refrain, shamefaced
Her smiling grace converteth straight to ire.
And coward Love, then, to the heart apace⁰ quickly
10 Taketh his flight, where he doth lurk and plain,⁰ complain
His purpose lost, and dare not show his face.
For my lord's guilt thus faultless bide⁰ I pain, endure
Yet from my lord shall not my foot remove:⁴
Sweet is the death that taketh end by love.

1557

1. Translated and adapted from Petrarch, Rime fence.

310; first published, along with poems by Wyatt

3. Translated from Petrarch, Rime 140. C o m p a r e and others, in Tottel's Miscellany (1557), an early the translation by Sir Thomas Wyatt, “The Long anthology.

Love, That in My Thought Doth Harbor” (p. 126).

2. I.e., has hung his antlers on the paling, or

4. I.e., I will not leave his side.

138 / HENRY HOWARD, EARL OF SURREY

Wyatt Resteth Here⁵

Wyatt resteth here, that quick⁰ could never rest; living

Whose heavenly gifts increased by disdain,⁶

And virtue sank the deeper in his breast;

Such profit he of envy could obtain.

A head where wisdom mysteries⁷ did frame,

Whose hammers beat still in that lively brain

As on a stithy,⁰ where some work of fame anvil

Was daily wrought, to turn to Britain’s gain.

A visage stern and mild, where both did grow,

Vice to contemn, in virtues to rejoice,

Amid great storms, whom grace assured so,

To live upright, and smile at fortune’s choice.

A hand that taught what might be said in rhyme;

That reft⁰ Chaucer the glory of his wit; bereft

A mark, the which—unperfited,⁰ for time— uncompleted

Some may approach, but never none shall hit.

A tongue that served in foreign realms his king;

Whose courteous talk to virtue did enflame

Each noble heart; a worthy guide to bring

Our English youth, by travail, unto fame.

An eye whose judgment no affect⁰ could blind, passion

Friends to allure, and foes to reconcile;

Whose piercing look did represent a mind
 With virtue fraught, reposed, void of guile.
 A heart where dread yet never so impressed
 To hide the thought that might the truth advance;
 In neither fortune lost, nor so repressed,
 To swell in wealth, nor yield unto mischance.
 A valiant corps,⁰ where force and beauty met, body
 Happy, alas! too happy, but for foes,
 Lived, and ran the race that nature set;
 Of manhood's shape, where she the mold did lose.
 But to the heavens that simple soul is fled,
 Which left with such as covet Christ to know⁸
 Witness of faith that never shall be dead,
 Sent for our health, but not received so.
 Thus, for our guilt, this jewel have we lost;
 The earth his bones, the heavens possess his ghost.

1 5 5 7

5. Surrey's epitaph on Thomas Wyatt (1503— "envy").
 1542; see pp. 126—36), published in 1542, soon 7. Hidden or subtle meanings, after Wyatt's death. 8. I.e., Christians.

6. I.e., by others' disdain (as in line 4, of others')

S o C R U E L P R I S O N / 1 3 9

So Cruel Prison⁹

So cruel prison how could betide,⁰ alas, befall
 As proud Windsor?¹ Where I in lust⁰ and joy pleasure
 With a king's son my childish⁰ years did pass youthful
 In greater feast than Priam's² sons of Troy;
 5 Where each sweet place returns a taste full sour:
 The large green courts where we were wont to hove³

With eyes cast up unto the maidens' tower,
And easy sighs, such as folk draw in love;
The stately sales,⁰ the ladies bright of hue, halls
10 The dances short, long tales of great delight;
With words and looks that tigers could but rue,⁴
Where each of us did plead the other's right;
The palm play,⁰ where, despoiled⁰ for the handball / disrobed game,
With dazed eyes oft we by gleams of love
15 Have missed the ball and got sight of our dame,
To bait⁵ her eyes, which kept the leads above;
The graveled ground, with sleeves tied on the helm,⁶
On foaming horse, with swords and friendly hearts,
With cheer, as though the one should overwhelm;
20 Where we have fought, and chased oft with darts,
With silver drops the meads⁰ yet spread for ruth,⁰ meadows I
pity
In active games of nimbleness and strength,
Where we did strain, trailed by swarms of youth,
Our tender limbs that yet shot up in length;
25 The secret groves which oft we made resound
Of pleasant plaint and of our ladies' praise,
Recording soft what grace each one had found,
What hope of speed, what dread of long delays;
The wild forest, the clothed holt⁰ with green, small -wood 30 With reins ahaled,⁰ and swift ybreathed⁰ slackened / exercised horse,
With cry of hounds and merry blasts between,

Where we did chase the fearful hart aforce;0 strenuously
The void walls eke0 that harbored us each night, also Wherewith, alas, revive within my breast

35 The sweet accord; such sleeps as yet delight,
The pleasant dreams, the quiet bed of rest;

The secret thoughts imparted with such trust,

The wanton talk, the divers change of play,

The friendship sworn, each promise kept so just,

9. As a boy and young man, Surrey had enjoyed

4. The tiger conventionally symbolized unfeeling the life at Windsor Palace as the close friend of savagery.

Henry Fitzroy, an illegitimate son of Henry VIII.

5. To feed or to attract. The “leads” from which

In 1537, a year after the death of his friend, Surrey the lady watches may be either a leaded window or was imprisoned temporarily at Windsor for striking a flat, leaded roof.

another courtier.

6. A knight would customarily tie a favor received

1. I.e., how could proud Windsor (Castle) have from a lady to his sleeve or helmet and wear it into become such a cruel prison?

a joust or a battle. Graveled ground: tiltyard, i.e.,

2. Priam, king of Troy in Homer’s Iliad.

space strewn with gravel for jousting.

3. Accustomed to linger.

1 4 0 / A N N E A S K E W

40 Wherewith we passed the winter nights away.

And with this thought the blood forsakes my face,
The tears berain⁰ my cheeks of deadly hue, wet
The which as soon as sobbing sighs, alas, Upsupped⁰ have, thus I my plaint renew: absorbed
45 O place of bliss, renewer of my woes,
Give me accompt⁷—where is my noble fere?⁰ companion
Whom in thy walls thou didst each night enclose,
To other lief,⁰ but unto me most dear! beloved
Echo, alas, that doth my sorrow rue,
50 Returns thereto a hollow sound of plaint.
Thus I, alone, where all my freedom grew,
In prison pine with bondage and restraint;
And with remembrance of the greater grief
To banish the less, I find my chief relief.

1 5 5 7

A N N E A S K E W

1521-1546

The Ballad Which Anne Askew Made and Sang When She
Was in Newgate¹

Like as the armed knight
Appointed to the field,
With this world will I fight
And faith shall be my shield.²
5 Faith is that weapon strong
Which will not fail at need;
My foes therefore among Therewith will I proceed.
As it is had in strength
10 And force of Christ's way,

It will prevail at length
Though all the devils say nay.
Faith in the father's old Obtained rightwiseness⁰ righteousness
15 Which make me very bold
To fear no world's distress.
7. I.e., tell me.

printed in 1546 and 1547, respectively. Newgate:

1. Askew was arrested and examined for heresy in a London prison.

June 1545. She was released, but was arrested

2. Ephesians 6 . 13 - 17 exhorts the Christian to put again in J u n e 1546, subjected to torture, and on "the whole armor of God," including "the shield burned at the stake the next month. This ballad of faith, with which ye shall be able to quench all was included in the Protestant Bishop John Bale's
the fiery darts of the wicked."

two accounts of her examination and death,

T H E B A L L A D W H I C H A N N E A S K E W M A D E
A N D S A N G / 1 4 1

I now rejoyce in heart
And hope bid me do so,
For Christ will take my part
And ease me of my woe.
Thou sayst lord, who so kneck,³
To them wilt thou attend;
Undo therefore the lock
And thy strong power send.

More enemies now I have
Than hairs upon my head
Let them not me deprave,⁰ villify
But fight thou in my stead.
On thee my care I cast
For all their cruel spite
I set not by their haste,⁴
For thou art my delight.
I am not she that list⁰ chooses
My anchor to let fall
For every drizzling mist
My ship substantial.
Not oft use I to write
In prose nor yet in rhyme,
Yet will I show one sight
That I saw in my time.
I saw a royal throne
Where Justice should have sit,
But in her stead was one
Of modie⁰ cruel wit. wrathful
Absorbed⁰ was rightwiseness swallowed up
As of the raging flood;
Satan in his excess
Sucked up the guiltless blood.
Then thought I, Jesus lord,
When thou shalt judge us all,
Hard is it to record
On these men what will fall.
Yet lord I thee desire

For that⁰ they do to me, what
Let them not taste the hire⁰ reward
Of their iniquity.⁵

1 5 4 6

3. Knocks. Matthew 7.7: "Ask, and it shall be 5. Christ on the cross also asks mercy for his per-given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it secutors: "Father, forgive them; for they know not shall be opened unto you." what they do" (Luke 23.34).

4. I have no regard for their rashness.

1 4 2

QUEENE L I Z A B E T H I

1533-1603

When I Was Fair and Young¹

When I was fair and young, then favor graced me.

Of many was I sought their mistress⁰ for to be, sweetheart

But I did scorn them all and answered them therefore:

Go, go, go, seek some other where, importune me no more.

5 How many weeping eyes I made to pine in woe,

How many sighing hearts I have not skill to show,

But I the prouder grew and still this spake therefore:

Go, go, go, seek some other where, importune me no more.

Then spake fair Venus' son,² that proud victorious boy,

10 Saying: You dainty dame, for that you be so coy,

I will so pluck your plumes³ as you shall say no more:

Go, go, go, seek some other where, importune me no more.

As soon as he had said, such change⁴ grew in my breast

That neither night nor day I could take any rest.

15 Wherefore I did repent that I had said before:

Go, go, go, seek some other where, importune me no more.

ca. 1585? 1964

[The Doubt of Future Foes Exiles My Present Joy]5

The doubt of future foes exiles my present joy,
And wit me warns to shun such snares as threaten mine annoy;⁶
For falsehood now doth flow, and subjects' faith doth ebb,
Which should not be if reason ruled or wisdom weaved the web.
5 But clouds of joys untried do cloak aspiring minds,
Which turn to rain of late repent by changed course of winds.

1. This poem is found with many variations in five alternating lines of six and seven beats (see “Ver-manuscripts. We follow Leicester Bradner, The sification,” p. 2047) — a popular form at this time
Poems of Queen Elizabeth, in using the British (see Philip Sidney, “What Length of Verse?”
M u s e u m ‘ s Harleian 7392 as the basis for our text.
p. 210). It appears to answer a sonnet written by The Bodleian Library’s Rawlinson manuscript, Elizabeth’s Catholic cousin Mary Stuart, q u e e n of written between 1590 and 1600, also contains a Scotland, in which Mary, who had fled to England version of the poem and states, furthermore, that from imprisonment in Scotland in 1568, asks to it was written w h e n Elizabeth “was supposed to be see Elizabeth. Until her execution in 1587, Mary in love with mounsyre,” that is, her F r e n c h suitor, was a constant threat, the impetus of m a n y plots
the duke of Alençon. Some m o d e r n scholars doubt to depose Elizabeth and seat herself on the English that Elizabeth wrote the poem, b u t all accept it as throne. “The daughter of debate” in line 11 and an important cultural document about her. the “foreign banished wight” in line 13 apparently refer to Mary.

2. Cupid, Roman god of erotic love, was the son of Venus, goddess of love and beauty.

Versions of this poem appear in six manuscripts

3. I.e., remove your pride; a reference to the and two early printed texts, including George Put-tenham’s Art of English Poesy (1589). Our text fol-ditionally symbol of pride.

lowers that of Bodleian MS. Rawlinson, thought to 4. One manuscript, in the Folger Library, substitute have been compiled around 1570.

tutes “care” for “change.”

Doubt: danger or thing to be dreaded.

5. This poem is written in poulter’s measure —

6. I.e., cause me discomfort or trouble.

[A H S I L L Y P U G , W E R T T H O U S O S O R E A F R A I D] / 1 4 3

The top of hope supposed the root upreared shall be,⁷

And fruitless all their grafted guile,⁸ as shortly ye shall see.

The dazzled eyes with pride, which great ambition blinds,

10 Shall be unsealed by worthy wights⁹ whose foresight falsehood finds.

The daughter of debate that discord aye doth sow

Shall reap no gain where former rule still peace hath taught to know.

No foreign banished wight¹ shall anchor in this port;

Our realm brooks⁰ not seditious sects, let them elsewhere resort, allows 15 My rusty sword through rest shall first his edge employ

To poll their tops² that seek such change or gape⁰ for future joy.
long ca. 1570 1589

[Ah Silly Pug, Wert Thou So Sore Afraid]³

Ah silly pug, wert thou so sore afraid,
Mourn not (my Wat⁴) nor be thou so dismayed,
It passeth fickle fortune's power and skill,
To force my heart to think thee any ill.
No fortune base thou sayest shall alter thee,
And may so blind a witch⁵ so conquer me?
No no my pug, though fortune were not blind,
Assure thy self she could not rule my mind.
Fortune I know sometimes doth conquer kings
And rules & reigns on earth & earthly things,
But never think fortune can bear the sway,
If virtue watch & will not her obey.

Ne^o chose I thee by fickle fortune's rede,⁰ neither / advice

Ne^o she shall force me alter⁰ with such speed nor I to

But if to try this mistress jest with thee,

Pull up thy heart, suppress thy brackish⁰ tears, salty

Torment thee not, but put away thy fears;

Dead to all joys & living unto woe,

Slain quite by her that ne're gave wiseman blow

20 Revive again & live without all dread,

The less afraid the better thou shalt speed.⁰ succeed, prosper

ca. 1578 - 88 1992

7. Variants on this line include: "The top of hope Sir Walter Raleigh, probably "Fortune Hath Taken suppressed the root upreared [i.e., exalted] shall Thee Away, My Love” (p. 158). Silly: deserving of be” and “The top of hope supposed the root of ruth pity or compassion; also foolish, lacking in judg-[sorrow] will be.”

ment, helpless, defenseless, insignificant, or lowly.

8. The image of grafting, or inserting a shoot into Pug: a term of endearment.

the root stock of another tree or plant, suggests

4. A diminutive of Walter.

that conspirators have attempted to plant their

5. Fortune was often personified as a fickle own seditious thoughts in the minds of others.

woman and sometimes depicted as blind or blind-

9. People. Unsealed: unsewn or unopened, as the folded.

eyes of a hawk in the sport of hawking.

6. A line of the poem may be missing at this point;

1. I.e., no person exiled to a foreign land.

alternatively, the queen may have written lines 13—

2. I.e., cut off their heads.

1 5 as a triplet of near-rhymes.

3. This poem was written in answer to a poem by

1 4 4

GEORGE GASCOIGNE *

ca. 1534-1577

And If I Did, What Then?

“And if I did, what then?

Are you aggrieved therefore?

The sea hath fish for every man,
And what would you have more?"

5 Thus did my mistress once
Amaze my mind with doubt,
And popped a question for the nonce
To beat my brains about.

Whereto I thus replied:

10 "Each fisherman can wish
That all the sea at every tide
Were his alone to fish.

And so did I, in vain;
But since it may not be,

15 Let such fish there as find the gain,
And leave the loss for me.

And with such luck and loss
I will content myself,
Till tides of turning time may toss

20 Such fishers on the shelf.
And when they stick on sands,
That every man may see,
Then will I laugh and clap my hands,
As they do now at me."

For That He Looked Not upon Her

You must not wonder, though you think it strange,
To see me hold my luring⁰ head so low, sullen
And that mine eyes take no delight to range
About the gleams which on your face do grow.

5 The mouse which once hath broken out of trap
Is seldom 'ticed^o with the trustless bait, enticed,

But lies aloof for fear of more mishap,
And feedeth still in doubt⁰ of deep deceit. suspicion
The scorched fly, which once hath 'scaped the flame,
10 Will hardly come to play again with fire,

*Gascoigne's poems were first published in A Hundreth

Sundry Flowers (1573), the source of our 1. Expressly for the purpose of.

GASCOIGNE'S LULLABY / 145

Whereby I learn that grievous is the game
Which follows fancy dazzled by desire:
So that I wink² or else hold down my head,
Because your blazing eyes my bale⁰ have bred. anguish

Gascoigne's Lullaby

Sing lullaby, as women do,
Wherewith they bring their babes to rest,
And lullaby can I sing too,
As womanly as can the best.

5 With lullaby they still the child,
And if I be not much beguiled,
Full many wanton babes have I,
Which must be stilled with lullaby.

First, lullaby, my youthful years,
10 It is now time to go to bed,
For crooked age and hoary hairs
Have won the haven within my head.

With lullaby then, youth, be still,
With lullaby content they will,

15 Since courage quails⁰ and comes behind, shrinks
Go sleep, and so beguile thy mind.

Next, lullaby, my gazing eyes,
Which wonted were³ to glance apace.⁰

directly

For every glass may now suffice
20 To show the furrows in my face.
With lullaby then wink⁴ awhile,
With lullaby your looks beguile.
Let no fair face nor beauty bright
Entice you e^{ft}⁰ with vain delight.

after

25 And lullaby, my wanton will,
Let reason's rule now rein thy thought,
Since all too late I find by skill⁰ experience
How dear I have thy fancies bought.
With lullaby now take thine ease,
30 With lullaby thy doubts appease.
For trust to this, if thou be still,
My body shall obey thy will.
Eke⁰ lullaby, my loving boy,

also

My little Robin,⁵ take thy rest.
35 Since age is cold and nothing coy,⁰ lascivious

Keep close thy coin,⁶ for so is best.

2. I.e., close my eyes; also, blink.

5. I.e., a nickname for his penis.

3. Which were accustomed.

6. I.e., don't expend your semen; with a play on

4. I.e., shut your eyes.

“coin” as money and as a sound in the poet’s name.

1 4 6 / I S A B E L L A W H I T N E Y

With lullaby be thou content,

With lullaby thy lusts relent.

Let others pay which⁰ hath mo^o pence; who I more

40 Thou art too poor for such expense.

Thus, lullaby, my youth, mine eyes,

My will, my ware, and all that was.

I can no mo delays devise,

But welcome pain, let pleasure pass.

45 With lullaby now take your leave,

With lullaby your dreams deceive,

And when you rise with waking eye,

Remember Gascoigne’s lullaby.

1 5 7 3

I S A B E L L A W H I T N E Y

fl. 1567-1573

FROM A S W E E T NOSEGAY

A Communication Which the Author Had to London,

Before She Made Her Will

The time is come, I must depart

from thee, ah famous city;

I never yet to rue my smart,⁰ pain

did find that thou had’st pity.

5 Wherefore small cause there is, that I should grieve from thee to go;

But many women foolishly,

like me, and other moe,^o more

Do such a fixed fancy set,

10 on those which least deserve,
That long it is ere wit we get away from them to swerve.
But time with pity oft will tell
to those that will her try, 15 Whether it best be more to mell,^o mix with or utterly defy.

And now hath time me put in mind
of thy great cruelty,

1. This poem and the poetic testament that follows it conclude Whitney's A Sweet Nosegay (1573), a collection of poems that begins with 110 verse couplets of advice explicitly borrowed from Hugh Plat's Flowers of Philosophy (1572). While city's riches are the author's to bequeath as she Plat's classicizing verses were aimed at an audience likes.

of university men and lawyers, Whitney's book

THE MANNER OF HER WILL, & WHAT SHE LEAVETH
BEHIND HER IN HER LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT
EFTTOLONDON/147

That never once a help would find,
20 to ease me in distress.

Thou never yet would'st credit give to board me for a year;
Nor with apparel me relieve,

except thou payed were.

25 No, no, thou never did'st me good,
nor ever wilt, I know.

Yet am I in no angry mood,
but will, or ere² I go,

In perfect love and charity,
30 my testament here write,

And leave to thee such treasury,
as I in it recite.

Now stand aside and give me leave to write my latest will;

35 And see that none you do deceive of that I leave them till.³

*From The Manner of Her Will, & What She Left to London,
and to All Those in It, at Her Departing*

I whole in body, and in mind,
but very weak in purse,

Do make, and write my testament for fear it will be worse.

5 And first I wholly do commend my soul and body eke,^o also

To God the Father and the Son,
so long as I can speak.

And after speech, my soul to him,
10 and body to the grave,

Till time that all shall rise again,
their Judgement for to have.

And then I hope they both shall meet,
to dwell for aye⁰ in joy; ever

15 Whereas I trust to see my friends -when released from all annoy.

Thus have you heard touching my soul,
and body what I mean:

I trust you all will witness bear,

20 I have a steadfast brain.

O God, now let me dispose such things,
as I shall leave behind,

That those which shall receive the same,
may know my willing mind.

2. In early modern English, “or” was often used 3. I.e., of what I leave to them, with “ere” to mean “before.”

148 / I S A B E L L A W H I T N E Y

I first of all to London I leave,

because I there was bred,

Brave buildings rare, of churches store,
and Paul's to the head.⁴

Between the same, fair treats there be,
and people goodly store;

Because their keeping craveth⁰ cost, requires

I yet will leave him^o more.

them

First for their food, I butchers leave,
that every day shall kill;

By Thames⁰ you shall have brewers' store, river Thames

and bakers at your will.

And such as orders do observe,

and eat fish thrice a week,⁵
I leave two streets, full fraught therewith,⁶ they need not far to seek.

Watling Street, and Canwick Street,
I full of woolen⁰ leave;
And linen store in Friday Street,
if they me not deceive.

And those which are of calling such,
that costlier they require,

I mercers⁰ leave, with silk so rich,

textile merchants

as any would desire.⁷

In Cheap of them, they store shall find,
and likewise in that street,

I goldsmiths leave, with jewels such,⁸

as are for ladies meet.⁰

suitable

Now when the folk are fed and clad with such as I have named,

For dainty mouths, and stomachs weak

some juncets⁰ must be framed.

sweet cakes

Wherefore I potecaries leave,

with banquets in their shop;⁹

Physicians also for the sick,

Diseases for to stop.

Some roysters⁰ still must bide in thee,

revellers

and such as cut it out;¹

4. The greatest of the “store” (supply) of London’s

7. Possibly an ironic allusion to the Sumptuary sixteenth-century churches was St. Paul’s Cathe-Laws that prevented persons below certain social dral.

ranks (or “callings,” a Protestant term for voca-

5. Evidently playing on religious and secular tions) from wearing luxurious fabrics.

meanings of “order,” i.e., the clergy (those “in

8. I.e., she bequeathes to goldsmiths their own orders”) and also anyone who obeyed the Act of street, Goldsmith’s Row, which was on the south 1563, which sought to stimulate the fishing trade side of Cheapside Market (“Cheap”); there, those by decreeing that fish was to be eaten three days a who “require costlier” things may find many (a week rather than the two days stipulated in an Act “store”) of them.

of 1548.

9. Apothecaries carried not only drugs but also

6. Possibly Old Fish Street, London’s original fish spices; hence one could supply “banquets” in their market, and New Fish Street, in a different part of shops.

the city. There were, however, other streets in

1. Show off.

which fish was sold.

THE MANNER OF HER WILL, & WHAT SHE L
EFT TO LONDON / 149

That with the guiltless quarrel will,
100 to let their blood about.
For them I cunning surgeons² leave,
some plasters to apply,
That ruffians may not still be hanged,
nor quiet persons die.

» * *

To all the bookbinders by Paul's,
because I like their art, 195 They every week shall money have,
when they from books depart.
Among them all, my printer must have somewhat to his share;
I will my friends these books to buy
200 of him, with other ware.
For maidens poor, I widowers rich
do leave, that oft shall dote:
And by that means shall marry them,
to set the girls afloat.
205 And wealthy widows will I leave to help young gentlemen;
Which when you have, in any case,
be courteous to them then:
And see their plate⁰ and jewels eke^o silverware / also 210 may not be marred with rust;
Nor let their bags too long be full,
for fear that they do burst.

s s s

225 And Bedlam³ must not be forgot,

for that was oft my walk:

I people there too many leave,
that out of tune do talk.

235 At th' Inns of Court, I lawyers leave to take their case in hand.

And also leave I at each Inn
of Court, or Chancery,⁴

Of gentlemen, a youthful roote,^o rout, throng
240 full of activity,

For whom I store of books have left,
at each bookbinder's stall:

And part of all that London hath,
to furnish them withal.

2. Surgeons generally practiced "manual" arts of mentally ill; cf. "Tom o' Bedlam's Song" (p. 124).

healing and operating in the early modern era and

4. The court of the lord chancellor of England, in hence were often regarded as distinct from (and which a number of young men lived and trained as inferior to) physicians (see line 95).

clerks; the Inns of Court housed and trained stu-

3. The Hospital of St. Mary of Bethlehem, for the dents in the C o m m o n Law.

1 5 0 / I S A B E L L A W H I T N E Y

245 And when they are with study cloyed,^o overfed
to recreate their mind,

Of tennis courts, of dancing schools,
and fence^o they store shall find. fencing

And every Sunday at the least,

250 I leave to make them sport,
In divers places players,0 that actors
of wonders shall report.
Now, London, have I (for thy sake) within thee, and without,5 255 As comes into my memory, dispersed 'round about Such needful things as they should have,
here left now unto thee;
When I am gone, with conscience,
260 let them dispersed be.
And though I nothing named have,
to bury me withal,
Consider that above the ground,
annoyance be I shall.
265 And let me have a shrouding sheet
to cover me from shame,
And in oblivion bury me,
and never more me name.
Ringings nor other ceremonies
270 use you not for cost,
Nor at my burial, make no feast,
your money were but lost.
$ $ s
This xx of October, I,
in ANNO0 DOMINI,0
year / of our Lord
A thousand, v.° hundred seventy-three, five

315 as almanacs descry,⁰

show

Did write this will with mine own hand,
and it to London gave;

In witness of the standers-by,
whose names, if you will have,

320 paper, pen and standish⁰ were,

writing stand

at that same present by,^o

nearby

With Time, who promised to reveal so fast as she could buy

The same, lest of my nearer kin

325 for any thing should vary;⁶

So finally I make an end

no longer can I tarry.

1 5 7 3

5. A number of the places and institutions 6. I.e., lest anything should change for my close described, including the theaters, were outside the relatives, Time promised to reveal my bequests as city proper, in suburbs called the "liberties." fast as she could buy them.

1 5 1

CHIDIOCKTICHBORNE

d. 1586

[My Prime of Youth Is but a Frost of Cares]¹

My prime of youth is but a frost of cares,

My feast of joy is but a dish of pain,

My crop of corn is but a field of tares,⁰ weeds

And all my good is but vain hope of gain;

5 The day is past, and yet I saw no sun,
And now I live, and now my life is done.
My tale was heard and yet it was not told,
My fruit is fallen and yet my leaves are green,
My youth is spent and yet I am not old,
10 I saw the world and yet I was not seen;
My thread is cut and yet it is not spun,²
And now I live, and now my life is done.
I sought my death and found it in my womb,
I looked for life and saw it was a shade,
15 I trod the earth and knew it was my tomb,
And now I die, and now I was but made;
My glass⁰ is full, and now my glass is run, hourglass
And now I live, and now my life is done.

1 5 8 6

SIR W A L T E R R A L E G H

ca. 1552-1618

A Vision upon the Fairy Queen¹

Methought I saw the grave where Laura² lay,
Within that temple where the vestal flame³
Was wont^o to burn; and, passing by that way, accustomed
To see that buried dust of living fame,
5 Whose tomb fair Love, and fairer Virtue kept:
All suddenly I saw the Fairy Queen;

1. This poem, first printed as “Tychborne’s Lamw h e n he or she was destined to die.

entation,” was preserved in more than thirty man-

1. This p o e m appeared in both the 1590 and the uscripts written soon after Tichborne’s execution

1596 editions of Edmund Spenser's epic poem The Faerie Queene (see p. 165).

against Queen Elizabeth's life. Our text is from the

2. The woman to whom the Italian poet Petrarch

Tanner MS. (in Oxford's Bodleian Library); the (1304—1374) addressed his sonnet sequence; with first owner of this manuscript noted that Tich-appon "laurel," a symbol of poetic achievement.

borne had written the poem "with his own hand e

3. The sacred fire, guarded by virgin priestesses,

... not three days before his execution."

in the temple of Vesta, Roman goddess of the

2. An allusion to the Fates, three goddesses in hearth; thus an allusion to Laura's chastity and classical mythology; they spun the thread that purity.

determined the length of a person's life, cutting it

152 / SIR WALTER RALEGH

At whose approach the soul of Petrarch wept,

And, from thenceforth, those Graces⁴ were not seen:

For they this queen attended; in whose stead

10 Oblivion laid him down on Laura's hearse:⁰ tomb

Hereat the hardest stones were seen to bleed,

And groans of buried ghosts the heavens did pierce:

Where Homer's sprights did tremble all for grief,

And cursed the access of that celestial thief!

1590

The Nymph's Reply to the Shepherd⁶

If all the world and love were young,
And truth in every shepherd's tongue,
These pretty pleasures might me move
To live with thee and be thy love.
5 Time drives the flocks from field to fold
When rivers rage and rocks grow cold,
And Philomel⁷ becometh dumb;
The rest complains of cares to come.
The flowers do fade, and wanton fields⁸
10 To wayward winter reckoning yields;
A honey tongue, a heart of gall,^o bitterness
Is fancy's spring, but sorrow's fall.
Thy gowns, thy shoes, thy beds of roses,
Thy cap, thy kirtle,⁹ and thy posies
15 Soon break, soon wither, soon forgotten—
In folly ripe, in reason rotten.
Thy belt of straw and ivy buds,
Thy coral clasps and amber studs,^o buttons
All these in me no means can move
20 To come to thee and be thy love.
But could youth last and love still breed,
Had joys no date¹ nor age no need,
Then these delights my mind might move
To live with thee and be thy love.

1600

4. I.e., Love and Virtue.

story in a tapestry and sent it to her sister, who

5. Ghost of the ancient Greek poet credited with rescued her. Later changed into a nightingale composing the epic poems the Iliad and the Odyssey.

while in flight from Tereus, she sings a mournful

song in the springtime.

6. Written in reply to Christopher Marlowe's "The
8. I.e., carelessly cultivated fields; also, fields with Passionate Shepherd to His Love" (p. 256).

luxuriant summer growth.

7. In Greek mythology, Philomela was raped by

9. A long dress, often worn under an outer garment.
her brother-in-law, Tereus, who then tore out her tongue so that she could not speak. She wove the

1. I.e., terminal date.

THE PASSIONATE MAN'S PILGRIMAGE / 1
53

The Passionate Man's Pilgrimage

Give me my scallop-shell² of quiet,

My staff of faith to walk upon,

My scrip³ of joy, immortal diet,

My bottle of salvation,

⁵ My gown of glory, hope's true gage,^o pledge

And thus I'll take my pilgrimage.

Blood must be my body's balmer,^o embalmer

No other balm⁴ will there be given,

Whilst my soul like a white palmer⁵

¹⁰ Travels to the land of heaven,

Over the silver mountains,

Where spring the nectar fountains;

And there I'll kiss
The bowl of bliss,
15 And drink my eternal fill
On every milken hill.
My soul will be a-dry^o before, dried out, thirsty
But after it will ne'er thirst more;⁶
And by the happy blissful way
20 More peaceful pilgrims I shall see
That have shook off their gowns of clay⁷
And go appareled fresh like me.
I'll bring them first
To slake^o their thirst, quench
25 And then to taste those nectar suckets,^o confections
At the clear wells
Where sweetness dwells,
Drawn up by saints in crystal buckets.
And when our bottles and all we 30 Are filled with immortality,
Then the holy paths we'll travel,
Strewed with rubies thick as gravel,
Ceilings of diamonds, sapphire floors,
High walls of coral, and pearl bowers,^o chambers
35 From thence to heaven's bribeless hall
Where no corrupted voices brawl,
No conscience molten into gold,
Nor forged accusers bought and sold,
No cause deferred, nor vain-spent journey,
2. A scallop shell or something resembling it was
6. Alludes to John 4.14: "But whosoever drinketh worn as the sign of a pilgrim.

of the water that I shall give him shall never

3. Pilgrim's knapsack or bag.

thirst... ." In line 16, "milken hill" alludes to the

4. Aromatic preparation for embalming the dead.

Promised Land as a land flowing in milk and honey

5. Person wearing a palm leaf as a sign that he or (Joshua 5.6).

she had made a pilgrimage to the Holy Land.

7. Earth, i.e., earthly bodies.

1 5 4 / S I R W A L T E R R A L E G H

40 For there Christ is the king's attorney,

Who pleads for all, without degrees,⁰ respect to rank

And he hath angels,⁸ but no fees.

When the grand twelve million jury

Of our sins and sinful fury,

45 'Gainst our souls black verdicts give,

Christ pleads his death, and then we live.

Be thou my speaker, taintless pleader,

Unblotted lawyer, true proceeder;

Thou movest salvation even for alms,⁰ charitable deeds

50 Not with a bribed lawyer's palms.

And this is my eternal plea

To him that made heaven, earth, and sea,

Seeing my flesh must die so soon,

And want⁰ a head to dine next noon, need, lack

55 Just at the stroke when my veins start and spread,

Set on my soul an everlasting head.

Then am I ready, like a palmer fit,⁹

To tread those blest paths which before I writ.

1 6 0 4

The Lie

Go, soul, the body's guest,

Upon a thankless errand;

Fear not to touch the best;

The truth shall be thy warrant.⁰ guarantee, proof

5 Go, since I needs must die,

And give the world the lie.¹

Say to the court, it glows

And shines like rotten wood;

Say to the church, it shows

io What's good, and doth no good.

If church and court reply,

Then give them both the lie.

Tell potentates,⁰ they live rulers

Acting by others' action;

15 Not loved unless they give,

Not strong but by a faction.

If potentates reply,

Give potentates the lie.

8. A punning reference to the gold coin of that occurred in 1618. W h e n he wrote this poem, he name, ten shillings in value.

was in prison, charged with treason.

9. Outfitted (refers back to the first stanza);

1. To "give the lie" means to contradict, or to Raleigh is imagining his death by beheading, which prove the falsity of something.

T H E L I E / 1 5 5

Tell men of high condition,
20 That manage the estate,²
Their purpose is ambition,
Their practice only hate.
And if they once reply,
Then give them all the lie.
25 Tell them that brave it most,³
They beg for more by spending,
Who, in their greatest cost,
Seek nothing but commending.
And if they make reply,
30 Then give them all the lie.
Tell zeal it wants⁰ devotion;
lacks
Tell love it is but lust;
Tell time it is but motion;
Tell flesh it is but dust.
35 And wish them not reply,
For thou must give the lie.
Tell age it daily wasteth;
Tell honor how it alters;
Tell beauty how she blasteth;⁰
withers
40 Tell favor how it falters.
And as they shall reply,
Give every one the lie.
Tell wit how much it wrangles
In tickle⁰ points of niceness;

delicate, unreliable

45 Tell wisdom she entangles
Herself in overwiseness.
And when they do reply,
Straight give them both the lie.

Tell physic⁰ of her boldness;
medicine

50 Tell skill it is pretension;
Tell charity of coldness;
Tell law it is contention.

And as they do reply,
So give them still the lie.

55 Tell fortune of her blindness;
Tell nature of decay;
Tell friendship of unkindness;
Tell justice of delay.

And if they will reply,
60 Then give them all the lie.

2. Condition of h u m a n beings with respect to 3. I.e., show off the most; also, to dress extrava-worldly prosperity; also, an implied analogy gantly.

between England and a nobleman's estate or land.

1 5 6 / S I R W A L T E R R A L E G H

Tell arts they have no soundness,
But vary by esteeming;
Tell schools they want profoundness,
And stand too much on seeming.

65 If arts and schools reply,
Give arts and schools the lie.

Tell faith it's fled the city;
Tell how the country erreth;
Tell manhood shakes off pity; say how 70 Tell virtue least preferreth.⁴
And if they do reply,
Spare not to give the lie.
So when thou hast, as I Commanded thee, done blabbing⁰— revealing secrets
75 Although to give the lie
Deserves no less than stabbing—
Stab at thee he that will,
No stab the soul can kill.

1608

Nature, That Washed Her Hands in Milk
Nature, that washed her hands in milk,
And had forgot to dry them,
Instead of earth took snow and silk,
At love's request to try them,
5 If she a mistress could compose
To please love's fancy out of those.
Her eyes he would should be of light,
A violet breath, and lips of jelly;
Her hair not black, nor overbright,
10 And of the softest down her belly;
As for her inside he'd have it
Only of wantonness and wit.
At love's entreaty such a one
Nature made, but with her beauty
15 She hath framed a heart of stone;

So as love, by ill destiny,
Must die for her whom nature gave him,
Because her darling would not save him.

4. I.e., tell virtue that it succeeds least (less than vice does).

IF CYNTHIA BE A QUEEN, A PRINCESS, AND
D SUPREME / 1 5 7

But time (which nature doth despise,
20 And rudely gives her love the lie,
Makes hope a fool, and sorrow wise)
His hands do neither wash nor dry;
But being made of steel and rust,
Turns snow and silk and milk to dust.
25 The light, the belly, lips, and breath,
He dims, discolors, and destroys;
With those he feeds but fills not death,
Which sometimes⁰ were the food of joys. formerly
Yea, time doth dull each lively wit,
30 And dries all wantonness with it.
Oh, cruel time! which takes in trust
Our youth, our joys, and all we have,
And pays us but with age and dust;
Who in the dark and silent grave
35 When we have wandered all our ways
Shuts up the story of our days.⁵

ca. 1610

If Cynthia Be a Queen, a Princess, and Supreme⁶
If Cynthia be a queen, a princess, and supreme,
Keep these among the rest,⁷ or say it was a dream,
For those that like, expound, and those that loathe express

Meanings according as their minds are moved more or less;
5 For writing what thou art, or showing what thou were,
Adds to the one disdain, to the other but despair,
Thy mind of neither needs, in both seeing it exceeds.

1 5 8 9 ? 1 8 7 0

5. Another version of this stanza, traditionally supposed to have been written by Raleigh on the night before his execution, was published in 1628. In it, the first three words are changed to “Even such is for Queen Elizabeth I and was one she approved time,” and the following couplet is added at the end: “And from which earth, and grave, and dust suggests that the queen rules him as the moon / The Lord shall raise me up, I trust.” The poem rules the tides.

as a whole existed only in manuscript until 1902.

7. If Raleigh is addressing himself, “keep” may

6. This enigmatic poem probably was written at a mean “don’t send to her”; if the poet addresses the queen, he is telling her to keep his verses with the favor. It appears in a manuscript before a fragment rest of the many poems of courtly love and praise of the longer poem “The Ocean to Cynthia.” The she has received from him and other court poets.

“thou” of the poem may be the queen, Raleigh, or

158 / SIR WALTER RALEGH

[Fortune Hath Taken Thee Away, My Love]⁸

Fortune hath taken thee away, my love,
My life's soul and my soul's heaven above;
Fortune hath taken thee away, my princess;
My only light and my true fancy's mistress.

5 Fortune hath taken all away from me,
Fortune hath taken all by taking thee.

Dead to all joy, I only live to woe,
So fortune now becomes my mortal foe.

In vain you eyes, you eyes do waste your tears,
10 In vain you sighs do smoke forth my despairs,
In vain you search the earth and heaven above,
In vain you search, for fortune rules in love.

Thus now I leave my love in fortune's hands,
Thus now I leave my love in fortune's bands,
15 And only love the sorrows due to me;
Sorrow henceforth it shall my princess be.

I joy in this, that fortune conquers kings;
Fortune that rules on earth and earthly things
Hath taken my love in spite of Cupid's⁹ might;
20 So blind a dame¹ did never Cupid right.

With wisdom's eyes had but blind Cupid seen,
Then had my love my love for ever been;
But love farewell; though fortune conquer thee,
No fortune base shall ever alter me.

Before 1589 1992

8. This poem appears to have been written to lished in that year.

Queen Elizabeth I, who replied to it with her poem

9. Cupid, the Roman god of erotic love, is often

“Ah Silly Pug, Wert Thou So Sore Afraid” (p. 143).

depicted as a blind and winged boy.

Both poems are included in a manuscript of the

1. Fortune was often personified as a fickle

1620s in the Wiltshire record office, and both were woman and sometimes depicted as blind or blind-

written before 1589; George Puttenham quotes folded. “Fortune My Foe” was a popular tune.

from both poems in his Art of English Poesy, pub-

159

EDMUND SPENSER *

1552-1599

FROM THE SHEPHEARDES CALENDER I

Aprill

^Because Spenser adopted many archaisms to lend series of twelve interlinked poems that draws on an antique appearance to his poetry, the English several literary genres including the classical poet Ben Jonson (1572—1673; see pp. 323—45) eclogue, or short pastoral poem, the calendar-said that Spenser “writ no language.” For example, almanac, the romance, the beast fable, the satire, he imitated the archaic form of the participle command and the Petrarchan lyric (from the fourteenth-century Italian poet Petrarch). Spenser presents form of the Old English prefix ge. Spenser was himself following a career path famously modeled innovative as well: he coined many new words and by the ancient Roman poet Virgil: the young poet played—often fancifully—with the native and for-prepares for epic endeavor by writing pastoral eign etymologies of English words. He thus participated in a project dear to the hearts of many old-fashioned English rendering) is named after a educated Elizabethan writers—“enriching” the month and contains several parts. First comes a vernacular with borrowings from classical and woodcut depicting the month’s zodiacal sign and modern languages and dialects to create a “king-the poem’s dramatic scenario. Then comes a brief dom of our own language,” as Spenser called it in prose “Argument,” a synopsis of the poem’s action.

a letter to his friend the writer Gabriel Harvey Following that are the verse text of the eclogue and (1 5 5 0 - 1 6 3 0) .

then one or more verbal emblems, or “mottos,”

Because Spenser’s verbal wit depends in part on usually one for each of the poem’s speakers.

showing words’ multiple meanings and various

Finally, there are lengthy glosses on parts of the “roots,” historical and imaginary, we have not mod-p o e m and on the emblems.

ernized Spenser’s texts except in minor ways. We

The glosses, and perhaps the “Arguments,” are regularize i s, j’s, M’S, and v’s according to modern conspicuously attributed to someone designated conventions, replace diphthongs with separate char-only by the initials “E. K.” This figure first appears acters, and occasionally r e p u n c t u a t e lines w h e n

as the a u t h o r of the Calender’s dedicatory epistle

they seem particularly difficult for modern readers.

to Gabriel Harvey (see preceding note) and has

We also print in roman type words italicized in the

been identified both as Harvey and as Spenser, editions printed during Spenser’s lifetime. (In gen-

who would be adopting a scholarly, even pedantic

eral, we follow the first editions of his texts except persona to promote his reputation as an important in the case of The Faerie Queene, where we rely poet. E. K.’s glosses, which include explications of on the 1596 edition rather than the one of 1590.)

difficult or archaic words as well as learned, and Finally, to aid the reader in pronouncing and scan-sometimes critical, discussions of Spenser's poetic ning Spenser's poetry, which often plays on contexts, are usually published in full with the respondences and differences between the way eclogues. Here, we incorporate those of E. K.'s words sound and the ways in which they appear on glosses that seem especially useful to the modern the page, we add some metrical accents.
reader; they too retain original spellings.

1. Spenser's first independently published work, a
160 / EDMUND SPENSER

*Aegloga Quarto*²

ARGUMENT

This Aeglogue is purposely intended to the honor and prayse of our most gracious sovereigne, Queene Elizabeth. The speakers herein he Hohhinoll and Thenott, two shepheardes: the which Hohhinoll heing before mentioned,

*greatly to have loved Colin, is here set forth more largely,
complayning him of that boyes great misadventure in Love, whereby his rnynd was alienate and with drawen not onely from him, who moste loved him, but also from all former delightes and studies, aswell in pleasaunt pyping, as conning³ ryming and singing, and other his laudable exercises. Whereby he taketh occasion, for prooffe of his more excellencie and skill in poetrie, to recorde⁴ a songe, which the sayd Colin sometime made in honor of her Majestie, whom abruptly he termeth*

*Elysa.*⁵

THE NOTHOBBINOLL

Tell me good Hobbinoll, what garres thee greete?⁶

What? hath some Wolfe thy tender Lambes ytorne?

Or is thy Bagpype broke, that soundes so sweete?
Or art thou of thy loved lasse forlorne? 0 forsaken
5 Or bene thine eyes attempted to the yeare,⁷ Quenching the gasping furrowes thirst with rayne?
Like April shoure, so stremes the trickling teares
Adowne thy cheeke, to quenche thy thristye 0 payne. thirsty

H O B B I N O L L

Nor thys, nor that, so mucche doeth make me mourne, 10 But for 0 the ladde, whome long I lovd so deare, that Nowe loves a lasse, that all his love doth scorne:
He plongd in payne, his tressed 0 locks dooth teare. curled
Shepheards delights he dooth them all forswear,
Hys pleasaunt Pipe, whych made us meriment,
15 He wylfully hath broke, and doth forbear
His wonted songs, wherein he all outwent.⁸

2. I.e., Fourth Eclogue; “April” thus alludes to

4. Remember.

Virgil’s Fourth Eclogue, which joyously predicts

5. I.e., he called Elizabeth “Elysa” because it’s the return of a “virgin” goddess and associates the shorter. For Spenser’s learned contemporaries, the mythical Golden Age ruled by the goddess Astraea name would also have recalled “Elissa,” the ancient with the era of Virgil’s patron, Caesar Augustus.

Carthaginian queen whom Virgil called “Dido” and Drawing not only on Virgil’s poem but also on depicted falling fatally in love with the Trojan hero medieval Christian texts that read it as foretelling Aeneas. In many non-Virgilian versions of this

Christ's birth through the "vessel" of the Virgin queen's story, Dido is named "Elissa" and remains Mary, Spenser fashions his eclogue as a complex a chaste widow; in that guise, she was often hon-compliment to England's Queen Elizabeth I orifically linked to England's queen Elizabeth. (1533 - 1604; see pp. 142-43).

6. "Caused thee [to] weep and complain"

The woodcut for "Aprill" shows the shepherd [E. K.].

Colin Clout—Spenser's autobiographical persona

7. "Agreeable to the season of the yeare, that is —piping a song in honor of Elizabeth ("Elysa," the Aprill, which moneth is most bent to shoures and shepherd's queen). She is shown with her ladies of seasonable rayne: to quench ... the drought" the court; the shepherds Thenot and Hobbinol are [E. K.].

in the background, and the astrological sign for

8. His usual songs, which surpassed those of all April, Taurus the bull, is at the top.

others.

3. I.e., learning.

THE SHEPHERDES CALENDAR: APRILL /
161

THE NOT

What is he for a Ladde,⁹ you so lament?

Ys love such pinching payne to them, that prove?⁰ experience it

And hath he skill to make¹ so excellent,

20 Yet hath so little skill to brydle love?

H O B B I N O L L

Colin thou kenst,0 the Southerne shepheardes boye:2 knowest

Him Love hath wounded with a deadly darte.

Whilome on him was all my care and joye,

Forcing0 with gyfts to winne his wanton heart. striving

But now from me hys madding0 mynd is starte,0 foolish / broken away

And woes0 the Widdowes daughter of the glenne:3 woos

So nowe fayre Rosalind hath bredde0 hys smart, caused / hurt

So now his frend is chaunged for a frenne.0 stranger

T H E N O T

But if hys ditties bene so trimly dight,0 adorned

30 I pray thee Hobbinoll, recorde0 some one: sing

The whiles our flockes doe graze about in sight,

And we close shrowded in thys shade alone.

H O B B I N O L L

Contented I: then will I singe his laye0 song

Of fayre Elisa, Queene of shepheardes all:4

35 Which once he made, as by a spring he laye,

And tuned it unto the Waters fall.

Ye daynty Nymphs, that in this blessed Brooke
doe bathe your brest,

For sake your watry bowres, and hether looke,

40 at my request:

And eke you Virgins, that on Parnasse dwell,

Whence floweth Helicon the learned well,5

Helpe me to blaze6

Her worthy praise,

45 Which in her sexe doth all excell.

9. “What maner of Ladde is he?” [E.K.].

person, then simply spoken. For it is well knowen

1. “To rime and versifye” [E. K.]. The English

... that shee is a Gentle woman of no meane word poet comes from the Greek word poiein, to house” [E. K.].

make.

4. “In all this songe is not to be respected, what

2. “Seemeth hereby that Colin perteyneth to some the worthinesse of her Majestie deserveth, nor Southern noble man” [E. K.]. Spenser may be what to the highnes of a Prince is agreeable, but referring to the earl of Leicester, a courtier with what is moste comely for the meanesse of a shepwhom Q u e e n Elizabeth was romantically linked; heards witte, or to conceive, or to utter” [E. K.]

more likely, the reference is to Bishop John Young,

5. “The nine Muses ... whose abode the Poets for whom Spenser served as secretary while comfaine to be on Parnassus, a hill in Greece” [E. K.].

posing the Calender.

In Greek mythology, the Muses were nine sister

3. “He calleth Rosalind the Widowes daughter of goddesses who presided over song, poetry, and the

the glenne, that is, of a country hamlet or borough

arts and sciences.

[the word may also mean “a wooded mountain val-

6. A blazon was a poem cataloging and praising a ley”], which I thinke is rather sayde to concele the lady’s various physical features.

162 / E D M U N D S P E N S E R

Of fayre Elisa be your silver song, that blessed wight:0 person

The flowre of Virgins, may shee florish long,
In princely plight.0 condition

50 For shee is Syrinx daughter without spotte,
Which Pan the shepheards God of her begot:7

So sprong her grace

Of heavenly race,

No mortall blemishe may her blotte.

55 See, where she sits upon the grassie greene,
(O seemely0 sight) pleasing

Yclad in Scarlot like a mayden Queene,
And Ermines white.

Upon her head a Cremosin0 coronet, crimson

60 With Damaske roses and Daffadillies set:

Bayleaves betweene,

And Primroses greene

Embellish8 the sweete Violet.

Tell me, have ye seene her angelick face,

65 Like Phoebe fayre?9

Her heavenly haveour,0 her princely grace bearing can you well compare?

The Redde rose medled with the White yfere,1

In either cheeke depeincten0 lively chere. depict

70 Her modest eye,

Her Majestie,

Where have you seene the like, but there?
 I sawe Phoebus thrust out his golden hedde,
 upon her to gaze:
 75 But when he sawe, how broade her beames did spredde,² it did him amaze.
 He blusht to see another Sunne belowe,
 Ne durst againe his fyrye⁰ face out showe: fiery
 Let him, if he dare,
 80 His brightnesse compare
 With hers, to have the overthrowe.³
 Shewe thy selfe Cynthia⁴ with thy silver rayes,
 and be not abasht:

7. In Greek mythology, “Syrinx is the name of a Poets faine to be sister unto Phoebus, that is the Nympe of Arcadie, whom when Pan being in love Sunne” [E. K.].

pursued. ... By Pan is here meant the most

1. “Together” [E. K.]. Medled: mingled. Henry famous and victorious King, her highnesse Father, and Elizabeth were descended from the houses of late of worthy memorye K. Henry the eyght” Lancaster and York (symbolized, respectively, by [E. K.]. “Without spotte” qualifies “Syrinx,” not the red rose and the white rose), whose conflicting “daughter,” thus covertly repudiating the scandals claims to the throne caused the Wars of the Roses surrounding Anne Boleyn (1507?—1536), second (1453-97).

wife of King Henry VIII (1491-1547) and mother

2. The lady outshining the sun is a Petrarchan of Elizabeth.

motif.

8. “Beautifye and set out” [E. K.], i.e., by contrast

3. I.e., have the victory.

of colors.

4. “The M o o n e ” [E. K.]. A c o m m o n epithet for

9. In Greek mythology, “the M o o n e , whom the

Q u e e n Elizabeth.

T H E S H E P H E A R D E S C A L E N D A R : A P R I L L /
1 6 3

When shee the beames of her beauty displayes,

85 O how art thou dasht?

But I will not match her with Latonaes seede,

Such follic great sorow to Niobe did breede.s

Now she is a stone,

And makes dayly mone,

90 Warning all other to take heede.

Pan may be proud, that ever he begot

such a Bellibone,⁶

And Syrinx rejoyse, that ever was her lot to beare such an one.

95 Soone as my younglings cryen for the dam,

To her will I offer a milkwhite Lamb:

Shee is my goddesse plaine,⁰ absolute

And I her shepherds swayne,⁰ servant

Albee forswonck and forswatt⁷ I am.

100 I see Calliope⁰ speede her to the place, Muse of epic poetry

where my Goddesse shines:

And after her the other Muses trace,⁰ step
with their Violines.

Bene they not Bay braunches,⁸ which they doe beare,
105 All for Elisa in her hand to weare?

So sweetely they play,
And sing all the way,
That it a heaven is to heare.

Lo how finely the graces⁹ can it foote^o dance
110 to t h e I n s t r u m e n t . ⁰ shepherd's pipe

They dauncen deffly,⁰ and singen soote,⁰ nimbly / sweetly in their meriment.

Wants not a fourth grace, to make the daunce even?
Let that rowme^o to my Lady be yeven.^o place/given

115 She shalbe a grace,
To fyll the fourth place,
And reigne with the rest in heaven.

And whither rennes⁰ this bevie⁰ of Ladies bright, runs / company

raunged in a rowe?

120 They bene all Ladyes of the lake behight,¹ that unto her goe.

Chloris,² that is the chiefest Nymph of al,
Of Olive braunches beares a Coronall:⁰ crown

5. Niobe boasted that her seven sons and seven crown of laurel, given as a prize in ancient Greece.
daughters made her superior to Latona, a goddess,

9. "Be three sisters, the daughters of Jupiter, whose two children, Apollo and Diana, then slew whose n a m e s are Aglaia, Thalia, Euphrosyne ...

Niobe's entire progeny, after which her sorrow with the Poets feigned to be Goddesses of all transformed her to stone. Cf. Ovid, Metamorphoses
"bountie and comelines" [E. K.].

6 . 1 4 8 - 3 1 2 .

1. Called. E. K. records the ancient view that

6. Belle bonne: "homely spoken for a fayre mayde every spring and fountain had a goddess, or water or Bonilasse" [E. K.].

nymph, as its sovereign.

7. "Overlaboured and sunneburnt" [E. K.].

2. According to E. K., the nymph of flowers and

8. "Be the signe of honor and victory ... and eke green herbs; her name signifies greenness.

[also] of famous Poets" [E. K.]; i.e., the garland or

1 6 4 / E D M U N D S P E N S E R

Olives bene for peace,

When wars doe surcease:

Such for a Princesse bene principall.³

Ye shepheards daughters, that dwell on the greene,

hye° you there apace:0

come / quickly

Let none come there, but that Virgins bene, to adorne her grace.

And when you come, whereas⁰ shee is in place, where

See, that your rudenesse doe not you disgrace:

Binde your fillets⁰ faste,

hair ribbons

And gird in your waste,
For more finesse, with a tawdrie lace.⁴
Bring hether the Pincke and purple Cullambine,
With Gelliflowres:⁵
Bring Coronations, and Sops in wine, worne of Paramoures.⁰ lovers
140 Strowe me the ground with Daffadowndillies,
And Cowslips, and Kingcups, and loved Lillies:
The pretie Pawnee,
And the Chevisaunce;
Shall match with the fayre flowre Delice.
145 Now ryse up Elisa,⁶ decked as thou art,
in royall aray:
And now ye daintie Damsells may depart
echeone her way.
I feare, I have troubled your troupes to longe:
150 Let dame Eliza thanke you for her song.
And if you come hether,
When Damsines⁰ I gether, damsons, plums
I will part them all you among.⁷

T H E N O T

And was thilk⁰ same song of Colins owne making? this 155 Ah foolish boy, that is with love yblent:⁰ blinded
Great pittie is, he be in such taking,⁰ plight
For naught caren, that bene so lewdly bent.⁸

H O B B I N O L

Sicker⁰ I hold him, for a great fon,⁰ surely/fool
That loves the thing, he cannot purchase.
160 But let us homeward: for night draweth on,

And twinkling starres the daylight hence chase.

3. Of prime importance. Elizabeth was celebrated species of wallflower; “flowre Delice,” fleur de lis, in the 1570s for the continuous peace her reign a kind of iris.

had brought.

6. “Is the conclusion. For having so decked her

4. A band of lace or silk, sold during the fair of St. prayses and comparisons, he returneth all the Audrey.

thanck of hys laboure to the excellencie of her

5. The following lines list flowers common in pastoral poetry: “Coronations” are carnations; “Sops

7. Among you all.

in wine,” clove pinks; “Daffadowndillies,” daffo-

8. I.e., for they that are so foolishly inclined are dils; “Pawnee,” pansies; “Chevisaunce,” maybe a heedless of everything.

THE FAERIE QUEENE: THE FIRST BOOKE /
165

Thenots Embleme.

O quam te memorem virgo?

Hobbinols Embleme.

*O dea certe.*⁹

1579

FROM THE FAERIE QUEENE

The First Booke

Contayning

*The Legende of the Knight of the Red Crosse, or
Of Holinesse*

i

Lo I the man, whose Muse² whilome⁰ did maske, formerly
As time her taught, in lowly Shepherds weeds,³
Am now enforst a far unfitter taske,
For trumpets sterne to chaunge mine Oaten reeds,⁴
5 And sing of Knights and Ladies gentle⁰ deeds; noble
Whose prayes having slept in silence long,
Me, all too meane, the sacred Muse areeds⁵
To blazon⁶ broad emongst her learned throng:
Fierce warres and faithfull loves shall moralize my song.

9. These emblems are the words Aeneas speaks to Elizabeth not only in the figure of Gloriana b u t also his mother, Venus, disguised as a huntress: “What in several other characters. In addition to various n a m e shall I know you by, maiden? Surely a god- modes of allegory, the p o e m draws on m a n y dess” (Aeneid 1 . 3 2 7 - 2 8) .

Renaissance genres, some of the most important

1. In a letter to the English poet Sir Walter Raleigh being the courtesy book, the romance, and the (ca. 1 5 5 2 - 1 6 1 8 ; see pp. 1 5 1 - 5 8) published with epic.

the first edition, Spenser declares that his principal

2. O n e of nine Greek sister goddesses believed to intention in writing the p o e m is “to fashion a gen-be sources of inspiration for the arts.

tleman or noble person in virtuous and gentle dis-

3. G a r m e n t s ; i.e., the poet who before wrote h u m - cipline.” T h u s he sets forth a plan to write twelve ble pastoral poetry. Lines 1—4 imitate verses pre-books, each one having a hero distinguished for fixed to Renaissance editions of the ancient R o m a n one of the private virtues; twelve books on the pub-poet Virgil’s epic p o e m the Aeneid and signal Spenlic virtues will follow. The six books that Spenser ser’s imitation of Virgil, w h o began his poetic completed (the first three published in 1590, the career with pastoral poetry and moved on to the remaining three published in 1596) present the epic, a move that Spenser copied (with the 1579 virtues of Holiness, T e m p e r a n c e , Chastity, Friend-publication of The Shepheardes Calender, followed ship, Justice, and Courtesy. In addition, two cantos by the 1590 publication of The Faerie Queene).

on Mutability (the principle of constant c h a n g e in Spenser’s organization of each book into twelve nature) were published in 1609 after Spenser’s cantos also imitates the twelve books of Virgil’s death, although no known authority exists for their Aeneid.

division and numbering, or for the r u n n i n g title,

4. Or pipes, a symbol of pastoral poetry. Trumpets:

“The Seventh Booke.”

a symbol of epic poetry.

The title of the poem contains a dual reference
5. Commands and instructs. Sacred Muse: per-to its character, Gloriana, the Fairy Queen, who haps Clio, the Muse of history, often said to be the bids the poem's heroes to set out on particular eldest of the nine Muses; or perhaps Calliope, the adventures, and to Queen Elizabeth I (1533—1603; Muse of epic poetry; the “holy Virgin chiefe of see pp. 142—43), England's ruler from 1558 until nine” (line 10) also seems to refer to one of these 1603, or for almost all of Spenser's life; as an “Alletwo Muses.

gory, or darke conceit” (again, a claim that Spenser
6. To proclaim (from blaze, to announce by makes in the letter to Raleigh), the poem mirrors blowing a trumpet).

166 / EDMUND SPENSER

2

10 Helpe then, O holy Virgin chiefe of nine,
Thy weaker⁰ Novice to performe thy will, too weak
Lay forth out of thine everlasting scryne⁰ coffer or shrine
The antique rolles, which there lye hidden still,
Of Faerie knights and fairest Tanaquill,⁷
15 Whom that most noble Briton Prince⁸ so long Sought through the world, and suffered so much ill,
That I must rue his undeserved wrong:

O helpe thou my weake wit, and sharpen my dull tong.

3

And thou most dreaded impe⁹ of highest Jove,

20 Faire Venus sonne, that with thy cruell dart
At that good knight so cunningly didst rove,^o shoot
That glorious fire it kindled in his hart,^o heart
Lay now thy deadly Heben⁰ bow apart, ebony
And with thy mother milde come to mine ayde:
25 Come both, and with you bring triumphant Mart,⁰ Mars
In loves and gentle jollities arrayd,
After his murdrous spoiles and bloody rage allayd.

4

And with them eke,^o O Goddesse heavenly bright, also Mirroure of grace and Majestie divine,
BO Great Lady of the greatest Isle, whose light
Like Phoebus lampe¹ throughout the world doth shine,
Shed thy faire beames into my feeble eyne,
And raise my thoughts too humble and too vile,
To thinke of that true glorious type of thine,
35 The argument⁰ of mine afflicted stile:² subject
The which to heare, vouchsafe, O dearest dred³ a-while.

Canto 1

The Patron⁰ of true Holinesse, sponsor or pattern

Foule Errour doth defeate:

Hypocrisie him to entrappe,

Doth to his home entreate.

i

A Gentle Knight was pricking⁰ on the plaine, riding briskly
Ycladd in mightie armes and silver shielde,
Wherein old dints of deepe wounds did remaine,
7. The wife of Tarquin, the first Etruscan king of but Spenser stresses the line of descent from Jove,

Rome; noted for her chastity; i.e., a reference to Venus's father and ruler of the gods.

Gloriana.

1. The sun; Phoebus Apollo was the Roman god

8. I.e., Arthur, first named in canto 9.

of the sun; Spenser is comparing Apollo to Queen

9. Offspring, i.e., Cupid, Roman god of love,

Elizabeth, the "Goddess" of line 28.

whose arrows ("cruell dart," line 21) caused their

2. Humble pen; also, "stile" may refer to the poem victims to fall in love; he was the son of Venus, itself.

goddess of love and beauty. Mars, god of war and

3. Object of awe and fear. Vouchsafe: bestow (i.e., lover of Venus, was often said to be Cupid's father, confer your ear upon my poem).

THE FAERIE QUEENE: THE FIRST BOOKE /
167

The cruell markes of many a bloody felde;

5 Yet armes till that time did he never wield:

His angry steede did chide his foming bitt,

As much disdayning to the curbe to yield:

Full jolly⁴ knight he seemd, and faire did sitt,

As one for knightly giusts⁰ and fierce encounters fitt.⁰ jousts / suited 2

io But on his brest a bloudie Crosse he bore,

The deare remembrance of his dying Lord,

For whose sweete sake that glorious badge he wore,

And dead as living ever him ador'd:

Upon his shield the like was also scor'd,
15 For souveraine hope, which in his helpe he had:
Right faithfull true⁵ he was in deede and word,
But of his cheere⁰ did seeme too solemne sad;⁰ face/grave
Yet nothing did he dread, but ever was ydrad.⁰ dreaded

3

Upon a great adventure he was bond,⁰ going; bound by a vow
20 That greatest Gloriana to him gave,
That greatest Glorious Queene of Faerie lond,
To winne him worship,⁰ and her grace to have, honor
Which of all earthly things he most did crave;
And ever as he rode, his hart⁰ did earne⁰
heart / yearn

25 To prove his puissance⁰ in battell brave strength

Upon his foe, and his new force to learne;
Upon his foe, a Dragon horrible and stearne.

4

A lovely Ladie rode him faire beside,
Upon a lowly Asse more white then⁰ snow,

than

30 Yet she much whiter, but the same did hide
Under a vele, that wimpled⁰ was full low, lying in folds

And over all a blacke stole⁰ she did throw, shawl

As one that inly⁰ mourned: so was she sad, inwardly

And heavie sat upon her palfrey slow:

35 Seemed in heart some hidden care she had,
And by her in a line a milke white lambe she 1; ad.0 led

5

So pure an innocent, as that same lambe,
She was in life and every vertuous0 lore,0 moral / doctrine

And by descent from Royall lynage came

40 Of ancient Kings and Queenes, that had of yore

Their scepters stretcht from East to Westerne shore,

And all the world in their subjection held;

Till that infernall feend with foule uprore revolt

4. The range of meanings includes gallant, hand- opened; and behold a white horse; and he that sat some, amorous, brave, cheerful. upon him was called Faithful and True... .”

5. Echoes Revelation 19.11: “And I saw heaven

168

/ E D M U N D S P E N S E R

Forwasted0 all their land, and them expeld: laid waste

45 Whom to avenge, she had this Knight from far compeld.0 summoned

6

Behind her farre away a Dwarfe did lag,

That lasie seemd in being ever last,

Or wearied with bearing of her bag

Of needments at his backe. Thus as they past,

50 The day with cloudes was suddeine overcast,

And angry Jove an hideous storme of raine

Did poure into his Lemans6 lap so fast,

That every wight0 to shrowd0 it did constrain, creature / take cover

And this faire couple eke0 to shroud themselves were also fain.⁰ obliged

7

55 Enforst to seeke some covert nigh at hand,
A shadie grove not far away they spide,
That promist ayde the tempest to withstand:
Whose loftie trees yclad with sommers pride,
Did spred so broad, that heavens light did hide,
60 Not perceable⁰ with power of any starre: penetrable
And all within were pathes and alleies wide,
With footing worne, and leading inward farre:
Faire harbour that them seemes; so in they entred arre.

8

And fourth they passe, with pleasure forward led,
65 Joying to heare the birdes sweete harmony,
Which therein shrouded from the tempest dred,⁰ fearful
Seemd in their song to scorne the cruell sky.
Much can⁰ they prayse the trees so straight and hy, did
The sayling Pine,⁷ the Cedar proud and tall,
70 The vine-prop Elme, the Poplar never dry,
The builder Oake, sole king of forrests all,
The Aspine good for staves, the Cypresse funerall.

9

The Laurell, meed⁰ of mightie Conquerours reward
And Poets sage, the Firre that weepeth still,
75 The Willow worne of forlorne Paramours,
The Eugh obedient to the benders will,
The Birch for shaftes, the Sallow for the mill,
6. His lover, i.e., the earth.

stagnant water like that found at a millpond; the

7. Spenser's catalog of trees imitates similar catalogs in Chaucer's Parliament of Fowls, Virgil's Aeneid, and Ovid's Metamorphoses. The "Mirrhe" (myrrh), used as incense because of its sweet smell, was one of the gifts presented by the wise men to the infant Christ; the "Beech" was used to make the axle of the war chariot, according to Homer's Iliad; the "Poplar" grew by water; the "Oake" was used in building; the "Platane" is perhaps listed as "Cypresse" was used to decorate graves. Garlands made from the "Laurell" were a sign of military or poetic achievement; the "Firre" continually exudes resin; the "Eugh" (yew) was traditionally used for bows; the "Sallow" (willow) was associated with

THE FAERIE QUEENE: THE FIRST BOOKE /
169

The Mirrhe sweete bleeding in the bitter wound,
The warlike Beech, the Ash for nothing ill,
so The fruitful Olive, and the Platane round,
The carver Holme, the Maple seeldom inward sound.

10

Led with delight, they thus beguile⁰ the way, wile away; charm
Untill the blustering storme is overblowne;
When weening⁰ to returne, whence they did stray, intending

85 They cannot finde that path, which first was showne,
But wander too and fro in wayes unknowne,
Furthest from end then, when they nearest weene.⁸
That makes them doubt, their wits be not their owne:
So many pathes, so many turnings seene, 90 That which of them to take, in diverse⁰ doubt they been.
distracting 11

At last resolving forward still to fare,
Till that some end they finde or in or out,
That path they take, that beaten seemd most bare,
And like to lead the labyrinth about;⁰
out of

95 Which when by tract⁰ they hunted had throughout, track

At length it brought them to a hollow cave, Amid the thickest woods. The Champion stout⁰ brave

Eftsoones⁰ dismounted from his courser brave, soon after

And to the Dwarfe a while his needlesse spere⁹ he gave 12

100 Be well aware, quoth then that Ladie milde, Least suddaine mischiefe⁰ ye too rash provoke: misfortune
The danger hid, the place unknowne and wilde,
Breedes dreadfull doubts: Oft fire is without smoke,
And perill without show: therefore your stroke

105 Sir knight with-hold, till further triall made.

Ah Ladie (said he) shame were to revoke⁰ draw back
The forward footing for an hidden shade:

Vertue gives her selfe light, through darkenesse for to wade.
Yea but (quoth she) the perill of this place 110 I better wot^o then^o you, though now too late know I than
To wish you backe returne with foule disgrace,
Yet wisdomes warnes, whilest foot is in the gate,
To stay the steppe, ere forced to retrate.^o retreat
This is the wandring wood, this Errours den,
115 A monster vile, whom God and man does hate:
Therefore I read^o beware. Fly fly (quoth then advise
The fearefull Dwarfe:) this is no place for living men.

8. I.e., think to be nearest to it.

9. "Needlesse" because t h e spear is generally used only on horseback.

170 / E D M U N D S P E N S E R

32

But full of fire and greedy hardiment,^o boldness
The youthfull knight could not for ought^o be staide, anything
120 But forth unto the darksome hole he went,
And looked in: his glistring^o armor made shining
A litle glooming light, much like a shade,
By which he saw the ugly monster plaine,
Halfe like a serpent horribly displaide,
125 But th' other halfe did womans shape retaine,
Most lothsom, filthie, foule, and full of vile disdaine.^o loathsomeness

15

And as she lay upon the durtie ground,
Her huge long taile her den all overspred,
Yet was in knots and many boughtes^o upwound, coils

130 Pointed with mortall sting. Of her there bred
A thousand yong ones, which she dayly fed,
Sucking upon her poisonous dugs, eachone
Of sundry shapes, yet all ill favored:
Soone as that uncouth⁰ light upon them shone, unfamiliar 135 Into her mouth they crept, and suddain all were gone.

16

Their dam upstart, out of her den effraide,⁰ alarmed
And rushed forth, hurling her hideous taile
About her cursed head, whose folds displaid⁰ extended
Were stretcht now forth at length without entraile.⁰ winding
140 She lookt about, and seeing one in mayle
Armed to point,¹ sought backe to turne againe;
For light she hated as the deadly bale,⁰ injury
Ay⁰ wont⁰ in desert darknesse to remaine, ever I accustomed
Where plaine none might her see, nor she see any plaine.

17

145 Which when the valiant Elfe² perceiv'd, he lept
As Lyon fierce upon the flying pray,
And with his trenchand⁰ blade her boldly kept sharp
From turning backe, and forced her to stay:
Therewith enrag'd she loudly gan to bray,
150 And turning fierce, her speckled taile advaunst,
Threatning her angry sting, him to dismay:⁰ defeat
Who nough⁰ aghast, his mightie hand enhaunst:⁰ now/raised up
The stroke down from her head unto her shoulder glaunst.

18

Much daunted with that dint,⁰ her sence was dazd, blow
155 Yet kindling rage, her selfe she gathered⁰ round, coiled

And all attonce her beastly body raizd
With doubled forces high above the ground:

1. Fully armed.

crossed Knight, who is later described as “a Faeries
2. Literally, fairy; but Spenser often uses the term sonne” (but who is ultimately revealed to be a to designate a knight from his imagined Faerie changeling “of Saxon kings ... in Britaine land”
Land rather than from Britain—as, here, Red-
[1.10.64-65]).

THE FAERIE QUEENE: THE FIRST BOOKE /
171

Thou wrapping up her wreathed sterne arownd, then
Lept fierce upon his shield, and her huge traine tail
160 All suddenly about his body wound,
That hand or foot to stirre he strove in vaine:
God helpe the man so wrapt in Errours endlesse traine.
His Lady sad to see his sore constraint, fettered state
Cride out, Now now Sir knight, shew what ye bee,
165 Add faith unto your force, and be not faint:
Strangle her, else she sure will strangle thee.
That when he heard, in great perplexitie,
His gall did grate for grieffe and high disdain, anger
And knitting all his force got one hand free,
170 Wherewith he grypt her gorge with so great paine, throat
That soone to loose her wicked bands did her constraîne.
20

Therewith she spewd out of her filthy maw
A floud of poyson horrible and blacke,

Full of great lumpes of flesh and gobbets raw,⁴
175 Which stunck so vildly, that it forst him slacke
His grasping hold, and from her turne him backe:
Her vomit full of bookes and papers was,⁵
With loathly frogs and toades, which eyes did lacke,
And creeping sought way in the weedy gras:
180 Her filthy parbreake⁰ all the place defiled has. vomit

21

As when old father Nilus⁶ gins to swell
With timely⁰ pride above the Aegyptian vale, seasonal
His fattie⁰ waves do fertile slime outwell, rich
And overflow each plaine and lowly dale:
185 But when his later spring gins to avale,⁰ subside
Huge heapes of mudd he leaves, wherein there breed
Ten thousand kindes of creatures, partly male
And partly female of his fruitfull seed;
Such ugly monstrous shapes elsewhere may no man reed.⁰ see

22

190 The same so sore annoyed has the knight,
That welnigh choked with the deadly stinke,
His forces faile, ne can no longer fight.
Whose corage when the feend perceived to shrink,
She poured forth out of her hellish sinke⁷

195 Her fruitfull cursed spawne of serpents small,
Deformed monsters, fowle, and blacke as inke,
3. Gall bladder, considered t h e seat of anger.
other things, an allegorical representation of the
4. C h u n k s of undigested food.

Catholic C h u r c h .

5. Among other meanings, t h e “bookes and
6. T h e Nile River, which r u n s from East Africa to papers” may include a reference to Catholic books the Mediterranean Sea in Egypt, was commonly and pamphlets that attacked t h e Protestant Q u e e n said to breed strange monsters.

Elizabeth, in which case Error may be, a m o n g

7. I.e., her m o u t h .

1 7 2 / E D M U N D S P E N S E R

Which swarming all about his legs did crall,
And him encombred sore, but could not hurt at all.

2 3

As gentle Shepheard in sweete even-tide,
200 When ruddy Phoebus gins to welke⁰ in west, sink
High on an hill, his flocke to vewen wide,
Markes⁰ which do byte their hasty supper best; observes
A cloud of combrous⁰ gnattes do him molest, encumbering
All striving to infixe their feeble stings,
205 That from their noyance he no where can rest,
But with his clownish⁰ hands their tender wings rustic
He brusheth oft, and oft doth mar their murmurings.

24

Thus ill bestedd,⁰ and fearfull more of shame, situated.

Then of the certaine perill he stood in,
210 Halfe furious unto his foe he came,
Resolv'd in minde all suddenly to win,
Or soone to lose, before he once would lin;^o
And strooke at her with more then manly force,

That from her body full of filthie sin

215 He raft⁰ her hatefull head without remorse;

struck off

A streame of cole black bloud forth gushed from her corse.⁰

corpse

2 5

Her scattred brood, soone as their Parent deare

They saw so rudely⁰ falling to the ground,

violently

Groning full deadly, all with troublous feare,

220 Gathred themselves about her body round,

Weening⁰ their wonted entrance to have found thinking

At her wide mouth: but being there withstood

They flocked all about her bleeding wound,

And sucked up their dying mothers blood,

225 Making her death their life, and eke⁰ her hurt their good

26

That detestable sight him much amazde,

To see th' unkindly⁰ Impes⁰ of heaven accurst, unnatural / offspring

Devoure their dam; on whom while so he gazd,

Having all satisfide their bloody thirst,

230 Their bellies swolne he saw with fulnesse burst,

And bowels gushing forth: well worthy end

Of such as drunke her life, the which them nurst;

Now needeth him no lenger labour spend,

His foes have slaine themselves, with whom he should contend.

2 7

235 His Ladie seeing all, that chaunst, from farre Approcht in hast to greet⁰ his victorie, congratulate
And said, Faire knight, borne under happy⁰ starre, auspicious
THE FAERIE QUEENE: THE FIRST BOOKE /
173

Who see your vanquisht foes before you lye:
Well worthy be you of that Armorie,⁰ armor
240 Wherein ye have great glory wonne this day,
And proov'd your strength on a strong enimie,
Your first adventure: many such I pray,
And henceforth ever wish, that like succeed it may.

28

Then mounted he upon his Steede againe,
245 And with the Lady backward sought to wend;⁰
8°

That path he kept, which beaten was most plaine,
Ne ever would to any by-way bend,
But still did follow one unto the end,
The which at last out of the wood them brought.
250 So forward on his way (with God to^o friend)⁰
as a friend

He passed forth, and new adventure sought;
Long way he travelled, before he heard of ought.

29

At length they chaunst to meet upon the way
An aged Sire, in long blacke weedes⁰ yclad,^o garments / dressed

255 His feete all bare, his beard all hoarie⁰ gray, ancient

And by his belt his booke he hanging had;
Sober he seemde, and very sagely sad,0 pensive

And to the ground his eyes were lowly bent,
Simple in shew, and voyde of malice bad,
260 And all the way he prayed, as he went,
And often knockt his brest, as one that did repent

3 °

He faire the knight saluted, louting0 low, bowing

Who faire him quited,0 as that courteous was:

answered

And after asked him, if he did know
265 Of straunge adventures, which abroad did pas.
Ah my deare Sonne (quoth he) how should, alas,
Silly0 old man, that lives in hidden cell,

simple

Bidding his beades8 all day for his trespas,
Tydings of warre and worldly trouble tell?
270 With holy father sits not with such things to mell.°

meddle

3 1

But if of daunger which hereby doth dwell,
And homebred evill ye desire to heare,
Of a straunge man I can you tidings tell,
That wasteth all this countrey farre and neare.
275 Of such (said he) I chiefly do inquere,
And shall you well reward to shew the place,
In which that wicked wight his dayes doth weare: spend

For to all knighthood it is foule disgrace,
That such a cursed creature lives so long a space.

8. Saying his prayers, i.e., c o u n t i n g rosary beads.

1 7 4 / E D M U N D S P E N S E R

3 2

280 Far hence (quoth he) in wastfull⁰ wildernesse desolate

His dwelling is, by which no living wight

May ever passe, but thorough great distresse.

Now (sayd the Lady) draweth toward night,

And well I wote,⁰ that of your later⁰ fight know / recent 285 Ye all forweared be: for what so strong,

But wanting rest will also want of might?

The Sunne that measures heaven all day long,

At night doth baite⁰ his steedes the Ocean waves emong. feed

3 3

Then with the Sunne take Sir, your timely rest,

290 And with new day new worke at once begin:

Untroubled night they say gives counsell best.

Right well Sir knight ye have advised bin,

(Quoth then that aged man;) the way to win

Is wisely to advise:⁰ now day is spent;

take thought

295 Therefore with me ye may take up your In⁰

lodging

For this same night. The knight was well content

So with that godly father to his home they went.

3 4

A little lowly Hermitage it was,

Downe in a dale, hard by a forests side,

300 Far from resort of people, that did pas
In travell to and froe: a little wyde0

apart

There was an holy Chappell edifyde,⁰ built

Wherein the Hermite dewly wont⁰ to say was accustomed

His holy things⁰ each morne and eventyde:

prayers

305 Thereby a Christall streame did gently play,

Which from a sacred fountaine welled forth alway

3 5

Arrived there, the little house they fill,

Ne looke for entertainment, where none was:

Rest is their feast, and all things at their will;

310 The noblest mind the best contentment has.

With faire discourse the evening so they pas:

For that old man of pleasing wordes had store,

And well could file⁰ his tongue as smooth as glas; polish

He told of Saintes and Popes, and evermore

315 He strowd an Ave-Mary⁹ after and before.

36

The drouping Night thus creepeth on them fast,

And the sad humour¹ loading their eye liddes,

As messenger of Morpheus² on them cast

Sweet slombring deaw, the which to sleepe them biddes.

9. Hail Mary (Latin); a Catholic prayer. 2. Greek god of sleep and of dreams.

1. Heavy moisture, t h e “deaw” (line 319) of sleep.

THE FAERIE QUEENE : THE FIRST BOOKE
/ 1 7 5

320 Unto their lodgings then his gueses he riddes:0 dispatches
Where when all drownd in deadly0 sleepe he findes, deathlike
He to his study goes, and there amiddes
His Magick bookes and artes of sundry kindes,
He seekes out mighty charmes, to trouble sleepy mindes.

3 7

325 Then choosing out few wordes most horrible,
(Let none them read) thereof did verses frame,
With which and other spelles like terrible,
He bade awake blacke Plutoes griesly Dame,3
And cursed heaven, and spake reprochfull shame
330 Of highest God, the Lord of life and light;
A bold bad man, that dared to call by name
Great Gorgon,4 Prince of darknesse and dead night,
At which Cocytus quakes, and Styx is put to flight.

38

And forth he cald out of deepe darknesse dred
335 Legions of Sprights, the which like little flyes5
Fluttring about his ever damned hed,
A-waite whereto their service he applyes,
To aide his friends, or fray0 his enimies: frighten
Of those he chose out two, the falsest twoo,
340 And fittest for to forge true-seeming lyes;
The one of them he gave a message too,
The other by him selfe staide other worke to doo.

He making speedy way through spersed⁰ ayre, dispersed
 And through the world of waters wide and deepe, 345 To Morpheus house doth hastily repaire.
 Amid the bowels of the earth full steepe,
 And low, where dawning day doth never peepe,
 His dwelling is; there Tethys⁶ his wet bed
 Doth ever wash, and Cynthia still⁷ doth steepe
 350 In silver deaw his ever-drouping hed, Whiles sad⁰ Night over him her mantle black doth spread.
sober

40

Whose double gates he findeth locked fast,
 The one faire fram'd of burnisht Yvory,
 The other all with silver overcast;
 355 And wakefull dogges before them farre do lye,
 Watching to banish Care their enemy,
 Who oft is wont⁰ to trouble gentle Sleepe. accustomed
 By them the Sprite doth passe in quietly,

3. Persephone: Greek goddess of the underworld,

5. The simile connects him to Beelzebub, lord of wife of Pluto, and patron of witches.

the flies.

4. Demogorgon, whose power is so great that the

6. Roman goddess of the sea; wife of Neptune.
 mention of his name causes hell's rivers (Cocytus

7. Continually. Cynthia: Roman goddess of the and Styx) to quake.

moon.

176

/ E D M U N D S P E N S E R

And unto Morpheus comes, whom drowned deepe

360 In drowsie fit he findes: of nothing he takes keepe.0 notice

4i

And more, to lulle him in his slumber soft,

A trickling streame from high rocke tumbling downe

And ever-drizling raine upon the loft,

Mixt with a murmuring winde, much like the sowne0 sound

365 Of swarming Bees, did cast him in a swowne:0 faint

No other noyse, nor peoples troublous cryes,

As still0 are wont t annoy the walled towne, always

Might there be heard: but carelesse0 Quiet lyes, free from care

Wrapt in eternall silence farre from enemyes.

42

The messenger approaching to him spake,

But his wast0 wordes returnd to him in vaine: wasted

So sound he slept, that nought mought0 him awake. might

Then rudely he him thrust, and pusht with paine,0 effort

Whereat he gan to stretch: but he againe

Shooke him so hard, that forced him to speake.

As one then in a dreame, whose dryer braine8

Is tost with troubled sights and fancies0 weake, fantasies

He mumbled soft, but would not alP his silence breake.

altogether

43

The Sprite then gan more boldly him to wake,

380 And threatned unto him the dreaded name
Of Hecate:⁹ whereat he gan to quake,
And lifting up his lumpish head, with blame
Halfe angry asked him, for what he came.
Hither (quoth he) me Archimago¹ sent,
385 He that the stubborne Sprites can wisely tame,
He bids thee to him send for his intent
A fit false dreame, that can delude the sleepers sent.⁰ senses
4 4

The God obeyde, and calling forth straight way
A diverse⁰ dreame out of his prison darke, distracting
390 Delivered it to him, and downe did lay His heavie head, devoide of careful^P carke,⁰ anxious I concerns
Whose senses all were straight benumbd and starke.⁰
paralyzed

He backe returning by the Yvorie dore,²
Remounted up as light as chearefull Larke,
395 And on his litle winges the dreame he bore
In hast unto his Lord, where he him left afore.

8. Renaissance ideas of physiology held that being
1. Archmagician or chief deceiver, from the Latin too “dry,” or lacking a proper balance of bodily archi (first) + magus (magician); also, the arch-moisture, resulted in troubled dreams.

imago, or chief image-maker.

9. A Greek goddess of Hades; associated with

2. According to Homer’s Odyssey and Virgil’s witches, magic, and dreams.

Aeneid, false dreams came through the ivory door.

THE FAERIE QUEENE: THE FIRST BOOKE
/ 177

45

Who all this while with charmes and hidden artes,

Had made a Lady of that other Spright,

And fram'd of liquid ayre her tender partes

400 So lively,⁰ and so like in all mens sight, lifelike

That weaker⁰ sence it could have ravisht quight: too weak

The maker selfe for all his wondrous witt,

Was nigh beguiled with so goodly sight:

Her all in white he clad, and over it

405 Cast a blacke stole, most like to seeme for Una³ fit.

46

Now when that ydle^o dreame was to him brought, unsubstantial

Unto that Elfin knight he bad him fly,

Where he slept soundly void of evill thought,

And with false shewes abuse his fantasy,⁰ imagination

410 In sort⁰ as^o he him schooled privily: the way/that

And that new creature borne without her dew,⁴

Full of the makers guile, with usage sly

He taught to imitate that Lady trew,

Whose semblance she did carrie under feigned hew.^o form

47

Thus well instructed, to their worke they hast

And comming where the knight in slomber lay

The one upon his hardy head him plast,^o placed

And made him dreame of loves and lustfull play,

That nigh his manly hart^o did melt away, heart
Bathed in wanton blis and wicked joy:
Then seemed him his Lady by him lay,
And to him playnd,^o how that false winged boy,^s complained
Her chast hart had subdewd, to learne Dame pleasures toy.⁶
48

And she her selfe of beautie soveraigne Queene
425 Faire Venus seemde unto his bed to bring Her, whom he waking evermore did weene^o think
To be the chastest flowre, that ay^o did spring ever
On earthly braunch, the daughter of a king,
Now a loose Lemn^o to vile service bound: lover
430 And eke the Graces seemed all to sing,
Hymen io Hymen, dauncing all around,
Whilst freshest Flora⁷ her with Yvie girlond crownd.
49

In this great passion of unwonted^o lust, unaccustomed
Or wonted feare of doing ought amis,

3. One, unity (Latin). Many Elizabethan readers

6. Lustful play. Dame pleasures: Venus.

would have known the Latin phrase Una Vera Fides

7. Flower goddess; sometimes referred to as sex-(one true faith).

ually unchaste. Graces: h a n d m a i d s of Venus; here,

4. Unnaturally.

they sing in praise of the marriage bed. Hymen:

5. Cupid.

Greek god of marriage.

178 / EDMUND SPENSER

435 He started up, as seeming to mistrust⁰ suspect

Some secret ill, or hidden foe of his:

Lo there before his face his Lady is,

Under blake stole hyding her bayted hooke,

And as halfe blushing offred him to kis,

440 With gentle blandishment⁰ and lovely⁰ looke, flattering speech / loving Most like that virgin true, which for her knight him took.

5 °

All cleane dismayd to see so uncouth⁰ sight,

strange

And halfe enraged at her shamelesse guise,

He thought have slaine her in his fierce despight:⁰

indignation

445 But hasty heat tempring with sufferance wise,

He stayde his hand, and gan himselfe advise

To prove his sense, and tempt⁰ her faigned truth.

test

Wringing her hands in wemens pitteous wise,

Tho^o can⁰ she weepe, to stirre up gentle ruth,^o

then / did / pity

450 Both for her noble bloud, and for her tender youth.

5 1

And said, Ah Sir, my liege Lord and my love,

Shall I accuse the hidden cruell fate,

And mightie causes wrought in heaven above,

Or the blind God, that doth me thus amate,⁰ dismay

455 For⁰ hoped love to winne me certaine hate?

instead of

Yet thus perforce⁰ he bids me do, or die.

forcibly

Die is my dew:⁸ yet rew^o my wretched state

pity

You, whom my hard avenging destinie

Hath made judge of my life or death indifferently

5 2

460 Your owne deare sake forst me at first to leave

My Fathers kingdome, There she stopt with teares;

Her swollen hart⁰ her speach seemd to bereave, heart

And then againe begun, My weaker yeares

Captiv'd to fortune and frayle worldly feares,

465 Fly to your faith for succour and sure ayde:

Let me not dye in languor⁰ and long teares. sorrow

Why Dame (quoth he) what hath ye thus dismayd?

What frayes⁰ ye, that were wont to comfort me affrayd?

frightens

5 3

Love of your selfe, she said, and deare⁰ constraint dire

470 Lets me not sleepe, but wast the wearie night

In secret anguish and unpittied plaint,

Whiles you in carelesse sleepe are drowned quight.

Her doubtfull words made that redoubted⁹ knight

Suspect her truth: yet since no untruth he knew,

475 Her fawning love with foule disdainfull spight⁰ contempt

8. I.e., I deserve to die.

9. Dreaded; also, doubting again. Doubtfull: fearful; also, questionable.

THE FAERIE QUEENE: THE FIRST BOOKE
/ 1 7 9

He would not shend,° but said, Deare dame I rew,° reject!pity
That for my sake unknowne such grieffe unto you grew.

5 4

Assure your selfe, it fell not all to ground;

For all so deare as life is to my hart,° heart

480 I deeme your love, and hold me to you bound;

Ne let vaine feares procure0 your needlesse smart,0 cause /harm

Where cause is none, but to your rest depart.

Not all content, yet seemd she to appease0 cease

Her mournfull plaintes, beguiled0 of her art, deprived

485 And fed with words, that could not chuse but please,

So slyding softly forth, she turnd° as to her ease. returned

5 5

Long after lay he musing at her mood,

Much griev'd to thinke that gentle Dame so light,1

For whose defence he was to shed his blood.

490 At last dull wearinesse of former fight

Having yrockt a sleepe his irkesome spright,2

That troublous dreame gan freshly tesse his braine,

With bowres, and beds, and Ladies deare delight:

But when he° saw his labour all was vaine, the dream

495 With that misformed spright he° backe returnd againe. the dream

Canto 2

*The guilefull great Enchaunter parts
The Redcrosse Knight from Truth:
Into whose stead faire falshood steps,
And workes him wofull ruth^o harm*

i

By this the Northerne wagoner had set
His seven fold teame behind the stedfast starre,¹
That was in Ocean waves yet never wet,
But firme is fixt, and sendeth light from farre
5 To all, that in the wide deepe wandring arre:
And chearefull Chaunticlere with his note shrill
Had warned once, that Phoebus fiery carre²
In hast was climbing up the Easterne hill,
Full envious that night so long his roome did fill.

2

io When those accursed messengers of hell,
That feigning dreame,³ and that faire-forged Spright

1. I.e., so unchaste.

“teame” of the seven bright stars in Ursa M a j o r —

2. Tired or troublesome spirit (as mind or soul, b u t had set behind the North Star.

stressing the hero’s similarity to the “misformed

2. T h e sun’s chariot. Chaunticlere: a c o m m o n spright” of line 495, sent by Archimago).

n a m e for a rooster.

1. I.e., by this time the “northerne Waggoner”—

3. I.e., the dream has caused the Knight to “feign” the constellation Bootes seen as the driver of the

in the senses of “to desire” and “to imagine falsely”:

180 / E D M U N D S P E N S E R

Came to their wicked maister, and gan tell

Their bootlesse⁰ paines, and ill succeeding night: useless

Who all in rage to see his skilfull might

15 Deluded so, gan threaten hellish paine

And sad Proserpines⁴ wrath, them to affright.

But when he saw his threatning was but vaine,

He cast about, and searcht his balefull⁰ bookes againe. deadly

3

Eftsoones⁰ he tooke that miscreated faire, soon after

20 And that false other Spright, on whom he spread

A seeming body of the subtile⁰ aire, rarefied

Like a young Squire, in loves and lusty-hed

His wanton dayes that ever loosely led,

Without regard of armes and dreaded fight:

25 Those two he tooke, and in a secret bed,

Covered with darknesse and misdeeming⁰ night, misleading

Them both together laid, to joy in vaine delight.

4

Forthwith he runnes with feigned faithfull hast

Unto his guest, who after troublous sights

30 And dreames, gan now to take more sound repast,⁰ rest

Whom suddenly he wakes with fearefull frights,

As one aghast with feends or damned sprights,

And to him cals, “Rise rise unhappy Swaine,⁰ rustic youth

That here wex^o old in sleepe, whiles wicked wights⁰ grow / creatures

35 Have knit themselves in Venus shamefull chaine;
Come see, where your false Lady doth her honour staine.”

5

All in amaze he suddenly up start
With sword in hand, and with the old man went;
Who soone him brought into a secret part,
40 Where that false couple were full closely ment⁰ mingled

In wanton lust and lewd embracement:
Which when he saw, he burnt with gealous fire,
The eye of reason was with rage yblent,⁰ blinded

And would have slaine them in his furious ire, 45 But hardly⁰ was restrained oP that aged sire.

with difficulty / by 6

Returning to his bed in torment great,
And bitter anguish of his guiltie sight,
He could not rest, but did his stout heart eat,
And wast⁰ his inward gall with deepe despight,⁰ waste / malice

so Yrkesome⁰ of life, and too long lingring night. tired

At last faire Hesperus⁵ in highest skie

see canto 1, stanzas 46—47. god of the underworld.

4. R o m a n n a m e for Persephone, who in Greek 5. The evening and morning star, i.e., the planet mythology was seized and held captive by Pluto, Venus.

THE FAERIE QUEENE : THE FIRST BOOKE
/ 1 8 1

Had spent his lampe, and brought forth dawning light,
Then up he rose, and clad him hastily;
The Dwarfe him brought his steed: so both away do fly.

7

55 Now when the rosy-fingred Morning faire,
Weary of aged Tithones⁶ saffron bed,
Had spred her purple robe through deawy aire,
And the high hils Titan⁰ discovered,⁰ the sun/revealed
The royall virgin shooke off drowsy-hed,
60 And rising forth out of her baser⁰ bowre, too lowly
Lookt for her knight, who far away was fled,
And for her Dwarfe, that wont^o to wait each houre: was accustomed

Then gan she waile and weepe, to see that woefull stowre.⁰ affliction

8

And after him she rode with so much speede
65 As her slow beast could make; but all in vaine:
For him so far had borne his light-foot steede,
Pricked with wrath and fiery fierce disdaine,⁰ indignation
That him to follow was but fruitless paine;
Yet she her weary limbes would never rest,
70 But every hill and dale, each wood and plaine
Did search, sore grieved in her gentle brest,
He so ungently left her, whom she loved best.

9

But subtil^P Archimago, when his guests
cunning
He saw divided into double parts,

75 And Una wandring in woods and forrests,
Th' end of his drift,0 he praisd his divelish arts plot

That had such might over true meaning harts;0 hearts

Yet rests not so, but other meanes doth make,
How he may worke unto her further smarts:0
harm

so For her he hated as the hissing snake,
And in her many troubles did most pleasure take.

10

He then devisde himselfe how to disguise;
For by his mightie science0 he could take knowledge
As many formes and shapes in seeming wise, 85 As ever Proteus7 to himselfe could make:
Sometime a fowle, sometime a fish in lake,
Now like a foxe, now like a dragon fell,0 fierce
That of himselfe he oft for feare would quake,
And oft would flie away. O who can tell

90 The hidden power of herbes, and might of Magicke spell?

6. Tithonus, in Roman mythology the husband of will (Odyssey 4.398—424). In seeming wise: in Aurora, goddess of the dawn.
appearance.

7. A Greek sea god who could change his shape at

182 / EDMUND SPENSER

II

But now seemde best, the person to put on

Of that good knight, his late beguiled⁸ guest:
In mighty armes he was yclad anon,^o soon
And silver shield: upon his coward brest
95 A bloody crosse, and on his craven crest
A bouch of haire discolourd⁰ diversly:⁰ colored / variously Full jolly⁰ knight he seemde, and well adrest,⁰ gallant /
armed
And when he sate upon his courser free,⁹
Saint George¹ himself ye would have deemed him to be.
But he the knight, whose semblaunt⁰ he did beare, likeness
The true Saint George was wandred far away,
Still flying from⁰ his thoughts and gealous feare;
because of
Will was his guide,² and grieve led him astray.
At last him chaunst to meete upon the way
A faithlesse Sarazin³ all armed to point,
In whose great shield was writ with letters gay
Sans^o foy:^o full large of limbe and every joint without / faith
He was, and cared not for God or man a^o point.⁰ at / all
He had a faire companion of his way,
110 A goodly Lady clad in scarlot red,
Purfled⁰ with gold and pearle of rich assay,⁰ embroidered / value
And like a Persian mitre⁰ on her hed headdress
She wore, with crownes and owches⁰ garnished, brooches
The which her lavish⁰ lovers to her gave;⁴ extravagant

115 Her wanton palFREY all was overspread unruly / lady's saddle horse With tinsel trappings, woven like a wave,

Whose bridle rung with golden bells and bosses ornaments brave. handsome

H

With faire disport and courting dalliance diversion / talk

She intertainde her lover all the way:

120 But when she saw the knight his speare advance,

She soone left off her mirth and wanton play,

And bad her knight addresse him to the fray:

His foe was nigh at hand. He prickt with pride

8. Deluded, deceived by guile; but contrast its use

3. I.e., Saracen, a name loosely and usually neg-at canto 1, line 82. To put on: to assume.

actively denoting non-Christians and, more specif-

9. I.e., noble horse.

ically, the Turkish or Arabic enemies of medieval

1. I.e., Archimago now assumes not only the Red-Christian "crusaders."

cross Knight's appearance but also the saintly

4. The lady's clothes associate her with the Whore identity that the Knight will acquire after his

of Babylon (Revelation 17.3-4): "And I saw a earthly adventures are over; the Knight will later woman sit upon a scarlet colored beast, full of learn that he is to become England's dragon-

name of blasphemy, having seven heads and ten slaying patron, Saint George (10.61.8).

horns. And the woman was arrayed in purple and
2. In Christian thought, the faculty of the will is scarlet color, and decked with gold and precious below and should be guided by the faculty of rea-stones and pearls.” She represents false religion, son, but the Knight’s is “blinded” (see stanza 5, line especially what Protestants saw as the pomp and 7) by passion.

hypocrisy of Rome.

THE FAERIE QUEENE: THE FIRST BOOKE
/ 1 8 3

And hope to winne his Ladies heart that day,
Forth spurred fast: adowne his coursers side
The red bloud trickling staid the way, as he did ride.

15

The knight of the Redcrosse when him he spide,
Spurring so hote with rage dispiteous, cruel
Gan fairely couch⁰ his speare, and towards ride: lower Soone meete they both, both fell⁰ and furious, fierce
That daunted⁰ with their forces hideous, dazed.
Their steeds do stagger, and amazed stand,
And eke^o themselves too rudely rigorous, also / violent
Astonied⁰ with the stroke of their owne hand, stunned
Do backe rebut,⁰ and each to other yeeldeth land. recoil
As when two rams stird with ambitious pride,
Fight for the rule of the rich fleeced flocke,
Their horned fronts so fierce on either side
Do meete, that with the terrour of the shocke

Astonied⁰ both, stand sencelesse as a blocke, stunned, made stonelike

Forgetfull of the hanging⁰ victory:

in the balance

So stood these twaine, unmoved as a rocke,

Both staring fierce, and holding idely

The broken reliques⁰ of their former cruelty.

remnants

17

The Sarazin sore daunted with the buffe⁰ blow

Snatcheth his sword, and fiercely to him flies;

Who well it wards, and quyteth⁰ cuff with cuff: requites

Each others equall puissaunce⁰ envies, strength

And through their iron sides with cruell spies⁰ looks

Does seeke to perce: repining⁰ courage yields angry

No foote to foe. The flashing fier flies

As from a forge out of their burning shields,

And streams of purple bloud new dies the verdant fields.

“Curse on that Crosse,” quoth then the Sarazin,

“That keepes thy body from the bitter fit;⁵

Dead long ygoe I wote^o thou haddest bin,

thought

Had not that charme from thee forwarned⁰ it:

prevented

But yet I warne thee now assured⁰ sitt, securely

And hide thy head.” Therewith upon his crest

With rigour⁰ so outrageous he smitt,

violence; rigidity

That a large share⁰ it hewd out of the rest,

piece

And glauncing downe his shield, from blame⁰ him

harm

fairely blest.⁰

preserved

5. Death pangs.

1 8 4

/ E D M U N D S P E N S E R

!9

Who thereat wondrous wrath,⁰ the sleeping spark

angry

Of native vertue⁰ gan eftsoones⁰ revive,

165 And at his haughtie helmet making mark, strength / soon after

So hugely⁰ stroke, that it the Steele did rive,⁰

And cleft his head. He tumbling downe alive, mightily / tear apart

With bloody mouth his mother earth did kis

Greeting his grave: his grudging⁰ ghost did strive complaining

170 With the fraile flesh; at last it flitted is,

Whither the soules do fly of men, that live amis.

20

The Lady when she saw her champion fall,

Like the old ruines of a broken towre,

Staid not to waile his woefull funerall,⁰ death

175 But from him fled away with all her powre;

Who after her as hastily gan scowre,⁰ scurry
Bidding the Dwarfe with him to bring away
The Sarazins shield, signe of the conqueroure.
Her soone he⁰ overtooke, and bad to stay, Redcrosse
180 For present cause was none of dread her to dismay.⁶

21

She turning backe with ruefull⁷ countenance
Cride, “Mercy mercy Sir vouchsafe to show
On silly⁰ Dame, subject to hard mischaunce, helpless
And to your mighty will.” Her humblesse low 185 In so ritch weedes⁰ and seeming glorious show clothes
Did much emmove his stout heroike heart,
And said, “Deare dame, your sudden overthrow Much rueth^o me; but now put feare apart, grieves
And tell, both who ye be, and who that tooke your part.”

22

190 Melting in teares, then gan she thus lament;
“The wretched woman, whom unhappy howre
Hath now made thrall⁰ to your commandement, slave
Before that angry heavens list to lowre,^o frown
And fortune false betraide me to your powre 195 Was (O what now availeth that I was!)
Borne the sole daughter of an Emperour,
He that the wide West under his rule has,
And high hath set his throne, where Tiberis doth pas.⁸

23

“He in the first flowre of my freshest age,
200 Betrothed me unto the onely haire^o heir

Of a most mighty king, most rich and sage;

6. There was no present cause for her to flee in

8. The Tiber River runs through Rome; hence the fear.

lady is associated with the Catholic Church.

7. Seeking to incite pity.

THE FAERIE QUEENE: THE FIRST BOOKE
/ 185

Was never Prince so faithfull and so faire,

Was never Prince so meeke and debonaire;⁰ gracious

But ere my hoped day of spousall shone,

205 My dearest Lord fell from high honours staire,

Into the hands of his accursed fone,^o foes

And cruelly was slaine, that shall I ever mone.⁹

24

“His blessed body spoild of lively breath,

Was afterward, I know not how, convoid⁰ carried a-way

210 And fro me hid: of whose most innocent death

When tidings came to me unhappy maid,

O how great sorrow my sad soule assaid.⁰ afflicted

Then forth I went his woefull corse⁰ to find, corpse

And many yeares throughout the world I straid,⁰ strayed

215 A virgin widow, whose deepe wounded mind

With love, long time did languish as the striken hind.^o deer

25

“At last it chanced this proud Sarazin

To meete me wandring, who perforce⁰ me led by violence

With him away, but yet could never wih

220 The fort, that Ladies hold in soveraigne dread.
There lies he now with foule dishonour dead,
Who whiles he livde, was called proud Sans foy,
The eldest of three brethren, all three bred
Of one bad sire, whose youngest is Sans^o joy, without 225 And twixt them both was borne the bloody bold Sans loy.¹

26

“In this sad plight, friendless unfortunate,
Now miserable I Fidessa^o dwell, Faith
Craving of you in pittie of my state,
To do none^o ill, if please ye not do well.” no
230 He in great passion all this while did dwell,^o continue
More busying his quicke eyes, her face to view,
then his dull eares, to heare what she did tell;
And said, “Faire Lady hart of flint would rew^o pity
The undeserved woes and sorrowes, which ye shew.
27

235 “Henceforth in safe assurance may ye rest,
Having both found a new friend you to aid,
And lost an old foe, that did you molest:
Better new friend than an old foe is^o said.” it is
With chaunge of cheare the seeming simple maid
9. The lady claims to have been engaged to Christ, three “Sans” brothers hark back to St. Paul’s Episbridegroom of the Church, who was cruelly killed—tle to the Galatians 5.22-23: “But the fruit of the which event the lady will forever lament.

Spirit is love, joy ... faith ... temperance: against

1. Literally, without law. The names of Spenser's such there is no law."

1 8 6 / E D M U N D S P E N S E R

240 Let fall her eye, as^o shamefast^o to the earth, as if/modestly

And yeelding soft, in that she nought gain-said,

So forth they rode, he feining^o seemely merth, simulating

And she coy lookes: so dainty they say maketh derth.²

28

Long time they thus together travelled,

245 Till weary of their way, they came at last,

Where grew two goodly trees, that faire did spread

Their armes abroad, with gray mosse overcast,

And their greene leaves trembling with every blast,^o breeze

Made a calme shadow far in compasse round:

250 The fearefull Shepheard often there aghast

Under them never sat, ne wont^o there sound *was accustomed
to*

His mery oaten pipe, but shund th' unlucky ground.

29

But this good knight soone as he them can^o spie, did

For the coole shade him thither hastily got:

255 For golden Phoebus now ymounted hie,

From fiery wheelles of his faire chariot

Hurled his beame so scorching cruell hot,

That living creature mote^o it not abide; might

And his new Lady it endured not.

260 There they alight, in hope themselves to hide

From the fierce heat, and rest their weary limbs a tide.⁰ time

3 °

Faire seemely pleasaunce⁰ each to other makes, courtesy

With goodly purposes there as they sit:

And in his falsed⁰ fancy he her takes deceived

265 To be the fairest wight⁰ that lived yit; creature

Which to expresse, he bends his gentle wit,

And thinking of those braunches greene to frame

A girlond⁰ for her dainty forehead fit, garland

He pluckt a bough; out of whose rift there came

270 Small drops of gory bloud, that trickled downe the same.

3 1

Therewith a piteous yelling voyce was heard,

Crying, “O spare with guilty hands to teare

My tender sides in this rough rynd embard,⁰ imprisoned

But fly, ah fly far hence away, for feare

275 Least⁰ to you hap, that happened to me heare, lest

And to this wretched Lady, my deare love,

O too deare love, love bought with death too deare.”

Astond he stood,³ and up his haire did hove⁰ heave, raise

And with that sudden horror could no member move.

2. Proverbial: what’s dear is rare; here, coyness 3. I.e., astonished, Redcrosse Knight stood up.

creates unsatisfied desire.

THE FAERIE QUEENE: THE FIRST BOOKE

/ 1 8 7

32

280 At last whenas the dreadful passion

Was overpast, and manhood well awake,

Yet musing at the straunge occasion
And doubting much his sense, he thus bespake;
“What voyce of damned Ghost from Limbo⁴ lake,
285 Or guilefull spright wandring in empty aire,
Both which fraile men do oftentimes mistake,⁰ mislead
Sends to my doubtfull eares these speaches rare,
And ruefull plaints, me bidding guiltless bloud to spare?”

33

Then groning deepe, “Nor damned Ghost,” quoth he,
290 “Nor guilefull sprite to thee these wordes doth speake,
But once a man Fradubio,⁵ now a tree,
Wretched man, wretched tree; whose nature weake,
A cruell witch her cursed will to wreake,
Hath thus transformed, and plast^o in open plaines, placed 295 Where Boreas⁰ doth blow full bitter bleake, the north
wind
And scorching Sunne does dry my secret vaines:
For though a tree I seeme, yet cold and heat me paines.”

34

“Say on Fradubio then, or^o man, or tree,” whether Quoth then the knight, “by whose mischievous arts 300 Art thou misshaped thus, as now I see?
He oft finds med’cine, who his grieffe imparts;
But double griefs afflict concealing harts,⁰ hearts
As raging flames who striveth to suppressse.”
“The author then,” said he, “of all my smarts,⁰ hurts
305 Is one Duessa⁶ a false sorceresse,
That many errant knights hath brought to wretchednesse.⁷

35

“In prime of youthly yeares, when corage hot
The fire of love and joy of chevalree
First kindled in my brest, it was my lot 310 To love this gentle Lady, whom ye see,
Now not a Lady, but a seeming tree;
With whom as once I rode accompanyde,
Me chaunced of a knight encountred bee,
That had a like faire Lady by his syde,
315 Like a faire Lady, but did fowle Duessa hyde.

36

“Whose forged beauty he did take in hand,⁸
All other Dames to have exceeded farre,
4. A region of hell and, traditionally, the place of (Orlando Furioso 6.26—53), and Tasso (Gerusa- the unbaptized.

lemma Liberata 13.38—46).

5. Fra (Italian, “in” or “brother”) + dubbio 6. Due (Italian, “two,” or double) + esse (Latin, (“doubt”). Spenser borrows details from many pre-

“being”).

vious epic depictions of a man imprisoned in a

7. I.e., Duessa has brought many wandering (with bleeding tree; among his sources are Virgil (Aeneid
a pun on erring) knights to wretchedness.

3.27-42), Dante (Inferno 13.28-109), Ariosto

8. He maintained.

1 8 8 / E D M U N D S P E N S E R

I in defence of mine did likewise stand,

Mine, that did then shine as the Morning starre:
320 So both to battell fierce arraunged arre,
In which his harder fortune was to fall
Under my speare: such is the dye^o of warre: hazard
His Lady left as a prise^o martiall,^o spoil / of battle
Did yield her comely person, to be at my call.

37

325 “So doubly loved of Ladies unlike^o faire, differently
Th’ one seeming such, the other such indeede,
One day in doubt I cast^o for^o to compare, decided / to

Whether^o in beauties glorie did exceede;
which one (of two)

A Rosy girlond^o was the victors meede:^o
garland / reward

330 Both seemde to win, and both seemde won to bee,
So hard the discord was to be agreede.

Fraelissa⁹ was as faire, as faire mote bee,
And ever false Duessa seemde as faire as shee.

38

“The wicked witch now seeing all this white
335 The doubtfull ballaunce equally to sway,
What not by right, she cast to win by guile,
And by her hellish science^o raisd streight way knowledge
A foggy mist, that overcast the day,
And a dull blast, that breathing on her face, 340 Dimmed her former beauties shining ray,

And with foule ugly forme did her disgrace
Then was she faire alone, when none was faire in place.¹

39

“Then cride she out, ‘Fye, fye, deformed wight,
Whose borrowed beautie now appeareth plaine
345 To have before bewitched all mens sight;
0 leave her soone, or let her soone be slaine.’
Her lothly visage viewing with disdain.

Eftsoone⁰ I thought her such, as she me told,

before

And would have kild her, but with faigned paine, 350 The false witch did my wrathfull hand withhold;
So left her, where she now is turnd to treen^o mould.⁰

a tree's / form

40

“Thens forth I tooke Duessa for my Dame,
And in the witch unweeting⁰ joyd long time, unknowingly

Ne ever wist,^o but that she was the same,

knew

355 Till on a day (that day is every Prime,² When Witches wont^o do penance for their crime)

are accustomed to 1 chaunst to see her in her proper⁰ hew,^o

own / shape

Bathing her selfe in origane and thyme:³

9. Frailty (in Italian, Fralezza). moon.

1. W h e n nobody else was fair. She: Duessa. 3. Oregano and thyme were used to cure scabs 2. Spring; or the first appearance of the new and itching.

THE FAERIE QUEENE: THE FIRST BOOKE
/ 1 8 9

A filthy foule old woman I did vew,

360 That ever to have toucht her, I did deadly rew.° regret

41

“Her neather partes misshapen, monstrous,

Were hidd in water, that I could not see,

But they did seeme more foule and hideous,

Then womans shape man would beleeeve to bee.

365 Thens forth from her most beastly companie

I gan refraine, in minde to slip away,

Soone as appeared safe opportunitie:

For danger great, if not assured decay0 destruction

I saw before mine eyes, if I were knowne to stray.

4 2

370 “The divelish hag by chaunges of my cheare0

countenance

Perceived my thought, and drownd in sleepe night,

With wicked herbes and ointments did besmeare

My bodie all, through charmes and magicke might,

That all my senses were bereaved quight:0

quite

375 Then brought she me into this desert waste,

And by my wretched lovers side me pight,° planted

Where now enclosd in wooden wals full faste,4

Banisht from living wights,⁰ our wearie dayes we waste.”

persons

43

“But how long time,” said then the Elfin knight,

380 “Are you in this misformed house to dwell?”

“We may not chaunge,” quoth he, “this evil plight,

Till we be bathed in a living well;⁵

That is the terme prescribed by the spell.”

“O how,” said he, “mote^o I that well out find,

might 385 That may restore you to your wonted well?“⁰

well-being

“Time and suffised fates to former kynd

Shall us restore,⁶ none else from hence may us unbynd.”

44

The false Duessa, now Fidessa hight,⁰ called

Heard how in vaine Fradubio did lament,

390 And knew well all was true. But the good knight

Full of sad feare and ghastly dreriment,⁰ gloom

When all this speech the living tree had spent,

The bleeding bough did thrust into the ground,

That from the bloud he might be innocent,

395 And with fresh clay did close the wooden wound:

Then turning to his Lady, dead with feare her found.

4. I.e., imprisoned within the trees.

6. I.e., time and the satisfaction of the fates alone

5. Allusion to 1 John 4.14: “well of water, can restore us to our former human nature.

springing up into eternal life.”

190 / EDMUND SPENSER

45

Her seeming dead he found with feigned feare,

As all unweeting of that well she knew,⁷

And paynd himselfe with busie care to reare

400 Her out of carelesse⁰ swowne. Her eyelids blew unconscious

And dimmed sight with pale and deadly⁰ hew^o deathlike / appearance

At last she up gan lift: with trembling cheare⁰ demeanor

Her up he tooke, too simple and too trew,

And oft her kist. At length all passed feare,⁸

405 He set her on her steede, and forward forth did beare.

1590, 1596

FROM AMORETTI1

Sonnet 1

Happy ye leaves² when as those lilly hands,

Which hold my life in their dead doing might³

Shall handle you and hold in loves soft bands,

Lyke captives trembling at the victors sight.

5 And happy lines, on which with starry light,

Those laming⁰ eyes will deigne sometimes to look shining

And reade the sorrowes of my dying spright,⁰ spirit

Written with teares in harts⁰ close⁰ bleeding book. *heart's /
secret*

And happy rymes bath'd in the sacred brooke,

10 Of Helicon⁴ whence she derived is,

When ye behold that Angels blessed looke,

My soules long lacked foode, my heavens blis.
Leaves, lines, and rymes, seeke her to please alone,
Whom if ye please, I care for other none.

Sonnet 8

More then⁰ most faire, full of the living fire, than Kindled above unto the maker neere:

No eies⁵ but joyes, in which al powers conspire,
That to the world naught else be counted deare.

7. I.e., pretending ignorance of what she knew rhyme scheme is abab bcbc cdcd ee, a difficult pat-well.

tern in English because of the frequency of the

8. I.e., having overcome all fear.

repeating rhymes.

1. Little loves (Italian). This sequence of eighty-

2. Pages; in line 13, the poet addresses his poems nine sonnets was published in 1595, together with as “leaves, lines, and rymes.”

Epithalamion (p. 195), a kind of poem written to

3. Death-dealing power.

celebrate a marriage. It is generally believed that

4. The Hippocrene Spring, on Mt. Helicon, was these poems were written to Spenser’s bride-to-be,
the haunt of the Muses, the nine Greek sister god-Elizabeth Boyle. The Petrarchan sonnet cycle was desses believed to be the source of inspiration for popular at this time, but Spenser’s sequence is the arts.

unusual because the desire expressed is directed
5. The lover's eyes are imagined as the source of not at an unattainable mistress but toward the love, both erotic and spiritual (Platonic).

woman who became the poet's second wife. The

A M O R E T T I : S O N N E T 2 3 / 1 9 1

5 Through your bright beams doth not the blinded guest
6 Shoot out his darts to base affections wound?
But Angels come to lead fraile mindes to rest
In chast desires on heavenly beauty bound.

You frame my thoughts and fashion me within,

10 You stop my tounge, and teach my hart^o to speake, heart

You calme the storme that passion did begin,

Strong thugh your cause, but by your vertue weak.

Dark is the world, where your light shined never;

Well is he borne, that may behold you ever.

Sonnet 157

Ye tradefull⁸ Merchants that with weary toyle,

Do seeke most pretious things to make your gain:

And both the Indias⁹ of their treasures spoile,⁰ despoil

What needeth you to seeke so farre in vaine?

5 For loe my love doth in her selfe containe

All this worlds riches that may farre be found,

If Saphyres, loe her eies be Saphyres plaine,⁰ perfect

If Rubies, loe hir lips be Rubies sound:⁰ free from defect

If Pearles, hir teeth be pearles both pure and round;

10 If Yvorie, her forehead yvory weene;¹

If Gold, her locks are finest gold on ground;⁰ Earth

If silver, her faire hands are silver sheene;⁰ bright
But that which fairest is, but few behold,
Her mind adornd with vertues manifold.

Sonnet 23

Penelope for her Ulisses sake,
Deviz'd a Web her woovers to deceave:
In which the worke that she all day did make
The same at night she did again unreave:²
⁵ Such subtile⁰ craft my Damzell doth conceave,⁰ fine, clever / devise
Th' importune⁰ suit of my desire to shonne:³ importunate
For all that I in many dayes doo weave,
In one short houre I find by her undonne.
So when I thinke to end that⁰ I begonne, that which ¹⁰ I must begin and never bring to end:
For with one looke she spils^o that long I sponne, destroys
And with one word my whole years work doth rend.

6. I.e., Cupid, Roman god of erotic love.

ative, i.e., “think her forehead ivory.”

7. This sonnet is a blazon, a series of comparisons

2. During the long absence of her husband, Odys-or depictions cataloging the lady's parts.

seus, Penelope warded off her suitors by saying she

8. Fully occupied with trading (this is the O.E.D.'s would choose one of them as soon as she finished first recorded usage of the word).

weaving a shroud. Each night for three years she

9. The East and West Indies.

undid her day's work (Homer, Odyssey 2).

1. Beautiful; or, possibly, may be read as an imper-

3. I.e., she shuns his desire's pleading.

192 / EDMUND SPENSER

Such labour like the Spyderys web I fynd,

Whose fruitlesse worke is broken with least wynd.

Sonnet 54

Of this worlds Theatre in which we stay,

My love lyke the Spectator ydly sits

Beholding me that all the pageants⁰ play, roles

Disguysing diversly my troubled wits.

5 Sometimes I joy when glad occasion fits,

And mask⁴ in myrth lyke to a Comedy:

Soone after when my joy to sorrow flits,

I waile and make my woes a Tragedy.

Yet she beholding me with constant eye,

10 Delights not in my merth nor rues^o my smart:⁰ pities/hurt

But when I laugh she mocks, and when I cry

She laughes, and hardens evermore her hart.^o heart

What then can move her? if nor merth nor mone,^o moan

She is no woman, but a sencelesse stone.

Sonnet 675

Lyke as a huntsman after weary chace,

Seeing the game from him escapt away,

Sits downe to rest him in some shady place,

With panting hounds beguiled of their pray:

5 So after long pursuit and vaine assay,⁰ attempt

When I all weary had the chace forsooke,

The gentle deare⁶ returned the selfe-same way,
Thinking to quench her thirst at the next brooke.
There she beholding me with mylder looke,
io Sought not to fly, but fearelesse still did bide:
Till I in hand her yet halfe trembling tooke,
And with her owne goodwill hir fymely tyde.
Strange thing me seemd⁷ to see a beast so wyld,
So goodly wonne with her owne will beguyld.

Sonnet 68

Most glorious Lord of lyfe that on this day,⁸
Didst make thy triumph over death and sin:

4. Cover (or mask) his emotions; also, act in a “Whoso List to Hunt” (p. 126).

masque, a short, allegorical drama.

6. With a pun on deer and dear (beloved).

5. An imitation of Petrarch’s Rime 190, although

7. I.e., it seemed to me.

with a dissimilar ending. Cf. Thomas Wyatt,

8. Easter.

A M O R E T T I : S O N N E T 7 1 / 1 9 3

And having harrowd hell⁹ didst bring away
Captivity thence captive us to win:1

5 This joyous day, deare Lord, with joy begin,

And grant that we for whom thou diddest dye

Being with thy deare blood clene washt from sin,

May live for ever in felicity.

And that thy love we weighing worthily,

10 May likewise love thee for the same againe:2

And for thy sake that all lyke deare³ didst buy,
With love may one another entertayne.

So let us love, deare love, lyke as we ought,
Love is the lesson which the Lord us taught.⁴

Sonnet 70

Fresh spring the herald of loves mighty king,
In whose cote^o armour^o richly are displayd coat / of arms

All sorts of flowers the which on earth do spring
In goodly colours gloriously arrayd:

5 Goe to my love, where she is carelesse layd,
Yet in her winters bowre not well awake:

Tell her the joyous time wil not be staid^o detained
Unless she doe him by the forelock take.⁵

Bid her therefore her selfe soone ready make,
10 To wayt on love⁶ amongst his lovely crew:

Where every one that misseth then her make,^o mate
Shall be by him amearst^o with penance dew. punished
Make hast therefore sweet love,⁷ whilst it is prime,^o spring
For none can call againe the passed time.

Sonnet 71

I joy to see how in your drawen work,⁸
Your selfe unto the Bee ye doe compare;

And me unto the Spyder that doth lurke,
In close^o awayt^o to catch her unaware. secret / ambush

5 Right so your selfe were caught in cunning snare
Of a deare foe, and thralld^o to his love: enslaved

In whose streight^o bands ye now captived are tight
So firmly, that ye never may remove.

9. A reference to the apocryphal account of

5. “To take time by the forelock” is to act Christ’s descent into hell, after his Crucifixion, to promptly.

rescue the captive souls of the just.

6. I.e., to attend and serve Cupid.

1. “When he ascended up on high, he led captivity

7. The addressee of the poem changes here from captive” (Ephesians 4.8).

Spring, as the herald of love, to the loved one her-

2. I.e., grant also that we, weighing thy love self.

rightly, might love thee in the same way.

8. Ornamental work done in textile fabrics by

3. I.e., at the same cost.

drawing out some of the threads so as to form pat-

4. “This is my commandment, That ye love one terns.

another, as I have loved you” (John 15.12).

194 / EDMUND SPENSER

But as your worke is woven all about,

10 With woodbynd⁰ flowers and fragrant honeysuckle

Enlantine:⁰ sweethriar

So sweet your prison you in time shall prove,⁰ find

With many deare delights bedecked fyne.

And all thensforth eternall peace shall see

Betweene the Spyder and the gentle Bee.

Sonnet 75

One day I wrote her name upon the strand, shore

But came the waves and washed it away:

Agayne I wrote it with a second hand,
for / time

But came the tyde, and made my paynes his pray.
prey

5 Vayne man, sayd she, that doest in vaine assay, attempt

A mortall thing so to immortalize,

For I my selve shall lyke to this decay,

And eek^o my name bee wyped out lykewize. also

Not so, (quod^o I) let baser things devize^o quoth/plan

10 To dy in dust, but you shall live by fame:

My verse your vertues rare shall eternize,

And in the heavens wryte your glorious name.

Where whenas death shall all the world subdew,

Our love shall live, and later life renew.

Sonnet 79

Men call you fayre, and you doe credit^o it, believe

For that your selfe ye dayly such doe see:

But the trew fayre,^o that is the gentle wit, beauty

And vertuous mind, is much more prayd of me.

5 For all the rest, how ever fayre it be,

Shall turne to nought and loose that glorious hew:^o form

But onely that is permanent and free

From frayle corruption, that doth flesh ensee.^o attend

That is true beautie: that doth argue you

10 To be divine and borne of heavenly seed:
Deriv'd from that fayre Spirit,⁹ from whom al true
And perfect beauty did at first proceed.
He onely fayre, and what he fayre hath made,
All other fayre lyke flowres untymely fade.

Sonnet 81

Fayre is my love, when her fayre golden heares,^{0 hairs}
With the loose wynd ye waving chance to marke:^{0 notice}

9. I.e., God, the "he" of line 13.

EPITHALAMION / 195

Fayre when the rose in her red cheekes appeares,
Or in her eyes the fyre of love does sparke.

5 Fayre when her brest lyke a rich laden barke,
With pretious merchandize she forth doth lay:

Fayre when that cloud of pryde, which oft doth dark
Her goodly light with smiles she drives away.

But fayrest she, when so she doth display

10 The gate with pearles and rubyes richly dight:^{° adorned,}

Throgh which her words so wise do make their way

To beare the message of her gentle spright.^{0 spirit}

The rest be works of natures wonderment,

But this the worke of harts⁰ astonishment. heart's

Sonnet 89

Lyke as the Culver¹ on the bared bough,

Sits mourning for the absence of her mate:

And in her songs sends many a wishfull vow,

For his returne that seemes to linger late,

5 So I alone now left disconsolate,

Mourne to my selfe the absence of my love:
And wandring here and there all desolate,
Seek with my playnts⁰ to match that mournful laments, complaints
dove:
Ne joy of ought that under heaven doth hove,^o abide
io Can comfort me, but her owne joyous sight:
Whose sweet aspect both God and man can move,
In her unspotted pleasauns² to delight.
Dark is my day, whyles her fayre light I mis,
And dead my life that wants such lively blis.

15 9 5

Epithalamion¹

Ye learned sisters² which have oftentimes
Beene to me ayding, others to adorne:
Whom ye thought worthy of your graceful!³ rymes,
1. Dove; a bird associated with fidelity, peace, and tral section on the church ceremony (lines 185—
the Holy Spirit.
222) is flanked by two symmetrical ten-stanza sec-
2. Charm or pleasing manners; also, a garden's tions, each divided into units of three-four-three.
pleasure area; cf. Song of Solomon 4.12, in which The poem's structure reinforces the theme of time,
the bride is compared to an enclosed garden.
with exactly 365 long lines, matching the number
1. Meaning a wedding song or poem; its Greek of days in the year, and twenty-four stanzas

name conveys that it was sung on the threshold of (including the envoy), matching the number of the bridal chamber. The genre, practiced by the hours in one day. The first sixteen stanzas describe Latin poets, characteristically includes the invocation to the Muses (the nine sister goddesses sixteen and one-quarter stanzas: contemporary believed to be sources of inspiration for the arts), almanacs indicate sixteen and one-quarter hours the bringing home of the bride, the singing and of daylight in southern Ireland on June 11, 1594, dancing at the wedding party, and the preparations the day Spenser was married.

for the wedding night.

2. The Muses.

Published with the Amoretti, Spenser's Epitha-

3. Graceful; also, conferring grace.

lamion has a uniquely complex structure. The cen-

196 / EDMUND SPENSER

That even the greatest did not greatly scorne

To heare theyr names sung in your simple layes,^o songs

But joyed in theyr prayse.

And when ye list^o your owne mishaps to mourne, desire

Which death, or love, or fortunes wreck did rayse,

Your string could soone to sadder tenor^o turne, mood

And teach the woods and waters to lament

Your dolefull dremment.^o sadness

Now lay those sorrowfull complaints aside,
And having all your heads with girland⁰ crownd, garland
Helpe me mine owne loves prayes to resound,
Ne let the same of^o any be envide: by
So Orpheus⁴ did for his owne bride,
So I unto my selfe alone will sing,
The woods shall to me answer and my Eccho ring.
Early before the worlds light giving lampe,⁵
His golden beame upon the hils doth spread,
Having disperst the nights unchearefull dampe,
Doe ye awake, and with fresh lusty hed,^o cheerfulness
Go to the bowre^o of my beloved love, bedchamber
My truest turtle dove,
Bid her awake; for Hymen⁶ is awake,
And long since ready forth his maske to move,
With his bright Tead that flames with many a flake,^o spark
And many a bachelor to waite on him,
In theyr fresh garments trim.
Bid her awake therefore and soone her dight,^o dress
For lo the wished day is come at last,
That shall for al the paynes and sorrowes past,
Pay to her usury^o of long delight: interest
And whylest she doth her dight,^o dress
Doe ye to her of joy and solace^o sing, pleasure
That all the woods may answer and your eccho ring.
Bring with you all the Nymphes that you can heare⁷
Both of the rivers and the forrests greene:
And of the sea that neighbours to her neare,

40 Al with gay girlands⁰ goodly wel beseene.⁰ garlands / beautified

And let them also with them bring in hand

Another gay girland

For my fayre love of lillyes and of roses,

Bound true love wize⁸ with a blew silke riband.

45 And let them make great store of bridale poses,⁰ posies

And let them eeke^o bring store of other flowers also

To deck the bridale bowers.

4. Son of the Muse Calliope, he was a figure of

6. The Greek god of the wedding feast, repre-

the poet in classical antiquity; his music was said

sented as a young man bearing a torch (“Tead,” line to charm wild animals and to make stones and

27) and leading a “maske” (line 26), or procession.

trees move. According to one tradition, he won his

7. I.e., that can hear you. Nymphes: nymphs; wife, Euridyce, with music. However, he failed to mythological female spirits inhabiting a particular

free her from the underworld after her death

place, object, or natural phenomenon.

because he looked back at her on the journey out.

8. I.e., in the manner of true love.

5. I.e., the sun.

EPITHALAMION / 197

And let the ground whereas⁰ her foot shall tread, whereon

For feare the stones her tender foot should wrong

50 Be strewed with fragrant flowers all along,

And diapred lyke the discolored mead.⁹
Which done, doe at her chamber dore awayt,
For she will waken strayt,⁰ straightway
The whiles doe ye this song unto her sing,
55 The woods shall to you answer and your Eccho ring.
Ye Nymphes of Mulla⁰ which with carefull heed, an Irish river
The silver scaly trouts doe tend full well,
And greedy pikes which use therein to feed,
(Those trouts and pikes all others doo excell)
60 And ye likewise which keepe the rushy lake,
Where none doo fishes take,
Bynd up the locks¹ the which hang scatterd light,
And in his waters which your mirror make,
Behold your faces as the christall bright,
65 That when you come whereas my love doth lie,
No blemish she may spie.
And eke^o ye lightfoot mayds which keepe the deere, also
That on the hoary mountayne use to towre,²
And the wyld woves which seeke them to devoure, 70 With your S t e e l e darts doo chace from comming neer,
Be also present heere,
To helpe to decke her and to help to sing,
That all the woods may answer and your eccho ring.
Wake, now my love, awake; for it is time,
75 The Rosy Morne long since left Tithones bed,³
All ready to her silver coche^o to clyme, coach
And Phoebus⁴ gins to shew his glorious hed.

Hark how the cheerefull birds do chaunt theyr laies⁰ songs
And carroll of loves praise.⁵

so The merry Larke hir mattins⁰ sings aloft,
morning prayers

The thrush replies, the Mavis descant⁰ playes, melodic counterpart

The Ouzell shrills, the Ruddock warbles soft,
So goodly all agree with sweet consent,
To this dayes merriment.

85 Ah my deere love why doe ye sleepe thus long,
When meeter⁰ were that ye should now awake,
more appropriate

T' awayt the comming of your joyous make,⁰
mate

And hearken to the birds lovelearned song,
The deawy leaves among.

90 For they of joy and pleasance to you sing,
That all the woods them answer and theyr eccho ring.

9. And variegated like the many-colored meadow.
stayed young.

1. I.e., the rushes.

4. Phoebus Apollo, the Greek sun god.

2. A hawking term meaning "to climb high." Light-

5. The birds' concert (following lines) is a conven-foot mayds: i.e., the nymphs.

tion of love poetry. The lark (a songbird) was asso-

3. The dawn, personified in mythology as the godciated with dawn. The mavis (song thrush), the dess Eos, or Aurora, was married to Tithonus, a ouzell (European blackbird), and the ruddock mortal Trojan prince who aged while his wife (robin) are all varieties of thrush.

198 / EDMUND SPENSER

My love is now awake out of her dreames,
And her fayre eyes like stars that dimmed were
With darksome cloud, now shew theyr goodly beams 95 More bright then⁰ Hesperus⁶ his head doth rere. than Come now ye damzels, daughters of delight,
Helpe quickly her to dight,
But first come ye fayre houres⁷ which were begot
In Joves sweet paradice, of Day and Night,
100 Which doe the seasons of the yeare allot,
And al that ever in this world is fayre
Doe make and still⁰ repayre. continually
And ye three handmayds of the Cyprian Queene,⁸
The which doe still adorne her beauties pride,
105 Helpe to adorne my beautifullest bride:
And as ye her array,⁰ still throw betweene⁰ dress / at intervals
Some graces to be seene,
And as ye use to Venus, to her sing,⁹
The whiles the woods shal answer and your eccho ring.
Now is my love all ready forth to come,
Let all the virgins therefore well awayt,
And ye fresh boyes that tend upon her groome¹
Prepare your selves; for he is comming strayt.⁰
straightaway

Set all your things in seemely good aray⁰ order

Fit for so joyfull day,

The joyfullst day that ever sunne did see.

Faire Sun, shew forth thy favourable ray,

And let thy liful^P heat not fervent be life-giving

For feare of burning her sunshyny face,

Her beauty to disgrace.⁰

O fayrest Phoebus, father of the Muse,²

If ever I did honour thee aright,

Or sing the thing, that mote⁰ thy mind delight,

might

Doe not thy servants simple boone⁰ refuse, request

But let this day let this one day be myne,

Let all the rest be thine.

Then I thy soverayne prayes loud wil sing,

That all the woods shal answer and theyr eccho ring.

Harke how the Minstrels gin to shrill aloud

130 Their merry Musick that resounds from far,

The pipe,⁰ the tabor,⁰ and the trembling Croud,³ bagpipe/drum

That well agree withouten breach or jar.⁰ discord

But most of all the Damzels doe delite,

When they their tymbrels⁰ smyte,⁰ tambourines / hit

135 And thereunto doe daunce and carrol sweet,

6. The evening or morning star, sacred to Venus, flowers,” and “she who rejoices the heart.”

Roman goddess of love and beauty.

9. I.e., as you are accustomed to sing to Venus, so

7. The Horae, or Hours, were three daughters of sing to my bride.

Jove (ruler of the gods), commonly associated with

1. Her bridegroom, i.e., the speaker of the poem.

the seasons and the principle of order.

2. Usually, Zeus (Jove) was considered father of

8. Venus, whose handmaids were the three the Muses; in contrast, Spenser names Phoebus as Graces: Aglaia, Thalia, and Euphrosyne. Their their father.

names mean “the brilliant one,” “she who brings

3. Primitive fiddle.

E P I T H A L A M I O N / 1 9 9

That all the sences they doe ravish quite,

The whyles the boyes run up and downe the street,

Crying aloud with strong confused noyce,

As if it were one voyce.

140 Hymen io Hymen, Hymen⁴ they do shout,

That even to the heavens theyr shouting shrill

Doth reach, and all the firmament doth fill,

To which the people standing all about,

As in approvance doe thereto applaud

- 145 And loud advaunce her laud,⁰ praise

And evermore they Hymen Hymen sing,

That al the woods them answer and theyr eccho ring.

Loe where she comes along with portly⁰ pace, stately Lyke Phoebe⁵ from her chamber of the East, iso Aysing forth to run her mighty race,
Clad all in white, that seemes⁰ a virgin best. befits
So well it her beseemes that ye would weene⁰ think
Some angell she had beene.
Her long loose yellow locks lyke golden wyre, 155 Sprinckled with perle, and perling⁰ flowres a tweene, winding
Doe lyke a golden mantle her attyre,
And being crowned with a girland⁰ greene, garland
Seeme lyke some mayden Queene.
Her modest eyes abashed to behold
160 So many gazers, as on her do stare,
Upon the lowly ground affixed are.
Ne dare lift up her countenance too bold,
But blush to heare her prayyses sung so loud,
So farre from being proud.
165 Nathlesse⁰ doe ye still loud her prayyses sing, nevertheless
That all the woods may answer and your eccho ring.
Tell me ye merchants daughters did ye see
So fayre a creature in your towne before?
So sweet, so lovely, and so mild as she,
170 Adornd with beautyes grace and vertues store,⁰ wealth
Her goodly eyes lyke Saphyres shining bright,
Her forehead yvory white,
Her cheekes lyke apples which the sun hath rudded,
Her lips lyke cheryes charming men to byte,

175 Her brest like to a bowle of creame uncrudded,⁰ uncurdled

Her paps lyke lyllies budded,

Her snowie necke lyke to a marble towre,

And all her body lyke a pallace fayre,

Ascending uppe with many a stately stayre,

iso To honors seat and chastities sweet bowre.⁶

4. Ritual exclamation at weddings in antiquity (see virgins but also to faithful wives.

note 6, p. 196).

6. The head, seat of reason. The catalog, or bla-

5. Another name for the virgin moon goddess, zon, of the beloved's beauties harks back to the

Diana, and thus an anticipation of night's coming.

biblical Song of Solomon (4—8) and was a conven-

Phoebe was associated with chastity, a concept

tion of love poetry.

that Protestants defined as belonging not only to

200 / EDMUND SPENSER

Why stand ye still ye virgins in amaze,

Upon her so to gaze,

Whiles ye forget your former lay to sing,

To which the woods did answer and your eccho ring:¹

185 But if ye saw that which no eyes can see,

The inward beauty of her lively spright,⁰ spirit

Garnisht with heavenly guifts⁰ of high degree, gifts

Much more then would ye wonder at that sight,

And stand astonisht lyke to those which red⁰ saw

190 Medusaes mazeful hed.7

There dwels sweet love and constant chastity,
Unspotted fayth and comely womanhed,
Regard of honour and mild modesty,
There Vertue raynes as Queene in royal throne,
195 And giveth lawes alone.

The which the base⁰ affections⁰ doe obay, lowly / emotions
And yeeld theyr services unto her will,
Ne thought of thing uncomely ever may
Thereto approach to tempt her mind to ill.

200 Had ye once seene these her celestial treasures,
And unrevealed pleasures,

Then would ye wonder and her prayses sing,
That al the woods should answer and your echo ring.

Open the temple gates unto my love,

205 Open them wide that she may enter in,
And all the postes adorne as doth behove,⁸

And all the pillours deck with girlands⁰ trim, garlands
For to recyve this Saynt with honour dew,
That commeth in to you.

210 With trembling steps and humble reverence,
She commeth in, before th' almighties vew:

Of her ye virgins learne obedience,

When so ye come into those holy places,

To humble your proud faces;

215 Bring her up to th' high altar that she may,

The sacred ceremonies there partake,

The which do endlesse matrimony make,

And let the roring Organs loudly play
The praises of the Lord in lively notes,
220 The whiles with hollow throates
The Choristers the joyous Antheme sing,
That al the woods may answeare and their eccho ring.
Behold whiles she before the altar stands
Hearing the holy priest that to her speakes

225 And blesseth her with his two happy hands,
How the red roses flush up in her cheekes,

7. In Greek mythology, the Gorgon Medusa had with chastity, serpents for hair; whoever looked upon her was 8. I.e., as is fitting,

turned to stone. She was sometimes associated

EPITHALAMION / 201

And the pure snow with goodly vermill⁰ stayne, scarlet
Like crimsin dyde in grayne,⁹

That even th' Angels which continually,
230 About the sacred Altare doe remaine,
Forget their service and about her fly,
Ofte peeping in her face that seemes more fayre,
The more they on it stare.

But her sad⁰ eyes still fastened on the ground,
sober

235 Are governed with goodly modesty,
That suffers not one looke to glaunce awry,
Which may let in a little thought unsownd.⁰
unsound

Why blush ye love to give to me your hand,

The pledge of all our band?0

bond

240 Sing ye sweet Angels, Alleluya sing,
That all the woods may answer and your eccho ring.
Now al is done; bring home the bride againe,
Bring home the triumph of our victory,
Bring home with you the glory of her gaine,1
245 With joyance bring her and with jollity.
Never had man more joyfull day then this,
Whom heaven would heape with blis.
Make feast therefore now all this live long day,
This day for ever to me holy is,
250 Poure out the wine without restraint or stay,
Poure not by cups, but by the belly full,
Poure out to all that wull,0

will

And sprinkle all the postes and wals with wine,
That they may sweat, and drunken be withall.
255 Crowne ye God Bacchus2 with a coronall,0 garland

And Hymen also crowne with wreathes of vine,
And let the Graces daunce unto the rest;
For they can doo it best:
The whiles the maydens doe theyr carroll sing,
260 To which the woods shal answer and theyr eccho ring
Ring ye the bells, ye yong men of the towne,
And leave your wonted0 labors for this day: usual
This day is holy; doe ye write it downe,

That ye for ever it remember may.

265 This day the sunne is in his chiefest hight,

With Barnaby the bright,³

From whence declining daily by degrees,

He somewhat loseth of his heat and light,

When once the Crab⁴ behind his back he sees.

270 But for this time it ill ordained was,

To chose the longest day in all the yeare,

And shortest night, when longest fitter weare:

I.e., dyed with colorfast dye. of the summer solstice (the longest day of the year) I.e., of gaining her. in the calendar used during Spenser's time.

Roman god of wine and ecstasy. 4. Cancer the Crab, the fourth constellation in the St. Barnabas's Day (June 11) was also the day zodiac, through which the sun passes in July.

202 / E D M U N D S P E N S E R

Yet never day so long, but late⁰ would passe. finally

Ring ye the bells, to make it weare away,

275 And bonafiers⁰ make all day, bonfires

And daunce about them, and about them sing:

That all the woods may answer, and your eccho ring.

Ah when will this long weary day have end,

And lende me leave to come unto my love?

280 How slowly do the houres theyr numbers spend?

How slowly does sad Time his feathers move?

Hast⁰ thee O fayrest Planet to thy home⁵ haste

Within the Westerne fome:

Thy tyred steedes long since have need of rest.

285 Long though it be, at last I see it gloome,

And the bright evening star with golden creast⁰ crest
Appeare out of the East.

Fayre childe of beauty, glorious lampe of love
That all the host of heaven in rankes doost lead, 290 And guydest lovers through the nights dread,
How chearefully thou lookest from above,
And seemst to laugh atweene thy twinkling light
As joying in the sight
Of these glad many which for joy doe sing,
295 That all the woods them answer and their echo ring.

Now ceasse ye damsels⁶ your delights forepast;
Enough is it, that all the day was youres:

Now day is doen, and night is nighing fast:

Now bring the Bryde into the brydall boures.⁰
bowers, chambers

Now night is come,⁷ now soone her disaray,⁰ undress

And in her bed her lay;

Lay her in lillies and in violets,

And silken courteins⁰ over her display, curtains

And odour⁰ sheetes, and Arras⁸ coverlets.
perfumed

Behold how goodly my faire love does ly

In proud humility;

Like unto Maia,⁹ when as Jove her tooke,

In Tempe, lying on the Howry gras,

Twixt sleepe and wake, after she weary was,

With bathing in the Acidalian brooke.

Now it is night, ye damsels may be gon,

And leave my love alone,

And leave likewise your former lay to sing:

The woods no more shal answere, nor your echo ring

5. The sun, drawn in its chariot (by “tyred stee-

9. Said to be the most beautiful and modest of the des,” line 284); in Ptolemaic astronomy, still often

Pleiades, who were, in Greek mythology, the seven accepted in Spenser’s time, the sun was one of the daughters of Atlas and the Oceanid Pleione; Maia planets, which revolved about Earth.

was the mother of the god Hermes (and Jove was

6. I.e., all the aforementioned nymphs and spirits.

his father, though Jove’s encounter with Maia did

7. On the placement of this phrase, see the end of not traditionally take place in the Vale of Tempe,

note 1, p. 195.

in Thessaly). The “Acidalian brooke” (line 310) is

8. A northeastern French city famous for its tap-associated with Venus.

estries.

E P I T H A L A M I O N / 2 0 3

315 Now welcome night, thou night so long expected,0 awaited

That long daies labour doest at last defray,0 pay for

And all my cares, which cruell love collected,

Hast sumd in one, and cancelled for aye:

Spread thy broad wing over my love and me,
320 That no man may us see,
And in thy sable mantle us enwrap,
From feare of perrill and foule horror free.
Let no false treason seeke us to entrap,
Nor any dread disquiet once annoy
325 The safety of our joy:
But let the night be calme and quiet some,
Without tempestuous storms or sad⁰ afray:⁰ dark (terror
Lyke as when Jove with fayre Alcmena¹ lay,
When he begot the great Tirynthian groome:
330 Or lyke as when he with thy selfe did lie,
And begot Majesty.²
And let the mayds and yongmen cease to sing:
Ne let the woods them answer, nor theyr eccho ring.
Let no lamenting cryes, nor dolefull teares,
335 Be heard all night within nor yet without:
Ne let false whispers breeding hidden feares,
Breake gentle sleepe with misconceived dout.⁰ fear
Let no deluding dreames, nor dreadful sights
Make sudden sad affrights;
340 Ne let housefyres, nor lightnings helpelesse harmes,
Ne let the Pouke,³ nor other evill sprights,
Ne let mischivous witches with theyr charmes,
Ne let hob Goblins, names whose sence we see not,
Fray⁰ us with things that be not. frighten
345 Let not the shrieck Oule, nor the Storke be heard:
Nor the night Raven⁴ that still⁰ deadly yels, continually

Nor damned ghosts cald up with mighty spels,
 Nor griesly vultures make us once affeard:
 Ne let th' unpleasant Quayre of Frogs still croking
350 Make us to wish theyr choking.
 Let none of these theyr drery accents sing;
 Ne let the woods them answer, nor theyr eccho ring.
 But let stil Silence trew night watches keepe,
 That sacred peace may in assurance rayne,
355 And tymely sleep, when it is tyme to sleepe,
 May poure his limbs forth on your pleasant playne,⁰ plain
 The whiles an hundred little winged loves,⁰ cupids (or amoretti)

1. According to several versions of the story, Jove
 3. Puck, also called Hobgoblin; a small supernat-ordered the sun not to shine to make the night ural creature popular in English folklore and a longer; the “Tiryinthian groome” conceived by character in Shakespeare’s A Midsummer Night’s Alcmena was Heracles.

Dream.

2. Spenser invents this myth of Night’s creation.
 4. The night raven and the owl were birds of ill Ovid identifies Night’s parents as Honor and Rev-omen; the stork was sometimes figured as an erence (Fasti 5.23).
 avenger of adultery.

204 / EDMUND SPENSER

Like divers fethered doves,

Shall fly and flutter round about your bed,
360 And in the secret darke, that none reproveth,
Their pretty stealthes shall worke, and snares shall spread
To filch away sweet snatches of delight,
Conceald through covert night.

Ye sonnes of Venus, play your sports at will,
365 For greedy pleasure, carelesse of your toys,0 amorous s-ports

Thinks more upon her paradise of joyes,
Then0 what ye do, albe it good or ill.

than

All night therefore attend your merry play,
For it will soone be day:

370 Now none doth hinder you, that say or sing,
Ne will the woods now answer, nor your Eccho ring.

Who is the same, which at my window peepes?

Or whose is that faire face, that shines so bright,

Is it not Cinthia,5 she that never sleepes,

But walkes about high heaven al the night?

O fayrest goddesse, do thou not envy

My love with me to spy:

For thou likewise didst love, though now unthought,6

And for a fleece of woll,0 which privily, wool

The Latmian shephard once unto thee brought,

His pleasures with thee wrought.

Therefore to us be favorable now;

And sith0 of wemens labours thou hast charge,

And generation goodly dost enlarge,
 Encline thy will t' effect our wishfull vow,
 And the chast wombe informe with timely seed,
 That may our comfort breed:
 Till which we cease our hopefulP hap0 to sing,
hoped for / fate
 Ne let the woods us answere, nor our Eccho ring.
 And thou great Juno,7 which with awful0 ight awe-inspiring
 The lawes of wedlock still dost patronize,
 And the religion0 of the faith first plight
sanctity
 With sacred rites hast taught to solemnize:8
 And eeke for comfort often called art
 Of women in their smart,0 pains of childbirth
 Eternally bind thou this lovely0 band,0 loving / bond
 And all thy blessings unto us impart.
 And thou glad Genius,9 in whose gentle hand,
 The bridale bowre and genialP bed remaine,
marriage

5. Another name for Diana, the moon goddess,

7. Roman goddess of marriage and childbirth.

who was associated with chastity and also with

8. I.e., with the marriage vows.

Queen Elizabeth; see also "Phoebe," line 149 and

9. A spirit presiding over generation. By invoking note 5 there.

both Juno and Genius as patrons of the marriage
6. Not thought of. According to some versions of bed, Spenser draws also on the belief that each the story, Cynthia and Endymion, the “Latmian individual is watched over from birth by a tutelary shepherd” (line 380), made love on Mt. Latmos, spirit called a “Juno” (for girls) or a “Genius” (for after he brought her a fleece. In revenge, Zeus boys).

made Endymion sleep eternally.

E P I T H A L A M I O N / 2 0 5

400 Without blemish or staine,
And the sweet pleasures of theyr loves delight
With secret ayde doest succour and supply,
Till they bring forth the fruitfull progeny,
Send us the timely fruit of this same night.
405 And thou fayre Hebe,¹ and thou Hymen free,
Grant that it may so be.
Til which we cease your further prayse to sing,
Ne any woods shal answer, nor your Eccho ring.
And ye high heavens, the temple of the gods,
410 In which a thousand torches flaming bright
Doe burne, that to us wretched earthly clods,
In dreadful darknesse lend desired light;
And all ye powers which in the same remayne,
More then we men can fayne,⁰ imagine
415 Poure out your blessing on us plentiously,

And happy influence upon us raine,
 That we may raise a large posterity,
 Which from the earth, which they may long possesse,
 With lasting happinesse,
 420 Up to your haughty pallaces may mount,
 And for the guerdon⁰ of theyr glorious merit reward
 May heavenly tabernacles there inherit,
 Of blessed Saints for to increase the count.
 So let us rest, sweet love, in hope of this,
 425 And cease till then our tymelyjoyes to sing,
 The woods no more us answer, nor our eccho ring.
 Song made in lieu of many ornaments,²
 With which my love should duly have bene dect,⁰ adorned
 Which cutting off through hasty accidents,
 430 Ye would not stay your dew time to expect,³
 But promist both to recompens,⁴
 Be unto her a goodly ornament,
 And for short time an endlesse monument.

1 5 9 5

1. Daughter of Juno and goddess of youth.

to be born (“Ye would not stay” [remain] to

2. These last seven lines are the poem’s envoy, a “expect” [await] your due time); or these lines may traditional concluding verse paragraph in which describe the other ornaments or wedding gifts for the poet addresses and bids farewell to the work of which this poem is modestly said to substitute, i.e., art (“song”) just completed. Spenser’s envoy is full those other gifts didn't arrive in time for the bride of puns and syntactical complexities expressing the to deck herself out in them appropriately ("duly," poet's mingled attitudes of humility, impatience, line 4 2 8 — b u t that adverb, like the adjective "dew," and pride in his achievement of creating an "orna- has multiple meanings).

ment" that is also a permanent m o n u m e n t for 4. For the fault of a premature "cutting off," the swiftly passing time.

poet offers the "recompense" of the song; the ref- 3. Two possible readings: the thing being prema- erents of "both" are open to interpretation; possi- turely ended ("cut off") through sudden or rushed bly, the poet is seeking to fulfill a promise or repay ("hasty") events or contingencies ("accidents") may a debt both to his bride and to time.

be the poem itself, ended before it was really ready 2 0 6

F U L K E G R E V I L L E , L O R D B R O O K E

1554-1628

*FROM CAELICA*1

You little stars that live in skies

And glory in Apollo's² glory,

In whose aspects conjoined lies

The heaven's will and nature's story,³

5 Joy to be likened to those eyes,⁴

Which eyes make all eyes glad or sorry;

For when you force thoughts from above,
These overrule your force by love.
And thou, O Love, which in these eyes
10 Hast married Reason with Affection,
And made them saints of Beauty's skies,
Where joys are shadows of perfection,
Lend me thy wings that I may rise
Up, not by worth, but thy election;⁵
15 For I have vowed in strangest fashion
To love and never seek compassion.

ca. 1580 1633

39

The nurse-life⁰ wheat within his green husk growing, life- fostering

Flatters our hope, and tickles our desire,
Nature's true riches in sweet beauties showing,
Which set all hearts, with labor's love, on fire.
5 No less fair is the wheat when golden ear
Shows unto hope the joys of near enjoying;
Fair and sweet is the bud, more sweet and fair
The rose, which proves that time is not destroying.
Caelica, your youth, the morning of delight,
10 Enamel'd o'er with beauties white and red,
All sense and thoughts did to belief invite,

1. Heavenly (Latin). The title of Greville's poetic was its position in the sky from an observation sequence refers to one of three ladies he addresses point on Earth. When two heavenly bodies occu-in the poems; the others are Cynthia and Myra. They occupied approximately the same position, their aspects heavily influenced by Sidney's Astrophil and Stella were said to be "conjoined" or "in conjunction," a circumstance thought to exert a powerful influence ("the heaven's will") on mundane affairs as erotic ones.

("nature's story").

2. Greek and Roman god of the sun; here, the sun

4. I.e., the stars.

itself.

5. Calvinist theology held that salvation depended

3. As in astrology. The "aspect" of a star or planet not on human merit but on "election" by God.

O H , F O R A B O W L O F F A T C A N A R Y / 2 0 7

That love and glory there are brought to bed;

And your ripe year's love-noon; he goes no higher,⁶

Turns all the spirits of man into desire.

ca. 1580-1600 1633

J O H N L Y L Y

1554-1606

Cupid and My Campaspe¹

Cupid and my Campaspe played

At cards for kisses; Cupid paid.

He stakes his quiver, bow, and arrows,

His mother's doves and team of sparrows,

5 Loses them too; then down he throws
The coral of his lip, the rose Growing on 's cheek (but none knows how),
With these the crystal of his brow,
And then the dimple of his chin:
10 All these did my Campaspe win.
At last he set her both his eyes;
She won, and Cupid blind did rise.
Oh Love! has she done this to thee?
What shall (alas) become of me?

1632

Oh, For a Bowl of Fat Canary²
Oh, for a bowl of fat Canary,
Rich Palermo, sparkling Sherry,
Some nectar else, from Juno's dairy;³
Oh, these draughts would make us merry!
5 Oh, for a wench (I deal in faces,
And in other daintier things);
Tickled am I with her embraces,
Fine dancing in such fairy rings.⁴

6. I.e., your year or present age is love's noon; he and Manes) sing this song as they prepare to feast
(the morning sun) goes no higher.

at someone else's expense. Each boy sings one

1. This song appears in act 3, scene 5 of Lyly's play stanza, and all three sing the final verse. Fat Campaspe (published in 1584), which tells the Canary: well-bodied, light, sweet wine.

story of Alexander the Great's love for his Theban
3. Nectar: the drink of the gods, hence coming captive, Campaspe. Sung by Apelles, the painter from the "dairy" of Juno, queen of the gods in who falls in love with Campaspe while painting her Roman mythology. Palermo: a wine from Palermo, portrait, the song expresses his erotic frustration.
in Sicily.

Cupid: Roman god of erotic love; son of Venus,
4. Circles of grass, differing in color from the sur-goddess of love and beauty.

rounding grass; a phenomenon commonly sup-

2. Also from Campaspe (see note 1 above). In act posed to be caused by dancing fairies.

1, scene 2, three servant boys (Granichus, Psyllus,

208 / SIR PHILIP SIDNEY

Oh, for a plump fat leg of mutton,

10 Veal, lamb, capon, pig, and coney;⁵

None is happy but a glutton,

None an ass but who wants money.

Wines indeed and girls are good,

But brave victuals⁰ feast the blood; provisions, food

15 For wenches, wine, and lusty cheer,

Jove⁶ would leap down to surfeit here.

1640

SIR PHILIP SIDNEY

1554-1586

Ye Goatherd Gods¹

S T R E P H O N . 2 Ye goatherd gods, that love the grassy mountains, Ye nymphs which haunt the springs in pleasant valleys,

Ye satyrs³ joyed with free and quiet forests,

Vouchsafe your silent ears to plaining music,

5 Which to my woes gives still an early morning,

And draws the dolor on till weary evening.

KLAIUS. O Mercury, foregoer to the evening,

O heavenly huntress⁴ of the savage mountains,

O lovely star, entitled of the morning,

10 While that my voice doth fill these woeful valleys,

Vouchsafe your silent ears to plaining music,

Which oft hath Echo⁵ tired in secret forests.

S T R E P H O N . I, that was once free burgess⁰ of the forests, citizen Where shade from sun, and sport I sought in evening,

15 I, that was once esteemed for pleasant music,

Am banished now among the monstrous mountains

Of huge despair, and foul affliction's valleys,

Am grown a screech owl⁶ to myself each morning.

5. Rabbit. Capon: a castrated rooster, especially with the absent Urania, in Sidney's heroic romance one fattened for eating.

Arcadia, in which this poem appears.

6. Or Jupiter, chief Roman god.

3. In Greek mythology, woodland gods, usually

1. This poem is in the form of a double sestina, having the head and torso of a man and the lower two sets of six six-line stanzas, with a triplet con-body of a goat; commonly associated with merri-cluding the whole. The same six key words end the ment and lust. Nymphs: minor nature goddesses.

lines of each stanza; their order is always a per-
4. The goddess Diana, the moon. Mercury: the mutation of the order in the stanza just preceding:
evening star.

the pattern is 6 1 5 2 4 3, i.e., the last word of line
5. A nymph who was punished for her excessive
1 of any stanza is always the same as the last word talking by being deprived of her power of indepenof line 6 in the preceding stanza. Line 2 ends like dent speech; when she fell in love with the youth line 1 of the preceding stanza; line 3 like line 5; Narcissus, she could express her (unrequited) feel-line 4 like line 2; line 5 like line 4; and line 6 like ings only by echoing his words.

line 3. All six key words appear in the triplet in the 6. Named for the sound of its voice and considsame order as that of the first and seventh stanzas.
ered a bird of ill omen.

2. Strephon and Klaius are shepherds, both in love

Y E G O A T H E R D G O D S / 2 0 9

KLAIUS. I, that was once delighted every morning,

20 Hunting the wild inhabitants of forests,

I, that was once the music of these valleys,

So darkened am that all my day is evening,

Heartbroken so, that molehills seem high mountains

And fill the vales with cries instead of music.

25 S T R E P H O N . Long since, alas, my deadly swannish⁷
music

Hath made itself a crier of the morning,

And hath with wailing strength climbed highest mountains;

Long since my thoughts more desert be than forests,

Long since I see my joys come to their evening,

30 And state thrown down to overtrodden valleys.

KLAIUS. Long since the happy dwellers of these valleys

Have prayed me leave my strange exclaiming music,

Which troubles their day's work and joys of evening;

Long since I hate the night, more hate the morning;

35 Long since my thoughts chase me like beasts in forests,

And make me wish myself laid under mountains.

S T R E P H O N . Meseems⁰ I see the high and stately it seems to me mountains

Transform themselves to low dejected valleys;

Meseems I hear in these ill-changed forests

40 The nightingales do learn of owls their music;

Meseems I feel the comfort of the morning

Turned to the mortal serene⁸ of an evening.

KLAIUS.

Meseems I see a filthy cloudy evening

As soon as sun begins to climb the mountains;

45

Meseems I feel a noisome⁰ scent, the morning offensive

When I do smell the flowers of these valleys;

Meseems I hear, when I do hear sweet music,

The dreadful cries of murdered men in forests.

STREPHON. I wish to fire the trees of all these forests;

50 I give the sun a last farewell each evening;

I curse the fiddling finders-out of music;

With envy I do hate the lofty mountains,

And with despite despise the humble valleys;

I do detest night, evening, day, and morning.

55 KLAIUS. Curse to myself my prayer is, the morning;

My fire is more than can be made with forests,

My state more base than are the basest valleys.

I wish no evenings more to see, each evening;

Shamed, I hate myself in sight of mountains

60 And stop mine ears, lest I grow mad with music.

7. The swan was supposed to sing only just before 8. Damp evening air, thought to produce sickness it died. (mortal: deadly). The stress is on the first syllable.

210 / S I R P H I L I P S I D N E Y

STREPHON. For she whose parts maintained a perfect music,

Whose beauties shined more than the blushing morning,

Who much did pass⁹ in state the stately mountains,

In straightness passed the cedars of the forests,

65 Hath cast me, wretch, into eternal evening

By taking her two suns¹ from these dark valleys.

KLAIUS. For she, with whom compared, the Alps are valleys,

She, whose least word brings from the spheres their music,²

At whose approach the sun rose in the evening,

70 Who where she went bare⁰ in her forehead bore
morning,

Is gone, is gone, from these our spoiled forests,
Turning to deserts our best pastured mountains.

STREPHON. These mountains witness shall, so shall these valleys,

KLAIUS. These forests eke,^o made wretched by our music,
also

75 Our morning hymn this is, and song at evening.

1 5 7 7 - 8 3 1 5 9 3

What Length of Verse?³

What length of verse can serve brave⁰ Mopsa's good to show, splendid

Whose virtues strange, and beauties such, as no man them may know?

Thus shrewdly⁰ burden, then, how can my Muse⁴ escape?
severally

The gods must help, and precious things must serve to show her shape.

5 Like great god Saturn, fair, and like fair Venus, chaste;⁵

As smooth as Pan, as Juno mild, like goddess Iris fast.⁶

9. Surpass.

the meter, see Queen Elizabeth I, "The Doubt of

1. I.e., her eyes.

Future Foes Exiles My Present Joy" (p. 142).

2. Music of the spheres: a popular theory during

4. Source of poetic inspiration.

the period, based on the Pythagorean idea that the

5. This line initiates an inversion of classical gods' movement of the celestial bodies produced a musical harmony, inaudible to human ears.

unchaste; Cupid, blind; Vulcan, lame; and

3. This fourteen-line poem parodies the sonnet

Moinus, god of laughter and rebuke, censorious.

form and a number of conventions of pastoral love

6. Iris is goddess of the rainbow, the ephemeral poetry. Written in poulter's measure (see "Versifiquality of which leads us to interpret the adjective cation," p. 2047), the poem occurs early in the first spelled "faste" in several manuscripts as "fast"—

version of Sidney's pastoral romance, a version meaning "steadfast"—rather than as "faced." Wilknown now as the Old Arcadia. The poem is attributed to Alethes, whose name plays on a Greek word choose "faced," and Ringler attempts to make this meaning "truth" or "sincerity"; in his verses, Ale-choice work by emending "Iris" (the reading of all thes ironically praises "Mistress Mopsa," ugly manuscripts) to "Isis," an Egyptian goddess some-daughter of boorish rural parents. Mopsa's qualities are associated with those of the verse itself.

son for rejecting "Iris"—that she was "fast" in the

Although popular for much of the sixteenth cen-sense of speedy, and hence the line so read would tury, poulter's measure is here defined as anti-lose its irony—disappears if one reads “fast” as quoted and “vulgar.” For a different perspective on “steadfast.”

THE NIGHTINGALE / 211

With Cupid she foresees, and goes⁰ god Vulcan's pace; walks with

And for a taste of all these gifts, she borrows Momus' grace.

Her forehead jacinth-like, her cheeks of opal⁷ hue,

¹⁰ Her twinkling eyes bedecked with pearl, her lips of sapphire blue,

Her hair pure crapall stone,⁸ her mouth, O heavenly wide,

Her skin like burnished gold, her hands like silver ore untried.

As for those parts unknown, which hidden sure are best,

Happy be they which will believe, and never seek the rest.

ca. 1580 1593

The Nightingale⁹

The nightingale, as soon as April bringeth

Unto her rested sense a perfect waking,

While late⁰ bare earth, proud of new clothing, springeth, recently

Sings out her woes, a thorn her song-book making,

⁵ And mournfully bewailing,

Her throat in tunes expresseth

What grief her breast oppresseth

For Tereus' force on her chaste will prevailing.

O Philomela fair, O take some gladness,

¹⁰ That here is juster cause of plaintful sadness:

Thine earth now springs, mine fadeth;

Thy thorn without, my thorn my heart invadeth.
Alas, she hath no other cause of anguish
But Tereus' love, on her by strong hand wroken,¹
15 Wherein she suffering, all her spirits languish;
Full womanlike complains her will was broken.
But I, who daily craving,
Cannot have to content me,
Have more cause to lament me,
20 Since wanting is more woe than too much having.
O Philomela fair, O take some gladness,
That here is juster cause of plaintful sadness:
Thine earth now springs, mine fadeth;
Thy thorn without, my thorn my heart invadeth.
ca. 1581 1598

7. Many-colored. Jacinth-like: yellow, reddish law, Tereus, who then tore out her tongue so that orange, or blue.

she could not reveal his crime. She wove the story

8. With a pun on crap, the line refers to cheloni- in a tapestry and sent it to her sister, who rescued
tis—according to bestiaries, a stone in the head her. She was later changed into a nightingale while of a frog. The stone was described as green or in flight from Tereus. Sidney follows the version in tortoise-shell colored.

Ovid, Metamorphoses 6.424 ff.

9. Philomela, the nightingale, who sings a mourn-

1. Old past participle of wreak, “to urge or force ful song in the springtime. According to classical upon.”

mythology, Philomela was raped by her brother-in-

2 1 2 / S I R P H I L I P S I D N E Y

Ring Out Your Bells

Ring out your bells, let mourning shows be spread,

For Love is dead.

All Love is dead, infected

With plague of deep disdain;

5 Worth as naught worth rejected,

And Faith fair scorn² doth gain.

From so ungrateful fancy,

From such a female franzy,⁰ frenzy

From them that use men thus,

10 Good Lord, deliver us!

Weep, neighbors, weep; do you not hear it said

That Love is dead?

His deathbed peacock's folly,³

His winding sheet⁴ is shame,

15 His will false-seeming holy,

His sole exec'tor blame.

From so ungrateful fancy, ...

Let dirge be sung and trentals⁵ rightly read,

For Love is dead.

20 Sir Wrong his tomb ordaineth

My mistress, marble heart,

Which epitaph containeth,

“Her eyes were once his dart.”

From so ungrateful fancy, ...

25 Alas, I lie, rage hath this error bred;

Love is not dead.

Love is not dead, but sleepeth

In her unmatched mind,

Where she his counsel keepeth,

30 Till due desert⁰ she find. reward

Therefore from so vile fancy,

To call such wit a franzy,

Who Love can temper thus,

Good Lord, deliver us!

ca. 1 5 8 1 1 5 9 8

2. I.e., scorn from a fair lady.

5. A series of thirty Masses for the dead, designed

3. I.e., ostentatious pride, as peacocks were a symbol to mitigate the pains of purgatory; in Sidney's day, bol of pride.

no longer accepted as a service by the Church of

4. His shroud.

England.

ASTROPHIL AND STELLA : SEVENTH SON
G / 2 1 3

*FROM ASTROPHIL AND STELLA*⁶

1

Loving in truth, and fain⁰ in verse my love to show, eager

That she dear she might take some pleasure of my pain,

Pleasure might cause her read, reading might make her know,

Knowledge might pity win, and pity grace obtain,

5 I sought fit words to paint the blackest face of woe:
Studying inventions⁷ fine, her wits to entertain,
Oft turning others' leaves, to see if thence would flow
Some fresh and fruitful showers upon my sunburned brain.
But words came halting forth, wanting Invention's stay;⁰ support
10 Invention, Nature's child, fled stepdame Study's blows;
And others' feet⁸ still seemed but strangers in my way.
Thus, great with child to speak, and helpless in my throes,⁹ Biting my truant pen, beating myself for spite:
"Fool," said my Muse¹ to me, "look in thy heart, and write."

14

Alas, have I not pain enough, my friend,
Upon whose breast a fiercer gripe⁰ doth tire⁰ vulture / tear
Than did on him who first stale⁰ down the fire, stole
While Love² on me doth all his quiver spend,
5 But with your rhubarb⁰ words you must contend cynical
To grieve me worse, in saying that Desire
Doth plunge my well-formed soul even in the mire
Of sinful thoughts, which do in ruin end?
If that be sin which doth the manners frame,³
10 Well stayed⁰ with truth in word and faith of deed, supported
Ready of wit, and fearing naught but shame;
If that be sin which in fixed hearts doth breed
A loathing of all loose unchastity,
Then love is sin, and let me sinful be.

6. Starlover and Star (Latin). The first of the great imagination.

Elizabethan sonnet cycles that relied heavily on the
8. With a pun on the units of poetic measure conventions developed by the Italian poet Petrarch (called feet).

(1304-1374), Astrophil and Stella has 108 sonnets

9. I.e., birth-throes.

and eleven songs. The sequence alludes to Sidney's

1. Source of poetic inspiration.

ambiguous relationship with Penelope Devereux,

2. Cupid, Roman god of erotic love. Him ...fire:

who married Lord Robert Rich in 1581. It was cir-

In Greek mythology, Prometheus, for having stolen

culated in manuscript form during Sidney's life-fire for man's benefit, was chained to a rock and time.

preyed upon daily by a vulture that tore at his vitals.

7. In art and literary composition, the devising of

3. Which builds character (manners: morals).

a subject or idea by the exercise of the intellect or

2 1 4 / S I R P H I L I P S I D N E Y

2 1 4

Your words my friend (right healthful caustics⁵) blame

My young mind marred, whom Love doth windlass⁰ so, ensnare

That mine own writings like bad servants show

My wits, quick in vain thoughts, in virtue lame,

5 That Plato I read for nought, but i f ⁰ he tame unless

Such coltish gyres,⁶ that to my birth I owe

Nobler desires, lest else that friendly foe, lest
Great expectation,⁷ wear a train of shame.
For since mad March great promise made of me,
10 If now the May of my years much decline,
What can be hoped my harvest time will be?
Sure you say well, your wisdom's golden mine
Dig deep with learning's spade, now tell me this,
Hath this world ought so fair as Stella is? anything
25

The wisest scholar of the wight most wise creature
By Phoebus' doom,⁸ with sugared sentence says
That Virtue, if it once met with our eyes,
Strange flames of love it in our souls would raise;
5 But, for that man with pain this truth describes,⁹
While he each thing in sense's balance weighs,
And so nor will nor can behold those skies
Which inward sun to heroic mind displays,
Virtue of late, with virtuous care to stir 10 Love of herself, takes Stella's shape, that she
To mortal eyes might sweetly shine in her.²
It is most true, for since I her did see,
Virtue's great beauty in that face I prove,⁰ experience
And find th'effect, for I do burn in love.

31

With how sad steps, Oh Moon, thou climb'st the skies,
How silently, and with how wan a face!
What may it be, that even in heav'nly place
4. One of several sonnets addressed to a friend—the eldest son in a rich and powerful aristocratic perhaps the English poet Fulke Greville (1554— family.

1628; see pp. 206—07)—who takes a skeptical view

8. Judgment. The “wight most wise” was Socrates, of the poet’s love.

so called by the oracle of Apollo (Phoebus) at Del-

5. Medicines used for burning away diseased tis-phi. His “wisest scholar,” or pupil, was Plato, who sue.

(in Phaedrus 250D) provides the basis for lines 3—

6. Youthful gyrations; cf. Plato, Phaedrus 254, 8.

where the charioteer Reason reins in the horses of

9. Discovers or perceives. For that: because.

Passion.

1. I.e., Virtue.

7. Hope of prestigious public employment and/or

2. I.e., Stella.

recognition. Birth: position in society; Sidney was

A S T R O P H I L A N D S T E L L A : S E V E N T H S O N
G / 2 1 5

That busy archer³ his sharp arrows tries?

5 Sure, if that long-with-love-acquainted eyes

Can judge of love, thou feel’st a lover’s case;

I read it in thy looks: thy languished grace,

To me that feel the like, thy state descries.⁰ reveals

Then even of fellowship, Oh Moon, tell me,

10 Is constant love deemed there but want of wit?
Are beauties there as proud as here they be?
Do they above love to be loved, and yet
Those lovers scorn whom that love doth possess?
Do they call virtue there ungratefulness?⁴

39

Come sleep, Oh sleep, the certain knot of peace,
The baiting place⁵ of wit, the balm of woe,
The poor man's wealth, the prisoner's release,
Th'indifferent⁰ judge between the high and low; impartial 5 With shield of proof⁶ shield me from out the prease⁰ press, multitude

Of those fierce darts Despair at me doth throw;
Oh make in me⁷ those civil wars to cease;
I will good tribute pay, if thou do so.
Take thou of me smooth pillows, sweetest bed,
10 A chamber deaf to noise and blind to light,
A rosy garland and a weary head;
And if these things, as being thine by right,
Move not thy heavy grace, thou shalt in me,
Livelier⁰ than elsewhere, Stella's image see. more lifelike

47

What, have I thus betrayed my liberty?
Can those black beams such burning marks⁸ engrave
In my free side? or am I born a slave,
Whose neck becomes⁰ such yoke of tyranny? befits
5 Or want I sense to feel my misery?
Or sprite,⁰ disdain of such disdain to have? spirit

Who for long faith, though daily help I crave,
May get no alms but scorn of beggary.
Virtue, awake! Beauty but beauty is;
10 I may, I must, I can, I will, I do
Leave following that which it is gain to miss.
Let her go. Soft, but here she comes. Go to,
Unkind, I love you not! O me, that eye
Doth make my heart give to my tongue the lie!

3. I.e., Cupid.

6. Of proven strength.

4. I.e., do they give the name of virtue to ungrate-

7. The speaker is offering these things to Sleep as fulness?

a tribute.

5. Resting place on a journey.

8. Brands; i.e., disdainful looks from his lover.

/ S I R P H I L I P S I D N E Y

214

Soul's joy, bend not those morning stars⁰ from me, Stella's
eyes

Where virtue is made strong by beauty's might,
Where love is chasteness, pain doth learn delight,
And humbleness grows one with majesty.

5 Whatever may ensue, O let me be

Co-partner of the riches of that sight;

Let not mine eyes be hell-driv'n^o from that light; driven to hell

O look, O shine, O let me die and see.

For though I oft my self of them bemoan,

10 That through my heart their beamy darts be gone,
Whose cureless wounds even now most freshly bleed,
Yet since my death wound is already got,
Dear⁹ killer, spare not thy sweet cruel shot;
A kind of grace it is to slay with speed.

49

I on my horse, and Love on me, doth try
Our horsemanships, while by strange work I prove
A horseman to my horse, a horse to Love,
And now man's wrongs in me, poor beast, descry.⁰ discern

5 The reins wherewith my rider doth me tie
Are humbled thoughts, which bit of reverence move,
Curbed¹ in with fear, but with gilt boss above
Of hope, which makes it seem fair to the eye.
The wand⁰ is will; thou, fancy, saddle art, whip
10 Girt fast by memory; and while I spur
My horse, he spurs with sharp desire my heart;
He sits me fast, however I do stir;
And now hath made me to his hand so right
That in the manage² myself takes delight.

52

A strife is grown between Virtue and Love,
While each pretends⁰ that Stella must be his: claims
Her eyes, her lips, her all, saith Love, do this,
Since they do wear his badge,³ most firmly prove.

5 But Virtue thus that title doth disprove,
That Stella (O dear name) that Stella is
That virtuous soul, sure heir of heav'nly bliss;

9. With a pun on dear and deer.
2. The schooling or handling of a horse.
1. The curb is a short chain or strap connecting
3. Clothing or device worn to identify someone's the upper branches of the bit and ornamented, in (here, Cupid's) servants.

this case, with a metal "boss" or decorative stud.

A S T R O P H I L A N D S T E L L A : S E V E N T H S O N
G / 2 1 7

Not this fair outside, which our hearts doth move.

And therefore, though her beauty and her grace

10 Be Love's indeed, in Stella's self he may

By no pretense claim any manner⁰ place. kind of

Well, Love, since this demur⁰ our suit doth Stay, objection / detain Let Virtue have that Stella's self; yet thus,

That Virtue but that body grant to us.

63

0 Grammar rules, o now your virtues show;

So children still read you with awful⁰ eyes, awed

As my young Dove may in your precepts wise

Her grant to me, by her own virtue know.

5 For late with heart most high, with eyes most low,

1 crav'd the thing which ever she denies:

She lightning Love, displaying Venus' skies,⁴

Least once should not be heard, twice said, No, No.

Sing then my Muse, now lo Pean⁵ sing,

10 Heav'ns envy not at my high triumphing:

But Grammar's force with sweet success confirme,

For Grammar says (o this deare Stella weigh,)

For Grammar says (to Grammar who says nay)
That in one speech two Negatives affirm.⁶

71

Who will in fairest book of Nature know
How virtue may best lodged in beauty be,
Let him but learn of love to read in thee,
Stella, those fair lines which true goodness show.

5 There shall he find all vices' overthrow,
Not by rude force, but sweetest sovereignty
Of reason, from whose light those night birds fly,
That inward sun in thine eyes shineth so.

And, not content to be perfection's heir
io Thyself, dost strive all minds that way to move,
Who mark in thee what is in thee most fair.
So while thy beauty draws the heart to love,
As fast thy virtue bends that love to good.

"But ah," Desire still cries, "give me some food."

4. Venus is the Roman goddess of love and beauty.
pursued love. Muse: source of poetic inspiration.

Some editors modernize "lightning" as "lighten-

6. In several of the preceding sonnets, Stella has ing," a present participle parallel to "displaying," engaged in scholastic disputation; the poet's rea-but one can also read the word as a noun comparsoning here is sophistic, since the lady's double ing Stella to lightning that "displays" the night sky.

"no" is emphatic rather than a grammatical double

5. A hymn of thanksgiving for victory. Ovid uses negative signifying “yes”—as it did in Latin, but not this phrase in the opening of the second book of in Elizabethan English.

the Ars Amatoria to celebrate success with a long-218

/SIRPHILIPSIDNEY

214

Desire, though thou my old companion art,
And oft so clings to my pure Love that I
One from the other scarcely can descry,⁰ distinguish
While each doth blow the fire of my heart,
5 Now from thy fellowship I needs must part;
Venus is taught with Dian's⁷ wings to fly;
I must no more in thy sweet passions lie;
Virtue's gold now must head my Cupid's dart.
Service and honor, wonder with delight,
10 Fear to offend, will worthy to appear,⁸
Care shining in mine eyes, faith in my sprite:⁰ spirit
These things are let me by my only dear;
But thou, Desire, because thou wouldst have all,
Now banished art. But yet alas how shall?

Fourth Song

Only joy, now here you are,
Fit to hear and ease my care;
Let my whispering voice obtain,
Sweet reward for sharpest pain;
5 Take me to thee, and thee to me.
*No, no, no, no, my dear, let be.*⁹

Night hath closed all in her cloak,
Twinkling stars love-thoughts provoke:
Danger hence good care doth keep,
10 Jealousy itself doth sleep;
Take me to thee, and thee to me.

No, no, no, no, my dear, let be.

Better place no wit can find,
Cupid's¹ yoke to loose or bind:

15 These sweet flowers on fine bed too,
Us in their best language woo;
Take me to thee, and thee to me.

No, no, no, no, my dear, let be.

This small light the moon bestows,
20 Serves thy beams but to disclose,
So to raise my hap⁰ more high; chances
Fear not else, none can us spy:
Take me to thee, and thee to me.

No, no, no, no, my dear, let be.

7. Diana, Roman goddess of the moon and patron
(i.e., not shameful).”

of chastity. Venus, goddess of love and beauty;

9. Stella's "reply" to Astrophil occurs after each mother of Cupid, god of erotic love.

stanza and becomes the refrain.

8. The phrase can mean alternately "the desire to

1. Roman god of erotic love.

appear worthy" or "desire that is worthy to appear

ASTROPHIL AND STELLA : SEVENTH SON
G / 2 1 9

25 That⁰ you heard was but a mouse, what

Dumb sleep holdeth all the house;

Yet asleep, methinks they say,

Young folks, take time while you may:²

Take me to thee, and thee to me.

30 No, no, no, no, my dear, let be.

Niggard⁰ Time threats, if we miss miserly

This large offer of our bliss,

Long stay⁰ ere he grant the same; wait

Sweet then, while each thing doth frame,⁰ serve

35 Take me to thee, and thee to me.

No, no, no, no, my dear, let be.

Your fair mother is abed,

Candles out, and curtains spread:

She thinks you do letters write.

40 Write, but first let me indite:⁰ dictate

Take me to thee and thee to me.

No, no, no, no, my dear, let be.

Sweet, alas, why strive you thus?

Concord better fitteth us:

45 Leave to Mars³ the force of hands,

Your power in your beauty stands;

Take me to thee, and thee to me.

No, no, no, no, my dear, let be.

Woe to me, and do you swear

50 Me to hate, but I forbear,

Cursed be my destinies all
That brought me so high to fall:
Soon with my death I will please thee.

No, no, no, no, my dear, let be.

Seventh Song

Whose senses in so evil consort,⁴ their stepdame Nature lays,
That ravishing delight in them most sweet tunes do not raise;
Or if they do delight therein, yet are so cloyed⁰ with wit, sated, burdened As with sententious⁰ lips to set a title vain on it: full of maxims

5 O let them hear these sacred tunes, and learn in wonder's schools,

To be (in things past bounds of wit) fools, if they be not fools.⁵

Who have so leaden eyes, as not to see sweet beauty's show,
Or seeing, have so wooden⁰ wits, as not that worth to know;
dull

Or knowing, have so muddy minds, as not to be in love;

2. An allusion to the traditional carpe diem (Latin,

5. I.e., the music will teach them (if they are not “seize the day”) motif of seduction lyrics.

fools) that, in things that are beyond the limita-

3. Roman god of war.

tions of reason and intellect (“wit”), they are defi-

4. Company; accord, agreement.

cient in understanding (“fools”).

2 2 0 / S I R P H I L I P S I D N E Y

IO Or loving, have so frothy⁰ thoughts, as eas'ly thence to shallow, trifling move:

Or let them see these heavenly beams, and in fair letters read

A lesson fit, both sight and skill, love and firm love to breed.
Hear then, but then with wonder hear; see but adoring see,
No mortal gifts, no earthly fruits, now here descended be;
15 See, do you see this face? a face? nay, image of the skies,
Of which the two life-giving lights⁶ are figured in her eyes:
Hear you this soul-invading voice, and count it but a voice?
The very essence of their tunes, when Angels do rejoice.

90

Stella, think not that I by verse seek fame,
Who seek, who hope, who love, who live but thee;
Thine eyes my pride, thy lips my history;
If thou praise not, all other praise is shame.
5 Nor so ambitious am I, as to frame
A nest for my young praise in laurel tree:⁷
In truth I swear, I wish not there should be Graved in mine epitaph a Poet's name:
Nay if I would, could I just title make,
io That any laud^o to me thereof should grow, praise
Without^o my plumes from others' wings I take. unless
For nothing from my wit or will doth flow,
Since all my words thy beauty doth endite,⁸
And love doth hold my hand, and makes me write.

107

Stella, since thou so right a princess art
Of all the powers which life bestows on me,
That ere by them aught^o undertaken be anything
They first resort unto that sovereign part;
5 Sweet, for a while give respite to my heart,

Which pants as though it still should leap to thee,
And on my thoughts give thy lieutenancy
To⁹ this great cause, which needs both use⁰ and art, experience

And as a queen, who from her presence sends io Whom she employs, dismiss from thee my wit,
Till it have wrought what thy own will attends.¹
On servants' shame oft master's blame doth sit.
Oh let not fools in me thy works reprove,
And scorning say, "See what it is to love."

ca. 1582

1591

6. I.e., the sun and the moon.

9. I.e., delegate your authority to my thoughts so

7. The laurel symbolized poetic achievement.
that they may pursue.

8. A variation of both indict (to proclaim) and

1. Is concerned about.

indite (to inscribe or give literary form to).

221

G E O R G E P E E L E

1557-1596

His Golden Locks Time Hath to Silver Turned¹

His golden locks time hath to silver turned;

Oh, time too swift, oh, swiftness never ceasing!

His youth 'gainst time and age hath ever spurned.⁰ kicked

But spurned in vain; youth waneth by increasing.

5 Beauty, strength, youth, are flowers but fading seen;

Duty, faith, love, are roots, and ever green.
His helmet now shall make a hive for bees,
And lover's sonnets turned to holy psalms,
A man-at-arms must now serve on his knees,
10 And feed on prayers, which are age his² alms;
But though from court to cottage he depart,
His saint³ is sure of his unspotted heart.
And when he saddest sits in homely cell,
He'll teach his swains⁰ this carol for a song: followers
15 Blest be the hearts that wish my sovereign well,
Cursed be the souls that think her any wrong!
Goddess, allow this aged man his right,
To be your beadsman⁴ now, that was your knight.

1590

Hot Sun, Cool Fire

Hot sun, cool fire, tempered with sweet air,
Black shade, fair nurse, shadow my white hair.
Shine, sun; burn, fire; breathe, air, and ease me;
Black shade, fair nurse, shroud me and please me.
5 Shadow, my sweet nurse, keep me from burning;
Make not my glad cause cause of mourning.
Let not my beauty's fire
Inflame unstaid desire,
Nor pierce any bright eye
10 That wandereth lightly.

1599

1. This poem refers to Sir Henry Lee, for years
2. Age his: age's.

Queen Elizabeth I's champion in courtly jousts or
3. Seems to refer to Queen Elizabeth, as does contests of arms. At sixty, too old to take part in "Goddess" in line 17.

the queen's birthday tournament of 1590, he
4. One who offers prayers for the soul of another.
retired in favor of a younger man.

2 2 2

T H O M A S L O D G E

1558-1625

Rosalind's Madrigal

Love in my bosom like a bee

Doth suck his sweet;

Now with his wings he plays with me,

Now with his feet.

5 Within mine eyes he makes his nest,

His bed amidst my tender breast;

My kisses are his daily feast,

And yet he robs me of my rest.

Ah, wanton, will ye?

io And if I sleep, then percheth he

With pretty flight,

And makes his pillow of my knee

The livelong night.

Strike I my lute, he tunes the string;

15 He music plays if so I sing;

He lends me every lovely thing;

Yet cruel he my heart doth sting.

Whist,0 wanton, still ye! be silent
Else I with roses every day
20 Will whip you hence,
And bind you, when you long to play,
For your offense.
I'll shut mine eyes to keep you in,
I'll make you fast it for your sin,
25 I'll count your power not worth a pin.
Alas! what hereby shall I win
If he gainsay me?
What if I beat the wanton boy
With many a rod?
30 He will repay me with annoy,
Because a god.
Then sit thou safely on my knee,
And let thy bower0 my bosom be;
shelter
Lurk in mine eyes, I like of thee.
35 O Cupid, so thou pity me,2
Spare not, but play thee!

1 5 9 0

1. Madrigal: a short lyrical poem, usually about 2. I.e., as long as you show me some pity. Cupid: love, suitable for a musical setting; a song. Roman god of erotic love.

2 2 3

ROBERT SOUTHWELL

ca. 1561-1595

The Burning Babe

As I in hoary winter's night stood shivering in the snow,

Surprised I was with sudden heat which made my heart to glow;

And lifting up a fearful eye to view what fire was near,

A pretty babe all burning bright did in the air appear;

5 Who, scorched with excessive heat, such floods of tears did shed

As though his floods should quench his flames which with his tears were fed.

“Alas,” quoth he, “but newly born in fiery heats I fry,

Yet none approach to warm their hearts or feel my fire but I!

My faultless breast the furnace is, the fuel wounding thorns, io Love is the fire, and sighs the smoke, the ashes shame and scorns; The fuel justice layeth on, and mercy blows the coals,

The metal in this furnace wrought are men’s defiled souls,

For which, as now on fire I am to work them to their good,

So will I melt into a bath to wash them in my blood.”

is With this he vanished out of sight and swiftly shrunk away,

And straight^o I called unto mind that it was Christmas day.

straightaway 1602

New Heaven, New War

Come to your heaven, you heavenly choirs,

Earth hath the heaven of your desires.

Remove your dwelling to your God;

A stall^o is now his best abode.

stable

5 Sith^o men their homage do deny,

since

Come, angels, all their fault supply.

His chilling cold doth heat require;

Come, seraphins,¹ in lieu of fire.

This little ark no cover hath;

io Let cherubs' wings his body swathe.⁰

enwrap

Come, Raphael,² this babe must eat;

Provide our little Toby meat.

1. Seraphs and cherubs (line 10) were generally and protector of Tobias in the book of Tobit (one understood to be orders among the angels, derived of the apocryphal books of the Hebrew Scriptures), in Christian theology from Hebrew Scripture. Gabriel (line 13) and Michael (line 15) are also 2. One of the seven archangels, the companion archangels.

2 2 4 / R O B E R T S O U T H W E L L

Let Gabriel be now his groom,

That first took up his earthly room.

15 Let Michael stand in his defense,

W h o m love hath linked to feeble sense.

Let graces rock when he doth cry,

And angels sing his lullaby.

The same you saw in heavenly seat

20 Is he that now sucks Mary's teat;

Agnize⁰ your king a mortal wight,⁰ acknowledge / person

His borrowed weed⁰ lets⁰ not your sight. clothing / hinders

Come, kiss the manger where he lies,

That is your bliss above the skies.

25

This little babe, so few days old,

Is come to rifle Satan's fold;

All hell doth at his presence quake,

Though he himself for cold do shake,

For in this weak unarmed Wise manner

30

The gates of hell he will surprise.
With tears he fights and wins the field;
His naked breast stands for a shield;
His battering shot are babish cries,
His arrows looks of weeping eyes,
35 His martial ensigns cold and need,
And feeble flesh his warrior's steed.
His camp is pitched in a stall,
His bulwark but a broken wall,
The crib his trench, hay stalks his stakes,
40 Of shepherds he his muster³ makes;
And thus, as sure his foe to wound,
The angels' trumps⁰ alarum sound.

trumpets

My soul, with Christ join thou in fight;
Stick to the tents that he hath pight;⁰

pitched

45 Within his crib is surest ward,⁰ protection

This little babe will be thy guard.
If thou wilt foil thy foes with joy,
Then flit not from this heavenly boy.

1602

3. An assembly of troops for inspection.

225

MARY SIDNEY

1561-1621

Psalm 58: Si Vere Utique 1

And call ye this to utter what is just,

You that of justice hold the sov' reign throne?

And call ye this to yield, O sons of dust,

To wronged brethren ev'ry man his own?

5 O no: it is your long malicious will

Now to the world to make by practice known,

With whose oppression you the balance fill,

Just to your selves, indiff'rent⁰ else to none.² impartial

But what could they, who ev'n in birth declined,³ io From truth and right to lies and injuries?

To show the venom of their cankred⁰ mind corrupt, malignant

The adder's image scarcely can suffice;

Nay scarce the aspic⁰ may with them contend, asp

On whom the charmer all in vain applies

15 His skillfull'st spells: ay^o missing of his end, always

While she self-deaf, and unaffected lies.⁴

Lord crack their teeth, Lord crush these lion's jaws,

So let them sink as water in the sand:

When deadly bow their aiming fury draws,

20 Shiver⁰ the shaft ere past the shooter's hand. shatter

So make them melt as the dishoused snail

Or as the embryo, whose vital band

Breaks ere it holds,⁵ and formless eyes do fail

To see the sun, though brought to lightful land.

25 O let their brood, a brood of springing thorns,

Be by untimely rooting overthrown⁶

Ere bushes waxt,^o they push with pricking horns, grew
As fruits yet green are oft by tempest blown.⁷

The good with gladness this revenge shall see,

1. If, indeed, it is true (Latin). Frequently the she stops her ears.

Latin titles for Psalms were taken from the Psalm's

5. A reference to premature birth.

first line in the Vulgate version of the Bible. How-

6. The Hebrew original here is problematic and ever, in this case the first line in the Vulgate is hinges on the translation of an ambiguous word,

Numquid vere ("Is it true?"). Mary Sidney probably sir, which can mean "pot" or "thorns." The verse derived her title from one of the French or English has thus been rendered in a variety of ways, includ-

Psalms she imitated. Cf. the versions of this Psalm ing: "Sooner than your poets can feel the heat of

and the next one from The Massachusetts Bay

thorns, whether green or ablaze, may he sweep

Psalm Book (pp. 391-93), by Isaac Watts them away" (Revised Standard Version) and,

(pp. 592-94), and by Christopher Smart (pp. 684 -

"Before your thorns have ripened on the thorn-86).

bush, a wrath will tear them out while they are still

2. I.e., now to make known to the world, through green" (Luther). Luther interpreted the "thorns" as continual repetition, with whose oppression you the Jews.

fill the balance, being just to yourselves, but impar-

7. I.e., before the bushes have fully grown, they tial to no one else.

[already] begin to grow thorns, and, as still unripe

3. I.e., but what else could they do, those who fruits, are often blown by the tempest. A further from birth turned aside?

elaboration of the images of the thorns in the lines

4. The snake is “unaffected” by the snake above.

charmer’s music because she is “self-deaf,” i.e.,

226 / MARY SIDNEY

30 And bathe his feet in blood of wicked one

While all shall say: the just rewarded be,

There is a God that carves to each his own.⁸

ca. 1588-99 1823

Psalm 114: *In Exitu Israel*⁹

At what time Jacob’s race did leave of Egypt take,

And Egypt’s barbarous folk forsake:

Then, then our God, our king, elected Jacob’s race

His temple there and throne to place.

5 The sea beheld and fled: Jordan¹ with swift return

To twinned spring his² streams did turn.

The mountains bounded so, as, fed in fruitful ground,

The fleeced rams do frisking bound.

The hillocks capreol¹ so, as wanton by their dams

10 We capreol see^o the lusty lambs. to see

O sea, why didst thou fly? Jordan, with swift return
To twinned spring, what made thee turn?
Mountains, why bounded ye, as, fed in fruitful
The fleeced rams do frisking bound?
is Hillocks why capreold ye, as wanton by their dams
We capreol see the lusty lambs?
Nay you, and Earth with you, quake ever at the sight
Of God Jehovah, Jacob's might,
Who in the hardest rocks makes standing waters grow
20 And purling⁰ springs from flints to flow. ri-ppling
ca. 1588-99 1823

To the Thrice-Sacred Queen Elizabeth⁴

i

Even now that care,^o which on thy crown attends burden
And with thy happy⁰ greatness daily grows, fortunate
Tells me, thrice-sacred Queen, my muse⁵ offends,
And of respect to thee the line out goes.⁶

8. I.e., the good person is glad to see the wicked unique manuscript copy, was probably prepared overthrown in this manner, and bathes his feet in for a presentation volume to be given to the queen the blood of the wicked one, who has been (1553 - 1603 ; see pp. 142—43) when she visited the destroyed before he has come to fruition. Seeing Sidney home in 1599. The expected visit did not this, everyone will recognize that the just are occur. Sir Philip Sidney had been exiled from court rewarded and that God gives each person what he

after incurring Elizabeth's disfavor by counseling deserves.

against a marriage with the duke of Anjou; fur-

9. A famous Psalm about the Israelites' departure thermore, the Sidneys, devoted to the cause of from Egypt.

Protestantism, felt that the queen should adopt a

1. River in Palestine that empties into the Dead more aggressive policy in support of Protestant fac-Sea.

tions on the continent (especially the Nether-

2. I.e., the river Jordan's.

lands). Thrice: to a high degree.

3. Capered, i.e., leaped or skipped.

5. Source of poetic inspiration.

4. This is a dedicatory poem originally prefixed to

6. Ambiguous syntax; possibly: from respect to you a translation of the Psalms of David, begun by (and the demands that your royal duties place on Mary Sidney's brother Sir Philip Sidney (1554—your time), my poetry ("the line") should be thrown 1586; see pp. 208—20) and completed by Mary out (as unworthy of your attention).

after Philip's death. The poem, preserved in a

T O T H E T H R I C E - S A C R E D Q U E E N E L I Z A B
E T H / 2 2 7

5 One instant will or willing can she lose⁷

I say not reading, but receiving rhymes,

On whom in chief dependeth to dispose⁰ settle

What Europe acts in these most active times?

2

Yet dare I so, as humbleness may dare,

io Cherish some hope they⁰ shall acceptance find; the poems

Not weighing less thy state, lighter thy care,

But knowing more thy grace, abler thy mind.⁸

What heavenly powers thee highest throne assigned,

Assigned thee goodness suiting that degree,⁰ position or rank

is And by thy strength thy burthen so defined,

To others toil, is exercise to thee.⁹

3

Cares, though still⁰ great, cannot be greatest still, always

Business must ebb, though leisure never flow;

Then these the posts¹ of duty and goodwill

²⁰ Shall press⁰ to offer what their senders owe, hurry

Which once in two, now in one subject go,²

The poorer left, the richer reft^o away, stolen

Who better might (O might, ah word of woe)

Have given for me what I for him defray.⁰ pay

4

²⁵ How can I name whom sighing signs extend,³

And not unstop my tears' eternal spring?

But he did warp, I weaved this web to end;⁴

The stuff⁵ not ours, our work no curious⁰ thing, novel or ingenious

Wherein yet well we thought the Psalmist King⁶

³⁰ Now English denized, though Hebrew born,⁷

Would to thy music undispleas'd sing,
Oft having worse, without repining, worn;⁸

5

And I the cloth⁰ in both our names present, poems
A livery robe⁹ to be bestowed by thee;

7. I.e., will she, or can she willingly, lose one threads on a loom run lengthwise and are set first;
instant?

the woof threads are then woven crosswise through

8. I.e., not because I judge your status or respon-them.

sibilities to be less than they are, but because I

5. Raw material (i.e., the Hebrew Scriptures).

know how great is your grace and how able your

6. King David, the second king of Israel, believed mind.

to have written many of the Psalms of the Bible.

9. I.e., your "burthen" is defined according to your

7. I.e., admitted to English citizenship, though strength, such that what would be burdensome born a Hebrew.

labor to others is mere "exercise," i.e., customary

8. I.e., often having worn worse (than "thy music," practice, to you.

i.e., the English language) without complaining

1. Postmen or letter carriers, here referring to the ("repining"); "worse" probably refers to translations poems that convey the poet's "duty" and "goodwill"

of the Psalms in other languages; these two lines to the queen.

might also refer to David's service, as a youth, to

2. Sir Philip Sidney wrote the first forty-three the tyrant Saul, whom David often soothed with translations (of 150 Psalms); the rest are Mary's.
his singing.

Philip died in 1586 fighting for the Protestant

9. A suit of clothes bestowed by a noble upon his cause in the Netherlands.

male retainers by which they may be recognized as

3. I.e., how can I name him (Philip Sidney) whose his servants. Sidney seems to be saying that she memory is extended by "sighing signs" (i.e., the presents the poems to Elizabeth, who will then give signs of grief)?

them a "livery robe" as a sign that they are her

4. To completion. In clothmaking, the warp servants.

2 2 8 / M A R Y S I D N E Y

35 Small parcel of that undischarged⁰ rent, unpaid

From which nor⁰ pains nor payments can us free. neither

And yet enough to cause our neighbors see

We will⁰ our best, though scant⁰ in our will; attempt / limited

And those nigh⁰ fields where sown thy favors be nearby

40 Unwealthy do, not else unworthy, till.¹

For in our work what bring we but thine own?

What English is, by many names is thine,

There humble laurels² in thy shadows grown

To garland others would themselves repine.³

45 Thy breast the cabinet,⁰ thy seat⁴ the shrine, small room

Where muses hang their vowed⁰ memories; consecrated

Where wit, where art, where all that is divine

Conceived best, and best defended lies.

7

Which if men did not (as they do) confess,⁵

50 And wronging worlds would otherwise consent,

Yet here who minds so meet a patroness⁶

For authors' state⁰ or writings' argument?⁰ financial condition / subject A King should only to a Queen be sent;

God's loved choice unto his chosen love;

55 Devotion to devotion's president;⁷

What all applaud, to her whom none reprove.

8

And who sees ought,⁰ but sees how justly square⁰ anything / correspond

His haughty⁰ ditties⁰ to thy glorious days? lofty / songs

How well beseeming⁰ thee his triumphs⁸ are? resembling or matching

60 His hope, his zeal, his prayer, plaint,⁰ and praise, lamentation

Needless thy person to their height to raise;

Less need to bend them down to thy degree;

These holy garments⁹ each good soul assays,⁰ tries on

Some sorting all, all sort to none but thee.¹

65 For even thy rule is painted in his reign;²

Both clear in right; both nigh by wrong oppressed;³

1. I.e., we till those nearby fields where your favors lines 53 through 56 refers to King David, the sec-are sown without a show of wealth but not otherond to Queen Elizabeth.

wise unworthily.

8. Both victories and triumphal songs.

2. Leaves used to crown the heads of great poets;

9. I.e., the Psalms.

hence, the symbol of poetic achievement.

1. I.e., some fitting everyone, but all fitting no one

3. I.e., the laurels grown in your shadow would but you.

complain at being worn by others besides you.

2. I.e., is represented in David's reign.

4. Place of abode as well as Elizabeth's throne.

3. Defeated (rather than its modern meaning);

5. I.e., if people did not (as they do) agree that nigh: almost. David's succession to the throne of Elizabeth is the source of all English works.

Israel was opposed by Saul, the first king of Israel,

6. I.e., who in England can remember so suitable who tried to kill David. Elizabeth's succession to ("meet") a supporter (as Elizabeth)?

the crown of England was disputed (especially by

7. One who presides over, perhaps referring to the Catholics who championed her cousin, Mary, fact that, as queen, Elizabeth was head of the queen of Scots) because of the questionable legal-Church of England. The first element in each of ity of Henry VIII's second marriage to Anne Bol-

T O T H E T H R I C E - S A C R E D Q U E E N E L I Z A B
E T H / 2 2 9

And each at length (man crossing God in vain)
Possessed of place, and each in peace possessed.
Proud Philistines did interrupt his rest,
70 The foes of heaven no less have been thy foes;⁴
He with great conquest, thou with greater blessed;
Thou sure to win, and he secure to lose.⁵

10

Thus hand in hand with him thy glories walk;
But who can trace them⁶ where alone they go?
75 Of thee two hemispheres on honor talk,⁷
And lands and seas thy trophies jointly show.
The very winds did on thy party blow,
And rocks in arms thy foemen e^{ft}⁸ defy.
But soft, my muse, thy pitch⁹ is earthly low;
so Forbear⁰ this heaven where only eagles fly. avoid

11

Kings on a Queen enforced their states to lay;¹
Mainlands for empire waiting on an isle;²
Men drawn by worth a woman to obey;
One moving all, herself unmoved³ the while;
85 Truth's restitution, vanity exile,⁴

Wealth sprung of want, war held without annoy,⁰ vexation

Let subject be of some inspired style,

Till then the object of her subjects' joy.

12

Thy utmost can but offer to her sight

90 Her handmaid's task, which most her will endears,⁵

And pray unto thy pains life from that light

Which lively lightsome, court and kingdom cheers,⁶ What⁰ wish she may (far past her living peers who

And rival still to Judah's faithful king)

eyn, Elizabeth's mother. Despite opposition, both prey soars before swooping down on its prey, but

David and Elizabeth came to possess their respec-

also height in a figurative sense: degree, rank, tive thrones, although "each in peace possessed"

status.

(line 68) is a questionable claim. David continued

1. I.e., kings compelled to humble their greatness, to put down rebellions, including one by his own splendor, power (all meanings of "state") to Eliza-son, until late in his life. In 1587, Elizabeth had beth.

her cousin, Mary, beheaded, ending that particular

2. Continental countries, because of the greatness claim to her throne.

of Elizabeth's empire, serving England.

4. Elizabeth and David both reigned in times of

3. Perhaps a reference to Aristotle's idea of God war; their enemies, the Spanish (who were Catholic as an “Unmoved Mover” (in Nicomachean Ethics 10 and Metaphysics 12).

perceived as enemies of the true religion.

4. Perhaps a reference to Elizabeth’s restoration

5. Enigmatic phrasing; probably: secure (sure) of the Protestant faith (“truth”) in England after against losing (so as not to contradict line 71).

the reign of her half-sister, the Catholic Mary

6. I.e., who can follow or put down in writing thy Tudor. The banishment of “vanity” would then glories.

refer to the banishment of the ornate rituals of the

7. I.e., about you, the whole world talks on the Catholic religion.

topic of honor.

5. I.e., the most you can do is offer her the work

8. Afterwards. The British defeated the Spanish of a handmaid, which most endears itself to her Armada in 1588, aided by favorable winds; the will. “Thy” seems to refer to Sidney’s muse.

remnant of the defeated Spanish fleet lost more

6. I.e., and pray to get life (a favorable response?)

ships when storms drove them onto the western from that light, which, lively lightsome (luminous coast of Ireland.

or bright), cheers the kingdom and court.

9. The height to which a falcon or other bird of

230 / S A M U E L D A N I E L

95 In more than he and more triumphant years,

Sing what God doth, and do what men may sing.⁷

15991962

S A M U E L D A N I E L

1563-1619

*FROM DELIA*¹

1

Unto the boundless Ocean of thy beauty

Runs this poor river, charged with streams of zeal:

Returning thee the tribute of my duty,

Which here my love, my youth, my plaints reveal.

5 Here I unclasp the book of my charged soul,

Where I have cast th'accounts of all my care:

Here have I summed my sighs, here I enroll⁰ register

How they were spent for thee; look what they are.

Look on the dear expenses of my youth, io And see how just I reckon with thine eyes:

Examine well thy beauty with my truth,

And cross my cares ere greater sum arise.

Read it sweet maid, though it be done but slightly;

Who can show all his love, doth love but lightly.

2

Go wailing verse, the infants of my love,

*Minerva*²-\ like, brought forth without a Mother:

Present the image of the cares I prove,

Witness your Father's grief exceeds all other.

5 Sigh out a story of her cruel deeds,
With interrupted accents of despair:
A monument that whosoever reads,
May justly praise, and blame my loveless Fair.
Say her disdain hath dried up my blood,
io And starved you, in succours⁰ still denying: aid.

7. I.e., who (members of her court and kingdom)
matically on the lady's status as the poet's "Ideal."
wish that she (the queen) may sing what God does,
A dedicatory sonnet addressed to Mary Sidney and do (i.e., great things) that men may praise, (in (1 5 6 1 - 1 6 2 1 ; see pp. 2 2 5 - 3 0) appears in early edia way that will be) far better than what other (conditions of the sequence. The numbering of the temporary) monarchs do, and equal, still, to (what sonnets varies by edition; we have followed the was done by) Judah's king, David.
numbering and the text of the first edition.

1. A sequence of fifty sonnets. The title, which
2. In Roman mythology, the goddess of war, wis-recalls Delie, a collection by the French poet Mau-dom, arts, and justice; she sprang fully formed rice Sceve (ca. 1500—ca. 1564), plays anagramfrom the head of her father, Jove.

DELIA : 3 7 / 2 3 1

Press to her eyes, importune me some good;
Waken her sleeping pity with your crying.
Knock at that hard heart, beg till you have moved her;

And tell th'unkind, how dearly I have loved her.

6

Fair is my love, and cruel as she's fair:

Her brow shades frowns, although her eyes are sunny,

Her smiles are lightning, though her pride despair,

And her disdains are gall,^o her favors honey. bitterness

5 A modest maid, decked with a blush of honor,

Whose feet do tread green paths of youth and love;

The wonder of all eyes that look upon her,

Sacred on earth, designed a Saint above.

Chastity and Beauty, which were deadly foes,

io Live reconciled friends within her brow;

And had she pity to conjoin with those,

Then who had heard the plaints I utter now?

Oh had she not been fair and thus unkind,

My Muse³ had slept, and none had known my mind.

36

But love whilst that thou mayst be loved again,

Now whilst thy May hath filled thy lap with flowers,

Now whilst thy beauty bears without a stain,

Now use the summer smiles, ere winter lowers.

5 And whilst thou spread'st unto the rising sun

The fairest flower that ever saw the light,

Now joy thy time before thy sweet be done,

And, Delia, think thy morning must have night,

And that thy brightness sets at length to west,

io When thou wilt close up that which now thou shew'st;

And think the same becomes thy fading best

Which then shall most inveil⁰ and shadow most. cover

Men do not weigh the stalk for what it was,
When once they find her flower, her glory, pass.

37

When men shall find thy flower, thy glory pass,
And thou, with careful brow sitting alone,
Received hast this message from thy glass,⁰ looking glass

3. Source of poetic inspiration.

2 3 2 / S A M U E L D A N I E L

That tells thee truth, and says that all is gone,
5 Fresh shalt thou see in me the wounds thou madest,
Though spent thy flame, in me the heat remaining,
I that have loved thee thus before thou fadest,
My faith shall wax, when thou art in thy waning.
The world shall find this miracle in me,
10 That fire can burn when all the matter's spent;
Then what my faith hath been thyself shall see,
And that thou wast unkind thou mayst repent.
Thou mayst repent that thou hast scorned my tears,
When Winter snows upon thy golden hairs.

49

Care-charmer Sleep, son of the sable⁰ Night, black
Brother to Death, in silent darkness born.
Relieve my languish and restore the light;
With dark forgetting of my cares, return.
5 And let the day be time enough to mourn
The shipwreck of my ill-adventured youth;
Let waking eyes suffice to wail their scorn

Without the torment of the night's untruth.
Cease, dreams, th' imagery of our day desires,
io To model forth⁴ the passions of the morrow;
Never let rising sun approve⁰ you liars, prove
To add more grief to aggravate my sorrow.
Still let me sleep, embracing clouds in vain,
And never wake to feel the day's disdain.

50

Let others sing of knights and paladins⁰ chivalric heroes
In aged accents, and untimely⁰ words; outdated
Paint shadows in imaginary lines
Which well the reach of their high wits records;
5 But I must sing of thee, and those fair eyes
Authentic⁰ shall my verse in time to come, authenticate
When yet th' unborn shall say, "Lo where she lies,
Whose beauty made him speak that else was dumb."
These are the arks, the trophies I erect,
io That fortify thy name against old age;
And these thy sacred virtues must protect Against the dark and time's consuming rage.
Though th' error of my youth they shall discover,
Suffice, they show I lived and was thy lover.
4. To portray.

U L Y S S E S A N D T H E S I R E N / 2 3 3

5 3

Unhappy pen and ill accepted papers,
That intimate in vain my chaste desires,
My chaste desires, the ever burning tapers,

Enkindled by her eyes' celestial fires.
5 Celestial fires and unrespecting powers,
That deign not view the glory of your might,5
In humble lines the work of careful hours,
The sacrifice I offer to her sight.
But since she scorns her own, this rests⁰ for me, remains io I'll moan my self, and hide the wrong I have:
And so content me that her frowns should be
To my infant style the cradle, and the grave.
What though my self no honor get thereby,6
Each bird sings t'herself, and so will I.
1 5 9 2

Ulysses and the Siren⁷

SIREN. Come, worthy Greek, Ulysses, come,
Possess these shores with me;
The winds and seas are troublesome,
And here we may be free.

5 Here may we sit and view their toil
That travail in the deep,
And joy the day in mirth the while,
And spend the night in sleep.

ULYSSES. Fair nymph, if fame or honor were io To be attained with ease,
Then would I come and rest me there,
And leave such toils as these.
But here it dwells, and here must I
With danger seek it forth;
is To spend the time luxuriously

Becomes not men of worth.

SIREN. Ulysses, Oh be not deceived

With that unreal name;

This honor is a thing conceived,

20 And rests on others' fame.

5. Now addressing the lady's eyes as "celestial but only partly human creatures who sang so fires" and as "powers" that refuse to "respect" his sweetly that passing sailors would forget their work poem, the speaker defines his poem as that which and homes and be lured to their destruction. When glorifies the power of the lady's eyes.

Ulysses (Odysseus), the hero of Homer's Odyssey,

6. I.e., although I'll get no respect for my attempt passed by, he had his sailors' ears filled with bees-

to be satisfied by her frowns alone.

wax and had himself tied to the ship's mast so that

7. In Greek mythology, the Sirens were beautiful he could listen without succumbing to their song.

234 / SAMUEL DANIEL

Begotten only to molest

Our peace, and to beguile

The best thing of our life, our rest,

And give us up to toil.

25 ULYSSES. Delicious nymph, suppose there were

Nor honor nor report,

Yet manliness would scorn to wear

The time in idle sport.

For toil doth give a better touch,
30 To make us feel our joy;
And ease finds tediousness, as much
As labor yields annoy.

SIREN. Then pleasure likewise seems the shore
Whereto tends all your toil,
35 Which you forgo to make it more,
And perish oft the while.

Who may disport them diversly,
Find never tedious day,
And ease may have variety
40 As well as action may.

ULYSSES. But natures of the noblest frame
These toils and dangers please,
And they take comfort in the same
As much as you in ease,
45 And with the thoughts of actions past
Are recreated still;
When pleasure leaves a touch at last
To show that it was ill.

SIREN. That doth opinion only cause
50 That's out of custom bred,
Which makes us many other laws
Than ever nature did.
No widows wail for our delights,
Our sports are without blood;
55 The world, we see, by warlike wights0 persons
Receives more hurt than good.

ULYSSES. But yet the state of things require

These motions of unrest,

And these great spirits of high desire

60 Seem born to turn them best,

To purge the mischiefs that increase

And all good order mar;

For oft we see a wicked peace

To be well changed for war.

65 SIREN. Well, well, Ulysses, then I see

I shall not have thee here,

A R O U N D E L A Y B E T W E E N T w o S H E P H E R D S / 2 3 5

And therefore I will come to thee,

And take my fortunes there.

I must be won that cannot win,

70 Yet lost were I not won;

For beauty hath created been

T' undo, or be undone.

1605

Are They Shadows

Are they shadows that we see?

And can shadows pleasure give?

Pleasures only shadows be

Cast by bodies we conceive

5 And are made the things we deem

In those figures which they seem.

But these pleasures vanish fast

Which by shadows are expressed;

Pleasures are not, if they last;
io In their passing is their best.
Glory is most bright and gay
In a flash, and so away.
Feed apace⁰ then, greedy eyes, quickly
On the wonder you behold;
15 Take it sudden as it flies,
Though you take it not to hold.
When your eyes have done their part,
Thought must length⁰ it in the heart. lengthen
1610

M I C H A E L DRAYTON

1563-1631

A Roundelay between Two Shepherds¹

I Shep. Tell me, thou gentle shepherd swain,
Who's yonder in the vale is set?

1. This roundelay, or simple song, was included in poet Virgil and others, are populated by shepherds the anthology England's Helicon (1600); it also and nymphs, and usually portray a simple, happy appeared (in a slightly different form) in the Ninth life of singing and dancing, rather than a life of Eclogue of Drayton's "Pastorals," published in his farm labor. The Ninth Eclogue describes a "Shep- collected Poems (1619). Pastoral poems, or herd's Board," or feast, and contains several songs eclogues, a classical form practiced by the Roman by shepherds, or "swains," in praise of their lovers.

236 / MICHAEL DRAYTON

2 Shep. Oh, it is she, whose sweets do stain
The lily, rose, the violet!

1 Shep. Why doth the sun against his kind, 0 nature
Fix^o his bright chariot in the skies? 2 make motionless

2 Shep. Because the sun is stricken blind
With looking on her heavenly eyes.

1 Shep. Why do thy flocks forbear their food,
Which sometime 0 were thy chief delight? formerly

2 Shep. Because they need no other good
That live in presence of her sight.

1 Shep. Why look these flowers so pale and ill,
That once attired this goodly heath?

2 Shep. She hath robb'd Nature of her skill,
And sweetens all things with her breath.

1 Shep. Why slide these brooks so slow away,
Whose bubbling murmur pleased thine ear?

2 Shep. Oh, marvel not although they stay, 0 stand still
When they her heavenly voice do hear!

1 Shep. From whence come all these shepherd swains,
And lovely nymphs attired in green?

2 Shep. From gathering garlands on the plains,
To crown our fair the shepherds' queen.

Both. The sun that lights this world below,
Flocks, flowers, and brooks will witness bear:
These nymphs and shepherds all do know,
That it is she is only fair.

1600

*FROM IDEA*³

To the Reader of these Sonnets
Into these loves who but for passion looks,
At this first sight here let him lay them by
And seek elsewhere, in turning other books,
Which better may his labor satisfy.

5 No far-fetched sigh shall ever wound my breast,
Love from mine eye a tear shall never wring,
Nor in Ah me's my whining sonnets dressed,
A libertine,⁴ fantastically⁰ I sing.

capriciously

2. In Greek mythology, the sun was a chariot resents his lifelong devotion (in the manner of a driven daily across the sky by the god Apollo.
courtly lover) to Anne Goodyere, Lady Rainsford.
3. Drayton's fifty-nine sonnets addressed to "Idea"
His sequence first appeared as Idea's Mirror in are concerned with the embodiment of the Pla-1594, and after revisions as Idea in 1619.
tonic ideas of virtue and beauty: the sequence rep-
4. One not bound by conventional morality.

I D E A : 1 4 / 2 3 7

My verse is the true image of my mind,
10 Ever in motion, still⁰ desiring change; ever
And as thus to variety inclined,
So in all humors⁰ sportively I range: moods
My muse⁵ is rightly of the English strain,
That cannot long one fashion entertain.

6

How many paltry, foolish, painted things,
That now in coaches trouble every street,
Shall be forgotten, whom no poet sings,
Ere they be well wrapped in their winding-sheet?⁰ shroud
5 Where⁰ I to thee eternity shall give, whereas
When nothing else remaineth of these days,
And queens hereafter shall be glad to live
Upon the alms of thy superfluous praise.
Virgins and matrons reading these my rhymes
io Shall be so much delighted with thy story
That they shall grieve they lived not in these times,
To have seen thee, their sex's only glory.
So shalt thou fly above the vulgar throng,
Still to survive in my immortal song.

14

If he from heaven that filched that living fire⁶
Condemned by Jove to endless torment be,
I greatly marvel how you still go free,
That far beyond Prometheus did aspire,
s The fire he stole, although of heavenly kind,

Which from above he craftily did take,
Of liveless clods,⁰ us living men to make, lumps of earth or clay

He did bestow in temper of the mind.

But you broke into heaven's immortal store,

io Where virtue, honor, wit, and beauty lay;

Which taking thence you have escaped away,

Yet stand as free as ere^o you did before; ever

Yet old Prometheus punished for his rape.⁷

Thus poor thieves suffer when the greater 'scape.⁰ escape

5. Source of poetic inspiration.

vitals. In some versions of the myth, Prometheus

6. Prometheus, a Greek mythological hero who created humankind out of clay.

stole fire from heaven and gave it to humans. He

7. "Rape" referred not only to sexual assault but was chained to a rock by Jove (Zeus), the chief god, also to other acts of forceful appropriation such as and preyed upon daily by a vulture that tore at his Prometheus's theft of heavenly fire.

2 3 8 / C H R I S T O P H E R M A R L O W E

61

Since there's no help, come let us kiss and part;

Nay, I have done, you get no more of me,

And I am glad, yea glad with all my heart

That thus so cleanly I myself can free;

5 Shake hands forever, cancel all our vows,

And when we meet at any time again,

Be it not seen in either of our brows
That we one jot of former love retain.
Now at the last gasp of love's latest breath,
io When, his pulse failing, Passion speechless lies,
When Faith is kneeling by his bed of death,
And Innocence is closing up his eyes,
Now if thou wouldst, when all have given him over,
From death to life thou mightst him yet recover.

1919

C H R I S T O P H E R M A R L O W E

1 5 6 4 - 1 5 9 3

Hero and Leander

*First Sestiad*¹

On Hellespont,² guilty of true love's blood,
In view and opposite, two cities stood Sea-borderers, disjoined by Neptune's⁰ might;
god of the sea

The one Abydos, the other Sestos hight.^o called

At Sestos Hero dwelt; Hero the fair, Whom young Apollo⁰ courted for her hair,
god of the sun

And offered as a dower⁰ his burning throne, wedding gift

Where she should sit for men to gaze upon.
The outside of her garments were of lawn,³
The lining purple silk, with gilt stars drawn;
Her wide sleeves green, and bordered with a grove

Where Venus in her naked glory strove
To please the careless and disdainful eyes
Of proud Adonis,⁴ that before her lies;

1. A term for a book or canto (from Hero's city, the Elegies Marlowe had translated.

Sestos). W h e n the English playwright and trans-

2. The modern Dardanelles, a strait between the latter George Chapman (1559?—1634) wrote a Aegean Sea and the Sea of Marmora, one mile four-part continuation of Marlowe's work, he wide at its narrowest point.

divided the entire poem into sestads. The poem

3. A sheer cotton or linen fabric.

belongs to the genre of the minor epic, or e-pyllion,

4. Venus, goddess of love and beauty, passionately which flourished in the 1590s and showed the loved the young hunter Adonis, who was killed by strong influence of the ancient Roman poet Ovid.
a boar; in lines 91—93, Marlowe claims that the Ovid told the story of Hero and Leander in two of men of Sestos hold a festival in honor of Adonis his Heroides (fictional love letters) and in one of every year.

HERO AND LEANDER / 239

15 Her kirtle⁰ blue, whereon was many a stain, gown
Made with the blood of wretched lovers slain.
Upon her head she ware a myrtle wreath,
From whence her veil reached to the ground beneath.

Her veil was artificial flowers and leaves,
20 Whose workmanship both man and beast deceives;
Many would praise the sweet smell as she passed,
When 'twas the odor which her breath forth cast;
And there for honey, bees have sought in vain,
And, beat from thence, have lighted there again.
25 About her neck hung chains of pebble-stone,
Which, lightened⁰ by her neck, like diamonds shone.
illuminated
She ware no gloves, for neither sun nor wind
Would burn or parch her hands, but to her mind⁵
Or^o warm or cool them, for they took delight either
30 To play upon those hands, they were so white.
Buskins⁰ of shells all silvered, used she, high shoes, boots
And branched⁰ with blushing coral to the knee, decorated
Where sparrows perched, of hollow pearl and gold,
Such as the world would wonder to behold;
35 Those with sweet water oft her handmaid fills,
Which, as she went, would chirrup through the^o bills. their
Some say, for her the fairest Cupid⁶ pined,
And looking in her face, was strooken⁰ blind. struck
But this is true: so like was one the other,
40 As he imagined Hero was his mother;
And oftentimes into her bosom flew,
About her naked neck his bare arms threw,
And laid his childish head upon her breast,
And with still panting rocked, there took his rest.
45 So lovely fair was Hero, Venus' nun,

As Nature wept, thinking she was undone,
Because she took more from her than she left
And of such wondrous beauty her bereft;
Therefore, in sign her treasure suffered wrack,
50 Since Hero's time hath half the world been black.⁷
Amorous Leander, beautiful and young,
(Whose tragedy divine Musaeus⁸ sung)
Dwelt at Abydos; since him dwelt there none
For whom succeeding times make greater moan.
55 His dangling tresses that were never shorn,
Had they been cut and unto Colchos⁹ borne,
Would have allured the vent'rous youth of Greece
To hazard more than for the Golden Fleece.
Fair Cynthia' wished his arms might be her sphere;⁰ orbit
60 Grief makes her pale, because she moves not there.

5. As she wished.

Hero and Leander served Marlowe as a source.

6. Venus's son, god of erotic love.

Marlowe's term "divine" suggests that he may have

7. I.e., therefore, as a sign that her (Nature's) identified him with an earlier, legendary Musaeus.

wealth had suffered a shipwreck (i.e., been harmed

9. The country in Asia where Jason and his Argo-

by Hero's beauty), Nature made half the world

nauts find the Golden Fleece.

dark-haired or -complexioned.

1. The moon. Leander is being compared to the

8. A fifth-century Alexandrian whose poem on moon's lover, Endymion.

240 / CHRISTOPHER MARLOWE

His body was as straight as Circe's wand;²

Jove might have sipped out nectar from his hand.³

Even as delicious meat is to the taste,

So was his neck in touching, and surpassed

65 The white of Pelops' shoulder.⁴ I could tell ye

How smooth his breast was, and how white his belly,

And whose immortal fingers did imprint

That heavenly path, with many a curious⁰ dint, exquisite

That runs along his back; but my rude pen

70 Can hardly blazon⁰ forth the loves of men, show

Much less of powerful gods; let it suffice

That my slack muse⁵ sings of Leander's eyes,

Those orient cheeks and lips, exceeding his⁶

That leapt into the water for a kiss

75 Of his own shadow, and despising many,

Died ere he could enjoy the love of any.

Had wild Hippolytus⁷ Leander seen,

Enamored of his beauty had he been;

His presence made the rudest peasant melt,

so That in the vast uplandish⁰ country dwelt; wild

The barbarous Thracian soldier, moved with naught,

Was moved with him, and for his favor sought.

Some swore he was a maid in man's attire,

For in his looks were all that men desire:

85 A pleasant smiling cheek, a speaking⁰ eye, expressive

A brow for love to banquet royally;

And such as knew he was a man, would say,
 “Leander, thou art made for amorous play;
 Why art thou not in love, and loved of all?
 90 Though thou be fair, yet be not thine own thrall.”⁰ captive
 The men of wealthy Sestos every year,
 For his sake whom their goddess held so dear,
 Rose-cheeked Adonis, kept a solemn feast.
 Thither resorted many a wandering guest
 95 To meet their loves; such as had none at all Came lovers home from this great festival;
 For every street, like to a firmament,⁰ sky
 Glistened with breathing stars, who, where they went,
 Frighted the melancholy earth, which deemed 100 Eternal heaven to burn, for so it seemed As if another Phaeton⁸ had got
 The guidance of the sun’s rich chariot.
 But, far above the loveliest, Hero shined,
 And stole away the enchanted gazer’s mind;
 105 For like sea nymphs’ inveigling⁰ harmony, beguiling
 2. The enchantress Circe, in the Odyssey, pos-later reconstituted Pelops, giving him a shoulder sessed a magical wand capable of turning men into of ivory.
 beasts.
 5. Source of poetic inspiration.
 3. Leander is being compared to Ganymede, the
 6. I.e., Narcissus’s. Orient: glowing like eastern shepherd boy whom Jove “ravished” and made into skies or gems.

his cupbearer.

7. A great hunter, contemptuous of love.

4. Pelops's father, Tantalus, killed, cut up,

8. Son of the sun god, Apollo; Phaeton drove his cooked, and served his son at a dinner of the gods.

father's chariot for one day, went too close to

The goddess Demeter ate his shoulder. Hermes

Earth, and was destroyed by Jove's thunderbolt.

HERO AND LEANDER / 241

So was her beauty to the standers by.

Nor that night-wandering pale and watery star⁹

(When yawning dragons draw her thirling¹ car

From Latmus' mount up to the gloomy sky,

Where, crowned with blazing light and majesty,

She proudly sits) more over-rules⁰ the flood,

rules over

Than she the hearts of those that near her stood.

Even as when gaudy nymphs pursue the chase,

Wretched Ixion's shaggy-footed race,²

Incensed with savage heat, gallop amain

From steep pine-bearing mountains to the plain,

So ran the people forth to gaze upon her,

And all that viewed her were enamored on her.

And as in fury of a dreadful fight,

Their fellows being slain or put to flight,

Poor soldiers stand with fear of death dead-strooken,

So at her presence all, surprised and taken,⁰

taken

Await the sentence of her scornful eyes;
He whom she favors lives, the other dies.
There might you see one sigh, another rage,
And some, their violent passions to assuage,
Compile sharp satires; but alas, too late,
For faithful love will never turn to hate.
And many, seeing great princes were denied,
Pined as they went, and thinking on her, died.
On this feast day, oh, cursed day and hour!
Went Hero thorough Sestos, from her tower

through

To Venus' temple, where unhappily,
As after chanced, they did each other spy.
So fair a church as this had Venus none;
The walls were of discolored jasper stone,
Wherein was Proteus carved, and o'erhead

a sea god

A lively vine of green sea-agate spread,
Where, by one hand, light-headed Bacchus hung,
And with the other, wine from grapes out-wrung.

Of crystal shining fair the pavement was;
The town of Sestos called it Venus' glass;
There might you see the gods in sundry shapes,
Committing heady riots, incest, rapes;

For know that underneath this radiant floor

violent; impetuous

Was Danae's statue in a brazen tower;³

Jove slyly stealing from his sister's bed

To dally with Idalian Ganymed,

9. The moon.

depends on the particular account of a given myth,

1. Piercing, like a flying arrow; also, whirling. Lat-as well as on interpretation. Danae was the daughter of the king of Argos, who imprisoned her loved by Diana, the moon goddess.

because of a prophecy that a son born to her would

2. The centaurs, half man and half horse, were the kill him; Jove came to her in the form of a shower

offspring of Ixion and a cloud. For loving Juno, of gold, and as a result she gave birth to Perseus.

Ixion was made "wretched" by being chained to a

Jove took the form of an eagle to abduct Ganymede ceaselessly rolling wheel.

(see note to line 62); the sexual nature of their

3. The next lines give specific examples of the relationship was a topic of great interest during the "riots, incest, rapes." Jove frequently left Juno, his Renaissance. Jove took the form of a bull to rape sister and wife, to pursue other women; whether Europa. The goddess of the rainbow (line 150) was his actions constituted seduction or rape often

Iris, a messenger of the gods.

242 / CHRISTOPHER MARLOWE

And for his love Europa bellowing loud,

150

And tumbling with the rainbow in a cloud;

Blood-quaffing Mars heaving the iron net

Which limping Vulcan and his Cyclops set;⁴

Love kindling fire to burn such towns as Troy;

Silvanus weeping for the lovely boy

155

That now is turned into a cypress tree,⁵

Under whose shade the wood gods love to be.

And in the midst a silver altar stood;

There Hero sacrificing turtles' ⁶ blood,

Veiled⁰ to the ground, veiling her eyelids close, bowed, bent

160 And modestly they opened as she rose;

Thence flew love's arrow with the golden head,⁷

And thus Leander was enamored.

Stone still he stood, and evermore he gazed,

Till with the fire that from his countenance blazed,

165

Relenting Hero's gentle heart was strook;

Such force and virtue⁰ hath an amorous look. power, efficacy

It lies not in our power to love or hate,

For will in us is over-ruled by fate.

When two are stripped,⁸ long ere the course begin 170

We wish that one should lose, the other win;

And one especially do we affect⁰ prefer
Of two gold ingots, like in each respect.
The reason no man knows, let it suffice,
What we behold is censured⁰ by our eyes. judged

175

Where both deliberate, the love is slight;
Who ever loved, that loved not at first sight?
He kneeled, but unto her devoutly prayed;
Chaste Hero to herself thus softly said:
“Were I the saint he worships, I would hear him”;
180 And as she spake these words, came somewhat near him.
He started up; she blushed as one ashamed;
Wherewith Leander much more was inflamed.
He touched her hand; in touching it she trembled;
Love deeply grounded hardly⁰ is dissembled. with difficulty

185

These lovers parled⁰ by the touch of hands; spoke
True love is mute, and oft amazed stands.
Thus while dumb signs their yielding hearts entangled,
The air with sparks of living fire was spangled,⁰ speckled
And night, deep drenched in misty Acheron,⁹ 190

Heaved up her head, and half the world upon
Breathed darkness forth (dark night is Cupid’s day).
And now begins Leander to display
Love’s holy fire with words, with sighs, and tears,
Which like sweet music entered Hero’s ears;

195

And yet at every word she turned aside,

4. Vulcan and his helpers, the Cyclopes, trapped love.

his wife, Venus, in bed with Mars, the god of war,

7. According to Ovid, Cupid's arrows were tipped and exposed them to the laughter of the other gods.

with gold or lead, the one producing love and the

5. Cyparissus, changed by Apollo into a cypress other loathing.

tree, was mourned by the forest god, Sylvanus.

8. I.e., for a race.

6. Turtledoves, which symbolized constancy in

9. The river of woe in the underworld.

HERO AND LEANDER / 243

And always cut him off as he replied.

At last, like to a bold sharp sophister,¹

With cheerful hope thus he accosted her:

“Fair creature, let me speak without offense;

200 I would my rude words had the influence

To lead thy thoughts as thy fair looks do mine!

Then shouldst thou be his prisoner who is thine.

Be not unkind and fair; misshapen stuff⁰ persons

Are of behavior boisterous and rough.

205 Oh, shun me not, but hear me ere you go,

God knows I cannot force love, as you do.

My words shall be as spotless as my youth,

Full of simplicity and naked truth.

This sacrifice, whose sweet perfume descending

210 From Venus' altar to your footsteps bending,
Doth testify that you exceed her far,
To whom you offer, and whose nun you are.
Why should you worship her? her you surpass
As much as sparkling diamonds flaring⁰ gl ass. glaring> gaudy

215 A diamond set in lead his worth retains;
A heavenly nymph,² beloved of human swains,⁰ rustics
Receives no blemish, but oft times more grace;
Which makes me hope, although I am but base,
Base in respect⁰ of^o thee, divine and pure, comparison / with 220 Dutiful service may thy love procure,

And I in duty will excel all other,
As thou in beauty dost exceed Love's⁰ mother. Cupid's
Nor heaven, nor thou, were made to gaze upon;
As heaven preserves all things, so save thou one.

225 A stately builded ship, well rigged and tall,
The ocean maketh more majestic;
Why vowest thou then to live in Sestos here,
Who on love's seas more glorious wouldst appear?
Like untuned golden strings all women are,

230 Which long time lie untouched, will harshly jar.³
Vessels of brass, oft handled, brightly shine;
What difference betwixt the richest mine⁰ ore
And basest mold,⁰ but use? for both, not used, earth
Are of like worth. Then treasure is abused,

235 When misers keep it; being put to loan,
In time it will return us two for one.

Rich robes themselves and others do adorn;
Neither themselves nor others, if not worn.
Who builds a palace, and rams up the gate,
240 Shall see it ruinous and desolate.
Ah, simple Hero, learn thyself to cherish!
Lone women, like to empty houses, perish.
Less sins the poor rich man that starves himself
In heaping up a mass of drossy⁰ pelf,^o worthless / riches

1. One who reasons adroitly rather than soundly;

2. Minor nature goddess.

also, a university student in his junior or senior

3. I.e., unplayed musical instruments go out of year.

tune.

244 / CHRISTOPHER MARLOWE

Than such as you; his golden earth remains,
Which, after his decease, some other gains;
But this fair gem, sweet in the loss alone,
When you fleet⁰ hence, can be bequeathed to none. fly
Or if it could, down from th' enameled⁰ sky varicolored
All heaven would come to claim this legacy,
And with intestine⁰ broils⁰ the world destroy, internal,
civil/wars
And quite confound nature's sweet harmony.
Well therefore by the gods decreed it is
We human creatures should enjoy that bliss.
One is no number;4 maids are nothing, then,
Without the sweet society of men.

Wilt thou live single still r5 one shalt thou be Though never-singling Hymen0 couple thee.

god of marriage

Wild savages, that drink of running springs,
Think water far excels all earthly things,
But they that daily taste neat0 wine, despise it;

undiluted

Virginity, albeit some highly prize it,
Compared with marriage, had you tried them both,
Differs as much as wine and water doth.

Base bullion for the stamp's5 sake we allow;
Even so for men's impression do we you,
By which alone, our reverend fathers say,
Women receive perfection every way.

This idol which you term virginity
Is neither essence0 subject to the eye,

existing thing

No, nor to any one exterior sense,
Nor hath it any place of residence,
Nor is't of earth or mold0 celestial,

form

Or capable of any form at all.

Of that which hath no being, do not boast;
Things that are not at all, are never lost.

Men foolishly do call it virtuous;

What virtue is it, that is born with us?

Much less can honor be ascribed thereto;

Honor is purchased by the deeds we do.

Believe me, Hero, honor is not won
Until some honorable deed be done.
Seek you, for chastity, immortal fame,
And know that some have wronged Diana's name?⁶
Whose name is it, if she be false or not,
So she be fair, but some vile tongues will blot?
But you are fair, ay me, so wondrous fair,
So young, so gentle, and so debonair,⁰ affable, courteous
As Greece will think, if thus you live alone,
Some one or other keeps you as his own.
Then, Hero, hate me not, nor from me fly
To follow swiftly blasting infamy.

4. The theory that one is not a number appears in metal ("bullion") into a coin.

Aristotle's Metaphysics and was often discussed by

6. Diana was the goddess of chastity. Neverthelater, Neoplatonic philosophers.

less, some stories attribute amorous relationships

5. I.e., the impression that turns a mere piece of to her.

HERO AND LEANDER / 245

Perhaps thy sacred priesthood makes thee loath;

Tell me, to whom mad'st thou that heedless oath?"

295 "To Venus," answered she, and as she spake,

Forth from those two tralucen⁰t cisterns brake translucent

A stream of liquid pearl, which down her face

Made milk-white paths, whereon the gods might trace⁰ go

To Jove's high court. He thus replied: "The rites

300 In which love's beauteous empress most delights
Are banquets, Doric music,⁷ midnight revel,
Plays, masques, and all that stern age counteth evil.
Thee as a holy idiot⁰ doth she scorn, untutored person
For thou, in vowing chastity, hast sworn 305 To rob her name and honor, and thereby Commit'st a sin far worse than perjury,
Even sacrilege against her deity,
Through regular and formal purity.
To expiate which sin, kiss and shake hands;
310 Such sacrifice as this Venus demands.”
Thereat she smiled, and did deny him so
As, put⁰ thereby, yet might he hope for mo.^o put off I more
Which makes him quickly reinforce his speech,
And her in humble manner thus beseech:
315 “Though neither gods nor men may thee deserve,
Yet for her sake whom you have vowed to serve,
Abandon fruitless cold virginity,
The gentle queen of love's sole enemy.
Then shall you most resemble Venus' nun,
320 When Venus' sweet rites are performed and done.
Flint-breasted Pallas⁸ joys in single life,
But Pallas and your mistress are at strife.
Love, Hero, then, and be not tyrannous,
But heal the heart that thou hast wounded thus;
325 Nor stain thy youthful years with avarice;
Fair fools delight to be accounted nice.⁰ coy
The richest corn dies if it be not reaped;

Beauty alone⁰ is lost, too warily kept.” on its own

These arguments he used, and many more,

330 Wherewith she yielded, that was won before.

Hero’s looks yielded, but her words made war;

Women are won when they begin to jar.⁰ argue

Thus having swallowed Cupid’s golden hook,

The more she strived, the deeper was she strook;⁰ love-struck

335 Yet, evilly feigning anger, strove she still,

And would be thought to grant against her will.

So having paused awhile, at last she said:

“Who taught thee rhetoric to deceive a maid?

Ay me! such words as these should I abhor,

340 And yet I like them for the orator.”

With that Leander stooped to have embraced her,

7. Leander apparently confuses Doric music, 8. Pallas Athena, the virgin goddess of wisdom, which was stirring and martial, with Lydian music, usually portrayed in armor, which was soft and voluptuous.

2 4 6 / C H R I S T O P H E R M A R L O W E

But from his spreading arms away she cast her,

And thus bespake him: “Gentle youth, forbear

To touch the sacred garments which I wear.

345 Upon a rock, and underneath a hill,

Far from the town, where all is whist⁰ and still silent

Save that the sea playing on yellow sand

Sends forth a rattling murmur to the land,

Whose sound allures the golden Morpheus⁰ god of sleep

350 In silence of the night to visit us,

My turret stands; and there, God knows, I play

With Venus' swans and sparrows all the day.
A dwarfish beldame⁰ bears me company, old woman
That hops about the chamber where I lie,
355 And spends the night, that might be better spent,
In vain discourse and apish⁰ merriment. silly
Come thither." As she spake this, her tongue tripped,
For unawares, "Come thither," from her slipped;
And suddenly her former color changed,
360 And here and there her eyes, through anger, ranged.
And like a planet moving several ways⁹
At one self⁰ instant, she, poor soul, assays,⁰ and the same / tries
Loving, not to love at all, and every part
Strove to resist the motions of her heart;
365 And hands so pure, so innocent, nay such
As might have made heaven stoop to have a touch,
Did she uphold to Venus, and again
Vowed spotless chastity, but all in vain.
Cupid beats down her prayers with his wings;
370 Her vows above the empty air he flings;
All deep enraged, his sinewy⁰ bow he bent, strong
And shot a shaft that burning from him went;
Wherewith she, strooken,⁰ looked so dolefully, struck
As made Love sigh to see his tyranny.
375 And as she wept, her tears to pearl he turned,
And wound them on his arm, and for her mourned.
Then towards the palace of the Destinies,¹
Laden with languishment and grief, he flies,

And to those stern nymphs⁰ humbly made request, girls

380 Both might enjoy each other, and be blest.

But with a ghastly dreadful countenance,

Threatening a thousand deaths at every glance,

They answered Love, nor would vouchsafe so much

As one poor word, their hate to him was such.

385 Hearken awhile, and I will tell you why:

Heaven's winged herald, Jove-born Mercury,⁰ messenger god

The selfsame day that he asleep had laid

Enchanted Argus,² spied a country maid,

9. As in Ptolemaic astronomy, where planets cutting threads.

moved both in their own orbits and through the

2. The watchman with a hundred eyes set by Juno influence of other planets' motion. Several: differ-to guard Io, beloved of Jupiter. Mercury (also ently.

called Hermes) lulled Argus asleep with his music,

1. The Fates, three sister goddesses who deter-then killed him, at Jove's command.

mined the course of h u m a n life by spinning and

HERO AND LEANDER / 247

Whose careless hair, instead of pearl t' adorn it,

390 Glistered⁰ with dew, as one that seemed to scorn it;³
glistened.

Her breath as fragrant as the morning rose,

Her mind pure, and her tongue untaught to gloze;^o flatter

Yet proud she was, for lofty pride that dwells

In towered courts is oft in shepherds' cells,⁰ huts
395 And too too well the fair vermilion⁰ knew, scarlet
And silver tincture of her cheeks, that drew
The love of every swain.⁰ On her this god rustic
Enamored was, and with his snaky rod⁴
Did charm her nimble feet, and made her stay,
400 The while upon a hillock down he lay,
And sweetly on his pipe began to play,
And with smooth speech her fancy to assay;⁰ try
Till in his twining arms he locked her fast,
And then he wooed with kisses, and at last,
405 As shepherds do, her on the ground he laid,
And tumbling in the grass, he often strayed
Beyond the bounds of shame, in being bold
To eye those parts which no eye should behold.
And like an insolent commanding lover,
410 Boasting his parentage, would needs discover
The way to new Elysium;⁵ but she,
Whose only dower⁰ was her chastity, dowry
Having striv'n in vain, was now about to cry,
And crave the help of shepherds that were nigh.
415 Herewith he stayed his fury,⁰ and began passion
To give her leave to rise; away she ran;
After went Mercury, who used such cunning,
As she, to hear his tale, left off her running;
Maids are not won by brutish force and might,
420 But speeches full of pleasure and delight;
And knowing Hermes courted her, was glad

That she such loveliness and beauty had
 As could provoke his liking, yet was mute,
 And neither would deny nor grant his suit.
 425 Still vowed he love, she wanting no excuse
 To feed him with delays, as women use,⁰ usually do
 Or thirsting after immortality—
 All women are ambitious naturally—
 Imposed upon her lover such a task
 430 As he ought not perform, nor yet she ask.
 A draught of flowing nectar she requested,
 Wherewith the king of gods and men is feasted.
 He, ready to accomplish what she willed,
 Stole some from Hebe⁶ (Hebe Jove's cup filled)
 435 And gave it to his simple rustic love;
 Which being known (as^o what is hid from Jove?) for
 He inly⁰ stormed, and waxed more furious inwardly
 3. I.e., pearl or other jewelry.

inhabited by the blessed dead.

4. The caduceus, Mercury's magic staff.

6. Jove's cupbearer before Jove ravished Gany-

5. In Greek mythology, a place of ideal happiness mede (see note to line 62).

248 / CHRISTOPHER MARLOWE

Than for the fire filched by Prometheus,⁷
 And thrusts him down from heaven; he wandering here 440

In mournful terms,⁰ with sad and heavy cheer,⁰ state /look Complained to Cupid. Cupid, for his^o sake, Prometheus's

To be revenged on Jove did undertake;
And those on whom heaven, earth, and hell relies,
I mean the adamantin⁰ Destinies, unyielding 445

He wounds with love, and forced them equally
To dote upon deceitful Mercury.

They offered him the deadly fatal knife
That shears the slender threads of human life;
At his fair-feathered feet the engines laid 450

Which th' earth from ugly Chaos' den upweighed;⁸
These he regarded not, but did entreat
That Jove, usurper of his father's seat,⁹
Might presently be banished into hell,
And aged Saturn in Olympus dwell.
455

They granted what he craved, and once again
Saturn and Ops^o began their golden reign. Saturn's wife
Murder, rape, war, lust, and treachery
Were with Jove closed in Stygian empery.¹
But long this blessed time continued not;
460

As soon as he his wished purpose got,
He, reckless of his promise, did despise
The love of th' everlasting Destinies.
They seeing it, both Love and him abhorred,
And Jupiter unto his place restored.
465

And but that Learning,² in despite of Fate,
Will mount aloft, and enter heaven gate,
And to the seat of Jove itself advance,
Hermes had slept in hell with Ignorance;
Yet as a punishment they added this,
470

That he and Poverty should always kiss.
And to this day is every scholar poor;
Gross gold from them runs headlong to the boor.³
Likewise, the angry sisters thus deluded,
To venge themselves on Hermes, have concluded 475

That Midas⁴ brood shall sit in Honor's chair,
To which the Muses' sons⁵ are only heir;
And fruitful wits that inaspiring⁰ are not greedy
Shall, discontent, run into regions far;
And few great lords in virtuous deeds shall joy, 480

But be surprised with every garish toy;⁶
7. Prometheus angered Jove by stealing fire from lines, Marlowe claims that Learning, because it is the gods for the benefit of humans.
divine, naturally rises, but that the Fates, to punish
8. The Fates also controlled the "beams" that Mercury for neglecting them, decreed that Learn"upweighed," or supported, Earth, since it was ing went together with Poverty.
formed out of Chaos, the undifferentiated mass

3. I.e., large amounts (a “gross”) of gold go swiftly from which all things came.

to the “boor,” one who lacks refinement, rather

9. I.e., that of Jove’s father, Saturn, whose peaceful reign in heaven, before Jove dethroned him,

4. The king whose touch turned objects to gold.

was known as the Golden Age.

5. I.e., people involved in music, poetry, and the

1. Dominion. Stygian: pertaining to the river Styx, arts and sciences, all of which were presided over in Hades.

by nine sister goddesses called the Muses.

2. Mercury, the god of learning. In the following

6. I.e., be delighted with trivial things.

HERO AND LEANDER / 249

And still enrich the lofty⁰ servile clown, proud.

Who with encroaching guile keeps learning down.

Then muse^o not Cupid’s suit no better sped,⁰ marvel /succeeded

Seeing in their loves the Fates were injured.

Second Sestiad

By^o this, sad Hero, with love unacquainted, at

Viewing Leander’s face, fell down and fainted.

He kissed her and breathed life into her lips,

Wherewith, as one displeased, away she trips.

5 Yet as she went, full often looked behind,

And many poor excuses did she find

To linger by the way, and once she stayed
And would have turned again, but was afraid,
In offering parley,0 to be counted light.0 talk/wanton
10 So on she goes, and in her idle flight,
Her painted fan of curled plumes let fall,
Thinking to train0 Leander therewithal. entice
He, being a novice, knew not what she meant,
But stayed, and after her a letter sent,
15 Which joyful Hero answered in such sort
As he had hoped to scale the beauteous fort Wherein the liberal graces7 locked their wealth,
And therefore to her tower he got by stealth.
Wide open stood the door, he need not climb;
20 And she herself, before the 'pointed time,
Had spread the board, with roses strewed the room,
And oft looked out, and mused0 he did not come. wondered why
At last he came; Oh, who can tell the greeting
These greedy lovers had at their first meeting?
25 He asked, she gave, and nothing was denied;
Both to each other quickly were affied.0 affianced
Look how their hands, so were their hearts united,
And what he did she willingly requited.
(Sweet are the kisses, the embracements sweet,
30 When like desires and affections meet;
For from the earth to heaven is Cupid raised,
Where fancy is in equal balance peised.0) weighed
Yet she this rashness suddenly repented,

And turned aside, and to herself lamented,
35 As if her name and honor had been wronged
By being possessed of him for whom she longed;
Aye, and she wished, albeit not from her heart,
That he would leave her turret and depart.
The mirthful god of amorous pleasure smiled
40 To see how he this captive nymph⁰ beguiled; girl
For hitherto he did but fan the fire,
And kept it down that it might mount the higher.
Now waxed she jealous⁰ lest his love abated, fearful
7. Charm and beauty (given by three sister goddesses called the Graces).

250 / CHRISTOPHER MARLOWE

Fearing her own thoughts made her to be hated.

45

Therefore unto him hastily she goes,
And like light Salmacis, ⁸ her body throws
Upon his bosom, where with yielding eyes
She offers up herself, a sacrifice
To slake⁰ his anger if he were displeas'd.
decrease ⁵⁰

Oh, what god would not there with be appeas'd?

Like Aesop's cock, ⁹ this jewel he enjoyed,
And as a brother with his sister toyed,
Supposing nothing else was to be done,
Now her favor and good will had won.

55

B u t k n o w y o u n o t t h a t c r e a t u r e s w a n t i n g s e n s e 1

B y n a t u r e h a v e a m u t u a l a p p e t e n c e , 0 affinity
A n d w a n t i n g o r g a n s t o a d v a n c e a s t e p ,

M o v e d b y l o v e ' s f o r c e , u n t o e a c h o t h e r l e a p ?

M u c h m o r e i n s u b j e c t s h a v i n g i n t e l l e c t ,

60

S o m e h i d d e n i n f l u e n c e b r e e d s l i k e e f f e c t .

A l b e i t L e a n d e r , r u d e ° i n l o v e a n d r a w , untutored

L o n g d a l l y i n g w i t h H e r o , n o t h i n g s a w

T h a t m i g h t d e l i g h t h i m m o r e , y e t h e s u s p e c t e d S o m e a m o r o u s r i t e s o r o t h e r w e r e n e g l e c t e d .

65

T h e r e f o r e u n t o h i s b o d y h e r s h e c l u n g ; 0 clasped S h e , f e a r i n g o n t h e r u s h e s 2 t o b e f l u n
g ,

S t r i v e d w i t h r e d o u b l e d s t r e n g t h ; t h e m o r e s h e s t r i v e d , T h e m o r e a g e n t l e p l e a s i n g h e a t r e v i v e d ,

W h i c h t a u g h t h i m a l l t h a t e l d e r l o v e r s k n o w ;

70

A n d n o w t h e s a m e g a n s o t o s c o r c h a n d g l o w
, A s i n p l a i n t e r m s , y e t c u n n i n g l y , 0 h e c r a v e d i t ; skillfully L o v e a l w a y s m a k e s t h o s e e l o q u e n t t h a t h a v e i t .

S h e , w i t h a k i n d o f g r a n t i n g , p u t h i m b y i t , 3

A n d e v e r a s h e t h o u g h t h i m s e l f m o s t n i g h t ,

75

L i k e t o t h e t r e e o f T a n t a l u s 4 s h e f l e d ,

A n d , s e e m i n g l a v i s h , 0 s a v e d h e r m a i d e n h e a d
. immodest N e ' e r k i n g m o r e s o u g h t t o k e e p h i s d

i a d e m , 0 c r o w n T h a n H e r o t h i s i n e s t i m a b l e g e m .

A b o v e o u r l i f e w e l o v e a s t e a d f a s t f r i e n d , 80

Y e t w h e n a t o k e n o f g r e a t w o r t h w e s e n d ,
W e o f t e n k i s s i t , o f t e n l o o k t h e r e o n ,
A n d s t a y t h e m e s s e n g e r t h a t w o u l d b e g o n e ;
N o m a r v e l t h e n t h o u g h H e r o w o u l d n o t y i e l d
S o s o o n t o p a r t f r o m t h a t s h e d e a r l y h e l d ; 85

J e w e l s b e i n g l o s t a r e f o u n d a g a i n , t h i s n e v e r ;
'T i s l o s t b u t o n c e , a n d o n c e l o s t , l o s t f o r e v e r .

N o w h a d t h e m o r n e s p i e d h e r l o v e r ' s s t e e d s , 5

8. A nymph (minor nature goddess) who became

2. Reeds, used as floor mats in Elizabethan enamored of Hermaphroditus when she saw him homes.

bathing in her lake. Throwing herself upon him in
i. Deflected him.

spite of his resistance, she called on the gods to

4. For stealing nectar from the gods to give to keep them together forever. In answer to her humans, Jove punished Tantalus by placing him in prayer, their two bodies united and became one,
a pool in Hades. Whenever Tantalus bent to drink, both male and female.

the water receded from his lips; when he reached

9. In one of Aesop's fables, a cock found a jewel for the fruit that dangled above his head, it rose in a dung heap, but had no notion of its value and out of his grasp.

traded it for a grain of corn.

5. The horses that pull the sun's chariot.

1. I.e., that inanimate objects.

HERO AND LEANDER / 251

Where at she starts, put on her purple weeds
, And, red for anger that he stayed so long,

90 All headlong throws herself the clouds a mong.

And now Leander, fearing to be missed,

Embraced her suddenly, took leave, and kissed.

Long was he taking leave, and loath to go,

And kissed again, as lovers use to do.

95 Sad Hero wrung him by the hand and wept
, Saying, "Let your vows and promises be kept."

Then, standing at the door, she turned about
, As loath to see Leander going out.

And now the sun that through th' horizon peeps, 100 As pitying these lovers, downward creeps,
s,

So that in silence of the cloudy night,

Though it was morning, did he take his flight.

But what these secret trusty night concealed,
Leander's amorous habit⁰ soon revealed; *clothing

105 With Cupid's myrtle⁶ was his bonnet crowned,
d,

About his arms the purple riband⁰ wound ribbon

Where with she wreathed her largely spreading hair; Nor could they out abstain, but them must wear The sacred ring where with she was endowed, no When first religious chastity she vowed;
Which made his love through Sestos to be known, And thence unto Abydos sooner blown
Than he could sail; for incorporeal Flame, Whose weight consists in nothing but her name, 115 Is swifter than the wind, whose tardy plumes

Are reeking water and dull earthly fumes. 7

Home, when he came, he seemed not to be there, But like exiled air thrust from his sphere,
Set in a foreign place; 8 and straight from thence, 120 Alcides 0 like, by mighty violence
Hercules
He would have chased away the swelling main 0 ocean That him from her unjustly did detain.

Like as the sun in a diameter 9

Fires and in flames objects removed far,

125 And heat eth kindly, shining laterally,

So beautys sweetly quickens when 'tis nigh, But being separated and removed,

Burns where it cherished, murders where it loved.

Therefore even as an index to a book,

130 So to his mind was young Leander's look.

Oh, none but gods have power their love to hide;
Affection by the countenance is descried. 0
made known The light of hidden fire itself discovers,

And love that is concealed betrays
poor lovers.

135 His secret flame apparently 0 was seen;
openly Leander's father knew where he had been

n ,

6. Plant sacred to Cupid and Venus, symbolic of

8. I.e., air rushes to fill a vacuum.

love.

9. Directly overhead, where it appears to be far-

7. I.e., are producing fog and mist.

ther off than when low in the sky.

252 / CHRISTOPHER MARLOWE

A n d f o r t h e s a m e m i l d l y r e b u k e d h i s s o n ,

T h i n k i n g t o q u e n c h t h e s p a r k l e s n e w b e g u n .

B u t l o v e , r e s i s t e d o n c e , g r o w s p a s s i o n a t e ,

140 A n d n o t h i n g m o r e t h a n c o u n s e l l o v e r s h a t e ;

F o r a s a h o t p r o u d h o r s e h i g h l y d i s d a i n s

T o h a v e h i s h e a d c o n t r o l l e d , b u t b r e a k s t h e r e i n s , S p i t s f o r t h t h e r i n g l e d b i t , a n d w i t h h i s h o o v e s r i n g e d C h e c k s t h e s u b m i s s i v e g r o u n d , s o h e t h a t l o v e s , s t a m p s 145 T h e m o r e h e i s r e s t r a i n e d , t h e w o r s e h e f a r e s .

W h a t i s i t n o w b u t m a d L e a n d e r d a r e s ? 1

“O h H e r o , H e r o ! ” t h u s h e c r i e d f u l l o f t ,

A n d t h e n h e g o t h i m t o a r o c k a l o f t ,

W h e r e h a v i n g s p i e d h e r t o w e r , l o n g s t a r e d h e o n ‘ t , 150 A n d p r a y e d t h e n a r r o w t o i l i n g H e l l e s p o n t

T o p a r t i n t w a i n , t h a t h e m i g h t c o m e a n d g o ;

B u t s t i l l t h e r i s i n g b i l l o w s a n s w e r e d “N o .”

W i t h t h a t h e s t r i p p e d h i m t o t h e i v o r y s k i n ,

A n d c r y i n g , “L o v e , I c o m e ! ” l e a p e d l i v e l y i n .

155 Where at the sapphire-visaged god grew w proud, And made his capering Triton² sound
d aloud,

Imagining that Ganymede,³ displeased,
Had left the heavens; therefore on him he seized.

Leander strived; the waves about him wound
,

160 And pulled him to the bottom, where the ground Was strewed with pearl, and in low coral groves

Sweet singing mermaids sported with their loves On heaps of heavy gold, and took great ple asure To spurn in careless sort the shipwreck k treasure.

165 For here the stately azure palace stood,
Where kingly Neptune and his train abode.

The lusty god embraced him, called him love,
And swore he never should return to Jove.

But when he knew it was not Ganymede,

170 For under water he was almost dead,

He heaved him up, and looking on his face,

Beat down the bold waves with his triple mace,⁴

Which mounted up, intending to have kisse d him, And fell in drops like tears, because they m issed him.

175 Leander, being up, began to swim,

And looking back, saw Neptune follow him;

Where at aghast, the poor soul gant to cry:

“Oh, let me visit Her ere I die!”

The god put Helle's⁵ bracelet on his arm, iso A n d s w o r e t h e s e a s h o u l d n e v e r d o h i m h a r m .

H e c l a p p e d h i s p l u m p c h e e k s , w i t h h i s t r e s s e s p l a y e d , A n d s m i l i n g w a n t o n l y , h i s l o v e b e w r a y e d . 0 r e v e a l e d H e w a t c h e d h i s a r m s , a n d a s t h e y o p e n e d w i d e , 1. I.e., there is nothing now that mad Leander

5. A Theban princess who, while fleeing from her wouldn't dare do.

stepmother on the back of a winged, golden-

2. The son and trumpeter of the "sapphire-fleeced ram, fell into the strait that separates visaged" sea god, Neptune.

Europe and Asia, named the Hellespont for her.

3. Jove's cupbearer (see note 3, p. 240).

Marlowe seems to have invented the detail of the

4. The three-pronged fork carried by Neptune. bracelet.

HERO AND LEANDER / 253

At every stroke betwixt them would he slide,
185 And steal a kiss, and then run out and dance,
And as he turned, cast many a lustful glance,
And threw him gaudy toys to please his eye,
And dive into the water, and there pry
Upon his breast, his thighs, and every limb,
190 And up again, and close beside him swim,
And talk of love. Leander made reply:
"You are deceived, I am no woman, I."
Thereat smiled Neptune, and then told a tale
How that a shepherd, sitting in a vale,

195 Played with a boy so lovely, fair, and kind,
As for his love both earth and heaven pined;
That of the cooling river durst not drink
Lest water nymphs should pull him from the brink;
And when he sported in the fragrant lawns,
200 Goat-footed satyrs and up-staring fauns⁶
Would steal him thence. Ere half this tale was done, “Ay me,” Leander cried, “th’ enamored sun,
That now should shine on Thetis’ glassy bower,⁷
Descends upon my radiant Hero’s tower.
205 Oh, that these tardy arms of mine were wings!”
And as he spake, upon the waves he springs.
Neptune was angry that he gave no ear,
And in his heart revenging malice bare;
He flung at him his mace, but as it went 210 He called it in, for love made him repent.
The mace returning back, his own hand hit,
As meaning to be venged for darting it.
When this fresh bleeding wound Leander viewed,
His color went and came, as if he rued
215 The grief which Neptune felt. In gentle breasts
Relenting thoughts, remorse, and pity rests;
And who have hard hearts and obdurate minds
But vicious, harebrained, and illiterate hinds?⁸ rustics
The god, seeing him with pity to be moved,
220 Thereon concluded that he was beloved.
(Love is too full of faith, too credulous,
With folly and false hope deluding us.)

Wherefore, Leander's fancy⁰ to surprise,⁰ love/capture
To the rich ocean for gifts he flies.

225 Tis wisdom to give much; a gift prevails
When deep persuading oratory fails.

By this,⁰ Leander, being near the land, this time
Cast down his weary feet and felt the sand.

Breathless albeit he were, he rested not 230 Till to the solitary tower he got,

And knocked and called, at which celestial noise
The longing heart of Hero much more joys

6. Like satyrs, woodland deities; fauns prophesied 7. I.e., the sea. Thetis was a daughter of the sea by looking to the heavens. Nymphs: minor nature god Nereus.

goddesses.

254 / CHRISTOPHER MARLOWE

Than nymphs or shepherds when the timbrel⁰ rings, tambourine

Or crooked⁰ dolphin when the sailor sings; curving

235

She stayed not for her robes, but straight arose,

And drunk with gladness, to the door she goes;

Where seeing a naked man, she screeched for fear,

(Such sights as this to tender maids are rare)

And ran into the dark herself to hide.

240

Rich jewels in the dark are soonest spied;

Unto her was he led, or rather drawn,

By those white limbs which sparkled through the lawn.⁸

The nearer that he came, the more she fled,

And seeking refuge, slipped into her bed.

245

Whereon Leander sitting, thus began,

Through numbing cold all feeble, faint, and wan:^o pale

“If not for love, yet, love, for pity sake,

Me in thy bed and maiden bosom take;

At least vouchsafe these arms some little room,

250

Who, hoping to embrace thee, cheerly^o swum; gladly

This head was beat with many a churlish billow,

And therefore let it rest upon thy pillow.”

Herewith affrighted Hero shrunk away,

And in her lukewarm place Leander lay,

255

Whose lively heat like fire from heaven fet,^o fetched

Would animate gross clay, and higher set

The drooping thoughts of base declining souls,

Than dreary^o Mars^o carousing nectar bowls. bloody / god of war

His hands he cast upon her like a snare;

260

She, overcome with shame and sallow^o fear, pale, yellowish

Like chaste Diana, when Actaeon spied her,⁹

Being suddenly betrayed, dived down to hide her;

And as her silver body downward went,

With both her hands she made the bed a tent,

265

And in her own mind thought herself secure,

O'er cast with dim and darksome coverture.

And now she lets him whisper in her ear,
Flatter, entreat, promise, protest, and swear;
Yet ever as he greedily assayed⁰ tried

270

To touch those dainties, she the harpy¹ played,
And every limb did, as a soldier stout,
Defend the fort and keep the foeman out;
For though the rising ivory mount he scaled,
Which is with azure circling lines empaled,
275

Much like a globe (a globe may I term this,
By which love sails to regions full of bliss)
Yet there with Sisyphus² he toiled in vain,
Till gentle parley⁰ did the truce obtain. conference
Wherein Leander on her quivering breast, 280

Breathless spoke something, and sighed out the rest;

8. A sheer cotton or linen fabric.

tures, half woman and half bird; in Virgil's Aeneid,

9. Actaeon, a hunter who saw the naked Diana several harpies seize the meal of an old prophet.

about to bathe in her favorite pool; as punishment,

2. Who was condemned to Hades and made to roll he was turned into a stag and killed by hounds.

a stone uphill forever.

1. Harpies were often pictured as hideous crea-

HERO AND LEANDER / 255

Which so prevailed, as he with small ado
Enclosed her in his arms and kissed her too.
And every kiss to her was as a charm,
And to Leander as a fresh alarm,⁰ call to battle
285 So that the truce was broke, and she, alas,
Poor silly⁰ maiden, at his mercy was. innocent
Love is not full of pity, as men say,
But deaf and cruel where he means to prey.
Even as a bird, which in our hands we wring,
290 Forth plungeth and oft flutters with her wing,
She trembling strove; this strife of hers, like that
Which made the world,³ another world begat
Of unknown joy. Treason was in her thought,
And cunningly to yield herself she sought.
295 Seeming not won, yet won she was at length;
In such wars women use but half their strength.
Leander now, like Theban Hercules,
Entered the orchard of th' Hesperides,⁴ Whose fruit none rightly can describe but he 300 That pulls or shakes it from the golden tree.
And now she wished this night were never done,
And sighed to think upon th' approaching sun;
For much it grieved her that the bright daylight
Should know the pleasure of this blessed night,
305 And them like Mars and Erycine⁵ display,
Both in each other's arms chained as they lay.
Again she knew not how to frame her look,
Or speak to him who in a moment took

That which so long, so charily she kept;
310 And fain by stealth away she would have crept,
And to some corner secretly have gone,
Leaving Leander in the bed alone.
But as her naked feet were whipping out,
He on the sudden clinged her so about,
315 That mermaid-like unto the floor she slid,
One half appeared, the other half was hid.
Thus near the bed she blushing stood upright,
And from her countenance behold ye might
A kind of twilight break, which through the hair, 320 As from an orient⁰ cloud, glimpse here and there; bright
And round about the chamber this false morn
Brought forth the day before the day was born.
So Hero's ruddy cheek Hero betrayed,
And her all naked to his sight displayed;
325 Whence his admiring eyes more pleasure took Than Dis⁶ on heaps of gold fixing his look.

By this, Apollo's golden harp began

3. According to the ancient Greek philosopher a tree that bore golden apples. One of Hercules' Empedocles, love and strife opposed each other superhuman labors was to steal the apples.

and thus brought about creation.

5. Venus; see note 4, p. 242.

4. Daughters of the Titan Atlas and custodians of

6. Pluto, god of the underworld and god of wealth.

256 / CHRISTOPHER MARLOWE

To sound forth music to the ocean;⁷
Which watchful Hesperus no sooner heard,
330 But he the day-bright-bearing car prepared,
And ran before, as harbinger of light,
And with his flaring beams mocked ugly night
Till she, o'ercome with anguish, shame, and rage, Danged⁰ down to hell her loathsome carriage. drove
violently

1598

The Passionate Shepherd to His Love⁸
Come live with me and be my love,
And we will all the pleasures prove⁰ try
That valleys, groves, hills, and fields,
Woods, or steepy mountain yields.
5 And we will sit upon the rocks,
Seeing the shepherds feed their flocks,
By shallow rivers to whose falls
Melodious birds sing madrigals.
And I will make thee beds of roses
io And a thousand fragrant posies,
A cap of flowers, and a kirtle⁰ gown
Embroidered all with leaves of myrtle;
A gown made of the finest wool
Which from our pretty lambs we pull;
15 Fair lined slippers for the cold,
With buckles of the purest gold;
A belt of straw and ivy buds,
With coral clasps and amber studs:⁰ buttons

And if these pleasures may thee move,

20 Come live with me, and be my love.

The shepherds' swains⁰ shall dance and sing followers

For thy delight each May morning:

If these delights thy mind may move,

Then live with me and be my love.

1599, 1600

7. Presaging the rising of the sun. Hesperus is nor-

8. Cf. the response by Sir Walter Raleigh, "The mally the evening star, but in the next line Marlowe Nymph's Reply to the Shepherd" (p. 152); cf. also applies the name to the morning star, usually

C. Day Lewis's version of this poem (p. 1449).
called Phosphorus or Lucifer.

2 5 7

W I L L I A M S H A K E S P E A R E

1564-1616

FROM SONNETS

T O t h e O n l y B e g e t t e r o f

T h e s e E n s u i n g S o n n e t s

M R . W . H . A l l H a p p i n e s s

a n d T h a t E t e r n i t y

P r o m i s e d

By

O u r E v e r - L i v i n g P o e t

W i s h e t h

t h e W e l l - W i s h i n g

A d v e n t u r e r i n

Setting Forth

T.T.1

1

From fairest creatures we desire increase,
That thereby beauty's rose might never die,
But as the ripper should by time decease,
His tender⁰ heir might bear his memory; young
5 But thou, contracted² to thine own bright eyes,
Feed'st thy light's flame with self-substantial³ fuel,
Making a famine where abundance lies,
Thyself thy foe, to thy sweet self too cruel.
Thou that art now the world's fresh ornament
io And only⁰ herald to the gaudy spring, principal; solitary
Within thine own bud buriest thy content,⁴
And, tender churl,^s mak'st waste in niggarding.⁰ hoarding
Pity the world, or else this glutton be,
To eat the world's due, by the grave and thee.

1. Much critical debate focuses on this dedication addressed in the sonnets or with the "Dark Lady" and its first set of initials (the second set refers to evoked as the third member of the erotic triangle the publisher, Thomas Thorpe). "Mr. W. H." may Shakespeare dramatizes in these poems.

be William Herbert, earl of Pembroke, or Henry
The sonnets evidently circulated in manuscript Wriothesley, earl of Southampton; the former is a for some years before they were first published as dedicatee of the volume of Shakespeare's plays a group in 1609 (a few appeared separately in known as the First Folio, while the latter is the anthologies). The ordering of the 154 poems in the dedicatee of Shakespeare's narrative poems Venus and Adonis and Lucrece. Patrons were often flat-design.

teringly depicted as "begetters" of poems, and it is

2. Betrothed; also implying withdrawn into, therefore tempting to see an association between shrunken (not increased).

"Mr. W. H." and the beloved young man addressed

3. Of your own (unique) substance.

in many of Shakespeare's sonnets, especially

4. What contents you (marriage and fatherhood) because the first seventeen poems in the sequence and also what you contain (potential for fatherhood). stress the young man's need to marry and beget hood).

heirs. No clear evidence, however, identifies a spe-

5. Gentle boor.

cific historical person either with the young man

258 / WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE

20

When forty winters shall besiege thy brow

And dig deep trenches in thy beauty's field,

Thy youth's proud livery, so gazed on now, splendid / clothing Will be a tottered weed of small worth held.

tattered /garment 5 Then being asked where all thy beauty lies—

Where all the treasure of thy lusty days—
To say within thine own deep-sunken eyes
Were an all-eating shame⁶ and thriftless praise.
How much more praise deserved thy beauty's use,⁷
10 If thou couldst answer, "This fair child of mine Shall sum my count and make my old excuse"⁸—
Proving his beauty by succession thine.

This were to be new made when thou art old,
And see thy blood warm when thou feel'st it cold.

3

Look in thy glass⁰ and tell the face thou viewest, mirror
Now is the time that face should form another,
Whose fresh repair⁰ if now thou not renewest, condition
Thou dost beguile the world, unbless some mother.

5 For where is she so fair whose unneared⁹ womb
Disdains the tillage of thy husbandry?
Or who is he so fond⁰ will be the tomb foolish
Of his self-love, to stop posterity?

Thou art thy mother's glass, and she in thee
10 Calls back the lovely April of her prime;
So thou through windows of thine age shalt see,
Despite of wrinkles, this thy golden time.

But if thou live rememb' red not to be,
Die single, and thine image dies with thee.

12

When I do count the clock that tells the time,

And see the brave⁰ day sunk in hideous night; resplendent
When I behold the violet past prime,
And sable curls all silvered o'er with white;
5 When lofty trees I see barren of leaves,
Which erst^o from heat did canopy the herd, formerly
And summer's green all girded up in sheaves,
Borne on the bier¹ with white and bristly beard,

6. A total disgrace; also, an offense in which the my old age.

beauty of youth has been devoured.

9. Immature; also, unplowed.

7. Investment for profit; also, sexual use.

1. A frame for carrying harvested grain; also, a

8. Shall complete my account and justify me in stand on which a corpse is carried to the grave.

S O N N E T S : 1 8 / 2 5 9

Then of thy beauty do I question make,
10 That thou among the wastes of time must go,
Since sweets and beauties do themselves forsake
And die as fast as they see others grow;
And nothing 'gainst Time's scythe can make defense
Save breed,⁰ to brave⁰ him when he takes thee hence, progeny /defy 15

When I consider everything that grows
Holds⁰ in perfection but a little moment, remains
That this huge stage presenteth nought but shows²
Whereon the stars in secret influence comment;³
5 When I perceive that men as plants increase,

Cheered and checked⁰ ev'n by the selfsame sky, repressed
Vaunt in their youthful sap,⁴ at height decrease,
And wear their brave state out of memory,⁵
Then the conceit⁰ of this inconstant stay conception, idea
io Sets you most rich in youth before my sight,
Where wasteful time debateth with⁶ decay
To change your day of youth to sullied⁰ night; soiled;
darkened
And all in war with time for love of you,
As he takes from you, I engraft you new.⁷

18

Shall I compare thee to a summer's day?
Thou art more lovely and more temperate:
Rough winds do shake the darling buds of May,
And summer's lease⁰ hath all too short a date; allotted time
5 Sometimes too hot the eye of heaven shines,
And often is his gold complexion dimmed;
And every fair⁰ from fair sometimes declines, beauty
By chance or nature's changing course untrimmed;⁸
But thy eternal summer shall not fade,
io Nor lose possession of that fair thou ow'st;⁹
Nor shall death brag thou wand'rest in his shade,
When in eternal lines to Time thou grow'st:¹
So long as men can breathe, or eyes can see,
So long lives this, and this gives life to thee.

2. This can be read as “presents only appearances ten.

of performances” with “shows” functioning as a

6. Fights with, fights against.

noun, but “shows” also can operate as a verb and

7. As time withers you, I renew you (with my mean “reveals.”

poetry).

3. The stars secretly affect humankind’s explana-

8. Divested of its beauty.

tion of the world.

9. Own, with a play on owe.

4. Exult in their youthful vigor; also, display them-

1. I.e., when you are grafted to Time in this selves.

immortal poetry.

5. Wear out their splendid finery and are forgot-

2 6 0 / W I L L I A M S H A K E S P E A R E

20

A woman’s face, with nature’s own hand painted,²

Hast thou, the master mistress of my passion—

A woman’s gentle heart, but not acquainted

With shifting change, as is false⁰ women’s fashion;

deceitful; artificial 5 An eye more bright than theirs, less

false in rolling,⁰ roving

Gilding the object whereupon it gazeth;

A man in hue all hues in his controlling,³

Which steals men’s eyes and women’s souls amazeth.

And for a woman wert thou first created,

10 Till nature as she wrought thee fell a-doting,^o crazy;

infatuated And by addition me of thee defeated,

By adding one thing to my purpose nothing.

But since she pricked thee out for women's pleasure,
Mine be thy love and thy love's use their treasure.⁴

29

When, in disgrace⁰ with fortune and men's eyes, disfavor
I all alone bewep my outcast state,
And trouble deaf heaven with my bootless⁰ cries, futile
And look upon myself, and curse my fate,
5 Wishing me like to one more rich in hope,
Featured⁰ like him, like him with friends formed;
handsome possessed,
Desiring this man's art⁰ and that man's scope,⁶ skill
With what I most enjoy contented least;
Yet in these thoughts myself almost despising,
10 Haply I think on thee—and then my state,⁷
Like to the lark at break of day arising
From sullen earth, sings hymns at heaven's gate;
For thy sweet love rememb'ed such wealth brings
That then I scorn to change my state with kings.

2. I.e., not made up with cosmetics.

4. Interest (as in usury), sexual enjoyment. Mod-

3. "Controlling" works as a noun and as an adjective. Modern editors usually punctuate this line with a comma after "love," but some recent critics argue that "hue" (form, complexion, color, and apparition are the main possibilities). The line has been paraphrased in 1609 Quarto in not punctuating the line internally, many ways, among them: “a man in form, all forms, thereby allowing for more than one interpretation i.e., all people, are subject to his power”; “a man of the final couplet.

in complexion, he has control over all other com-

5. The “him”s here refer to two different men.

plexions, i.e., he causes people to grow pale or

6. Freedom, range of ability.

blush”; “a man in appearance, he can present any

7. Condition, state of mind (setting up the pun in appearance he chooses.”

line 14, where it also means chair of state, throne).

SONNETS : 35 / 261

30

When to the sessions of sweet silent thought

I summon up remembrance of things past,

I sigh the lack of many a thing I sought,

And with old woes new wail my dear time's waste:

5 Then can I drown an eye, unused to flow,

For precious friends hid in death's dateless night, endless

And weep afresh love's long since canceled woe,

And moan the expense of many a vanished sight: loss

Then can I grieve at grievances foregone, past

io And heavily from woe to woe tell o'er count

The sad account of fore-bemoaned moan, report; financial record Which I new pay as if not paid before.

But if the while I think on thee, dear friend,

All losses are restored and sorrows end.

33

Full many a glorious morning have I seen

Flatter the mountain-tops with sovereign eye,^o sunlight

Kissing with golden face the meadows green,

Gilding pale streams with heavenly alchemy,

5 Anon^o permit the basest clouds to ride soon

With ugly rack⁹ on his celestial face,

And from the forlorn world his visage hide,

Stealing unseen to west with this disgrace:

Even so my sun one early morn did shine

10 With all-triumphant splendor on my brow;

But, out, alack!⁰ he was but one hour mine, also

The region cloud¹ hath masked him from me now.

Yet him for this my love no whit disdaineth;

Suns of the world may stain² when heaven's sun staineth.

35

No more be grieved at that which thou hast done:

Roses have thorns, and silver fountains mud,

Clouds and eclipses stain⁰ both moon and sun, dim; defile

And loathsome canker⁰ lives in sweetest bud. rose worm

5 All men make faults, and even I in this,

Authorizing⁰ thy trespass with compare, justifying

Myself corrupting salving thy amiss,³

Excusing thy sins more than thy sins are:

8. One may be "summoned" to the "sessions" (sit- 1. I.e., the clouds in the vicinity, tings) of a court. 2. I.e., be stained.

9. A wind-driven mass of high, broken clouds. 3. Explaining, making acceptable or palliating 2 6 2 / W I L L I A M S H A

K E S P E A R E

For to thy sensual fault I bring in sense⁰— reason

10 Thy adverse party is thy advocate—

And ‘gainst myself a lawful plea commence.

Such civil war is in my love and hate,

That I an accessory needs must be

To that sweet thief which sourly robs from me.

55

Not marble, nor the gilded monuments

Of princes, shall outlive this powerful rhyme;

But you shall shine more bright in these contents

Than unswept stone, besmeared with sluttish time.

5 When wasteful war shall statues overturn,

And broils⁰ root out the work of masonry,⁴ disturbances

Nor Mars hiss sword nor war’s quick fire shall burn

The living record of your memory.

‘Gainst death and all-oblivious enmity⁶

io Shall you pace forth; your praise shall still find room

Even in the eyes of all posterity

That wear this world out to the ending doom.⁰ Judgment
*Day

So, till the judgment that yourself arise,⁷

You live in this, and dwell in lovers’ eyes.

60

Like as the waves make towards the pebbled shore,

So do our minutes hasten to their end,

Each changing place with that which goes before,

In sequent toil⁸ all forwards do contend.

5 Nativity, once in the main⁰ of light, sea
Crawls to maturity, wherewith being crowned,
Crooked⁹ eclipses ‘gainst his glory fight,
And time that gave doth now his gift confound.
Time doth transfix the flourish set on youth, io And delves the parallels¹ in beauty’s brow,
Feeds on the rarities of nature’s truth,
And nothing stands but for² his scythe to mow.
And yet to times in hope³ my verse shall stand,
Praising thy worth, despite his cruel hand.

your offense; also, smoothing and healing, as with ous succession, in unbroken series.

an ointment, your misdeed.

9. Malignant (in an astrological sense), but also

4. Products of the stonemason’s work; work made suggesting the crookedness of an old man bent by of stone.

age-

5. I.e., neither Mars’s.

1. Digs the wrinkles (“parallels” are military

6. The enmity of being forgotten.

trenches). Transfix the flourish: destroy the beauty;

7. I.e., until the Judgment Day when (“that”) you to “flourish” is also to blossom.

rise from the dead.

2. I.e., and stands for nothing except.

8. I.e., our minutes (like the waves) toil in contin-

3. Future times.

S O N N E T S : 7 3 / 2 6 3

65

Since brass, nor⁴ stone, nor earth, nor boundless sea
But sad mortality o'er-sways their power,
How with this rage^o shall beauty hold a plea, *destructive
power

Whose action is no stronger than a flower?

5 O, how shall summer's honey breath hold out Against the wrackfu^P siege of batt'ring days, destructive
When rocks impregnable are not so stout,
Nor gates of steel so strong, but time decays?

O fearful meditation! where, alack,^o alas

10 Shall time's best jewel from time's chest lie hid?
Or what strong hand can hold his swift foot back?
Or who his spoil of beauty⁵ can forbid?
O, none, unless this miracle have might,
That in black ink my love may still shine bright.

71

No longer mourn for me when I am dead
Than you shall hear the surly sullen bell⁶
Give warning to the world that I am fled
From this vile world, with vilest worms to dwell:
5 Nay, if you read this line, remember not
The hand that writ it; for I love you so,
That I in your sweet thoughts would be forgot,
If thinking on me then should make you woe.
Oh, if, I say, you look upon this verse
10 When I (perhaps) compounded am with clay,

Do not so much as my poor name rehearse,
But let your love even with my life decay;
Lest the wise world should look into your moan,
And mock you with me after I am gone.

73

That time of year thou mayst in me behold
When yellow leaves, or none, or few, do hang Upon those boughs which shake against the cold,
Bare ruined choirs,⁷ where late the sweet birds sang.

5 In me thou see'st the twilight of such day
As after sunset fadeth in the west;

Which by and by black night doth take away,

4. I.e., since there is neither brass nor member, one stroke for each year he or she had

5. Ravaging of beauty; the Quarto has "or" for "of," lived.

and some modern editors follow that reading.

7. Parts of churches occupied by singers or clergy.

6. The bell rang to announce the death of a parish

264 / W I L L I A M S H A K E S P E A R E

Death's second self, that seals up all in rest.

In me thou see'st the glowing of such fire,

10 That on the ashes of his youth doth lie,

As the deathbed whereon it must expire,

Consumed with that which it was nourished by.

This thou perceiv'st, which makes thy love more strong,

To love that well which thou must leave ere long.

76

Why is my verse so barren of new pride,⁰ adornment

So far from variation or quick change?⁸

Why with the time do I not glance aside

To new-found methods, and to compounds⁹ strange?

5 Why write I still all one, ever the same,

And keep invention in a noted⁰ weed,⁰ familiar / clothing

That every word doth almost tell my name,

Showing their,⁰ birth, and where they did proceed? the words'

O know, sweet love, I always write of you,

io And you and love are still my argument.⁰ theme

So all my best is dressing old words new,

Spending again what is already spent:

For as the sun is daily new and old,

So is my love still telling what is told.

87

Farewell, thou art too dear¹ for my possessing,

And like enough thou know'st thy estimate.⁰ value

The charter⁰ of thy worth gives thee releasing; privilege;
deed

My bonds in thee are all determinate.⁰ expired

5 For how do I hold thee but by thy granting,

And for that riches where is my deserving?

The cause of this fair gift in me is wanting,

And so my patent⁰ back again is swerving. title

Thyself thou gav'st, thy own worth then not knowing,

io Or me, to whom thou gav'st it, else mistaking;

So thy great gift, upon misprision⁰ growing, error; oversight

Comes home again, on better judgement making.²

Thus have I had thee as a dream doth flatter:3

In sleep a king, but waking no such matter.

8. Facile innovation; modishness. 1. Precious (i.e., beloved), costly, grievous.

9. Mixture, compound words, literary compositions. 2. I.e., on your making a better judgment, tions. 3. As in a flattering dream.

S O N N E T S : 1 0 6 / 2 6 5

94

They that have power to hurt and will do none,

That do not do the thing they most do show,4

Who, moving others, are themselves as stone,

Unmoved, cold, and to temptation slow;

5 They rightly do inherit heaven's graces,

And husband nature's riches from expense;5

They are the lords and owners of their faces,

Others but stewards⁰ of their excellence. hired managers

The summer's flower is to the summer sweet,

io Though to itself it only live and die,

But if that flower with base infection meet,

The basest weed outbraves⁰ his dignity: surpasses

For sweetest things turn sourest by their deeds;

Lilies that fester smell far worse than weeds.

97

How like a winter hath my absence been

From thee, the pleasure of the fleeting year!

What freezings have I felt, what dark days seen!

What old December's bareness everywhere!

5 And yet this time removed⁰ was summer's time, of separation

The teeming autumn big with rich increase,
Bearing the wanton burthen of the prime,⁶
Like widowed wombs after their lords' decease.
Yet this abundant issue seemed to me
io But hope of orphans, and unfathered fruit;
For summer and his⁰ pleasures wait on thee, its
And thou away, the very birds are mute;
Or if they sing, 'tis with so dull a cheer,⁷
That leaves look pale, dreading the winter's near.

106

When in the chronicle of wasted⁰ time past; destroyed
I see descriptions of the fairest wights,⁰ persons
And beauty making beautiful old rhyme
In praise of ladies dead and lovely knights,
5 Then, in the blazon⁸ of sweet beauty's best,
Of hand, of foot, of lip, of eye, of brow,

I.e., what their appearance indicates they will wantonness of one's sexual prime.

7. So gloomily; so downcast.

I.e., guard against squandering nature's riches.

8. A catalog of attributes; a literary form charac-

The children of wanton springtime, i.e., the terized by a standardized description of the >ps planted at that time; also, the fruits of the woman's body parts.

266 / WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE

I see their antique pen would have expressed
Even such a beauty as you master now.

So all their praises are but prophecies
io Of this our time, all you prefiguring;
And, for^o they looked but^o with divining eyes, *because / only

They had not skill enough your worth to sing:
For we, which now behold these present days,
Have eyes to wonder, but lack tongues to praise.

107

Not mine own fears, nor the prophetic soul
Of the wide world dreaming on things to come,
Can yet the lease of my true love control,
Supposed as forfeit to a confined doom.⁹
5 The mortal moon' hath her eclipse endured,
And the sad augurs mock their own presage;⁰ prediction
Uncertainties now crown themselves assured,
And peace proclaims olives of endless age.
Now with the drops of this most balmy time
io My love looks fresh, and death to me subscribes,⁰ submits
Since, spite of him, I'll live in this poor rhyme,
While he insults o'er dull and speechless tribes:
And thou in this shalt find thy monument,
When tyrants' crests and tombs of brass are spent.⁰
*destroyed

116

Let me not to the marriage of true minds
Admit impediments. Love is not love
Which alters when it alteration finds,
Or bends with the remover to remove:

5 Oh, no! it is an ever-fixed mark,
That looks on tempests and is never shaken;
It is the star to every wandering bark,⁰ ship
Whose worth's unknown, although his height be taken.²
Love's not Time's fool, though rosy lips and cheeks
io Within his bending sickle's compass come;
Love alters not with his brief hours and weeks,
But bears it out even to the edge⁰ of doom.⁰ brink
*/Judgment Day

If this be error and upon me proved,
I never writ, nor no man ever loved.

9. Playing on metaphors of real estate, the lines (43), whose sixty-third year had been erroneously suggest that despite his fears, the poet's love has anticipated by astrologers ("augurs," line 6) as a not yet suffered the fate of being limited ("con-time of disaster. fined") by death.

2. I.e., although the star's altitude may be mea-

1. Queen Elizabeth I (1533 - 1603; see pp. 142 - sured.

SONNETS : 130 / 267

1263

O thou, my lovely boy, who in thy pow'r
Dost hold time's fickle glass his sickle hour,⁴
Who hast by waning grown,⁵ and therein⁰ show'st
*in contrast

Thy lovers withering, as thy sweet self grow'st—

If nature, sovereign mistress over wrack,⁰ destruction,

As thou goest onwards still will pluck thee back,
She keeps thee to this purpose, that her skill
May time disgrace, and wretched minute kill.
Yet fear her, O thou minion⁶ of her pleasure;
She may detain but not still⁰ keep her treasure.
always, forever

Her audit,⁰ though delayed, answered must be,
final accounting

And her quietus⁰ is to render⁰ thee.
settlement / surrender

129

Th' expense of spirit in a waste of shame
Is lust in action;⁷ and till action, lust
Is perjured, murderous, bloody, full of blame,
Savage, extreme, rude,⁰ cruel, not to trust; brutal
5 Enjoyed no sooner but despised straight:
Past reason hunted; and no sooner had,
Past reason hated, as a swallowed bait,
On purpose laid to make the taker mad:
Mad in pursuit, and in possession so;
10 Had, having, and in quest to have, extreme;
A bliss in proof,⁰ and proved, a very woe; the experience
Before, a joy proposed; behind, a dream.
All this the world well knows; yet none knows well
To shun the heaven that leads men to this hell.

130

My mistress' eyes are nothing like the sun;

Coral is far more red than her lips' red;

If snow be white, why then her breasts are dun;⁰ dull grayish brown
If hairs be wires, black wires grow on her head.

5 I have seen roses damasked,⁰ red and white, variegated

But no such roses see I in her cheeks;

And in some perfumes is there more delight

3. An envoy of six couplets, this "sonnet" ends the

5. Grown more beautiful over time.

part of Shakespeare's sequence that seems ad-

6. Darling, favorite, plaything, servile follower.

dressed to a young man.

7. I.e., lust, when put into action, is an expendi-

4. Hourglass. Glass: mirror, presumably in which

ture of "spirit" (life, vigor, also semen) in a waste
the viewer can see time's ravaging of beauty.

(desert, with a play on the crotch, or "waist," of Sickle: scythe, here in adjectival sense, cutting.

shame).

2 6 8 / W I L L I A M SHAKESPEARE

Than in the breath that from my mistress reeks.

I love to hear her speak, yet well I know

10 That music hath a far more pleasing sound;

I grant I never saw a goddess go;⁰ walk
My mistress, when she walks, treads on the ground.
And yet, by heaven, I think my love as rare
As any she⁰ belied with false compare. woman

135

Whoever hath her wish, thou hast thy *Will
And Will to boot, and Will in overplus;
More than enough am I that vex thee still,⁰ always
To thy sweet will making addition thus.
5 Wilt thou, whose will is large and spacious,
Not once vouchsafe⁰ to hide my will in thine? consent
Shall will in others seem right gracious,
And in⁰ my will no fair acceptance shine? in the case of The sea, all water, yet receives rain still, io And in abundance addeth to his⁰ store;⁰ its / reserves
So thou being rich in Will add to thy Will
One will of mine, to make thy large Will more.
Let no unkind, no fair beseechers kill;⁹
Think all but one, and me in that one Will.

138

When my love swears that she is made of truth,
I do believe her, though I know she lies,¹ That⁰ she might think me some untutored youth, so that Unlearned in the world's false subtleties.
5 Thus vainly thinking that she thinks me young,
Although she knows my days are past the best,² Simply⁰ I credit her false-speaking tongue: like a simpleton
On both sides thus is simple truth suppressed.

But wherefore says she not she is unjust?³ io And wherefore say not I that I am old?

Oh, love's best habit⁰ is in seeming trust, clothes; custom

And age in love loves not to have years told.⁰ counted

Therefore I lie with her and she with me,

And in our faults by lies we flattered be.

8. Here, the word can refer to wishes, carnal

1. Does not tell the truth, with a pun on "lies" with desire, male and female sexual organs, and a lover men.

named Will (Shakespeare?). Three, possibly four,

2. When this sonnet was first published, in the sonnets pun on "will"; we follow the 1609 Quarto's anthology The Passionate Pilgrim (1599), Shakespeare way of printing the word.

speare was thirty-five.

9. Do not kill any of your suitors with unkindness.

3. I.e., why does she not say that she is unfaithful?

S O N N E T S : 1 4 6 / 2 6 9

144

Two loves I have of comfort and despair,⁴

Which like two spirits do suggest⁰ me still⁰ tempt/always

The better angel is a man right fair,

The worser spirit a woman coloured ill.^o dark

5 To win me soon to hell, my female evil

Tempteth my better angel from my side,

And would corrupt my saint to be a devil,

Wooing his purity with her foul pride.⁰ vanity; sexual wantonness

And, whether that my angel be turn'd fiend,

io Suspect I may, yet not directly tell,

But being both from⁰ me both to each⁰ friend, away from / each other

I guess one angel in another's hell.⁵

Yet this shall I ne'er know, but live in doubt,

Till my bad angel fire my good one out.⁶

146

Poor soul, the center of my sinful earth,

Lord of⁷ these rebel powers that thee array,⁰ dress, deck out

Why dost thou pine within and suffer dearth,

Painting thy outward walls so costly gay?

5 Why so large cost, having so short a lease,

Dost thou upon thy fading mansion spend?

Shall worms, inheritors of this excess,

Eat up thy charge?⁸ Is this thy body's end?

Then, soul, live thou upon thy servant's loss,

io And let that pine to aggravate thy store;⁹

Buy terms divine in selling hours of dross;¹

Within be fed, without be rich no more.

So shalt thou feed on death, that feeds on men,

And death once dead, there's no more dying then.

1609

4. I have two beloveds; one brings me comfort, apparently a mistake, in place of "Lord of" (an edi-

and the other despair.

torial conjecture) at the beginning of this line.

5. Each is a punishment for the other; also, a double entendre.
Other possibilities have been suggested, e.g.,

“Rebuke,” “Thrall to,” “Pressed by.”

6. The metaphor is from hunting: using fire and

8. Your expenditure; your trust, i.e., your body; smoke to drive a fox from its hole. The line also your burden.

alludes to the onset of venereal disease, to the

9. I.e., let the body suffer (“pine”) to increase your Renaissance coin called an angel, and to various riches.

proverbial sayings including One fire drives out

1. I.e., purchase ages of immortality through selling hours of mortal time. Dross: rubbish.

7. The 1609 Quarto repeats “My sinful earth,”

270 / WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE

The Phoenix and the Turtle²

Let the bird of loudest lay,^o

song

On the sole^o Arabian tree, unique

Herald sad^o and trumpet be,

solemn

To whose sound chaste wings obey.

5 But thou shrieking harbinger,³

Foul precurrer of the fiend,⁴
Augur of the fever's end,⁵
To this troop come thou not near!

From this session interdict⁰ forbid

10 Every fowl of tyrant wing,⁶
Save the eagle, feathered king:
Keep the obsequy⁰ so strict.

funeral rites

Let the priest in surplice⁰ white, vestment

That defunctive⁰ music can,"

funeral / knows

15 Be the death-divining swan,⁷
Lest the requiem lack his^o right.⁰

its / due ceremony

And thou treble-dated crow,⁸
That thy sable⁰ gender mak'st
With the breath thou giv'st and tak'st,

black

20 'Mongst our mourners shalt thou go.

Here the anthem doth commence:

Love and constancy is dead,

Phoenix and the turtle fled

In a mutual flame from hence.

25 So they loved as^o love in twain as if

Had the essence but in one;

Two distincts, division none:

Number there in love was slain.⁹

Hearts remote, yet not asunder;

30 Distance, and no space was seen

‘Twixt this turtle and his queen;

But in them it were a wonder.¹

2. Turtledove, famous for steadfastness in love.

drew near, it “divined” (knew) the time of its death.

The phoenix is a legendary bird, the only one of its

8. The crow was supposed to live three times kind. It is represented as living five hundred years longer than humans and to conceive its young in the Arabian desert before setting itself on fire,

(“sable gender,” line 18) through its beak.

then rising anew from its own ashes. The identity of

9. Refers to the Aristotelian theory that “one is no

the bird in line 1 has been much debated; most number,” as Marlowe puts it in Hero and Leander, critics agree that it is not the phoenix, which left line 255 (p. 244). The stanza depicts the lovers as “no posterity” (line 59).

paradoxically united but separate. Because they

3. I.e., the screech owl, harbinger of death.

are neither one nor two, their “love” has “slain” the

4. I.e., forerunner of Satan.

idea of “number.”

5. I.e., presager of death.

1. I.e., in anyone except (“but”) them, it would

6. I.e., every predatory bird.

have been a wonder.

7. Since the swan was said to sing only as its death

T H E P H O E N I X AND THE T U R T L E / 2 7 1

So° between them love did shine so much

That the turtle saw his right⁰ due; possession; nature

35 Flaming in the phoenix' sight:⁰ eyes

Either was the other's mine.²

Property was thus appalled,

That the self was not the same;

Single nature's double name

40 Neither two nor one was called.

Reason, in itself confounded,⁰ destroyed

Saw division grow together,

To themselves yet either neither,

Simple were so well compounded;

45 That it cried, "How true⁰ a twain faithful; truly

Seemeth this concordant one!

Love hath reason, reason none,

If what parts can so remain."³

Whereupon it made this threne⁴

50 To the phoenix and the dove,

Co-supremes° and stars of love, joint rulers

As chorus to their tragic scene.

Threnos

Beauty, truth,⁰ and rarity, fidelity

Grace in all simplicity,

55 Here enclosed in cinders lie.

Death is now the phoenix' nest;

And the turtle's loyal breast
To eternity doth rest,⁵
Leaving no posterity:
60 'Twas not their infirmity,⁰ sterility
It was married chastity.
Truth may seem, but cannot be;
Beauty brag, but 'tis not she:
Truth and Beauty buried be.
65 To this urn let those repair
That are either true or fair;
For these dead birds sigh a prayer.

1601

2. I.e., self; with a pun on source of (mineral)

4. Threnos or threnody (Greek), a lyrical lament wealth.

over the dead.

3. I.e., if what is separate can remain joined, then

5. Rests eternally; endures forever.

reason yields to love as more reasonable.

272 / WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE

S O N G S FROM THE PLAYS

When Daisies Pied⁶

Spring

When daisies pied⁰ and violets blue variegated

And lady-smocks all silver-white

And cuckoo-buds of yellow hue⁷

Do paint the meadows with delight,

5 The cuckoo then, on every tree,

Mocks married men;⁸ for thus sings he,
Cuckoo;
Cuckoo, cuckoo: Oh word of fear,
Unpleasing to a married ear!
10 When shepherds pipe on oaten⁰ straws,⁰ reed/pipes
And merry larks are plowmen's clocks,⁹
When turtles tread, and rooks, and daws,¹
And maidens bleach their summer smocks,
The cuckoo then, on every tree,
15 Mocks married men; for thus sings he,
Cuckoo;
Cuckoo, cuckoo: Oh word of fear,
Unpleasing to a married ear!

Winter

When icicles hang by the wall
20 And Dick the shepherd blows his nail²
And Tom bears logs into the hall,
And milk comes frozen home in pail.
When blood is nipped⁰ and ways⁰ be foul, chilled /paths
Then nightly sings the staring owl,
25 Tu-who;
Tu-whit,³ tu-who: a merry note,
While greasy Joan doth keel⁰ the pot. stir to cool
When all aloud the wind doth blow,
And coughing drowns the parson's saw,⁰ wise saying
30 And birds sit brooding in the snow,
And Marian's nose looks red and raw,
When roasted crabs⁰ hiss in the bowl,⁰ crab apples / (of ale)

Then nightly sings the staring owl,

Tu-who;

35 Tu-whit, tu-who: a merry note

While greasy Joan doth keel the pot.

1595? 1598

6. This song concludes Love's Labour's Lost.

old, meaning a husband whose wife is unfaithful.

Announced as a "Dialogue ... in praise of the Owl

9. Larks sing at sunrise.

and the Cuckoo," it provides a lyric commentary

1. Two kinds of crows. When turtles tread: i.e., on the bittersweet mood that pervades the play's

when turtledoves mate.

final scene.

2. I.e., breathes on his fingers to warm them; also,

7. Modern commentators differ in identifying waits patiently while he has nothing to do.

these flowers.

3. Possibly "to woo; to it" (the latter a hunter's cry,

8. The cuckoo's song was often translated as cuck- here with sexual overtones).

B L O W , B L O W , T H O U W I N T E R W I N D / 2 7 3

Under the Greenwood Tree⁴

Under the greenwood tree

Who loves to lie with me,

And turn⁰ his merry note attune

Unto the sweet bird's throat,

5 Come hither, come hither, come hither:

Here shall he see

No enemy

But winter and rough weather.

Who doth ambition shun

10 And loves to live i' the sun,

Seeking the food he eats,

And pleased with what he gets,

Come hither, come hither, come hither:

Here shall he see

15 No enemy

But winter and rough weather.

1599? 1623

Blow, Blow, Thou Winter Wind⁵

Blow, blow, thou winter wind,

Thou art not so unkind

As man's ingratitude;

Thy tooth is not so keen,

5 Because thou art not seen,

Although thy breath be rude.⁰ rough

Heigh-ho! sing, heigh-ho! unto the green holly:6

Most friendship is feigning, most loving mere folly:

Then, heigh-ho, the holly!

io This life is most jolly.

Freeze, freeze, thou bitter sky,

That dost not bite so nigh

As benefits forgot:

Though thou the waters warp,⁷

15 Thy sting is not so sharp

As friend remembered not.

Heigh-ho! sing, heigh-ho! unto the green holly ...

1599? 1623

4. From As You Like It (2.5). Sung by Amiens, a lord attending the banished duke in the Forest of Arden, this lyric elaborates on the play's thematic contrast between nature and human behavior.

the traditional opposition between pastoral and

6. An emblem of mirth.

courtly modes of life.

7. I.e., freeze.

5. From As You Like It (2.7). Sung by Amiens, a

274 / W I L L I A M SHAKESPEARE

It Was a Lover and His Lass⁸

It was a lover and his lass,

With a hey, and a ho, and a hey nonino,

That o'er the green corn⁰ field did pass wheat

In springtime, the only pretty ring time,⁹

5 When birds do sing, hey ding a ding, ding:

Sweet lovers love the spring.

Between the acres of the rye,¹

With a hey, and a ho, and a hey nonino,

These pretty country folks would lie,

10 In springtime, the only pretty ring time ...

This carol⁰ they began that hour, song

With a hey, and a ho, and a hey nonino,

How that a life was but a flower

In springtime, the only pretty ring time ...

15 And therefore take0 the present time, seize

With a hey, and a ho, and a hey nonino;
For love is crowned with the prime0
springtime

In springtime, the only pretty ring time .

1599? 1623

Sigh No More²

Sigh no more, ladies, sigh no more.

Men were deceivers ever,

One foot in sea, and one on shore,

To one thing constant never.

5 Then sigh not so, but let them go,

And be you blithe0 and bonny,0 cheerful /joyful

Converting all your sounds of woe

Into hey nonny, nonny.³

Sign no more ditties, sing no more

10 Of dumps0 SO dull and heavy. mournful songs or moods

The fraud of men was ever so

Since summer first was leafy.

Then sigh not so, but let them go,

And be you blithe and bonny,

8. From As You Like It (5.3). Sung by two pages

1. On unplowed ground between the planted to the clown, Touchstone, and the “country fields.

wench,” Audrey; in the next (and final) scene, this

2. Sung by Balthasar, attendant to the villainous couple and three other couples will marry.

Don Pedro, in Much Ado About Nothing (2.3).

9. I.e., marriage season.

3. (A nonsense refrain.)

C O M E A W A Y , C O M E A W A Y , D E A T H / 2 7 5

15 Converting all your sounds of woe

Into hey nonny, nonny.

1600 1623

Oh Mistress Mine⁴

Oh mistress mine! where are you roaming?

Oh! stay and hear; your true love’s coming,

That can sing both high and low.

Trip⁰ no further, pretty sweeting; go

5 Journeys end in lovers meeting,

Every wise man’s son⁵ doth know.

What is love? ‘tis not hereafter;

Present mirth hath present laughter;

What’s to come is still⁰ unsure: always

10 In delay there lies no plenty;

Then come kiss me, sweet and twenty,

Youth’s a stuff will not endure.

1602 1623

Come Away, Come Away, Death⁶

Come away, come away, death,

And in sad cypress⁷ let me be laid.

Fly away, fly away, breath;

I am slain by a fair cruel maid.
5 My shroud of white, stuck all with yew,⁸
O, prepare it!
My part of death, no one so true
Did share it.
Not a flower, not a flower sweet,
10 On my black coffin let there be strown.
Not a friend, not a friend greet
My poor corpse, where my bones shall be thrown.
A thousand thousand sighs to save,
Lay me, O, where 15 Sad true lover never find my grave,
To weep there!

1602

1623

4. From Twelfth Night (2.3). Sung by the clown, choly request for a song.

Feste, in response to a request by Sir Toby and Sir

7. A coffin of cypress or a bier covered with Andrew for a “love-song.”

cypress boughs. The tree symbolized mourning.

5. I.e., proverbially: every fool.

8. A tree symbolizing sadness, often planted in

6. From Twelfth Night (2.4). Sung by the clown, churchyards.

Feste, in response to the lovesick duke’s melan-

276 / W I L L I A M SHAKESPEARE

When That I Was and a Little Tiny Boy⁹

When that I was and a little tiny boy,
With hey, ho, the wind and the rain,
A foolish thing was but a toy,¹
For the rain it raineth every day.
5 But when I came to man's estate,⁰ state, condition
With hey, ho, the wind and the rain,
'Gainst knaves and thieves men shut their gate,
For the rain it raineth every day.
But when I came, alas! to wive,
10 With hey, ho, the wind and the rain,
By swaggering⁰ could I never thrive, blustering
For the rain it raineth every day.
But when I came unto my beds,
With hey, ho, the wind and the rain,
15 With toss-pots⁰ still had drunken heads, drunkards
For the rain it raineth every day.
A great while ago the world begun,
With hey, ho, the wind and the rain,
But that's all one, our play is done,
20 And we'll strive to please you every day.

1602 1623

Fear No More the Heat o' the Sun²
Fear no more the heat o' the sun,
Nor the furious winter's rages;
Thou thy worldly task hast done,
Home art gone, and ta'en thy wages:
5 Golden lads and girls all must,
As⁰ chimney-sweepers, come to dust. like

Fear no more the frown o' the great;
Thou art past the tyrant's stroke;
Care no more to clothe and eat;
io To thee the reed is as the oak:3
The scepter,0 learning, physic,0 must *royal power /
medicine*
All follow this, and come to dust.

9. Sung by the clown, Feste, to conclude Twelfth Night for Fidele, a "young boy" who is actually Imogen in disguise and is not actually dead.

1. Trifle. I.e., my mischief was not taken seriously.

3. I.e., to you, what is fragile ("the reed") is the

2. From Cymheline (4.2). A lament by two singers-same as what is enduring ("the oak").

WHERE THE BEES SUCKS, THERE SUCK I / 277

Fear no more the lightning flash,
Nor the all-dreaded thunder stone;4
15 Fear not slander, censure rash;
Thou hast finished joy and moan:
All lovers young, all lovers must Consign to thee,5 and come to dust.
No exorciser harm thee!
20 Nor no witchcraft charm thee!
Ghost unlaid forbear thee!
Nothing ill come near thee!
Quiet consummation have;
And renowned be thy grave!

1 6 1 0 ? 1 6 2 3

Full Fathom Five⁶

Full fathom five thy father lies;

Of his bones are coral made;

Those are pearls that were his eyes:

Nothing of him that doth fade,

5 But doth suffer a sea change

Into something rich and strange.

Sea nymphs⁷ hourly ring his knell:

Ding-dong.

Hark! now I hear them—Ding-dong, bell.

1 6 1 1 1 6 2 3

Where the Bee Sucks, There Suck I⁸

Where the bee sucks, there suck I:

In a cowslip's⁹ bell I lie; a wildflower's

There I couch when owls do cry.

On the bat's back I do fly

5 After summer merrily.

Merrily, merrily shall I live now

Under the blossom that hangs on the bough.

1 6 1 1 1 6 2 3

4. Thunder was thought to be caused by meteor-

7. In Greek mythology, minor goddesses who lived ites falling from the sky.

in water.

5. I.e., accept the same terms that governed you.

8. From The Tempest (5.1). Ariel, the airy spirit of

6. From The Tempest (1.2). Ariel, the airy spirit of the enchanted isle, sings this song in anticipation

the enchanted isle, sings this song to lead the ship-of his approaching freedom from servitude.
wrecked Ferdinand, prince of Naples, to Prospero.

2 7 8

THOMAS CAMPION

1567-1620

My Sweetest Lesbia¹

My sweetest Lesbia, let us live and love,
And though the sager sort our deeds reprove,
Let us not weigh⁰ them. Heaven's great lamps do dive heed
Into their west, and straight again revive,
5 But soon as once set is our little light,
Then must we sleep one ever-during night.
If all would lead their lives in love like me,
Then bloody swords and armor should not be;
No drum nor trumpet peaceful sleeps should move,
io Unless alarm came from the camp of love.
But fools do live, and waste their little light,
And seek with pain their ever-during night.
When timely death my life and fortune ends,
Let not my hearse be vexed with mourning friends,
15 But let all lovers, rich in triumph, come
And with sweet pastimes grace my happy tomb;
And Lesbia, close up thou my little light,
And crown with love my ever-during night.

1601

I Care Not for These Ladies

I care not for these ladies,
That must be wooed and prayed:
Give me kind Amaryllis,
The wanton country² maid.
5 Nature art disdaineth,
Her beauty is her own.
Her when we court and kiss,
She cries, “Forsooth, let go!”
But when we come where comfort is,
10 She never will say no.
If I love Amaryllis,
She gives me fruit and flowers:
But if we love these ladies,
We must give golden showers.³
15 Give them gold, that sell love,

1. The Roman poet Catullus (ca. 84-ca. 54 B.C.E.) 2. With an obscene pun, as in line 9.

sang the praises of his beloved Lesbia in a poem 3. An allusion to the Greek myth in which Jove here imitated and partly translated by Campion. takes the form of a shower of gold to ravish Danae.

F O L L O W T H Y F A I R S U N / 2 7 9

Give me the nut-brown lass,
Who, when we court and kiss,
She cries, “Forsooth, let go!”
But when we come where comfort is,
20 She never will say no.
These ladies must have pillows,
And beds by strangers wrought;

Give me a bower of willows,
Of moss and leaves unbought,
25 And fresh Amaryllis,
With milk and honey fed;
Who, when we court and kiss,
She cries, "Forsooth, let go!"
But when we come where comfort is,
30 She never will say no.

1601

Follow Thy Fair Sun

Follow thy fair sun, unhappy shadow;4
Though thou be black as night,
And she made all of light,
Yet follow thy fair sun, unhappy shadow.
5 Follow her whose light thy light depriveth;
Though here thou liv'st disgraced,
And she in heaven is placed,
Yet follow her whose light the world revive th!
Follow those pure beams whose beauty burneth,
10 That so have scorched thee,
As thou still black must be,5
Till her kind beams thy black to brightness turneth.
Follow her while yet her glory shineth;
There comes a luckless night,
15 That will dim all her light;
And this the black unhappy shade divineth.
Follow still since so thy fates ordained;
The sun must have his shade,

Till both at once do fade;

20 The sun still proved,0 the shadow still disdained.
*approved.

1601

4. Soul; also, a person imagined as dead (a shade, also plays on the idea of black as the color of sin and lost to heaven's light).

(pointing toward an afterlife in hell) and as the sign

5. In Renaissance England, dark skins were often of mourning.

held to be caused by the sun's burning; the line

280 / T H O M A S C A M P I O N

When to Her Lute Corinna Sings

When to her lute Corinna sings,

Her voice revives the leaden strings,

And doth in highest notes appear

As any challenged0 echo clear; aroused

5 But when she doth of mourning speak,

Ev'n with her sighs the strings do break.

And as her lute doth live or die,

Led by her passion, so must I:

For when of pleasure she doth sing,

10 My thoughts enjoy a sudden spring,

But if she doth of sorrow speak,

Ev'n from my heart the strings do break.

1601

When Thou Must Home⁶

When thou must home to shades of underground,

And there arrived, a new admired guest,
The beauteous spirits do engirt⁰ thee round, encircle
White lope, blithe Helen,⁷ and the rest,
5 To hear the stories of thy finished love
From that smooth tongue whose music hell can move,⁸
Then wilt thou speak of banqueting delights,
Of masques⁹ and revels which sweet youth did make,
Of tourneys and great challenges of knights,
io And all these triumphs for thy beauty's sake;
When thou hast told these honors done to thee,
Then tell, Oh tell, how thou didst murder⁰ me. murder
1601

Rose-cheeked Laura¹

Rose-cheeked Laura, come,
Sing thou smoothly with thy beauty's

6. This poem addresses a woman the speaker to reclaim his wife, Eurydice, his music moved, i.e., imagines as already dead, "home" in hell. touched, the spirits of Hades.

7. The Greek mythological figures lope, or Cassi-

9. Elaborate court entertainments in which arisopeia, and Helen of Troy, the first renowned for tocrats performed a dignified play, usually allegor-beauty and vanity, the second for beauty and fickical and mythological, that ended in a formal leness. Blithe: happy.

dance.

8. I.e., whose music can move hell. In Greek

1. This poem exemplifies Campion's interest in mythology, when Orpheus went to the underworld quantitative verse (see "Versification," p. 2036).

N o w W I N T E R N I G H T S E N L A R G E / 2 8 1

Silent music, either⁰ other each the Sweetly gracing.

5 Lovely forms do flow

From concent⁰ divinely framed; sounds in harmony

Heav'n is music, and thy beauty's

Birth is heavenly.

These dull notes we sing

io Discords need for helps to grace them;

Only beauty purely loving

Knows no discord,

But still moves delight,

Like clear springs renewed by flowing,

15 Ever perfect, ever in them-Selves eternal.

1602

Now Winter Nights Enlarge

Now winter nights enlarge

The number of their hours;

And clouds their storms discharge

Upon the airy towers.

5 Let now the chimneys blaze

And cups o'erflow with wine,

Let well-tuned words amaze

With harmony divine.

Now yellow waxen lights
io Shall wait on honey love
While youthful revels, masques,² and courtly sights
Sleep's leaden spells remove.
This time doth well dispense³
With lovers' long discourse;
15 Much speech hath some defense,
Though beauty no remorse.
All do not all things well;
Some measures comely tread,⁴
Some knotted riddles tell,
20 Some poems smoothly read.
The summer hath his joys,
And winter his delights;
Though love and all his pleasures are but toys,
They shorten tedious nights.

1 6 1 7

2. See note 9 above. 4. I.e., some dance (tread measures) in a beautiful

3. I.e., this time deals indulgently. way.

2 8 2 / T H O M A S N A S H E

There Is a Garden in Her Face

There is a garden in her face,
Where roses and white lilies grow,
A heavenly paradise is that place,
Wherein all pleasant fruits do flow.

5 There cherries grow, which none may buy
Till "Cherry ripe!"⁵ themselves do cry.

Those cherries fairly do enclose
Of orient pearl a double row,
Which when her lovely laughter shows,
10 They look like rosebuds filled with snow.
Yet them nor^o peer nor prince can buy, neither
Till “Cherry ripe!” themselves do cry.
Her eyes like angels watch them still;
Her brows like bended bows do stand,
15 Threatening with piercing frowns to kill
All that attempt with eye or hand
Those sacred cherries to come nigh,
Till “Cherry ripe!” themselves do cry.
1 6 1 7

T H O M A S N A S H E

1567-1601

F R O M S U M M E R ‘ S L A S T W I L L

[Spring, the Sweet Spring]¹

Spring, the sweet spring, is the year’s pleasant king,
Then blooms each thing, then maids dance in a ring,
Cold doth not sting, the pretty birds do sing:
Cuckoo, jug-jug, pu-we, to-witta-woo!²

5 The palm and may³ make country houses gay,
Lambs frisk and play, the shepherds pipe all day,

5. A London street vendor’s cry.

owl.

1. Sung by Ver (Latin for “spring”) in Nashe’s alle-

3. Hawthorn blossoms. The palms may be left over gorical drama Summer’s Last Will and Testament, from the religious celebration known as Palm Sunday first performed in 1592 in the palace of the archbishop of Canterbury.

memorates Christ's entry into Jerusalem.

2. Birdsongs of the cuckoo, nightingale, lapwing,

[A D I E U , F A R E W E L L , E A R T H ' S B L I S S] / 2 8

3

And we hear aye birds tune this merry lay:0 song

Cuckoo, jug-jug, pu-we, to-witta-woo!

The fields breathe sweet, the daisies kiss our feet,

10 Young lovers meet, old wives a-sunning sit,

In every street these tunes our ears do greet:

Cuckoo, jug-jug, pu-we, to-witta-woo!

Spring, the sweet spring!

[Adieu, Farewell, Earth's Bliss]4

Adieu, farewell, earth's bliss;

This world uncertain is;

Fond0 are life's lustful joys; foolish

Death proves them all but toys;0 trifles

5 None from his darts can fly;

I am sick, I must die.

Lord, have mercy on us!5

Rich men, trust not in wealth,

Gold cannot buy you health;

io Physic0 himself0 must fade. medicine / itself

All things to end are made,

The plague full swift goes by;

I am sick, I must die.

Lord, have mercy on us!

15 Beauty is but a flower

Which wrinkles will devour;

Brightness falls from the air;

Queens have died young and fair;

Dust hath closed Helen's⁶ eye.

20 I am sick, I must die.

Lord, have mercy on us!

Strength stoops unto the grave,

Worms feed on Hector⁷ brave;

4. Often titled by editors “A Litany in Time of

5. These recurring words—from the Litany, a Plague,” this lyric comes from Nashe’s allegorical standard prayer in Church of England services—drama Summer’s Last Will and Testament. First were inscribed in red letters on plague-stricken performed during the summer of 1592 in the pal-houses.

ace of the archbishop of Canterbury, the play

6. Helen of Troy, who was renowned for her repeatedly alludes to the epidemic of plague that beauty, and whose abduction was said to be the had driven the archbishop and his aristocratic cause of the Trojan War.

guests from London. Summer, who enters the play

7. Renowned for his bravery, he was the son of already sick, requests a “doleful ditty” that will

Priam and leader of the Trojans against the lament his “near-approaching death.”

Greeks.

284 / A E M I L I A L A N Y E R

Swords may not fight with fate,
25 Earth still holds ope her gate.

“Come, come!” the bells do cry.

I am sick, I must die.

Lord, have mercy on us.

Wit with his wantonness

30 Tasteth death’s bitterness;

Hell’s executioner

Hath no ears for to hear

What vain art can reply.

I am sick, I must die.

35 Lord, have mercy on us.

Haste, therefore, each degree,⁰ rank; social station

To welcome destiny;

Heaven is our heritage,

Earth but a player’s stage;

40 Mount we unto the sky.

I am sick, I must die.

Lord, have mercy on us.

1592 1600

AEMILIA LANYER

1569-1645

From Salve Deus Rex Judaeorum¹

Sith^o Cynthia² is ascended to that rest since

Of endless joy and true eternity,
That glorious place that cannot be expressed
By any wight0 clad in mortality, person
5 In her almighty love so highly blessed,
And crowned with everlasting sov'reignty;
Where saints and angels do attend her throne,
And she gives glory unto God alone.

1. Hail God, King of the Jews (Latin); a variant of "The Passion of Christ," "Eve's Apology in Defense the inscription on Christ's cross. Lanyer claimed of Women," "The Tears of the Daughters of Jerusalem," and "The Salutation and Sorrow of the Virgin Mary." The stanzas reprinted here are from the opening of the poem and from its second section. patrons including Mary Sidney, countess of Pembroke (1561-1621; see pp. 225-30). The main part of Lanyer's poem begins and ends with praise of the moon, frequently applied to Queen Elizabeth I (1533-1603; see pp. 142-43). As a powerful and much-revered queen, she is an appropriate "first patron. The poem itself is divided into four parts:

invoke.

SALVE DEUS REX JUDAEORUM / 285

To thee great Countess³ now I will apply

10 My pen, to write thy never dying fame;

That when to heaven thy blessed soul shall fly,

These lines on earth record thy reverend name:

And to this task I mean my Muse to tie,

Though wanting skill I shall but purchase blame:

15 Pardon (dear Lady) want of woman's wit

To pen thy praise, when few can equal it.

745 Now Pontius Pilate is to judge the cause⁴

Of faultless Jesus, who before him stands;

Who neither hath offended prince, nor laws,

Although he now be brought in woeful bands:

O noble governor, make thou yet a pause,

750 Do not in innocent blood imbrue⁰ thy hands; stain

But hear the words of thy most worthy wife,

Who sends to thee, to beg her Savior's life.⁵

Let barb'rous cruelty far depart from thee,

And in true justice take affliction's part;

755 Open thine eyes, that thou the truth may'st see,

Do not the thing that goes against thy heart,

Condemn not him that must thy Savior be;

But view his holy life, his good desert.

Let not us women glory in men's fall,

760 Who had power given to over-rule us all.⁶

Eve's Apology

Till now your indiscretion sets us free,

And makes our former fault much less appear;⁷
Our Mother Eve, who tasted of the Tree,
Giving to Adam what she held most dear,
765 Was simply⁰ good, and had no power to see, ignorantly
The after-coming harm did not appear;
The subtle⁰ serpent that our sex betrayed, crafty
Before our fall so sure a plot had laid.
That undiscerning Ignorance⁸ perceived 770 No guile, or craft that was by him^o intended: the serpent

3. Margaret Clifford, countess of Cumberland directly from Pontius Pilate's (unwise) refusal to (see note 1 above).

heed his wife's words about her prophetic dream.

4. Case. Pilate was the Roman governor of Jerusalem's speaker addresses Pilate, in an apostrophe, beginning in line 761.

Christ, see Matthew 27.11-24.

6. According to Genesis 3.16, Eve was punished

5. In Matthew 27.19, Pontius Pilate's wife sends for the Fall by being made subject to her husband. a message saying "Have thou nothing to do with

7. I.e., men "over-ruled" women until this (imagined) moment of Christ's judgment, when your day in a dream because of him." Lanyer gives this error in condemning Christ (Pilate's error and by minor biblical character a major narrative role, extension that of men in general) frees women by making her the dramatic advocate both of Christ making Eve's sin seem much less by comparison.

and of Eve and hence a fulcrum linking the first 8. I.e., Eve.

and second parts of the poem; the "Apology" flows

286 / A E M I L I A L A N Y E R

For, had she known of what we were bereaved,⁹

To his request she had not condescended.

But she (poor soul) by cunning was deceived¹

No hurt therein her harmless heart intended:

775 For she alleged⁰ God's word, which he⁰ denies, asserted / the serpent That they should die, but even as gods, be wise.²

But surely Adam cannot be excused,

Her fault, though great, yet he was most to blame;

What weakness offered, strength might have refused,

780 Being lord of all, the greater was his shame:

Although the serpent's craft had her abused,

God's holy word ought all his actions frame:⁰ shape

For he was lord and king of all the earth,

Before poor Eve had either life or breath.

785 Who being framed by God's eternal hand,

The perfect'st man that ever breathed on earth,

And from God's mouth received that strait⁰ strict, narrow
command,

The breach whereof he knew was present death:

Yea having power to rule both sea and land,

790 Yet with one apple won to lose that breath,
Which God hath breathed in his beauteous face,
Bringing us all in danger and disgrace.
And then to lay the fault on Patience back,³
That we (poor women) must endure it all;
795 We know right well he did discretion lack,
Being not persuaded thereunto at all;
If Eve did err, it was for knowledge sake,
The fruit being fair persuaded him⁰ to fall: Adam
No subtle serpent's falsehood did betray him,
800 If he would eat it, who had power to stay him?
Not Eve, whose fault was only too much love,
Which made her give this present to her dear,
That what she tasted, he likewise might prove,⁰ experience
Whereby his knowledge might become more clear;
805 He never sought her weakness to reprove,
With those sharp words, which he of God did hear;
Yet men will boast of knowledge, which he took
From Eve's fair hand, as from a learned book.

9. I.e., of eternal life. In Genesis 3, Eve is enticed
2. Eve put forward God's "word" (that humans by the serpent to eat the forbidden fruit, and Adam would die if they disobeyed), and the serpent then eats when she offers it to him. God expels denied that idea, arguing instead that humans them from Eden, condemning Adam to hard work, would become "wise" as gods.

Eve to pain in childbirth, and both to suffering and

3. Eve is allegorized as Patience, with a glance at death.

the literary tradition of the wronged but patient

1. Cf. 1 Timoth} 2.14: “And Adam was not wife (e.g. the “patient Griselda” in Chaucer’s deceived but the woman being deceived was in the “Clerk’s Tale”).

transgression.”

SALVE DEUS REX JUDAEORUM / 287

If any evil did in her remain,

8io Being made of him, he was the ground of all;4

If one of many worlds5 could lay a stain

Upon our sex, and work so great a fall

To wretched man, by Satan’s subtle train;6

What will so foul a fault amongst you all?

815 Her weakness did the serpent’s words obey,

But you in malice God’s dear Son betray.7

Whom, if unjustly you condemn to die,

Her^o sin was small, to what you do commit; Eve’s

All mortal^o sins that do for vengeance cry, punishable by damnation 820 Are not to be compared unto it:

If many worlds would altogether try,

By all their sins the wrath of God to get;

This sin of yours, surmounts them all as far

As doth the sun, another little star.8

825 Then let us have our liberty again,

And challenge^o to your selves no Sov’reignty; claim

You came not in the world without our pain,^o of childbirth

Make that a bar against⁹ your cruelty;
Your fault being greater, why should you disdain
830 Our being your equals, free from tyranny?
If one weak woman simply did offend,
This sin of yours hath no excuse, nor end.
To which (poor souls) we never gave consent,
Witness thy wife (O Pilate) speaks for all;
835 Who did but dream, and yet a message sent,
That thou should'st have nothing to do at all
With that just man; which, if thy heart relent,
Why wilt thou be a reprobate with Saul?¹
To seek the death of him that is so good,
840 For thy soul's health to shed his dearest blood.

1611

4. With a pun on, in Hebrew, Adam's name wife addresses both men in general ("you all") and (ha'adam) and the word for ground (ha'adama). her husband, recalling the specific dramatic situation of Christ's trial.

which the Lord God had taken from man, made

8. In Ptolemaic astronomy, the sun was larger than the planets and fixed stars.

Genesis 2.22).

9. I.e., let that prevent.

5. Perhaps an allusion to the popular seventeenth-

1. I.e., morally unprincipled like Saul, the first century belief in a plurality of inhabited globes in king of Israel, who was rejected by God for dis-the universe, or at least in the solar system. Cf.

obedience, and who plotted to kill David, his suc-
Milton, Paradise Lost 3.565 ff. One: Adam.
cessor (1 Samuel 22—23). (Or perhaps another
6. Trickery. The identification of Satan with the Saul, who persecuted the first Christians, and who serpent is traditional but not made in Genesis.
later converted to Christianity, changing his name
7. Here and in the preceding question, Pilate's to Paul [Acts 9.1-31].)

288 / A E M I L I A L A N Y E R

The Description of Cooke-ham²

Farewell (sweet Cooke-ham) where I first obtained
Grace from that grace where perfect grace³ remained;
And where the muses⁴ gave their full consent,
I should have power the virtuous to content;
5 Wher e princely palace willed me to indite,⁰ compose, write
The sacred story⁵ of the soul's delight.
Farewell (sweet place) where virtue then did rest,
And all delights did harbor in her breast;
Never shall my sad eyes again behold
10 Those pleasures which my thoughts did then unfold.
Yet you (great Lady) Mistress of that place,
From whose desires did spring this work of grace;
Vouchsafe to think upon those pleasures past,
As fleeting worldly joys that could not last,

15 Or, as dim shadows of celestial⁶ pleasures,
 Which are desired above all earthly treasures.
 Oh how (methought) against you thither came,⁷
 Each part did seem some new delight to frame!
 The house received all ornaments to grace it,
 20 And would endure no foulness to deface it.
 And walks put on their summer liveries,⁰ uniforms
 And all things else did hold like similes.⁸
 The trees with leaves, with fruits, with flowers clad,
 Embraced each other, seeming to be glad,
 25 Turning themselves to beauteous Canopies,
 To shade the bright sun from your brighter eyes;
 The crystal streams with silver spangles graced,
 While by the glorious sun they were embraced;
 The little birds in chirping notes did sing,
 30 To entertain both you and that sweet spring.
 And Philomela⁹ with her sundry lays,
 Both you and that delightful place did praise.
 Oh how me thought each plant, each flower, each tree

2. The crown manor leased to William Russell,

3. Respectively (line 2): favor, noble person (i.e., whose sister, Margaret Clifford, the countess of Margaret Clifford, countess of Cumberland); God-Cumberland (see note 1, p. 284), resided there given virtues.

periodically until 1605. The unhappiness alluded

4. The nine Greek sister goddesses believed to be to in this poem refers to the countess's alienation

sources of inspiration for the arts.

from her husband, George Clifford, third earl of
5. I.e., Christ's passion in Salve Deus Rex Judaeo-
Cumberland, and her legal battles with his rela-rum.

tives after his death in 1605. The countess fought

6. As reflections or images of heavenly.

for the claims of her daughter, Cumberland's only

7. I.e., when you went there.

heir, Anne Clifford, to his estates. King James and

8. Similarities; i.e., did the same.

the court bureaucracy offered only a cash settle-

9. The nightingale, whose various songs ("sundry ment—far less than the value of Cumberland's lays") were said to express lovesickness and/or lands and titles—which the countess and her mourning; here, associated with the female poetic daughter refused to accept. This poem, which voice. In classical mythology, Philomela was raped probably dates from 1609—10 and which followed by her brother-in-law, Tereus, who then tore out

the title poem in the first edition of Lanyer's Salve

her tongue so that she could not speak. She wove Deus Rex Judaeorum, is an early example of what the story in a tapestry and sent it to her sister, who would become the popular genre of the "country

rescued her. She was later changed into a night-house" poem; cf. Ben Jonson's "To Penshurst" ingale while in flight from Tereus.

(p. 328).

T H E D E S C R I P T I O N O F C O O K E - H A M / 2 8 9

Set forth their beauties then to welcome thee!

35 The very hills right humbly did descend,

When you to tread on them did intend.

And as you set your feet, they still did rise,

Glad that they could receive so rich a prize.

The gentle winds did take delight to be

40 Among those woods that were so graced by thee,

And in sad murmur uttered pleasing sound,

That pleasure in that place might more abound.

The swelling banks delivered all their pride

When such a Phoenix¹ once they had espied.

45 Each arbor, bank, each seat, each stately tree,

Thought themselves honored in supporting thee.

The pretty birds would oft come to attend thee,

Yet fly away for fear they should offend thee;

The little creatures in the burrough⁰ by burrow

50 Would come abroad to sport them in your eye,

Yet fearful of the bow in your fair hand.²

Would run away when you did make a stand.

Now let me come unto that stately tree,

Wherein such goodly prospects you did see;

55 That oak that did in height his fellows pass,

As much as lofty trees, low growing grass,

Much like a comely cedar straight and tall,

Whose beauteous stature far exceeded all.
 How often did you visit this fair tree,
 60 Which seeming joyful in receiving thee,
 Would like a palm tree spread his arms abroad,
 Desirous that you there should make abode;
 Whose fair green leaves much like a comely veil, attractive
 Defended Phoebus³ when he would assail;
 65 Whose pleasing boughs did yield a cool fresh air, Joying⁰ his happiness when you were there. enjoying
 Where being seated, you might plainly see
 Hills, vales, and woods, as if on bended knee
 They had appeared, your honor to salute,
 70 Or to prefer⁰ some strange unlooked-for suit;⁰ offer / request
 All interlaced with brooks and crystal springs,
 A prospect fit to please the eyes of kings.
 And⁰ thirteen shires appeared all in your sight, if Europe could not afford much more delight.
 75 What was there then but gave you all content,
 While you the time in meditation spent
 Of their Creator's power, which there you saw,
 In all his creatures held a perfect law;⁰ order
 And in their beauties did you plain descry⁰ perceive so His beauty, wisdom, grace, love, majesty.

1. A legendary bird, the only one of its kind, rep-

2. I.e., the countess is figured as Diana, the clasresented as living five hundred years in the Arabian sical goddess of hunting, the moon, and chastity.

desert before setting itself on fire, then rising anew

3. I.e., protected you from the sun; Phoebus from its own ashes; here, also a reference to the Apollo was the mythological god of the sun. countess.

290 / A E M I L I A L A N Y E R

In these sweet woods how often did you walk,
With Christ and his Apostles there to talk;
Placing his holy Writ in some fair tree
To meditate what you therein did see.

85 With Moses⁴ you did mount his holy hill
To know his pleasure, and perform his will.

With lowly David⁵ you did often sing
His holy hymns to Heaven's eternal King.

And in sweet music did your soul delight
90 To sound his praises, morning, noon, and night.

With blessed Joseph⁶ you did often feed
Your pined⁰ brethren, when they stood in need. tired from hunger

And that sweet Lady sprung from Clifford's race,⁷
Of noble Bedford's blood, fair stem of grace,

95 To honorable Dorset now espoused,
In whose fair breast true virtue then was housed,

Oh what delight did my weak spirits find
In those pure parts of her well framed mind.

And yet it grieves me that I cannot be 100 Near unto her, whose virtues did agree
With those fair ornaments of outward beauty,

Which did enforce from all both love and duty.
 Unconstant Fortune, thou art most to blame,
 Who casts us down into so low a frame
 105 Where our great friends we cannot daily see,
 So great a difference is there in degree.
 Many are placed in those orbs of state,⁸ Parters⁰ in honor, so ordained by Fate, participants
 Nearer in show, yet farther off in love,
 no In which, the lowest always are above.⁹
 But whither am I carried in conceit,⁰ thought; pride
 My wit too weak to conster⁰ of the great. consider, understand
 Why not? although we are but born of earth.
 We may behold the heavens, despising death;
 115 And loving heaven that is so far above,
 May in the end vouchsafe us entire love.¹
 Therefore sweet memory do thou retain
 Those pleasures past, which will not turn again:
 Remember beauteous Dorset's⁰ former sports, Anne Clifford's
 120 So far from being touched by ill reports,
 Wherein myself did always bear a part,
 While reverend love presented my true heart.
 Those recreations let me bear in mind,

4. Who spoke with God on a mountaintop (Exo-ried into the Sackville family, earls of Dorset.
 dus 24.13-18).

8. I.e., exalted social spheres.

5. The psalmist of the Bible; the second king of

9. I.e., while circumstance may place the high and Judah and Israel.

the low near to each other, the lower-born are

6. Who was sold by his brothers into Egypt; after more devoted to the higher-born. In Nichomachean Ethics, Aristotle says that in friendship between unequals, “the better and more useful partner should receive more affection than he of Cumberland’s daughter. Her father came from gives” (7.1158).

the Cliffords, earls of Cumberland; her mother

1. I.e., may bestow all love on us. came from the Russells, earls of Bedford. She mar-gives” (7.1158).

the Cliffords, earls of Cumberland; her mother

1. I.e., may bestow all love on us. came from the Russells, earls of Bedford. She mar-

T H E D E S C R I P T I O N O F C O O K E - H A M / 2 9 1

Which her sweet youth and noble thoughts did find,

125 Whereof deprived, I evermore must grieve,

Hating blind Fortune, careless to relieve.

And you sweet Cooke-ham, whom these ladies leave,

I now must tell the grief you did conceive

At their departure, when they went away,

BO How everything retained a sad dismay.

Nay long before, when once an inkling came,

Methought each thing did unto sorrow frame:

The trees that were so glorious in our view,

Forsook both flowers and fruit, when once they knew

135 Of your depart, their very leaves did wither,
Changing their colors as they grew together.
But when they saw this had no power to stay you,
They often wept, though, speechless, could not pray you,²
Letting their tears in your fair bosoms fall,
140 As if they said, Why will ye leave us all?
This being vain, they cast their leaves away
Hoping that pity would have made you stay:
Their frozen tops, like age's hoary⁰ hairs, grayish white
Shows their disasters, languishing in fears.
145 A swarthy⁰ riveled⁰ rind⁰ all over spread, *dark / rough /
bark*
Their dying bodies half alive, half dead.
But your occasions called you so away
That nothing there had power to make you stay.
Yet did I see a noble grateful mind
150 Requiting⁰ each according to their kind, rewarding
Forgetting not to turn and take your leave
Of these sad creatures, powerless to receive
Your favor, when with grief you did depart,
Placing their former pleasures in your heart,
155 Giving great charge to noble memory
There to preserve their love continually.
But specially the love of that fair tree,
That first and last you did vouchsafe to see,
In which it pleased you oft to take the air
160 With noble Dorset, then a virgin fair,³
Where many a learned book was read and scanned,

To this fair tree, taking me by the hand,
You did repeat the pleasures which had passed,
Seeming to grieve they could no longer last.
165 And with a chaste, yet loving kiss took leave,
Of which sweet kiss I did it soon bereave,⁴
Scorning a senseless creature should possess
So rare a favor, so great happiness.

No other kiss it could receive from me,
170 For fear to give back what it took of thee,
So I ungrateful creature did deceive⁰ it deprive

2. I.e., beg you (to stay).

the countess did, and so deprived the tree of the

3. I.e., before marriage.

countess's kiss.

4. I.e., Lanyer claims to have kissed the tree after

292 / A E M I L I A L A N Y E R

Of that which you in love vouchsafed⁰ to leave it.

granted

And though it oft had given me much content,

Yet this great wrong I never could repent;

But of the happiest made it most forlorn,

To show that nothing's free from Fortune's scorne,

While all the rest with this most beauteous tree

Made their sad consort⁵ sorrow's harmony.

The flowers that on the banks and walks did grow,

Crept in the ground, the grass did weep for woe.

The winds and waters seemed to chide together

Because you went away they knew not whither;

And those sweet brooks that ran so fair and clear,
With grief and trouble wrinkled did appear.

Those pretty birds that wonted⁰ were to sing,
accustomed

Now neither sing, nor chirp, nor use their wing,
But with their tender feet on some bare spray,
Warble forth sorrow, and their own dismay.

Fair Philomela leaves her mournful ditty,⁰
song

Drowned in deep sleep, yet can procure no pity.
Each arbor, bank, each seat, each stately tree
Looks bare and desolate now for want⁰ of thee, lack

Turning green tresses⁶ into frosty gray,
While in cold grief they wither all away.

The sun grew weak, his beams no comfort gave,
While all green things did make the earth their grave.

Each brier, each bramble, when you went away
Caught fast your clothes, thinking to make you stay;
Delightful Echo wonted⁷ to reply

To our last words, did now for sorrow die;
The house cast off each garment that might grace it,
Putting on dust and cobwebs to deface it.

All desolation then there did appear,
When you were going whom they held so dear.

This last farewell to Cooke-ham here I give,
When I am dead thy name in this may live,
Wherein I have performed her noble hest^o

Whose virtues lodge in my unworthy breast,
And ever shall, so long as life remains,
Tying my life to her by those rich chains.

1611

5. Company, with a pun on “consort” as a musical speech by being allowed only to repeat the last “accord.”

words of others; scorned by her beloved, the youth

6. I.e., leaves.

Narcissus, she eventually lost her body and lived

7. Was accustomed to; with a pun on wanted, on as a sad voice. Lanyer revises this myth in line desired. In classical mythology, the nymph (minor 200.

nature goddess) Echo was punished for excessive

2 9 3

J O H N D O N N E *

1572-1631

The Good-Morrow

I wonder, by my troth, what thou and I
Did, till we loved? were we not weaned till then?
But sucked on country¹ pleasures, childishly?
Or snorted⁰ we in the Seven Sleepers' den?² snored
⁵ ‘Twas so; but^o this, all pleasures fancies be. except for
If ever any beauty I did see,
Which I desired, and got, ‘twas but a dream of thee.
And now good-morrow to our waking souls,
Which watch not one another out of fear;

10 For love, all love of other sights controls,
 And makes one little room an everywhere.³
 Let sea-discoverers to new worlds have gone,
 Let maps⁴ to others, worlds on worlds have shown,
 Let us possess one⁵ world, each hath one, and is one.
 15 My face in thine eye, thine in mine appears,
 And true plain hearts do in the faces rest;
 Where can we find two better hemispheres,
 Without sharp North, without declining West?
 Whatever dies was not mixed equally;⁶
 20 If our two loves be one, or, thou and I Love so alike that none do slacken, none can die.

1 6 3 3

The Donne poems in this anthology up through lables are fused in pronunciation and counted as “The Relic” are usually called Songs and Sonnets, one metrically. Such contractions occur only a rubric applied to Donne’s love poems in the sec-under certain phonetic conditions (e.g., when one ond edition of his Poems (1635). There is no word ends, and the next begins, with a vowel).
 authorial warrant for that rubric, however, since
 1. Also with a sexual connotation.
 even the first edition (1633) appeared after his
 2. Seven Christian youths, under the persecutions death, and no copies of his poems in his own hand-of the Roman Emperor Decius (who ruled 249—writing survive. Instead, the poems exist in post-

51), were said to have been sealed in a cave, where humorous printed editions as well as in a large they slept for nearly two centuries. On awakening, number of manuscript copies, many of which cir- they found Christianity established as a world reli- culated during Donne's lifetime; some manuscripts gion.

include musical settings for the poems. We cannot

3. The common Renaissance trope of the individ- date most of Donne's love poems with any cer- ual as a microcosm of the universe.

tainty, and the multiple copies, printed and in

4. Terrestrial maps or sky charts.

manuscript, show many variations in stanza forms,

5. In some manuscripts, "our."

punctuation, spelling, and even diction and gram-

6. In medieval and Renaissance medical theory,

mar. Like most modern editors, we base our texts death was often considered the result of an imbal-

on the 1633 Poems; significant variations are men-ance in the body's elements. When elements were tioned in the notes.

"not mixed equally," matter was mutable and mor-

Donne's poems frequently have an apostrophe tal, but when they were mixed perfectly, it was between words to indicate that the neighboring sylchanging and immortal.

294 / J O H N D O N N E

Song

Go and catch a falling star,
Get with child a mandrake root,⁷
Tell me where all past years are,
Or who cleft the Devil's foot,
5 Teach me to hear mermaids⁸ singing,
Or to keep off envy's stinging,
And find
What wind
Serves to advance an honest mind.
10 If thou beest born to strange sights,⁹
Things invisible to see,
Ride ten thousand days and nights,
Till age snow white hairs on thee,
Thou, when thou return'st, wilt tell me
15 All strange wonders that befell thee,
And swear
Nowhere
Lives a woman true, and fair.
If thou find'st one, let me know,
20 Such a pilgrimage were sweet;
Yet do not, I would not go,
Though at next door we might meet;
Though she were true when you met her,
And last till you write your letter,
25 Yet she Will be False, ere I come, to two, or three.

1633

Woman's Constancy

Now thou hast loved me one whole day,
Tomorrow when thou leav'st, what wilt thou say?
Wilt thou then antedate some new-made vow?¹
Or say that now

5 We are not just those persons which we were?
Or, that oaths made in reverential fear
Of Love, and his wrath, any may forswear?

7. The large, forked root of the mandrake roughly sights; alternatively, if you are carried ("borne," as resembles a human body and was thought to be an the word is spelled in the 1633 text and most manaphrodisiac.

uscript versions) to strange sights (cf. "return'st,"

8. I.e., the Sirens (in Homer's Odyssey), whose line 14).

seductive song only the cunning Odysseus suc-

1. I.e., will you pretend that a new vow of love is cessfully resisted.

older than that you have made to me? Antedate:

9. I.e., if your nature inclines you to seek strange affix an earlier date than the true date.

THE SUNRISING / 295

Or, as true⁰ deaths, true marriages untie, real
So lovers' contracts, images of those,²
10 Bind but till sleep, death's image, them unloose?
Or, your own end to justify,

For having purposed change, and falsehood, you
Can have no way but falsehood to be true?

Vain lunatic,³ against these 'scapes⁰ I could escapes, deceptions

15 Dispute, and conquer, if I would,
Which I abstain to do,
For by tomorrow, I may think so too.

1 6 3 3

The Apparition

When by thy scorn, O murd'ress, I am dead,
And that thou thinkst thee free
From all solicitation from me,
Then shall my ghost come to thy bed,
5 And thee, fained vestal,⁴ in worse arms shall see;
Then thy sick taper⁰ will begin to wink,⁰ candle/flicker
And he, whose thou art then, being tired before,
Will, if thou stir, or pinch to wake him, think Thou call'st for more,
io And in false sleep will from thee shrink,
And then, poor aspen wretch,⁵ neglected thou
Bathed in a cold quicksilver sweat⁶ wilt lie,
A verier⁰ ghost than I; truer
What I will say, I will not tell thee now, is Lest that preserve thee; and since my love is spent,
I had rather thou shouldst painfully repent,
Than by my threatnings rest still innocent.

1 6 3 3

The Sun Rising

Busy old fool, unruly sun,
Why dost thou thus,
Through windows, and through curtains call on us?
Must to thy motions lovers' seasons run?

5 Saucy pedantic wretch, go chide
Late school boys and sour prentices,⁰ apprentices
Go tell court huntsmen⁷ that the king will ride,

2. I.e., of true marriages.

5. Aspen leaves flutter in the slightest breeze.

3. The word has for Donne the additional mean-

6. Sweating in terror; quicksilver (mercury) was a ing of "inconstant" or "fickle," since lunacy (from stock prescription for venereal disease, and sweat-luna, moon) was supposed to be affected by the ing was part of the cure.

changing phases of the moon.

7. I.e., courtiers who hunt office by emulating

4. One of the virgins consecrated to the Roman King James's passion for hunting.

goddess Vesta. Fained: counterfeit.

296 / J O H N D O N N E

Call country ants to harvest offices;⁸
Love, all alike,⁹ no season knows nor clime,
¹⁰ Nor hours, days, months, which are the rags^o of time.
*fragments

Thy beams, so reverend and strong

Why shouldst thou think?¹

I could eclipse and cloud them with a wink,

But that I would not lose her sight so long;
15 If her eyes have not blinded thine,
Look, and tomorrow late, tell me,
Whether both th' Indias of spice and mine²
Be where thou leftst them, or lie here with me.
Ask for those kings whom thou saw'st yesterday,
20 And thou shalt hear, All here in one bed lay.
She's all states, and all princes, I,³
Nothing else is.
Princes do but play us; compared to this,
All honor's mimic, all wealth alchemy.⁴
25 Thou, sun, art half as happy as we,⁵
In that the world's contracted thus.
Thine age asks ease, and since thy duties be
To warm the world, that's done in warming us.
Shine here to us, and thou art everywhere;
30 This bed thy center is, these walls, thy sphere.⁶

1 6 3 3

The Canonization⁷

For God's sake hold your tongue, and let me love,
Or chide my palsy, or my gout,
My five gray hairs, or ruined fortune, flout,
With wealth your state, your mind with arts improve,
5 Take you a course, get you a place,⁸
Observe his honor, or his grace,⁹
Or the King's real, or his stamped face¹

8. "Harvest" may be read both as part of a noun two lovers.

phrase (“duties of the harvest,” in which case
6. I.e., the bedroom and the lovers are a micro-“country ants” would refer to farm workers) and as cosm of the solar system, with the bed (like Earth, a verb, in which case the “ants” would be provincial in Ptolemaic astronomy) as the point around which courtiers seeking to collect (“harvest”) paid positions.

7. The title refers to admission into the canon of

9. The same at all times.

Church saints, often attested by martyrdom. As

1. I.e., what makes you think your light is so awe-part of the canonization process, a “devil’s advosome?

cate” sought to ensure that the whole truth, includ-
2. India and the West Indies, whence came spices ing faults, emerged about a candidate.

and gold (from mines) respectively.

8. An appointment, at court or elsewhere. Take

3. One manuscript has “She is all princes, and all you a course: begin a career.

states, I, ...”

9. Pay court to a lord or bishop.

4. A metallic composition imitating gold; i.e., a

1. I.e., on coins. The contrast is complicated by fraud.

the fact that “real,” spelled “royall” in several man-

5. The sun, being one thing, is half as happy as uscripts, is also a term for a Spanish coin.

THE CANONIZATION / 297

Contemplate; what you will, approve,⁰ try

So you will let me love.

10 Alas, alas, who's injured by my love?

What merchant's ships have my sighs drowned?

Who says my tears have overflowed his ground?

When did my colds a forward spring remove?²

When did the heats which my veins fill

15 Add one more to the plaguy bill?³

Soldiers find wars, and lawyers find out still

Litigious⁰ men, which quarrels move, contentious

Though she and I do love.

Call us what you will, we're made such by love;

20 Call her one, me another fly,

We're tapers too, and at our own cost die,⁴

And we in us find th' eagle and the dove.⁵

The phoenix riddle hath more wit^o sense

By us: we two being one, are it.

25 So, to one neutral thing both sexes fit.

We die and rise the same, and prove

Mysterious by this love.

We can die by it, if not live by love,

And if unfit for tombs and hearse

30 Our legend be, it will be fit for verse;

And if no piece of chronicle⁰ we prove,⁶ history

We'll build in sonnets pretty rooms;⁷

As well a well-wrought urn becomes⁰ befits
The greatest ashes, as half-acre tombs;
35 And by these hymns,⁸ all shall approve
Us canonized for love.
And thus invoke us: You whom reverend love
Made one another's hermitage;
You, to whom love was peace, that now is rage,⁰ lust
40 Who did the whole world's soul contract, and drove⁹
Into the glasses of your eyes
So made such mirrors, and such spies,

2. A common poetic conceit figured lovers as from mutation of metals. The phoenix is a legendary bird; it was thought to be the only one of its kind, protests that his "colds" have not removed the warmth of an early ("forward") spring.

years in the Arabian desert before setting itself on

3. Weekly list of plague victims; many manuscripts have "man" instead of "more."

fire's ashes, the bird was often a symbol of the res-

4. I.e., we're both "fly" (a moth or any winged uncorrected Christ.

insect) and "tapers," the self-consuming candles

6. One manuscript has "Chronicles." The biblical that attract winged insects. "Dying" was a popular book of 1 Chronicles (1-9) lists the genealogies of metaphor for sexual climax in seventeenth-century the tribes of Israel. The speaker may be implying English. "At our own cost" reflects the common that if the "timeless" lovers leave no "progeny," supersitition that each orgasm shortened the man's they will leave poetry.

life by a day.

7. The "rooms" (punning on stanza, Italian for

5. A common symbol of peace and meekness; the room) will hold the ashes, i.e., record their deeds.

"eagle" signifies strength. "Eagle" and "dove" are 8. I.e., the lover's poems.

also alchemical terms for processes leading to the

9. Some manuscripts have "extract" for "contract" rise of "phoenix" (line 23), a stage in the trans- and "draw" for "drove."

298 / JOHN DONNE

That they did all to you epitomize,

Countries, towns, courts:1 Beg from above

45 A pattern of your love!2

1633

Song

Sweetest love, I do not go

For weariness of thee,

Nor in hope the world can show

A fitter love for me;

5 But since that I

Must die at last, 'tis best

To use myself in jest,
Thus by feigned deaths to die.³
Yesternight the sun went hence,
io And yet is here today;
He hath no desire nor sense,
Nor half so short a way:
Then fear not me,
But believe that I shall make 15 Speedier journeys, since I take More wings and spurs than he.
O how feeble is man's power,
That if good fortune fall,
Cannot add another hour,
20 Nor a lost hour recall!
But come bad chance,
And we join to't our strength,
And we teach it art and length,
Itself o'er us to'advance.
25 When thou sigh'st, thou sigh'st not wind,
But sigh'st my soul away;
When thou weep'st, unkindly⁴ kind,
My life's blood doth decay.
It cannot be
30 That thou lov'st me, as thou say'st,
If in thine my life thou waste;
Thou art the best of me.

1. I.e., you who contracted or distilled the whole direct address ends. Some editors put quotation world's soul and drove countries, towns, courts markes before "You" (line 37) and after "love," and into the glasses of your eyes, which were thus made some manuscripts have "our" for "your."

into such mirrors and "spies" (spyglasses, tele-

3. Partings, and perhaps orgasms, as rehearsals for scopes) that they epitomized (rendered in small but the final death of life. "Dying" was a popular meta-intense form) everything to you. Note that the phor for sexual climax in seventeenth-century direct object of "drove" comes in line 44.

English.

2. Interpretations of this syntactically complex

4. Can also mean "unnatural."

stanza turn, in part, on where one thinks that the

T H E A N N I V E R S A R Y / 2 9 9

Let not thy divining⁰ heart foreseeing

Forethink me any ill;

35 Destiny may take thy part,

And may thy fears fulfill;

But think that we

Are but turned aside to sleep;

They who one another keep 40 Alive, ne'er parted be.

1 6 3 3

The Anniversary

All kings, and all their favorites,

All glory'of honors, beauties, wits,

The sun itself, which makes times, as they pass,
Is elder by a year, now, than it was 5 When thou and I first one another saw:
All other things to their destruction draw,
Only our love hath no decay;
This, no tomorrow hath, nor yesterday;
Running it never runs from us away,
10 But truly keeps his first, last, everlasting day.
Two graves must hide thine and my corse;⁰ corpse
If one might, death were no divorce.
Alas, as well as other princes, we (Who prince enough in one another be)
15 Must leave at last in death, these eyes, and ears,
Oft fed with true oaths, and with sweet salt tears;
But souls where nothing dwells but love
(All other thoughts being inmates⁰) then shall lodgers

prove⁰ experience

This, or a love increased there above,

20 When bodies to their graves, souls from their graves remove.

And then we shall be throughly⁰ blest, thoroughly

But we no more than all the rest;⁵

Here upon earth, we're kings, and none but we

Can be such kings, nor of such subjects be;⁶

25 Who is so safe as we, where none can do

Treason to us, except one of us two?

True and false fears let us refrain,

Let us love nobly, and live, and add again

Years and years unto years, till we attain

30 To write threescore, this is the second of our reign.

1 6 3 3

5. Scholastic philosophers maintained that all 6. The conceit is that each lover is the other's king, souls are equally content in heaven but not equally and therefore each is also the other's only subject, blessed.

3 0 0 / J O H N D O N N E

Love's Growth⁷

I scarce believe my love to be so pure

As I had thought it was,

Because it doth endure

Vicissitude,⁰ and season, as the grass; change

5 Methinks I lied all winter, when I swore

My love was infinite, if spring make't more.

But if this medicine, love, which cures all sorrow

With more, not only be no quintessence,⁸

But mixed of all stuffs paining soul or sense,
10 And of the sun his working vigor borrow,
Love's not so pure, and abstract, as they use
To say, which have no mistress but their muse,
But as all else, being elemented⁹ too,
Love sometimes would contemplate, sometimes do.
15 And yet no greater, but more eminent,⁰ conspicuous, evident
Love by the spring is grown;
As, in the firmament,
Stars by the sun are not enlarged, but shown,
Gentle love deeds, as blossoms on a bough,
20 From love's awakened root do bud out now.
If, as in water stirred more circles be Produced by one, love such additions take,
Those, like so many spheres, but one heaven make,
For they are all concentric unto thee;¹
25 And though each spring do add to love new heat,
As princes do in times of action get
New taxes, and remit them not in peace,
No winter shall abate the spring's increase.

1 6 3 3

A Valediction² of Weeping

Let me pour forth

My tears before thy face whilst I stay here,

7. In some manuscripts, titled "Spring." If "love's sought according to a principle of likeness between growth" refers to the swelling of pregnancy, then medicine and illness.

the irregular “growing” shape of the stanzas in the 9. Made up of a mixture of elements. Muse: source early editions and some manuscripts may be an of inspiration.

instance of imitative form. The stanzas play on (by
1. Most astronomers in Donne’s time conceived of inverting) the Italian sonnet pattern of an octave nine concentric spheres, each of transparent crys-followed by a sestet (see “Versification,” p. 2042).

tal, turning around Earth. The various heavenly
8. According to many ancient and medieval phi-bodies were thought to be fixed in the surfaces of losophers, there was a fifth, “quintessential” ele-these spheres.

ment, purer than the four elements of ordinary life

2. A departure speech or discourse; a bidding of (earth, air, fire, and water); the quintessence was farewell. Several manuscripts place a colon after thought to be a cure for all diseases. This medicine:
“Valediction,” but many, along with the 1633 edi-in the early seventeenth century, cures were often tion, do not.

A V A L E D I C T I O N O F T H E B O O K / 3 0 1

For thy face coins them, and thy stamp they bear,³

And by this mintage⁰ they are something worth, coining a word

5 For thus they be

Pregnant of thee;
Fruits of much grief they are, emblems of more;
When a tear falls, that Thou falls which it bore,⁴
So thou and I are nothing then, when on a diverse⁰ shore.
separate

10 On a round ball
A workman that hath copies by, can lay
An Europe, Afric, and an Asia,
And quickly make that, which was nothing, all,⁵
So doth each tear

15 Which thee doth wear,⁶
A globe, yea world, by that impression grow,
Till thy tears mixed with mine do overflow
This world; by waters sent from thee, my heaven dissolved so.
O more than moon,

20 Draw not up seas to drown me in thy sphere;⁷
Weep me not dead,⁸ in thine arms, but forbear
To teach the sea what it may do too soon.

Let not the wind

Example find

25 To do me more harm than it purposeth;
Since thou and I sigh one another's breath,
Whoe'er sighs most is cruelest, and hastes the other's death.

1633

A Valediction⁹ of the Book

I'll tell thee now (dear Love) what thou shalt do
To anger destiny, as she doth us,
How I shall stay, though she esloygne⁰ me thus remove far off

And how posterity shall know it too;

5 How thine may out-endure

Sybil's¹ glory, and obscure

Her² who from Pindar could allure,

3. I.e., they reflect your face (among other mean-

1. The best-known "sibyl," or prophetess, was the ings).

Cumaean Sibyl, who (according to Virgil's Aeneid)

4. With a play on the image of pregnancy in the lived for a thousand years. In a trancelike frenzy, preceding lines. "That" is a demonstrative adjective

she wrote inspired prophecies on leaves, which modifying "Thou"; the tear of the speaker bears the were scattered abroad by the wind. Her prophecies impression of the lover.

concerning the destiny of the Roman state were

5. I.e., an artist can paste maps of the continents gathered into the Sibylline Books, which were pre-on a blank globe. The "o" of the globe's shape is served in the Roman temple of Capitoline Jupiter.

echoed in the word "nothing."

These books were consulted during national emer-

6. Can be read as either "which bears your impres-gencies and required interpretation by male sion" (i.e., the speaker's tears) or "which you weep" priests.

(i.e., bearing the speaker's impression).

2. According to tradition, Corinna the Boeotian

7. I.e., heavenly body with greater power of attraction than the moon's, (when you affect the tides) successfully with the Greek lyric poet Pindar (ca. don't pull the seas up to yourself.

522—ca. 438 B.C.E.). His poems are extant; Cor-

8. I.e., do not weep me to death.

inna's are not, except in fragments.

9. See note 2, p. 300.

302 / J O H N D O N N E

And her,³ through whose help Lucan is not lame,

And her, whose book (they say) Homer did find, and name.⁴

10 Study our manuscripts, those myriads

Of letters, which have past twixt thee and me,

Thence write our annals, and in them will be

To all whom love's subliming fire invades,

Rule and example found;

15 There, the faith of any ground⁵

No schismatic⁶ will dare to wound,

That sees, how Love this grace to us affords,

To make, to keep, to use, to be these his records.

This book, as long-lived as the elements,

20 Or as the world's form, this all-graved tome⁷

In cipher writ, or new made idiom;⁰ language, dialect

We for love's clergy only'are instruments,⁸

When this book is made thus,

Should again the ravenous

25 Vandals and the Goths⁹ invade us,

Learning were safe; in this our universe
Schools might learn sciences, spheres music, angels verse.¹
Here Love's divines⁰ (since all divinity prophets, priests
Is love or wonder) may find all they seek, 30 Whether abstract spiritual love they like,
Their souls exhaled⁰ with⁰ what they do not see, drawn out/by
Or loth so to amuse
Faith's² infirmity, they choose
Something which they may see and use;
35 For, though mind be the heaven, where love doth sit,
Beauty'a convenient type³ may be to figure⁰ it. represent
Here more than in their books may lawyers find,
Both by what titles⁴ mistresses are ours,
And how prerogative these states⁵ devours,
3. Polla Argentaria, who helped her husband, the
8. I.e., we are, in these letters, documents for Roman poet Lucan (39-65 C.E.), write his histor-love's initiates only; one variant has "are only" for ical epic, Pharsalia.

"only'are."

4. One tradition holds that Homer, the supposed
9. Vandals and Goths were Germanic tribes that author of the Iliad (and the Odyssey), took the sub-invaded Western Europe during the third, fourth, ject of the siege of Troy from an epic poem on that and fifth centuries; here, those who willfully and event by Phantasia of Memphis. In another version ignorantly destroy anything beautiful or worthy of

of Donne's poem, the last three lines of this stanza preservation.

read: "Her who from old allure, / And, through

1. I.e., angelic hymns. Schools: scholastic philosophy whose help Lucan is not lame, / And her, whose spheres. Spheres music: according to Pythagorean look (they say) Homer did find, and name." Note tradition, the motion of the planetary spheres created that this variant substitutes "look" for "book" and added a music inaudible to human ears.

omits Corinna and Phantasia. The "her" of this last line refers to Helen of Troy, wife of the Greek king Menelaus, whose abduction (or seduction) by Paris, son of the king of Troy, began the Trojan War.

2. One variant has "doth" for "loth" and "faithless" for "Faith's."

3. A symbol or earthly reflection of the celestial original.

4. I.e., legal rights to the possession of property.

5. I.e., the trustworthiness of any fundamental

5. I.e., estates, presumably the "titles" mentioned doctrine.

in the above line. Prerogative: official right or privilege.

6. One who promotes schism, or breach of unity

ilege. Donne alludes here to the feudal practice in the Church; in this stanza and the next, the poet

by which a lord could demand from his vassals speaks of love as a sort of religion.

dues over and above those that were customary;

7. This indelibly written heavy book; one manu-also, at issue in the Parliament of 1601 was the script has “tomb” and another has “to me.”

prerogative of the monarch to levy special grants

LOVE’S ALCHEMY / 303

40 Transferred from Love himself, to wom an kind. 6

Who though from heart, and eyes,

They exact great subsidies,

Forsake him who on them relies

And for the cause, honor, or conscience gi ve, 45 Chimeras, vain as they, or their prer ogative. 7

Here statesmen (or of them, they which can read) May of their occupation find the gro unds, 0 *basic principles

Love and their art alike it deadly wounds, I fto consider what ‘tis, one proceed, 8

50 In both they do excel

Who the present govern well, 9

Whose weakness none doth, or darestell; 1

In this thy book, such 0 will there nothings ee, *such people

As in the Bible some can find out alchemy. 2

55 Thus vent thy thoughts; abroad 3 I’ll stu dy thee, As he removes far off, that 0 great eight stakes; 4 who How great love is, prese nce best trial makes, But absence tries ho w long this love will be; To take a latitude

60 Sun, or stars, are fitliest viewed
At their brightest, but to conclude,
Of longitudes, what other way have we,
But to mark when, and where the darke clip ses be? 5

1633

Love's Alchemy

Somethathavedeeperdiggedlove'sminet hanI, Saywherehiscentric0happinessdo
thlie; *central, essential

I'veloved, andgot, andtold, 6

ButshouldIlove, get, tell, tillIwereold, 5 I shouldnotfindthathiddenmystery;

against noblemen's estates at time of need.

tation of baser metals into gold and also to the

6. The "ours" of line 38 seems to refer to men.

search for a panacea or universal remedy. Nothing:

Thus the first four lines of this stanza might be worthlessness; one variant (printed in the 1633

paraphrased "Here, more than in their books, law-edition) has "something" in place of "nothing."

yers may discover both by what titles (legal rights

Find out: show the falsity of; or possibly, find sup-to property, with, perhaps, a pun on names) mis-port for (the Bible could be used to show the falsity

tresses belong to us (men), and how women's usur-of alchemy, but alchemists found support for their pation of the prerogative (privileges attendant on theories there).

those legal rights), which rightfully belongs to

3. I.e., while I'm away.

Love, eats away at those rights ('states')."

4. Measures. One variant has "shadows" for "great

7. I.e., and for their reason they plead conscience heights."

or honor, both illusions ("chimeras") as empty as

5. The latitude of a place may be measured by calculating its distance from the zenith of a star whose

8. I.e., neither love nor politics can bear close altitude (its distance from the equator) is known; scrutiny.

longitude can be measured by noting the time at

9. The suggestion of these lines seems to be that which an eclipse occurs at different points on opportunists do well in both love and politics.

Earth's surface. Donne here puns on "longitude,"

1. I.e., the weakness of lovers and politicians, as it suggests (but does not mean) length or duration. about which "none doth, or dares tell" because they have been either deceived or intimidated.

6. Tallied (counted) or estimated the quality of.

2. The science applied to the pursuit of transmu-

3 0 4 / J O H N D O N N E

0 , ' t i s i m p o s t u r e a l l :

And as no chemie^o yet th' elixir⁷ got,
alchemist

But glorifies his pregnant pot, 8

If by the way to him befall

10 Some odoriferous thing, or medicinal;
So lovers dream a rich and long delight,

But get a winter-seeming summer's night.

Ourease, our thrift, our honor, and our day,
Shall we for this vain bubble's shadow pay?

15 Ends love in this, that my man^o servant

Can be as happy 'as I can if he can Endure the shortscorn of a bridegroom's play?

That loving wretch that swears,

'Tis not the bodies marry, but the minds, 2

0 Which he in her angelic finds,

Would swear as justly that he hears,

In that day's rude hoarse minstrelsy, the pheres. 9

Hopenot for mind in women; at their best weetness and wit they're but mummy possed.

1633

A Nocturnal upon St. Lucy's Day,

Being the Shortest Day 2

'Tis the year's midnight, and it is the day's
, Lucy's, 3 whose scarce seven hours herself unmasks; The sun is spent, and now his flasks 4

Send forth lightsquibs, no constant rays;

5 The world's whole sap is sunk: 5

The general balm that hydroptic bears that h drunk, 7. A hypothetical substance, the goal of the alche“best.”

mists’ endeavors, supposedly capable of transmuted-

2. The “nocturns” of the Roman Catholic Church ing base metals into gold, curing all illnesses, and were night offices, or services; the title may also prolonging life indefinitely.

allude to an astronomical instrument used for tell-

8. His fertile (also womb-shaped) retort; alche-ing time at night. According to the calendar in use mists’ quests to create the elixir of life were often during Donne’s time, the winter solstice, or short-compared to human reproduction.

est day of the year, fell on December 12, the eve

9. I.e., the music of the spheres, or concentric of St. Lucy’s Day. St. Lucy was patron saint of the transparent shells containing the heavenly bodies blind. Her festival is celebrated with lights and in Ptolemaic astronomy; they were thought to pro-candles, and her name recalls the Latin word for duce angelic music as they turned. Here, they are light (lux, lucis). Lucy was the name of Donne’s contrasted with the charivari, a raucous serenade patron, the countess of Bedford, and some com-using pots, pans, and trumpets, traditionally per-mentators have suggested that the poem was writ-formed on the wedding night.

ten on her death, in 1627. Others believe that the
1. Lifeless flesh; also, a medication prepared from “she” of the poem is Donne’s wife, Anne, who died mummified remains. The poem is titled “Mummy” in 1617. Donne’s daughter, named Lucy after the in some manuscripts.

countess of Bedford, also died in 1627.

The syntax of the last two lines is obscure; the

3. In Latin, lux, lucis also means “day.” “Lucy’s”

last line may be read with a comma after “wit,”

here is an appositive to “day’s.”

after “they’re,” after “but,” and/or after “mummy.”

4. Powder flasks. I.e., the sun is compared to a

The final word may modify “mummy,” to signify gun shooting powder from powder flasks, but in “mummy with a demon in it,” or “they,” to signify

“squibs” like small fireworks that spurt and fizzle

“women, once possessed by men” (i.e., married) or as they burn.

“women, after men possess them” (i.e., after marriage). Some manuscripts have a comma after

5. Like that of trees and vegetation in winter.

6. Implies both saturation and insatiable thirst;

A N O C T U R N A L U P O N S T . L U C Y ‘ S D A Y , B E I N G T H E S H O R T E S T D A Y / 3 0 5

Whither, as to the bed’s-feet, life is shrunk,

Dead and interred; yet all these seem to laugh,

Compared with me, who am their epitaph.⁷

io Study me then, you who shall lovers be
At the next world, that is, at the next spring:
For I am every dead thing,
In whom love wrought new alchemy.
For his art did express⁰ squeeze out
15 A quintessence⁸ even from nothingness,
From dull privations, and lean emptiness:
He ruined me, and I am re-begot
Of absence, darkness, death; things which are not.
All others, from all things, draw all that's good,
20 Life, soul, form, spirit, whence they being have;
I, by love's limbeck,⁹ am the grave
Of all that's nothing. Oft a flood
Have we two wept, and so
Drowned the whole world, us two; oft did we grow
25 To be two chaoses,¹ when we did show
Care to aught else;² and often absences
Withdrew our souls, and made us carcasses.
But I am by her death (which word wrongs her)
Of the first nothing, the elixir grown;³
30 Were I a man, that I were one
I needs must know; I should prefer,
If I were any beast,
Some ends, some means; yea plants, yea stones detest,
And love;⁴ all, all some properties invest;⁰ put on 35 If I an ordinary nothing were,
As shadow, 'a light and body must be here.
But I am none; nor will my suns renew.

You lovers, for whose sake the lesser sun
At this time to the Goat is run
40 To fetch new lust, and give it you,
Enjoy your summer all;
Since she enjoys her long night's festival,
Let me prepare towards her, and let me call
i.e., insatiably thirsty. General balm: the balsa-
2. I.e., when we turned our attention from each mum, regarded as the vital, life-giving force in the other.

branch of Renaissance medicine associated with
3. He is now “grown” (become) the “elixir of the Paracelsus.

first nothing,” i.e., the quintessence of the nothing
7. Inscription on a tombstone.
that preceded creation of the world.

8. A highly concentrated essence or extract, often
4. I.e., even plants and stones (like lodestones) identified with the “fifth essence” of ancient and have attractions and antipathies; even “beasts” medieval philosophy (see note 8, p. 300 and note have intentions.

7, p. 304).

5. I.e., the dead woman. The “lesser sun” (line 38)

9. An alembic, an apparatus used in distillation, is the real sun, which is in the constellation of Cap-here associated with alchemy.

ricorn (“the Goat”) during December. Goats were

1. Includes a reference to the primordial emptiness out of which all form arises.

ness out of which all form arises.

306 / JOHN D O N N E

T h i s h o u r h e r v i g i l , 6 a n d h e r e v e , s i n c e t h i s 4 5 B o t h t h e y e a r ' s , a n d t h e d a y ' s d e e p m i d n i g h t i s .

1633

A Valediction Forbidding Mourning⁷

A s v i r t u o u s m e n p a s s m i l d l y a w a y ,

A n d w h i s p e r t o t h e i r s o u l s t o g o ,

W h i l s t s o m e o f t h e i r s a d f r i e n d s d o s a y

T h e b r e a t h g o e s n o w , a n d s o m e s a y , n o ;

5 S o l e t u s m e l t , a n d m a k e n o n o i s e ,

N o t e a r - f l o o d s , n o r s i g h - t e m p e s t s m o v e ,

' T w e r e p r o f a n a t i o n o f f o u r j o y s

T o t e l l t h e l a i t y 8 o u r l o v e .

M o v i n g o f t h ' e a r t h b r i n g s h a r m s a n d f e a r s
, i o M e n r e c k o n w h a t i t d i d a n d m e a n t ;

B u t t r e p i d a t i o n o f t h e s p h e r e s , 9

T h o u g h g r e a t e r f a r , i s i n n o c e n t .

D u l l s u b l u n a r y 1 l o v e r s ' l o v e

(W h o s e s o u l i s s e n s e) c a n n o t a d m i t

15 A b s e n c e , b e c a u s e i t d o t h r e m o v e

T h o s e t h i n g s w h i c h e l e m e n t e d 0 i t . composed

B u t w e b y ' a l o v e s o m u c h r e f i n e d

T h a t o u r s e l v e s k n o w n o t w h a t i t i s ,

I n t e r - a s s u r e d o f t h e m i n d ,

20 C a r e l e s s , 2 e y e s , l i p s , a n d h a n d s t o m i s s .

O u r t w o s o u l s t h e r e f o r e , w h i c h a r e o n e , T h o u g h I m u s t g o , e n d u r e n o t y e t
A b r e a c h , b u t a n e x p a n s i o n ,
L i k e g o l d t o a i r y t h i n n e s s b e a t .

25 I f t h e y b e t w o , t h e y a r e t w o s o
A s s t i f f t w i n c o m p a s s e s 3 a r e t w o ;
T h y s o u l , t h e f i x e d f o o t , m a k e s n o s h o w
T o m o v e , b u t d o t h , i f t h ' o t h e r d o .

6. The watch kept on the eve of a feast, with unpredicted variations in the paths of the heavenly prayer.

bodies.

7. Donne's friend Izaak Walton reported that this

1. Beneath the moon; earthly, hence changeable.

poem was written to Donne's wife when Donne

2. At least one manuscript and many editions from went to the Continent in 1611. Valediction: see 1639 to 1654 give "carelesse" for "care lesse"; we note 2, p. 300.

choose the latter form because it allows for two

8. I.e., those who do not understand such love.

interpretations of the lines.

9. A trembling of the celestial spheres, hypothe-

3. I.e., the two legs of compasses used in drawing sized by Ptolemaic astronomers to account for circles.

T H E E C S T A S Y / 3 0 7

A n d t h o u g h i t i n t h e c e n t e r s i t ,

30 Yet when the other far doth roam,
It leans and hearkens after it,
And grows erect, as that comes home.
Such wilt thou be to me, whom must Like th' other foot, obliquely run.
diagonally, aslant

35 Thy firmness makes my circle just,
And makes me end where I begun.

1633

The Ecstasy⁵

Where, like a pillow on a bed,
A pregnant bank swelled up to rest
The violet's reclining head,
Sat we two, one another's best.
5 Our hands were firmly cemented
With a fast balm, ⁷ which thence did spring
.
Oureye-beamstwisted, and did thread
Oureyes upon one double string;
Soto'intergraftourhands, as yet
io Was all the meanstomakeusone, ⁸
And pictures ⁰ inoureyes to get ⁰ reflections /
beget
Was all our propagation. ⁹
As 'twixt two equal armies, Fate
Suspenduncertainvictory,
15 Oursouls (which to advancetheirstate,
Weregoneout) hung 'twixtherandme.
And whilst oursouls negotiatethere,

We like sepulchral statues lay;
 All day the same our postures were,
 20 And we said nothing all the day.
 If any, so by lover refined
 That the soul's language understood,
 And by good love were grown all mind,
 Within convenient distance stood,
 25 He (though he knew not which soul spake
 , Because both meant, both spake the same ) Might thence a new concoction take,
 And part far purer than he came.

This ecstasy doth unperplex,

4. A symbol of perfection; with a dot in the middle, serves them steadfast.

the alchemist's symbol for gold.

8. The lovers are joined "as yet" only by hands and

5. Literally, "a standing out" (from the Greek eyes; "eye-beams" are invisible shafts of light, ekstasis); a term used by religious mystics to thought of as going out of the eyes and so enabling describe the experience in which the soul seemed one to see.

to leave the body and rise superior to it in a state

9. Reflection of each person in the other's eyes; of heightened awareness.

known also as "making babies."

6. An emblem of faithful love and truth.

1. Mixture of diverse elements refined (literally,

7. I.e., perspiration; also, a moisture that pre-cooked together) by heat; an alchemical term.

308 / JOHN D O N N E

30 We said, and tell us what we love;

We see by this it was not sex;

We see we saw not what did move;²

But as all several⁰ souls contain separate

Mixture of things, they know not what,

35 Love these mixed souls doth mix again,

And makes both one, each this and that.

A single violet transplant,

The strength, the color, and the size

(All which before was poor, and scant)

40 Redoubles still, and multiplies.

When love, with one another so

Interinanimates two souls,

That abler soul, which thence doth flow,³

Defects of loneliness controls.

45 We then, who are this new soul, know,

Of what we are composed, and made,

For, th' atomies⁰ of which we grow, atoms, components

Are souls, whom no change can invade.

But O alas, so long, so far

50 Our bodies why do we forbear?

They're ours, though they're not we; we are

Th' intelligences, they the spheres.⁴

We owe them thanks because they thus

Did us to us at first convey,

55 Yielded their forces, sense, to us,

Nor are dross to us, but alloy.⁵
 On man heaven's influence works not so,
 But that it first imprints the air,⁶
 So soul into the soul may flow,
 60 Though it to body first repair.⁰ go
 As our blood labors to beget
 Spirits⁷ like souls as it can,
 Because such fingers need⁰ to knit are needed
 That subtle knot which makes us man:
 65 So must pure lovers' souls descend
 To' affections,⁰ and to faculties,⁸ feelings
 Which sense may reach and apprehend;
 Else a great Prince in prison lies.

To' our bodies turn we then, that so 70 Weak men on love revealed may look;
 Love's mysteries in souls do grow,
 But yet the body is his book.

And if some lover, such as we,
 Have heard this dialogue of one,
 2. I.e., we see that we did not understand before
 5. Alloy, an impurity that strengthens metal.
 what "did move" (motivated) us.

Dross: an impurity that weakens metal.

3. The "abler soul" derives from the union of the

6. Astrological influences were conceived of as two lesser ones. Interinanimates: i.e., mutually being transmitted through the medium of air; also, breathes life into and mutually removes the con-angels were thought to assume bodies of air in their consciousness of.

dealings with humans.

4. The nine orders of angels (“intelligences”) were

7. Vapors believed to permeate the blood and to believed to govern the nine spheres of Ptolemaic mediate between the body and the soul.

astronomy.

8. Dispositions; powers of the body.

T H E F L E A / 3 0 9

75 Let him still mark us; he shall see

Small change when we’re to bodies gone.

1 6 3 3

The Funeral

Whoever comes to shroud me, do not harm

Nor question much

That subtle wreath of hair which crowns my arm;⁹

The mystery, the sign you must not touch,

5 For ‘tis my outward soul,

Viceroy to that, which then to heaven being gone,

Will leave this to control,

And keep these limbs, her¹ provinces, from dissolution.

For if the sinewy thread² my brain lets fall

io Through every part

Can tie those parts and make me one of all;

These hairs, which upward grew, and strength and art

Have from a better brain,

Can better do’it; except⁰ she meant that I unless

15 By this should know my pain,
 As prisoners then are manacled, when they're condemned to die.
 Whate'er she meant by 'it, bury it with me,
 For since I am
 Love's martyr, it might breed idolatry,³
 20 If into other's hands these relics came;
 As 'twas humility
 To'afford to it all that a soul can do,
 So 'tis some bravery,
 That since you would save none of me, I bury some of you.

1633

The Flea⁴

Mark but this flea, and mark in this,
 How little that which thou deniest me is;
 It sucked me first, and now sucks thee,
 9. I.e., a lock of hair that he had tied about his (relics) associated with them, such as bones or arm.
 clothing.

1. The soul's, but also the mistress's (cf. "she," line

4. The flea was a popular subject of Renaissance

14). Viceroy: one who acts in the name and by the erotic poems in which, frequently, the narrator authority of the supreme ruler.

envies the flea for the liberties it takes with his lady

2. One theory during the period maintained that and for its death at her hands (both die and kill the body is held in organic order by sinews or were Renaissance slang terms for orgasm; the act nerves emanating from the brain to every part.

of sexual intercourse was believed to reduce the
3. A reference to the Roman Catholic practice of man's life span). The narrator here addresses a idolizing martyrs as saints and venerating objects woman who has scorned his advances.

3 3 1 0 / J O H N D O N N E

And in this flea, our two bloods mingled be;
5 Thou know'st that this cannot be said
A sin, nor shame nor loss of maidenhead,⁵
Yet this enjoys before it woo,⁶
And pampered swells with one blood made of two,⁷
And this, alas, is more than we would do.
10 Oh stay,⁸ three lives in one flea spare,
Where we almost, yea more than married are.
This flea is you and I, and this
Our marriage bed, and marriage temple is;
Though parents grudge, and you, w'are met,
15 And cloistered in these living walls of jet.⁹
Though use^o make you apt to kill me, custom,
Let not to that, self murder added be,
And sacrilege,¹ three sins in killing three.
Cruel and sudden, hast thou since 20 Purpled thy nail, in blood of innocence?
Wherein could this flea guilty be,
Except in that drop which it sucked from thee?

Yet thou triumph'st, and say'st that thou
Find'st not thy self, nor me the weaker now;²
25 'Tis true, then learn how false, fears be;
Just so much honor, when thou yield'st to me,
Will waste, as this flea's death took life from thee.

1 6 3 3

The Relic³

When my grave is broke up again
Some second guest to entertain⁴
(For graves have learned that woman-head⁰ womanhood
To be to more than one a bed),
5 And he that digs it, spies
A bracelet of bright hair about the bone,⁵
Will he not let us alone,
And think that there a loving couple lies,
Who thought that this device might be some way
io To make their souls, at the last busy day,⁶
Meet at this grave, and make a little stay?

5. I.e., loss of virginity; the maidenhead is the would be sacrilege.

hymen.

2. I.e., now that she has killed the flea.

6. I.e., the flea enjoys this liberty without the

3. See note 3, p. 309.

effort of wooing the lady.

4. Reuse of a grave after an interval of several

7. Renaissance medical theory held that blood was years was a common seventeenth-century practice mingled during sexual intercourse, leading to conception; thus the image of swelling suggests pregnancy in charnel houses).

nancy.

5. See "The Funeral," line 3 and note 9 (p. 309).

8. I.e., refrain from killing the flea.

6. Judgment Day, when all parts of the body would

9. Black marble; the "living walls of jet" here refer be reassembled and reunited with the soul in resurrection.

urrection.

1. Since the flea is a "marriage temple," killing it

ELEGY VII / 311

If this fall⁰ in a time, or land, happen

Where mis-devotion⁷ doth command,

Then he that digs us up, will bring

15 Us to the Bishop and the King,

To make us relics; then

Thou shalt be 'a Mary Magdalen,⁸ and I

A something else thereby;

All women shall adore us, and some men;

20 And since at such time, miracles are sought,

I would have that age by this paper taught

What miracles we harmless lovers wrought.

First, we loved well and faithfully,

Yet knew not what we loved, nor why,

25 Difference of sex no more we knew,

Than our guardian angels do;
Coming and going, we
Perchance might kiss, but not between those meals;⁹
Our hands ne'er touched the seals,
30 Which nature, injured by late law,¹ sets free:
These miracles we did; but now, alas,
All measure and all language I should pass,
Should I tell what a miracle she was.

1 6 3 3

Elegy VII²

Nature's lay idiot,³ I taught thee to love,
And in that sophistry,⁴ oh, thou dost prove Too subtle: Fool, thou didst not understand
The mystic language of the eye nor hand:
5 Nor couldst thou judge the difference of the air
Of sighs, and say, this lies, this sounds⁰ despair: expresses
Nor by the'eye's water call a malady
Desperately hot, or changing feverously.
I had not taught thee then, the alphabet
io Of flowers, how they devicefully⁰ being set ingeniously
And bound up, might with speechless secrecy

7. False devotion; seems to refer to Catholicism.

poems treating various topics including love and

8. The woman out of whom Christ had cast seven (increasingly often) devils (Luke 8.2), traditionally identified with the thought to be early poems, mostly written in the repentant prostitute of Luke 7.37—50. Renaissance poems treating various topics including love and 1590s. Five of the thirteen elegies designed for painters often depicted her with long, golden hair. printing in the 1633 edition of the Poems were 9. I.e., customary kisses of greeting and parting; refused a licence by the official censors; the second kisses were thought to be food for the soul. edition of 1635 printed seventeen elegies, and others. I.e., human law puts prohibitions (“seals,” which may also here signify sexual organs) on that There is still no scholarly consensus on the canon which nature originally set free.

of Donne’s elegies, and the Roman numerals in the 2. Donne’s “Elegies,” heavily influenced by Ovid’s titles first appeared in twentieth-century editions. Amores, are written in heroic couplets (rhyming 3. I.e., one who is ignorant of the workings of iambic pentameter lines) that provide an apt nature, as a “layperson” is ignorant of religious English equivalent for the Latin elegiac meter of mysteries.

alternating dactylic pentameter and hexameter

4. Plausible but fallacious reasoning.

lines. In Donne’s time, elegies were reflective

3 3 1 2 / J O H N D O N N E

D e l i v e r e r r a n d s m u t e l y , a n d m u t u a l l y .

R e m e m b e r s i n c e 0 a l l t h y w o r d s u s e d t o b e when T o e v e r y s u i t o r , “ I , 5 ‘ i f m y f r i e n d s a g r e e ’ ;

15 Since, household charms, 6 thy husband's name to teach, Were all the love-tricks, that thy wit could reach;

And since, an hour's discourse could scarce have made One answer in thee, 7 and that ill arrayed

In broken proverbs, and torn sentences.

20 Thou art not by so many duties his,

That from the world's common having severed thee, Inlaid thee, 8 neither to be seen, nor see,

As mine: who have with a morous delicacies
Refined thee 'into a blissful paradise.

25 Thy graces and good words my creatures be; I planted knowledge and life's tree⁹ in thee,

Which oh, shall strangers taste? Must I alas

Frame and enamell plate, and drink in glass?¹

Chafe⁰ wax for others' seals? break a colt's force heat³⁰ And leave him then, being made a ready horse?

1633

Elegy XIX. To His Mistress Going to Bed²

Come, madam, come, all rest my powers defy,

Until I labor, I in labor³ lie.

The foe oft-time having the foe in sight,

Is tired with standing though he never fight.

5 Off with that girdle, like heaven's zone⁴ glistening, But a far fairer world encompassing.

Unpin that spangled breastplate⁵ which you wear,

That th' eyes of busy fools may be stopped
there.

U n l a c e y o u r s e l f , f o r t h a t h a r m o n i o u s c h i m e 0 c h i m i n g w a t c h 10 T e l l s m e f r o m y o u t h a t n o w i t i s b e d t i m e .

O f f w i t h t h a t h a p p y b u s k , 0 w h i c h I e n v y , c o r s e t
T h a t s t i l l c a n b e , a n d s t i l l c a n s t a n d s o n i g h .

Your g o w n g o i n g o f f , s u c h b e a u t e o u s s t a t e r e v e a l s , 5 . Some modern editions change “I”—the reading the knowledge of good and evil and the tree of life of all early editions and manuscripts—to “Ay.”

(Genesis 2.9).

6. Magic used to learn her future “husband’s

1. I.e., must I fashion and decorate a silver cup name.”

but drink from a glass one?

7. I.e., could hardly have elicited a response from

2. This poem was one of the five refused license you.

for the 1633 edition (see note 2, p. 311).

8. I.e., laid thee in, set thee aside for his own use;

3. Meaning “get to work” (sexually) in the first with an allusion to the contested Renaissance instance and “distress” (as of a woman in child-practice of “enclosing” common agricultural lands birth) in the second.

for private uses.

4. The belt of Orion.

9. The first paradise, Eden, included the tree of

5. Jeweled covering for the chest.

ELEGY XIX . T o H i s M I S T R E S S G O I N G T O B E D / 3 1 3

As when from flowry meads 0 th'hill's shadow steals . meadows 15 Off with that wiry coronet and show

The hairy diadem 6 which on you doth grow :

Now off with those shoes, and then safely 7 tread
In this love's hallowed temple, this soft bed.

In such white robes, heaven's angels used to be 20 Received by men; thou, Angel, bring'st with thee A heaven like Mahomet's Paradise; 8
and though 111 spirits walk in white, we easily know

By this these angels from an evil sprite:

Those set our hairs, but these our flesh upright.

25 License my roving hands, and let them go
Before, behind, between, above, below.

O my America! my new-found-land,

My kingdom, safe liest when with one man manned, My mine of precious stones, my empery, 0 empire 30
How blest am I in this discovering thee!

To enter in these bonds is to be free;

Then where my hand is set, my seal shall be.

Full nakedness! All joys are due to thee,

As souls unbodied, bodies unclothed must be, 35 To taste whole joys. Gems which you women use Are like Atlanta's balls, 9 cast in men's views, That when a fool's eye lighteth on a gem,

His earthly soul may covet theirs, not them:
Like pictures, or like books' gay coverings made 40 For lay-men, are all women thus arrayed.

Themselves are mystic books, 1 which only we (Whom their imputed grace will dignify)
 Must see revealed. Then, since that I may know,
 As liberally as to a midwife, show
 45 Thyself: cast all, yea, this whitelinen
 hence, There is no penance due to innocence: 2
 To teach thee, I am naked first; why than, 0 then What needst thou have more covering than a man?

1669

6. A word for “crown,” like the preceding line’s cast in her path three golden apples (or “balls”) “coronet”; but Donne leaves ambiguous the relation between figurative and literal crowns, and beauty. Distracted by their beauty, Atalanta their bodily location.

stopped to retrieve them, and Hippomenes won

7. Here and elsewhere in this poem, we substitute the race.

some manuscript variants for phrases in the 1669

1. A manuscript variant for “books” is “bodies.”

edition, which has “softly” for “safely,” “revealed 2. Some manuscripts have “here is no penance to” (for “received by”) in line 20, and “court” (for much less innocence.” White clothing was often “covet”) in line 38.

considered penitential vestment; the speaker

8. A heaven of sensual pleasures.

seems to be arguing that the women should cast

9. According to Greek mythology, Atalanta agreed off such clothing since innocence does not require to marry Hippomenes if he could defeat her in a penance.

foot race. As she was about to overtake him, he

3314 / JOHN DONNE

Satire IIP

Kind pity chokes my spleen; 4 brave scorn forbids
Those tears to issue which swell my eyelids;
I must not laugh, nor weep 0 sins, and be wise,
mock/lament Can railing then cure these worn maladies?

5 Is not our mistress fair Religion,

As worthy 'of all our souls' devotion,

As virtue was to the first blinded age? 5

Are not the heaven's joys as valiant to assuage
Lusts, as earth's honor was to them? 6 Alas,
10 As we do them in means, shall they surpass
Us in the end, and shall thy father's spirit
Meet blind philosophers in heaven, whose merit
Of strict life maybe 'imputed faith, 7 and hear Thee, whom he taught so easy ways and near 15 To follow, damned? O, if thou dar'st, fear this;
This fear great courage and high valor is.

Dar'st thou aid mutinous Dutch, 8 and dar'st
Thou lay Thee in ships, woodensepulchers, a prey

To leaders' rage, to storms, to shot, to death? 0

famine

20 Dar'st thou dive seas and dungeons 0 of the earth?

mines, caves

Hast thou courageous fire to thaw the ice
Of frozen North discoveries? and thrice
Colder than salamanders, like divine
Children in the oven, 9 fires of Spain, and t helix, 0

equator

25 Whose countries limbbecksto our bodies be, Canst thou for gain bear? 1 And must ev ery he Which cries not, "Goddess!" to thy mistress, draw, 2

Oreat thy poisonous words? Courage of st raw!

O desperate coward, wilt thou seem bold, a nd 3. In this poem, Donne adapts techniques of clas-able to appease the lusts of the pagans.

sical Roman satirists (e.g., Horace, Juvenal, and

7. Donne reverses a reformed Protestant theolog-Persius) to a contemporary problem: the proliferical concept: instead of achieving Christians' salating divisions of belief among Christians in the vation by imputing Christ's merits to them through period after the Protestant break with the Roman faith, here virtuous pagans' salvation might be Catholic Church. Donne was raised Catholic and gained by imputing faith to them based on their seems to have retained considerable sympathy for moral lives.

Catholic beliefs even after he abandoned them in

8. In the last twenty years of the sixteenth century, the 1590s; still dubious about the “official” Church the English aided the Protestant Dutch in their of England’s doctrines, he refused to take Anglican revolt against Spanish (and Catholic) rule. Donne orders in 1607 despite King James’s wish that had sailed in two raiding expeditions against the Spanish. Donne pursue a career in the Church. Later, he Spanish.

became an Anglican minister, and in 1621 he was 9. After alluding to expeditions to discover the appointed dean of St. Paul’s Cathedral. W h e n Northwest Passage, Donne invokes the “divine “Satire III” was written, however—probably in the children” Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, who 1590s—Donne like many other English people are described in the Book of Daniel (3.20—30) as was in a state of doubt about religious “truth.” surviving a fiery furnace unharmed after refusing Donne’s five satires are among the first formal to worship a golden idol. Salamanders were experiments in the genre in English; they were ini- thought to be so cold-blooded that they could tially refused a publication license, but the ban was endure fire.

later removed.

1. The object of “bear” is “fires of Spain, and the 4. The seat of laughter and of melancholy (accord- line.” “Fires of Spain” refers to the Inquisition, in ing to Renaissance physiology).

which heretics were burned at the stake. Inquisi-
5. I.e., the age of paganism, “blinded” to Christitorial and equatorial heats burn people as chemists anity but capable of a natural devotion to “virtue.”
heat materials in “limbecks,” apparatuses used for
6. I.e., hope of heaven’s “joys” should be as capadistilling liquids.

ble of calming our “lusts” as earthly “honor” was
2. I.e., fight a duel.

SATIRE H I / 3 1 5

30 To thy foes and his⁰ (who made thee to stand God’s Sentinel in his world’s garrison) thus yield,
And for forbidden wars, leave th’appointed field?
Know thy foes: The foul Devil he’is, whom thou Strivest to please: for hate, not love, would allow 35 Thee fain his whole realm to be quit;³ and as
The world’s all parts wither away and pass,
So the world’s self, thy other loved foe, is
In her decrepit wane, and thou, loving this,
Dost love a withered and worn strumpet; last,
40 Flesh (itself’s death) and joys which flesh can taste,
Thou lovest; and thy fair goodly soul, which doth
Give this flesh power to taste joy, thou dost loathe;
Seek true religion. O, where? Mirreus,⁴
Thinking her unhoused here, and fled from us,
45 Seeks her at Rome; there, because he doth know
That she was there a thousand years ago.

He loves her rags so, as we here obey
The statecloth⁵ where the Prince sat yesterday.
Crantz to such brave loves will not be enthralled,
50 But loves her only, who⁶ at Geneva is called Religion—plain, simple, sullen, young,
Contemptuous, yet unhandsome; as among Lecherous humors,⁰ there is one that judges dispositions
No wenches wholesome but coarse country drudges.
55 Graius⁷ stays still at home here, and because Some preachers, vile ambitious bawds, and laws
Still new, like fashions, bid him think that she Which dwells with us, is only⁰ perfect, he solely Embraceth her whom his Godfathers will 60 Tender to him, being tender, as wards still Take such wives as their guardians offer, or Pay values. Careless Phrygius⁸ doth abhor
All, because all cannot be good, as one
Knowing some women whores, dares marry none.
65 Graccus⁹ loves all as one, and thinks that so
As women do in divers countries go
In divers habits, yet are still one kind,
So doth, so is religion; and this blindness too much light breeds;¹ but unmoved thou 70 Of force⁰ must one, and forced but one allow; necessity
3. I.e., the devil would willingly (“fain”)—but for
8. Seems to be a skeptic, or one who rejects all hate, not love—give you his whole realm of hell to creeds. “Values,” or fines, had to be paid by young discharge a debt (“to be quit”).

men (of “tender” years) who rejected the marriages

4. The fictional characters that follow represent arranged by their guardians; Catholics also had to different creeds. “Mirreus,” from myrrh, a gum pay fines if they refused to attend Anglican serv- resin that gives incense its smell, is a Roman Cath- olic.

9. A Universalist, or one who considers all creeds

5. The royal canopy; a symbol of royal power. basically alike.

6. The center of Calvinism; “Crantz” is a Geneva

1. I.e., “too much light” grows for anyone to see Presbyterian.

the truth. Unlike Graccus, who finds the “light of

7. Probably an Erastian, i.e., one who believes that truth” in every creed, the reader is advised to find religious belief should be determined by the state; the one “right” religion without being moved by he could also be an Anglican, a follower of other forces.

England’s state religion after the Reformation.

3316 / JOHN D O N N E

A n d t h e r i g h t ; a s k t h y f a t h e r w h i c h i s s h e ,

L e t h i m a s k h i s ; t h o u g h t r u t h a n d f a l s e h o o d b e

N e a r t w i n s , y e t t r u t h a l l e l d e r i s ;

B e b u s y t o s e e k h e r , b e l i e v e m e t h i s ,

75 He 's n o t o f n o n e , n o r w o r s t , t h a t s e e k s t h e b e s t . 2

To 'a d o r e , o r s c o r n a n i m a g e , o r p r o t e s t , 3

M a y a l l b e b a d ; d o u b t w i s e l y ; i n s t r a n g e w a y

T o s t a n d i n q u i r i n g r i g h t , i s n o t t o s t r a y ;

T o s l e e p , o r r u n w r o n g , i s . O n a h u g e h i l l ,

80 C r a g g e d a n d s t e e p , T r u t h s t a n d s , a n d h e t h a t w i l l R e a c h h e r , a b o u t 0 m u s t , a n d a b o u t m u s t g o , a r o u n d A n d w h a t t h ' h i l l ' s s u d d e n e s s 0
r e s i s t s , w i n s o ; u n e x p e c t e d a b r u p t n e s s Y e t s t r i v e s o , t h a t b e f o r e a g e , d e a t h ' s t w i l i g h t ,

T h y s o u l r e s t , f o r n o n e c a n w o r k i n t h a t n i g h t . 4

85 T o w i l l 0 i m p l i e s d e l a y , t h e r e f o r e n o w d o . i n t e n d
a f u t u r e a c t H a r d d e e d s , t h e b o d y ' s p a i n s ; h a r d k n o
w l e d g e t o o

T h e m i n d ' s e n d e a v o r s r e a c h , 5 a n d m y s t e r i e s A r e l i k e t h e s u n , d a z z l i n g , y e t p l a i n t o ' a l l e y e s .

K e e p t h e ' t r u t h w h i c h t h o u h a s t f o u n d ; m e n d o n o t s t a n d 90 I n s o i l l c a s e t h a t G o d h a t h w i t h h i s h a n d

S i g n e d k i n g s ' b l a n k c h a r t e r s t o k i l l w h o m t h e y h a t e , N o r a r e t h e y v i c a r s , b u t h a n g m e n t o f a t e . 6

F o o l a n d w r e t c h , w i l t t h o u l e t t h y S o u l b e t i e d

T o m a n ' s l a w s , b y w h i c h s h e s h a l l n o t b e t r i e d

95 A t t h e l a s t d a y ? O , w i l l i t t h e n b o o t 0 t h e e p r o f i t T o s a y a P h i l i p , o r a G r e g o r y ,

A H a r r y , o r a M a r t i n 7 t a u g h t t h e e t h i s ?

I s n o t t h i s e x c u s e f o r m e r e 0 c o n t r a r i e s a b s o l u t e , c o m p l e t e E q u a l l y s t r o n g ? C a n n o t b o t h s i d e s s a y s o ?

100 T h a t t h o u m a y e s t r i g h t l y ' o b e y p o w e r , h e r 0 b o u n d s k n o w ; p o w e r ' s T h o s e p a s s e d , h e r n a t u r e ' a n d n a m e i s c h a n g e d ; t o b e T h e n h u m b l e t o h e r i s i d o l a t r y .

As streams are, power is; those blest flowers that dwell At the rough stream's calm head, thrive and do well, 105 But having left their roots, and themselves given To the stream's tyrannous rage, alas, are driven

Through mills, and rocks, and woods, and at last, almost Consumed in going, in these are lost:

So perish souls, which more choose men's unjust no Power from God claimed, than God himself to trust.

1633

2. I.e., the person who seeks the true Church is

6. These syntactically and conceptually difficult not an unbeliever ("of none") nor the "worst" sort lines seem to say that God has not given earthly of believer.

rulers unconditional authority ("blank charters") to

3. "To'adore" alludes to Catholic worship, kill whomever they choose; when they do kill, they whereas to "scorn an image" and to "protest" are are serving not as God's "vicars" but rather as hang-typical Protestant gestures.

men to "fate."

4. Cf John 9.4: "I must work the work of him that

7. Martin Luther (1483-1546), German Refor-sent me, while it is day. The night cometh, when mation leader. Philip: Philip II (1527 - 1598) of no man can work."

Spain. Gregory.- any one of several Pope Gregorys

5. I.e., just as the body's pains achieve ("reach") (VII, XIII, XIV). Harry: Henry VIII (1491 - 1547) of hard deeds, the mind's endeavors reach hard England.
knowledge.

GOOD FRIDAY, 1613. RIDING WESTWARD /
317

Good Friday,⁸ 1613. Riding Westward

Let man's soul be a sphere, and then, in this,
The 'intelligencethat moves, devotion is,⁹
And as the otherspheres, by being grown
Subject to foreign motions, lose their own
,⁵ And being by others hurried every day,
Scarce in a year their natural form obey;
Pleasure or business, so, our souls admit
For their first mover, and are whirled by it.¹
Hence is 't, that I am carried towards the W estio This day, when my soul's form bends to wa rds the East.

There I should see a Sun, ² by rising, set,
And by that setting endless day be get;
But that ⁰ Christ on this cross did rise and fall,
except that Sin had eternally benighted all.
¹⁵ Yet dare I 'almost be glad I do not see
That spectacle, of too much weight for me.
Whosees God's face, that is self-life, must die;³
What a death were it then to see God die?
It made his own lieutenant, Nature, shrink;
²⁰ It made his footstool crack, and the sun w
ink. ⁴

Could I behold those hands which span the poles, And tune 5 all spheres at once, pierce d with those holes?

Could I behold that endless height which is Zenith to us, and to 'our antipodes, 6

25 Humbled below us? Or that blood which is These at 0 of all our souls, if not of His, dwelling place Make dirt of dust, or that flesh wh ich was worn By God, for his apparel, ragg'd and torn?

If on these things I durst not look, durst I 30
Upon his miserable mother cast mine eye,
Who was God's partner here, and furnishe d thus Half of that sacrifice which ransom ed us?

Though these things, as I ride, be from 0 mine eye, away from They 'represent yet unto my m emory,

35 For that look towards them; and thou look'st towards me, 0 Saviour, as thou hang'
st upon the tree.

1 turn my back to thee but to receive

Corrections, till thy mercies bid thee leave
. 0 cease 8. The Friday before Easter, observed as the anni-2.
With a pun on Son.

versary of Christ's death.

3. God told Moses: "Thou canst not see my face:

9. I.e., just as an angel was believed to govern the for there shall no man see me and live" (Exodus movements of each of the nine concentric celestial 33.20).

spheres, so "devotion" is or should be the guiding

4. A quaking of the earth (God's "footstool," principle for the movements of humans.

according to Isaiah 66.1) and a solar eclipse

1. I.e., just as spheres are deflected from their true marked Christ's Crucifixion (Matthew 27.45, 51).

orbits by outside influences, so our souls are

5. The motion of the celestial spheres was diverted by "pleasure or business." According to believed to produce music; some manuscripts have

Ptolemaic astronomy, each sphere, in addition to

"turn," which accords with the notion that God its own motion, was influenced by the motions of

was the "first mover."

those outside it ("foreign motions," line 4), the out-

6. The zenith is that part of the heavens directly ermost being known as the primum mobile, or "first above any point on Earth; the antipodes are that mover" (line 8).

part of Earth diametrically opposite such a point.

3 1 8 / J O H N D O N N E

O t h i n k m e w o r t h t h i n e a n g e r ; p u n i s h m e ;

4 0 B u r n o f f m y r u s t s a n d m y d e f o r m i t y ;

R e s t o r e t h i n e i m a g e s o m u c h , b y t h y g r a c e ,

T h a t t h o u m a y s t k n o w m e , a n d I ' l l t u r n m y f a c e .

1 6 3 3

*From Holy Sonnets*7

I

T h o u h a s t m a d e m e , a n d s h a l l t h y w o r k d e c a y ?

Repair me now, for now mine end doth haste;
 I run to death, and death meets me as fast,
 And all my pleasures are like yesterday.
 5 I dare not move my dim eyes any way,
 Despair behind, and death before doth cast
 Such terror, and my feeble flesh doth waste
 By sin in it, which it towards hell doth weigh.
 Only thou art above, and when towards thee
 io By thy leave I can look, I rise again;
 But our old subtle foe so tempteth me Satan
 That not one hour myself I can sustain.
 Thy grace may wing me to prevent his art, give wings to /forestall And thou like a adamant draw mine iron heart. obdurate 1635

5
 I am a little world made cunningly
 Of elements, and an angelike sprite; matter /spirit But black sin hath betrayed to endless night My world's both parts, and O, both parts must die.
 5 You which beyond that heaven which was most high Have found new spheres, and of new worlds can write,¹
 Pour new seas in mine eyes, that so I might Drown my world with my weeping earnestly,
 Or wash it if it must be drowned no more.²
 io But O, it must be burnt!³ Alas, the fire
 Of lust and envy have burnt it heretofore,

7. Donne's religious poetry is collectively known

9. The individual as microcosm of the world was as the Divine Poems, of which the nineteen Holy a common Renaissance notion.

Sonnets form the largest group. Although Donne

1. Copernican astronomy (which placed the sun probably began writing them around 1609, at least at the center of our system, unlike Ptolemaic a decade after leaving the Catholic Church, the astronomy, which placed Earth at the center) had sonnets display an interest in the formal meditative changed people's ideas about the universe just as exercise of the Jesuits. Our selections are numerous recent terrestrial exploration had changed people's ideas according to Sir Herbert Grierson's influential ideas about the world.

ential edition of 1912, which included several

2. God promised Noah that he would never again sonnets not published until the the nineteenth cover Earth with a flood (Genesis 9.11).

century. No one knows what ordering Donne

3. At the end of the world, "the elements shall might have intended for the Holy Sonnets.

melt with fervent heat, the earth also and the works

8. Lodestone, a magnetic stone; or adamantine that are therein shall be burned up" (2 Peter 3.10). rock, a proverbially hard stone.

H O L Y S O N N E T S : 9 / 3 1 9

A n d m a d e i t f o u l e r ; l e t t h e i r f l a m e s r e t i r e ,

A n d b u r n m e , O L o r d , w i t h a f i e r y z e a l

O f t h e e ‘ a n d t h y h o u s e , w h i c h d o t h i n e a t i n g h e a l . 4

1 6 3 5

7

A t t h e r o u n d e a r t h ’ s i m a g i n e d c o r n e r s , b l o w
Y o u r t r u m p e t s , a n g e l s ; 5 a n d a r i s e , a r i s e

F r o m d e a t h , y o u n u m b e r l e s s i n f i n i t i e s

O f s o u l s , a n d t o y o u r s c a t t e r e d b o d i e s g o ; 5
A l l w h o m t h e f l o o d d i d , a n d f i r e s h a l l , 6 o ’ e r t h r o w ,

A l l w h o m w a r , d e a r t h , 0 a g e , a g u e s , 0 t y r a n n i e s , famine /fevers D e s p a i r , l a w , c h a n c e , h a t h s l a i n , a n d
d y o u w h o s e e y e s S h a l l b e h o l d G o d , a n d n e v e r
r a s t e d e a t h ’ s w o e . 7

B u t l e t t h e m s l e e p , L o r d , a n d m e m o u r n a s p a c e
; 10 F o r , i f a b o v e a l l t h e s e , m y s i n s a b o u n d ,

‘ T i s l a t e t o a s k a b u n d a n c e o f t h y g r a c e

W h e n w e a r e t h e r e . H e r e o n t h i s l o w l y g r o u n d ,

T e a c h m e h o w t o r e p e n t ; f o r t h a t ’ s a s g o o d

A s i f t h o u ‘ h a d s t s e a l e d m y p a r d o n w i t h t h y b l o o d .

1 6 3 3

9

I f p o i s o n o u s m i n e r a l s , a n d i f t h a t t r e e

W h o s e f r u i t t h r e w d e a t h o n e l s e 0 i m m o r t a l u s , otherwise I f l e c h e r o u s g o a t s , i f s e r p e n t s e n v i o u s

C a n n o t b e d a m n e d , 8 a l a s , w h y s h o u l d I b e ?

5 W h y s h o u l d i n t e n t o r r e a s o n , b o r n i n m e ,

M a k e s i n s , e l s e e q u a l , i n m e m o r e h e i n o u s ?

A n d m e r c y b e i n g e a s y a n d g l o r i o u s

T o G o d , i n h i s s t e r n w r a t h w h y t h r e a t e n s h e ?

B u t w h o a m I , t h a t d a r e d i s p u t e w i t h t h e e , 10 O G o d ? O h ! o f t h i n e o n l y w o r t h y b l o o d ,
A n d m y t e a r s , m a k e a h e a v e n l y L e t h e a n 9 f l o o d ,
A n d d r o w n i n i t m y s i n s ' b l a c k m e m o r y .
T h a t t h o u r e m e m b e r t h e m , s o m e c l a i m a s d e b t ; I t h i n k i t m e r c y i f t h o u w i l t f o r g e t . 1

1 6 3 3

4. "The zeal of thine house hath eaten me up" the kingdom of God" (Christ's words to his disci-(Psalms 59.9); probably also a reference to the ples, Luke 9.27). According to 1 Thessalonians Christian rite of Communion, in which Christ's 4.17, believers who are alive at the time of Christ's blood and body (his "house") are eaten.

Second Coming will not die but will be taken

5. The first eight lines of the poem recount the directly to heaven.

events of the end of the world and the Second

8. I.e., only creatures with the ability to reason can Coming of Christ; Donne alludes specifically to be damned. The tree is the tree of knowledge of Revelation 7.1: "I saw four angels standing on the good and evil, the fruit of which Adam and Eve four corners of the earth, holding the four winds were forbidden to eat or touch (Genesis 2).

of the earth."

9. Lethe was a river in the classical underworld;

6. See note 3, p. 319.

drinking its waters caused one to forget the past.

7. “But I tell you of a truth, there be some standing

1. Cf. Jeremiah 31.34: “I will forgive their iniquity, here, which shall not taste of death, till they see and I will remember their sins no more.”

320 / JOHN DONNE

10

D e a t h , b e n o t p r o u d , t h o u g h s o m e h a v e c a l l e d t h e e M i g h t y a n d d r e a d f u l , f o r t h o u a r e n o t s o ;

F o r t h o s e w h o m t h o u t h i n k ' s t t h o u d o s t o v e r t h r o w D i e n o t , p o o r D e a t h , n o r y e t c a n s t t h o u k i l l m e .

5 F r o m r e s t a n d s l e e p , w h i c h b u t t h y p i c t u r e s b e , M u c h p l e a s u r e ; t h e n f r o m t h e m u c h m o r e m u s t f l o w , A n d s o o n e s t o u r b e s t m e n w i t h t h e e d o g o ,

R e s t o f 0 t h e i r b o n e s , a n d s o u l ' s d e l i v e r y . for

T h o u ' a r t s l a v e t o f a t e , c h a n c e , k i n g s , a n d d e s p e r a t e m e n , i o A n d d o s t w i t h p o i s o n , w a r , a n d s i c k n e s s d w e l l ,

A n d p o p p y ' o r 0 c h a r m s c a n m a k e u s s l e e p a s w e l l Opium or A n d b e t t e r t h a n t h y s t r o k e ; w h y s w e l l ' s t 0 t h o u t h e n ? puff with pride O n e s h o r t s l e e p p a s t , w e w a k e e t e r n a l l y ,

A n d d e a t h s h a l l b e n o m o r e ; D e a t h , t h o u s h a l t d i e . 2

1633

14

B a t t e r m y h e a r t , t h r e e - p e r s o n e d G o d ; 3 f o r Y o u

A s y e t b u t k n o c k , b r e a t h e , s h i n e , a n d s e e k t o m e n d ; T h a t I m a y r i s e a n d s t a n d , o ' e r t h r o w m e , ' a n d b e n d

Your force to break, blow, burn, and make me new.

I, like an usurped town, to 'another due,

Labor to 'admit You, but O, to no end;

Reason, Your viceroy⁴ in me, me should defend,

But is captived, and proves weak or untrue.

Yet dearly 'I love you, 'and would be loved fain,⁰ gladly io But am betrothed unto your enemy.*

Divorce me, 'untie or break that knot again;

Take me to you, imprison me, for I,

Except you 'enthral⁵ me, never shall be free,

Nor ever chaste, except you ravish me.

1633

18

Show me, dear Christ, thy spouse⁶ so bright and clear.

What! is it she which on the othershore

Goes richly painted? or which, robbed and tore, Laments and mourns in Germany and here?

2. Cf. Corinthians 15.26: "The last enemy that of Solomon 5.2: "Open to me, my sister, my love, shall be destroyed is death."

my dove, my undefiled"). Lines 2—4 ask whether

3. The Trinity: Father, Son, and Holy Spirit.

God's spouse is the Roman Catholic Church (in

4. One who acts in the name and by the authority power in Continental countries such as France, of the supreme ruler.

Spain, and Italy, i.e., lands on the “other shore”)

5. Unless you make a prisoner of.

or the Protestant Church “here,” i.e., in England.

6. The true Church, “the bride of Christ” (cf. Song

A HYMN TO GOD THE FATHER / 3 2 1

5 Sleeps she a thousand, then peeps upon e
year?

Isshe self-truth, and errs? now new, now ‘ou t wore?

Doth she, ‘and did she, and shall she ever mo re On one, on seven, or on no hill appear? 7

Dwell she with us, or like adventuring knig hts 10 First travel 8 we to seek, and then make lov
e?

Betray, 0 kind husband, thy spouse to ours
ights, reveal And let mine amorous soul cour t thy mild dove, 9

Who is most true and pleasing to thee then
When she ‘se embraced and open to most me
n. 1

1 6 1 5 ? 1 8 9 4

A Hymn to God the Father 2

Wilt thou forgive that sin where I begun, W hich is my sin, though it were done before?
3

Wilt thou forgive that sin through which I run, And do run still, though still I do deplore
?

5 When thou hast done, 4 thou hast not done
, For I have more.

Wilt thou forgive that sin by which I have w on Other to sin? and made my sin their door
?

Wilt thou forgive that sin which I did shun
A year or two, but wallowed in a score?

When thou has done, thou hast not done,
For I have more.

I have a sin of fear, that when I have spun

My last thread, I shall perish on the shore;
15 Swear by thyself, that at my death thy Son
Shall shine as he shines now and heretofore;
And, having done that, thou hast done,
I fear no more.

1623? 1633

7. The church on “no hill” could be either the

2. This hymn was sung by the entire congregation

Presbyterian church of Geneva or the Episcopal during the Anglican service. Donne wrote it during Church of England, based in Canterbury. The his illness of 1623, had it set to music, and liked church of “one” hill is an unclear reference, but to hear it performed by the choir of St. Paul’s perhaps it is Mt. Moriah (site of Solomon’s temple). The church of “seven” hills is that of Rome.

Cathedral.

3. I.e., he inherits the original sin of Adam and

8. Formerly, “labor” as well as “journey.”

Eve.

9. The dove was a symbol of the Holy Spirit.

4. Donne puns on his own name and may, in the

1. I.e., universal, without division. An echo of the next line, pun on his wife’s maiden name, Ann

Song of Solomon (5.2), which was frequently
More.

interpreted as the song of love between Christ and

5. In some manuscripts, “have.”
the Church.

3 3 2 2 / J O H N D O N N E

Hymn to God My God, in My Sickness

S i n c e I a m c o m i n g t o t h a t h o l y r o o m

W h e r e , w i t h t h y c h o i r o f s a i n t s f o r e v e r m o r e , I s h a l l b e m a d e t h y m u s i c ; a s I c o m e

I t u n e t h e i n s t r u m e n t h e r e a t t h e d o o r ,

5 A n d w h a t I m u s t d o t h e n , t h i n k h e r e b e f o r e .

W h i l s t m y p h y s i c i a n s b y t h e i r l o v e a r e g r o w n C o s m o g r a p h e r s , 6 a n d I t h e i r m a p , w h o l i e

F l a t o n t h i s b e d , t h a t b y t h e m m a y b e s h o w n T h a t t h i s i s m y s o u t h w e s t d i s c o v e r y

10 Per fretum febris, 7 by these straits to die,

I j o y , t h a t i n t h e s e s t r a i t s , I s e e m y W e s t ; 8

F o r , t h o u g h t h e i r c u r r e n t s y i e l d r e t u r n t o n o n e , W h a t s h a l l m y W e s t h u r t m e ? A s W e s t a n d E a s t I n a l l f l a t m a p s (a n d I a m o n e) a r e o n e , 9 15 S o d e a t h d o t h t o u c h t h e r e s u r r e c t i o n .

I s t h e P a c i f i c S e a m y h o m e ? O r a r e

T h e E a s t e r n r i c h e s ? I s J e r u s a l e m ?

A n y a n , 0 a n d M a g e l l a n , a n d G i b r a l t a r , 1 Bering Straits A l l s t r a i t s , a n d n o n e b u t s t r a i t s , a r e w a y s t o t h e m , 2 0 W h e t h e r w h e r e J a p h e t d w e l t , o r C h a m , o r S h e m . 2

W e t h i n k t h a t P a r a d i s e a n d C a l v a r y ,

Christ's cross, and Adam's tree, stood in one place; Look, Lord, and find both Adams 3 me time;

As the first Adam's sweat surrounds my face, 25 May the last Adam's blood my soul embrace.

So, in his purple wrapped, receive me, Lord; By these his thorns give me his other crown; And, as to others' souls I preached Thy word, Be this my text, my sermon to mine own:

30 Therefore that they may raise the Lord throw down. 5

1623?1635

6. Ones who map the general features of the are all one.”

celestial and terrestrial worlds.

1. Behind these locations lie many ancient spec-

7. Through the straits of fever (Latin). Donne ulations about the location of paradise, which is puns on the word “strait” as both a passageway analogous to heaven, as the various straits are to between two bodies of water and a situation of dis-
death.

ress. Cf. Christ's words in Matthew 7.4: “Because

2. The three sons of Noah (Genesis 10), who were strait is the gate and narrow is the way, which lead-thought to have settled in Europe, Africa, and Asia, eth unto life, and few there be that find it.” Magel-respectively, after the Flood.

lan had discovered the straits that bear his name

3. I.e., Adam and Christ. Adam's tree: the tree of in 1520. They lie at the southern tip of South the knowledge of good and evil in the Garden of America and are hence southwest from England.
Eden (Genesis 2). In one place: in the same region.

8. Where the sun sets; hence, where life ends.

4. I.e., in the purple of Christ's blood or his purple

9. In one of his sermons (no. 55 in the collection robe (Mark 15.17).

LXXX Sermons), Donne noted that when a flat map

5. Adapted from Psalms 146.8: "the Lord raiseth is "pasted" on a round body, "then West and East them that are bowed down."

3 2 3

B E N J O N S O N

1572-1637

To the Reader¹

Pray t h e e , take care, that tak'st my b o o k in h a n d ,

To read it well: that is, to u n d e r s t a n d .

1616

On My First Daughter

H e r e lies, to e a c h h e r parents' ruth,^o sorrow

Mary, t h e d a u g h t e r o f their y o u t h ;

Yet all h e a v e n ' s gifts b e i n g h e a v e n ' s d u e ,

It m a k e s t h e f a t h e r l e s s to rue.

5 At six m o n t h s ' e n d s h e parted l e n c e

W i t h safety o f h e r i n n o c e n c e ;

Whose soul heaven's queen, whose name she bears, In comfort of her mother's tears,
Hath placed amongst her virgin-train:²
io Where, while that severed doth remain,³
This grave partakes the fleshly birth;
Which cover lightly, gentle earth!

1616

On My First Son

Farewell, thou child of my right hand, ⁴ and joy;
My sin was too much hope of thee, loved boy:
Seven years thou wert lent to me, and I thee pay, Exacted by thy fate, on the just day.^s
⁵ O could I lose all father now! ⁶ for why
Will man lament the state he should envy,
To have so soon 'scaped world's and flesh's rage,
And, if no other misery, yet age?

1. From the book of epigrams that Jon son published along with a collection of poems called The or dispraise.”

Forrest in his First Folio of 1616. He seems initially

2. I.e., among those attending the Virgin Mary.

to have planned another book of epigrams, but his

3. I.e., while her soul remains separate from her later examples of the genre—in his collection of body (the soul and body will reunite at Resurrec-poems The Underwood—were not published until

tion).

after his death, in the Second Folio of 1640. Mod-

4. A literal translation of the Hebrew Benjamin, elected on poems by the Roman poet Martial (ca. 40—
the boy's name.

ca. 103), epigrams were terse and pointed, often

5. Jonson's son died on his seventh birthday, in ending with a witty turn of thought. Jonson's 1603.

teacher, the historian William Camden, described

6. I.e., let go all fatherly thoughts and sorrow.

3 2 4 / B E N J O N S O N

R e s t i n s o f t p e a c e , a n d a s k e d , s a y , " H e r e d o t h l i e 10 B e n J o n s o n h i s b e s t p i e c e o f p o e t r y . "

F o r w h o s e s a k e h e n c e f o r t h a l l h i s ⁷ v o w s b e s u c h

A s w h a t h e l o v e s m a y n e v e r l i k e t o o m u c h .

1616

On Spies

S p i e s , y o u a r e l i g h t s i n s t a t e , ⁸ b u t o f b a s e s t u f f , W h o , w h e n y o u ' v e b u r n t y o u r s e l v e s d o w n t o t h e s n u f f , ⁰ c a n d l e e n d S t i n k a n d a r e t h r o w n a w a y . E n d f a i r e n o u g h .

1616

To Fool or Knave

T h y p r a i s e o r d i s p r a i s e i s t o m e a l i k e :

O n e d o t h n o t s t r o k e m e , n o r t h e o t h e r s t r i k e .

1616

To Sir Henry Cary⁹

T h a t n e i t h e r f a m e n o r l o v e m i g h t w a n t i n g b e T o g r e a t n e s s , C a r y , I s i n g t h a t a n d t h e e ;

W h o s e h o u s e , I f i t n o o t h e r h o n o r h a d ,

I n o n l y t h e e m i g h t b e b o t h g r e a t a n d g l a d ;

5 W h o , t o u p b r a i d t h e s l o t h o f t h i s o u r t i m e , chastise D u r s t v a l o r m a k e a l m o s t , b u t n o t , a crime;2

W h i c h d e e d I k n o w n o t , w h e t h e r w e r e m o r e h i g h , O r t h o u m o r e h a p p y , i t t o j u s t i f y

A g a i n s t t h y f o r t u n e : w h e n n o f o e , t h a t d a y ,

i o C o u l d c o n q u e r t h e e b u t c h a n c e , w h o d i d betray.

L o v e t h y g r e a t l o s s , w h i c h a r e n o w n h a t h w o n ,

T o l i v e w h e n B r o i c k n o t s t a n d s , n o r R u h r d o t h run.3

L o v e h o n o r s , w h i c h o f b e s t e x a m p l e b e

W h e n t h e y c o s t d e a r e s t a n d a r e d o n e m o s t free; 15 T h o u g h e v e r y f o r t i t u d e d e s e r v e s a p p l a u s e , 7. I. e. , B e n J o n s o n t h e f a t h e r ' s .

writing.

8. Condition or form; with a likely pun on “state”

2. In October 1605, Cary was with a group of as government.

English and Dutch soldiers who fled from a smaller

9. Henry Cary (ca. 1576-1633) became Viscount

Italian force—hence Cary, who tried to stop the Falkland in 1620 and was the father of Jonson’s rout and was captured, almost made “valor” a friend Lucius Cary (1609 or 1610-1643).

crime in English eyes.

1. Family line, but also household, which in Cary’s

3. “The castle and river near where he was taken”

case was well known to include not “only” a hus-

[Jonson's note], Cary was captured near the con-band but also a wife—Elizabeth Cary (ca. 1587 - fluence of the Rhur and the Rhine rivers.

1639)—who aspired to public “honor” through her

ONE ENGLISH MONSIEUR / 325

It may be much or little in the cause.

He 's valiant'st that dares fight, and not for pay; That virtuous is, when the reward's away.

1616

On Playwright

Playwright, convict⁰ of public wrongs to men, convicted Takes private beatings and begins again.

Two kinds of valor he doth show at once:

Active in 's^o brain, and passive in his bones.
his 1616

To Elizabeth, Countess of Rutland⁴

That poets are far rarer births than kings

Your noblest father proved; like whom before, Or then, or since, about our Muses 's prings, Came not that soul exhausted so their store.⁵

5 Hence was it that the destinies decreed (S ave that most masculine issue of his brain) 6

No male unto him; who could so exceed

Nature, they thought, in all that he would fain.⁰ make At which she, happily⁷ displeas-d, made you, io On whom, if he were living now to look,

He should those rare and absolute numbers
8 view, As he would burn or better far his bo

o k .

1616

On English Monsieur⁹

W o u l d y o u b e l i e v e , w h e n y o u t h i s m o n s i e u r s e e , T h a t h i s w h o l e b o d y s h o u l d s p e a k F r e n c h , n o t h e ?

T h a t s o m u c h s c a r f o f F r a n c e , a n d h a t , a n d f e a t h e r , A n d s h o e , a n d t i e , a n d g a r t e r s h o u l d c o m e h e t h e r , ⁰ h i t h e r ⁵ A n d l a n d o n o n e w h o s e f a c e d u r s t n e v e r b e T o w a r d t h e s e a f a r t h e r t h a n H a l f - W a y T r e e ? ¹

4. Daughter (1584-1612) of the poet Sir Philip

7. I.e., by good fortune.

Sidney (1554-1586; see pp. 208-20), she married

8. Metrical feet, hence lines or verses; perhaps

Roger Manners, fifth earl of Rutland.

also, “proportions.”

5. I.e., no one before or since Sidney has so well

9. Sir, Mr. (French); pronounced mes ’-yer; but used up the supply (“store”) of poetic inspiration often spelled monser in Jonson’s time, suggesting symbolized by the “springs” of the “Muses” (nine an Anglicized pronunciation.

sister goddesses in Greek mythology).

1. Perhaps a landmark between London and

6. I.e., his books.

Dover, where a traveler would embark for France.

3 2 6 / B E N J O N S O N

T h a t h e , u n t r a v e l e d , s h o u l d b e F r e n c h s o
m u c h A s F r e n c h m e n i n h i s c o m p a n y s h o u l d seem Dutch?

Or had his father, when he did him get,

10 The French disease, 2 with which he labors yet?

Or hangs some monsieur's picture on the wall, By which his dam conceived him, clothes
s and all?

Or is it some French statue? No: To do that move, it And stoop, and cringe. O then, it needs must prove 15 The new French tailor's motion, 0 monethly made, puppet Daily to turn in Paul's, 3 and he elp the trade.

1616

To John Donne

Who shall doubt, Donne, where 0 I a poet be, whether When I dare send my epigrams 4 to thee
?

That so alone canst judge, so 'alone dost make;
And, in thy censures, evenly dost take

5 As free simplicity to disavow

As thou hast best authority t' allow.

Read all I send, and if I find but one

Marked by thy hand, and with the better stone,
5

My title's sealed. 6 Those that for claps 0 do write, applause 10 Let pui'nies', 7 porters', players' 0 praise delight, actors

And, till they burst, their backs like asses load: 8

A man should seek great glory, and not broad. 0 widespread, unrefined 1616

Inviting a Friend to Supper 9

To night, grave sir, both my poor house, and I

D o e q u a l l y d e s i r e y o u r c o m p a n y ;
N o t t h a t w e t h i n k u s w o r t h y s u c h a g u e s t ,
B u t t h a t y o u r w o r t h w i l l d i g n i f y o u r f e a s t
5 W i t h t h o s e t h a t c o m e , w h o s e g r a c e m a y m a k e t h a t s e e m S o m e t h i n g , w h i c h e l s e c o u l d h o p e f o r n o e s t e e m .

I t i s t h e f a i r a c c e p t a n c e , s i r , c r e a t e s T h e e n t e r t a i n m e n t p e r f e c t , n o t t h e c a t e s .
0 f o o d 2 . I . e . , s y p h i l i s .

6. I.e., as a poet.

3. St. Paul's Cathedral, in London. In the seven-

7. Puisnies (pronounced like punies), insignificant teenth century, St. Paul's was a popular gathering persons.

place; merchants hired men to walk up and down

8. I.e., probably: let the praises made by insignifin the yard advertising their wares.

icant persons load the backs of those who write for

4. On epigrams, see note 1, p. 323.

applause until their backs break ("burst"). Asses:

5. The allusion may be to the Thracian custom of beasts of burden, with a probable pun on "ass" as recording the good or evil fortunes of each day by an ignorant person.

placing a stone counter of corresponding color in

9. The versified invitation to share a meal was a an urn. Jonson refers elsewhere to the description popular type of classical and Renaissance verse of this custom in Pliny's Natural History 7.40.

epistle.

INVITING A FRIEND TO SUPPER / 327

Yet shall you have, to rectify your palate,
10 An olive, capers, or some better salad
Ushering the mutton; with a short-legged hen,
If we can get her, full of eggs, and then Lemons, and wine for sauce; to these a cony⁰ rabbit
Is not to be despaired of, for our money;
15 And, though fowl now be scarce, yet there are clerks,
The sky not falling, think we may have larks.¹
I'll tell you of more, and lie, so you will come:
Of partridge, pheasant, woodcock, of which some May yet be there, and godwit, if we can;
20 Knot, rail, and ruff too.² Howsoe'er, my man⁰ servant
Shall read a piece of Virgil, Tacitus,
Livy,³ or of some better book to us,
Of which we'll speak our minds, amidst our meat;
And I'll profess⁰ no verses to repeat. promise 25 To⁰ this, if aught appear which I not know of, add to
That will the pastry, not my paper, show of.⁴
Digestive⁰ cheese and fruit there sure will be; aiding digestion
But that which most doth take my Muse⁵ and me,
Is a pure cup of rich Canary wine,
30 Which is the Mermaid's⁶ now, but shall be mine;
Of which had Horace, or Anacreon⁷ tasted,
Their lives, as do their lines, till now had lasted.
Tobacco, nectar, or the Thespian spring,⁸
Are all but Luther's beer⁹ to this I sing.

35 Of this we will sup free, but moderately,
And we will have no Pooley, or Parrot¹ by,
Nor shall our cups make any guilty men;
But, at our parting we will be as when We innocently met. No simple word
40 That shall be uttered at our mirthful board,
Shall make us sad next morning or affright
The liberty that we'll enjoy tonight.

1616

1. Cf. the old proverb When the sky falls we shall

6. London's Mermaid Tavern, a favorite haunt of have larks. Clerks: i.e., scholars (pronounced Jonson's. Canary is a light, sweet wine. clarks).

7. The Greek poet Anacreon of Teos (ca. 582—ca.

2. The godwit, knot, rail, and ruff are all wading 485 B.C.E.) and the Roman poet Horace (65-68 birds related to the curlew or sandpiper. They were B.C.E.) both wrote many poems praising wine.
formerly regarded as delicacies.

8. Associated with the Muses. Smoking was often

3. Roman historian (59 B.C.E.— 17 C.E.). Virgil called "drinking tobacco." Nectar: the drink of the (70—19 B.C.E.), Roman poet. Cornelius Tacitus (ca.
classical gods.

56-ca. 120), Roman historian.

9. German beer, considered inferior.

4. I.e., if papers appear, they will be only under

1. Robert Pooly and (probably) Henry Parrot were pies (“pastry”; to keep them from sticking to the government spies; Pooly was present when the pans).

poet Christopher Marlowe (1564-1593; see

5. Source of inspiration. In Greek mythology, the pp. 238-56) was killed, in a tavern brawl. With a Muses were nine sister goddesses who presided pun on the chattering of parrots (Polly, a name for over poetry, song, and the arts and sciences.

a parrot).

3 2 8 / B E N J O N S O N

On Gut

Gut eats all day and lechers all the night;
So all his meat he tasteth² over twice;
And, striving so to double his delight,
He makes himself a thoroughfare of vice.

5 Thus in his belly can he change a sin:
Lust it comes out, that gluttony went in.

Epitaph on Elizabeth, L. H.³

Wouldst thou hear what man can say
In a little? Reader, stay.

Underneath this stone doth lie

As much beauty as could die;

5 Which in life did harbor give
To more virtue than doth live.

If at all she had a fault,

Leave it buried in this vault.

One name was Elizabeth;
io Th' other, let it sleep with death:
Fitter, where it died, to tell,
Than that it lived at all. Farewell. , , ,

1 6 1 6

To Penshurst⁴

Thou art not, Penshurst, built to envious show,
Of touch⁵ or marble; nor canst boast a row
Of polished pillars, or a roof of gold;
Thou hast no lantern,⁶ whereof tales are told,
5 Or stair, or courts; but stand'st an ancient pile,
And, these grudged at, art revered the while.⁷
Thou joy'st in better marks, of soil, of air,
Of wood, of water; therein thou art fair.

Thou hast thy walks for health, as well as sport;

io Thy mount,⁸ to which the dryads⁰ do resort, wood, nymphs

Where Pan and Bacchus⁹ their high feasts have made,

2. Also meaning "to know carnally."

basalt.

3. The subject of this epitaph (a poem written as

6. A glassed or open structure raised above the if it were inscribed on a tombstone) has not been roof of a house.

identified, although it is likely that the "L" stood

7. I.e., while other buildings are envied, Penshurst for "Lady."

is admired.

4. The country estate of the Sidney family, in

8. Some high ground on the estate.

Kent. An important early example of the “country

9. Greek god of wine and revelry. Pan: Greek god house” poem in English, this poem was imitated of shepherds and hunters; half goat, half man, he by Jonson’s contemporaries; cf. Aemilia Lanyer’s was raised by Bacchus and was associated with lust
“The Description of Cooke-ham” (p. 288). and music.

5. Touchstone: a fine, black, costly variety of

T o P E N S H U R S T / 3 2 9

Beneath the broad beech and the chestnut shade;

That taller tree, which of a nut was set

At his great birth where all the Muses¹ met.

15 There in the writhed bark are cut the names

Of many a sylvan, taken with his flames;²

And thence the ruddy satyrs oft provoke

T h e lighter fauns to reach thy Lady’s Oak.

Thy copse too, n a m e d of Gamage,³ thou hast there,

20 That never fails to serve thee seasoned deer

W h e n thou wouldst feast or exercise thy friends.

T h e lower land, that to the river bends,

Thy sheep, thy bullocks, kine,⁰ and calves do feed; cows

T h e middle grounds thy mares and horses breed.

25 Each bank doth yield thee conies;⁰ and the tops,⁰ rabbits / hills

Fertile of wood, Ashore and Sidney’s copse,⁴

To crown thy open table, doth provide

T h e purpled pheasant with the speckled side;
T h e painted partridge lies in every field,
30 And for thy mess^o is willing to be killed. meal
And if the high-swollen Medway^o fail thy dish, local river
Thou hast thy ponds, that pay thee tribute fish,
Fat aged carps that run into thy net,
And pikes, now weary their own kind to eat, 35 As loath the second draught⁵ or cast to stay,^o await Officiously^o at first themselves betray; dutifully
Bright eels that emulate them, and leap on land
Before the fisher, or into his hand.
T h e n hath thy orchard fruit, thy garden flowers,
40 Fresh as the air, and new as are the hours.
T h e early cherry, with the later plum,
Fig, grape, and quince, each in his time doth come;
T h e blushing apricot and woolly peach
H a n g on thy walls, that every child may reach.
45 And though thy walls be of the country stone,
They're reared with no man's ruin, no man's groan;
There's none that dwell about them wish t h e m down;
But all come in, the farmer and the clown,^o countryman
And no one empty-handed, to salute 50 Thy lord and lady, though they have no suit.^o request to make
Some bring a capon,⁶ some a rural cake,
Some nuts, some apples; some that think they make T h e better cheeses bring them, or else send
By their ripe daughters, whom they would c o m m e n d

1. The nine Greek sister goddesses believed to be as less wild than the satyrs) to race to the tree sources of inspiration for the arts. At his great birth: named after a Lady Leicester, who is said to have 1.e., the poet Sir Philip Sidney's birth (on November 30, 1554; for his poetry, see pp. 208-20), when
3. Barbara Gamage, wife of Sir Robert Sidney an oak was planted to commemorate the day. (Philip's younger brother and the current owner of
2. I.e., the fires of love; perhaps the woodsman Penshurst). ("sylvan") is in love because of reading Sidney's
4. Two groves on the estate. poems. In the next lines, the "ruddy satyrs" (wood-
5. The drawing in of a net. land gods associated with lust and drinking) chal-
6. A castrated rooster, especially one fattened for length the "lighter fauns" (woodland gods described eating.

330 / BENJONSON

This way to husbands, and whose baskets bear
An emblem of themselves in plum or pear.
But what can this (more than express their love)
Add to thy free provisions, far above
The need of such? whose liberal board⁰ doth flow table
With all that hospitality doth know;
Where comes no guest but is allowed to eat,
Without his fear, and of thy lord's own meat;
Where the same beer and bread, and selfsame wine,
That is his lordship's shall be also mine,
And I not fain⁰ to sit (as some this day obliged At great men's tables), and yet dine away.⁷
Here no man tells⁰ my cups; nor, standing by, counts
A waiter doth my gluttony envy,
But gives me what I call, and lets me eat;
He knows below⁰ he shall find plenty of meat. in servants'
quarters
Thy tables hoard not up for the next day;
Nor, when I take my lodging, need I pray
For fire, or lights, or livery;⁰ all is there, provisions
As if thou then wert mine, or I reigned here:
There's nothing I can wish, for which I stay.⁰ wait
That found King James when, hunting late this way
With his brave son, the prince,⁸ they saw thy fires
Shine bright on every hearth, as the desires
Of thy Penates⁰ had been set on flame Roman household gods
To entertain them; or the country came

With all their zeal to warm their welcome here.
What (great I will not say, but) sudden cheer
Didst thou then make 'em! and what praise was heaped
On thy good lady then, who therein reaped
The just reward of her high housewifery;
To have her linen, plate, and all things nigh,
When she was far; and not a room but dressed
As if it had expected such a guest!
These, Penshurst, are thy praise, and yet not all.
Thy lady's noble, fruitful, chaste withal.
His children thy great lord may call his own,
A fortune in this age but rarely known.
They are, and have been, taught religion; thence
Their gentler spirits have sucked innocence.
Each morn and even they are taught to pray,
With the whole household, and may, every day,
Read in their virtuous parents' noble parts
The mysteries of manners, arms, and arts.
Now, Penshurst, they that will proportion⁰ thee compare
With other edifices, when they see
Those proud, ambitious heaps, and nothing else,
May say their lords have built, but thy lord dwells.

1616

7. I.e., to be insufficiently fed at "great men's host, and so to dine elsewhere to finish, tables," because the best food was reserved for the 8. Prince Henry (d. 1612), the heir apparent.

SONG : T O C E L I A (I I) / 3 3 1

Song: To Celia (I)⁹

Come, my Celia, let us prove,⁰ experience

While we can, the sports of love;
Time will not be ours forever;
He at length our good will sever.
5 Spend not then his gifts in vain.
Suns that set may rise again;
But if once we lose this light,
'Tis with us perpetual night.
Why should we defer our joys?
10 Fame and rumor are but toys.
Cannot we delude the eyes
Of a few poor household spies,
Or his easier ears beguile,
So removed by our wile?
15 'Tis no sin love's fruit to steal;
But the sweet thefts to reveal,
To be taken, to be seen,
These have crimes accounted been.

1606 1616

Song: To Celia (II)¹

Drink to me only with thine eyes,
And I will pledge² with mine;
Or leave a kiss but in the cup,
And I'll not look for wine.
5 The thirst that from the soul doth rise,
Doth ask a drink divine:
But might I of Jove's nectar sup,
I would not change for thine.³
I sent thee late a rosy wreath,

io Not so much honoring thee,
As giving it a hope, that there
It could not withered be.
But thou thereon did'st only breathe,
And sent'st it back to me;
15 Since when it grows and smells, I swear,
Not of itself, but thee.

1616

9. From Jonson's play Volpone 3.7 (1606). The 245).

lecherous Volpone attempts to seduce Celia, the
2. Vow, with the added meaning "drink a toast." virtuous wife of Corvino, whom Volpone has got-
3. Although the lines are ambiguous, the speaker ten out of the way by a stratagem (line 14). The seems to be saying that "even if I might taste poem draws on Catullus 5, translated by a number ("sup") Jove's nectar (i.e., the drink of the gods of of English poets in this period. Cf. Thomas Cam-classical mythology—hence belonging to Jove, pion, "My Sweetest Lesbia" (p. 278).

king of the gods), I would not take it in exchange

1. Based on five separate passages in the Epistles for thine."

of the Greek rhetorician Philostratus (ca. 170—ca.

332 / BENJONSON

A Fit of Rhyme against Rhyme⁴

Rhyme, the rack⁰ of finest wits, instrument of torture

That expresseth but by fits
True conceit,
Spoiling senses of their treasure,
5 Cozening judgment with a measure,
But false weight;⁵
Wresting words from their true calling;
Propping verse for fear of falling
To the ground;
10 Jointing syllables,⁶ drowning letters,
Fastening vowels, as with fetters
They were bound!
Soon as lazy thou wert known,
All good poetry hence was flown,
15 And art banished:
For a thousand years together,⁷
All Parnassus' ⁸ green did wither,
And wit vanish'd!
Pegasus⁹ did fly away,
20 At the wells no M u s e did stay,
But bewailed,
So to see the fountain dry,
And Apollo's music die,
All light failed!
25 Starveling rhymes did fill the stage,
Not a poet in an age
Worthy crowning.
Not a work deserving bays,¹
Nor a line deserving praise,

30 Pallas² frowning:

Greek was free from rhyme's infection,

Happy Greek, by this protection,

Was not spoiled.

4. The issue of rhyme was hotly debated by many

6. Syllables; i.e., making a rhyme by breaking a sixteenth- and seventeenth-century poets, including John Milton and John Dryden; some who denigrate rhyme in theory used it effectively in their poems).

7. Classical Latin poetry did not use rhyme, but poetic practice. In 1587, Christopher Marlowe beginning in the third and fourth centuries C.E., attacked the "jigging veins of rhyming mother-wits"

Christian poets rhymed in Latin. Jonson's view that in the prologue to Tamburlaine the Great, part 1, true poetry's "banishment" lasted a thousand years and in 1602, Thomas Campion published a treatise implies that the Italian humanists of the fourteenth century rescued poetry from the "wrongs" of titative meters" to English rhyming verse. In 1603, (line 35) of rhyme. One of those humanist scholars, Samuel Daniel published his Defense of Rhyme; ars, Petrarch, used rhyme masterfully. Jonson entered the fray with a witty poem he

8. Mt. Parnassus, in central Greece, was consid-

8. Mt. Parnassus, in central Greece, was consid-

8. Mt. Parnassus, in central Greece, was consid-

8. Mt. Parnassus, in central Greece, was consid-described to a friend as written “both against Camered sacred to the Muses, goddesses of the arts and pion and Daniel.” “Fit” is an old term for a part of sciences, and to Phoebus (Apollo), god of sunlight, a poem, a canto; Jonson also plays (e.g., in line 2)

prophecy, music, and poetry.

on the term’s meaning of “convulsion.”

9. The winged horse Pegasus made the Hippo-

5. Punning on “measure” as a unit of poetical or crene spring (“wells,” line 20) for the Muses by musical rhythm and as a standard amount of a striking his hoof on the ground.

commodity, the line suggests that the rhyming poet

1. I.e., the evergreen garland symbolizing a poet’s cheats the buyer-reader by failing to “weigh” superiority.

sounds properly, i.e., according to the system used

2. Pallas Athena, goddess of wisdom.

in Latin prosody.

A H Y M N T O G O D T H E F A T H E R / 3 3 3

Whilst the Latin, queen of tongues,

35 Is not yet free from rhyme’s wrongs,

But rests foiled.

Scarce the hill again doth flourish,

Scarce the world a wit doth nourish,

To restore

40 Phoebus to his crown again;

And the Muses to their brain;

As before.

Vulgar³ languages that want
Words, and sweetness, and be scant

45 Of true measure,

Tyrant rhyme hath so abused,

That they long since have refused,

Other cesure.⁰ caesura

He that first invented thee,

50 May his joints tormented be,

Cramp'd for ever;

Still may syllabes jar with time,

Still may reason war with rhyme,

Resting never!

55 May his sense when it would meet

The cold tumor in his feet,

Grow unsouder;

And his title be long fool,⁴

That in rearing such a school

60 Was the founder!

1 6 1 6 ? 1 6 4 0 - 4 1

A Hymn to God the Father⁵

Hear me, O God!

A broken heart,

Is my best part;

Use still thy rod,⁶

5 That I may prove⁰ experience

Therein thy love.

If thou hadst not

Been stern to me,
But left me free,
so I had forgot
Myself and thee.
For sin's so sweet,
As0 minds ill bent that

3. Vernacular, as opposed to Latin.

5. Cf. John Donne's poem with the same title

4. A play on the Latin saying ars longa, vita brevis
(p. 321).

(art is long, life short).

6. I.e., punishment.

334 / BENJONSON

Rarely repent,
15 Until they meet
Their punishment.
Who more can crave
Than thou hast done,
That gav'st a Son,⁷
20 To free a slave?
First made of naught,
With all since bought.⁸
Sin, Death, and Hell,
His glorious Name
25 Quite overcame,
Yet I rebel,
And slight the same.
But I'll come in

Before my loss
30 Me farther toss,
As sure to win
Under his Cross.

1 6 4 0 - 4 1

Her Triumph⁹

See the chariot at hand here of Love,
Wherein my lady rideth!

Each that draws is a swan or a dove,¹
And well the care Love guideth.

5 As she goes, all hearts do duty
Unto her beauty;

And, enamored, do wish, so they might
But enjoy such a sight,

That they still⁰ were to run by her side, always io Through² swords, through seas, whither⁰ she would ride, wherever

Do but look on her eyes; they do light
All that Love's world compriseth!

Do but look on her hair; it is bright
As Love's star³ when it riseth!

7. I.e., who could crave more than what God ites. "Charis" is also related to the Latin term for ("thou") has already done, in giving his "Son" love, caritas, and is an obsolete form of "cherish." (Christ).

Triumph: following Petrarch, many Renaissance

8. I.e., redeemed by Christ.

poets used the image of the triumphal procession
9. Published after Jonson's death, in "A Celebration of Charis in Ten Lyric Pieces"; although Jon-time, etc.).

son may have arranged these lyrics as they stand,

1. Venus ("Love"), goddess of love and beauty, they were (probably) not composed as a unit. The drove a chariot drawn by swans or doves.

Greek word charis means "grace" or "loveliness"; 2. Here pronounced as two syllables (often spelled the three Graces, sister goddesses in Greek "thorough").

mythology who gave charm and beauty, are Char-

3. I.e., Venus.

A N E L E G Y / 3 3 5

15 Do but mark, her forehead's smoother

Than words that soothe her!

And from her arched brows, such a grace

Sheds itself through the face,

As alone there triumphs to the life

20 All the gain, all the good, of the elements' strife.⁴

Have you seen but a bright lily grow,

Before rude hands have touched it?

Ha' you marked but the fall o' the snow

Before the soil hath smutched⁰ it? smudged

25 Ha' you felt the wool o' the beaver?

Or swan's down ever?

Or have smelt o' the bud o' the brier?
Or the nard⁵ in the fire?
Or have tasted the bag⁰ o' the bee? sack of honey
30 O so white, O so soft, O so sweet is she!

1 6 4 0 - 4 1

An Elegy⁶

Though beauty be the mark of praise,
And yours of whom I sing be such
As not the world can praise too much,
Yet is't your virtue now I raise.
5 A virtue, like alloy,⁰ so gone alloy
Throughout your form, as, though that⁷ move
And draw and conquer all men's love,
This⁸ subjects you to love of one.
Wherein you triumph yet; because io 'Tis of yourself, and that you use
The noblest freedom, not to choose
Against or faith or honor's laws.
But who should less expect from you,
In whom alone Love⁹ lives again?
15 By whom he is restored to men,
And kept, and bred,¹ and brought up true.
His falling temples you have reared,
The withered garlands ta'en away;
4. The four elements (earth, water, air, and fire) elegiac meter; in English tradition, an elegy dealt were thought to be constantly at war; according to either with love or (increasingly from the seven-

Platonic theory, heavenly harmony reconciles the teenth century on) with grief for a dead person.

skirmishing elements.

7. I.e., your beauty.

5. Spikenard, an aromatic plant used in preparing

8. I.e., your virtue.

incense (as here) and perfumes.

9. I.e., Cupid, Roman god of erotic love.

6. Originally, the term meant a poem written in

1. Educated, or properly trained.

3 3 6 / B E N J O N S O N

His altars kept from the decay

20 That envy wished, and nature feared;

And on them burn so chaste a flame,

With so much loyalties' expense,

As Love, t' acquit² such excellence,

Is gone himself into your name.³

25 And you are he; the deity

To whom all lovers are designed

That would their better objects find;

Among which faithful troop am I.

Who, as an offspring⁴ at your shrine,

BO Have sung this hymn, and here entreat

One spark of your diviner heat

To light upon a love of mine.

Which, if it kindle not, but scant

Appear, and that to shortest view,

35 Yet give me leave t' adore in you

What I in her am grieved to want.

1 6 4 0 - 4 1

An Ode to Himself⁵

Where dost thou careless lie

Buried in ease and sloth?

Knowledge that sleeps doth die;

And this security,⁰ overconfidence

⁵ It is the common moth

That eats on wits and arts, and oft destroys them both.

Are all th' Aonian springs

Dried up? Lies Thespia waste?⁶

Doth Clarius' harp⁷ want strings,

io That not a nymph⁸ now sings;

Or droop they as disgraced,

To see their seats and bowers by chattering pies⁹ defaced?

If hence thy silence be,

As 'tis too just a cause,

15 Let this thought quicken thee:

2. I.e., to reward.

arts. Thespia, a town near Helicon, was the center

3. I.e., the lady's name includes the letters of

of the cult of the Muses.

"love." Based on this hint, some scholars have sug-

7. The lyre of Apollo, god of music and poetry gested Lady Covell as the person addressed.

(from his temple at Clarus, on the Ionian coast.)

4. Possibly a misprint for offering.

8. A minor nature goddess.

5. A Horatian ode (see “Versification,” p. 2048).
9. The Muses changed the nine daughters of King
6. Aonia was the region in Greece near Mt. Heli-Pierus into magpies for challenging their supremcon, home of the nine Muses, Greek sister godacy in poetry.

desses believed to be sources of inspiration for the

T o T H E I M M O R T A L M E M O R Y A N D F R I E N D S H I P / 3 3 7

Minds that are great and free
Should not on fortune pause;
‘Tis crown enough to virtue still, her own applause.
What though the greedy fry¹
20 Be taken with false baits
Of worded balladry,
And think it poesy?⁰ poetry
They die with their conceits,
And only piteous scorn upon their folly waits.
25 Then take in hand thy lyre,
Strike in thy proper strain,
With Japhet’s line,² aspire
Sol’s chariot³ for new fire
To give the world again;
30 Who aided him will thee, the issue of Jove’s brain.⁴
And since our dainty age
Cannot endure reproof,
Make not thyself a page
To that strumpet the stage,

35 But sing high and aloof,
Safe from the wolve's black jaw, and the dull ass's hoof.

1 6 4 0

To the Immortal Memory and Friendship of That Noble Pair, Sir Lucius Cary and Sir Henry Morison⁵

*The Turn*⁶

Brave infant of Saguntum,⁷ clear⁰ explain or describe

Thy coming forth in that great year,
When the prodigious Hannibal did crown
His rage with razing your immortal town.

5 Thou, looking then about,
Ere thou wert half got out,

1. Youth, with a pun on "fry" as young fishes.

Pindar's odes are typically arranged in groups of

2. Prometheus, the son of Iapetus, stole fire from three stanzas (strophe, antistrophe, and epode)
the gods for the benefit of humankind.

designed to be sung by a chorus; the chorus moved

3. I.e., ascend to the sun (Sol being the Roman in one direction while chanting the strophe,
god of the sun).

reversed direction for the antistrophe, and stood

4. Minerva (Greek Athena), goddess of wisdom, still for the epode. Jonson's "turn," "counterturn," who was said to have sprung fully grown from the and "stand" (more or less translated from the head of her father, Jove.

Greek terms) imitate Pindar's pattern. As in Pin-

5. Morison (ca. 1608—1629) was knighted in dar, the metrical pattern of the turn is repeated in 1627; he died of smallpox. His and Jonson's good the counterturn, then varied in the stand. The pat-friend Lucius Cary (1609 or 1610-1643), who tern of these first three stanzas is then repeated married Morison's sister in 1630, was killed at the exactly in the remaining sets of stanzas.

battle of Newbury in September 1643, fighting for

7. A town sacked by Hannibal in 219 B.C.E. The the Royalist cause.

Roman naturalist Pliny the Elder (23 - 79 c.E.) rec-

6. Unlike other "odes" by Jonson modeled on Hor-ords the story of a "brave infant," who returned to ace's Odes (see, e.g., "An Ode to Himself," above), his mother's womb upon witnessing the city's this one is modeled on a poetic structure used by destruction.

the Greek poet Pindar (ca. 522-ca. 438 B.C.E.).

338 / BEN JONSON

Wise child, didst hastily return,
And mad'st thy mother's womb thine urn.⁸
How summed a circle⁹ didst thou leave mankind
10 Of deepest lore, could we the center find!

The Counterturn

Did wiser Nature draw thee back
From out the horror of that sack,
Where shame, faith, honor, and regard of right

Lay trampled on; the deeds of death and night
15 Urged, hurried forth, and hurled
Upon th' affrighted world;
Sword, fire, and famine, with fell fury met,
And all on utmost ruin set,
As, could they but life's miseries foresee,
20 No doubt all infants would return like thee?

The Stand

For what is life, if measured by the space,¹
Not by the act?
Or masked man, if valued by his face
Above his fact? ⁰ deed
25 Here's one outlived his peers
And told forth fourscore years;
He vexed time and busied the whole state,
Troubled both foes and friends;
But ever to no ends:
30 What did this stirrer but die late?
How well at twenty had he fall'n or stood!
For three of his fourscore he did no good.

The Turn

He² entered well, by virtuous parts,
Got up and thrived with honest arts;
35 He purchased friends, and fame, and honors then,
And had his noble name advanced with men;
But weary of that flight
He stooped in all men's sight
To sordid flatteries, acts of strife,

40 And sunk in that dead sea of life
So deep, as he did then death's waters sup,^o taste
But that the cork of title buoyed him up.

The Counterturn

Alas, but Morison fell young;
He never fell, thou fall'st,³ my tongue.

8. I.e., tomb.

2. I.e., another man, a separate example.

9. Emblem of perfection. Summed: complete.

3. Slip, with a possible pun on the Latin fallere (to

1. I.e., by the length of time.

make a mistake).

T O T H E I M M O R T A L M E M O R Y A N D F R I E
N D S H I P / 3 3 9

45 He stood, a soldier to the last right end,
A perfect patriot, and a noble friend,
But most a virtuous son.

All offices^o were done

duties in life

By him so ample, full, and round,

50 In weight, in measure, number, sound,

As, though his age imperfect^o might appear,

incomplete

His life was of humanity the sphere.⁴

The Stand

Go now, and tell out days summed up with fears,
And make them years;

55 Produce thy mass of miseries on the stage

To swell thine age;
Repeat of things a throng,
To show thou hast been long,
Not lived; for life doth her great actions spell

tell over

60 By what was done and wrought
In season, and so brought
To light: her measures are, how well
Each syllabe answered, and was formed how fair;

syllable

These make the lines of life, and that's her air.

The Turn

65 It is not growing like a tree
In bulk doth make man better be;
Or standing long an oak, three hundred year,
To fall a log at last, dry, bald, and sere:

A lily of a day

70 Is fairer far in May;
Although it fall and die that night,
It was the plant and flower of light.
In small proportions we just beauties see,
And in short measures life may perfect be.

The Counterturn

75 Call, noble Lucius, then for wine,
And let thy looks with gladness shine;
Accept this garland, plant it on thy head,
And think, nay know, thy Morison's not dead.
He leaped the present age,

so Possessed with holy rage
To see that bright eternal day;
Of which we priests and poets say
Such truths as we expect for happy men,
And there he lives with memory, and Ben

4. I.e., the perfect model. and the standards by which it is judged. Air: mel-5. I.e., life's "measures" are its metrical patterns ody, song.

340 / BEN JONSON

The Stand

85 Jonson! who sung this of him, ere he went Himself to rest,

Or taste a part of that full joy he meant

To have expressed

In this bright asterism; 0 constellation

90 Where it were friendship's schism

(Were not this Lucius long with us to tarry) To separate these twin lights, the Dioscuri, 6

And keep the one half from his Harry.

95 But fate doth so alternate the design,

Whilst that in heaven, this light on earth must shine.

The Turn

And shine as you exalted are,

Two names of friendship, but one star:

Of hearts the union. And those not by chance
IOO Made, or indenture, 0 or leased out 'adva nce contracted for The profits for a time.

No pleasures vain did chime

Of frimes, or riots, at your feasts,

Orgies of drink, or feigned protests, protestations 105 But simple love of greatness and of good;

That knits brave minds and manners more than a blood.

The Counterturn

This made you first to know the why

You liked, then after to apply

That liking, and approach soon to the other,
other no Till either grew a portion of the other:

Each styled by his end

The copy of his friend.

You lived to be the great surnames

And titles by which all made claims

115 Unto the virtue. Nothing perfect done,

But as a Cary, or a Morison.

The Stand

And such a force the fair example had,

As they that saw

The good, and durst not practice it, were glad

120 That such a law

Was left yet to mankind;

6. Or Castor and Pollux, in Greek mythology the brother; henceforward each lived half the time on twin sons of Zeus, famous for brotherly devotion.

Earth and half in heaven. Their constellation is

When Castor was killed, Zeus granted Pollux's Gemini, the Twins.

prayer that he be allowed to share his life with his

THOUGH I AM YOUNG AND CANNOT TELL
L / 3 4 1

Where they might read and find
Friendship, indeed, was written, not in words;
And with the heart, not pen,
125 Of two so early⁰ m e n , young
Whose lines her rolls were, and records,
Who, ere the first down bloomed on the chin,⁷
Had sowed these fruits, and got the harvest in.

1 6 4 0

Still to Be Neat⁸
Still to be neat, still to be dressed,
As you were going to a feast;
Still to be powdered, still perfumed;
Lady, it is to be presumed,
5 Though art's hid causes are not found,
All is not sweet, all is not sound.
Give me a look, give me a face
That makes simplicity a grace;
Robes loosely flowing, hair as free;
10 Such sweet neglect more taketh me
Then all th' adulteries of art.
They strike mine eyes, but not my heart.

1 6 0 9 1 6 4 0 - 4 1

Though I Am Young and Cannot Tell⁹
Though I am young, and cannot tell
Either what Death or Love is well,
Yet I have heard they both bear darts,

And both do aim at human hearts.
5 And then again, I have been told
Love wounds with heat, as Death with cold;
So that I fear they do but bring
Extremes to touch, and mean one thing.

As in a ruin we it call
10 One thing to be blown up, or fall;
Or to our end like way may have
By a flash of lightning, or a wave;
7. I.e., before they had grown beards.

ymous Latin poem in the Anthologia latina (six-
8. From Jonson's play Epicoene, the Silent Woman teenth century).

1.1 (1609). Sung by a servant upon Clerimont's
9. From Jonson's play The Sad Shepherd 1.5 request; Clerimont is irritated with the Lady (1640). The monosyllables of the poem echo the Haughty, who, he says, overdoes the art of pastoral simplicity of the character Karalin, who makeup. The lyric perhaps derives from an anonsings it.

3 4 2 / B E N J O N S O N

S o L o v e ' s i n f l a m e d s h a f t o r b r a n d
M a y k i l l a s s o o n a s D e a t h ' s c o l d h a n d ;
15 E x c e p t L o v e ' s f i r e s t h e v i r t u e h a v e
T o f r i g h t t h e f r o s t o u t o f t h e g r a v e .

1 6 4 0 - 4 1

To the Memory of My Beloved,

the Author Mr. William Shakespeare

And What He Hath Left Us I

To draw no envy, Shakespeare, on thy name,
Am I thus ample to thy book and fame,
While I confess thy writings to be such
As neither man nor Muse³ can praise too much.

5 'Tis true, and all men's suffrage. 0 But these ways consent Were not the paths I meant untot hy praise: For silliest 0 ignorance on these m ay light, simplest Which, when it sounds at best
, but echoes right; Or blind affection, 0 whic h doth ne'er advance feeling io The truth, but gr opes, and urges all by chance; Or crafty mali ce might pretend this praise, And think to rui n where it seemed to raise.

These are as ° some infamous bawd or whore a sif Should praise a matron. 4 What could hurt her more?

15 But thou art proof against them, and, inde ed, Above th' ill fortune of them, or the need.

It therefore will begin. Soul of the age!

The applause! delight! the wonder of our sta ge!

My Shakespeare, rise; I will not lodge thee by 20 Chaucer or Spenser, or bid Beaumont lie⁵

A little further to make thee a room:

Thou art a monument without a tomb,

And art alive still while thy book doth live,

And we have wit to read and praise to give.

25 That I not mix thee so, my brain excuses, I mean with great, but disproportioned Muse
s; 6

For, if I thought my judgment were of years, 7

I should commit to the surely with thy peers, unite, connect And tell how far thou didst our Lyly outshine,

30 Or sporting Kyd, or Marlowe's mighty line.
8

And though thou hadst small Latin and less Greek, 9

1. Prefixed to the first collected edition—the First Folio—of Shakespeare's plays, 1623.

parable (“disproportioned”) with your poetry.

2. Copious, i.e., in this relatively long poem.

7. I.e., over an extended period of time.

3. Source of inspiration.

8. John Lyly (1554-1606), Thomas Kyd (1558-

4. A married woman with moral and social dignity.

1594), and Christopher Marlowe (1564-1593), all

5. All three authors—Geoffrey Chaucer (ca.

Elizabethan dramatists; with “sporting” as “play-

1340-1400), Edmund Spenser (ca. 1552-1599), ing,” activating the pun in Kyd's name (kid, baby

Francis Beaumont (1584—1616)—are buried in goat).

Westminster Abbey, London. Shakespeare is bur-

9. By modern standards, Shakespeare had an adequate command of Latin (as well as French and (see “Avon,” line 71).

Italian), but he lacked Jonson's knowledge of classical literature. I.e., that I do not place you with the other

T o T H E M E M O R Y O F M Y B E L O V E D / 3 4 3

From thence to honor thee I would not seek 0 lack
For names, but call forth thund'ring Aeschylus,
Euripides, and Sophocles to us,
35 Pacuvius, Accius, him of Cordova dead,
To life again, to hear thy buskin² tread
And shake a stage; or, when thy socks were on,
Leave thee alone for the comparison
Of all that insolent Greece or haughty Rome
40 Sent forth, or since did from their ashes come.
Triumph, my Britain; thou hast one to show
To whom all scenes⁰ of Europe homage owe. stages
He was not of an age, but for all time!
And all the Muses still were in their prime 45 When like Apollo he came forth to warm
Our ears, or like a Mercury³ to charm.
Nature herself was proud of his designs,
And joyed to wear the dressing of his lines,
Which were so richly spun, and woven so fit,
50 As, since, she will vouchsafe no other wit:
The merry Greek, tart Aristophanes,
Neat Terence, witty Plautus⁴ now not please,
But antiquated and deserted lie,
As they were not of Nature's family.
55 Yet must I not give Nature all; thy Art,

My gentle Shakespeare, must enjoy a part.
 For though the poet's matter Nature be,
 His Art doth give the fashion;⁰ and that he form, style
 Who casts⁰ to write a living line must sweat undertakes
 60 (Such as thine are) and strike the second heat
 Upon the Muses' anvil; turn the same,
 And himself with it, that he thinks to frame,
 Or for the laurel⁵ he may gain a scorn;
 For a good poet's made as well as born.
 65 And such wert thou! Look how the father's face Lives in his issue, even so the race
 Of Shakespeare's mind and manners brightly shines
 In his well-turned and true-filed⁰ lines, well-polished
 In each of which he seems to shake a lance,⁶
 70 As brandished at the eyes of ignorance.
 Sweet swan of Avon, what a sight it were
 To see thee in our waters yet appear,
 And make those flights upon the banks of Thames
 That so did take Eliza and our James!⁷
 75 But stay; I see thee in the hemisphere
 Advanced and made a constellation there!

1. I.e., Seneca, Roman tragedian of the first cen-enchantment. Apollo: the classical god of sunlight,
 tury C.E.; Marcus Pacuvius and Lucius Accius
 prophecy, music, and poetry.

were Roman tragedians of the second century

4. Aristophanes (Greek) and Terence and Plautus

B.C.E. Aeschylus (5 2 5 - 4 5 6 B.C.E.), Euripides (ca.

(Roman) were comic writers of the fourth to second centuries B.C.E.), and Sophocles (ca. 496 - 406 B.C.E.).

B.C.E.) were all Greek dramatists.

5. As in the crowns of laurel that honored ancient

2. The high-heeled boot worn by Greek tragic Greek poets.

actors; the “sock” (line 37), or light shoe, was worn

6. With a pun on Shake-speare (also see line 37).

in comedies.

7. I.e., to travel on the river banks as did Queen

3. Roman god associated with good luck and Elizabeth and King James.

344 / BEN JONSON

Shine forth, thou star of poets, and with rage

Or influence⁸ chide or cheer the drooping stage,

Which, since thy flight from hence, hath mourned like night,

so And despairs day, but for thy volume’s light.

16231640 - 41

A Sonnet to the Noble Lady, the Lady Mary Wroth⁹

I that have been a lover, and could show it,

Though not in these,¹ in rithmes not wholly dumb,

Since I exscribe⁰ your sonnets, am become copy out

A better lover, and much better poet.

5 Nor is my Muse² or I ashamed to owe it

To those true numerous graces, whereof some

But charm the senses, others overcome

Both brains and hearts; and mine now best do know it:

For in your verse all Cupid's³ armory,
io His flames, his shafts, his quiver, and his bow,
His very eyes are yours to overthrow.

But then his mother's sweets you so apply,
Her joys, her smiles, her loves, as readers take
For Venus' ceston⁰ every line you make. girdle

1 6 4 0 - 4 1

Slow, Slow, Fresh Fount⁴

Slow, slow, fresh fount, keep time with my salt tears;

Yet slower, yet, O faintly, gentle springs!

List to the heavy part the music bears,

Woe weeps out her division,⁵ when she sings.

⁵ Droop herbs and flowers;

Fall grief in showers;

Our beauties are not ours.

O, I could still,

Like melting snow upon some craggy hill,

io Drop, drop, drop, drop,

Since nature's pride is now a withered daffodil.

1600

8. "Rage" and "influence" describe a supposed Wroth's accomplishments in her sonnet sequence, emanation of power from the stars, affecting Pamphilia to Amphilanthus.)

Earth's events. "Rage" also implies poetic inspira-

2. Source of poetic inspiration.

tion.

3. Roman god of erotic love; son of Venus, god-

9. English poet (1587?-1651 ?; see pp. 347-53), dess of love and beauty.

to whom Jonson dedicated his play The Alchemist

4. From Jonson's play Cynthia's Revels 5.6 (1600).

(1610). As the niece of Sir Philip Sidney and of

Inspired by classical mythology, the play deals

Mary Sidney, Wroth was a potential patron for Jon-satirically with the sin of self-love; this song is sung son, who also wrote a flattering poem to her hus-

by Echo for Narcissus, who fell in love with his own band, Sir Robert Wroth.

reflection and was changed into the flower that

1. I.e., the sonnet form, typically used for love bears his name. The daffodil (line 11) is a species poetry but not by Jonson. (This is his only sonnet;

of narcissus. Fount: spring.

by using the form here, he pays homage to Mary

5. Part in a song, as well as grief at parting.

T A K E , O H , T A K E T H O S E L I P S A W A Y / 3 4 5

Queen and Huntress⁶

Queen and huntress, chaste and fair,

Now the sun is laid to sleep,

Seated in thy silver chair,

State in wonted manner keep;

5 Hesperus entreats thy light,

Goddess excellently bright.

Earth, let not thy envious shade

Dare itself to interpose;⁷

Cynthia's shining orb was made
10 Heaven to clear, when day did close.
Bless us then with wished sight,
Goddess excellently bright.
Lay thy bow of pearl apart,
And thy crystal-shining quiver;
15 Give unto the flying hart⁸
Space to breathe, how short soever.
Thou that mak'st a day of night,
Goddess excellently bright.

1600

J O H N F L E T C H E R

1579-1625

Take, Oh, Take Those Lips Away¹
Take, oh, take those lips away
That so sweetly were forsworn
And those eyes, like break of day,
Lights that do mislead the morn;
5 But my kisses bring again,
Seals of love, though sealed in vain.
Hide, oh, hide those hills of snow,
Which thy frozen bosom bears,
On whose tops the pinks that grow
10 Are of those that April wears;
But first set my poor heart free,
Bound in those icy chains by thee.

1 6 3 9

6. From Cynthia's Revels 5.6 (1600). This lyric is

7. Eclipses were seen as evil portents.

sung by Hesperus, the evening star, to Cynthia

8. A pun on “hart” (as deer) and heart.

(also known as Diana), goddess of the moon and

1. The first stanza of this song appears as a com-of the hunt. Cynthia was often identified with plete poem in Shakespeare’s play Measure for

Queen Elizabeth (1533-1603; see pp. 142-43) by Measure (1604-05), from which Fletcher likely poets of this period.

appropriated it.

3 4 6

EDWARD HERBERT

1582-1648

Sonnet of Black Beauty

Black beauty, which above that common light,

Whose power can no colors here renew

But those which darkness can again subdue,

Do’st still remain unvary’d to the sight,

5 And like an object equal to the view,

Art neither chang’d with day, nor hid with night;

When all these colors which the world call bright,

And which old poetry doth so persue,

Are with the night to perished and gone,

io That of their being there remains no mark,

Thou still abidest so entirely one,

That we may know thy blackness is a spark

Of light inaccessible, and alone

Our darkness which can make us think it dark.1

1 6 2 0 1 6 6 5

Another Sonnet to Black Itself

Thou Black, wherein all colors are composed,
And unto which they all at last return,
Thou color of the sun where it doth burn,
And shadow, where it cools, in thee is clos'd
5 Whatever nature can, or hath dispos'd
In any other hue: from thee do rise
Those tempers and complexions, which disclos'd,
As parts of thee, do work as mysteries,
Of that thy hidden power; when thou dost reign
io The characters of fate shine in the skies,
And tell us what the heavens do ordain,2
But when earth's common light shines to our eyes,
Thou so retir'st thy self, that thy disdain
All revelation unto man denies.3

1 6 2 0 1 6 6 5

1. I.e., it is only our moral blindness that can make to foretell the future.

us think things are dark. 3. I.e., in the bright light of day, the stars cannot be read. 2. I.e., the stars, "characters of fate," can be read, and the future is not revealed.

3 4 7

MARY W R O T H

1587-1651?

*From Pamphilia to Amphilanthus*1

I

When night's black mantle could most darkness prove,

And sleep death's image did my senses hire⁰ engage
From knowledge of my self, then thoughts did move
Swifter than those most swiftness need require:
5 In sleep, a chariot drawn by wing'd desire
I saw: where sat bright Venus, queen of love,²
And at her feet her son,³ still adding fire
To burning hearts which she did hold above;
But one heart flaming more than all the rest
io The goddess held, and put it to my breast;
“Dear son, now shut,”⁴ said she: “thus must we win”;
He her obeyed, and martyred my poor heart;
I, waking, hoped as dreams it⁵ would depart;
Yet since—O me—a lover I have been.

3

Yet is there hope: then Love⁰ but play thy part; Cupid
Remember well thy self, and think on me;
Shine in those eyes which conquered have my heart;
And see if mine be slack⁶ to answer thee:
5 Lodge in that breast, and pity moving see,
For flames which in mine burn in truest smart,⁷
Exiling thoughts that touch inconstancy,
Or those which waste not in the constant art;⁸

1. Mary Wroth wrote the first work of prose fiction ordering of the 1621 print version of the Urania, by an Englishwoman, her long but unfinished The
as reproduced and discussed in Josephine A. Rob-Countess of Montgomery's Urania. Including a erts's edition of Wroth's poems.

number of poems and modeled on her uncle Sir

2. Traditionally, Venus, Roman goddess of love

Philip Sidney's romance, Arcadia (ca. 1580), and beauty, was represented in a chariot drawn by

Wroth's text covertly alludes to various personages doves.

and scandals of the Jacobean court, and was met

3. Cupid, god of erotic love.

with a storm of criticism when part 1 was pub-

4. I.e., enclose the flaming heart in Pamphilia's lished in 1621. Appended to Urania is Pamphilia breast; by implication, her breast is also being cruto Amphilanthus, a sonnet sequence (the only one elly opened, with a love wound like Amoret's in the

by an Englishwoman of her time) consisting of climactic episode of Spenser's Faerie Queene

eighty-three sonnets and twenty songs. Pamphilia

3.12.2-21.

(Latin, "All-loving") is the protagonist of Urania;

5. I.e., the vision of Venus and Cupid.

Amphilanthus (Latin, "Lover of two") is her

6. Lacking in energy or diligence.

unfaithful beloved. Their names reflect the main

7. I.e., house yourself in my beloved's breast, and theme of both the romance and the appended son-see him moved by pity for the flames that burn in net sequence—constancy in the face of unfaith-

my breast with truest pain.

fulness. Pamphilia to Amphilanthus is divided into
8. I.e., exile [also] those thoughts that do not several separately numbered series (the first of waste away in the art (discipline, pursuit) of con-which includes forty-eight sonnets, with songs stancy.

inserted after every sixth sonnet). We follow the

348 / MARY WROTH

Watch but my sleep, if I take any rest
10 For thoughts of you, my spirit so distressed,
As pale, and famished, I for mercy cry;
Will you your servant leave? Think but on this:
Who wears love's crown,⁹ must not do so amiss,
But seek their good, who on thy force do lie.⁰ rely

11

You endless torments that my rest oppress,
How long will you delight in my sad pain?
Will never love your favor more express?¹
Shall I still live, and ever feel disdain?
5 Alas now stay,⁰ and let my grief obtain refrain from acting
Some end; feed not my heart with sharp distress:
Let me once see my cruel fortune's gain
At least release, and long felt woes redress;
Let not the blame of cruelty disgrace
io The honored title of your Godhead,⁰ Love:⁰ deity / Cupid
Give not just cause for me to say a place
Is found for rage alone on me to move;²
O quickly end, and do not long debate

My needful aid, lest help do come too late. lest

22

Like to the Indians, scorched with the sun,³

The sun which they do as their God adore,

So am I used by love, for ever more

I worship him, less favors have I won;⁴

5 Better are they who thus to blackness run,

And so can only whiteness' want deplore⁵

Than I who pale, and white am with griefs' store,

Nor can have hope, but to see hopes undone;⁶

9. The "crown" of love, a sign of Cupid's power as rage is the only emotion I can feel or that I am the an absolute ruler, recurs in many later poems in only "place" where rage moves or acts.

Wroth's sequence and provides the key formal

3. Some early modern thinkers attributed Native Americans' and Africans' skin colors to the tanning with which Pamphilia to Amphilanthus closes.

power of the tropical sun.

1. Ambiguous syntax: "your" could refer to the ini-

4. I.e., as I worship love more, I receive less in tial addressee, "torments," i.e., will love not make terms of love's benefits.

you (endless torments) show more favor to me;

5. I.e., can only deplore the lack of whiteness alternatively, "your" could refer to "love," with the (though there may also be a sense, if "want" is implied addressee shifting so that the poet is now taken to mean “desire” rather than “lack,” that the asking a personified love to express his “favor” to desire for whiteness is being deplored).

the speaker more than he has in the past.

6. I.e., I cannot have any hope except the (para-

2. I.e., do not give me just cause to say either that doxical) one of seeing my hopes undone.

P A M P H I L I A T O A M P H I L A N T H U S : 3 7 / 3 4 9

Besides their sacrifice received's in sight

io Of their chose⁰ saint, mine hid as worthless rite;⁷ chosen

Grant me to see where I my off rings give,

Then let me wear the mark of Cupid's might

In heart as they in skin of Phoebus' light,⁸

Not ceasing off' rings to love while I live.

2 5

Poor eyes be blind, the light behold no more

Since that is gone which is your dear delight,

Ravished from you by greater pow'r, and might,

Making your loss a gain to others' store;

5 O'erflow, and drown, till sight to you restore

That blessed star,⁹ and as in hateful spite

Send forth your tears in floods, to kill all sight,

And looks, that lost,¹ wherein you joyed before.

Bury these beams, which in some⁰ kindled fires, some people

io And conquered have their love-burnt-hearts' desires,

Losing, and yet no gain by you esteemed,

Till that bright star do once again appear
Brighter than Mars when he doth shine most clear;
See not: then by his might, be you redeemed.

37

Night, welcome art thou to my mind distressed
Dark, heavy, sad, yet not more sad than I;
Never could'st thou find fitter company
For thine own humor than I thus oppressed.
5 If thou beest dark, my wrongs still unredressed⁰ unremedied
Saw never light, nor smallest bliss can spy;
If heavy, joy from me too fast doth hie⁰ hurry away
And care outgoes my hope of quiet rest,
Then now in friendship join with hapless me,
io Who am as sad, and dark as thou canst be Hating all pleasure, or delight of life;

7. I.e., besides, their sacrifice is received in sight power in her heart as the Indians have the sign of
of their chosen saint, whereas my sacrifice is hid-the sun's power on their skin.

den as a ritual (but also a "right") considered

9. Here and in line 12, the speaker refers to her worthless.

beloved as a star and thus substitutes him for the

8. The light of the sun (Phoebus being Apollo, the planet Venus, traditionally linked to the planet classical god of sunlight); the speaker prays to be Mars because Venus was the lover of the Roman allowed to see the object of her worship (as the god of war, Mars.

Indians do) and to have the mark or sign of Cupid's

1. I.e., since that is lost (or, that being lost).

350 / MARY WROTH

Silence, and grief, with thee I best do love

And from you three, I know I can not move,

Then let us live companions without strife.

39

If I were giv'n to mirth, 'twould be more cross it would

Thus to be robbed of my chiefest joy;

But silently I bear my greatest loss;

Who's used to sorrow, grief will not destroy;

5 Nor can I as those pleasant wits enjoy like

My own framed words, which I account the dross

Of purer thoughts, or reckon them as moss

While they (wit-sick) themselves to breath employ;

Alas, think I, your plenty shows your want,

10 For where most feeling is, words are more scant,

Yet pardon me, live, and your pleasure take,

Grudge not, if I, neglected, envy show;

'Tis not to you² that I dislike do owe,

But crossed myself, wish some like me to make.

74

SONG

Love a child is ever crying,³

Please him, and he straight is flying,

Give him, he the more is craving⁴

Never satisfied with having;

5 His desires have no measure,
 Endless folly is his treasure,
 What he promiseth he breaketh
 Trust not one word that he speaketh;
 He vows nothing but false matter,
 10 And to cozen you he'll flatter,⁵
 Let him gain the hand⁰ he'll leave you, upper hand
 And still glory to deceive you;
 He will triumph in your wailing,
 And yet cause be of your failing,
 15 These his virtues are, and slighter
 Are his gifts, his favors lighter,

2. I.e., the writer's own words (though possibly the image to explore Pamphilia's frustration in person who inspired the poem).

love.

3. Although depicting love as Cupid was a Renais-

4. I.e., the more he is given, the more he craves.

sance commonplace, a "crying" Cupid is unusual;

5. I.e., to deceive or cheat ("cozen") you, he'll flat-in this section of her sonnet sequence, Wroth uses ter you.

P A M P H I L I A T O A M P H I L A N T H U S : 7 8 / 3 5 1

Feathers are as firm in staying
 Wolves no fiercer in their praying.
 As a child then leave him crying
 20 Nor seek him⁰ so given to flying.⁰ he who is / leaving
 From *A Crown of Sonnets Dedicated to Love*⁶

77

In this strange labyrinth how shall I turn?
Ways⁰ are on all sides, while the way I miss: paths
If to the right hand, there in love I burn;
Let me⁷ go forward, therein danger is;
5 If to the left, suspicion hinders bliss,
Let me turn back, shame cries I ought return,
Nor faint,⁸ though crosses⁰ with my fortunes troubles, adversity
kiss;
Stand still is harder, although sure to^o mourn.
to make me
Thus let me take the right, or left hand way,
io Go forward, or stand still, or back retire:
I must these doubts endure without allay⁰ alleviation
Or help, but travail find for my best hire.⁹
Yet that which most my troubled sense doth move,
Is to leave all and take the thread of Love.¹

78

Is to leave all and take the thread of Love,
Which line straight leads unto the soul's content,
Where choice delights with pleasure's wings do move,
And idle fant'sy never room had lent.²

6. The "crown" is a complex poetic form, in which whose true service ennobles lovers. The crown the last line of each poem serves as the first line of includes sonnets 77—90 of the original sequence the next poem, until a circle is completed by the

as numbered in the only manuscript in Wroth's last line of the final poem, which is the same as hand, which is now in the Folger Shakespeare the first line of the sequence. It was originally an Library, Washington, D.C.

Italian form that could be used to praise or con-
7. I.e., if 1.

demn (and is often known by its Italian name,

8. Lose heart; Wroth occasionally uses "nor" with-corona)-, various kinds of poems could be used for out including other negatives.

the sequence, with the number of poems ranging

9. I.e., I find hard labor (or suffering) to be the from seven to fourteen (as in Wroth's crown of reward for my best efforts. Instead of "traveile" fourteen sonnets).

(Folger Library manuscript), the 1621 edition
Sir Philip Sidney, Wroth's uncle, included one prints "travell."

of the first examples of the crown in English in the

1. An allusion to the Greek myth in which Ari-first version of his prose romance, known as the adne, defying her father, gave Theseus a thread to Old Arcadia; her father, Sir Robert Sidney, wrote unwind behind him in the labyrinth at Crete. After an incomplete crown thought to be in praise of a killing the Minotaur, he was able to find his way specific lady. Wroth, however, dedicates her crown out by following the thread; shortly thereafter, he more generally to “Love”; in a temporary recanted-abandoned Ariadne.

tion of the harsh judgment of love depicted in the 2. I.e., where room or space had never been preceding part of the Pamphilia to Amphilanthus loaned to idle fantasy.

sequence, Love is here portrayed as a monarch

3 5 2 / M A R Y W R O T H

5 When chaste thoughts guide us, then our minds are bent

To take that good which ill from us remove:

Light of true love brings fruit which none repent;

But constant lovers seek and wish to prove.⁰ try

Love is the shining star of blessing's light,

10 The fervent fire of zeal, the root of peace,

The lasting lamp, fed with the oil of right,

Image of faith, and womb for joy's increase.⁰ children

Love is true virtue, and his end's delight,

His flames are joys, his bands true lover's might.³

82

He⁴ may our prophet, and our tutor prove,

In whom alone we do this power find,

To join two hearts as in one frame to move;

Two bodies, but one soul to rule the mind.⁵

5 Eyes which must care to one dear object bind,

Ears to each others' speech as if above

All else, they sweet, and learned were; this kind

Content of lovers witnesseth true love.

It doth enrich the wits, and make you see io That in your self which you knew not before, Forcing you to admire such gifts should be
Hid from your knowledge, yet in you the store.
Millions of these adorn the throne of Love,
How blest are they then, who his favors prove.⁰ experience

85

But where they may return with honor's grace
Where⁰ Venus' follies can no harbor win, there
But chased are as worthless of the face
Or style of love who hath lascivious been.⁶
5 Our hearts are subject to her son; where sin
Never did dwell, or rest one minute's space;⁷
What faults he hath, in her, did still begin,
And from her breast he sucked his fleeting pace;
3. I.e., Love's bands are the strength of true lovers,
"follies" (lusts); they are unworthy of the true and not their shackles.

"face" or "style" of love. In describing such lovers

4. I.e., love personified.

as "worthless," Wroth may pun on her name; in

5. Two hearts joined in one body, or two bodies her play Love's Victory, an undesirable suitor, who joined in one soul; common Renaissance meta-resembles Wroth's historical husband, Robert phors for true love.

Wroth, is repeatedly called "worthless."

6. In an extended analogy between sea voyaging

7. Wroth follows a tradition of distinguishing and different kinds of love, this stanza contrasts between Venus as a figure for lust and her son, those who love honorably with those who love lasciviously. The latter are “chased” from the safe harbor of virtue because they represent Venus’s

U R A N I A / 3 5 3

If lust be counted love, ‘tis falsely named
10 By wickedness, a fairer gloss to set
Upon that vice,⁸ which else makes men ashamed,
In the⁰ own phrase to warrant but beget its
This child for love, who ought like monster born
Be from the court of Love, and reason torn.⁹

From Urania

Song 1

Love what art thou? A vain thought
In our minds by phant’⁰ wrought, fancy
Idle smiles did thee beget
While fond wishes made the net
5 Which so many fools have caught;
Love what art thou? light, and fair,
Fresh as morning, clear as th’air,
But too soon thy evening change
Makes thy worth with coldness range;
io Still thy joy is mixed with care.
Love what art thou? A sweet flow’r

Once full blown, dead in an hour,
Dust in wind as staid⁰ remains steadfast

As thy pleasure, or our gains
15 If thy humor change to lour.⁰ gloomy

Love what art thou? childish, vain,
Firm as bubbles made by rain;
Wantonness thy greatest pride,
These foul faults thy virtues hide,
20 But babes can no staidness gain.

Love what art thou? causeless curse,
Yet alas these not the worst,
Much more of thee may be said
But thy law I once obeyed
25 Therefore say no more at first.

1621

8. I.e., wickedness falsely renames lust as love to “court” of Love, and from that of reason too, if the put a “fairer gloss” on the vice.

latter is separate from love, as the comma between

9. The syntax of lines 11—14 is difficult, and we them suggests. (Wroth had two illegitimate sons have not attempted to clarify it by supplying mod-with her cousin William Herbert, the historical ern punctuation marks; the phrase “the own,” inspiration for the character Amphilanthus in the often used to denote “its own” in early modern

Urania.)

English, seems to refer to “that vice” of lust which
1. Sung at the end of book 1 by a “delicate Mayd” attempts to legitimize (“warrant,” legally name as with a sweet voice who seems to have “falne out its own) an illegitimate son who should rightfully with Love”; on Wroth’s long prose romance, see be seen as monstrous and hence banished from the note 1, p. 347.

3 5 4

R O B E R T H E R R I C K

1591-1674

The Argument of His Book1

I sing of brooks, of blossoms, birds, and bowers,
Of April, May, of June, and July flowers.

I sing of Maypoles, hock carts, wassails, wakes,2
Of bridegrooms, brides, and of their bridal cakes.

5 I write of youth, of love, and have access
By these to sing of cleanly wantonness.

I sing of dews, of rains, and, piece by piece,
Of balm, of oil, of spice, and ambergris.3

I sing of times trans-shifting, and I write
10 How roses first came red and lilies white.

I write of groves, of twilights, and I sing
The court of Mab4 and of the fairy king.

I write of hell; I sing (and ever shall)
Of heaven, and hope to have it after all.

The Vine

I dreamed this mortal part of mine
 Was metamorphosed to a vine,
 Which crawling one and every way
 Enthralled⁰ my dainty Lucia.⁵ imprisoned
 5 Methought her long small⁰ legs and thighs slender
 I with my tendrils did surprise;
 Her belly, buttocks, and her waist
 By my soft nervelets⁰ were embraced. tendrils
 About her head I writhing hung,
 10 And with rich clusters (hid among The leaves) her temples I behung,
 So that my Lucia seemed to me
 Young Bacchus ravished by his tree.⁶
 My curls about her neck did crawl,
 15 And arms and hands they did enthrall,

1. The “argument” is the subject matter, and the
 2. Vigils on the eves of festivals or of funerals.
 “book” is a thick volume containing all of Herrick’s Hock carts: vehicles for carrying in the last load of poems—over fourteen hundred—divided into a the harvest. Wassails: drinking to the health of othreligious set, titled Noble Numbers, and a secular ers.

set, titled Hesperides. In classical mythology, the
 3. A waxlike substance used in making perfumes, Hesperides, daughters of Atlas and Hesperis (or,
 i.e., something rare and pleasing.
 in another tradition, of Night), guarded a tree of

4. In English mythology, queen of the fairies.

golden apples in a far-western garden that Herrick

5. For the sake of rhyme and meter, the name has often likens to his home in the western county of three syllables here but two in line 12.

Devon.

6. Bacchus was the Roman god of wine and rev-

Since all of Herrick's poems were published in elry; his "tree" is the grapevine.

1648, we do not repeat the date for each poem.

DELIGHT IN DISORDER / 355

So that she could not freely stir

(All parts there made one prisoner).

But when I crept with leaves to hide

Those parts which maids keep unespied,

20 Such fleeting pleasures there I took

That with the fancy I awoke;

And found (ah me!) this flesh of mine

More like a stock⁰ than like a vine. hardened stem

To the Sour Reader

If thou dislik'st the piece thou light'st on first,

Think that of all that I have writ the worst;

But if thou read'st my book unto the end,

And still dost this and that verse reprehend,

5 O perverse man! If all disgustful be,

The extreme scab⁷ take thee and thine, for me.

Delight in Disorder⁸

A sweet disorder in the dress

Kindles in clothes a wantonness.
A lawn^o about the shoulders thrown fine linen scarf
Into a fine distraction;
5 An erring lace, which here and there
Enthralls the crimson stomacher;⁹
A cuff neglectful, and thereby
Ribbons to flow confusedly;
A winning wave, deserving note,
io In the tempestuous petticoat;
A careless shoestring, in whose tie
I see a wild civility;
Do more bewitch me than when art
Is too precise in every part.

7. The mange. “The extreme scab” is a borrowing mind, / Once say I’m ignorant... .”

from Horace’s Art of Poetry (lines 416—18), in

8. Cf. Ben Jonson, “Still to Be Neat” (p. 341).

which an unpracticed dabbler in poetry is repre-

9. An ornamental piece worn under the open (and sented as saying, in the translation of Herrick’s often laced) front of a bodice; the “erring” (“wanadmired master, Ben Jonson (1572—1637; see dering,” with an overtone of moral straying) lace pp. 323—44), “I make / An admirable verse: the thus “enthalls” (literally, makes a slave of) the great scab take / Him that is last, I scorn to come stomacher.

behind / Or, of the things that ne’er came in my

356 / ROBERT HERRICK

Corinna's Going A-Maying

Get up! get up for shame! the blooming morn

Upon her wings presents the god unshorn.¹

See how Aurora² throws her fair

Fresh-quilted colors through the air:

5 Get up, sweet slug-a-bed, and see

The dew bespangling herb and tree.

Each flower has wept and bowed toward the east

Above an hour since, yet you not dressed;

Nay, not so much as out of bed?

10 When all the birds have matins⁰ said, morning prayers

And sung their thankful hymns, 'tis sin,

Nay, profanation to keep in,

Whenas a thousand virgins on this day

Spring, sooner than the lark, to fetch in May.³

15 Rise, and put on your foliage, and be seen

To come forth, like the springtime, fresh and green,

And sweet as Flora.⁴ Take no care

For jewels for your gown or hair;

Fear not; the leaves will strew

20 Gems in abundance upon you;

Besides, the childhood of the day has kept,

Against⁰ you come, some orient pearls⁵ unwept; until

Come and receive them while the light

Hangs on the dew-locks of the night,

25 And Titan⁰ on the eastern hill the sun

Retires himself, or else stands still

Till you come forth. Wash, dress, be brief in praying:
 Few beads⁶ are best when once we go a-Maying.
 Come, my Corinna, come; and, coming mark 30 How each field turns⁰ a street, each street a park turns into Made green and trimmed with trees; see how Devotion gives each house a bough
 Or branch: each porch, each door ere this,
 An ark, a tabernacle is,⁷
 35 Made up of whitethorn neatly interwove,
 As if here were those cooler shades of love.
 Can such delights be in the street
 And open fields, and we not see't?
 Come, we'll abroad; and let's obey
 1. Apollo, the Greek and Roman sun god, whose
 5. I.e., lustrous and glowing ones; also, "Eastern," hair (the rays of the sun) is never cut.
 as pearls come from the "Orient."
 2. Roman goddess of the dawn, here tossing her
 6. I.e., prayers (with overtones of the rosary of blankets aside and spreading over Earth a newly Catholicism). made coverlet of light.
 7. I.e., the doorways are like the Hebrew "ark" of
 3. Boughs of white hawthorn, traditionally gaththe Covenant, or the sanctuary ("tabernacle") that ered to decorate streets and houses on May Day.
 housed it; i.e., May sprigs are the central mystery
 Larks sing at sunrise.

of the religion of nature.

4. Roman goddess of flowers.

T o THE VIRGINS , T O M A K E M U C H O F T I M
E / 3 5 7

40 The proclamation made for May,8

And sin no more, as we have done, by staying;

But, my Corinna, come, let's go a-Maying.

There's not a budding boy or girl this day

But is got up and gone to bring in May;

45 A deal of youth, ere this, is come

Back, and with whitethorn laden home.

Some have dispatched their cakes and cream

Before that we have left to dream;

And some have wept, and wooed, and plighted troth,

50 And chose their priest, ere we can cast off sloth.

Many a green-gown has been given,9

Many a kiss, both odd and even,1

Many a glance, too, has been sent

From out the eye, love's firmament;0 sky

55 Many a jest told of the keys betraying

This night, and locks picked; yet we're not a-Maying.

Come, let us go while we are in our prime,

And take the harmless folly of the time.

We shall grow old apace,0 and die quickly

60 Before we know our liberty.

Our life is short, and our days run

As fast away as does the sun;

And, as a vapor or a drop of rain

Once lost, can ne'er be found again;
65 So when or you or I are made
A fable, song, or fleeting shade,
All love, all liking, all delight
Lies drowned with us in endless night.
Then while time serves, and we are but decaying,
70 Come, my Corinna, come, let's go a-Maying.
To the Virgins, to Make Much of Time
Gather ye rosebuds while ye may,
Old time is still a-flying;
And this same flower that smiles today
Tomorrow will be dying.

5 The glorious lamp of heaven, the sun,
The higher he's a-getting,
The sooner will his race be run,
And nearer he's to setting.

8. Probably refers to King James's declaration con- 9. I.e., by rolling in the grass.

cerning lawful sports, published in 1618 and reissued by King Charles I in 1633. 1. Kisses are odd and even in kissing games.

sued by King Charles I in 1633.

358 / ROBERT HERRICK

That age is best which is the first,
10 When youth and blood are warmer;
But being spent, the worse, and worst
Times still succeed the former.
Then be not coy, but use your time,
And, while ye may, go marry;
15 For, having lost but once your prime,

You may forever tarry.

Upon Julia's Breasts

Display thy breasts, my Julia, there let me

Behold that circummortal² purity;

Between whose glories, there my lips I'll lay,

Ravished in that fair Via Lactea

Upon a Child That Died

Here she lies, a pretty bud,

Lately made of flesh and blood,

Who as soon fell fast asleep

As her little eyes did peep.^o

5 Give her strewings,⁴ but not stir

The earth that lightly covers her.

His Prayer to Ben Jonson⁵

When I a verse shall make,

Know I have prayed thee,

For old religion's sake,

Saint Ben, to aid me.⁶

5 Make the way smooth for me,

When I, thy Herrick,

Honoring thee, on my knee

Offer my lyric.

2. A coinage by Herrick, literally "around or of England, plays on the fact that Jonson was for encompassing what is mortal"; therefore, perhaps, a while a Catholic (of the "old religion"), as well as beyond or more than mortal.

a saint in the mock religion of poetry. The Puritans

3. Milky Way (Latin); with reference to the color (who came to power in the civil war, which began white and to the constellation; also, figuratively, a in 1642) were hostile to the invocation of saints way brilliant in appearance and leading to heaven.
and, especially, of secular “saints” such as Jonson;
4. I.e., flowers scattered on her grave.

Herrick was dispossessed by the Puritans in 1647,
5. Herrick’s admired master (1 5 7 2 - 1 6 3 7 ; see shortly before his poems were published. “Reli-
pp. 3 2 3 - 4 4) .

gion” may also mean the sacredness of an oath, i.e., 6. Herrick, who had been ordained in the Church the vows of friendship.

U P O N J U L I A ‘ S C L O T H E S / 3 5 9

Candles I’ll give to thee,
10 And a new altar;
And thou, Saint Ben, shalt be Writ in my psalter.⁷
The Night Piece, to Julia
Her eyes the glowworm lend thee;⁸
The shooting stars attend thee;
And the elves also,
Whose little eyes glow
5 Like the sparks of fire, befriend thee.
No will-o’-the-wisp⁹ mislight thee;
Nor snake or slowworm⁰ bite thee; adder
But on, on thy way,

Not making a stay,
 10 Since ghost there's none to affright thee.
 Let not the dark thee cumber; 0 trouble
 What though the moon does slumber?
 The stars of the night
 Will lend thee their light,
 15 Like tapers clear without number.
 Then, Julia, let me woo thee,
 Thus, thus to come unto me;
 And when I shall meet
 Thy silvery feet,
 20 My soul I'll pour into thee.
 Upon Julia's Clothes
 Whenas in silks my Julia goes,
 Then, then, methinks, how sweetly flows
 That liquefaction 0 of her clothes. liquefying
 Next, when I cast mine eyes, and see 5 That brave 0 vibration, each way free, glorious, splendid
 O, how that glittering taketh me!
 7. A collection of sacred poems called Psalms;
 men) lend her eyes to thee.
 also, the Book of Psalms, one of the books of the
 9. The will-o'-the-wisp was said to draw travelers Hebrew Scriptures, composed of such poems.
 astray by holding a false light before them; the phe-
 8. I.e., may the glowworm (an insect, the female nomenon of nocturnal light is caused by the com-
 of which emits a shining green light from the abdo-

bustion of marsh gas.

360 / ROBERT HERRICK

Upon Prue, His Maid

In this little urn is laid

Prudence Baldwin, once my maid,

From whose happy spark here let

Spring the purple violet.

Upon Ben Jonson¹

Here lies Jonson with the rest

Of the poets; but the best.

Reader, would'st thou more have known?

Ask his story, not this stone.

5 That will speak what this can't tell

Of his glory. So farewell.

An Ode for Him

Ah, Ben!

Say how or when

Shall we, thy guests,

Meet at those lyric feasts

5 Made at the Sun,

The Dog, the Triple Tun,²

Where we such clusters⁰ had wine

As made us nobly wild, not mad;

And yet each verse of thine

io Outdid the meat, outdid the frolic wine.

My Ben!

Or come again,

Or send to us

Thy wit's great overplus;
15 But teach us yet
Wisely to husband it, manage thriftily, prudently
Lest we that talent spend,
And having once brought to an end
That precious stock, the store
20 Of such a wit the world should have no more.

1. See note 5, p. 358.

2. The names of taverns.

T o H i s C O N S C I E N C E / 3 6 1

The Pillar of Fame³

Fame's pillar here at last we set,
Out-during^o marble, brass or jet;⁴ outlasting
Charmed and enchanted so
As to withstand the blow
5 O f o v e r t h r o w ;
Nor shall the seas,
O r o u t r a g e s
Of storms, o'erbear
W h a t w e u p r e a r ;
10 Tho' kingdoms fall,
This pillar never shall Decline or waste at all;
But stand for ever by his own
Firm and well-fixed foundation.
Neutrality Loathsome⁵
God will have all or none; serve Him, or fall
Down before Baal, Bel, or Belial.⁶

Either be hot or cold: God doth despise,
Abhor, and spew out all neutralities.⁷

To His Conscience

Can I not sin, but thou wilt be

My private protonotary? 0 law court's chief recorder

Can I not woo thee to pass by

A short and sweet iniquity?

5 I'll cast a mist and cloud upon

My delicate transgression,

So utter dark, as that no eye

Shall see the hugged 0 impiety. cherished

Gifts blind the wise,⁸ and bribes do please,

io And wind 0 all other witnesses; pervert

And wilt not thou, with gold, be tied

To lay thy pen and ink aside?

3. This poem is “shaped” to resemble a pillar; cf.
hence false gods in general.

George Herbert, “The Altar” (p. 367).

7. Cf. Revelation 3.16:”... because thou art luke-

4. Black marble or a hard form of lignite.

warm, and neither cold nor hot, I will spew thee

5. This and the following poems are from Noble out of my mouth.”

Numbers, the collection of religious poems in Her-

8. Cf. Deuteronomy 16.19: ” ... a gift doth blind rick's 1648 volume.

the eyes of the wise, and pervert the words of the

6. Baal (or Bel) and Belial were pagan divinities; righteous.”

362 / ROBERT HERRICK

That in the murk^o and tongueless night, murky

Wanton I may, and thou not write?

15 It will not be; and therefore now,

For times to come, I'll make this vow:

From aberrations to live free;

So I'll not fear the judge⁹ or thee.

To Find God¹

Weigh me the fire; or canst thou find

A way to measure out the wind?

Distinguish⁰ all those floods that are separate

Mixed in that wat'ry theater,²

5 And taste thou them as saltless there,

As in their channel first they were.

Tell^P me the people that do keep count

Within the kingdoms of the deep;

Or fetch me back that cloud again,

io Beshivered⁰ into seeds of rain. shattered

Tell me the motes, dust, sands, and spears

Of corn, when summer shakes his ears;

Show me that world of stars, and whence

They noiseless spill their influence.

15 This if thou canst;³ then show me Him

That rides the glorious cherubim.⁴

The White Island, or Place of the Blest

In this world, the isle of dreams,

While we sit by sorrow's streams,

Tears and terrors are our themes

Reciting:

5 But when once from hence we fly,
More and more approaching nigh
Unto young eternity,

Uniting:

9. I.e., God on Judgment Day.

dwelling are there in the heart of the sea, or how

1. The “impossibility” theme was much used by many streams at the source of the deep, or how seventeenth-century poets such as John Donne many ways above the firmament ...” (4.5—7).

(see “Go and Catch a Falling Star,” p. 294) and

2. I.e., the ocean.

Andrew Marvell (see “To His Coy Mistress,”

3. Perhaps an echo of Ecclesiasticus 1.2—3: “The p. 478); Herrick emphasizes the challenge issued sand of the seas, and the drops of rain, and the by the concluding line: if you can do these things, days of eternity—who can count them? The height then show me the supreme sight, a vision of God.

of the heavens, and the breadth of the earth, and

This poem alludes to an Apocryphal book of the the deep, and wisdom—who can track them out?”

Bible, 2 Esdras: “Weigh me the weight of fire, or

4. One of the nine orders of angels; cf. Psalms measure me the day that is past... . How many 18.10: “he [the Lord] rode upon a cherub.”

EXEQUY TO HIS MATCHLESS, NEVER - T
O - BE - FORGOTTEN FRIEND / 3 6 3

In that whiter island, where 10 Things are evermore sincere;

Candor⁰ here and luster there whiteness, truthfulness

Delighting:

There no monstrous fancies shall

Out of hell an horror call,

15 To create, or cause at all,

Affrighting.

There, in calm and cooling sleep

We our eyes shall never steep,

But eternal watch shall keep,

20 Attending

Pleasures, such as shall pursue

Me immortalized, and you;

And fresh joys, as never too

Have ending.

1 6 4 8

H E N R Y K I N G

1592-1669

An Exequy to His Matchless, Never-to-Be-Forgotten Friend¹

Accept, thou shrine of my dead saint,

Instead of dirges, this complaint;²

And for sweet flowers to crown thy hearse,

Receive a strew⁰ of weeping verse scattering

5 From thy grieved friend, whom thou might'st see

Quite melted into tears for thee,

Dear loss! since thy untimely fate
My task hath been to meditate
On thee, on thee; thou art the book,
io The library whereon I look,
Though almost blind. For thee, loved clay,^o mortal
I languish out, not live, the day,
Using no other exercise
But what I practice with mine eyes;
15 By which wet glasses I find out
How lazily time creeps about

1. Written for his wife, Anne King, who died in funeral ceremony.

1623 (after eight years of marriage). Exequy: a 2. Instead of mourning songs, this plaintive poem.

3 6 4 / H E N R Y K I N G

To one that mourns: this, only this,
My exercise and business is.
So I compute the weary hours
20 With sighs dissolved into showers.
Nor wonder if my time go thus Backward and most preposterous;³
Thou hast benighted me, thy set⁴
This eve of blackness did beget,
25 Who wast my day, though overcast
Before thou hadst thy noontide passed;
And I remember must in tears,
Thou scarce hadst seen so many years
As day tells⁰ hours. By thy clear sun counts
30 My love and fortune first did run;

But thou wilt never more appear
Folded within my hemisphere,
Since both thy light and motion
Like a fled star is fallen and gone;
35 And 'twixt me and my soul's dear wish
An earth now interposed is,
Which such a strange eclipse doth make
As ne'er was read in almanac.
I could allow thee for a time
40 To darken me and my sad clime;⁰ climate, part of Earth
Were it a month, a year, or ten,
I would thy exile live till then,
And all that space my mirth adjourn,
So thou wouldst promise to return;
45 And putting off thy ashy shroud,
At length disperse this sorrow's cloud.
But woe is me! the longest⁰ date
most distant
Too narrow⁰ is to calculate short
These empty hopes; never shall I 50 Be so much blest as to descry⁰ discern
A glimpse of thee, till that day come
Which shall the earth to cinders doom,
And a fierce fever must calcine⁰
reduce to dust by heat
The body of this world—like thine,

55 My little world! That fit of fire
Once off, our bodies shall aspire
To our souls' bliss; then we shall rise
And view ourselves with clearer eyes
In that calm region where no night
60 Can hide us from each other's sight.

3. In reverse order, monstrous, foolish.

4. I.e., placed me in darkness, thy setting (death).

EXEQUY TO HIS MATCHLESS, NEVER - T
O - BE - FORGOTTEN FRIEND / 365

Meantime, thou hast her, earth: much good
May my harm⁵ do thee. Since it stood⁰ agreed

With heaven's will I might not call
Her longer mine, I give thee all
65 My short-lived right and interest
In her whom living I loved best;
With a most free and bounteous grief
I give thee what I could not keep.

Be kind to her, and prithee look 70 Thou write into thy doomsday⁰ book

Judgment Day

Each parcel of this rarity
Which in thy casket shrined doth lie.
See that thou make thy reckoning straight,
And yield her back again by weight;
75 For thou must audit on thy trust
Each grain and atom of this dust,

As thou wilt answer him that lent,
Not gave thee, my dear monument.
So close the ground, and 'bout her shade
so Black curtains draw; my bride is laid.
Sleep on, my love, in thy cold bed,
Never to be disquieted!
My last good-night! Thou wilt not wake
Till I thy fate shall overtake;
85 Till age, or grief, or sickness must Marry my body to that dust
It so much loves; and fill the room
My heart keeps empty in thy tomb.
Stay for me there; I will not fail
90 To meet thee in that hollow vale.
And think not much of my delay;
I am already on the way,
And follow thee with all the speed
Desire can make, or sorrows breed.
95 Each minute is a short degree,
And every hour a step towards thee.
At night when I betake⁰ to rest,
Next morn I rise nearer my west
Of life, almost by eight hours' sail,
100 Than when sleep breathed his drowsy gale.
Thus from the sun my bottom⁰ steers, vessel
And my day's compass⁰ downward bears; limit
Nor labor I to stem the tide
Through which to thee I swiftly glide.

5. I.e., her death that harms me so much.

3 6 6 / H E N R Y K I N G

105 'Tis true, with shame and grief I yield,
Thou like the van^o first took'st the field, vanguard.

And gotten hast the victory

In thus adventuring to die

Before me, whose more years might crave

110 A just precedence in the grave.

But hark! my pulse like a soft drum

Beats my approach, tells thee I come;

And slow howe'er my marches be,

I shall at last sit down by thee.

115 The thought of this bids me go on,

And wait my dissolution.

With hope and comfort. Dear (forgive

The crime), I am content to live

Divided, with but half a heart,

120 Till we shall meet, and never part.

1 6 5 7

The Boy's Answer to the Blackmoor⁶

Black maid, complain not that I fly,

When Fate commands antipathy:

Prodigious⁷ might that union prove,

Where Night and Day together move,

5 And the conjunction of our lips

Not kisses make, but an eclipse,

In which the mixed black and white

Portends more terror than delight.

Yet if my shadow thou wilt be, io Enjoy thy dearest wish. But see Thou take my shadow's property,
That hastes away when I come nigh.⁸
Else stay till death hath blinded me,
And then I will bequeath myself to thee.

c a . 1 6 1 2 - 2 4 1 6 5 7

6. This poem replies to “A Blackmore Maid Wootradition of debating the cause and value of blacking a Fair Boy,” which King’s friend Henry Rainness; cf. Thomas Campion, “Follow Thy Fair Sun” olds had translated from a Latin poem by George (p. 279); Mary Wroth’s Pamphilia to Amphilanthus
Herbert (1593—1633; for Herbert’s English poems, 22 (p. 348); Edward Herbert’s sonnets about see pp. 367—85). That poem’s speaker, modeled in blackness (p. 346); and John Milton’s “II Pensepart on the “black but comely” female speaker in roso,” lines 17 - 20 (p. 406).

the biblical Song of Solomon (1.5), argues that

7. Causing wonder or amazement; but also, omi-“Love does in dark shades delight.” King’s “boy,” nous or unnatural.

unlike the biblical lover, scorns the wooing

8. See [that] you adopt my shadow’s characteristic maiden. The poem participates in a Renaissance of hastening away when I come near.

3 6 7

GEORGE HERBERT

1593-1633

FROM THE TEMPLE: SACRED POEMS AND PRIVATE EJACULATIONS¹

The Altar²

A broken A L T A R, Lord, thy servant rears,

Made of a heart, and cemented with tears:

Whose parts are as thy hand did frame;

No workman's tool hath touched the same.³

5 A H E A R T alone

Is such a stone,

As nothing but

Thy power doth cut.

Wherefore each part

io Of my hard heart

Meets in this frame,

To praise thy Name:

That, if I chance to hold my peace,

These stones to praise thee may not cease.⁴

15 Oh let thy blessed S A C R I F I C E be mine,

And sanctify this A L T A R to be thine.

Redemption⁵

Having been tenant long to a rich lord,

Not thriving, I resolved to be bold,

And make a suit unto him, to afford⁰ grant

A new small-rented lease, and cancel th' old.⁶

1. Posthumously published in 1633, The Temple evoked by its title. Its placement suggests that all includes 160 poems, which Herbert carefully of the following poems are offered as “sacrifices” arranged to dramatize the central Christian concept of the believer’s body as the “temple of the

3. A reference to the altar of uncut stone Holy Ghost” (Paul’s First Epistle to the Corinthians, 6.19). Designed to illustrate the myriad links between the human “temple” and the Church of

4. I.e., whether the poem is read or spoken, and England that Herbert served—its doctrines, its rituals, even the physical construction of its words to praise God. Here, as so often in Herbert’s churches—Herbert’s book begins with the poem “The Church Porch” and proceeds to a long section called “The Church,” from which the following poems are taken.

diately cry out.”

Since all of Herbert’s poems were published in 1633, we do not print the date for each one.

Christ’s death redeemed human beings from the

2. The first poem in the section of The Temple consequences of their sin.

called “The Church,” this poem, like “Easter

6. I.e., to ask for a new lease, with a smaller rent, Wings” below, is shaped to resemble the object and to cancel the old lease.

3 6 8 / G E O R G E H E R B E R T

5 In heaven at his manor I him sought;

They told me there that he was lately gone

About some land, which he had dearly bought

Long since on earth, to take possession.

I straight⁰ returned, and knowing his great birth, straightaway

10 Sought him accordingly in great resorts;⁰ gatherings, crowds

In cities, theaters, gardens, parks, and courts;

At length I heard a ragged noise and mirth

Of thieves and murderers; there I him espied,

Who straight, Your suit is granted, said, and died.

Easter Wings⁷

Lord, who createdst man in wealth and store,⁰ abundance

Though foolishly he lost the same,⁸

Decaying more and more

Till he became

5 Most poor:

With thee

O let me rise

As larks,⁹ harmoniously,

And sing this day thy victories:

10 Then shall the fall further the flight in me.¹

My tender age in sorrow did begin;

And still with sicknesses and shame

Thou didst so punish sin,

That I became 15 Most thin.

With thee

Let me combine,

And feel this day thy victory;

For, if I imp² my wing on thine,

20 Affliction shall advance the flight in me.

7. The shape of this “pattern poem” represents greater because the Fall from Eden occurred.

some part of the subject. Following this version,

The words “this day,” which are superfluous in

we reproduce the poem almost as it was first pub-

the metrical scheme of the poem, were perhaps lished. The stanzas were printed on two pages and included in the early editions to emphasize the arranged to suggest two birds flying upward, wings occasion, Easter. They are omitted, however, in the outspread.

only surviving manuscript book of Herbert’s

8. I.e., in the Fall from Eden.

poems.

9. Larks sing at sunrise.

2. A term from falconry: additional feathers were

1. I.e., paradoxically, the joy of Easter and “imped,” or grafted, onto the wing of a hawk to redemption from sin (the “flight” to heaven) is improve its power of flight.

AFFLICTION (I) / 369

Easter Wings

- * £

3 ^ g ? t & ^ £

H Q-

H t r

Q

sr j;

7] ” ^ S, ST c

w = !T § ? 3’

«-»

i—i cL

» sr

» P ^ 8 9- 3- R4 ? s - ” ^ s o r < e-cr

o

PT*

n

s ft

3

<•» ST. 2 c

g

r

»
pi
£» 3- 2. ^ s g. - - O
3-3
o 3.
3 ‘ 3 3
P 5. ft
^^^ O o M <w < o s? to » 3 ^ < I 3 s 1 3
*r
3 tr
o
»
o 3 f
^ tt * O 3
•1
3 Et> rf
sr a r»

n

<0 A> s » r. 3 2

(T O *

3* • •

sr

3

«-»

o

•

ST f ^

9

g

tjs. sr io

3g

3

o a 5-3

3 9

Sin (I)3

Lord, with what care hast thou begirt⁰ us round! girdled

Parents first season us: then schoolmasters

Deliver us to laws; they send us bound

To rules of reason, holy messengers,

5 Pulpits and Sundays, sorrow dogging sin,

Afflictions sorted, anguish of all sizes,

Fine nets and stratagems to catch us in,

Bibles laid open, millions of surprises,

Blessings beforehand, ties of gratefulness,

io The sound of glory ringing in our ears:
Without, our shame; within, our consciences;
Angels and grace, eternal hopes and fears.
Yet all these fences and their whole array
One cunning bosom-sin⁴ blows quite away.

Affliction (I)

When first thou didst entice to thee my heart,
I thought the service brave:⁰ splendid
So many joys I writ down for my part,

3. Herbert frequently used the same title for sev- them by adding numbers,

eral different poems; editors differentiate between 4. I.e., a sin within the heart.

3 7 0 / G E O R G E H E R B E R T

Besides what I might have

5 Out of my stock of natural delights,
Augmented with thy gracious benefits.

I looked on thy furniture so fine,

And made it fine to me;

Thy glorious household stuff did me entwine,

10 And tice⁰ me unto thee. entice

Such stars I counted mine: both heaven and earth

Paid me my wages in a world of mirth.

What pleasures could I want,⁰ whose king I served, lack

Where joys my fellows were?

15 Thus argued into hopes, my thoughts reserved

No place for grief or fear;

Therefore my sudden soul caught at the place,

And made her youth and fierceness seek thy face:

At first thou gav'st me milk and sweetnesses;
 20 I had my wish and way:
 My days were strawed⁰ with flowers and happiness; strewed
 There was no month but May.
 But with my years sorrow did twist and grow.
 And made a party unawares for woe.
 25 My flesh began unto my soul in pain,
 "Sicknesses cleave my bones;
 Consuming agues⁰ dwell in every vein, fevers
 And tune my breath to groans."
 Sorrow was all my soul; I scarce believed,
 30 Till grief did tell me roundly,⁰ that I lived. bluntly
 When I got health, thou took'st away my life,
 And more; for my friends die:
 My mirth and edge was lost: a blunted knife
 Was of more use than I.
 35 Thus thin and lean without a fence or friend,
 I was blown through with ev'ry storm and wind.
 Whereas my birth and spirit rather took
 The way that takes the town,⁵
 Thou didst betray me to a lingering book,
 40 And wrap me in a gown.⁰ theology's garb
 I was entangled in the world of strife,
 Before I had the power to change my life.
 5. An allusion to the career at court that Herbert Orders." Many poems of The Temple were com-had sought until 1625; his hopes for advancement posed after Herbert was ordained a deacon in disappointed, he “betook himself to a Retreat from 1626—a period during which he suffered from London” and resolved to “enter into Sacred ill-health.

P R A Y E R (I) / 3 7 1

Yet, for I t h r e a t e n e d o f t t h e s i e g e t o r a i s e ,

N o t s i m p e r i n g a l l m i n e a g e ,

45 T h o u o f t e n d i d s t w i t h a c a d e m i c p r a i s e

M e l t a n d d i s s o l v e m y r a g e .

I t o o k t h y s w e e t e n e d p i l l , t i l l I c a m e w h e r e

I c o u l d n o t g o a w a y , n o r p e r s e v e r e .

Y e t l e s t p e r c h a n c e I s h o u l d t o o h a p p y b e

50 I n m y u n h a p p i n e s s ,

T u r n i n g m y p u r g e 0 t o f o o d , t h o u t h r o w e s t
m e purgatio I n t o m o r e s i c k n e s s e s .

T h u s d o t h t h y p o w e r c r o s s - b i a s 6 m e , n o t m a k i n g T h i n e o w n g i f t g o o d , y e t m e f r o m m y w a y s t a k i n g .

55 N o w I a m h e r e , w h a t t h o u w i l t d o w i t h m e

N o n e o f m y b o o k s w i l l s h o w :

I r e a d , a n d s i g h , a n d w i s h I w e r e a t r e e ,

F o r s u r e t h e n I s h o u l d g r o w

T o f r u i t o r s h a d e ; a t l e a s t , s o m e b i r d w o u l d t r u s t

60 H e r h o u s e h o l d t o m e , a n d I s h o u l d b e j u s t .

Y e t , t h o u g h t h o u t r o u b l e s t m e , I m u s t b e m e e
k ; I n w e a k n e s s m u s t b e s t o u t : 7

W e l l , I w i l l c h a n g e t h e s e r v i c e , a n d g o s e e k

S o m e o t h e r m a s t e r o u t .

65 A h , m y d e a r G o d ! t h o u g h I a m c l e a n f o r g o t ,

Let me not love thee, if I love thee not.

Prayer (I)

Prayer, the church's banquet, angels' age,⁸

God's breath in man returning to his birth,

The soul in paraphrase, heart in pilgrimage,

The Christian plummet⁹ sounding heav'n and earth; 5 Engine against th' Almighty, sinner's tower,

Reversed thunder, Christ-side-piercing spear, The six-days' world transposing in an hour,

A kind of tune, which all things hear and fear;
Softness, and peace, and joy, and love, and bliss, io Exalted manna, 2 gladness of the best,

6. A term from the game of bowls: to alter the nat-

Paraphrase: usually a fuller, simpler version of a ural path of the ball. I.e., thy power frustrates.

text.

7. Cf. Malachi 3.13: "Your words have been stout

1. A musical term: shifting pitch or key. The "six against me, saith the Lord."

day's world" alludes to God's creation of the world

8. Prayer acquaints humans with the timeless in six days (Genesis 1).

existence of the "angels' age" (in contrast to finite

2. Spiritual nourishment, or food divinely suph u m a n life).

plied. M a n n a was the substance miraculously sup-

9. A plummet is a piece of metal attached to a line, plied as food to the Israelites during their time in used for sounding or measuring a vertical distance.

the wilderness (Exodus 16).

372 / G E O R G E H E R B E R T

H e a v e n i n o r d i n a r y , 3 m a n w e l l d r e s s e d ,

T h e M i l k y W a y , t h e b i r d o f P a r a d i s e , 4

C h u r c h b e l l s b e y o n d t h e s t a r s h e a r d , t h e s o u l ' s b l o o d ,
T h e l a n d o f s p i c e s ; s o m e t h i n g u n d e r s t o o d .

The Temper (I)

H o w s h o u l d I p r a i s e t h e e , L o r d ! h o w s h o u l d m y r h y m e s G l a d l y e n g r a v e t h y l o v e i n s t e e l ,

I f w h a t m y s o u l d o t h f e e l s o m e t i m e s ,

M y s o u l m i g h t e v e r 0 f e e l ! always

5 A l t h o u g h t h e r e w e r e s o m e f o r t y h e a v e n s , o r m o r e , S o m e t i m e s I p e e r a b o v e t h e m a l l ;

S o m e t i m e s I h a r d l y r e a c h a s c o r e ;

S o m e t i m e s t o h e l l I f a l l .

O r a c k m e n o t t o s u c h a v a s t e x t e n t ;

10 T h o s e d i s t a n c e s b e l o n g t o t h e e :

T h e w o r l d ' s t o o l i t t l e f o r t h y t e n t ,

A g r a v e t o o b i g f o r m e .

W i l t t h o u m e e t a r m s w i t h m a n , t h a t t h o u d o s t t s t r e t c h A c r u m b o f d u s t f r o m h e a v e n t o h e l l ?

15 W i l l g r e a t G o d m e a s u r e w i t h a w r e t c h ?

S h a l l h e t h y s t a t u r e s p e l l ?

O l e t m e , w h e n t h y r o o f m y s o u l h a t h i d ,

O l e t m e r o o s t a n d n e s t l e t h e r e ;

T h e n o f a s i n n e r t h o u a r t r i d ,

20 A n d I o f h o p e a n d f e a r .

Y e t t a k e t h y w a y ; f o r , s u r e , t h y w a y i s b e s t :

Stretch or contract me, thy poor debtor:

This is but tuning of my breast,

To make the music better.

25 Whether I fly with angels, fall with dust,

Thy hands made both, and I am there.

Thy power and love, my love and trust,

Make one place everywhere.

3. In the everyday course of things. More specific- divine service.

cally, “ordinary” also meant a daily allowance of 4. Perhaps chosen for its name, or for its brilliant food or an established order or form, as of the coloring.

THE WINDOWS / 373

Jordan (I)5

Who says that fictions only and false hair

Become a verse? Is there in truth no beauty?

Is all good structure in a winding stair?

May no lines pass, except they do their duty

5 Not to a true, but painted chair?6

Is it no verse, except enchanted groves

And sudden arbors shadow coarse-spun lines?7

Must purling0 streams refresh a lover's loves?
swirling Must all be veiled while he that reads,
divines,

10 Catching the sense at two removes?

Shepherds are honest people; let them sing:

Riddle who list,0 for me, and pull for prime:8 likes

I envy no man 's nightingale or spring;

Nor let them punish me with loss of rhyme,

15 Who plainly say, My God, My King.

The Windows

Lord, how can man preach thy eternal word?

He is a brittle crazy⁰ glass; flawed, distorting

Yet in thy temple thou dost him afford

This glorious and transcendent place,

5 To be a window, through thy grace.

But when thou dost anneal in glass⁹ thy story,

Making thy life to shine within

The holy preachers, then the light and glory

More reverend grows, and more doth win;

io Which else shows waterish, bleak, and thin.

Doctrine and life, colors and light, in one

When they combine and mingle, bring

A strong regard and awe; but speech alone

Doth vanish like a flaring thing,

15 And in the ear, not conscience, ring.¹

5. The only river of ancient Palestine; the Israel-

8. To draw a lucky card in the game of primero.

ites crossed it to enter the Promised Land, and Lines 11 — 12 have been variously interpreted; their

Christ was baptized in it. The title may also allude ambiguity and syntactical density work to complito the many windings of the Jordan.

cate the contrast Herbert seems to be drawing

6. It was customary to bow or “do one’s duty” to between a “plain” style (exemplified by the shep-

the king’s chair of state even when unoccupied;

herds) and the artificial, worldly style described in also, alludes to the false imitation critiqued by line 12. For me: as far as I'm concerned.

Plato in The Republic, book 10.

9. Fix the colors in stained glass, after painting, by

7. I.e., is it not true poetry unless enchanted heating.

groves and suddenly appearing trees (effects

1. The last stanza seems to challenge the Puritan sought by landscape architects) shade (but also belief in the efficacy of the spoken word.

overshadow) humble lines?

3 7 4 / G E O R G E H E R B E R T

Denial

W h e n m y d e v o t i o n s c o u l d n o t p i e r c e

T h y s i l e n t e a r s ,

T h e n w a s m y h e a r t b r o k e n , a s w a s m y v e r s e ;

M y b r e a s t w a s f u l l o f f e a r s

A n d d i s o r d e r .

M y b e n t t h o u g h t s , l i k e a b r i t t l e b o w ,

D i d f l y a s u n d e r :

E a c h t o o k h i s w a y ; s o m e w o u l d t o p l e a s u r e s g o , S o m e t o t h e w a r s a n d t h u n d e r

O f a l a r m s .

“A s g o o d g o a n y w h e r e , ” t h e y s a y ,

“A s t o b e n u m b

B o t h k n e e s a n d h e a r t , i n c r y i n g n i g h t a n d d a y ,

Come, come, my God, O come!

B u t n o hearing.”

O t h a t t h o u s h o u l d s t g i v e d u s t a t o n g u e

T o c r y t o t h e e ,

A n d t h e n n o t h e a r i t c r y i n g ! A l l d a y l o n g

M y h e a r t w a s i n m y k n e e , 2

B u t n o hearing.

T h e r e f o r e m y s o u l l a y o u t o f s i g h t ,

U n t u n e d , u n s t r u n g :

M y f e e b l e s p i r i t , u n a b l e t o l o o k r i g h t ,

L i k e a n i p p e d b l o s s o m , h u n g

D i s c o n t e n t e d .

O c h e e r a n d t u n e m y h e a r t l e s s b r e a s t ,

D e f e r n o t i m e ;

T h a t s o t h y f a v o r s g r a n t i n g m y r e q u e s t ,

T h e y a n d m y m i n d m a y c h i m e , 0 r i n g t o g e t h e r , a g r e e A n d m e n d m y r h y m e .

Vanity (I)

T h e f l e e t a s t r o n o m e r c a n b o r e 0 - p i e r c e

A n d t h r e a d t h e s p h e r e s 3 w i t h h i s q u i c k - p i e r c i n g m i n d : H e v i e w s t h e i r s t a t i o n s , w a l k s f r o m d o o r t o d o o r , S u r v e y s , a s i f h e h a d d e s i g n e d

2. I.e., my heart was bowed and bent in reverence, heavenly bodies, according to Ptolemaic astron-like my knee. omy; they were thought to produce angelic music

3. Concentric transparent shells containing the as they turned.

V I R T U E / 3 7 5

5 T o m a k e a p u r c h a s e t h e r e ; h e s e e s t h e i r d a n c e s ,

A n d k n o w e t h l o n g b e f o r e

Both their full-eyed aspects, 4 and secret glances.

The nimble diver with his side⁵

Cuts through the working waves, that he may fetch¹⁰ His dearly-earned pearl, which God did hide On purpose from the venturous wretch;

That he might save his life, and also hers

Who with excessive pride

Her own destruction and his danger wears.

¹⁵ The subtle chymic⁰ can divest chemist

And strip the creature naked, till he find

The callow⁰ principles within their nest: bald, immature There he imparts to them his mind,

Admitted to their bed-chamber, ⁶ before

²⁰ They appear trim and dressed

To ordinary suitors at the door.

What hath not man sought out and found,

But his dear God? who yet his glorious law

Embosoms in us, mellowing the ground

²⁵ With showers and frosts, with love and awe,

So that we need not say, "Where's this command?"

Poor man, thou searchest round

To find out death, but missest life a hand.

Virtue

Sweet day, so cool, so calm, so bright,

The bridal of the earth and sky:

The dew shall weep thy fall tonight;

For thou must die.

5 Sweet rose, whose hue, angry and brave,⁷

Bids the rash gazer wipe his eye:

Thy root is ever in its grave,

And thou must die.

Sweet spring, full of sweet days and roses,

io A box where sweets compacted lie; perfumes

My music shows ye have your closes, ⁸

And all must die.

4. The relative positions of the heavenly bodies as is forming them according to his own intellect they appear to an observer on Earth at a given time, (“imparts to them his mind”) rather than discovering their supposed influence on earthly matters. ering their God-given reality.

5. I.e., swimming on his side.

7. Splendid. Angry: i.e., red, the color of anger.

6. Herbert implies that the chemist examining

8. A close is a cadence, the conclusion of a musical strain. creatures’ inner natures in an overly intimate way

376 / GEORGE HERBERT

Only a sweet and virtuous soul,

Like seasoned timber, never gives;

15 But though the whole world turn to coal, ⁹

Then chiefly lives.

Man

My God, I heard this day

That none doth build a stately habitation,

B u t h e t h a t m e a n s t o d w e l l t h e r e i n .

W h a t h o u s e m o r e s t a t e l y h a t h t h e r e b e e n ,

5 O r c a n b e , t h a n i s M a n ? t o 0 w h o s e c r e a t i o n
*compared to All t h i n g s a r e i n d e c a y .

F o r M a n i s e v e r y t h i n g ,

A n d m o r e : h e i s a t r e e , y e t b e a r s m o r e f r u i t ; 1

A b e a s t , y e t i s o r s h o u l d b e m o r e :

i o R e a s o n a n d s p e e c h w e o n l y b r i n g .

P a r r o t s m a y t h a n k u s , i f t h e y a r e n o t m u t e ,

T h e y g o u p o n t h e s c o r e . 2

M a n i s a l l s y m m e t r y ,

F u l l o f p r o p o r t i o n s , o n e l i m b t o a n o t h e r ,

15 A n d a l l t o a l l t h e w o r l d b e s i d e s : 3

E a c h p a r t m a y c a l l t h e f u r t h e s t , b r o t h e r ;

F o r h e a d w i t h f o o t h a t h p r i v a t e a m i t y , 0 friendship A n d b o t h w i t h m o o n s a n d t i d e s . 4

N o t h i n g h a t h g o t s o f a r ,

20 B u t m a n h a t h c a u g h t a n d k e p t i t , a s h i s p r e y .

H i s e y e s d i s m o u n t 0 t h e h i g h e s t s t a r : bring down to Earth H e i s i n l i t t l e a l l t h e s p h e r e . 0 *universe

H e r b s g l a d l y c u r e o u r f l e s h , b e c a u s e t h a t t h e y
F i n d t h e i r a c q u a i n t a n c e t h e r e .

25 F o r u s t h e w i n d s d o b l o w ,

T h e e a r t h d o t h r e s t , h e a v e n m o v e , a n d f o u n t a i n s f l o w .

N o t h i n g w e s e e b u t m e a n s o u r g o o d ,

A s o u r d e l i g h t o r a s o u r t r e a s u r e :

T h e w h o l e i s e i t h e r o u r c u p b o a r d o f f o o d , 30 O r c a b i n e t o f p l e a s u r e .

9. An allusion to Judgment Day, when the world

God's hidden will—with the tree's natural cycle of will end in a great fire (2 Peter 3.10).

growth.

1. This line presents a serious textual problem,
2. "Man" is the only creature with "reason and since all early printed versions of the poem have speech"; the parrot may seem to be an exception, "no" instead of "more" "fruit." We follow the read-but it talks on credit ("upon the score"), i.e., ing of the one surviving manuscript, which Herbert because humans taught it how. saw, but the alternate reading has strong claims.
3. I.e., humanity is also symmetrical to—a micro- See, for instance, "Affliction (I)," lines 57—60 cosm of—the world. (p. 371), where Herbert contrasts the uncertainty
4. Refers to the notion that parts of the body are of h u m a n "fruitfulness"—dependent partly on affected by the motions of the moon and stars.

L I F E / 3 7 7

T h e s t a r s h a v e u s t o b e d ;

N i g h t d r a w s t h e c u r t a i n , w h i c h t h e s u n w i t h d r a w s ; M u s i c a n d l i g h t a t t e n d o u r h e a d .

A l l t h i n g s u n t o o u r f l e s h a r e k i n d 0 kin

35 I n t h e i r d e s c e n t a n d b e i n g ; t o o u r m i n d

I n t h e i r a s c e n t a n d c a u s e .

E a c h t h i n g i s f u l l o f d u t y : 5

W a t e r s u n i t e d a r e o u r n a v i g a t i o n ;

D i s t i n g u i s h e d , o u r h a b i t a t i o n ;

40 Below, our drink; above, our meat;
Both are our cleanliness. Hath one such beauty?

Then how are all things neat? 6

More servants wait on Man

Than he'll take notice of: in every path

45 He treads down that which doth befriend him 7

When sickness makes him pale and wan.

O mighty love! Man is one world, and hath

Another to attend him.

Since then, my God, thou hast

50 So brave a palace built, O dwell in it,

That it may dwell with thee at last!

Till then, afford us so much wit,

That, as the world serves us, we may serve thee,

And both thy servants be.

Life

I made a posy,^o while the day ran by:

bouquet; poem

“Here will I smell my remnant out, and tie remaining time

My life within this band.”

But Time did beckon to the flowers, and they 5 By noon most cunningly did steal away,

And withered in my hand.

My hand was next to them, and then my heart;

I took, without more thinking, in good part

Time's gentle admonition;

io Who did so sweetly death's sad taste convey,
Making my mind to smell my fatal day,
Yet sug'ring the suspicion.

5. I.e., all the elements serve God and humans.

or dew) is food.

Lines 38 - 40 : oceans ("waters united") are valuable

6. I.e., if one element can serve so abundantly, for navigation; the dividing of the waters ("disting-
how wonderful ("neat") is the sum of all things.
guished") during the Creation allowed humans to

7. I.e., he treads down the herb that cures ill-live on Earth (Genesis 1.6). Water on Earth processes.

vides drink, while water from "above" (i.e., manna

378 / GEORGE HERBERT

Farewell dear flowers, sweetly your time yespent, Fit, while ye lived, for smell or ornament,
nt,

15 And after death for cures. 8

Ifollow straight without complaints or grief,

Since, if my scent be good, I care not if

It be as short as yours.

Artillery

As I one evening sat before my cell,

Me thought a star did shoot into my lap. it seemed to me I rose and shook my clothes, as know-wing well

That from small fires comes oft no small mishap;
5 When suddenly I heard one say,

"Do as thousest, disobey,

Expel good motions from thy breast,
Which have the face of fire, but end in rest.“9
I, who had heard of music in the spheres, 1 10

But not of speech in stars, began to muse;
But turning to my God, whose ministers
The stars and all things are: “If I refuse,
Dread Lord,” said I, “so oft my good,
Then I refuse not ev’n with blood
15

To wash away my stubborn thought;
For I will do or suffer what I ought.
“But I have also stars and shooters too,
Born where thy servants both artilleries use.
My tears and prayers night and day do woo
20 And work up to thee; yet thou dost refuse.
Not but I am (I must say still)

Much more obliged to do thy will Than thou to grant mine; but because Thy promise now hath ev’n set thee thy laws.
25” Then we are shooters both, and thou dost deign 0

condescend

To enter combat with us, and contest
With thine own clay. But I would parley fain:2
Shun not my arrows, and behold my breast.
Yet if thou shunnest, I am thine:
BO I must be so, if I am mine.

T h e r e i s n o a r t i c l i n g 0 w i t h t h e e :

negotiating

I a m b u t f i n i t e , y e t t h i n e i n f i n i t e l y . ”

8. Flowers were sometimes used as an ingredient

1. The spheres of Ptolemaic astronomy, concentric transparent shells containing the heavenly

9. I.e., divine impulses, like falling stars, may have bodies, were thought to produce angelic music as the appearance of dangerous fires, but ultimately they turned.

end quietly.

2. Gladly speak. Clay: i.e., flesh.

T H E P U L L E Y / 3 7 9

The Collar³

I s t r u c k t h e b o a r d 0 a n d c r i e d , ” N o m o r e ; t a b l e I w i l l a b r o a d !

W h a t ? s h a l l I e v e r s i g h a n d p i n e ?

M y l i n e s a n d l i f e a r e f r e e , f r e e a s t h e r o a d ,

L o o s e a s t h e w i n d , a s l a r g e a s s t o r e . a b u n d a n c e

S h a l l I b e s t i l l i n s u i t ? 4

H a v e I n o h a r v e s t b u t a t h o r n

T o l e t m e b l o o d , a n d n o t r e s t o r e

W h a t I h a v e l o s t w i t h c o r d i a l 0 f r u i t ? l i f e - g i v i n g

S u r e t h e r e w a s w i n e

B e f o r e m y s i g h s d i d d r y i t ; t h e r e w a s c o r n

B e f o r e m y t e a r s d i d d r o w n i t .

I s t h e y e a r o n l y l o s t t o m e ?

H a v e I n o b a y s s t o c r o w n i t ,
N o f l o w e r s , n o g a r l a n d s g a y ? A l l b l a s t e d ?
A l l w a s t e d ?
N o t s o , m y h e a r t ; b u t t h e r e i s f r u i t ,
A n d t h o u h a s t h a n d s .
R e c o v e r a l l t h y s i g h - b l o w n a g e
O n d o u b l e p l e a s u r e s : l e a v e t h y c o l d d i s p u t e
O f w h a t i s f i t a n d n o t . F o r s a k e t h y c a g e , T h y r o p e o f s a n d s , 6
W h i c h p e t t y t h o u g h t s h a v e m a d e , a n d m a d e e t o t h e e G o o d c a b l e , t o e n f o r c e a n d d r a w ,
A n d b e t h y l a w ,
W h i l e t h o u d i d s t w i n k ° a n d w o u l d s t n o t s e e .
shut your eyes A w a y ! t a k e h e e d ;
I w i l l a b r o a d .
C a l l i n t h y d e a t h ' s - h e a d 7 t h e r e ; t i e u p t h y f e a r s .
H e t h a t f o r b e a r s
T o s u i t a n d s e r v e h i s n e e d ,
D e s e r v e s h i s l o a d .”
B u t a s I r a v e d a n d g r e w m o r e f i e r c e a n d w i l d
A t e v e r y w o r d ,
M e t h o u g h t I h e a r d o n e c a l l i n g , Child
A n d I r e p l i e d , My Lord .

The Pulley⁸

W h e n G o d a t f i r s t m a d e m a n ,
H a v i n g a g l a s s o f b l e s s i n g s s t a n d i n g b y ,

3. A band of metal fixed round a prisoner's neck;

“petty thoughts” have made into “good” (or strong) also, something worn about the neck as a badge of cable.

servitude, as a priest wears a collar to show his

7. A memento mori, or representation of a human service to God. Also, perhaps, a pun on cholera, skull intended to serve as a reminder that all anger.

humans must die.

4. I.e., in attendance upon someone for a favor.

8. A simple mechanical device, made of a rope, a

5. A laurel garland symbolizing poetic fame.

wheel, and sometimes a block, used for changing

6. I.e., the restrictions on behavior, which the the direction of a pulling force to lift weights.

380 / GEORGE HERBERT

“Let us,” said he, “pour on him all we can.

Let the world’s riches, which dispersed lie,

5 Contract into a span.”⁹

So strength first made a way;

Then beauty flowed, then wisdom, honor,
pleasure.

When almost all was out, God made a stay,

Perceiving that, alone of all his treasure,

10 Rest in the bottom lay. remainder; repose

“For if I should,” said he,

” Bestow this jewel also on my creature,

He would adore my gifts instead of me,

And rest in Nature, not the God of Nature;

15 So both should losers be.

“Yet let him keep the rest,
But keep them with repining restlessness.
Let him be rich and weary, that at least,
If goodness lead him not, yet weariness
20 May toss him to my breast.”

The Flower

How fresh, oh Lord, how sweet and clean
Are thy returns! even as the flowers in spring;
To which, besides their own demean, 1
The late-past frosts tributes of pleasure bring.

5 Grief melts away

Like snow in May,

As if there were no such cold thing.

Who would have thought my shriveled heart

Could have recovered greenness? It was gone to Quite underground; as flowers depart

To see their mother-root, when they have blown,
0 bloomed Where they together

All the hard weather,

Dead to the world, keep house unknown.

15 These are thy wonders, Lord of power,

Killing and quickening, 0 bringing down to hell reviving And up to heaven in an hour;

Making a chiming of a passing-bell. 2

We say a miss

20 This or that is:

Thy word is all, if we could spell.

9. A small space; the distance from the end of the the estate of one's own beauty or pleasure.

thumb to the end of the little finger of a spread

2. A monotone bell tolled to announce a death; a hand.

chiming offers a pleasing variety.

1. Demeanor or bearing; also demesne, estate, i.e.,

THE FORERUNNERS / 381

O h that I o n c e p a s t c h a n g i n g w e r e ,

F a s t i n t h y P a r a d i s e , w h e r e n o f l o w e r c a n w i t h e r !

M a n y a s p r i n g I s h o o t u p f a i r ,

25 O f f e r i n g 0 a t h e a v e n , g r o w i n g a n d g r o a n i n g t h i t h e r ; a i m i n g N o r d o t h m y f l o w e r

W a n t 0 a s p r i n g s h o w e r , l a c k ; d e s i r e

M y s i n s a n d I j o i n i n g t o g e t h e r . 3

B u t w h i l e I g r o w i n a s t r a i g h t l i n e ,

B O S t i l l u p w a r d s b e n t , a s i f h e a v e n w e r e m i n e o w n , T h y a n g e r c o m e s , a n d I d e c l i n e :

W h a t f r o s t t o t h a t ? w h a t p o l e i s n o t t h e z o n e

W h e r e a l l t h i n g s b u r n ,

W h e n t h o u d o s t t u r n ,

35 A n d t h e l e a s t f r o w n o f t h i n e i s s h o w n ? 4

A n d n o w i n a g e I b u d a g a i n ,

A f t e r s o m a n y d e a t h s I l i v e a n d w r i t e ;

I o n c e m o r e s m e l l t h e d e w a n d r a i n ,

A n d r e l i s h v e r s i n g . O h , m y o n l y l i g h t ,

40 I t c a n n o t b e

T h a t I a m h e

O n w h o m t h y t e m p e s t s f e l l a l l n i g h t .

T h e s e a r e t h y w o n d e r s , L o r d o f l o v e ,

T o m a k e u s s e e w e a r e b u t f l o w e r s t h a t g l i d e ; 0

pass away silently

4 5 Which when we once can find and prove,0

experience

Thou hast a garden for us where to bide;

Who would be more,

Swelling through store,0 possessions

Forfeit their Paradise by their pride.

The Forerunners

The harbingers⁵ are come. See, see their mark:

White is their color, and behold my head. 6

But must they have my brain? Must they dispark⁷

Those sparkling notions, which therein were bred?

5 Must dullness turn me to a clod?

Yet have they left me, *Thou art still my God.*⁸

Good men ye be, to leave me my best room,

Ev'n all my heart, and what is lodged there:

3. I.e., the tears of contrition caused by the “join-

6. I.e., the poet has been marked by the appearing” together of the poet’s sins and his conscience.

ance of white hairs, a sign that all of his “sparkling

4. I.e., what cold compares to God’s anger? What notions” (line 4) must be dispossessed, to make chill would not seem like the heat of the equator, room for his coming Lord.

compared to God’s wrath?

7. I.e., dis-park, to turn out, as deer from a park;

5. The advance agents of the king and his party there may also be a play on dis-spark.

on a royal progress, or tour. They marked with

8. Echoes Psalm 31.14: "But I trusted in thee, O chalk the doors of those dwellings where the court Lord: I said, Thou art my God." See also Christ's would be accommodated.

lament to God in Matthew 27.46 and Mark 15.34.

382 / G E O R G E H E R B E R T

I p a s s n o t , 9 I , w h a t o f t h e r e s t b e c o m e ,

10 S o Thou art still my God be out of fear.

H e w i l l b e p l e a s e d w i t h t h a t d i t t y ;

A n d i f I p l e a s e h i m , I w r i t e f i n e a n d w i t t y .

F a r e w e l l s w e e t p h r a s e s , l o v e l y m e t a p h o r s .

B u t w i l l y e l e a v e m e t h u s ? W h e n y e b e f o r e

15 O f s t e w s a n d b r o t h e l s o n l y k n e w t h e d o o r s ,

T h e n d i d I w a s h y o u w i t h m y t e a r s , a n d m o r e ,

B r o u g h t y o u t o c h u r c h w e l l d r e s s e d a n d c l a d :

M y G o d m u s t h a v e m y b e s t , e v ' n a l l I h a d .

L o v e l y e n c h a n t i n g l a n g u a g e , s u g a r - c a n e , 20 H o n e y o f r o s e s , w i t h e r w i l t t h o u f l y ?

H a t h s o m e f o n d l o v e r ' t i c e d t h e e t o t h y b a n e ? 1

A n d w i l t t h o u l e a v e t h e c h u r c h a n d l o v e a s t y ? 2

F i e , t h o u w i l t s o i l t h y b r o i d e r e d c o a t ,

A n d h u r t t h y s e l f , a n d h i m t h a t s i n g s t h e n o t e .

25 L e t f o o l i s h l o v e r s , i f t h e y w i l l l o v e d u n g ,

W i t h c a n v a s , n o t w i t h a r r a s , * c l o t h e t h e i r s h a m e : L e t f o l l y s p e a k i n h e r o w n n a t i v e t o n g u e .

T r u e b e a u t y d w e l l s o n h i g h : o u r s i s a f l a m e

B u t b o r r o w e d t h e n c e t o l i g h t u s t h i t h e r .

B O B e a u t y a n d b e a u t e o u s w o r d s s h o u l d g o
t o g e t h e r .

Y e t i f y o u g o , I p a s s n o t ; t a k e y o u r w a y :

F o r Thou art still my God i s a l l t h a t y e

P e r h a p s w i t h m o r e e m b e l l i s h m e n t c a n s a y .

G o , b i r d s o f s p r i n g : l e t w i n t e r h a v e h i s f e e ;

35 L e t a b l e a k p a l e n e s s c h a l k t h e d o o r ,

S o a l l w i t h i n b e l i v e l i e r t h a n b e f o r e .

Discipline

T h r o w a w a y t h y r o d ,^o punishment

T h r o w a w a y t h y w r a t h :

O m y G o d ,

T a k e t h e g e n t l e p a t h .

5 F o r m y h e a r t ' s d e s i r e

U n t o t h i n e i s b e n t :

I a s p i r e

T o a f u l l c o n s e n t .

N o t a w o r d o r l o o k

i o I a f f e c t t o o w n ,

9. I care not. I.e., all the other thoughts in the art still my God.”

house (my mind, my soul) can be turned out of

1. Destruction. Ticed: enticed.

doors, as long as you leave my heart (“my best

2. Pigsty; also, a place of moral contamination.

room”) and its one inhabitant, the thought “Thou

3. I.e., with coarse cloth, not with tapestry.

THE ELIXIR / 383

B u t b y b o o k ,

A n d t h y b o o k 4 a l o n e .

T h o u g h I f a i l , I w e e p :

T h o u g h I h a l t i n p a c e ,

15 Y e t I c r e e p

T o t h e t h r o n e o f g r a c e .

T h e n l e t w r a t h r e m o v e ;

L o v e w i l l d o t h e d e e d :

F o r w i t h l o v e

20 S t o n y h e a r t s w i l l b l e e d .

L o v e i s s w i f t o f f o o t ;

L o v e ' s a m a n o f w a r , 5

A n d c a n s h o o t ,

A n d c a n h i t f r o m f a r .

25 W h o c a n ' s c a p e h i s b o w ?

T h a t w h i c h w r o u g h t o n t h e e ,

B r o u g h t t h e e l o w ,

N e e d s m u s t w o r k o n m e .

T h r o w a w a y t h y r o d ;

30 T h o u g h m a n f r a i l t i e s h a t h ,

T h o u a r t G o d :

T h r o w a w a y t h y w r a t h .

The Elixir⁶

T e a c h m e , m y G o d a n d K i n g ,

I n a l l t h i n g s t h e e t o s e e ,

A n d w h a t I d o i n a n y t h i n g ,

T o d o i t a s f o r t h e e .

N o t rudely, as a b e a s t ,
T o r u n i n t o a n a c t i o n ;
B u t s t i l l t o m a k e t h e e p r e p o s s e s t , 7
A n d g i v e i t h i s ° p e r f e c t i o n . its
A m a n t h a t l o o k s o n g l a s s , i o O n i t m a y s t a y h i s e y e ,
O r , i f h e p l e a s e t h , t h r o u g h i t p a s s ,
A n d t h e n t h e h e a v e n e s p y .

4. I.e., the Bible. By book: i.e., as an actor follows long life indefinitely; here, it is identified with the a playbook.

“famous stone” (line 21) believed by the alchemists

5. A song by Moses in Exodus 15 calls the Lord a to turn other metals to gold. Figuratively, the quin- “man of war”; also, a possible reference to the clas- tessence or soul of a thing.

sical image of the god Cupid and his arrow.

7. I.e., always to give thee a prior claim.

6. An elixir is a drug or essence supposed to pro-

384 / G E O R G E H E R B E R T

All m a y o f t h e e p a r t a k e :

N o t h i n g c a n b e s o m e a n

15 W h i c h w i t h h i s t i n c t u r e (for thy sake)

W i l l n o t g r o w b r i g h t a n d c l e a n . 8

A s e r v a n t w i t h t h i s c l a u s e

M a k e s d r u d g e r y d i v i n e :

W h o s w e e p s a r o o m a s f o r t h y l a w s ,

20 M a k e s t h a t a n d t h ’ a c t i o n f i n e .

T h i s i s t h e f a m o u s s t o n e

T h a t t u r n e t h a l l t o g o l d ;

F o r t h a t w h i c h G o d d o t h t o u c h 9 a n d o w n

C a n n o t f o r l e s s b e t o l d .^o measured

D e a t h

D e a t h , t h o u w a s t o n c e a n u n c o u t h h i d e o u s t h i n g , N o t h i n g b u t b o n e s ,

T h e s a d e f f e c t o f s a d d e r g r o a n s :

T h y m o u t h w a s o p e n , b u t t h o u c o u l d s t n o t s i n g .

5 F o r w e c o n s i d e r e d t h e e a s a t s o m e s i x

O r t e n y e a r s h e n c e ,

A f t e r t h e l o s s o f l i f e a n d s e n s e ,

F l e s h b e i n g t u r n e d t o d u s t , a n d b o n e s t o s t i c k s .

W e l o o k e d o n t h i s s i d e o f t h e e , s h o o t i n g s h o r t ;

10 W h e r e w e d i d f i n d

T h e s h e l l s o f f l e d g e s o u l s l e f t b e h i n d ,

D r y d u s t , w h i c h s h e d s n o t e a r s , b u t m a y e x t o r t .¹

B u t s i n c e o u r S a v i o r ' s d e a t h d i d p u t s o m e b l o o
d I n t o t h y f a c e ,

15 T h o u a r t g r o w n f a i r a n d f u l l o f g r a c e ,

M u c h i n r e q u e s t , m u c h s o u g h t f o r a s a g o o d .

F o r w e d o n o w b e h o l d t h e e g a y a n d g l a d ,

A s a t D o o m s d a y ; 0 Judgment Day

W h e n s o u l s s h a l l w e a r t h e i r n e w a r r a y ,

20 A n d a l l t h y b o n e s w i t h b e a u t y s h a l l b e c l a d .

8. I.e., nothing is so insignificant (“mean”) that it touchstone.

can't grow bright and clean for thy sake by means
1. "Fledge souls" that have left the body and gone of its tincture (an immaterial principle that trans-to heaven are like fledgling chicks that have left formed substances, according to alchemical the-the shell behind. The shell (i.e., the corpse) can ory).

draw ("extort") tears from survivors, although it
9. To test (gold) for purity by rubbing it with a cannot shed them itself.

A S O N G / 3 8 5

T h e r e f o r e w e c a n g o d i e a s s l e e p , a n d t r u s t
H a l f t h a t w e h a v e
U n t o a n h o n e s t f a i t h f u l g r a v e ;
M a k i n g o u r p i l l o w s e i t h e r d o w n , o r d u s t .

Love (III)2

L o v e b a d e m e w e l c o m e : y e t m y s o u l d r e w back,

G u i l t y o f d u s t a n d s i n .

B u t q u i c k - e y e d L o v e , o b s e r v i n g m e g r o w slack"*

F r o m m y f i r s t e n t r a n c e i n ,

5 D r e w n e a r e r t o m e , s w e e t l y q u e s t i o n i n g
I f I l a c k e d a n y t h i n g .

"A g u e s t , " I a n s w e r e d , " w o r t h y t o b e h e r e " :

L o v e s a i d , " Y o u s h a l l b e h e . "

" I , t h e u n k i n d , u n g r a t e f u l ? A h , m y d e a r , 10 I c a n n o t l o o k o n t h e e . "

L o v e t o o k m y h a n d , a n d s m i l i n g d i d r e p l y ,

” W h o m a d e t h e e y e s b u t I ? ”

“Truth, Lord; b u t I h a v e m a r r e d t h e m ; l e t m y s h a m e G o w h e r e i t d o t h d e s e r v e . ”

15 “A n d k n o w y o u n o t , ” s a y s L o v e , “ w h o b o r e t h e b l a m e ? ” 4

“My d e a r , t h e n I w i l l s e r v e . ”

“Y o u m u s t s i t d o w n , ” s a y s L o v e , “ a n d t a s t e m y m e a t . ” 5

S o I d i d s i t a n d e a t .

T H O M A S C A R E W

ca. 1595-1640

A S o n g

A s k m e n o m o r e w h e r e J o v e l b e s t o w s ,

W h e n J u n e i s p a s t , t h e f a d i n g r o s e ;

F o r i n y o u r b e a u t y ’ s o r i e n t d e e p ,

T h e s e f l o w e r s , a s i n t h e i r c a u s e s , 2 s l e e p .

2. This is the last lyric in “The Church” both in a reference to the final Communion in heaven, the early Williams manuscript and in the 1633 edition of The Temple; some critics have therefore interpreted the poem as describing the soul’s reception into heaven.

reception into heaven.

1. The ruling god of Roman mythology.

3. I.e., become hesitant because of misgivings.

2. Aristotelian philosophy regarded that from

4. I.e., Christ, who took on the “blame” for h u m a n which a thing is made or comes into being as the beings' original sin.

“material cause” of the thing. The lady here is a

5. A reference to the sacrament of C o m m u n i o n summation of the previous summer and a cause of (according to Anglicans, the ritual taking of bread the next one. Orient: lustrous, but also “from the and wine in remembrance of Christ’s body); also, East.”

386 / T H O M A S C A R E W

5 A s k m e n o m o r e w h i t h e r d o t h s t r a y

T h e g o l d e n a t o m s o f t h e d a y ;

F o r i n p u r e l o v e h e a v e n d i d p r e p a r e

T h o s e p o w d e r s t o e n r i c h y o u r h a i r .

A s k m e n o m o r e w h i t h e r d o t h h a s t e

10 T h e n i g h t i n g a l e w h e n M a y i s p a s t ;

F o r i n y o u r s w e e t d i v i d i n g ^ t h r o a t

S h e w i n t e r s , a n d k e e p s w a r m h e r n o t e .

A s k m e n o m o r e w h e r e t h o s e s t a r s l i g h t ,

T h a t d o w n w a r d s f a l l i n d e a d o f n i g h t ;

15 F o r i n y o u r e y e s t h e y s i t , a n d t h e r e

F i x e d b e c o m e , a s i n t h e i r s p h e r e .

A s k m e n o m o r e i f e a s t o r w e s t

T h e p h o e n i x ⁴ b u i l d s h e r s p i c y n e s t ;

F o r u n t o y o u a t l a s t s h e f l i e s ,

20 A n d i n y o u r f r a g r a n t b o s o m d i e s .

1640

The Spring

Now that the winter's gone, the earth hath lost
 Her snow-white robes, and now no more the frost Candies the grass, or casts an icy cream
 ices Upon the silver lake or crystal stream;
 5 But the warm sun thaws the benumbed earth
 And makes it tender, gives a sacred birth
 To the dead swallow, 5 wakes in hollow tree
 The drowsy cuckoo and the humble bee.
 Now do a choir of chirping minstrels bring io In triumph to the world the youthful spring.
 The valleys, hills, and woods in rich array
 Welcome the coming of the longed-for May.
 Now all things smile: only my love doth lour,^o frown
 Nor hath the scalding noonday sun the power
 15 To melt that marble ice which still doth hold Her heart congealed, and makes her pity
 cold.

The ox, which lately did for shelter fly
 Into the stall, doth now securely lie
 In open fields; and love no more is made 20 By the fireside, but in the cooler shade:
 A myntasnowdoth with his Chloris 6 sleep

3. Harmonious (from division, an embellished spicy shrubs.

musical phrase).

5. Swallows were sacred to the Roman household

4. A legendary bird, the only one of its kind, rep-gods.

resented as living five hundred years in the Arabian

6. Conventional names for a shepherd and shep-desert, being consumed in fire, then rising anew herdess.

from its own ashes. Also said to build its nest from

SONG . T o M Y I N C O N S T A N T M I S T R E S S / 3 8 7

U n d e r a s y c a m o r e , a n d a l l t h i n g s k e e p
T i m e w i t h t h e s e a s o n . O n l y s h e d o t h c a r r y
J u n e i n h e r e y e s , i n h e r h e a r t J a n u a r y .

1 6 4 0

Mediocrity⁷ in Love Rejected

G i v e m e m o r e l o v e , o r m o r e d i s d a i n ;

T h e t o r r i d o r t h e f r o z e n z o n e

B r i n g e q u a l e a s e u n t o m y p a i n ;

T h e t e m p e r a t e a f f o r d s m e n o n e :

5 E i t h e r e x t r e m e , o f l o v e o r h a t e ,

I s s w e e t e r t h a n a c a l m e s t a t e . 0 condition

G i v e m e a s t o r m ; i f i t b e l o v e ,

L i k e D a n a e i n t h a t g o l d e n s h o w e r , 8

I s w i m i n p l e a s u r e ; i f i t p r o v e

i o D i s d a i n , t h a t t o r r e n t w i l l d e v o u r

M y v u l t u r e h o p e s ; a n d h e ' s p o s s e s s e d

O f h e a v e n t h a t ' s b u t f r o m h e l l r e l e a s e d .

T h e n c r o w n m y j o y s , o r c u r e m y p a i n ;

G i v e m e m o r e l o v e , o r m o r e d i s d a i n .

1 6 4 0

Song. To My Inconstant Mistress

W h e n t h o u , p o o r e x c o m m u n i c a t e

F r o m a l l t h e j o y s o f l o v e , s h a l t s e e

T h e full reward a n d g l o r i o u s fate
W h i c h m y s t r o n g faith shall p u r c h a s e m e ,
5 T h e n c u r s e t h i n e o w n i n c o n s t a n c y .
A fairer h a n d t h a n t h i n e shall c u r e
T h a t heart w h i c h thy false o a t h s did w o u n d ,
A n d to my soul a s o u l m o r e pure
T h a n t h i n e shall b y Love's h a n d b e b o u n d ,
10 A n d b o t h with equal glory c r o w n e d .
T h e n shalt t h o u w e e p , e n t r e a t , c o m p l a i n
T o Love, as I did o n c e to t h e e ;
W h e n all thy tears shall be as v a i n

7. Temperance, moderation.

pretation. Danae was the daughter of the king of

8. Jove, the ruling god in Roman mythology, frequently left Juno, his sister and wife, to pursue other women; whether his actions constituted to her in the form of a shower of gold, and as a seduction or rape often depends on the particular result gave birth to Perseus.

account of a common myth, as well as on inter-

388 / T H O M A S C A R E W

A s m i n e w e r e t h e n , f o r t h o u shalt b e
15 D a m n e d f o r t h y false a p o s t a s y . 9
1 6 4 0

An Elegy upon the Death of the Dean of Paul's,
Dr. John Donne1

Can we not force from widowed poetry,
Now thou art dead, great Donne, one elegy
To crown thy hearse? Why yet did we not trust,
Though with unknaded dough-baked prose,
thy dust, 5 Such as the unscissored lect'ner 3 from the flower Of fading rhetoric, short-lived as his hour,

Dry as the sand that measures it, 4 should lay
Upon the ashes on the funeral day?

Have we no fortune, nor voice? Didst thou dispense 5

io Through all our language both the words and sense?

'Tis a sad truth. The pulpit may her plain

And sober Christian precepts still retain;

Doctrines it may, and wholesome uses, frame,
Grave homilies 0 and lectures; but the flame sermons 15 Of thy brave soul, that shot such heat and light

As burnt our earth and made our darkness bright, Committed holy rapes 6 upon our will,

Did through the eye the melting heart distill,
And the deep knowledge of dark truths so teach h 20 As sense might judge what fancy could not reach, 7

Must be desired forever. So the fire

That fills with spirit and heat the Delphic choir, 8

Which, kindled first by thy Promethean 9 breath, Glowed here awhile, lies quenched now win thy death.

25 The Muses' 1 garden, with pedantic weeds O'erspread, was purged by thee; the lazy see

d s

O f servile imitation thrown away,

A n d f r e s h i n v e n t i o n p l a n t e d ; t h o u d i d s t p a y

T h e d e b t s o f o u r p e n u r i o u s o b a n k r u p t a g e ; poverty-stricken 30 L i c e n t i o u s t h e f t s , t h a t m a k e p
o e t i c r a g e

A m i m i c f u r y , w h e n o u r s o u l s m u s t b e

9. Abandonment of one's allegiance, often to a doubts about various religious claims to truth in religious faith or god.

"Satire III" (p. 314) and other writings.

1. English poet (1 5 7 2 - 1 6 3 1 ; see pp. 2 9 3 - 3 2 2) .

4. I.e., the sand in an hourglass.

2. I.e., badly finished, flat.

5. Use up or lay out.

3. I.e., lecturer with uncut hair; in the first edi-

6. Forcible seizures. For Donne's use of the meta-tion, Carew wrote "church-man" instead of phor of a religious "rape," see Holy Sonnet 14
"lect'rer," and thus signalled an aim to distinguish
(p. 320).

this figure from Roman Catholic priests, whose

7. I.e., so that things too intangible and elevated hair was cut (tonsured) when they entered the even to be imagined might be made plain to sense.

Church. The line seems to have been altered to

8. I.e., the choir of poets. Delphi was the site of soften the critique of Protestant clergymen—an oracle of Apollo, the classical god of poetry.

implicit in the evocation of a “dry,” inadequate

9. In Greek mythology, Prometheus stole fire from the gods for the benefit of mortals.

Although Donne was born a Catholic, he later

1. In Greek mythology, nine sister goddesses who became a famous Anglican preacher; he expressed were sources of inspiration.

A N E L E G Y U P O N T H E D E A T H O F T H E D E A N O F P A U L ‘ S / 3 8 9

Possessed, or with Anacreon’s ecstasy,
Or Pindar’s,² not their own; the subtle cheat
Of sly exchanges, and the juggling feat
35 Of two-edged words, or whatsoever wrong
By ours was done the Greek or Latin tongue,
Thou hast redeemed, and opened us a mine
Of rich and pregnant fancy, drawn a line
Of masculine expression, which had good
40 Old Orpheus³ seen, or all the ancient brood
Our superstitious fools admire, and hold
Their lead more precious than thy burnished gold,
Thou hadst been their exchequer,⁰ and no more treasury
They in each other’s dung had searched for ore.
45 Thou shalt yield no precedence, but of time
And the blind fate of language, whose tuned chime
More charms the outward sense; yet thou mayest claim
From so great disadvantage greater fame,
Since to the awe of thy imperious wit

50 O u r troublesome language bends, made only fit
With her tough thick-ribbed hoops, to gird about Thy giant fancy, which had proved too stout
For their soft melting phrases.⁴ As in time
They had the start, so did they cull the prime 55 Buds of invention many a hundred year,
And left the rifled fields, besides the fear
To touch their harvest; yet from those bare lands
Of what is only thine, thy only hands
(And that their smallest work) have gleaned more 60 Than all those times and tongues could reap before.
But thou art gone, and thy strict laws will be Too hard for libertines in poetry.
They will recall the goodly exiled train
Of gods and goddesses, which in thy just reign
65 Were banished⁰ nobler poems; now with these banished from
The silenced tales i' th' *Metamorphoses*⁵
Shall stuff their lines and swell the windy page,
Till verse, refined by thee in this last age,
Turn ballad-rhyme, or those old idols be 70 Adored again with new apostasy.⁶
O pardon me, that break with untuned verse
The reverend silence that attends thy hearse,
Whose solemn awful⁰ murmurs were to thee, awestruck
More than these faint lines, a loud elegy,
75 That did proclaim in a dumb eloquence
The death of all the arts, whose influence,

Grown feeble, in these panting numbers lies
Gasping short-winded accents, and so dies:

2. Anacreon (ca. 582—ca. 485 B.C.E.) and Pindar
“wine” of his genius.

(ca. 522—ca. 438 B.C.E.) were famous Greek poets.

5. Earlier poets had drawn heavily on the stories

3. In Greek mythology, the son of one of the in Ovid’s Metamorphoses for the materials of their Muses and the greatest of poets and musicians.

poetry.

4. I.e., a metaphor describing Donne’s wit as a

6. Abandonment of one’s allegiance, especially to barrel maker bending hoops of metal around the a religious faith or a god.

390 / JAMES SHIRLEY

So doth the swiftly turning wheel not stand so In th’ instant we withdraw the moving hand,
But some small time retain a faint weak course
By virtue of the first impulsive force;
And so whilst I cast on thy funeral pile
Thy crown of bays,⁷ oh, let it crack awhile
85 And spit disdain, till the devouring flashes
Suck all the moisture up; then turn to ashes.
I will not draw thee envy to engross⁸
All thy perfections, or weep all the loss;
Those are too numerous for one elegy,
90 And this too great to be expressed by me.
Let others carve the rest; it shall suffice

I on thy grave this epitaph incise:

Here lies a king, that ruled as he thought fit

The universal monarchy of wit;

95 Here lie two flamens,^o and both those the best: priests

Apollo's⁹ first, at last the true God's priest.

1 6 3 3 , 1 6 4 0

J A M E S S H I R L E Y

1596-1666

FROM AJAX

Dirge¹

T h e glories of our blood and state

A r e s h a d o w s , n o t substantial things;

T h e r e is no armor against fate;

D e a t h lays his icy h a n d on kings.

5 S c e p t e r and c r o w n

M u s t t u m b l e d o w n

A n d in the dust be equal m a d e

W i t h the poor c r o o k e d scythe and spade.

S o m e m e n with swords m a y reap the f i e l d

io A n d plant fresh laurels² where they kill,

B u t their strong nerves at last m u s t yield;

T h e y t a m e but o n e a n o t h e r still.

Early or late

7. A crown of bays, or laurel, was the traditional tention of Ajax and Ulysses for the Armor of Achilles, reward of the victor in a poetic competition.

which retells a story from Ovid's Metamorphoses.

8. Write, copy out, with a pun on the word's eco-

2. The laurel's evergreen leaves, and also its flow-nomic meanings: to buy up, monopolize.

ers (cf. "garlands," line 17), symbolized military

9. I.e., the god of poetry's.

victory or success in poetic competitions.

1. This poem concludes Shirley's play The Con-

P S A L M 5 8 / 3 9 1

T h e y s t o o p t o f a t e

15 A n d m u s t g i v e u p t h e i r m u r m u r i n g b r e a t h ,

W h e n t h e y , p a l e c a p t i v e s , c r e e p t o d e a t h .

T h e g a r l a n d s w i t h e r o n y o u r b r o w ,

T h e n b o a s t n o m o r e y o u r m i g h t y d e e d s ;

U p o n d e a t h ' s p u r p l e a l t a r n o w

20 S e e w h e r e t h e v i c t o r - v i c t i m b l e e d s .

Y o u r h e a d s m u s t c o m e

T o t h e c o l d t o m b ;

O n l y t h e a c t i o n s o f t h e j u s t

S m e l l s w e e t a n d b l o s s o m i n t h e i r d u s t .

1 6 5 9

T H E M A S S A C H U S E T T S B A Y P S A L M B O O K *

P s a l m 5 8 1

i

D o y e , o c o n g r e g a t i o n ,

i n d e e d s p e a k r i g h t e o u s n e s s ?

a n d o y e s o n s o f e a r t h l y m e n , d o y e j u d g e u n r i g h t n e s s ?

2

5 Y e a y o u i n h e a r t w i l l w o r k i n g b e

i n j u r i o u s - w i c k e d n e s s ;
a n d i n t h e l a n d y o u w i l l w e i g h o u t y o u r h a n d s ‘ v i o l e n c e .

3

T h e w i c k e d a r e e s t r a n g e d f r o m i o t h e w o m b , t h e y g o a s t r a y
a s s o o n a s e v e r t h e y a r e b o r n e ; u t t e r i n g l i e s a r e t h e y .

4

T h e i r p o i s o n ‘ s l i k e s e r p e n t ’ s p o i s o n ; t h e y l i k e d e a f a s p , 0 h e r e a r small poisonous snake
15 t h a t s t o p s . T h o u g h c h a r m e r w i s e l y c h a r m
,
h i s v o i c e s h e w i l l n o t h e a r .

*The first book published in the new colony of Psalter was one of the two most commonly owned Massachusetts, compiled by twelve Puritan clerbooks in New England (the other being The New gymen who sought (as John Cotton explained in England Primer).

his preface) a plainer, more literal rendering of the
1. Cf. the translations of this Psalm and the next Hebrew than occurs in other Protestant translaone by Mary Sidney (pp. 225—26), Isaac Watts
tions of the Psalms. Often reprinted, in England (pp. 592-94), and Christopher Smart (pp. 684 - and Scotland as well as in North America, this 86).

392 / THE MASSACHUSETTS BAY PSALM BOOK

5

Within their mouth do thou their teeth break out, O God most strong,
do thou Jehovah, the great teeth 20 break of the lion's young.

6

As waters let them melt away,
that run continually:
and when he bends his shafts, let them
as cut asunder be.

7

25 Like to a snail that melts, so let each of them pass away;
like to a woman's untimely birth
see sun that never they may.

8

Before your pots can feel the thorns, 30 take them away shall he,
as with a whirlwind both living,
and in his jealousy.

9

The righteous will rejoice when as the vengeance he doth see;
35 his feet wash shall he in the blood of them that wicked be.

i o

So that a man shall say, surely for righteous, there is fruit:
sure there's a God that in the earth 40 judgement doth execute.

Psalm 114

When Israel did depart th'Egyptians from among,
and Jacob's house from a people that were of a strange tongue,

Judah his holy place, Israel's dominion was.

The sea it saw and fled; Jordan² was forced back to pass.

5 The mountains they did leap upwards like unto rams;
the little hills also they did leap up like unto lambs.

Thou sea what made thee fly? thou Jordan, back to go?

Ye mountains that ye skipped like rams, like lambs ye hills
also?

2. River in Palestine that empties into the Dead Sea.

O F T H E L A S T V E R S E S I N T H E B O O K / 3 9 3

E a r t h a t G o d ' s p r e s e n c e d r e a d ; a t J a c o b ' s G o d ' s p r e s e n c e ; 3

10 T h e r o c k w h o t u r n s t o w a t e r s l a k e , s p r i n g s h e f r o m f l i n t s e n d s t h e n c e . 4

1 6 4 0

E D M U N D W A L L E R

1606-1687

Song

G o , l o v e l y r o s e !

T e l l h e r t h a t w a s t e s h e r t i m e a n d m e

T h a t n o w s h e k n o w s ,

W h e n I r e s e m b l e 0 h e r t o t h e e , liken

5 H o w s w e e t a n d f a i r s h e s e e m s t o b e .
T e l l h e r t h a t ' s y o u n g ,
A n d s h u n s t o h a v e h e r g r a c e s s p i e d ,
T h a t h a d s t t h o u s p r u n g
I n d e s e r t s , w h e r e n o m e n a b i d e ,
10 T h o u m u s t h a v e u n c o m m e n d e d d i e d .
S m a l l i s t h e w o r t h
O f b e a u t y f r o m t h e l i g h t r e t i r e d ;
B i d h e r c o m e f o r t h ,
S u f f e r h e r s e l f t o b e d e s i r e d ,
15 A n d n o t b l u s h s o t o b e a d m i r e d .
T h e n d i e ! t h a t s h e
T h e c o m m o n f a t e o f a l l t h i n g s r a r e
M a y r e a d i n t h e e ;
H o w s m a l l a p a r t o f t i m e t h e y s h a r e
20 T h a t a r e s o w o n d r o u s s w e e t a n d f a i r !
1 6 4 5

Of the Last Verses in the Book 1

W h e n w e f o r a g e c o u l d n e i t h e r r e a d n o r w r i t e ,
T h e s u b j e c t m a d e u s a b l e t o i n d i t e ; 0 u t t e r ; d i c t a t e
T h e s o u l , w i t h n o b l e r r e s o l u t i o n s d e c k e d ,
T h e b o d y s t o o p i n g , d o e s h e r s e l f e r e c t .

5 N o m o r t a l p a r t s a r e r e q u i s i t e t o r a i s e

H e r t h a t , u n b o d i e d , c a n h e r M a k e r p r a i s e .

3. I.e., Earth, dread God's presence, dread the and who sends springs from flint.

presence of Jacob's God. 1. I.e., his book Divine Poems, first published in 4. I.e., he who turns the rock to standing water 1686.

394/JOHN MILTON

These seas are quiet when the winds give o'er;
So calm are we when passions are no more!
For then we know how vain it was to boast
10 Of fleeting things, so certain to be lost.

Clouds of affection⁰ from our younger eyes
s emotion Conceal that emptiness which age de-cries.⁰ discerns The soul's dark cottage, battered and decayed, Let sin new light through chinks that time has made; 15 Stronger by weakness, wiser men become, As they draw near to their eternal home.

Leaving the old, both worlds at once they view, That stand upon the threshold of the new.

—Miratur Limen Olympi

Vergil²

1686

JOHN MILTON*

1608-1674

On the Morning of Christ's Nativity¹

i

This is the month, and this the happy morn,
Wherein the Son of Heaven's Eternal King,
Of wedded maid and virgin mother born,
Our great redemption from above did bring;
5 For so the holy sages² once did sing,
That he our deadly forfeit³ should release,
And with his Father work us a perpetual peace.

2

T h a t g l o r i o u s f o r m , t h a t l i g h t u n s u f f e r a b l e ,
A n d t h a t f a r - b e a m i n g b l a z e o f m a j e s t y ,

i o W h e r e w i t h h e w o n t 0 a t H e a v e n ' s h i g h c o u n c i l - t a b l e was accustomed T o s i t t h e m i d s t o f T r i n a l U n i t y , 4

H e l a i d a s i d e , a n d , h e r e w i t h u s t o b e ,

F o r s o o k t h e c o u r t s o f e v e r l a s t i n g d a y ,

A n d c h o s e w i t h u s a d a r k s o m e h o u s e o f m o r t a l c l a y . 5

2. From a sentence in Virgil's Fifth Eclogue that order of Milton's 1673 volume.

reads, in translation, "Arrayed in dazzling white, he

1. This poem celebrates Christ's birth and Milton stands enraptured at heaven's unfamiliar thresh-

ton's symbolic birth as a Christian poet bending old." Through this Latin quotation, Waller gives classical forms such as the ode to new religious

the last words in his poem about his "divine poems" purposes. Milton portrays the triumph of the

to a pagan author. Many Christian writers, most infant Christ over pagan gods, a theme of interest notably Dante, viewed Virgil as a precursor of to both Catholics and Protestants of the early sev-

Christianity, one who stood on its threshold with-enteenth century.

out being able to enter.

2. I.e., the Hebrew prophets.

*We have placed Milton's early works in the order

3. The penalty of death, occasioned by the sin of of his Poems (1645), a carefully arranged collection Adam.

that included poetry in English, Latin, and Italian

4. The Trinity: Father, Son, and Holy Ghost.

and represented a key statement about his “career”

5. I.e., a h u m a n body.

to that point. For his later works, we follow the

ON THE MORNING OF CHRIST'S NATIVITY / 395

3

15 Say, Heavenly Muse,⁶ shall not thy sacred vein Afford a present to the Infant God?

Hast thou no verse, no hymn, or solemn strain,
To welcome him to this his new abode,

Now while the heaven, by the Sun's team untrod,⁷

20 Hath took no print of the approaching light,

And all the spangled host⁸ keep watch in squadrons bright?

4

See how from far upon the eastern road

The star-led wizards⁹ haste with odors sweet!

Oh run, prevent⁰ them with thy humble ode,¹ go before

25 And lay it lowly at his blessed feet;

Have thou the honor first thy Lord to greet,

And join thy voice unto the angel choir

From out his secret altar touched with hallowed fire.²

The Hymn

i

It was the winter wild,

30 While the heaven-born child
All meanly wrapt in the rude manger lies;
Nature, in awe to him,
Had doffed⁰ her gaudy trim, taken off
With her great Master so to sympathize:
35 It was no season then for her
To wanton with the Sun, her lusty paramour.⁰ beloved, lover
 2
Only with speeches fair
She woos the gentle air
To hide her guilty front with innocent snow, 40 And on her naked shame,
Pollute with sinful blame,
The saintly veil of maiden white to throw;
Confounded, that her Maker's eyes
Should look so near upon her foul deformities.³

6. Perhaps a reference to Urania, the Muse of ("odors sweet").

astronomy, later identified in Milton's epic poem

1. A rhymed lyric, generally dignified or lofty in Paradise Lost (line 6; see p. 421) with divine wisdom subject and style.

dom and treated by Milton as the source of creative

2. Cf. Isaiah 6.6—7, in which a seraph touches a prophet's lips with a burning coal from the altar.

nine sister goddesses believed to be sources of

3. Personifying Nature as a woman “polluted” by inspiration for the arts.

the Fall, Milton also portrays her as a hypocrite

7. A reference to Apollo, Greek god of the sun, covering her foulness with a “saintly” white veil; he who drove the chariot of the sun behind mighty draws on Spenser's depiction of the witch Duessa steeds (the "Sun's team").

stripped "naked" in "shame" (Faerie Queene

8. An armed multitude (i.e., the angels).

1.8.46—48) and on the Bible's whore of Babylon

9. The "wise men from the east" (Matthew 2.1),

(Revelation 17.6). See also the portrait of "foul" sin who brought gifts of gold, myrrh, and frankincense

in Paradise Lost 2. 650 - 51 .

396 / JOHN MILTON

3

45 B u t h e , h e r f e a r s t o c e a s e ,

S e n t d o w n t h e m e e k - e y e d P e a c e :

S h e , c r o w n e d w i t h o l i v e g r e e n , c a m e s o f t l y
s l i d i n g D o w n t h r o u g h t h e t u r n i n g s p h e r e , 4

H i s r e a d y h a r b i n g e r ,

50 W i t h t u r t l e 5 w i n g t h e a m o r o u s c l o u d s d i v i d i n g ;

A n d , w a v i n g w i d e h e r m y r t l e w a n d ,

S h e s t r i k e s a u n i v e r s a l p e a c e t h r o u g h s e a a n d l a n d .

4

N o w a r , o r b a t t l e ' s s o u n d ,

W a s h e a r d t h e w o r l d a r o u n d ;

55 T h e i d l e s p e a r a n d s h i e l d w e r e h i g h u p h u n g
; T h e h o o k e d c h a r i o t 6 s t o o d ,

U n s t a i n e d w i t h h o s t i l e b l o o d ;

T h e t r u m p e t s p a k e n o t t o t h e a r m e d t h r o n g ;

A n d k i n g s s a t s t i l l w i t h a w f u l e y e , 7

60 As if they surely knew their sovran Lord was by.

5

But peaceful was the night

Wherein the Prince of Light

His reign of peace upon the earth began.

The winds, with wonder whist, ⁰ hushed

65 Smoothly the waters kissed,

Whispering new joys to the mild Ocean,

Who now hath quite forgot to rave,

While birds of calm ⁸ sit brooding on the charmed wave.

6

The stars, with deep amaze, ⁰ amazement

70 Stand fixed in steadfast gaze,

Bending oneway their precious influence, ⁹

And will not take their flight,

For all the morning light,

Or Lucifer¹ that often warned them thence;

75 But in their glimmering orbs² did glow,

Until their Lord himself bespoke, and bid them go.

7

And, though the shady gloom

Had given day her room,

4. According to Ptolemaic astronomy, the heavens about the time of the winter solstice, and to calm only spheres revolving around Earth.

the waves during the incubation of their young.

5. Turtledove; an emblem of Venus, Roman god-

9. Medieval astrologers believed that stars emitted dew of love and beauty, as the olive crown is an an ethereal liquid (“influence”) that had the power emblem of Peace. Harbinger: one who prepares the to nourish or otherwise affect all things on Earth.
way, or makes an announcement.

1. Light-bearer (Latin); a name for the morning

6. War chariots were sometimes armed with star and also for Satan.

sicklelike hooks projecting from the hubs of the

2. The concentric crystalline spheres of Ptolemaic wheels.

astronomy; each sphere was supposed to contain

7. I.e., with a look full of awe and reverence.

one or more of the heavenly bodies in its surface

8. Halcyons, or kingfishers, which in ancient and to revolve about Earth, creating beautiful times were believed to build floating nests at sea

music.

ON THE MORNING OF CHRIST'S NATIVITY / 397

The Sun himself withheld his wonted speed, usual And hid his head for shame,

As if his inferior flame as if

The new-enlightened world no more should need: He saw a greater Sun appear

Than his bright throne or burning axle-tree could bear.

85 The shepherds on the lawn, 0 meadow

Or ere the point of dawn,

Sat simply chatting in a rustic row;

Full little thought they than 0 then

That the mighty Pan 4

90 Was kindly come to live with them below:

Perhaps their loves, or else their sheep,

Was all that did their silly 0 thoughts so busy keep
. simple 9

When such music sweet

Their hearts and ears did greet

95 As never was by mortal finger strook, 0 struck

Divinely-warbled voice

Answering the stringed noise,

As all their souls in blissful rapture took:

The air, such pleasure loth to lose,

100 With thousand echoes still prolongs each he avenly close. 0 cadence 10

Nature, that hears such sound

Beneath the hollow round

Of Cynthia's seat 5 the airy region thrilling,

Now was almost won

105 To think her part was done,

And that her reign had here its last fulfilling:

She knew such harmony alone

Could hold all Heaven and Earth in happier u nion.

ii

At last surrounds their sight

no A g l o b e of circular light,
T h a t w i t h l o n g b e a m s t h e s h a m e f a c e d N i g h
t arrayed; T h e h e l m e d c h e r u b i m
A n d s w o r d e d s e r a p h i m 6
A r e s e e n i n g l i t t e r i n g r a n k s w i t h w i n g s d i s p l a y e d , 115 H a r p i n g l o u d a n d s o l e m n q u i r e , 0 choir
W i t h u n e x p r e s s i v e 0 n o t e s , t o H e a v e n ' s n e w - b o r n H e i r . inexpressible 3. I.e., the sun's chariot. "Sun" includes the famil-5. I.e., beneath the sphere of the moon.
iar Son/sun pun.

6. Seraphim and cherubim (both are plural forms)
4. The Greek god of shepherds, whose name are the two highest of the nine orders of angels in means "all," was often associated with Christ in the medieval classification.

Renaissance poetry.

398

/ J O H N M I L T O N

S u c h m u s i c (a s ' t i s s a i d)
B e f o r e w a s n e v e r m a d e ,
B u t w h e n o f o l d t h e s o n s o f m o r n i n g s u n g , 7
120 W h i l e t h e C r e a t o r g r e a t
H i s c o n s t e l l a t i o n s s e t ,
A n d t h e w e l l - b a l a n c e d w o r l d o n h i n g e s 0 h u n g , the two poles A n d c a s t t h e d a r k f o u n d a t i o n s d e e p ,
A n d b i d t h e w e l t e r i n g w a v e s t h e i r o o z y c h a n n e l k e e p .

13

125 R i n g o u t ? y e c r y s t a l s p h e r e s , 8

O n c e b l e s s o u r h u m a n e a r s ,
I f y e h a v e p o w e r t o t o u c h o u r s e n s e s s o ;
A n d l e t y o u r s i l v e r c h i m e
M o v e i n m e l o d i o u s t i m e ;
130 A n d l e t t h e b a s s o f h e a v e n ' s d e e p o r g a n b l o
w ; A n d w i t h y o u r n i n e f o l d h a r m o n y
M a k e u p f u l l c o n s o r t t o t h ' a n g e l i c s y m p h o n y . a c c o r d ; m a t e 14
F o r , i f s u c h h o l y s o n g
E n w r a p o u r f a n c y l o n g ,
135 T i m e w i l l r u n b a c k a n d f e t c h t h e a g e o f g o l d ; 9
A n d s p e c k l e d v a n i t y
W i l l s i c k e n s o o n a n d d i e ;
A n d l e p r o u s s i n w i l l m e l t f r o m e a r t h l y m o l d ; 1
A n d H e l l i t s e l f w i l l p a s s a w a y , 140 A n d l e a v e h e r d o l o r o u s m a n s i o n s t o t h e p e e r i n g d a y .
15
Y e a , T r u t h a n d J u s t i c e t h e n
W i l l d o w n r e t u r n t o m e n ,
O r b e d i n a r a i n b o w ; a n d , l i k e g l o r i e s w e a r i n g , similar M e r c y w i l l s i t b e t w e e n ,
145 T h r o n e d i n c e l e s t i a l s h e e n , 2
W i t h r a d i a n t f e e t t h e t i s s u e d 3 c l o u d s d o w n s t e e r i n g ; A n d H e a v e n , a s a t s o m e f e s t i v a l , W i l l o p e n w i d e t h e g a t e s o f h e r h i g h p a l a c e
- h a l l .

7. Job speaks of the creation of the universe as the by Virgil (Eclogues 4) in a passage many Christians time “when the morning stars sang together, and read as an allegorical prophecy of Christ’s birth all the sons of God shouted for joy” (Job 38.7).

from the Virgin Mary.

8. A reference to the Pythagorean idea that the

1. I.e., Earth; also, mortal humans. Leprous sin: music of the spheres would be audible only to sin-
1.e., sin that is like the loathsome disease leprosy.
less humans (see note 2 above).

2. This allegorical scene recalls Psalm 85.10—11

9. According to Roman mythology, Saturn, after (“Mercy and Truth are met together; righteousness his dethronement by Jupiter, fled to Italy and there and peace have kissed each other”), which was part brought in the Golden Age, a time of perfect peace of the Christmas liturgy. Milton may also allude to and happiness. The idea of a “return” to the depictions of the “four daughters of God” (among Golden Age, here and in line 142, alludes to the whom was Peace, who descends in lines 45—52) in myth of Astraea, goddess of justice, who fled morality plays, paintings, and masques.

“unjust” Earth but came back as a virgin celebrated

3. I.e., like a cloth woven with silver and gold.

ON THE MORNING OF CHRIST’S NATIVITY / 399

B u t w i s e s t F a t e s a y s n o ,

150 T h i s m u s t n o t y e t b e s o ;

The Babelies yet in smiling infancy

That on the bitter cross

Must redeem our loss,

So both himself and us to glorify:

155 Yet first, to those chained in sleep, 4

The wakeful trumpet of doom must thunder through awakening the deep,

7

With such a horrid clang

As on Mount Sinai rang, 5

While the red fire and smoldering clouds outbrake: 160 The aged Earth, aghast,

With terror of that blast,

Shall from the surface to the center shake, W hen, at the world's last session,

The dreadful Judge in middle air shall spread his throne.

18

165 And then at last our bliss

Full and perfect is,

But now begins; for from this happy day

The 'old Dragon 0 underground, Satan

In straiter limits bound,

170 Not half so far casts his usurped sway,

And, wroth to see his kingdom fail,

Swinges 0 the scaly horror of his folded tail. lashes

9

The Oracles are dumb; 6

No voice or hideous hum

175 R u n s t h r o u g h t h e a r c h e d r o o f i n w o r d s d e c e i v i n g .

A p o l l o f r o m h i s s h r i n e

C a n n o m o r e d i v i n e ,

W i t h h o l l o w s h r i e k t h e s t e e p o f D e l p h o s l e a v i n g .

N o n i g h t l y t r a n c e , o r b r e a t h e d s p e l l , i s o I n s p i r e s t h e p a l e - e y e d p r i e s t f r o m t h e p r o p h e t i c c e l l .

20

T h e l o n e l y m o u n t a i n s o ' e r ,

A n d t h e r e s o u n d i n g s h o r e ,

A v o i c e o f w e e p i n g h e a r d a n d l o u d l a m e n t ;

F r o m h a u n t e d s p r i n g , a n d d a l e

185 E d g e d w i t h p o p l a r p a l e ,

4. I.e., death. Ychained: an archaic form recalling

... and the voice of the trumpet exceeding loud”

Chaucer and Spenser. Lines 155—64 allude to the (Exodus 19.16).

Apocalypse as described in Revelation.

6. According to one ancient belief, pagan oracles

5. Moses received the Ten C o m m a n d m e n t s on ended with Christ's birth; according to another,

Mount Sinai: “there were thunders and lightnings

the pagan gods became fallen angels.

4 0 0 / J O H N M I L T O N

T h e p a r t i n g g e n i u s 0 i s w i t h s i g h i n g s e n t ;

local spirit W i t h f l o w e r - i n w o v e n t r e s s e s t o r n

T h e N y m p h s 7 i n t w i l i g h t s h a d e o f t a n g l e d t h i c k e t s m o u r n .

21

Inconsecratedearth,

190 Andontheholyhearth,

TheLarsandLemures8moanwithmidnight
plaint;Inurnsandaltarsround,

Adrearandyingsound

Affrightstheflamens0attheirservicequaint;
0priests / elaborate 195 Andthechillmarbleseems
tosweat,

Whileeachpeculiarpowerforgoeshiswont
ed0seat. usual 22

Peor9andBaalim

Forsaketheirtemplesdim,

Withthatwice-batteredGodofPalestine;
1

200 AndmoonedaShtaroth, 2

Heaven'squeenandmotherboth,

Nowsitsnotgirt0withtapers'0hollyshine:
encircled / candles'

TheLibycHammon3shrinkshishorn;

InvaintheTyrianmaidstheirwoundedTha
mmuzmourn. 4

23

205 AndsullenMoloch, 5 fled,

Hathleftinshadowsdread

Hisburningidolallofblackesthue;

Invainwithcymbals'ring

Theycallthegrislyking,

210 Indismaldanceaboutthefurnaceblue;T
hebrutishgodsofNileasfast,

Isis, and Orus, and the dog Anubis, haste. 6 24

Nor is Osiris seen

In Memphis a grove or green,

215 Trampling the unshowered grass
7 with low wings loud; Nor can he be at rest

Within his sacred chest;

Nought but profoundest Hell can be his shroud; 7. Mythological female spirits inhabiting a particular place, object, or natural phenomenon.

ular place, object, or natural phenomenon.

4. The death of the god Thammuz, Ashtaroth's

8. Hostile spirits of the unburied dead. Lars: tutelary gods or spirits of the ancient Romans, associated with particular places.

annual ceremony.

9. Baal, or Baal-Peor, the highest Canaanite god,

5. A Phoenician fire god to whom children were sacrificed. Their cries were drowned out by the form) were lesser gods related to him.

clang of cymbals.

1. Dagon, god of the Philistines, whose statue

6. The Egyptian goddess Isis was represented as a twice fell to the ground before the ark of the Lord cow, the gods Orus and Anubis as a hawk and a (1 Samuel 5.1-4).

dog (hence “brutish”). Osiris (line 213) the creator,

2. Astarte, a Phoenician fertility goddess identified with the moon, who had a shrine at Memphis, was represented as a bull. As fast: i.e., hasten away as fast as Moloch

3. The Egyptian god Ammon, represented as a horned ram. He had a famous temple and oracle

7. I.e., the rainless Egyptian landscape.

O N S H A K E S P E A R E / 4 0 1

In vain, with timbrelled anthems dark, tambourine-backed

220 The sable-stoled sorcerers bear his worshipped ark.

25

He feels from Juda’s land

The dreaded Infant’s hand;8

The rays of Bethlehem blind his dusky eyn;°

eyes

Nor all the gods beside

225 Longer dare abide,

Not Typhon9 huge ending in snaky twine:

Our Babe, to show his Godhead true,

Can in his swaddling0 bands control the damned crew binding

26

So, when the sun in bed,

230 Curtained with cloudy red,

Pillows his chin upon an orient0 wave, Eastern; bright

The flocking shadows pale

Troop to th' infernal¹ jail;
Each fettered ghost slips to his several⁰ grave, separate 235 And the yellow-skirted fays⁰ fairies
Fly after the night-steeds, leaving their moon-loved maze.²
27

But see! the Virgin blest
Hath laid her Babe to rest.
Time is our tedious song should here have ending:
240 Heaven's youngest-teemed star³
Hath fixed her polished car,
Her sleeping Lord with handmaid lamp attending;
And all about the courtly stable
Bright-harnessed⁴ angels sit in order serviceable.

1 6 2 9 1 6 4 5

On Shakespeare⁵

What needs my Shakespeare for his honored bones
The labor of an age in piled stones?
Or that his hallowed reliques should be hid
Under a star-ypointing⁶ pyramid?

5 Dear son of Memory,⁷ great heir of Fame,

8. I.e., the hand of Christ, who was descended

4. I.e., clad in bright armor. Courtly: i.e., because from the tribe of Judah. Perhaps an allusion to it houses Christ, the king.

Matthew 2.6, referring to Micah 5.2, on the power

5. Milton's first published poem, printed in the resident in Bethlehem, in the land of Judah.

Second Folio of Shakespeare's plays (1632) as "An

9. In Greek mythology, a hundred-headed monster destroyed by Zeus.
Epitaph on the Admirable Dramatic Poet W.

Shakespear.”

1. Of the realm of the dead; i.e., hell(ish).

6. An archaic form recalling Chaucer and Spenser.

2. Labyrinth, i.e., the woods where the fairies dance.

7. In Greek mythology, Memory (Mnemosyne)

3. I.e., newest-born star, the star that guided the was the mother of the Muses, the nine sister goddesses believed to be sources of inspiration for the or chariot over the manger.

arts.

402 / JOHN MILTON

What need'st thou such weak witness of thy name?

Thou in our wonder and astonishment

Hast built thyself a live long monument.

For whilst, to th' shame of slow-endavoring
art,

10 Thy easynumbers flow, and that each heart verses Hath from the leaves of thy unvalued book invaluable Those Delphic lines with h deep impression took, Then thou, our fancy
y of itself bereaving,

Dost make us marble with too much conceiving, 15 And so sepulchred in such pomp dost

t lie

T h a t k i n g s f o r s u c h a t o m b w o u l d w i s h t o d i e .

1 6 3 0 1 6 4 5

L'Allegro⁵

H e n c e l o a t h e d M e l a n c h o l y ¹

O f C e r b e r u s ² a n d b l a c k e s t m i d n i g h t b o r n ,

I n S t y g i a n ³ c a v e f o r l o r n

M o n g s t h o r r i d s h a p e s , a n d s h r i e k s , a n d s i g h t s u n h o l y
F i n d o u t s o m e u n c o u t h ⁴ c e l l ,

W h e r e b r o o d i n g D a r k n e s s s p r e a d s h i s j e a l o u s w i n g s ,
A n d t h e n i g h t - r a v e n s i n g s ;

T h e r e u n d e r e b o n ⁰ s h a d e s , a n d l o w - b r o w e d r o c k s ,
black

A s r a g g e d a s t h y l o c k s ,

I n d a r k C i m m e r i a n ⁵ d e s e r t e v e r d w e l l .

B u t c o m e t h o u g o d d e s s f a i r a n d f r e e ,

I n H e a v e n y c l e p t ⁰ E u p h r o s y n e , ⁶
called

A n d b y m e n , h e a r t - e a s i n g M i r t h ,

W h o m l o v e l y V e n u s ⁰ a t a b i r t h

goddess of love and beauty

W i t h t w o s i s t e r G r a c e s ⁰ m o r e

Aglaia and Thalia

T o i v y - c r o w n e d B a c c h u s ⁰ b o r e ;

god of wine

O r w h e t h e r (a s s o m e s a g e r s i n g) ⁷

T h e f r o l i c w i n d t h a t b r e a t h e s t h e s p r i n g ,

Z e p h y r w i t h A u r o r a p l a y i n g ,

A s h e m e t h e r o n c e a - M a y i n g ,

T h e r e o n b e d s o f v i o l e t s b l u e ,
A n d f r e s h - b l o w n o r o s e s w a s h e d i n d e w , newly bloomed

Filled h e r w i t h t h e e a d a u g h t e r f a i r ,
S o b u x o m , o b l i t h e , a n d d e b o n a i r . o
merry / pleasant

8. Pertaining to Apollo, god of poetry, who had an guarded the gates of hell.

oracle at Delphi.

3. Pertaining to the Styx, one of the rivers of the

9. “L’Allegro” (Italian, “the happy man”) is a com-classical underworld.

panion poem to “II Penseroso” (“the pensive

4. Unknown and dreadful.

man”). Probably written late in Milton’s years at

5. According to Homer’s Odyssey, the Cimmerians Cambridge, the poems influenced many later poets lived in a mysterious land somewhere across the and were illustrated by William Blake (1757—ocean, where the sun never shone.

1827).

6. One of the three Graces, Greek sister goddesses

1. Thought to arise from an excess of black bile, believed to bring joy to humans. Her name means melancholy was a physiological condition that “mirth.”

could lead to depression and madness. Hence: a

7. The following mythical account of Euphroscommand to depart.

yne's birth seems to be Milton's invention. Zephyr

2. In Greek mythology, the three-headed dog that is the west wind; Aurora, the dawn.

L ' A L L E G R O / 4 0 3

H a s t e t h e e n y m p h , 0 a n d b r i n g w i t h t h e e nature goddess

J e s t a n d y o u t h f u l J o l l i t y ,

Q u i p s a n d C r a n k s , 0 a n d w a n t o n W i l e s , jests

N o d s , a n d B e c k s , 0 a n d w r e a t h e d S m i l e s , beckonings

S u c h a s h a n g o n H e b e ' s 8 c h e e k ,

A n d l o v e t o l i v e i n d i m p l e s l e e k ;

S p o r t t h a t w r i n k l e d C a r e d e r i d e s ,

A n d L a u g h t e r , h o l d i n g b o t h h i s s i d e s .

C o m e , a n d t r i p 0 i t a s y e g o

dance

O n t h e l i g h t f a n t a s t i c t o e ,

A n d i n t h y r i g h t h a n d l e a d w i t h t h e e ,

T h e m o u n t a i n n y m p h , s w e e t L i b e r t y ;

A n d i f I g i v e t h e e h o n o r d u e ,

M i r t h , a d m i t m e o f t h y c r e w

T o l i v e w i t h h e r a n d l i v e w i t h t h e e ,

I n u n r e p r o v e d 0 p l e a s u r e s f r e e ;

unblamed

T o h e a r t h e l a r k 9 b e g i n h i s f l i g h t ,

A n d , s i n g i n g , s t a r t l e t h e d u l l n i g h t ,

F r o m h i s w a t c h - t o w e r i n t h e s k i e s ,

T i l l t h e d a p p l e d d a w n d o t h r i s e ;

T h e n t o c o m e i n s p i t e o f s o r r o w , contempt

A n d a t m y w i n d o w b i d g o o d m o r r o w ,

T h r o u g h t h e s w e e t b r i a r , o r t h e v i n e ,

O r t h e t w i s t e d e g l a n t i n e . 1

W h i l e t h e c o c k w i t h l i v e l y d i n ,

S c a t t e r s t h e r e a r o f d a r k n e s s t h i n ,

A n d t o t h e s t a c k , o r t h e b a r n d o o r ,

S t o u t l y s t r u t s h i s d a m e s b e f o r e ;

O f t l i s t e n i n g h o w t h e h o u n d s a n d h o r n

C h e e r l y r o u s e t h e s l u m b e r i n g m o r n ,

F r o m t h e s i d e o f s o m e h o a r 2 h i l l ,

T h r o u g h t h e h i g h w o o d e c h o i n g s h r i l l .

S o m e t i m e w a l k i n g n o t u n s e e n

B y h e d g e r o w e l m s , o n h i l l o c k s g r e e n ,

R i g h t a g a i n s t t h e e a s t e r n g a t e ,

W h e r e t h e g r e a t s u n b e g i n s h i s s t a t e , 0 progress

R o b e d i n f l a m e s , a n d a m b e r l i g h t ,

T h e c l o u d s i n t h o u s a n d l i v e r i e s d i g h t ; 0 dressed

W h i l e t h e p l o w m a n n e a r a t h a n d ,

W h i s t l e s o ' e r t h e f u r r o w e d l a n d ,

A n d t h e m i l k m a i d s i n g e t h b l i t h e ,

A n d t h e m o w e r w h e t s h i s s c y t h e ,

A n d e v e r y s h e p h e r d t e l l s h i s t a l e ,

U n d e r t h e h a w t h o r n i n t h e d a l e .

S t r a i g h t m i n e e y e h a t h c a u g h t n e w p l e a s u r e s

W h i l s t t h e l a n d s c a p e r o u n d i t m e a s u r e s ,

R u s s e t 0 l a w n s a n d f a l l o w s 0 g r a y , reddish brown / plowed land

W h e r e t h e n i b b l i n g f l o c k s d o s t r a y ,

M o u n t a i n s o n w h o s e b a r r e n b r e a s t

8. Zeus's cupbearer and goddess of youth. honeysuckle.

9. Larks sing at sunrise. 2. Grayish white, perhaps because of a morning

1. The sweetbriar, possibly used here to mean the frost.

4 0 4 / J O H N M I L T O N

T h e l a b o r i n g c l o u d s d o o f t e n r e s t ;

75 M e a d o w s t r i m w i t h d a i s i e s p i e d , 0 v a r i e g a t e d

S h a l l o w b r o o k s , a n d r i v e r s w i d e .

T o w e r s a n d b a t t l e m e n t s i t s e e s

B o s o m e d h i g h i n t u f t e d t r e e s ,

W h e r e p e r h a p s s o m e b e a u t y l i e s , so T h e c y n o s u r e 3 o f n e i g h b o r i n g e y e s .

H a r d b y , a c o t t a g e c h i m n e y s m o k e s ,

F r o m b e t w i x t t w o a g e d o a k s ,

W h e r e C o r y d o n a n d T h y r s i s 4 m e t ,

A r e a t t h e i r s a v o r y d i n n e r s e t

85 O f h e r b s , a n d o t h e r c o u n t r y m e s s e s , 0 dishes W h i c h t h e n e a t - h a n d e d 0 P h y l l i s d r e s s e s ; 0 d e x t e r o u s / - p r e p a r e s A n d t h e n i n h a s t e h e r b o w e r s h e l e a v e s ,

W i t h T h e s t y l i s t o b i n d t h e s h e a v e s ;

O r i f t h e e a r l i e r s e a s o n l e a d

90 T o t h e t a n n e d h a y c o c k i n t h e m e a d . 5

Sometimes with secure delight carefree The upland hamlets will invite,

When the merry bells ring round

And the jocund rebekes sound merry

95 To many a youth and many a maid,

Dancing in the checkered shade;

And young and old come forth to play

On a sunshine holiday,

Till the live long daylight fail;

100 Then to the spicy nut-brown ale,

With stories told of many a feat,

How fairy Mab the junkets eat;⁷

She was pinched and pulled, she said,

And he, by Friar's lantern⁸ led,

105 Tells how the drudging goblin sweat

To earn his cream-bowl, duly set,

When in one night, ere glimpse of morn,

His shadowy flail hath threshed the corn

That ten day-laborers could not end;

110 Then lies him down the lubber⁹ fiend, loutish

And, stretched out all the chimney's length
h, fireplace's Basks at the fire his hairy strength;

And crop-full out of doors he flings

Ere the first cock his matins rings. morning

115 Thus done the tales, to bed they creep,

By whispering winds soon lulled asleep.

Towered cities please us then,

And the busy hum of men,

3. The North Star, or anything that attracts attenrustic lore.

tion.

8. The will-o'-the-wisp, which was said to draw

4. Conventional male names in pastoral poetry, travelers astray by holding a false light before them; like Thestylis (line 88); Phyllis (line 86) is a conventional female pastoral name.

the combustion of marsh gas.

5. I.e., the sun-dried, conical heap of hay in the

9. A hobgoblin, also known as Robin Goodfellow field.

or Puck, was a small supernatural creature popular

6. Small, three-stringed fiddles.

in northern-European folk traditions. He is an

7. I.e., Mab, queen of the fairies, ate the delicacies important character in Shakespeare's A Midsummer Night's Dream, a play that "L'Allegro" frequently echoes.

I L P E N S E R O S O / 4 0 5

W h e r e throngs of knights and barons bold,

In weeds⁰ of p e a c e high triumphs⁰ hold,

garments / pageants

With store⁰ of ladies, whose bright eyes

plenty

Rain influence,¹ and j u d g e the prize

Of wit, or arms, while both contend
To win her grace, w h o m a l l c o m m e n d .
There let H y m e n 0 oft appear
god of marriage
In saffron0 robe, with taper0 clear, orange-yellow / torch
And p o m p , and feast, and revelry,
With m a s q u e , and antique2 pageantry;
S u c h sights as youthful poets d r e a m
On s u m m e r eves by h a u n t e d stream.
T h e n to the well-trod stage anon,
If Jonson's learned sock3 be on,
Or sweetest S h a k e s p e a r e , fancy's child,
Warble his native wood-notes wild.
And ever against eating cares
L a p me in soft Lydian airs4
Married to immortal verse
S u c h as the meeting soul may pierce
In notes, with m a n y a winding bout0
Of linked sweetness long drawn out,
With wanton heed, and giddy cunning,
T h e melting voice through mazes running;
Untwisting all the chains that tie
T h e hidden soul of harmony;
T h a t O r p h e u s ' self5 may heave his head
F r o m golden slumber on a bed
Of h e a p e d Elysian0 flowers, and hear glorious

S u c h strains as would have won the ear
Of Pluto, to have quite set free
His half-regained Eurydice.

T h e s e delights if thou canst give,
Mirth, with thee I m e a n to live.⁶

ca. 1 6 3 1

1 6 4 5

II Penseroso⁷

H e n c e 8 vain deluding Joys,
T h e brood of Folly without father bred.

1. The ladies' eyes are compared to stars, alluding mythology, whose wife, Eurydice, died on their wedding day. He won permission from Pluto, god of the underworld, to lead her back to the land of affect human lives.

the living, but only on the condition that he not

2. Ancient; also, antic. Masque: an elaborate form of court entertainment, in which aristocrats persist a backward glance, he lost her forever.

formed in a dignified play, usually allegorical and

6. Lines 151—52 echo Christopher Marlowe, "The mythological, that ended in a formal dance.

Passionate Shepherd to His Love," lines 23—24

3. The light shoe worn by Greek comic actors, (see p. 256).

here standing for the comedies of Ben Jonson

7. See "L'Allegro," note 9 (p. 402). Here, the Pen-(1572-1637).

sive Man celebrates a melancholy that produces

4. Lydian music was noted for its voluptuous not depression and madness but the scholarly tem-sweetness.

perament, ruled by the Roman god Saturn.

5. The great poet and musician of classical

8. A command to depart.

406 / JOHN MILTON

H o w little you bestead,0 profit

Or fill the fixed mind with all your toys;0 trifles

Dwell in s o m e idle brain,

And fancies fond0 with gaudy shapes p o s s e s s , foolish

As thick and n u m b e r l e s s

As the gay m o t e s 0 that people the s u n b e a m s ,

Or likest hovering dreams,

T h e fickle pensioners0 of Morpheus'9 train.

attendants

But hail thou G o d d e s s , sage and holy,

Hail, divinest Melancholy,

W h o s e saintly visage is too bright

To hit0 the sense of h u m a n sight;

affect

And therefore to our weaker view,

O'erlaid with black, staid W i s d o m ' s hue.

Black, but such as in esteem,

Prince Memnon's sister¹ might besee me,
Or that starred Ethiop queen² that strove
To set her beauty's praise above
The sea nymphs, and their powers offended.
Yet thou art higher far descended;
Thee bright-haired Vesta long of yore
To solitary Saturn bore;³
His daughter she (in Saturn's reign
Such mixture was not held a stain).
Of t in glimmering bowers and glades
He met her, and in secret shades
Of woody Ida's inmost grove,
While yet there was no fear of Jove.⁴
Come pensive nun, devout and pure,
Sober, steadfast, and demure,
All in a robe of darkest grain,⁰
color
Flowing with majestic train,
And sable⁰ stole of cypress lawn⁵
black
Over thy decent shoulders drawn.
Come, but keep thy wonted⁰ state, usual; wanted
With even step and musing gait,
And looks commencing with the skies,
Thy rapt soul sitting in thine eyes:
There held in holy passion still,
Forget thyself to marble, till
With a sad⁰ leaden downward cast, serious

T h o u fix them on the earth as fast.
And join with thee c a l m P e a c e and Q u i e t ,
S p a r e Fast, that oft with gods doth diet,
And hears the M u s e s 6 in a ring

9. Greek god of sleep.

ciated with melancholy because of the supposedly

1. Memnon, an Ethiopian prince, was called the “saturnine” influence of the planet that bears his handsomest of men (Homer’s Odyssey, book 11).

name. His daughter Vesta was the goddess of His sister was Hemera, whose name means “day.”
purity.

2. Cassiopeia, who boasted that her beauty (or her

4. The most powerful god of Roman mythology.
daughter’s, in some accounts) surpassed that of the

5. A gauzy, crepelike material, usually dyed black daughters of the sea god Nereus. “Starred” refers and used for mourning garments; cypress: Cyprus,
to the fact that a constellation bears her name.

where the material was originally made.

3. The parentage here attributed to Melancholy is

6. The nine sister goddesses believed to be sources Milton’s invention. Saturn, who ruled on Mt. Ida of inspiration for the arts; at the foot of Mt. Heli-before being overthrown by his son Jove, was asso-con, they danced about the altar of Jove.

I L P E N S E R O S O / 4 0 7

Aye^o round about Jove’s altar sing. continually

And add to these retired Leisure,
50 T h a t in trim gardens takes his pleasure;
But first, and chiefest, with thee bring,
H i m that yon soars on golden wing,
G u i d i n g the fiery-wheeled throne,
T h e c h e r u b Contemplation;⁷
55 An d the m u t e Silenc e hist^o alon g beckon
'Less Philomel⁸ will deign a song,
In her sweetest, saddest plight,
S m o o t h i n g the rugged brow of night,
While Cynthia⁹ checks her dragon yoke
60 Gently o'er th' a c c u s t o m e d oak;
Sweet bird that shunn'st the noise of folly,
M o s t musical, most melancholy!
T h e e chantress oft the woods a m o n g ,
I woo to hear thy evensong;¹
65 And missing thee, I walk u n s e e n
On the dry smooth-shaven green,
To behold the wandering m o o n ,
Riding near her highest noon,
Like one that had been led astray
70 T h r o u g h the Heaven's wide pathless way;
And oft as if her head she bowed,
S t o o p i n g through a fleecy cloud.
Oft on a plat^o of rising ground, plot
I hear the far-off curfew sound,²
75 Over s o m e wide-watered shore,
Swinging slow with sullen roar;

Or if the air will not permit,
 S o m e still removed place will fit,
 W h e r e glowing e m b e r s through the room
 so T e a c h light to counterfeit a gloom
 Far from all resort of mirth,
 Save the cricket on the hearth,
 Or the bellman's⁰ drowsy charm, night watchman's
 To bless the doors from nightly harm;
 85 Or let my lamp at midnight hour
 Be seen in s o m e high lonely tower,
 W h e r e I may oft outwatch the Bear,³
 With thrice great H e r m e s , or unsphere⁴

7. A reference to the vision of the four cherubim tered monks and nuns (here, a "chantress"). Cf.
 (a high order of angels) stationed beside four
 "L' Allegro," line 114, where a cock announces wheels of fire under the throne of the Lord (Ezekiel
 "matins," the morning liturgy.

1 and 10).

2. The customary ringing of a bell at a fixed hour

8. I.e., or else Philomel will condescend to sing a in the evening.

song. Philomel, the nightingale, who sings a

3. The Great Bear, or Big Dipper, which in north-mournful song in the springtime: according to ern latitudes never sets.

Ovid's version of this popular myth, Philomela was

4. To call Plato back, by magic, from whatever raped by her brother-in-law, Tereus, who then tore sphere of the universe he inhabits now, or, in pracout her tongue so that she could not speak. She tical terms, to read his books. “Thrice great Herwove the story in a tapestry and sent it to her sister, mes” refers to an ancient Egyptian philosopher who rescued her. She was later changed into a (Hermes Trismegistus) often identified with nightingale while in flight from Tereus.

Thoth, Egyptian god of wisdom, and alleged to 9. Goddess of the moon, sometimes represented have written many books on astrological, alchemas driving a team of dragons.
ical, and other subjects.

1. The evening liturgy traditionally sung by clois-

4 0 8 / J O H N M I L T O N

T h e spirit of Plato to unfold

90 W h a t worlds, or what vast regions hold

T h e immortal mind that hath forsook

H e r m a n s i o n in this fleshly nook;

And of those d e m o n s 5 that are f o u n d

In fire, air, flood, or underground,

95 W h o s e power hath a true consent 0 correspondence

With planet, or with element.

S o m e time let gorgeous Tragedy

In scepter'd 0 palP c o m e sweeping by, royal / robe

Presenting T h e b e s , or Pelops' line,

100 Or the tale of Troy divine.6

Or what (though rare) of later age
 E n n o b l e d hath the buskined stage.⁷
 But, O sad virgin, that thy power
 Might raise M u s a e u s ⁸ from his bower, io5 Or bid the soul of O r p h e u s sing
 S u c h notes as, warbled to the string,
 Drew iron tears down Pluto's cheek,
 And m a d e Hell grant what Love did seek.
 Or call up him⁹ that left half told 110 T h e story of C a m b u s c a n bold,
 Of C a m b a l l , and of Algarsife,
 And who h a d C a n a c e e to wife,
 T h a t owned the virtuous⁰ ring and glass,⁰ potent / mirror
 And of the w o n d r o u s horse of brass,
 115 On which the Tartar king did ride;
 And if aught else great bards beside
 In sage and solemn tunes have sung,
 Of tourneys and of trophies hung,
 Of forests and e n c h a n t m e n t s drear,
 120 W h e r e m o r e i s m e a n t than meet s the ear.
 T h u s , Night, oft see me in thy pale career,
 Till civil-suited morn¹ appear,
 N o t tricked⁰ a n d f r o u n c e d ⁰ as she was adorned / curled W O n t , ° accustomed to be
 With the Attic boy to hunt,
 125 But kerchiefed in a comely cloudly
 While rocking winds are piping loud,
 Or ushered with a shower still,⁰ gentle; yet

W h e n the gust hath blown his fill,

E n d i n g on the rustling leaves,

130 With minute-drops from off the eaves.

5. Supernatural beings inhabiting each of the four

9. Chaucer, whose “Squire’s Tale” leaves unfinished the story of the Tartar king Cambuscan, his “elements”: fire, air, water, and earth.

ished the story of the Tartar king Cambuscan, his

6. The city of Thebes, the descendants of Pelops, two sons, Camball and Algarsife, and his daughter, and the Trojan War afforded the subjects of most Canacee. At a banquet celebrating Cambuscan’s

Greek tragedies.

reign, a mysterious guest offered several magical

7. The buskin was the high boot worn by Greek gifts to the king.

tragic actors.

1. Aurora, goddess of the dawn, soberly dressed

8. A legendary Greek poet, contemporary of (“civil-suited”); she loved Cephalus (“the Attic Orpheus (line 105); for the story of Orpheus, see boy,” line 124).

“L’Allegro,” note 5 (p. 405).

I L P E N S E R O S O / 4 0 9

And when the sun begins to fling

His flaring beams, me, Goddess, bring

To arched walks of twilight groves,

And shadows brown that Sylvan loves

Of pine or monument oak,

W h e r e the rude ax with heaved stroke,
W a s never heard the nymphs³ to daunt,
Or fright them from their hallowed haunt.

There in close covert⁰ by s o m e brook, hidden place
140

W h e r e no profaner eye m a y look,
Hide me f r o m day's garish eye,
While the b e e with honeyed thigh,
That at her flowery work doth sing,
And the waters m u r m u r i n g

145

With such consort⁰ as they keep, harmony
Entice the dewy-feathered sleep;
And let s o m e strange mysterious dream,
Wave at his wings in airy stream,
Of lively portraiture displayed,

150

Softly on my eyelids laid.

And as I wake, sweet m u s i c breathe
Above, about, or underneath,
Sent by s o m e spirit to mortals good,
Or th' unseen genius⁰ of the wood. indwelling spirit

155

But let my due feet never fail

To walk the studious cloister's pale,⁰ enclosure

And love the high e m b o w e d roof,

With antic^o pillars m a s s y proof, fancifully decorated;
antique And storied windows⁴ richly dight,⁰ dressed

160

C a s t i n g a dim religious light.
There let the pealing organ blow,
To the full-voiced choir below,
In service high, and a n t h e m s clear,
As may with sweetness, through mine ear,

165

Dissolve me into ecstasies,
And bring all heaven before mine eyes.
And may at last my weary age
Find out the p e a c e f u l hermitage,
T h e hairy gown and m o s s y cell,

170

W h e r e I m a y sit and rightly spell⁰ speculate
Of every star that Heaven doth show,
A n d every herb that sips the dew
Till old experience do attain
To s o m e t h i n g like prophetic strain.

175

T h e s e pleasures, Melancholy, give,
And I with thee will choose to live.⁵

ca. 1 6 3 1

2. Sylvanus, Roman god of forests.

ries. Massy proof: massive solidity.

3. Mythological female spirits inhabiting a partic-

5. Cf. "L' Allegro," lines 151-52 and note 6

ular place, object, or natural phenomenon.

(p. 405).

4. Stained-glass windows depicting biblical sto-

410 / JOHN MILTON

How Soon Hath Time⁶

H o w soon hath T i m e , the subtle thief of youth,

Stoln on his wing my three and twentieth year!

My hasting days fly on with full career,

But my late spring no b u d or b l o s s o m shew'th.⁰

showeth

P e r h a p s my s e m b l a n c e ⁰ might deceive the truth, appearance T h a t I to m a n h o o d am arrived so near,

And inward ripeness doth m u c h less appear,

T h a t s o m e more timely-happy spirits endu'th.⁰

endoweth

Yet be it^o less or more, or soon or slow, inner "ripeness"

It shall be still in strictest m e a s u r e even⁰ equal;

adequate To that s a m e lot, however m e a n or high,

Toward which T i m e leads me, and the will of Heaven;

All is, if I have grace to use it so,

As ever in my great Taskmaster's eye.⁷

1631

1645

Lycidas

In This Monody the Author Bemoans a Learned Friend,⁸

Unfortunately

Drowned in His Passage from Chester on the Irish Seas, 1637.

And by

Occasion Foretells the Ruin of Our Corrupted Clergy, Then in Their Height.

Yet once more, O ye laurels⁹ and once more

Ye myrtles brown,0 with ivy never sere,0 dark / withered

I c o m e to pluck your berries harsh and crude,0 unripe

And with forced fingers rude,0 unskilled

Shatter your leaves before the mellowing year.

Bitter constraint, and sad occasion dear,0 heartfelt, dire

C o m p e l s me to disturb your season due;

For Lycidas is dead, dead ere his prime,

Y o u n g Lycidas, and hath not left his peer.

W h o would not sing for Lycidas? He knew

H i m s e l f to sing, and build the lofty rhyme.

He m u s t not float upon his watery bier¹

Unwept, and welter⁰ to the parching wind,

roll about

Without the m e e d ⁰ of s o m e melodious tear.⁰

tribute / elegy

Begin then, sisters of the sacred well

6. Milton's twenty-third birthday was on December 9, 1631. He enclosed a copy of this poem in a letter to a friend who, according to Milton, had published with some elegies by King's friends at Cambridge in 1638 after King's ship mysteriously foundered on a clear day in August 1637. His body arms of a studious retirement.”

was not recovered. Milton added this headnote

7. The metaphor of God as Taskmaster alludes to when he published the elegy in his 1645 Poems.

two parables in which God appears to be harsh to Monody: an elegy or dirge sung by a single voice.

his servants: the parable of the talents (Matthew

9. Laurel, myrtle, and ivy were all traditional

25.14—30) and the parable of the vineyard (Mat-

materials for garlands bestowed on poets.

thew 20.1-10).

1. A stand on which a corpse is carried to the

8. Edward King, a young scholar, poet, and clergy-grave.

man at Cambridge with Milton. This poem, which

LYCIDAS / 411

That from beneath the seat of Jove doth spring,

Begin, and somewhat loudly sweep the string.²

Hence with denial vain, and coy excuse;

So may some gentle⁰ Muse^o kindly /poet

20 With lucky words favor my destined urn,³

And as he passes turn,

And bid fair peace be to my sable⁰ shroud. black

For we were nursed upon the selfsame hill,

Fed the same flock, by fountain, shade, and rill.^o brook

25 Together both, ere the high lawns⁰ appeared pastures

Under the opening eyelids of the morn,

We drove afield, and both together heard

What time the grayfly winds her sultry horn,⁴ Battening⁰ our flocks with the fresh dews of night, fattening
30 Oft till the star that rose at evening bright⁵
Toward Heaven's descent had sloped his westering wheel.
Meanwhile the rural ditties were not mute,
Tempered to th' oaten flute,⁶
Rough satyrs danced, and fauns with cloven heel⁷
35 From the glad sound would not be absent long,
And old Damoetas⁸ loved to hear our song.
But O the heavy change, now thou art gone,
Now thou art gone, and never must return!
Thee, shepherd,⁹ thee the woods and desert caves, 40 With wild thyme and the gadding⁰ vine o'ergrown, wandering
And all their echoes mourn.
The willows and the hazel copses⁰ green groves
Shall now no more be seen,
Fanning their joyous leaves to thy soft lays.⁰ songs
45 As killing as the canker⁰ to the rose, cankerworm
Or taint-worm to the weanling herds that graze,
Or frost to flowers that their gay wardrobe wear,
When first the white thorn blows;⁰ blooms
Such, Lycidas, thy loss to shepherd's ear.
50 Where were ye, nymphs,¹ when the remorseless deep
Closed o'er the head of your loved Lycidas?
For neither were ye playing on the steep,
Where your old Bards, the famous Druids lie,
Nor on the shaggy top of Mona high,

55 Nor yet where Deva spreads her wizard stream:2

Ay me! I fondly0 dream— foolishly

2. I.e., play your music. Sisters of the sacred well:

(although the fauns were sometimes described as the Muses, nine Greek sister goddesses believed to be less wild than the satyrs).

be sources of inspiration for the arts and goddesses

8. A conventional pastoral name, here perhaps of song; the well sacred to them was Aganippe, at referring to one of the tutors at Cambridge.

the foot of Mt. Helicon, where they danced about 9. I.e., Lycidas.

the altar of Jove (Greek Zeus), the supreme god.

1. Mythological female spirits inhabiting a partic-

3. I.e., place of burial.

ular place, object, or natural phenomenon.

4. I.e., the insect hum of midday, as the grayfly

2. The “steep” is probably the mountain Kerig-y-blows (“winds’) her horn in the (“sultry”) heat of Druidion, a burial ground in northern Wales for day.

the Druids, priestly poet-kings of Celtic Britain.

5. I.e., Hesperus, the evening star.

Mona is the Isle of Anglesey, Deva the river Dee,

6. Panpipes, traditionally played by shepherds in called “wizard” because its changes of course were pastoral.

supposed to foretell the country’s fortune. All three

7. In Roman mythology, the half-goat, half-man places are just south of that part of the Irish Sea woodland gods associated with lust and drinking where King drowned.

412 / JOHN MILTON

H a d y e b e e n t h e r e — f o r w h a t c o u l d t h a t h a v e d o n e ?

W h a t c o u l d t h e M u s e ³ h e r s e l f t h a t O r p h e u s b o r e,

T h e M u s e h e r s e l f, f o r h e r i n c h a n t i n g s o n

60 W h o m u n i v e r s a l N a t u r e d i d l a m e n t,

W h e n b y t h e r o u t t h a t m a d e t h e h i d e o u s r o a r,

H i s g o r y v i s a g e ⁰ d o w n t h e s t r e a m w a s s e n t, face

D o w n t h e s w i f t H e b r u s t o t h e L e s b i a n s h o r e ?

A l a s ! W h a t b o o t s ⁰ i t w i t h u n c e s s a n t c a r e profits

65 T o t e n d t h e h o m e l y s l i g h t e d s h e p h e r d ' s t r a d e,

A n d s t r i c t l y m e d i t a t e t h e t h a n k l e s s M u s e ? ⁴

W e r e i t n o t b e t t e r d o n e a s o t h e r s u s e,

T o s p o r t w i t h A m a r y l l i s ⁵ i n t h e s h a d e,

O r w i t h t h e t a n g l e s o f N e a e r a ' s h a i r ?

70 F a m e i s t h e s p u r t h a t t h e c l e a r s p i r i t d o t h r a i s e

(T h a t l a s t i n f i r m i t y o f n o b l e m i n d)

T o s c o r n d e l i g h t s, a n d l i v e l a b o r i o u s d a y s ; ⁶

B u t t h e f a i r g u e r d o n ⁰ w h e n w e h o p e t o f i n d, reward

A n d t h i n k t o b u r s t o u t i n t o s u d d e n b l a z e,

75 C o m e s t h e b l i n d F u r y ⁷ w i t h t h ' a b h o r r e d s h e a r s,

A n d s l i t s t h e t h i n s p u n l i f e . ” B u t n o t t h e p r a i s e , ”

P h o e b u s ⁸ r e p l i e d, a n d t o u c h e d m y t r e m b l i n g e a r s ;

” F a m e i s n o p l a n t t h a t g r o w s o n m o r t a l s o i l,

N o r i n t h e g l i s t e r i n g f o i l ⁹

so Set off to th' world, nor in broad rumor lies,
But lives and spreads aloft by those pure eyes,
And perfect witness of all-judging Jove;
As he pronounces lastly on each deed,
Of so much fame in Heaven expect thy meed." 0
reward 85 O fountain Arethuse,¹ and thou honored flood,
Smooth-sliding Mincius, crowned with vocal reeds,
That strain I heard was of a higher mood.

But now my oar^o proceeds, oaten pipe; song

And listens to the herald of the sea

90 That came in Neptune's plea.²

He asked the waves, and asked the felon winds, savage

"What hard mishap hath doomed this gentle swain?" 0 rustic fellow And questioned every gust of rugged wings stormy

That blows from off each beaked promontory;

95 They knew not of his story,

And sage Hippotades³ their answer brings,

That not a blast was from his dungeon strayed,

3. Calliope, the Muse of epic poetry. Her son, by her sisters.

Orpheus, the greatest of all poets and musicians,

8. Phoebus Apollo, god of poetic inspiration, who was torn limb from limb by a band of Thracian plucked Virgil's ears as a warning against impatient Maenads, who flung his head into the river ambition (see Virgil's Eclogues 6.3—4).

Hebrus, whence it drifted across the Aegean to the

9. The setting for a gem, especially one that island of Lesbos.

enhances the appearance of an inferior or false

4. I.e., do a poet's work.

stone.

5. A conventional pastoral name for a woman, like

1. A fountain in Sicily, associated with the pas-

Neaera in the next line.

toral poems of the Greek poet Theocritus (ca. 310—

6. I.e., fame is an incentive to virtue and hard 250 B.C.E). The Mincius (next line) is a river in work.

Italy described in one of Virgil's pastorals.

7. Atropos, the third of the three classical god-

2. The merman Triton comes to plead that his deesses called the Fates; she cut the thread of a master, Neptune, is innocent of Lycidas's death.

person's life after it had been spun and measured

3. Aeolus, son of Hippotas and god of the winds.

L Y C I D A S / 4 1 3

The air was calm, and on the level brine,⁴

Sleek Panope⁵ with all her sisters played.

100 It was that fatal and perfidious bark⁶

Built in th' eclipse, and rigged with curses dark,⁷

That sunk so low that sacred head of thine.

Next Camus,⁸ reverend sire, went footing slow,

His mantle hairy, and his bonnet sedge,

105 Inwrought with figures dim, and on the edge

Like to that sanguine flower inscribed with woe.

“Ah! who hath reft,” quoth he, “my dearest pledge?”⁰ child
 Last came and last did go
 The pilot of the Galilean lake,⁹
 110 Two massy keys he bore of metals twain⁰ two
 (The golden opes,^o the iron shuts amain).⁰ opens /vehemently
 He shook his mitered locks, and stern bespake:
 “How¹ well could I have spared⁰ for thee, young swain, given
up
 Enow” of such as for their bellies’ sake, enough
 115 Creep and intrude, and climb into the fold!
 Of other care they little reckoning make,
 Than how to scramble at the shearers’ feast,
 And shove away the worthy bidden guest.
 Blind mouths! That scarce themselves know how to hold 120 A sheep-hook, or have learned aught else the least
 That to the faithful herdsman’s art belongs!
 What recks it them?² What need they? They are sped;³
 And when they list,⁰ their lean and flashy⁰ songs choose /
insipid
 Grate on their scannel⁰ pipes of wretched straw. meager
 125 The hungry sheep look up, and are not fed,
 But swoln with wind, and the rank mist they draw,⁰ inhale
 Rot inwardly, and foul contagion spread,
 Besides what the grim wolf with privy paw⁴
 Daily devours apace,⁰ and nothing said. quickly
 130 But that two-handed engine at the door
 Stands ready to smite once, and smite no more.“⁵
 Return, Alpheus,⁶ the dread voice is past,
 That shrunk thy streams; return, Sicilian muse,

And call the vales, and bid them hither cast

4. I.e., the surface; brine: saltwater.

described in the argument. Camus uses the com-

5. One of the Nereids, daughters of Nereus, the mon metaphor of the shepherd as the pastor (pas- Old Man of the Sea.

tor is Latin for shepherd) and the sheep as the

6. I.e., the ship.

congregation.

7. Eclipses were considered evil omens.

2. I.e., what does it matter to them?

8. The god of the river Cam, representing Cam-

3. I.e., they have prospered.

bridge University, personified as wearing an aca-

4. I.e., anti-Protestant forces, either Roman Cath-demic robe (“mantle” and “bonnet”) with colors
olic or Anglican; privy: furtive, sly.

like the dark reeds (“sedge”) on its banks, but

5. A satisfactory explanation of these two lines has relieved by the crimson hyacinth (“sanguine

yet to be made, although many have been flower”). Certain markings on the hyacinth—attempted. Most have taken the “two-handed created by Apollo from the blood of the youth Hya-engine” as an instrument of retribution against cinthus, whom he had killed by accident with a

those clergy who neglect their responsibilities; pos-discus—are supposed to be the letters AIAI (“Alas, sibilities include the ax of reformation, the two-alas!”), inscribed by Apollo.

handed sword of the archangel Michael, the two

9. St. Peter, the Galilean fisherman, to whom houses of Parliament, or death and damnation.

Christ promised the keys of the kingdom of heaven

6. A river god who fell in love with the nymph Are-(Matthew 16.19). He wears the bishop’s miter (line thusa. W h e n she fled to Sicily, he pursued her by 112) as the first head of Christ’s Church.

diving under the sea and emerging on the island.

1. Here begins the speech condemning the “cor-

There she was turned into a fountain (see line 85), rupted clergy” and foretelling their “ruin” as

and their waters mingled.

4 1 4 / J O H N M I L T O N

Their bells and flowerets of a t h o u s a n d hues.

Ye valleys low where the mild whispers use,^o frequent

Of s h a d e s ^o and wanton winds, and gushing brooks, shadows

On w h o s e fresh lap the swart star⁷ sparely looks,

T h r o w hither all your quaint e n a m e l e d eyes,

T h a t on the green turf s u c k the honeyed showers,

And purple all the ground with vernal^o flowers.⁸

springtime

Bring the rathe^o primrose that forsaken dies,

early

T h e tufted crow-toe, and pale j e s s a m i n e , 9
T h e white pink, and the p a n s y freaked⁰ with jet, mottled

T h e glowing violet,
T h e musk-rose, and the well attired woodbine.⁰
honeysuckle

With cowslips wan^o that h a n g the pensive head,
pale

And every flower that sad embroidery wears:
Bid a m a r a n t h u s 1 all his beauty shed,
And daffadillies fill their c u p s with tears,
To strew the laureate⁰ hearse⁰ where Lycid lies.
laurel-decked / bier

For so to interpose a little ease,
Let our frail thoughts dally with false surmise.⁰ conjecture

Ay me! Whilst thee the shores and sounding seas
W a s h far away, where'er thy b o n e s are hurled,
Whether beyond the stormy Hebrides,²
W h e r e thou perhaps under the whelming⁰ tide overwhelming

Visit'st the bottom of the m o n s t r o u s 0 world;
monster-filled; huge

Or whether thou, to our moist vows³ denied,
Sleep'st by the fable of Bellerus old,⁴

W h e r e the great vision of the guarded m o u n t
Looks toward N a m a n c o s and Bayona's hold;
L o o k h o m e w a r d angel now, and melt with ruth:^o

pity

And, O ye dolphins, waft⁰ the hapless youth.⁵

transport

W e e p no more, woeful shepherds, weep no more,

For Lycidas your sorrow is not dead,

S u n k though he be beneath the watery floor,

So sinks the day-star⁰ in the ocean bed,

And yet anon[”] repairs his drooping head,

And tricks⁰ his b e a m s , and with new-spangled ore,⁰ dresses / gold

F l a m e s in the forehead of the morning sky:

So Lycidas sunk low, but m o u n t e d high,

T h r o u g h the dear might of him that walked the waves

W h e r e other groves, and other streams along,

With nectar pure his oozy^o locks he laves,⁰

slimy / bathes

And hears the unexpressive⁰ nuptial song,⁷ inexpressible

In the blest kingdoms m e e k of joy and love.

7. Sirius, the Dog Star, thought to have a swart, St. Michael's Mount, at the tip of Land's End, or malignant, influence (perhaps because this star "guarded" by the archangel Michael, who gazes is in the zenith in late summer, when vegetation southward toward Nemancos and the stronghold often withers).

of Bayona, in northwestern Spain.

8. Here begins a catalog of flowers, a traditional

5. According to Greek mythology, Palaemon, a element of pastoral elegy.

boy, drowned near Corinth; a dolphin carried his

9. Jasmine, fragrant white flowers. Craw-toe: a body to shore, and a temple was built to commem-name for various plants, either wild hyacinth or orate him. Milton may also be alluding to the buttercups.

myths of Arion and of Icadus, youths saved by dol-

1. A legendary flower, supposed never to fade.

phins from drowning.

2. The islands that lie west of Scotland's coast.

6. I.e., Christ (Matthew 14.26).

3. I.e., tearful prayers.

7. Perhaps a reference to the "marriage supper of

4. A legendary figure supposedly buried at Land's the lamb" (i.e., Christ), as described by St. John in End, in Cornwall. The "mount" of the next line is the Apocalypse (Revelation 19.9).

C O M U S / 4 1 5

There entertain him all the saints above,

In solemn troops and sweet societies

iso That sing, a n d singing in their glory move,

And wipe the tears forever from his eyes.

Now, Lycidas, the shepherds weep no more;

H e n c e f o r t h thou art the genius of the shore,8

In thy large r e c o m p e n s e , and shalt be good 185 To all that wander in that perilous flood.

T h u s a n g t h e u n c o u t h 0 swain to th' oaks and rills, unlettered While the still m o r n went out with sandals gray;

He t o u c h e d the tender stops of various quills,⁹

With eager thought warbling his Doric¹ lay:

190 And now the sun had stretched out all the hills,

And now was dropped into the western bay;

At last he rose, and twitched his mantle⁰ blue: cloak

T o m o r r o w to fresh woods, and pastures new.

1 6 3 7 1 6 4 5

From Comus²

Song³

Sweet Echo, sweetest nymph, that liv'st u n s e e n

Within thy airy shell,⁴

By slow Meander's margent green,⁵

And in the violet-embroider'd vale,

5 W h e r e the love-lorn nightingale⁶

Nightly to thee her sad song m o u r n e t h well;

C a n s t thou not tell me of a gentle pair

That likest thy N a r c i s s u s are?

O, if thou have

io Hid them in s o m e flowery cave,

Tell me but where,

8. The local divinity who protects navigators on she resists and is rescued by her brothers with help the Irish Sea ("flood").

from the river nymph, Sabrina.

9. The individual reeds in a set of panpipes.

3. Lost in the forest, the Lady calls on the nymph

1. Pastoral, because Doric was the dialect of the Echo for assistance.

ancient Greek pastoral writers Theocritus, Bion,

4. The sphere of air around Earth; Echo, in love and Moschus.

with the handsome youth Narcissus, who spurned

2. The last English work in Milton's 1645 Poems, her love, pined away until only her voice remained the poetic drama commonly called Comus was (see Ovid, Metamorphosis 3.359—401).

originally titled simply "A Mask Presented at Lud-

5. Meander is a river in Phrygia with a very wind- low Castle." It was produced in collaboration with ing (thus "slow") course. Margent: margin, i.e., the English composer Henry Lawes (1569—1662), bank.

who wrote music for these songs. Masques, pop-

6. The nightingale is known for its sweet, noctur- ular in the seventeenth century, were court enter- nal song; there are many classical myths about this tainments that included dance, song, drama, and bird. The Ovidian story of Philomela seems a likely spectacle; they usually celebrated an occasion—in subtext for the Lady's song because Philomela, like this case, the earl of Bridgewater's assuming the Echo, loses her full powers of speech. Philomela, presidency of Wales and the Marches. In the however, was "love-lorn" only in the ironic sense action of this masque, the Lady (played by the

of being victimized by another's passion; she was earl's daughter, Alice) is separated from her two raped by her brother-in-law, Tereus, who then tore younger brothers in a wood and accosted by out her tongue so that she could not speak. She Comus (a classical god of feast and revelry) and his wove the story into a tapestry and sent it to her band of revelers. Comus attempts to persuade the sister, who rescued her. She was later changed into chaste and virtuous Lady to join their revelry, but a nightingale while in flight from Tereus.

4 1 6

/ J O H N M I L T O N

Sweet q u e e n of parley,⁰ daughter of the sphere!⁷ speech

So mayst thou be translated to the skies,

And give resounding grace to all heav'n's harmonies.⁸

Song⁹

Sabrina fair,

Listen where thou art sitting

U n d e r the glassy, cool, translucent wave,

In twisted braids of lilies knitting

5 T h e loose train of thy amber-dropping hair;¹

Listen for dear honor's sake,

G o d d e s s of the silver lake,

Listen and save.

Sabrina rises, attended by water-nymphs, and sings.

By the rushy-fringed bank,

10 W h e r e grows the willow and the osier² dank,

My sliding chariot stays,⁰ halts

Thick set with agate, and the azure sheen³

Of turkis⁰ blue, and emerald green, turquoise

That in the channel strays;

15 Whilst from off the waters fleet,

T h u s I set my printless feet

O'er the cowslip's⁰ velvet head, a wildjlcnver's

That b e n d s not as I tread;

Gentle Swain,⁴ at thy request

20 I am here.

1 6 3 4 1 6 4 5

To Mr. H. Lawes, On His Airs⁵

Harry, whose tuneful and well-measured song

First taught our English m u s i c how to span⁰ measure

Words with just note and accent, not to scan

7. Echo was, according to some accounts, the stepmother, who was angry at the illicit liaison that daughter of Air and Earth. Before her encounter resulted in Sabrina's birth. Milton adds to the legend with Narcissus, she distracted Hera, queen of the end Sabrina's magical powers and her special congenods, by chattering while Hera's husband, Zeus, cern for virgins. In the text of the masque that consorted with other nymphs and mortal women. Milton published in 1645, the Spirit speaks Hera punished Echo by depriving her of the ability twenty-one lines of poetry between the first and to speak, except to repeat the words of others.

second segments of this song.

8. In myth, a traditional method of bestowing

1. Amber may refer to the color of her hair, i.e., immortality is transformation into a star or con-blond, through which water drips; or perhaps her stellation; thus “translated to the skies,” Echo will hair is wet with amber-colored water; or amber is provide, with her echoes, a resonance to “heav’n’s a perfume (from ambergris, a product of the harmonies,” perhaps the songs of the angels or the whale), and thus her hair is shedding perfume.

music of the spheres—a music, according to

2. A species of willow.

Pythagorean tradition, caused by the motion of the

3. Deep blue luster. Agate: a precious stone.

planetary spheres.

4. Shepherd; the attendant Spirit is dressed as a

9. The attendant Spirit, who has aided the broth-shepherd.

ers’ search for the Lady, calls on Sabrina for help.

5. Melodies. The composer Henry Lawes (see Sabrina was the goddess of the Severn; according note 2, p. 415) had written the music for Milton’s to a story retold by Spenser, among others, she was masque Comus (and printed the masque without a mortal girl thrown into the river by her vengeful Milton’s name in 1637).

T o T H E L O R D G E N E R A L C R O M W E L L / 4 1 7

With Midas' ears,⁶ committing⁰ short and long, misjoining

5 Th y worth an d skill exempts thee f r o m the throng,

With praise e n o u g h for Envy to look wan;⁰ pale

To after-age thou shalt be writ the m a n

T h a t with s m o o t h air couldst h u m o r best our tongue.

T h o u honor'st Verse, and Verse m u s t lend her wing

10 To honor thee, the priest of Phoebus' choir,

T h a t tun'st their happiest lines in hymn or story.⁷

D a n t e shall give F a m e leave to set thee higher

T h a n his Casella,⁸ w h o m he wooed to sing,

M e t in the milder shades of Purgatory.

1645 1648

I Did but Prompt the Age

I did but p r o m p t the age to quit their clogs⁹

By the known rules of ancient liberty,

W h e n straight a barbarous noise environs me

Of owls a n d cuckoos, asses, apes, and dogs;¹

5 As when those hinds that were transformed to frogs

Railed at Latona's twin-born progeny,²

W h i c h after held the sun a n d m o o n in fee.⁰ possession

B u t this is got by casting pearl to hogs,³

T h a t bawl for f r e e d o m in their senseless m o o d , io And still revolt when truth would set t h e m free.⁴

L i c e n s e they m e a n w h e n they cry liberty;

For who loves that m u s t first be wise and good:

B u t f r o m that mark how far they rove we see,

For all this waste of wealth and loss of blood.

1645/6 1673

To the Lord General Cromwell⁵

Cromwell, our chief of m e n , who through a cloud,

N o t of war only, but detractions rude,

G u i d e d by faith and matchless fortitude,

6. In Greek mythology, King Midas was given ass's

2. Apollo and Diana, afterwards deities of the sun ears for preferring the music of Pan, god of pas-and moon, respectively. Their mother, Latona, was

tures, flocks, and shepherds, to that of Phoebus refused a drink by Lycian peasants ("hinds"),

Apollo, god of music and poetry.

whom she then transformed into frogs.

7. Perhaps a reference to "The Story," a poem by

3. I.e., I receive this response because I gave William Cartwright (1 6 1 1 - 1 6 4 3) that Lawes set to something valuable to those who could not appreciate its value. Cf. Matthew 7.6: "Give not that

music.

8. In The Divine Comedy, Dante represents him-which is holy unto the dogs, neither cast your self, on the threshold of Purgatory, as meeting the pearls before swine, lest they trample them under shade of his musician friend Casella, who sings a their feet, and turn again and rend you."

ballad to him.

4. Cf. John 8.32: "And ye shall know the truth and

9. Heavy objects tied to prisoners' feet to impede the truth shall make you free."

motion.

5. Oliver Cromwell (1599-1655), successor to Sir

1. Milton had been attacked for advocating liber-

Thomas Fairfax as commander in chief of the Paralized divorce laws. "Known rules of ancient libliamentary armies. Because of its subject, this

erty" (line 2) refers to the law of divorce set forth

poem could not be published in Milton's 1673

in Deuteronomy 24.1 and also to the natural law

Poems.

of reason.

4 1 8 / J O H N M I L T O N

To p e a c e and truth thy glorious way hast ploughed,6

5 A n d on the neck7 of crowne d F o r t u n e prou d

H a s t reared God's trophies, a n d His work pursued,

While D a r w e n stream, with blood of Scots imbrued,0 stained

And D u n b a r field, resounds thy praises loud,

And Worcester's laureate wreath:8 yet m u c h remains

10 To c o n q u e r still; p e a c e hath her victories

No less renowned than war: new foes arise,

T h r e a t e n i n g to bind our souls with secular chains.9

H e l p us to save free c o n s c i e n c e from the p a w

Of hireling wolves, whose gospel is their maw.1

1 6 5 2 1 6 9 4

When I Consider How My Light Is Spent2

W h e n I consider how my light is spent
E r e half my days, in this dark world and wide,
A n d that one talent which is death to hide³
L o d g e d with me useless,⁴ though my soul m o r e bent
5 To serve therewith my Maker, and present
My true account, lest he returning chide;
” D o t h G o d exact day-labor, light denied?“⁵
I fondly⁰ ask; but Patience to prevent foolishly
T h a t m u r m u r , soon replies, ” G o d doth not need io Either man’s work or his own gifts; who best
B e a r his mild yoke, they serve him best. His state
Is kingly. T h o u s a n d s at his bidding speed
And post o’er land and o c e a n without rest:
They also serve who only stand and wait.”

ca. 1 6 5 2 1 6 7 3

On the Late Massacre in Piedmont⁶

Avenge, O Lord, thy slaughtered saints, whose bones
Lie scattered on the Alpine mountains cold,
Even t h e m who kept thy truth so pure of old

6. In 1651, Parliament issued a coin bearing the
3. An allusion to the parable of the talents, in words “Truth and Peace,” to express confidence in which the servant who buried the single talent his the results of Cromwell’s victories over the Scots lord had given him, instead of investing it, was at Preston on the banks of the Darwen (line 7) and deprived of all he had and cast “into outer dark-at Dunbar (line 8) and Worcester (line 9).

ness” at the lord’s return (Matthew 25.14—30).

7. King Charles I was beheaded in 1649.

4. With a pun on usury, or interest.

8. I.e., as in the garlands of laurels bestowed on

5. Alludes to the parable of the vineyard (Matthew victors in ancient Greece.

20.1—10) and to John 9.4, Jesus’ statement before

9. A possible reference to the clergy who in 1652 curing a blind man: “I must work the works of him asked Parliament to establish the English Church that sent me, while it is day: the night cometh, on broad Protestant principles but with a State-when no man can work.”

salaried and State-controlled ministry.

6. Some seventeen hundred members of the Prot-

1. Indicating a voracious appetite; see Christ’s estant Waldensian sect in the Piedmont in north-warning to “beware of false prophets, which come western Italy died as a result of a treacherous to you in sheep’s clothing, but inwardly they are attack by the duke of Savoy’s forces on Easter Day, ravens wolves” (Matthew 7.15).

1655.

2. Milton had become totally blind in 1652.

M E T H O U G H T I S A W / 4 1 9

W h e n all our fathers worshipped stocks and stones,⁷

5 Forget not: in thy boo k record their groans

W h o were thy sheep a n d in their ancient fold

Slain by the bloody P i e d m o n t e s e that rolled
M o t h e r with infant down the rocks. Their m o a n s T h e vales redoubled to the hills, and they 10 To Heaven . Thei r martyred blood an d ashe s sow O'er all th' Italian fields where still doth sway
T h e triple tyrant:8 that f r o m these may grow
A hundredfold, who having learnt thy way
Early may fly the Babylonian woe.9

1 6 5 5 1 6 7 3

Cyriack,1 Whose Grandsire

Cyriack, w h o s e grandsire on the royal b e n c h
Of British T h e m i s , 2 with no m e a n applause,
P r o n o u n c e d , and in his volumes taught, our laws,
W h i c h others at their bar so often wrench,
5 T o d a y deep thoughts resolve with me to drench
In mirth that after no repenting draws;
Let Euclid rest, and Archimedes p a u s e , 3
And what the S w e d e intend, and what the French.4
To m e a s u r e life learn thou betimes,0 and know early 10 Toward solid good what leads the nearest way;
For other things mild H e a v e n a time ordains,
And disapproves that care, though wise in show,
That with superfluous burden loads the day,
And, w h e n G o d sends a cheerful hour, refrains.

ca. 1 6 5 5 1 6 7 3

Methought I Saw

M e t h o u g h t I saw my late e s p o u s e d saint5
B r o u g h t to me like Alcestis6 f r o m the grave,

7. In Milton's time, Protestants thought the Waldensian sect dated from early Christian times

2. The Greek goddess of justice.

rather than (as historians now think) from the

3. Euclid and Archimedes (both third century twelfth century. "Stocks and stones" echoes the

B.C.E.), Greek mathematicians; Skinner's interest

prophet Jeremiah's denunciation of the Israelites'

in Greek mathematics may have begun when he worship of idols made of wood and stone (Jeremiah was a pupil in Milton's school on Aldersgate Street.

3.9); Milton's phrase could encompass both pagan

4. In 1655, King Charles X of Sweden was leading and Catholic forms of idolatry, and is appropriate military campaigns against the Poles; Cardinal

in a lament for members of a heretical sect known

Mazarin was leading French policy.

for rejecting materialist tendencies in the Catholic

5. The "saint," or soul in heaven, is probably Mil-

Church.

ton's second wife, Katherine Woodcock, to whom

8. The pope, whose tiara has three crowns.

he had been married less than two years (hence

9. Babylon, as a city of luxury and vice, was often "late espoused") when she died, in 1658; since Mil-linked with the Papal Court by Protestants, who ton had become blind in 1652, he almost certainly took the destruction of the city described in Revelation 18 as an allegory of the fate in store for the Roman Church.

reference to Mary Powell, Milton's first wife, who

1. Cyriack Skinner, a pupil of Milton and grand-died in childbirth in 1652.

son of Sir Edward Coke, the great jurist who

6. The wife brought back from the dead to her had been chief justice of the King's Bench under husband, Admetus, by the hero Hercules ("Jove's

4 2 0 /

J O H N M I L T O N

W h o m J o v e ' s g r e a t s o n t o h e r g l a d h u s b a n d g a v e , R e s c u e d f r o m D e a t h b y f o r c e , t h o u g h p a l e a n d f a i n t .

5 M i n e , a s w h o m t h e w a s h e d f r o m s p o t o f c h i l d - b e d t a i n t o n e w h o m P u r i f i c a t i o n i n t h e O l d L a w d i d s a v e ,⁷

A n d s u c h , a s y e t o n c e m o r e I t r u s t t o h a v e

F u l l s i g h t o f h e r i n h e a v e n w i t h o u t r e s t r a i n t ,

C a m e v e s t e d a l l i n w h i t e , p u r e a s h e r m i n d .

10 H e r f a c e w a s v e i l e d ; y e t t o m y f a n c i e d s i g h t

L o v e , s w e e t n e s s , g o o d n e s s , i n h e r p e r s o n s h i n e d

S o c l e a r a s i n n o f a c e w i t h m o r e d e l i g h t .

B u t O , a s t o e m b r a c e m e s h e i n c l i n e d ,

I w a k e d , s h e f l e d , a n d d a y b r o u g h t b a c k m y n i g h t .

ca. 1 6 5 8 1 6 7 3

FROM PARADISE LOST 1

The Verse²

T h e m e a s u r e is English heroic verse without rhyme, as that of H o m e r in Greek, a n d of Virgil in Latin;³ rhyme being no necessary adjunct or true great son,") in Euripides' Alcestis. She is veiled and to the garden to pronounce punishment upon the must remain silent until ritually cleansed.

humans, and Sin and Death create a broad high-

7. Hebrew law (Leviticus 12) prescribed certain way between hell and Earth (Book 10). Finally, sacrificial rituals for the purification of women

God sends the angel Michael to expel Adam and after childbirth.

Eve from the garden, but first Michael shows

1. Milton wrote this epic poem to "justify the ways

Adam the history of the world up through the com-of God to men," as he asserts in the opening of

ing of Christ, relating God's promise to redeem the Book 1. Although he eschews the traditional sub-

h u m a n race through the sacrifice of his Son (Books

ject matter of epic poetry—"fabled knights / In 11 and 12). Adam and Eve, heartened by this battles feigned" (9 . 3 0 - 3 1) — h e follows many con-promise, depart the garden "hand in hand with ventions of the epic form, including the beginning wand'ring steps and slow" (12.648). Although Mil-in medias res ("in the middle of things"), the invoton draws on biblical accounts of the events he cation of a muse (a request for divine aid in the narrates, he both embellishes these accounts and writing of the poem), the division of the poem into adds entire events of his own devising (such as the twelve books, the use of epic similes (extended and war in heaven, modeled on classical stories of bat-elaborately detailed comparisons that temporarily tles among gods).

draw the reader's attention from the subject at While there are many ways of approaching this hand), and the epic catalog (as of ships in Homer's poem, any approach will benefit from a careful Iliad and fallen angels in Paradise Lost). While Mil-consideration of Milton's language and the formal ton establishes that his poem is part of an epic tra-features of his poetry. Milton is a master of pros-oddy, and he frequently varies the meter of his blank Virgil's Aeneid, he questions some assumptions of verse in ways that enhance or complicate the that tradition (he introduces, for example, a differ-meaning of the words. His wordplay and the ent concept of heroism) and incorporates other ambiguous syntax of his long, complexly subordi-generic elements such as pastoral and drama. nated sentences allow the reader the experience, The poem begins in hell, where Satan and his in small, of the freedom to choose within a pre-fallen angels plot their revenge against God determined structure, an experience not unlike through the destruction of his newest creation, the that of the characters in his poem.

human race (Books 1 and 2). In Book 3, the scene shifts to heaven, where God predicts the disobedience of Adam and Eve, and Christ volunteers to undertake their redemption. In Book 4, Satan had “procured” the note to satisfy many readers enters Eden and attempts to enter Eve’s mind in a curious about why “the poem rhymes not.” Milledram. God sends the angel Raphael to warn Adamton’s decision to add the note may have been influenced by a debate between the poet John Dryden Raphael narrates to Adam the story of the war in heaven between Satan and his followers, and God, (1626—1698). Dryden’s Essay on Dramatic Verse Christ, and the angels loyal to God. Raphael goes (1668) records the controversy, in which Dryden on to relate the creation of the world and its inhabitants by God (Book 7). Adam, in Book 8, tells blank verse.

Raphael what he remembers of his own creation

3. English heroic verse was the iambic line of five feet, or ten syllables; heroic verse in Greek and Latin poetry was the hexameter.

P A R A D I S E L O S T : B O O K 1 / 4 2 1

o r n a m e n t of p o e m or good verse, in longer works especially, but the invention of a barbarous age, to set off wretched matter and l a m e meter; graced indeed since by the u s e of s o m e f a m o u s m o d e r n poets, carried away by c u s t o m , but m u c h to their own vexation, hindrance, and constraint, to express m a n y things otherwise, a n d for the m o s t part worse, than else they would have expressed them. N o t without cause, therefore, s o m e both Italian and S p a n i s h poets of prime note have rejected rhyme both in longer and shorter works, as have also, long since, our best English tragedies, as a thing of itself, to all judicious ears, trivial and of no true musical delight; which consists only in apt n u m b e r s , fit quantity of syllables, a n d the sense variously drawn out f r o m one verse into another, not in the jingling s o u n d of like endings, a fault avoided by the learned ancients both in poetry and all good oratory. This neglect then of rhyme, so little is to be taken for a defect, though it may s e e m so perhaps to vulgar readers, that it rather is to be e s t e e m e d an example set, the first in English, of ancient liberty recovered to heroic p o e m f r o m the troublesome and m o d e r n b o n d a g e of rhyming.

Book 1

*[The Invocation]*⁴

Of man's first disobedience, and the fruit
Of that forbidden tree⁵ whose mortal taste deadly
Brought death into the world, and all our woe,
With loss of Eden, till one greater Man⁶
Restore us, and regain the blissful seat,
Sing, Heavenly Muse,⁷ that, on the secret top
Of Oreb, or of Sinai, didst inspire
That shepherd who first taught the chosen seed
In the beginning how the Heavens and Earth
io Rose out of Chaos: or, if Sion hill
Delight thee more, and Siloa's brook that flowed Faster by the oracle of God, I thence Invoke thy aid to my adventurous song,
That with no middle flight intends to soar
15 Above th' Aonian mount, while it pursues
Things unattempted yet in prose or rhyme.⁸
And chiefly thou, O Spirit, that dost prefer

4. In these opening lines, Milton follows long-Horeb (also called Sinai) and commanded him to established epic tradition by stating his subject and lead Israel ("the chosen seed") out of Egypt. God's invoking divine aid in the treatment of it.

Spirit might also be found at Jerusalem in the Tem-

5. In Genesis 2.17, God commands that Adam ple of Mount Sion (“the oracle of God,” line 12)

and Eve not eat from the fruit of one tree.

overlooking the stream Siloam, here contrasted
6. Christ, the second Adam.

with such haunts of the pagan Muses as “th’ Aon-

7. The invocation of the muse is an epic conven-ian mount” (Helicon, in Greece, line 15). Milton tion. In the invocation to Book 7, Milton specifiasks this Spirit not only for inspiration but for cally calls upon Urania, the patroness of astronomy instruction, since God alone was present “from the

and one of the nine Muses of Greek tradition, to first” (line 19) and knows the whole truth of the assist him in telling the story of Creation. But he events Milton is about to relate.

insists that it is the “meaning, not the Name I call”

8. Ironically, Milton’s claim of originality in this (7.5), suggesting that the non-Christian name is line translates a boast made by Ariosto in his inadequate to his true intentions.

Orlando Furioso (1.2). In Paradise Lost, Book 9,

Here, the muse seems to represent the Spirit of lines 27—47 (see p. 426), Milton criticizes the kind

God, the same Spirit that spoke to Moses (“That of chivalric epic written by Ariosto and by Edmund shepherd,” line 8) out of the burning bush on Mt.

Spenser.

B e f o r e all temples th' upright heart and pure,
I n s t r u c t me, for thou know'st; thou f r o m the first 20 W a s t present, and, with mighty wings outspread ,
D o v e l i k e sat'st brooding on the vast abyss,
A n d m a d ' s t it pregnant: what in me is dark
I l l u m i n e; what is low, raise and support;
T h a t , to the height of this great argument,⁰ theme 25 I m a y assert Eternal Providence,
A n d j u s t i f y the ways of G o d to men.

From Book 49

O for that warning voice, which he who saw
T h ' A p o c a l y p s e, heard cry in heaven aloud,
T h e n w h e n the Dragon, put to s e c o n d rout,⁰ defeat

C a m e furious down to be revenged on men,
" W o e to the inhabitants on earth!"¹ that now,
W h i l e t i m e was,² our first parents had been warned
T h e c o m i n g of their secret foe, and scaped⁰ escaped

H a p l y so scaped his mortal snare;"* for now
S a t a n , now first inflamed with rage, c a m e down,
T h e t e m p t e r ere⁰ th' a c c u s e r of mankind, before being

T o w r e c k⁰ on innocent frail m a n his loss⁴
avenge, wreak

O f t h a t first battle, and his flight to Hell:
Y e t n o t rejoicing in his speed, though bold,
F a r o f f and fearless, nor with c a u s e to boast,

Begins his dire attempt, which nigh the birth
N o w rolling,0 boils in his t u m u l t u o u s breast, moving on
And like a devilish engine5 b a c k recoils
U p o n himself; horror a n d doubt distract
His troubled thoughts, and f r o m the bottom stir
T h e Hell within him, for within him Hell
He brings, and round about him, nor f r o m Hell
O n e step no more than f r o m himself can fly
By c h a n g e of place: now c o n s c i e n c e wakes despair
That slumbered, wakes the bitter m e m o r y
Of what he was, what is, and what m u s t be

9. Book 4 opens on the newly created Earth, and sun (with a punning allusion to the Son of God, specifically in the garden of Eden, which Satan is who, we later learn, has driven Satan from heaven) approaching as the “foe” of “our first parents” recalls the opening soliloquy of Shakespeare’s (lines 7—8), Adam and Eve. Satan is a “secret” Richard III, in which Richard, in the “winter of our enemy because Adam and Eve do not yet know of discontent,” also depicts his rival as a son/sun.

his fall and vengeful decision to continue his battle
1. John of Patmos, in Revelation 12.7—12, hears against God by attacking God’s new, h u m a n crea- such a cry during a second war in heaven between tures. The narrator opens the book by expressing a the dragon and the angels, at the end of time.

desire to warn Adam and Eve of the danger they

2. While there was still time.

face “now” (line 8), in the epic’s re-creation of a

3. His deadly (and, in this case, death-creating) paradisaal present time. Before seeing Eden, the trap. Haply: i.e., perhaps; also, with a play on hap- reader sees and “hears” Satan, speaking in solilo-pily.

quy. This speech was, according to Milton’s

4. I.e., Satan’s, for which he seeks to “wreck”— nephew Edward Phillips, the first part of the epic take revenge—on “man” as a substitute for God Milton wrote, when he was still contemplating and Christ.

treating the Genesis story as a drama (to be called

5. I.e., the cannon that Satan invents in Book 6; Adam Unparadized). Satan’s hostile address to the
but also a play on engine as “plot.”

P A R A D I S E L O S T : B O O K 1 / 4 2 3

Worse; of worse deeds worse sufferings must ensue.

Sometimes towards Eden which now in his view

Lay pleasant, his grieved look he fixes sad,

Sometimes towards Heav’n and the full-blazing sun,

30 Which now sat high in his meridian tow’r:6

Then much revolving,0 thus in sighs began. pondering

“O thou that with surpassing glory crowned,

Look’st from thy sole dominion like the god

Of this new world: at whose sight all the stars

35 Hide their diminished heads; to thee I call,
But with no friendly voice, and add thy name
0 sun, to tell thee how I hate thy beams
That bring to my remembrance from what state
1 fell, how glorious once above thy sphere;
40 Till pride and worse ambition threw me down
Warring in Heav'n against Heav'n's matchless King:
Ah wherefore! he deserved no such return
From me, whom he created what I was
In that bright eminence, and with his good 45 Upbraided none,⁷ nor was his service hard.
What could be less than to afford him praise,
The easiest recompense, and pay him thanks,
How due! yet all his good proved ill in me,
And wrought but malice; lifted up so high 50 I 'sdained⁰ subjection, and thought one step higher disdained
Would set me highest, and in a moment quit⁰ repay
The debt immense of endless gratitude,
So burthensome still⁰ paying, still to owe; always
Forgetful what from him I still received,
55 And understood not that a grateful mind
By owing owes not, but still pays, at once Indebted and discharged; what burden then?
O had his powerful destiny ordained
Me some inferior angel, I had stood
60 Then happy; no unbounded hope had raised Ambition. Yet why not? some other Power⁰ angel

As great might have aspired, and me though mean⁰ inferior, low

Drawn to his part; but other Powers as great

Fell not, but stand unshaken, from within 65 Or from without, to all temptations armed.

Hadst thou⁸ the same free will and power to stand?

Thou hadst: whom hast thou then or what to accuse,

But Heav'n's free love dealt equally to all?

Be then his love accursed, since love or hate,

70 To me alike, it deals eternal woe.

Nay cursed be thou; since against his thy will

Chose freely what it now so justly rues.⁰ regrets

Me miserable!⁹ which way shall I fly

6. Midday, the height of noon.

8. Satan addresses himself.

7. Demanded no return for his benefits. Cf. James

9. This phrase recalls the common Latin construction describing the self as an object, in the 1.5: "If any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God

... and upbraideth not... ."

"accusative" case: me miserum!

4 2 4 / J O H N M I L T O N

Infinite wrath, and infinite despair?¹

75 W h i c h way I fly is Hell; myself am Hell;

And in the lowest deep a lower deep

Still threat'ning to devour me opens wide,

To which the Hell I suffer seems a Heav'n.

O then at last relent! is there no place

so L e f t for repentance , n o n e for pardo n left?
N o n e left but by submission; and that word
Disdain forbids me, a n d my dread of s h a m e
A m o n g the Spirits beneath, w h o m I s e d u c e d
With other promises and other vaunts⁰ boasts 85 T h a n to submit, boasting I could s u b d u e
Th' O m n i p o t e n t . A y m e , they little know
H o w dearly I abide⁰ that boast so vain, pay the penalty for U n d e r what torments inwardly I groan:
While they adore me on the throne of Hell,
90 With d i a d e m ⁰ and scepter high advanced crown
T h e lower still I fall, only s u p r e m e
In misery; s u c h joy ambition finds.
But say I could repent and could obtain
By act of grace² my former state; how soon
95 W o u l d h i g h t recall high thoughts, how soo n unsa y
W h a t feigned submission swore: ease would recant³ Vows m a d e in pain, as violent⁰ and void. forced
For never can true reconcilment grow
W h e r e w o u n d s of deadly hate have pierced so deep:
100 W h i c h would but lead me to a worse relapse,
And heavier fall: so should I p u r c h a s e dear
Short intermission bought with double smart.⁰ sting
This knows my punisher; therefore as far
F r o m granting he, as I f r o m begging peace:
105 All h o p e excluded thus, behold instead
Of us outcast, exiled, his new delight,
M a n k i n d created, and for him this world.

So farewell hope, and with hope farewell fear,
Farewell remorse: all good to me is lost;
110 Evil be thou my good; by thee at least Divided empire with Heav'n's King I hold
By thee, and more than half perhaps will reign;⁴
As man ere long, and this new world shall know.”

1. Compressed syntax: whichever way I fly, I shall rogated by official authorities). Satan is ironically find... .

suggesting that a condition of “ease” acquired

2. By a favor, not a right; the term was often used through submission would lead him to change the in political contexts to describe a formal pardon.

vows of “repentance” made in his present condi-

3. Literally, sing again; the verb was often used to tion of pain.

describe formal renunciations of religious views

4. Spelled raign in the original text, the verb is that the state deemed erroneous (e.g., Catholics transitive and means “rule over.”

might “recant” their views when arrested and inter-

P A R A D I S E L O S T : B O O K 1 / 4 2 5

Book 9

*The Argument*⁵

Satan, having c o m p a s s e d the Earth, with meditated guile returns as a mist by night into Paradise; enters into the S e r p e n t sleeping. A d a m and Eve in the morning go forth to their labors, which Eve proposes to divide in several places, each laboring apart: A d a m c o n s e n t s not, alleging the danger lest that e n e m y of w h o m they were forewarned should attempt her f o u n d alone. Eve, loth to be thought not c i r c u m s p e c t or firm enough, urges her going apart, the rather desirous to m a k e trial of her strength; A d a m at last yields. T h e S e r p e n t finds her alone: his subtle approach, first gazing, then speaking, with m u c h flattery extolling Eve above all other creatures. Eve, wondering to hear the Serpent speak, asks how he attained to h u m a n speech and s u c h understanding not till now; the S e r p e n t answers that by tasting of a certain tree in the G a r d e n he attained both to speech and reason, till then void of both.

Eve requires him to bring her to that tree, and finds it to be the Tree of Knowledge forbidden; the Serpent, now grown bolder, with many wiles and a r g u m e n t s induces her at length to eat. She, pleased with the taste, deliberates a while whether to impart thereof to A d a m or not; at last brings him of the fruit; relates what p e r s u a d e d her to eat thereof. A d a m , at first amazed, but perceiving her lost, resolves, through v e h e m e n c e of love, to perish with her, and, extenuating the trespass, eats also of the fruit. T h e effects thereof in t h e m both; they seek to cover their nakedness; then fall to variance and a c c u s a t i o n of one another.

No more of talk where G o d or angel guest⁶

With man, as with his friend, familiar used

To sit indulgent, and with him partake
 Rural repast, permitting him the while 5 Venial⁰ discourse unblamed. I now m u s t c h a n g e allowable T h o s e notes to tragic—foul distrust, and breach
 Disloyal, on the part of man, revolt
 And disobedience; on the part of Heaven,
 N o w alienated, distance and distaste,
 io Anger an d j u s t rebuke, an d j u d g m e n t given,
 T h a t brought into this world a world of woe,
 Sin and her shadow Death, and Misery,
 Death's harbinger. S a d task, yet a r g u m e n t
 N o t less but more heroic than the wrath
 15 Of stern Achilles on his f o e p u r s u e d
 Thrice fugitive about Troy wall; or rage
 Of T u r n u s for Lavinia disespoused;
 Or N e p t u n e ' s ire, or Juno's, that so long Perplexed the Greek, a n d Cytherea's son:7

5. The Argument is a prose summary of the action on the verse, in a 1668 reissue of the first edition of the book. Paradise Lost was originally published

6. Adam has just concluded a conversation with without Arguments, but the printer asked Milton the angel Raphael (at the end of Book 8).

to provide them because many readers found the 7. Important moments in important epics. Achil-poem difficult. They first appeared, with the note les, whose “wrath” is the epic subject announced

20 If answerable 0 style I can obtain suitable, fitting
Of my celestial Patroness,⁸ who deigns⁰ condescends to grant
Her nightly visitation unimplored,
And dictates to me slumbering, or inspires
Easy my unpremeditated verse,
25 Since first this subject for heroic song
Pleased me, long choosing and beginning late,
Not sedulous⁰ by nature to indite⁰ diligent / write about
Wars, hitherto the only argument⁰ subject
Heroic deemed, chief mastery to dissect
30 With long and tedious havoc fabled knights
In battles feigned (the better fortitude
Of patience and heroic martyrdom
Unsung), or to describe races and games,
Or tilting furniture,⁹ emblazoned shields,
35 Impress quaint, caparison and steeds,
Bases and tinsel trappings, gorgeous knights
At joust and tournament; then marshaled feast
Served up in hall with sewers⁰ and seneschals:⁰ waiters / stewards
The skill of artifice⁰ or officeman; ⁰ applied art / low 40 Not that which justly gives heroic name
To person or to poem. Me, of these Nor⁰ skilled nor studious, higher argument neither
Remains,¹ sufficient of itself to raise
That name, ² unless an age too late, or cold
45 Climate, or years, damp my intended wing
Depressed; and much they may if all be mine,
Not hers who brings it nightly to my ear.³

T h e sun was sunk, and after him the star
Of H e s p e r u s , 0 w h o s e office is to bring the evening star* 50 Twiligh t u p o n the Earth, short arbiter
‘Twixt day and night, and now f r o m end to end
Night’s h e m i s p h e r e had veiled the horizon round,
W h e n Satan, who late fled before the threats
Of Gabriel out of Eden, now improved⁰ made worse
55 In meditate d frau d an d malice, bent
On man’s destruction, m a u g r e 0 what might hap⁰
despite / happen* Of heavier⁴ on himself, fearless returned.
By night he fled, and at midnight returned F r o m c o m p a s s i n g the E a r t h — c a u t i o u s of day

in the first line of the Iliad, pursued Hector three mented coverings spread over the saddles or har-times around the walls of Troy before slaying him.
 nesses of horses. Bases: skirtlike coverings, Turnus (in the Aeneid) fought with Aeneas for the sometimes of armor, intended to decorate and pro-hand of Lavinia. Neptune hindered Odysseus (“the tect warhorses.

Greek”) in his attempts to return home after the
 1. I.e., to me, not skilled or learned in these Trojan War, and Juno, hostile to Venus (“Cythethings, remains a more important subject.
 rea”), made difficulties for Venus’s son Aeneas.

2. I.e., “heroic name” (from line 40).

8. Urania, the “Heavenly Muse” whose aid Milton

3. I.e., these things, “an age too late” (the age of had invoked in Book 1, line 6 (but see also note 7, the world), “cold Climate,” or “years” (the poet’s p. 421).

age), might indeed “damp” or b e n u m b his intent if

9. The equipment used in a tilt, or tournament, the effort of writing the poem were all his instead examples of which follow. Impreses: heraldic of “hers,” i.e., that of his “celestial Patroness.” emblems displayed on shields. Caparisons: orna-
4. Of heavier: worse.

P A R A D I S E L O S T : B O O K 1 / 4 2 7

60 Since Uriel, regent of the sun, descried
His entrance, a n d forewarned the C h e r u b i m 5
That kept their watch. T h e n c e , full of anguish, driven,
T h e s p a c e of seven continued nights he rode
With darkness; thrice the equinoctial line
65 He circled, four times crossed the car of Night
F r o m pole to pole, traversing e a c h colure;6
On the eighth returned, and on the coast0 averse0 side / turned away F r o m entrance or cherubic watch by stealth
F o u n d u n s u s p e c t e d way. There was a place 70 (N o w not, though Sin, not Time, first wrought the change)
W h e r e Tigris, at the foot of Paradise,
Into a gulf shot under ground, till part
R o s e up a fountain by the Tree of Life.
In with the river s u n k a n d with it rose
75 Satan , involved in rising mist; then sough t
W h e r e to lie hid. S e a he had s e a r c h e d and land,

F r o m E d e n over Pontus,⁷ and the pool
Maeotis, up beyond the river Ob;
D o w n w a r d as far antarctic; and, in length,
80 W e s t f r o m Orontes to the o c e a n barred
At Darien, thence to the land where flows
G a n g e s a n d Indus. T h u s the orb he r o a m e d
With narrow search, a n d with inspection deep
C o n s i d e r e d every creature, which of all 85 M o s t opportune might serve his wiles, and f o u n d
T h e serpent subtlest beast of all the field.⁸
Him, after long debate, irresolute
Of thoughts revolved, his final sentence⁰ chose judgment
Fit vessel, fittest imp^o of fraud, in w h o m offshoot, child
90 To enter, a n d his dark suggestions hide
F r o m sharpest sight; for in the wily snake
Whatever sleights⁰ none would suspicious mark, artifices
As from his wit and native subtlety
Proceeding, which, in other beasts observed,
95 D o u b t ⁰ might beget of diabolic power suspicion
Active within beyond the s e n s e of brute.
T h u s he resolved, but first f r o m inward grief
His bursting passion into plaints thus poured:
“O Earth, how like to Heaven, if not preferred
100 M o r e justly, seat worthier of G o d s , as built

5. An order of angels. In medieval astronomy, space of seven days, first along the equator and each of the concentric crystalline spheres contain- then over the poles, always timing his flight so as ing one of the heavenly bodies was supposed to be to remain hidden on the dark side.

inhabited by an angel, its “intelligence,” who gov-
7. In lines 77—82, Satan’s search extends from the earned its motion; Uriel is one of the four great Black Sea (Pontus) to the connecting Sea of Azov archangels of the Jewish tradition, along with (the pool Maeotis) and northward beyond the river Raphael, Gabriel, and Michael.

Ob in Siberia: southward to the antarctic; and
6. The “equinoctial line” is the equator. The “car westward from the Orontes River in Syria to the of Night” is Earth’s shadow, depicted as the chariot isthmus of Panama (Darien) and on around the of the goddess Night. The colures are two of the world to India.

great circles that pass through the celestial poles,
8. Milton here follows Genesis 3.1: “Now the ser- one intersecting the ecliptic at the equinoxes, the pent was more subtle than any beast of the field other at the solstices. Satan circles Earth for the which the Lord God had made.”

428 / JOHN MILTON

With second thoughts, reforming what was old!
For what God, after better, worse would build?
Terrestrial Heaven, danced round by other Heavens,
That shine, yet bear their bright officious⁰ lamps, helpful
Light above light, for thee alone, as seems,

In thee concentrating all their precious beams
Of sacred influence!9 As God in Heaven
Is center, yet extends to all, so thou
Centring receiv'st from all those orbs; in thee,
Not in themselves, all their known virtue appears,
Productive in herb, plant, and nobler birth
Of creatures animate with gradual life
Of growth, sense, reason, all summed up in man.1
With what delight could I have walked thee round,
If I could joy in aught; sweet interchange
Of hill and valley, rivers, woods, and plains,
Now land, now sea, and shores with forest crowned,
Rocks, dens, and caves! But I in none of these Find place or refuge; and, the more I see Pleasures about me, so much more I feel Torment within me, as from the hateful siege
Of contraries; all good to me becomes Bane,° and in Heaven much worse would be my state.
poison, evil

But neither here seek I, no, nor in Heaven,
To dwell, unless by mastering Heaven's Supreme;
Nor hope to be myself less miserable
By what I seek, but others to make such
As I, though thereby worse to me redound.0 return
For only in destroying I find ease
To my relentless thoughts; and him° destroyed, Adam
Or won to what may work his utter loss,
For whom all this was made, all this2 will soon

Follow, as to him linked in weaP or woe: happiness
 In woe then, that destruction wide may range!
 To me shall be the glory sole among
 The infernal Powers, in one day to have marred
 What he, Almighty stiled, six nights and days
 Continued making, and who knows how long
 Before had been contriving; though perhaps
 Not longer than since I in one night freed
 From servitude inglorious well nigh half
 The angelic name,³ and thinner left the throng
 Of his adorers. He, to be avenged,
 And to repair his numbers thus impaired—
 Whether such virtue,⁰ spent of old, now failed power, energy
 More angels to create (if they at least
 Are his created),⁴ or to spite us more—

9. Satan seems to describe here a Ptolemaic system of the universe, in which Earth is the center harmed, as Satan predicts, at 9 . 7 8 2 - 8 4 (p. 442).

3. I.e., half the angels. Satan alludes to the revolt around which many heavenly bodies turn.

he led against God, the consequence of which was

1. Earth is populated with forms of life on a graduated scale ranging from plants, which merely gerates here) were cast out of heaven into hell.

grow; to animals, which both grow and feel; to

4. Only once (at the beginning of Book 4, line 43) humans, who grow, feel, and think.

does Satan speak of the angels as created by God,

2. I.e., Earth (and specifically Eden), which is instead of self-created (as he implies here).

P A R A D I S E L O S T : B O O K 1 / 4 2 9

Determined to advance into our room

A creature formed of earth,⁵ and him endow,

150 Exalted from so base original,

With Heavenly spoils, our spoils. What he decreed

He effected; Man he made, and for him built

Magnificent this World, and Earth his seat,

Him Lord pronounced, and, O indignity!

155 Subjected to his service angel-wings

And flaming ministers, to watch and tend

Their earthy charge. Of these the vigilance

I dread, and to elude, thus wrapped in mist

Of midnight vapor, glide obscure, and pry

i60 In every bush and brake, where hap^o may find luck

The serpent sleeping, in whose mazy folds

To hide me, and the dark intent I bring.

O foul descent! that I, who erst contended

With Gods to sit the highest, am now constrained

165 Into a beast, and, mixed with bestial slime,

This essence to incarnate and imbrute,⁶

That to the height of deity aspired!

But what will not ambition and revenge

Descend to? Who aspires must down as low

170 As high he soared, obnoxious,⁰ first or last, exposed.

To basest things. Revenge, at first though sweet,
 Bitter ere long back on itself recoils.
 Let it; I reckon not, so it light well aimed, care
 Since higher I fall short, on him who next 175 Provokes my envy, this new favorite
 Of Heaven, this man of clay, son of despite,⁰ spite, scorn
 Whom, us the more to spite, his Maker raised
 From dust: spite then with spite is best repaid.”
 So saying, through each thicket, dank or dry, 180 Like a black mist low-creeping, he held on His midnight search, where soonest he might find
 The serpent. Him fast sleeping soon he found,
 In labyrinth of many a round self-rolled,
 His head the midst, well stored with subtle wiles:
 185 Not yet in horrid shade or dismal den,
 Nor nocent⁰ yet, but on the grassy herb, harmful
 Fearless, unfeared, he slept. In at his mouth
 The Devil entered, and his brutal⁰ sense, animal
 In heart or head, possessing soon inspired 190 With act intelligential; but his sleep
 Disturbed not, waiting close⁰ the approach of morn. hidden
 Now, whenas sacred light began to dawn
 In Eden on the humid flowers, that breathed
 Their morning incense, when all things that breathe
 195 From th’ Earth’s great altar send up silent praise
 To the Creator, and his nostrils fill

5. Milton explains in Book 7 (lines 524-26) that dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils

Adam is made from earth: “he form’d thee, Adam,
the breath of life.”

thee O man / Dust of the ground, and in thy nos-
6. Satan’s incarnation in the body of the serpent trils breath’d / The breath of Life,” following Genesis 2.7: “And the Lord God formed man of the h u m a n form.

430 / JOHN MILTON

With grateful smell, forth came the human pair,
And joined their vocal worship to the choir
Of creatures wanting0 voice; that done, partake 200 The season, prime0 for sweetest scents and airs;
best

Then commune how that day they best may ply
Their growing work; for much their work outgrew
The hands’ dispatch of two gardening so wide:
And Eve first to her husband thus began:
205 “Adam, well may we labor still0 to dress continually

This garden, still to tend plant, herb, and flower,
Our pleasant task enjoined; but, till more hands
Aid us, the work under our labor grows, Luxurious0 by restraint: what we by day luxuriant

210 Lop overgrown, or prune, or prop, or bind,
One night or two with wanton growth derides,
Tending to wild. Thou, therefore, now advise,

Or hear what to my mind first thoughts present.
Let us divide our labors; thou where choice
215 Leads thee, or where most needs, whether to wind
The woodbine⁷ round this arbor, or direct
The clasping ivy where to climb; while I
In yonder spring⁰ of roses intermixed
growth

With myrtle⁸ find what to redress⁰ till noon.
set upright

220 For, while so near each other thus all day
Our task we choose, what wonder if so near Looks intervene and smiles, or object new Casual discourse draw on, which intermits
Our day's work, brought to little, though begun
225 Early, and the hour of supper comes unearned!"

To whom mild answer Adam thus returned:
"Sole Eve, associate sole,⁹ to me beyond
Compare above all living creatures dear!
Well hast thou motioned,⁰ well thy thoughts employed suggested.

230 How we might best fulfil the work which here
God hath assigned us, nor of me shalt pass
Unpraised; for nothing lovelier can be found
In woman than to study household good,
And good works in her husband to promote.

235 Yet not so strictly hath our Lord imposed
Labor as to debar us when we need Refreshment, whether food, or talk between,

Food of the mind, or this sweet intercourse
Of looks and smiles; for smiles from reason flow,
240 To brute denied, and are of love the food;
Love, not the lowest end of human life.
For not to irksome toil, but to delight,
He made us, and delight to reason joined.
These paths and bowers⁰ doubt not but our joint hands arbors
245 Will keep from wilderness with ease, as wide
As we need walk, till younger hands ere long 7. A name for various climbing plants. Venus, and thus an emblem of love.
8. The myrtle tree, having shiny green leaves and 9. With a pun: “unrivaled” and “only.”

white flowers; associated with the Roman goddess

P A R A D I S E L O S T : B O O K 1 / 4 3 1

Assist us. But, if much converse perhaps Thee satiate, to short absence I could yield;
For solitude sometimes is best society,
250 And short retirement urges sweet return.
But other doubt possesses me, lest harm
Befall thee, severed from me; for thou know'st
What hath been warned us—what malicious foe,
Envyng our happiness, and of his own
255 Despairing, seeks to work us woe and shame
By sly assault, and somewhere nigh at hand
Watches, no doubt, with greedy hope to find
His wish and best advantage, us asunder,
Hopeless to circumvent⁰ us joined, where each outwit
260 To other speedy aid might lend at need.

Whether his first design be to withdraw
Our fealty from God, or to disturb Conjugal love—than which perhaps no bliss
Enjoyed by us excites his envy more—265 Or° this, or worse, leave not the faithful side whether
That gave thee being,¹ still shades thee and protects.
The wife, where danger or dishonor lurks,
Safest and seemliest by her husband stays,
Who guards her, or with her the worst endures.”
270 To whom the virgin⁰ majesty of Eve, innocent
As one who loves, and some unkindness meets,
With sweet austere composure thus replied:
“Offspring of Heaven and Earth, and all Earth’s lord!
That such an enemy we have, who seeks 275 Our ruin, both by thee informed I learn,
And from the parting angel overheard,
As in a shady nook I stood behind,
Just then returned at shut of evening flowers.
But that thou shouldst my firmness therefore doubt
280 To God or thee, because we have a foe
May tempt it, I expected not to hear.
His violence thou fear’st not, being such
As we, not capable of death or pain,
Can either not receive, or can repel.
285 His fraud is, then, thy fear; which plain infers
Thy equal fear that my firm faith and love
Can by his fraud be shaken or seduced:
Thoughts, which how found they harbor in thy breast,

Adam, misthought oP her to thee so dear?" about 290 To whom, with healing words, Adam replied:
"Daughter of God and Man, immortal Eve!
For such thou art, from sin and blame entire⁰ wholly free
Not diffident⁰ of thee do I dissuade mistrustful
Thy absence from my sight, but to avoid 295 Th' attempt itself, intended by our foe.

For he who tempts, though in vain, at least asperses²

1. In Book 8 (lines 465—71), Adam describes the Lord God had taken from man, made he a God's creation of Eve out of a rib taken from his woman, and brought her unto the man."

side, following Genesis 2.22: "And the rib, which 2. Maligns (literally, sprinkles).

432 / JOHN MILTON

The tempted with dishonor foul, supposed
Not incorruptible of faith, not proof
Against temptation. Thou thyself with scorn
And anger wouldst resent the offered wrong,
Though ineffectual found; misdeem not, then,
If such affront I labor to avert
From thee alone, which on us both at once
The enemy, though bold, will hardly dare;
Or, daring, first on me th' assault shall light.
Nor thou his malice and false guile contemn⁰— regard scornfully
Subtle he needs must be who could seduce
Angels—nor think superfluous others' aid.
I from the influence of thy looks receive Access⁰ in every virtue—in thy sight increase

More wise, more watchful, stronger, if need were
Of outward strength; while shame, thou looking on,
Shame to be overcome or overreached,⁰ outwitted
Would utmost vigor raise, and raised unite.
Why shouldst not thou like sense within thee feel
When I am present, and thy trial choose
With me, best witness of thy virtue tried?”
So spake domestic Adam in his care
And matrimonial love; but Eve, who thought Less⁰ attributed to her faith sincere, too little
Thus her reply with accent sweet renewed:
“If this be our condition, thus to dwell
In narrow circuit straitened⁰ by a foe, constrained, limited
Subtle or violent, we not endued⁰ endowed
Single with like defense wherever met,
How are we happy, still⁰ in fear of harm? continually
But harm precedes not sin: only our foe
Tempting affronts us with his foul esteem
Of our integrity: his foul esteem
Sticks no dishonor on our front,⁰ but turns brow
Foul on himself; then wherefore shunned or feared
By us, who rather double honor gain
From his surmise proved false, find peace within,
Favor from Heaven, our witness, from the event?⁰ outcome
And what is faith, love, virtue, unassayed⁰ untested
Alone, without exterior help sustained?
Let us not then suspect our happy state
Left so imperfect by the Maker wise

As not secure to single or combined.
Frail is our happiness, if this be so;
And Eden were no Eden, thus exposed.”
To whom thus Adam fervently replied:
“O woman, best are all things as the will
Of God ordained them; his creating hand
Nothing imperfect or deficient left
Of all that he created, much less man,
Or aught that might his happy state secure,
Secure from outward force. Within himself
P A R A D I S E L O S T : B O O K 1 / 4 3 3

The danger lies, yet lies within his power;
350 Against his will he can receive no harm.
But God left free the will; for what obeys
Reason is free; and reason he made right,
But bid her³ well beware, and still erect,⁰ alert
Lest, by some fair appearing good surprised, 355 She dictate false, and misinform the will
To do what God expressly hath forbid.

Not then mistrust, but tender love, enjoins
That I should mind^o thee oft; and mind thou me. remind; pay heed to

Firm we subsist,⁰ yet possible to swerve, stand; exist
360 Since reason not impossibly may meet
Some specious⁰ object by the foe suborned,⁴ fair-appearing
And fall into deception unaware,
Not keeping strictest watch, as she was warned.
Seek not temptation, then, which to avoid

365 Were better, and most likely if from me
Thou sever not: trial will come unsought.
Wouldst thou approve⁰ thy constancy, approve prove
First thy obedience; the other who can know,
Not seeing thee attempted, who attest?
370 But, if thou think trial unsought may find Us both securer⁵ than thus warned thou seem'st,
Go; for thy stay, not free, absents thee more.
Go in thy native innocence; rely
On what thou hast of virtue; summon all;
375 For God towards thee hath done his part: do thine.”
So spake the patriarch of mankind; but Eve
Persisted; yet submiss,⁰ though last, replied: submissive
“With thy permission, then, and thus forewarned,
Chiefly by what thy own last reasoning words
380 Touched only, that our trial, when least sought,
May find us both perhaps far less prepared,
The willinger I go, nor much expect
A foe so proud will first the weaker seek;
So bent, the more shall shame him his repulse.”
385 Thus saying, from her husband's hand her hand
Soft she withdrew, and like a wood nymph light,
Oread or dryad, or of Delia's train,⁶ Betook her to the groves, but Delia's self
In gait surpassed and goddesslike deport,
390 Though not as she with bow and quiver armed,
But with such gardening tools as art yet rude,^o primitive Guiltless of fire had formed,⁷ or angels brought.

To Pales, or Pomona, thus adorned,

3. I.e., Reason. Right reason, originally a classical accompanied Delia, or Diana (born at Delos), god-concept, is the God-given ability to recognize truth ness of the hunt. Oread or dryad: mountain nymph and moral law.

or wood nymph; neither class of nymphs was

4. Procured by corrupt means and with a sinister immortal; the dryads died with their trees.

motive.

7. There was no need of fire in Eden; the associ-

5. Milton may be playing on both senses of the ation of guilt with fire suggests the myth of Pro-Latin word securus, which means both “safe” or metheus, who stole fire from the gods to give to “free from care” and “careless” or “negligent.” humans.

6. Band of nymphs (minor nature divinities) who

434 / JOHN MILTON

Likest she seemed, Pomona when she fled

395 Vertumnus, or to Ceres in her prime,

Yet virgin of Proserpina from Jove.⁸

Her long with ardent look his eye pursued

Delighted, but desiring more her stay.

Oft he to her his charge of quick return

400 Repeated; she to him as oft engaged

To be returned by noon amid the bower,

And all things in best order to invite

Noontide repast, or afternoon's repose.
O much deceived, much failing, hapless Eve,
405 Of thy presumed return! Event perverse!
Thou never from that hour in Paradise
Found'st either sweet repast, or sound repose;
Such ambush hid among sweet flowers and shades
Waited with hellish rancor imminent
410 To intercept thy way, or send thee back
Despoiled of innocence, of faith, of bliss.
For now, and since first break of dawn, the fiend,
Mere serpent in appearance, forth was come,
And on his quest, where likeliest he might find 415 The only two of mankind, but in them
The whole included race, his purposed prey.
In bower and field he sought, where any tuft
Of grove or garden-plot more pleasant lay,
Their tendance⁰ or plantation for delight; object of care
420 By fountain or by shady rivulet
He sought them both, but wished his hap^o might find luck
Eve separate; he wished, but not with hope
Of what so seldom chanced; when to his wish,
Beyond his hope, Eve separate he spies,
425 Veiled in a cloud of fragrance, where she stood,
Half spied, so thick the roses bushing round
About her glowed, oft stooping to support
Each flower of slender stalk, whose head though gay
Carnation, purple, azure, or specked with gold,
430 Hung drooping unsustained, them she upstays

Gently with myrtle band, mindless⁰ the while heedless

Herself, though fairest unsupported flower,
From her best prop so far, and storm so nigh.
Nearer he drew, and many a walk traversed
435 Of stateliest covert, cedar, pine, or palm;
Then voluble⁰ and bold, now hid, now seen undulating

Among thick-woven arborets⁰ and flowers shrubs

Embordered on each bank, the hand⁰ of Eve:
handiwork

Spot more delicious than those gardens feigned⁹
8. In Roman mythology, the supreme god, who (below), the youth Adonis was nursed by Venus impregnated Ceres, the supreme agricultural god-after having been killed by a boar, then revived; the dess, with Proserpina. Pales was the goddess of second was visited by Odysseus (“Laertes’ son”), flocks and pastures. Pomona, goddess of fruit who found springtime and harvest time both con-trees, was long pursued by Vertumnus, god of the tinuous there. The third garden mentioned—the seasons; disguised as a reaper, he awakened garden of Solomon (“the sapient king”) and his “answering passion” in Pomona, according to bride, the pharaoh’s daughter—Milton regards as Ovid’s Metamorphoses.

historical, not “mystic,” or mythical.

9. Mythical or legendary gardens. In the first

P A R A D I S E L O S T : B O O K 1 / 4 3 5

Or of revived Adonis, or renowned

Alcinous, host of old Laertes’ son,

Or that, not mystic, where the sapient king

Held dalliance with his fair Egyptian spouse.

Much he° the place admired, the person more. Satan

As one who long in populous city pent,

Where houses thick and sewers annoy0 the air, pollute

Forth issuing on a summer’s morn to breathe

Among the pleasant villages and farms

Adjoined, from each thing met conceives delight,

The smell of grain, or teded1 grass, or kine,° cattle

Or dairy, each rural sight, each rural sound:

If chance with nymphlike step fair virgin pass,

What pleasing seemed, for° her now pleases more, because of

She most, and in her look sums all delight.

Such pleasure took the serpent to behold

This flowery plat,° the sweet recess0 of Eve plot / retreat

Thus early, thus alone; her heavenly form

Angelic, but more soft, and feminine,

Her graceful innocence, her every air° manner

Of gesture or least action overawed

His malice, and with rapine2 sweet bereaved

His fierceness of the fierce intent it brought:

That space the evil one abstracted0 stood withdrawn

From his own evil, and for the time remained

Stupidly good, of enmity disarmed,
 Of guile, of hate, of envy, of revenge.³
 But the hot Hell that always in him burns,
 Though in mid Heaven, soon ended his delight,
 And tortures him now more, the more he sees
 Of pleasure not for him ordained: then soon
 Fierce hate he recollects, and all his thoughts
 Of mischief, gratulating,⁰ thus excites: exulting
 “Thoughts, whither have ye led me? with what sweet Compulsion thus transported to forget
 What hither brought us? hate, not love, nor hope
 Of Paradise for Hell, hope here to taste
 Of pleasure, but all pleasure to destroy,
 Save what is in destroying; other joy
 To me is lost. Then let me not let pass Occasion which now smiles; behold alone
 The woman, opportune⁰ to all attempts, open
 Her husband, for I view far round, not nigh,
 Whose higher intellectual⁰ more I shun, intellect
 And strength, of courage haughty, and of limb Heroic built, though of terrestrial⁰ mold;⁰ earthly / composition
 Foe not formidable, exempt from wound,
 I not; so much hath Hell debased, and pain
 Enfeebled me, to what I was in Heaven.

1. Spread out to dry to make hay.
3. Amazed by Eve’s beauty, Satan is momentarily
2. Robbery; from rapere, Latin for “to seize,” the stunned into inaction and, while thus incapacitated, is insensibly good.

temporarily ravished.

436 / JOHN MILTON

She fair, divinely fair, fit love for gods,
Not terrible, though terror be in love exciting fear
And beauty, not approached by stronger hate, unless Hate stronger, under show of love well feigned,
The way which to her ruin now I tend.”

So spake the enemy of mankind, enclosed
In serpent, inmate bad, and toward Eve
Addressed his way, not with indented wave, zigzag
Prone on the ground, as since, but on his rear,
Circular base of rising folds, that towered
Fold above fold a surging maze; his head
Crested aloft, and carbuncle his eyes; ruby-colored
With burnished neck of verdant gold, erect Amidst his circling spires, that on the grass coils
Floated redundant. Pleasing was his shape, waving; excessive
And lovely; never since of serpent kind
Lovelier, not those that in Illyria changed
Hermione and Cadmus, or the god
In Epidaurus; nor to which transformed
Ammonian Jove, or Capitoline was seen,
He with Olympias, this with her who bore
Scipio, the height of Rome.⁴ With tract oblique course
At first, as one who sought access, but feared

To interrupt, sidelong he works his way.
 As when a ship by skillful steersman wrought
 Nigh river's mouth or foreland, where the wind
 Veers oft, as oft so steers, and shifts her sail:
 So varied he, and of his tortuous train
 Curled many a wanton wreath in sight of Eve, unrestrained;
lewd
 To lure her eye: she busied heard the sound
 Of rustling leaves, but minded not, as used
 To such disport before her through the field,
 From every beast, more duteous at her call,
 Than at Circean call the herd disguised.⁵
 He bolder now, uncalled before her stood:
 But as in gaze admiring; oft he bowed
 His turret crest, and sleek enameled neck, multicolored
 Fawning, and licked the ground whereon she trod.
 His gentle dumb expression turned at length
 The eye of Eve to mark his play: he, glad
 Of her attention gained, with serpent tongue
 Organic, or impulse of vocal air,⁶
 His fraudulent temptation thus began.
 "Wonder not, sovereign mistress, if perhaps Thou canst, who art sole wonder; much less am
 4. Cadmus, king of Thebes, and his wife, Harborn of the first union, and the Roman leader
 monia ("Hermione"), were transformed into ser-Scipio Africanus was born of the second.
 pents after their retirement to Illyria. The "god in

5. In the Odyssey, book 10, the enchantress Circe Epidaurus” is Aesculapius, god of healing, whose changes men into swine, who then dutifully follow art included the use of serpents and who some-her about.

times appeared in the form of a serpent at his tem-

6. I.e., Satan speaks through the serpent either ple in Epidaurus. Jove (here called Ammonian and using the serpent’s own tongue or by directly Capitoline after temples associated with him) was impelling the air to make it seem voicelike; there said to have coupled with Olympias and Sempronia is a pun on “impulse,” which means both “motion”

in the form of a serpent. Alexander the Great was and “strong suggestion from a spirit.”

P A R A D I S E L O S T : B O O K 1 / 4 3 7

Thy looks, the heaven of mildness, with disdain,

535 Displeas'd that I approach thee thus, and gaze

Insatiate, I thus single, nor have feared

Thy awful⁰ brow, more awful thus retired. awe-inspiring

Fairest resemblance of thy Maker fair,

Thee all things living gaze on, all things thine

540 By gift, and thy celestial beauty adore

With ravishment⁰ beheld, there best beheld rapture, ecstasy

Where universally admired: but here

In this enclosure wild, these beasts among,

Beholders rude, and shallow to discern 545 Half what in thee is fair, one man except,

Who sees thee? (and what is one?) who shouldst be seen
A goddess among gods, adored and served
By angels numberless, thy daily train.”

So glozed⁰ the tempter, and his proem⁰ tuned; flattered / prelude

550 Into the heart of Eve his words made way,
Though at the voice much marveling: at length,
Not unamazed, she thus in answer spake.

“What may this mean? Language of man pronounced
By tongue of brute, and human sense expressed?

555 The first at least of these I thought denied
To beasts, whom God on their creation-day
Created mute to all articulate sound;

The latter I demur,⁰ for in their looks hesitate about

Much reason, and in their actions oft appears.

560 Thee, serpent, subtlest beast of all the field
I knew, but not with human voice endued:⁰ endowed

Redouble then this miracle, and say,
How cam'st thou speakable⁰ of mute, and how able to speak

To me so friendly grown above the rest

565 Of brutal kind, that daily are in sight?
Say, for such wonder claims attention due.”

To whom the guileful tempter thus replied:

“Empress of this fair world, resplendent Eve!

Easy to me it is to tell thee all

570 What thou command'st and right thou shouldst be obeyed:

I was at first as other beasts that graze

The trodden herb, of abject thoughts and low,

As was my food, nor aught but food discerned

Or sex, and apprehended nothing high:

575 Till on a day, roving the field, I chanced

A goodly tree far distant to behold

Loaden with fruit of fairest colors mixed,

Ruddy and gold; I nearer drew to gaze;

When from the boughs a savory odor blown,

580 Grateful to appetite, more pleased my sense

Than smell of sweetest fennel, or the teats

Of ewe or goat dropping with milk at even,

Unsucked of lamb or kid,⁷ that tend their play.

7. It was popularly believed that snakes were especially fond of the herb fennel and that they stole milk from sheep and goats.

438 / J O H N M I L T O N

To satisfy the sharp desire I had

Of tasting those fair apples, I resolved

Not to defer: hunger and thirst at once,

Powerful persuaders, quickened at the scent

Of that alluring fruit, urged me so keen.

About the mossy trunk I wound me soon,

For, high from ground, the branches would require

Thy utmost reach, or Adam's: round the tree

All other beasts that saw, with like desire

Longing and envying stood, but could not reach.

Amid the tree now got, where plenty hung

Tempting so nigh, to pluck and eat my fill
I spared not; for such pleasure till that hour
At feed or fountain never had I found.
Sated at length, ere long I might perceive Strange alteration in me, to degree
Of reason in my inward powers, and speech
Wanted⁰ not long, though to this shape retained. lacked
Thenceforth to speculations high or deep
I turned my thoughts, and with capacious⁰ mind wide, spacious
Considered all things visible in Heaven,
Or Earth, or middle,⁰ all things fair and good: regions between
But all that fair and good in thy divine
Semblance, and in thy beauty's heavenly ray United I beheld: no fair⁰ to⁰ thine beauty / compared to Equivalent or second, which compelled
Me thus, though importune⁰ perhaps, to come inopportunately
And gaze, and worship thee of right declared Sovereign of creatures, universal dame.”
So talked the spirited⁰ sly snake: and Eve spirit-possessed
Yet more amazed, unwary thus replied:
“Serpent, thy overpraising leaves in doubt
The virtue⁰ of that fruit, in thee first proved.⁰ power I experienced
But say, where grows the tree, from hence how far?
For many are the trees of God that grow
In Paradise, and various, yet unknown
To us; in such abundance lies our choice,
As leaves a greater store of fruit untouched,

Still hanging incorruptible, till men
Grow up to their provision, and more hands
Help to disburden Nature of her birth.“8
To whom the wily adder, blithe and glad:
“Empress, the way is ready, and not long,
Beyond a row of myrtles, on a flat,⁰ plot
Fast by a fountain, one small thicket past
Of blowing⁰ myrrh and balm: if thou accept blooming
My conduct,⁰ I can bring thee thither soon.” guidance
8. I.e., what Nature bears. Till men ... provision: i.e., until enough humans exist to eat all the food on Earth.

P A R A D I S E L O S T : B O O K 1 / 4 3 9

“Lead then/” said Eve. He leading swiftly rolled
In tangles, and made intricate seem straight,
To mischief swift. Hope elevates, and joy
Brightens his crest; as when a wandering fire
635 Compact of unctuous vapor,⁹ which the night
Condenses, and the cold environs round,
Kindled through agitation to a flame
(Which oft, they say, some evil spirit attends),
Hovering and blazing with delusive light,
640 Misleads th’ amazed night-wanderer from his way
To bogs and mires, and oft through pond or pool,
There swallowed up and lost, from succor⁰ far: help
So glistered the dire snake, and into fraud
Led Eve our credulous mother, to the tree
645 Of prohibition,¹ root of all our woe:
Which when she saw, thus to her guide she spake:

“Serpent, we might have spared our coming hither,
Fruitless to me, though fruit be here to excess,
The credit of whose virtue rest with thee;²
650 Wondrous indeed, if cause of such effects!
But of this tree we may not taste nor touch:
God so commanded, and left that command
Sole daughter of his voice; the rest,³ we live
Law to ourselves; our reason is our law.”
65 5 To whom the Tempter guilefully replied:
“Indeed? Hath God then said that of the fruit
Of all these garden trees ye shall not eat,
Yet lords declared of all in Earth or air?”
To whom thus Eve, yet sinless: “Of the fruit
660 Of each tree in the garden we may eat,
But of the fruit of this fair tree amidst
The garden, God hath said, ‘Ye shall not eat Thereof, nor shall ye touch it, lest ye die.’ ”
She scarce had said, though brief, when now more bold,
665 The tempter, but with show of zeal and love
To man, and indignation at his wrong,
New part puts on, and as to passion moved, as if Fluctuates disturbed, yet comely,⁰ and in act⁰ attractive / hearing
Raised, as of some great matter to begin.
670 As when of old some orator renowned
In Athens or free Rome, where eloquence Flourished, since mute, to some great cause addressed,
Stood in himself collected, while each part,

Motion, each act, won audience ere the tongue,
 675 Sometimes in height began, as no delay
 Of preface brooking, through his zeal of right.⁴
 9. Composed of oily vapor. The allusion is to the
 2. I.e., my belief in the effects of the fruit must will-o'-the-wisp (ignis fatuus), which was said to continue to depend solely on your testimony.
 draw travelers astray by holding a false light before
 3. I.e., in everything else.
 them; the phenomenon of nocturnal light is caused
 4. I.e., the orator, convinced of the Tightness of by the combustion of marsh gas.
 his cause, bursts directly into his argument, impa-
 1. I.e., the prohibited tree.
 tient of the "delay" of an introduction.

440 / JOHN MILTON

So standing, moving, or to height upgrown
 The tempter all impassioned thus began:
 "O sacred, wise, and wisdom-giving plant,
 Mother of science!⁰ now I feel thy power knowledge
 Within me clear, not only to discern
 Things in their causes, but to trace the ways
 Of highest agents, deemed however wise.
 Queen of this universe! do not believe
 Those rigid threats of death. Ye shall not die;
 How should ye? By the fruit? it gives you life To⁰ knowledge; by the Threatener? look On me, in addition to Me who have touched and tasted, yet both live,

And life more perfect have attained than Fate
Meant me, by venturing higher than my lot.
Shall that be shut to man, which to the beast
Is open? Or will God incense his ire
For such a petty trespass, and not praise
Rather your dauntless virtue,⁰ whom the pain courage
Of death denounced,⁰ whatever thing death be, threatened
Deterred not from achieving what might lead
To happier life, knowledge of good and evil?
Of good, how just!⁵ Of evil, if what is evil
Be real, why not known, since easier shunned?
God therefore cannot hurt ye, and be just;
Not just, not God; not feared then, nor obeyed:
Your fear itself of death removes the fear.
Why then was this forbid? Why but to awe,
Why but to keep ye low and ignorant,
His worshippers? He knows that in the day
Ye eat thereof, your eyes that seem so clear,
Yet are but dim, shall perfectly be then
Opened and cleared, and ye shall be as gods,
Knowing both good and evil, as they know.
That ye should be as gods, since I as man,
Internal⁰ man, is but proportion meet, internally
I, of brute, human; ye, of human, gods.
So ye shall die perhaps, by putting off
Human, to put on gods: death to be wished,

Though threatened, which no worse than this can bring.
And what are gods that man may not become
As they, participating⁰ godlike food? sharing
The gods are first, and that advantage use
On our belief, that all from them proceeds.
I question it; for this fair Earth I see,
Warmed by the sun, producing every kind,
Them nothing: If they all things,⁶ who enclosed
Knowledge of good and evil in this tree,
That whoso eats thereof forthwith attains
Wisdom without their leave? And wherein lies
5. I.e., how just, to deny the knowledge of good! 6. The verb here, “produce,” is understood.

(Satan is being ironic.)

P A R A D I S E L O S T : B O O K 1 / 4 4 1

Th’ offense, that man should thus attain to know?
What can your knowledge hurt him, or this tree
Impart against his will if all be his?
Or is it envy, and can envy dwell
In heavenly breasts? These, these, and many more Causes import⁰ your need of this fair fruit. imply, indicate Goddess humane,⁷ reach then, and freely taste!”
He ended, and his words, replete with guile,
Into her heart too easy entrance won:
Fixed on the fruit she gazed, which to behold
Might tempt alone, and in her ears the sound
Yet rung of his persuasive words, impregn⁰ impregnated
With reason, to her seeming, and with truth;

Meanwhile the hour of noon drew on, and waked
An eager appetite, raised by the smell
So savory of that fruit, which with desire,
Inclinable now grown to touch or taste,
Solicited her longing eye;⁸ yet first
Pausing a while, thus to herself she mused:
“Great are thy virtues,⁰ doubtless, best of fruits, powers
Though kept from man, and worthy to be admired, Whose taste, too long forborn, at first essay⁰ testing
Gave elocution to the mute, and taught
The tongue not made for speech to speak thy praise:
Thy praise he also who forbids thy use,
Conceals not from us, naming thee the Tree
Of Knowledge, knowledge both of good and evil;
Forbids us then to taste; but his forbidding Commends thee more, while it infers the good
By thee communicated, and our want:⁰ lack
For good unknown, sure is not had, or had
And yet unknown, is as not had at all.
In plain⁰ then, what forbids he but to know? plain words
Forbids us good, forbids us to be wise!
Such prohibitions bind not. But if Death
Bind us with after-bands, what profits then
Our inward freedom? In the day we eat
Of this fair fruit, our doom is, we shall die.
How dies the serpent? He hath eaten and lives,
And knows, and speaks, and reasons, and discerns,
Irrational till then. For us alone

Was death invented? Or to us denied
This intellectual food, for beasts reserved?
For beasts it seems: yet that one beast which first Hath tasted, envies not, but brings with joy
The good befallen him, author unsuspect,⁹
Friendly to man, far from deceit or guile.

What fear I then, rather what know to fear
7. “Humane” probably means “kindly” or “gra-
8. All five of Eve’s senses—sight, hearing, smell, cious,” but also suggests the oxymoron “human taste, and touch—are involved in her temptation.
Goddess,” expressing Satan’s prediction of what
9. I.e., authority whose testimony does not arouse Eve will become if she eats the fruit.

suspicion.

442 / JOHN MILTON

Under this ignorance of good and evil,
775 Of God or death, of law or penalty?
Here grows the cure of all, this fruit divine,
Fair to the eye, inviting to the taste,
Of virtue⁰ to make wise: what hinders then
power
To reach, and feed at once both body and mind?”
780 So saying, her rash hand in evil hour,
Forth reaching to the fruit, she plucked, she eat.⁰ ate
Earth felt the wound, and Nature from her seat
Sighing through all her works gave signs of woe,
That all was lost. Back to the thicket slunk

785 The guilty serpent, and well might, for Eve
Intent now wholly on her taste, naught else
Regarded; such delight till then, as seemed,
In fruit she never tasted, whether true
Or fancied so, through expectation high 790 Of knowledge; nor was godhead from her thought.¹
Greedily she engorged without restraint,
And knew not eating death:² satiate at length,
And heightened as with wine, jocund and boon,⁰ jovial
Thus to herself she pleasingly began:
795 “O sovereign, virtuous, precious of all trees
In Paradise! of operation blest
To sapience,³ hitherto obscured, infamed,⁰ defamed.
And thy fair fruit let hang, as to no end
Created; but henceforth my early care,
800 Not without song each morning, and due praise
Shall tend thee, and the fertile burden ease
Of thy full branches offered free to all;
Till dieted by thee I grow mature
In knowledge, as the gods who all things know;
805 Though others⁴ envy what they cannot give:
For had the gift been theirs, it had not here
Thus grown. Experience, next to thee I owe,
Best guide; not following thee I had remained
In ignorance; thou open’st Wisdom’s way,
810 And giv’st access, though secret⁰ she retire. hidden
And I perhaps am secret;⁰ Heaven is high, unseen
High and remote to see from thence distinct

Each thing on Earth; and other care perhaps
May have diverted from continual watch
815 Our great Forbidder, safe with all his spies
About him. But to Adam in what sort0 guise
Shall I appear? Shall I to him make known
As yet my change, and give him to partake
Full happiness with me, or rather not,
820 But keep the odds of knowledge in my power
1. I.e., she also expected to achieve godhead.
from the Latin sapere, “to be wise,” which has its
2. I.e., she was eating death and did not know it;
roots in the verb “to taste.”
also, she was unaware while she ate death.
4. I.e., the other gods; Eve here echoes the lesson
3. Wisdom, of the wise and those with good taste; taught her by the serpent.

P A R A D I S E L O S T : B O O K 1 / 4 4 3

Without copartner? so to add what wants0 lacks
In female sex, the more to draw his love,
And render me more equal, and perhaps,
A thing not undesirable, sometime
825 Superior: for, inferior, who is free?
This may be well: but what if God have seen
And death ensue? Then I shall be no more,
And Adam, wedded to another Eve,
Shall live with her enjoying, I extinct;
830 A death to think. Confirmed then I resolve,
Adam shall share with me in bliss or woe:

So dear I love him, that with him all deaths
I could endure, without him live no life.”
So saying, from the tree her step she turned,
835 But first low reverence done, as to the power
That dwelt within, whose presence had infused
Into the plant scientaP sap, derived knowledge-giving
From nectar, drink of gods. Adam the while Waiting desirous her return, had wove
840 Of choicest flowers a garland to adorn
Her tresses, and her rural labors crown,
As reapers oft are wont0 their harvest queen. accustomed to do
[to]
Great joy he promised to his thoughts, and new Solace in her return, so long delayed:
845 Yet oft his heart, divine0 of something ill, apprehensive
Mishap gave him; he the faltering measure5 felt;
And forth to meet her went, the way she took
That morn when first they parted. By the Tree
Of Knowledge he must pass; there he her met,
850 Scarce from the tree returning; in her hand
A bough of fairest fruit that downy smiled,
New gathered, and ambrosial smell diffused.
To him she hastened, in her face excuse
Came prologue, and apology to prompt,6 855 Which with bland0 words at will she thus addressed: mild;
coaxing
“Hast thou not wondered, Adam, at my stay?
Thee I have missed, and thought it long, deprived Thy presence, agony of love till now

Not felt, nor shall be twice; for never more 860 Mean I to try, what rash untried I sought,
 The pain of absence from thy sight. But strange
 Hath been the cause, and wonderful to hear:
 This tree is not as we are told, a tree
 Of danger tasted,⁰ nor to evil unknown if tasted
 865 Opening the way, but of divine effect
 To open eyes, and make them gods who taste;
 And hath been tasted such. The serpent wise,
 Or⁰ not restrained as we, or not obeying, either
 5. I.e., the irregular beat (of his heart). logue to her “apology,” or formal defense of her 6. Her excuse, apparent in her expression, is a pro- actions.

4 4 4 / J O H N M I L T O N

Hath eaten of the fruit, and is become,
 Not dead, as we are threatened, but thenceforth
 Endued with human voice and human sense,
 Reasoning to⁰ admiration, and with me so as to produce
 Persuasively hath so prevailed, that I
 Have also tasted, and have also found
 Th’ effects to correspond—opener mine eyes,
 Dim erst,⁰ dilated spirits, ampler heart, previously
 And growing up to godhead; which for thee
 Chiefly I sought, without thee can despise.
 For bliss, as thou hast part, to me is bliss,
 Tedious, unshared with thee, and odious soon.
 Thou therefore also taste, that equal lot
 May join us, equal joy, as equal love;
 Lest, thou not tasting, different degree⁷

Disjoin us, and I then too late renounce Deity for thee, when Fate will not permit.”
Thus Eve with countenance blithe her story told;
But in her cheek distemper⁰ flushing glowed. intoxicated
On th’ other side, Adam, soon as he heard
The fatal trespass done by Eve, amazed,
Astonied⁸ stood and blank, while horror chill
Ran through his veins, and all his joints relaxed;
From his slack hand the garland wreathed for Eve
Down dropped, and all the faded roses shed.
Speechless he stood and pale, till thus at length
First to himself he inward silence broke:
“O fairest of creation, last and best
Of all God’s works, creature in whom excelled
Whatever can to sight or thought be formed,
Holy, divine, good, amiable, or sweet!
How art thou lost, how on a sudden lost,
Defaced, deflowered, and now to death devote⁰ doomed
Rather how hast thou yielded to transgress
The strict forbiddance, how to violate
The sacred fruit forbidden! Some cursed fraud
Of enemy hath beguiled thee, yet unknown,
And me with thee hath ruined, for with thee
Certain my resolution is to die.
How can I live without thee, how forgo
Thy sweet converse and love so dearly joined,
To live again in these wild woods forlorn?
Should God create another Eve, and I

Another rib afford, yet loss of thee
Would never from my heart; no, no! I feel
The link of nature draw me: flesh of flesh,
Bone of my bone thou art, and from thy state
Mine never shall be parted, bliss or woe.”

So having said, as one from sad dismay

7. I.e., different rank, since she, as she believes, 8. Stunned, with a likely pun: turned to stone, has grown “up to godhead”
while he has not.

P A R A D I S E L O S T : B O O K 1 / 4 4 5

Recomforted, and after thoughts disturbed

Submitting to what seemed remediless,

920 Thus in calm mood his words to Eve he turned:

“Bold deed thou hast presumed, adventurous Eve

And peril great provoked, who thus hast dared

Had it been only coveting to eye

That sacred fruit, sacred to abstinence, dedicated

925 Much more to taste it, under ban to touch.

But past who can recall, or done undo?

Not God omnipotent, nor Fate! Yet so

Perhaps thou shalt not die, perhaps the fact deed

Is not so heinous now, foretasted fruit,

930 Profaned first by the serpent, by him first

Made common and unhallowed ere our taste,

Nor yet on him found deadly; he yet lives,

Lives, as thou saidst, and gains to live as man

Higher degree of life: inducement strong

935 To us, as likely, tasting, to attain

Proportional ascent, which cannot be

But to be gods, or angels, demigods.
Nor can I think that God, Creator wise,
Though threatening, will in earnest so destroy 940 Us his prime creatures, dignified so high,
Set over all his works, which in our fall,
For us created, needs with us must fail,
Dependent made; so God shall uncreate,
Be frustrate, do, undo, and labor lose;
945 Not well conceived of God, who, though his power
Creation could repeat, yet would be loath
Us to abolish, lest the adversary
Triumph and say: Tickle their state whom God
Most favors; who can please him long? Me first 950 He ruined, now mankind; whom will he next?
Matter of scorn, not to be given the foe.
However, I with thee have fixed my lot,
Certain⁰ to undergo like doom: if death resolved
Consort⁰ with thee, death is to me as life; keep company
955 So forcible within my heart I feel
The bond of nature draw me to my own,
My own in thee, for what thou art is mine;
Our state cannot be severed; we are one,
One flesh; to lose thee were to lose myself.”
960 So Adam, and thus Eve to him replied:
“O glorious trial of exceeding love,
Illustrious evidence, example high!
Engaging me to emulate; but short
Of thy perfection, how shall I attain,

965 Adam? from whose dear side I boast me sprung,
And gladly of our union hear thee speak,
One heart, one soul in both; whereof good proof
This day affords, declaring thee resolved,
Rather than death or aught than death more dread
4 4 6 / J O H N M I L T O N
Shall separate us, linked in love so dear,
To undergo with me one guilt, one crime,
If any be, of tasting this fair fruit;
Whose virtue (for of good still good proceeds, Direct, or by occasion) hath presented indirection
This happy trial of thy love, which else
So eminently never had been known.
Were it I thought death menaced would ensue
This my attempt, I would sustain alone
The worst, and not persuade thee, rather die
Deserted, than oblige thee with a fact involve in guilt / deed
Pernicious to thy peace, chiefly assured
Remarkably so late of thy so true,
So faithful love unequalled; but I feel
Far otherwise th' event—not death, but life outcome
Augmented, opened eyes, new hopes, new joys,
Taste so divine, that what of sweet before
Hath touched my sense, flat seems to this, and harsh.
On my experience, Adam, freely taste,
And fear of death deliver to the winds.”
So saying, she embraced him, and for joy
Tenderly wept, much won that he his love

Had so ennobled, as of choice to incur
Divine displeasure for her sake, or death.
In recompense (for such compliance bad
Such recompense best merits), from the bough
She gave him of that fair enticing fruit
With liberal hand; he scrupled not to eat,
Against his better knowledge, not deceived,⁹
But fondly⁰ overcome with female charm. foolishly
Earth trembled from her entrails, as again
In pangs, and Nature gave a second groan,
Sky lowered, and muttering thunder, some sad drops
Wept at completing of the mortal sin
Original; while Adam took no thought,
Eating his fill, nor Eve to iterate
Her former trespass feared, the more to soothe
Him with her loved society; that now
As with new wine intoxicated both,
They swim in mirth, and fancy that they feel
Divinity within them breeding wings
Wherewith to scorn the Earth. But that false fruit
Far other operation first displayed,
Carnal desire inflaming; he on Eve
Began to cast lascivious eyes, she him
As wantonly repaid; in lust they burn,
Till Adam thus ‘gan Eve to dalliance move:
“Eve, now I see thou art exact⁰ of taste, discriminating
And elegant, of sapience¹ no small part,
9. Cf. 1 Timothy 2.14: “And Adam was not transgression.”

deceived, but the woman being deceived was in the 1. See note 3, p. 442.

P A R A D I S E L O S T : B O O K 1 / 4 4 7

Since to each meaning savor we apply,

1020 And palate call judicious. I the praise

Yield thee, so well this day thou hast purveyed.⁰ provisioned us

Much pleasure we have lost, while we abstained

From this delightful fruit, nor known till now

True relish, tasting; if such pleasure be 1025 In things to us forbidden, it might be wished,

For this one tree had been forbidden ten.

But come; so well refreshed, now let us play,

As meet⁰ is, after such delicious fare; appropriate

For never did thy beauty, since the day

1030 I saw thee first and wedded thee, adorned

With all perfections, so enflame my sense

With ardor to enjoy thee, fairer now

Than ever, bounty of this virtuous tree.”

So said he, and forbore not glance or toy^o caress

1035 Of amorous intent, well understood

OP Eve, whose eye darted contagious fire. by

Her hand he seized, and to a shady bank,

Thick overhead with verdant roof embowered

He led her, nothing loath; flowers were the couch,

1040 Pansies, and violets, and asphodel,²

And hyacinth—Earth’s freshest, softest lap.

There they their fill of love and love’s disport

Took largely, of their mutual guilt the seal,

The solace of their sin, till dewy sleep
 1045 Oppressed them, wearied with their amorous play.
 Soon as the force of that fallacious fruit,
 That with exhilarating vapor bland⁰ pleasing
 About their spirits had played, and inmost powers
 Made err, was now exhaled, and grosser sleep 1050 Bred of unkindly⁰ fumes,⁰ with conscious dreams unnatural / vapors
 Encumbered, now had left them, up they rose
 As from unrest, and each the other viewing,
 Soon found their eyes how opened, and their minds
 How darkened. Innocence, that as a veil
 1055 Had shadowed them from knowing ill, was gone;
 Just confidence, and native righteousness,
 And honor from about them, naked left
 To guilty Shame; he^o covered,⁰ but his robe Shame / [them]
 Uncovered more. So rose the Danite strong,
 1060 Herculean Samson, from the harlot-lap
 Of Philistean Dalilah, and waked
 Shorn of his strength;³ they destitute and bare
 Of all their virtue. Silent, and in face
 Confounded, long they sat, as stricken mute;
 1065 Till Adam, though not less than Eve abashed,
 At length gave utterance to these words constrained:
 2. A flower conventionally held to be immortal hair, the source of his strength, while he slept.
 and said to cover the Elysian meadows.
 Their story is told in Judges 16 and retold in Mil-

3. The Philistine Dalilah betrayed her husband, ton's "Samson Agonistes."

Samson (of the tribe of Dan), by cutting off his

448 / JOHN MILTON

"O Eve, in evil⁴ hour thou didst give ear
To that false worm,⁰ of whomsoever taught serpent
To counterfeit man's voice, true in our fall,
False in our promised rising; since our eyes
Opened we find indeed, and find we know
Both good and evil, good lost, and evil got:
Bad fruit of knowledge, if this be to know,
Which leaves us naked thus, of honor void,
Of innocence, of faith, of purity,
Our wonted⁰ ornaments now soiled and stained, customary
And in our faces evident the signs
Of foul concupiscence;⁰ whence evil store, lust
Even shame, the last of evils; of the first
Be sure then. How shall I behold the face
Henceforth of God or angel, erst with joy
And rapture so oft beheld? Those heavenly shapes
Will dazzle now this earthly⁰ with their blaze earthly nature
Insufferably bright. O might I here
In solitude live savage, in some glade
Obscured, where highest woods, impenetrable
To star or sunlight, spread their umbrage⁰ broad, shade
And brown as evening! Cover me, ye pines,
Ye cedars, with innumerable boughs
Hide me, where I may never see them more!

But let us now, as in bad plight, devise
 What best may for the present serve to hide
 The parts of each from other, that seem most
 To shame obnoxious,⁰ and unseemliest seen; liable
 Some tree whose broad smooth leaves together sewed,
 And girded on our loins, may cover round
 Those middle parts, that this newcomer, Shame,
 There sit not, and reproach us as unclean.”
 So counseled he, and both together went Into the thickest wood; there soon they chose
 The figtree, not that kind for fruit renowned,
 But such as at this day, to Indians known,
 In Malabar or Deccan⁵ spreads her arms
 Branching so broad and long, that in the ground
 The bended twigs take root, and daughters grow
 About the mother tree, a pillared shade
 High overarched, and echoing walks between;
 There oft the Indian herdsman, shunning heat,
 Shelters in cool, and tends his pasturing herds
 At loopholes cut through thickest shade. Those leaves
 They gathered, broad as Amazonian targe,⁶
 And with what skill they had, together sewed,
 To gird their waist; vain covering, if to hide

4. Here punning bitterly on Eve’s name, Adam will 5. Sections of southern India.

reaffirm its etymology—from hava, Hebrew for 6. The Amazons, mythical female warriors, carried “life”—in 11.159—61. large, crescent-shaped shields called “targes.”

P A R A D I S E L O S T : B O O K 1 / 4 4 9

Their guilt and dreaded shame! O how unlike 1115 To that first naked glory! Such of late

Columbus found th' American, so girt

With feathered cincture,⁰ naked else and wild belt

Among the trees on isles and woody shores.

Thus fenced, and, as they thought, their shame in part

1120 Covered, but not at rest or ease of mind,

They sat them down to weep; nor only tears

Rained at their eyes, but high winds worse within

Began to rise, high passions, anger, hate,

Mistrust, suspicion, discord, and shook sore

ii25 Their inward state of mind, calm region once

And full of peace, now tossed and turbulent:

For Understanding ruled not, and the Will

Heard not her lore, both in subjection now

To sensual Appetite, who, from beneath

1130 Usurping over sovereign Reason, claimed

Superior sway.⁷ From thus distempered breast,

Adam, estranged in look and altered style,

Speech intermitted thus to Eve renewed:

“Would thou hadst hearkened to my words, and stayed

1135 With me, as I besought thee, when that strange

Desire of wandering, this unhappy morn,

I know not whence possessed thee! we had then

Remained still happy, not as now, despoiled

Of all our good, shamed, naked, miserable.

1140 Let none henceforth seek needless cause to approve⁰ prove

The faith they owe;^o when earnestly they seek own
Such proof, conclude, they then begin to fail.”

To whom, soon moved with touch of blame, thus Eve:

“What words have passed thy lips, Adam severe?

1145 Imput’st thou that to my default, or will

Of wandering, as thou call’st it, which who knows

But might as ill have happened, thou being by,

Or to thyself perhaps? Hadst thou been there,

Or here th’ attempt, thou couldst not have discerned

ii50 Fraud in the serpent, speaking as he spake;

No ground of enmity between us known,

Why he should mean me ill, or seek to harm?

Was I to have never parted from thy side?

As good have grown there still a lifeless rib.

ii55 Being as I am, why didst not thou, the head,⁸

Command me absolutely not to go,

Going into such danger, as thou saidst?

Too facile⁰ then, thou didst not much gainsay, easy, mild

Nay, didst permit, approve, and fair dismiss.

7. As a result of the Fall, the higher faculties, rea-

8. Cf. Corinthians 11.3: “the head of the woman son and understanding, are subjected to appetite is the man.”

and the physical senses.

4 5 0 / J O H N M I L T O N

1160 Hadst thou been firm and fixed in thy dissent,

Neither had I transgressed, nor thou with me.”
To whom, then first incensed, Adam replied:
Ts this the love, is this the recompense
Of mine to thee, ingrateful Eve, expressed⁰ revealed
ii65 Immutable when thou were lost, not I,
Who might have lived and joyed immortal bliss,
Yet willingly chose rather death with thee?
And am I now upbraided as the cause
Of thy transgressing? not enough severe, ii70 It seems, in thy restraint! What could I more?
I warned thee, I admonished thee, foretold
The danger, and the lurking enemy
That lay in wait: beyond this had been force,
And force upon free will hath here no place.
1175 But confidence then bore thee on, secure Either to meet no danger, or to find
Matter of glorious trial; and perhaps
I also erred in overmuch admiring
What seemed in thee so perfect, that I thought ii80 No evil durst attempt thee! but I rue
That error now, which is become my crime,
And thou th’ accuser. Thus it shall befall
Him who, to worth in women overtrusting,
Lets her will rule; restraint she will not brook,⁰ tolerate ii85 And, left to herself, if evil thence ensue,
She first his weak indulgence will accuse.”
Thus they in mutual accusation spent
The fruitless hours, but neither self-condemning;

And of their vain contest appeared no end.

1 6 6 0 - 6 5 1 6 6 7 , 1 6 7 4

*From Samson Agonistes*⁹

60 But peace, I must not quarrel with the will

Of highest dispensation,¹ which herein

Haply⁰ had ends above my reach to know: perhaps

Suffices that to me strength is my bane,²

And proves the source of all my miseries,

65 So many, and so huge, that each apart,

Would ask^o a life to wail; but chief of all, need

9. This dramatic poem tells the story of the biblical Samson (Judges 13—16) from the time of his work as a slave. In these lines, Samson laments his captivity to his death. Samson was given great fate.

strength by God to deliver his people from their

1. I.e., God; dispensation refers to the ordering of longtime enemies, the Philistines. The source of events by divine providence.

his strength was his long hair. His Philistine wife,

2. I.e., it is sufficient that (I know?) my strength Dalila, badgered him into revealing the secret of is the cause of my downfall.

his strength, then cut his hair and betrayed him to

SAMSON AGONISTES / 451

O loss of sight, of thee I most complain!

Blind among enemies, O worse than chains,

Dungeon, or beggary, or decrepit age!
70 Light the prime work of God to me is extinct,
And all her various objects of delight
Annull'd, which might in part my grief have eased, Inferior to the vilest now become
Of man or worm; the vilest here excel me,
75 They creep, yet see; I dark in light exposed
To daily fraud, contempt, abuse, and wrong.
Within doors, or without, still⁰ as a fool always
In power of others, never in my own;
Scarce half I seem to live, dead more than half,
so O dark, dark, dark, amid the blaze of noon,
Irrecoverably dark, total eclipse
Without all hope of day!
O first created beam, and thou great word,
Let there be light, and light was over all;³ 85 Why am I thus bereaved⁰ thy prime decree? robbed of
The sun to me is dark
And silent as the moon,
When she deserts the night
Hid in her vacant interlunar cave.⁴
90 Since light so necessary is to life,
And almost life itself, if it be true
That light is in the soul,
She⁵ all in every part; why was the sight
To such a tender ball as th' eye confined,
95 So obvious⁰ and so easy to be quench'd, exposed
And not, as feeling, through all parts diffused,

That she might look at will through every pore?
 Then had I not been thus exiled from light,
 As in the land of darkness yet in light,
 100 To live a life half dead, a living death,
 And buried; but O yet more miserable!
 Myself my sepulchre, a moving grave,
 Buried, yet not exempt
 By privilege of death and burial
 105 From worst of other evils, pains, and wrongs,
 But made hereby obnoxious⁰ more exposed
 To all the miseries of life,
 Life in captivity
 Among inhuman foes.

1 6 4 7 - 7 0 ? 1 6 7 1

3. Genesis 1.3: “And God said, Let there be light: moon was called the interlunar time (interlunii); and there was light”; this is God’s “prime work” during this time, according to myth, the moon (line 70) and his “prime decree” (line 85) because retired to a cave somewhere beneath the earth; it was his first (and perhaps most important) creation. “vacant,” from the Latin vacare, to be at leisure, i.e., resting.

4. The Romans called the moon, when it was in
 5. I.e., the soul; according to Augustine (De Trinitate 5.6), the soul is whole in every part of the “silent” means “not shining.” This phase of the body.

452

SIR JOHN SUCKLING

1609-1642

Song 1

Why so pale and wan, fond lover? foolish

Prith ee, why so pale? pray thee

Will, when looking well can't move her,

Looking ill prevail?

Prith ee, why so pale?

Why so dull and mute, young sinner?

Prith ee, why so mute?

Will, when speaking well can't win her,

Saying nothing do 't?

Prith ee, why so mute?

Quit, quit, for shame; this will not move, 0
persuade* This cannot take her.

If of herself she will not love,

Nothing can make her:

The devil take her!

1638

Sonnet II 2

Of thee, kind boy, I ask no red and white, 3

To make up my delight;

No odd becoming graces,

Black eyes, or little know-not-whats in faces
; 5 Make me but mad enough, give me good store

Of love for her I count ;
I ask no more ,
‘Tis love in love that makes the sport.
There’s no such thing as that we beauty call,
io It is mere cozenage all; fraud
For though some, long ago,
Liked certain colors mingled so and so,
That doth not tie men now from choosing new
; If I a fancy take 15 To black and blue ,
That fancy doth hit beauty make .

1. First printed in Suckling’s play Aglaure 4.2
the first performance of the play, in 1637.

(1638). Orsames, a friend to the prince (Thersa-

2. The term “sonnet” was formerly applied to any mes), sings it upon request, and then claims it is short love lyric.

“a little foolish counsell (Madam) I gave a friend

3. The colors conventionally used to depict female of mine foure or five yeares agoe.” It was evidently beauty in love poetry (in the Petrarchan tradition).

popular, occurring in at least five musical settings,
Kind boy: Cupid, as god of love.

with the first probably written by Henry Lawes for

4. I.e., the “red and white” of line 1.

U P O N M Y L A D Y C A R L I S L E ’ S W A L K I N G / 4 5 3

‘Tis not the meat, but ‘tis the appetite
Make eating a delight ;

A n d i f I l i k e o n e d i s h

20 M o r e t h a n a n o t h e r , t h a t a p h e a s a n t i s ;

W h a t i n o u r w a t c h e s , t h a t i n u s i s f o u n d : S o t o t h e h e i g h t a n d n i c k ° critical point

W e u p b e w o u n d ,

N o m a t t e r b y w h a t h a n d o r t r i c k .

1 6 4 6

Upon My Lady Carlisle's Walking in Hampton Court Garden

DIALOGUE 5

T.C. J.S.

Thom.

D i d s t t h o u n o t f i n d t h e p l a c e i n s p i r e d ,

A n d f l o w e r s , a s i f t h e y h a d d e s i r e d

N o o t h e r s u n , s t a r t f r o m t h e i r b e d s ,

A n d f o r a s i g h t s t e a l o u t t h e i r h e a d s ?

5 H e a r d s t t h o u n o t m u s i c w h e n s h e t a l k e d ?

A n d d i d s t n o t f i n d t h a t a s s h e w a l k e d

S h e t h r e w r a r e p e r f u m e s a l l a b o u t ,

S u c h a s b e a n - b l o s s o m s n e w l y o u t ,

O r c h a f e d 0 s p i c e s g i v e ? — warmed

J.S.

i o I m u s t c o n f e s s t h o s e p e r f u m e s , T o m ,

I d i d n o t s m e l l ; n o r f o u n d t h a t f r o m

H e r p a s s i n g b y o u g h t s p r u n g u p n e w .

T h e f l o w e r s h a d a l l t h e i r b i r t h f r o m y o u ;

F o r I p a s s e d o ' e r t h e s e l f - s a m e w a l k

15 A n d d i d n o t f i n d o n e s i n g l e s t a l k

O f a n y t h i n g t h a t w a s t o b r i n g

T h i s u n k n o w n a f t e r - a f t e r - s p r i n g .

Thom.

D u l l a n d i n s e n s i b l e , c o u l d s t s e e

A t h i n g s o n e a r a d e i t y

2 0 M o v e u p a n d d o w n , a n d f e e l n o c h a n g e ?

5. Lucy Hay, countess of Carlisle (1599-1660), 1595-1640; see pp. 385-90), who wrote two was a patron of many poets. The “T.C.” or “Thom.”

poems to Hay; “J.S.” is John Suckling.

of this dialogue is the poet Thomas Carew (ca.

4 5 4 / S I R J O H N S U C K L I N G

J.S.

None, and so great, were alike strange;

I had my thoughts, but not your way.

All are not born, sir, to the bay.⁶

Alas! Tom, I am flesh and blood,

25 And was consulting how I could

In spite of masks and hoods descry⁰ reveal

The parts denied unto the eye.

I was undoing all she wore,

And had she walked but one turn more,

30 Eve in her first state had not been

More naked or more plainly seen.

Thom.

‘Twas well for thee she left the place;

There is great danger in that face.

But hadst thou viewed her leg and thigh,

35 And upon that discovery

Searched after parts that are more dear (As fancy seldom stops so near),
No time or age had ever seen
So lost a thing as thou hadst been.

1 6 4 6

A Ballad upon a Wedding⁷

I tell thee, Dick,⁸ where I have been,
Where I the rarest things have seen,
Oh, things without compare!
Such sights again cannot be found
5 In any place on English ground,
Be it at wake^o or fair. parish festival
At Charing Cross,⁹ hard by the way
Where we (thou know'st) do sell our hay,
There is a house with stairs;
io And there did I see coming down

6. A crown of bay (or laurel) leaves was the traditional recognition of poetic achievement.

1552—1599) published perhaps the most well-

7. This poem parodies the epithalamion, a poem known instance of the form in 1595 (see p. 195).

written to celebrate a marriage, the Greek name of

8. As a short form of the name Richard, a generic which conveys that it was sung on the threshold of name for a man. The names used below (in lines the bridal chamber. The genre, as practiced by the 22—24) are all conventional or type names for men.

Latin poets, characteristically includes the invocation to the Muses (sources of artistic inspiration), the bringing home of the bride, the singing

9. A busy center in London located near the Haymarket; originally the site of a stone cross erected by King Edward I (1239—1307) in memory of his example was written by Sir Philip Sidney (1554—queen, Eleanor.

A B A L L A D U P O N A W E D D I N G / 4 5 5

Such folk as are not in our town,

Forty, at least, in pairs.

Amongst the rest, one pest'lent⁰ fine exceptionally

(His beard no bigger, though, than thine)

15 Walked on before the rest.

Our landlord looks like nothing to him;

The king (God bless him!), 'twould undo him

Should he go still⁰ so dressed.

always

At course-a-park,¹ without all doubt,

20 He should have first been taken out

By all the maids i' th' town,

Though lusty Roger there had been,

Or little George upon the Green,

Or Vincent of the Crown.

25 But wot^o you what? the youth was going
know

To make an end of all his wooing;

The parson for him stayed.

Yet by his leave, for all his haste,

He did not so much wish all past,

30 Perchance, as did the maid.

The maid (and thereby hangs a tale),

For such a maid no Whitsun-ale²

Could ever yet produce;

No grape, that's kindly ripe,³ could be 35 So round, so plump, so soft as she,

Nor half so full of juice.

Her finger was so small the ring

Would not stay on, which they did bring;

It was too wide a peck:⁴

40 And to say truth (for out it must),

It looked like the great collar (just)

About our young colt's neck.

Her feet beneath her petticoat,

Like little mice, stole in and out,

45 As if they feared the light;

But oh, she dances such a way,

No sun upon an Easter day

Is half so fine a sight!

He would have kissed her once or twice,

50 But she would not, she was so nice,^o demure

She would not do 't in sight;

1. A rural game in which a girl chooses a boy to enth Sunday after Easter).

chase her.

3. Naturally ripe; i.e., vine-ripened.

2. A church festival, or "ale," at which much ale

4. A measure of capacity; i.e., much too large.

was drunk; held at Whitsuntide (or Pentecost, sev-

4 5 6 / SIR JOHNSUCKLING

And then she looked as who should say,

"I will do what I list⁰ today; desire

And you shall do't at night."

Her cheeks so rare a white was on,

No daisy makes comparison

(Who sees them is undone),

For streaks of red were mingled there,

Such as are on a Catherine pear⁵

(The side that's next the sun).

Her lips were red, and one was thin

Compared to that was next her chin

(Some bee had stung it newly);

But, Dick, her eyes so guard her face

I durst no more upon them gaze

Than on the sun in July.

Her mouth so small, when she does speak,

Thou 'dst swear her teeth her words did break,

That they might passage get;

70 But she so handled still the matter,
They came as good as ours, or better,
And are not spent⁰ a^o whit.^o used up /one /bit
If wishing should be any sin,
The parson himself had guilty been 75 (She looked that day so purely);
And did the youth so oft the feat
At night, as some did in conceit,⁰ imagination
It would have spoiled him, surely.
Passion o' me, how I run on!⁶
so There's that that would be thought upon,
I trow,^o besides the bride. suppose
The business of the kitchen's great,
For it is fit that man should eat,
Nor was it there denied.
85 Just in the nick the cook knocked thrice,
And all the waiters in a trice
His summons did obey;
Each serving-man, with dish in hand,
Marched boldly up, like our trained band,⁰ militia
90 Presented, and away.
When all the meat was on the table,
What man of knife or teeth was able

5. A small variety of pear. lines following the last three, appears after line 96.

6. In the 1646 edition of Suckling's collection The order here is that of the 1648 and subsequent Fragmenta Aurea, this stanza, with the first three editions.

A B A L L A D U P O N A W E D D I N G / 4 5 7

To stay to be entreated?7

And this the very reason was,

95 Before the parson could say grace,

The company was seated.

Now hats fly off, and you t h s carouse;

Healths 0 first go round, and then t h e h o u s e ;

toasts

The bride's c a m e thick a n d thick:

100 And when 'twas n a m e d another's health,

Perhaps he m a d e it hers by stealth;

And w h o c o u l d h e l p it, Dick?

O' th' s u d d e n up they rise and d a n c e ;

Then sit again a n d sigh and glance;

105 Then d a n c e again and kiss.

Thus several ways t h e t i m e did pass,

Till every w o m a n w i s h e d her place,

And every m a n w i s h e d his!

By this t i m e all w e r e stolen aside

110 To c o u n s e l and undress the bride,

But that he m u s t not know;

But yet 'twas t h o u g h t he g u e s s e d her mind,

And did not m e a n to stay b e h i n d

A b o v e an h o u r or so.

115 W h e n in he c a m e , Dick, there s h e lay

Like n e w - f a l l e n s n o w m e l t i n g away

('Twas time, I trow,° to part);

believe

Kisses w e r e n o w t h e only stay,

Which soon she gave, as who would say,
120 “God b’ w’ ye,⁸ with all my heart.”

But just as heaven would have, to cross it,

In came the bridesmaids with the posset.⁹

The bridegroom ate in spite,

For had he left the women to ‘t,

125 It would have cost two hours to do ‘t,

Which were too much that night.

At length the candle’s out, and now

All that they had not done, they do.

What that is, who can tell?

130 But I believe it was no more

Than thou and I have done before

With Bridget and with Nell.

ca. 1641

1646

7. I.e., what man able to eat could wait to be asked

9. A hot drink of spiced milk curdled with ale or to sit down?

wine, traditionally given to a groom on his wedding

8. A contraction for God be with ye, pronounced night.

in two syllables.

458 / ANNE BRADSTREET

Out upon It!

O u t u p o n i t! I have loved

T h r e e w h o l e d a y s t o g e t h e r;

A n d a m l i k e t o l o v e t h r e e m o r e,

If it prove fair weather.
5 T i m e shall molt away his wings,
Ere he shall discover
I n t h e w h o l e w i d e world again
S u c h a c o n s t a n t lover.
B u t t h e spite o n ' t is, n o praise
10 I s d u e at all to m e ;
L o v e w i t h m e h a d m a d e n o stays¹
H a d it any b e e n b u t she.
H a d it any b e e n but she,
A n d that very face,²
15 T h e r e h a d b e e n at least ere this
A d o z e n d o z e n in her place.

1 6 5 9

A N N E B R A D S T R E E T

ca. 1612-1672

In Honor of that High and Mighty Princess,
Queen Elizabeth, of Most Happy Memory¹

*The Proem*²

A l t h o u g h , g r e a t Q u e e n , t h o u n o w i n s i l e n c e lie, Yet thy l o u d h e r a l d⁰ f a m e d o t h t o t h e s k y royal crier

T h y w o n d r o u s w o r t h p r o c l a i m i n e v e r y c l i m e ,⁰ climate, region

A n d s o h a s v o w e d , w h i l s t t h e r e i s w o r l d , o r t i m e ;

S o g r e a t ' s t h y g l o r y , a n d t h i n e e x c e l l e n c e ,

T h e s o u n d t h e r e o f r a p s⁰ e v e r y h u m a n e s e n s e ;

enraptures

T h a t m e n a c c o u n t i t n o impiety,
To say, t h o u w e r t a f l e s h l y 0 d e i t y . 0

earthly / goddess

T h o u s a n d s b r i n g o f f ' r i n g s , (t h o u g h o u t o f d a t e)

T h y w o r l d o f h o n o r s t o a c c u m u l a t e ,

' M o n g s t h u n d r e d h e c a t o m b s o f r o a r i n g 3 v e r s e ,

1. I.e., found no support.

2. Brief introductory verse.

2. In other versions, this line reads "That very very

3. Loud. Hecatombs: a great number of things preface."

sented as an offering (originally from the Greek,

1. Q u e e n Elizabeth I (1 5 3 3 - 1 6 0 3 ; see pp. 1 4 2 - the sacrifice of one hundred oxen).

43), who ruled England for forty-four years.

I N H O N O R O F T H A T H I G H A N D M I G H T Y P R
I N C E S S / 4 5 9

M i n e b l e a t i n g 4 s t a n d s b e f o r e t h y r o y a l h e a r s e : 0 g r a v e

T h o u n e v e r d i d s t , n o r c a n s t t h o u n o w d i s d a i n ,

T ' a c c e p t t h e t r i b u t e o f a l o y a l b r a i n ;

1 5 T h y c l e m e n c y d i d y e r s t 0 e s t e e m a s m u c h formerly T h e a c c l a m a t i o n s o f t h e p o o r , a s r i c h ;

W h i c h m a k e s m e d e e m , 0 m y r u d e n e s s i s n o w r o n g , t h i n k T h o u g h I r e s o u n d t h y g r e a t n e s s
' m o n g s t t h e t h r o n g .

The Poem

N o 0 p h o e n i x p e n , n o r S p e n s e r ' s p o e t r y , n e i t h e r

2 0 N o S p e e d ' s , n o r C a m d e n ' s l e a r n e d h i s t o r y , 5

E l i z a ' s 0 w o r k s , w a r s , p r a i s e , c a n e ' r e E l i z a b e t h ' s c o m p a c t , 0 summarize

T h e world's t h e theater w h e r e s h e did act;

N o m e m o r i e s , n o r v o l u m e s c a n c o n t a i n ,

T h e n i n e O l i m p ' a d e s ⁶ of her happy reign,

25 W h o w a s s o g o o d , s o j u s t , s o l e a r n e d , s o w i s e ,

F r o m a l l t h e k i n g s o n e a r t h s h e w o n t h e p r i z e ;

N o r s a y I m o r e t h a n d u l y i s h e r d u e ,

M i l l i o n s w i l l t e s t i f y t h a t t h i s i s t r u e ;

S h e h a t h w i p e d o f f t h ' a s p e r s i o n o f h e r s e x ,

BO T h a t w o m e n w i s d o m l a c k t o p l a y t h e R e x ; ⁰ King

S p a i n ' s m o n a r c h s a y s n o t s o ; n o r y e t h i s h o s t , ⁰ followers

S h e t a u g h t t h e m b e t t e r m a n n e r s t o t h e i r c o s t . ⁷

T h e S a l i q u e l a w ⁸ h a d n o t i n f o r c e n o w b e e n ,

I f F r a n c e h a d e v e r h o p e d f o r s u c h a Q u e e n ;

35 B u t c a n y o u D o c t o r s ⁹ n o w t h i s p o i n t d i s p u t e ,

S h e ' s a r g u m e n t e n o u g h t o m a k e y o u m u t e ;

S i n c e f i r s t t h e s u n d i d r u n , h i s n e ' e r ⁰ r u n n e d ⁰
r a c e , n e v e r / f i n i s h e d A n d e a r t h h a d t w i c e a y e a r , a n e w
- o l d f a c e ; ¹

S i n c e t i m e w a s t i m e , a n d m a n u n m a n l y m a n , ²

40 C o m e s h o w m e s u c h a p h o e n i x ³ i f y o u c a n ;

W a s e v e r p e o p l e b e t t e r r u l e d t h a n h e r s ?

W a s e v e r l a n d m o r e h a p p y , f r e e d f r o m s t i r s ? ⁰ public disturbances 4. Crying of a sheep, goat, or calf, used contempbeth's forty-four-year reign, while the meaning of tuously for a h u m a n utterance.

nine is unclear.

5. William C a m d e n (1551 — 1623) wrote Annals or

7. Spain's monarch was Philip II (1527-1598);

The History of the Most Renowned and Victorious his great naval fleet, the Spanish Armada, was Princess Elizabeth (translated from the Latin by R. defeated by the British naval forces in 1588.

Norton, 1630). The phoenix is a legendary bird, the 8. A much-debated law excluding females from only one of its kind. It is represented as living five succession to the French crown.

hundred years in the Arabian desert before setting
9. Learned men or, more specifically, men profi-itself on fire, then rising anew from its own ashes;
cient in the knowledge of law.

the “phoenix” here refers to Sir Philip Sidney

1. A reference to the seasonal changes of spring
(1 5 5 4 - 1 5 8 6 ; see pp. 2 0 8 - 2 0) . Edmund Spenser and fall, at which times Earth dons a “new” face, (1 5 5 2 - 1 5 9 9 ; see pp. 159-205) wrote The Faerie
though “old” because recurring annually.

Queene (1590, 1596), the title of which refers to

2. Time became measurable with the creation of Q u e e n Elizabeth. John Speed (1552—1629) wrote day and night, and distinct from eternity when God History of Great Britain under the Conquests of the made humans mortal as punishment for the sin of Romans, Saxons, Danes and Normans from fulius
Adam and Eve; as a result of the Fall, Adam lost Caesar to Our Most Gracious Sovereign King fames his true manly nature, thus becoming “unmanly

(1611).

man.”

6. Olympiads: periods of four years reckoned from

3. The Phoenix was an emblem used to represent one celebration of the Olympics to the next, by Queen Elizabeth (who was often called the “Virgin

which the ancient Greeks computed time. The ver-

Queen”) because of its associations with the Virgin

sion of this poem published in 1678 has ” ‘leven”

Mary (the bird is both virginal and unique).

in place of “nine”; eleven corresponds to Eliza-

4 6 0 / A N N E B R A D S T R E E T

Did ever wealth in England so abound?

Her victories in foreign coasts resound?

Ships more invincible than Spain’s, her foe

She racked, she sacked, she sunk his Armadoe;⁰ Armada

Her stately troops advanced to Lisbon’s wall,

Don Anthony in’s right for to install;⁴

She frankly helped Franks’ (brave) distressed King,⁵

The states united now her fame do sing;⁶

She their protectrix was, they well do know,

Unto our dread virago,⁷ what they owe;

Her nobles sacrificed their noble blood,

Nor men, nor coin she spared, to do them good;

The rude untamed Irish she did quell,

And Tiron⁸ bound, before her picture fell.

Had ever Prince such counsellors as she?

Her self Minerva,⁹ caused them so to be;

Such soldiers, and such captains never seen,
As were the subjects of our (Pallas) Queen;
Her sea-men through all straits¹ the world did round,
Terra incognitae² might know her sound;
Her Drake came laded home with Spanish gold,³
Her Essex took Cades, their Herculean hold.⁴
But time would fail me, so my wit would too,
To tell of half she did, or she could do;
Semiramis⁵ to her is but obscure,
More infamy than fame she did procure;
She placed her glory but on Babel's walls,
World's wonder for a time, but yet it falls;
Fierce Tomris⁶ (Cyrus' heads-man, Sythians' Queen)
Had put her harness off, had she but seen
Our Amazon i'th' camp at Tilberry:⁷

4. Don Antonio of Crato (1531-1595), a claimant

2. Unknown lands (Latin).

to the throne of Portugal, was used by Elizabeth to

3. In his expedition of 1577—80, Sir Francis Drake cause trouble for Philip II. In 1589, he went to (1540 or 1543—1596) plundered spoils of immense coastal Portugal and Spain with Sir Francis Drake value from Spanish settlements along the coast of (1546-1596) and Sir John Norris (1547-1597),

Chile and Peru.

their intention being to provoke rebellion in Por-

4. Robert Devereux (1566—1601), second earl of tugal against the rule of Philip. Their expedition

Essex, captured Cadiz, a Spanish port, in 1596.
was a failure.

Hercules was a mythological hero with superhu-5. From 1589 to 1590, Elizabeth sent troops and man strength; thus “Herculean” suggests the port £300,000 to Henry IV, the Huguenot king of was very strong or well fortified.

France (the “Franks”), first against the Catholic
5. Late ninth-century queen of Assyria famed for League, which raised a puppet king against him, her beauty, military prowess, and promiscuity; she and later against Spain.

ruled after the death of her husband Ninus (in
6. A reference to the provinces of the Low Coun-whose murder she may have had a hand); she tries (the representative assembly of the Netherreputedly built Babylon.

lands was called the States General). Elizabeth
6. First-century queen of the Massagetae, a Scythaided the Protestant Netherlands in their wars ian tribe, defeated Cyrus the Great of Persia; she against Spain.

had his head cut off and thrown into a pot of blood,

7. A vigorous, heroic woman; a female warrior.
because, she said, he thirsted for it.

8. Hugh O’Neill (ca. 1540-1616), second earl of

7. A fortification on the north bank of the river
Tyrone and an Irish chieftain, intrigued with both

Thames, near London. In August 1588, the English army was assembled there, in readiness to defeat the Spanish and the Scots against England. He was defeated by Lord Mountjoy and the English forces repulse an expected Spanish invasion. Queen Elizabeth in 1601.

Elizabeth reviewed the troops and gave a celebrated address, reportedly wearing a silver breastplate the arts, and justice; also called Pallas Athena over her white dress and carrying a truncheon. The (Greek).

Amazons were a legendary tribe of women warriors. 1. Straits: narrow waterways connecting two large bodies of water; may also mean difficulties.

IN HONOR OF THAT HIGH AND MIGHTY PRINCESS / 461

(Judging all valor, and all majesty)

Within that Princess to have residence,

And prostrate yielded to her excellence:

Dido⁸ first foundress of proud Carthage walls,

(Who living consummates her funerals)

A great Eliza,⁹ but compared with ours,

How vanisheth her glory, wealth, and powers;

Proud profuse Cleopatra,¹ whose wrong name,

Instead of glory proved her country's shame:

Of her what worth in story's to be seen,

But that she was a rich Egyptian Queen;
Zenobia,² potent empress of the East,
And of all these without compare the best;
(Whom none but great Aurelius could quell)
Yet for our Queen is no fit parallel:
She was a phoenix Queen, so shall she be,
Her ashes not revived more phoenix she;
Her personal perfections, who would tell,
Must dip his pen i'th' Heliconian well;³
Which I may not, my pride doth but aspire,
To read what others write, and then admire.
Now say, have women worth, or have they none?
Or had they some, but with our Queen is't gone?
Nay Masculines, you have thus taxed⁰ us long, accused
But she though dead, will vindicate our wrong.
Let such, as say our sex is void of reason,
Know 'tis a slander now, but once was treason.
But happy England, which had such a Queen,
O happy, happy, had those days still been,
But happiness lies in a higher sphere;
Then wonder not, Eliza moves not here.
Full fraught with honor, riches, and with days,
She set, she set, like Titan⁰ in his rays. the sun
No more shall rise or set such glorious sun
Until the heavens' great revolution:⁴
If then new things, their old form must retain,
Eliza shall rule Albion⁰ once again. England

8. Legendary founder and queen of Carthage, who evidently takes Cleopatra's name as referring by burned herself on a funeral pyre, either to escape metaphorical extension to her "fatherland."

marriage to Iarbas, a local king, or, according to
2. Queen of Palmyra, a city-state in ancient Syria.

Virgil, because she had been abandoned by

After the death of her husband, Odaenathus,

Aeneas, who left her before founding Rome.

whom she may have murdered, she embarked on

9. According to some authors, Dido's true name was of expansion and called herself "Augusta" and was Elyssa; when depicted as a chaste queen, she

the "Empress of the East"; she distinguished her-was an appropriate figure for England's "Eliza," self in warfare but was finally defeated by the though less great, Bradstreet insists.

Roman emperor Aurelian in 273.

1. First-century Egyptian queen and mistress of

3. The Hippocrene Spring, on Mt. Helicon, was

Julius Caesar, she married Marc Antony and the

the haunt of the Muses, the nine Greek sister god-

two were defeated by Octavius at the battle of desse believed to be the sources of inspiration for Actium; she killed herself rather than be paraded

the arts.

in triumph by Octavius. Her story is told in Shake-

4. A reference to the Apocalypse, after which a speare's tragedy Antony and Cleopatra. "Cleopatra"

“new heaven and a new earth” (Revelation 21.1), means “glory to the father” in Greek; Bradstreet eternal and idyllic, will be established.

4 6 2 / A N N E B R A D S T R E E T

Her Epitaph

Here sleeps the Queen, this is the royal bed.

O th’ damask Rose, sprung from the white and red,5

Whose sweet perfume fills the all-filling air,

This Rose is withered, once so lovely fair,

115 On neither tree did grow such Rose before,

The greater was our gain, our loss the more.

Another

Here lies the pride of Queens, pattern of Kings,

So blaze0 it fame, here’s feathers for thy wings, announce

Here lies the envied, yet unparalleled Prince

120 Whose living virtues speak (though dead long since)

If many worlds, as that fantastic framed,6

In every one, be her great glory famed.

1 6 4 3 1 6 5 0

The Prologue7

i

To sing of wars, of captains, and of kings,

Of cities founded, common-wealths begun,

For my mean0 pen, are too superior things, inferior

And how they all, or each, their dates have run

5 Let poets, and historians set these forth,

My obscure verse shall not so dim their worth.

2

But when my wond'ring eyes, and envious heart,
Great Bartas'8 sugared lines do but read o'er,
Fool, I do grudge the Musesy did not part⁰ divide
io 'Twixt him and me that over-fluent store;
A Bartas can do what a Bartas will,
But simple I, according to my skill.

5. Queen Elizabeth I was the daughter of Henry VIII, whose father was Henry VII, of the House of Lancaster, and whose mother was Elizabeth, English, “Of Many Worlds in This World” (p. 500).

daughter of Edward IV, of the house of York. These

7. This poem appeared at the beginning of Bradstreet's first volume of poetry, The Tenth Muse Lately Sprung Up in America (1650), which was other for many years. The “Damask Rose,” a pink evidently published without Bradstreet's knowl- or variegated red-and-white rose, is here used to edge.

represent the merging of the two houses in the per-

8. Guillaume du Bartas (1544-1590), French son of Elizabeth.

poet and author of La Semaine (1578), an epic

6. I.e., if there are many worlds, as that visionary poem on Christian history; his works greatly influor fantastical person surmised; in fact, a number enced Bradstreet.

of Bradstreet's contemporaries, influenced by

9. The nine Greek sister goddesses believed to be Copernicus's revolutionary theory of a heliocentric
the source of inspiration for the arts.

THE PROLOGUE / 463

3

From school-boys tongue, no rhetoric¹ we expect,

Nor yet a sweet consort,⁰ from broken strings, concert,
*harmony

15 Nor perfect beauty, where's a main defect;

My foolish, broken, blemished Muse so sings;

And this to mend, alas, no art is able,

'Cause nature made it so irreparable.

4

Nor can I, like that fluent sweet-tongued Greek

20 Who lisped at first,² speak afterwards more plain.

By art, he gladly found what he did seek,

A full requital of his striving pain:

Art can do much, but this maxim's most sure.

A weak or wounded brain admits no cure.

5

25 I am obnoxious⁰ to each carping tongue, vulnerable

Who says my hand a needle better fits;

A poet's pen all scorn I should thus wrong;

For such despite⁰ they cast on female wits: scorn

If what I do prove well, it won't advance,⁰ be recognized

BO They'll say it's stolen, or else it was by chance.

6

But sure the antick³ Greeks were far more mild, Else of our sex, why feigned⁰ they those nine,⁴ invented
And poesy made Calliope's owne child?⁵
So 'mongst the rest, they placed the arts divine:
35 But this weak knot⁶ they will full soon untie,
The Greeks did nought, but play the fool and lie.

7

Let Greeks be Greeks, and women what they are,
Men have precedency,⁷ and still excel;
It is but vain, unjustly to wage war;
40 Men can do best, and women know it well;
Preeminence in each and all is yours,
Yet grant some small acknowledgement of ours.

1. Skill in using eloquent and persuasive language; “they” refers to those who disapprove of women writing poetry; the last line of the stanza

2. The Greek orator Demosthenes (384—322 is what “they” might say to refute the argument B.C.E.), was said to have overcome a speech defect made by the speaker in the first four lines of the

3. Ancient; but also absurd, bizarre. stanza.

4. I.e., the nine Muses.

7. Superiority in rank or estimation; also, priority

5. Calliope was the Muse of heroic poetry.

in time or succession.

6. I.e., this argument for women's right to com-

464 / ANNE BRADSTREET

8

A n d oh, ye h i g h flown quills⁸ that soar the skies,

A n d ever w i t h your prey, still c a t c h your praise,

45 If e'er you deign⁰ t h e s e lowly lines your eyes, think, fit for Give w h o l e s o m e parsley wreath, I ask no bays:⁹

T h i s m e a n and u n r e f i n e d stuff o f m i n e ,

Will m a k e your glistering gold but m o r e to shine.

1650

Before the Birth of One of Her Children

All things w i t h i n this fading world h a t h e n d ,

Adversity d o t h still our joys attend;

No ties so strong, no friends so dear and sweet,

B u t w i t h death's parting b l o w is sure to m e e t .

5 T h e s e n t e n c e past is m o s t irrevocable,¹

A c o m m o n thing, yet oh inevitable;

H o w soon, m y dear,² d e a t h m a y m y steps attend,

H o w soon't m a y be thy lot to lose thy friend;

W e b o t h are ignorant, yet love bids m e

io T h e s e farewell lines to r e c o m m e n d to thee,

T h a t w h e n that knot's untied³ that m a d e u s o n e ,

I may s e e m thine, w h o i n e f f e c t a m n o n e .

A n d if I s e e not half my days that's due,⁴

W h a t nature w o u l d , G o d grant to yours and you;

15 T h e m a n y faults that well y o u k n o w I have,

Let be interr'd in my oblivion's⁵ grave;

If any w o r t h or virtue w e r e in m e ,
Let that live freshly in thy m e m o r y ,
A n d w h e n t h o u feel'st no grief, as I no harms,
20 Yet love thy dead, w h o l o n g lay in t h i n e arms:
A n d w h e n thy loss shall be repaid with gains,
Look to my little babes, my dear remains.
A n d if t h o u love thy self, or loved'st m e ,
T h e s e O protect from step-dame's injury.
25 A n d if c h a n c e to t h i n e eyes shall bring this verse,
W i t h s o m e sad sighs h o n o r my absent Hearse;
corpse
A n d kiss this paper for thy love's dear sake,
W h o w i t h salt tears this last farewell did take.

1 6 7 8

8. Feathers, poetic for wings; also, pens.

complications in childbirth was common at this

9. Leaves of the bay tree, woven into a wreath to time.

reward a poet; hence the fame or repute gained by

3. I.e., the “knot” of marriage, “untied” by death.

poetic achievement.

4. I.e., she fears she may die before age thirty-five,

1. The sin of Adam and Eve brought the “sen-half of the seventy years traditionally seen as tence” of death to humans.

humankind's allotment.

2. The poet addresses her husband; death due to

5. Some editors emend to “oblivious.”

THE AUTHOR TO HER BOOK / 465

To My Dear and Loving Husband

If ever two were one, then surely we.

If ever man were loved by wife, then thee;

If ever wife was happy in a man,

Compare with me yewomen if you can.

5 I prize thy love more than whole mines of gold,

Or all the riches that the East doth hold.

My love is such that rivers cannot quench,

Nor ought but love from thee give recompense

.

Thy love is such I can no way repay;

10 The heavens reward thee manifold, I pray.

Then while we live, in love let's so persevere,

That when we live no more we may live ever.

1678

The Author to Her Book6

Thou ill-formed offspring of my feeble brain,

Who after birth didst by my side remain,

Till snatched from thence by friends, less wise
than true, Who thee abroad, exposed to public view,

5 Made thee in rags, halting to th' press to trudge,

Where errors were not lessened (all may judge).

At thy return my blushing was not small,

My rambling brat (in print) should mother call,

I cast thee by as one unfit for light,

io The visage was so irksome in my sight;

Yet being mine own, at length affection would ld Thy blemishes amend, if so I could.

I w a s h e d thy face, but m o r e d e f e c t s I saw,
A n d rubbing off a spot still m a d e a flaw.
15 I s t r e t c h e d thy joints to m a k e t h e e e v e n feet,⁷
Yet still t h o u run'st m o r e h o b b l i n g t h a n is meet;⁰
appropriate In better dress to trim t h e e w a s my mind, But n o u g h t save h o m e s p u n c l o t h i' th' h o u s e I find.

In this array m o n g s t vulgars⁰ may'st t h o u roam.
common people 20 In critic's h a n d s beware t h o u dost not c o m e ,

A n d take thy way w h e r e yet t h o u art not k n o w n ;
If for thy father asked, say t h o u hadst n o n e ;

A n d for thy m o t h e r , s h e alas is poor,

W h i c h c a u s e d her thus t o s e n d t h e e o u t o f door.

1 6 7 8

6. Bradstreet is thought to have written this poem (see note 7, p. 462) was contemplated, in 1666, when a second edition of The Tenth Muse 7. I.e., metrical feet; to smooth out the lines.

4 6 6 / A N N E B R A D S T R E E T

A Letter to Her Husband, Absent upon

Public Employment⁸

My head, my heart, m i n e eyes, my life, nay, more,

My joy, my m a g a z i n e ⁰ of earthly store, storehouse

If t w o b e o n e , as surely t h o u and I,

H o w stayest t h o u there, whilst I at Ipswich⁹ lie?

5 So m a n y steps, head¹ from the heart to sever,

If but a neck, s o o n s h o u l d we be together.

I, like t h e Earth this s e a s o n , m o u r n in black,

My S u n is g o n e so far in's zodiac,

W h o m whilst I 'joyed, nor storms, nor frost I felt,

10 H i s w a r m t h s u c h frigid colds did c a u s e to melt.
M y chilled limbs n o w n u m b e d lie forlorn;
Return; return, s w e e t Sol, f r o m Capricorn;2
In this dead time, alas, w h a t c a n I m o r e
T h a n v i e w t h o s e fruits w h i c h t h r o u g h thy heat
I bore?

15 W h i c h s w e e t c o n t e n t m e n t yield me for a space,

True living pictures of their father's face.

0 strange effect! n o w t h o u a r t s o u t h w a r d g o n e ,

1 weary grow the t e d i o u s day so long;

But w h e n t h o u northward t o m e shalt return,

20 I w i s h my S u n may never set, but burn

W i t h i n the C a n c e r 3 of my g l o w i n g breast,

T h e w e l c o m e h o u s e o f h i m m y dearest guest.

W h e r e ever, ever stay, and go n o t t h e n c e ,

Till nature's sad d e c r e e shall call t h e e h e n c e ;

25 F l e s h of thy flesh, b o n e of thy b o n e , 4

I here, t h o u there, yet b o t h but o n e .

1 6 7 8

Here Follows Some Verses upon the Burning

of Our House July 10th, 1666

Copied Out of a Loose Paper

In silent night w h e n rest I took

For sorrow near I did n o t look

I w a k e n e d w a s w i t h thund'ring n o i s e

A n d p i t e o u s shrieks of dreadful voice.

5 T h a t fearful s o u n d of "Fire!" and "Fire!"

Let n o m a n k n o w is my desire.5

8. Simon Bradstreet was in Boston as a member
 2. Tenth sign of the zodiac; represents winter. Sol:
 of the General Court, which was working to com-
 sun.
 bine several individual colonies into the United
 3. Fourth sign of the zodiac; represents summer.
 Colonies of New England.
 4. After God created Eve from Adam's rib, Adam
 9. Town in Massachusetts, north of Boston.
 said, "This is now bone of my bones, and flesh of 1. Perhaps including an allusion to the biblical my flesh" (Genesis 2.23).
 idea that "the head of the woman is the man" (1
 5. I.e., I desire that no man know that "fearful Corinthians 11.3).
 sound."

HEREFOLLOWSSOMEVERSES / 4 6 7

I, starting up, the light did spy,
 And to my God my heart did cry
 To strengthen me in my distress
 10 And not to leave me succorless.⁰ without aid
 Then, coming out, beheld a^o space⁰
for a / time
 The flame consume my dwelling place.
 And when I could no longer look,
 I blest His name that gave and took,⁶
 15 That laid my goods now in the dust.

Yea, so it was, and so 'twas just.

It was His own, it was not mine,

Far be it that I should repine;0

complain

He might of all justly bereft

20 But yet sufficient for us left.

When by the ruins oft I past

My sorrowing eyes aside did cast,

And here and there the places spy

Where oft I sat and long did lie:

25 Here stood that trunk, and there that chest,

There lay that store I counted best.

My pleasant things in ashes lie,

And them behold no more shall I.

Under thy roof no guest shall sit,

30 Nor at thy table eat a bit.

No pleasant tale shall e'er be told,

Nor things recounted done of old.

No candle e'er shall shine in thee,

Nor bridegroom's voice e'er heard shall be.

35 In silence ever shall thou lie,

Adieu, Adieu, all's vanity.0

empty, worthless

Then straight I 'gin my heart to chide,

And did thy wealth on earth abide?

Didst fix thy hope on mold'ring dust?

40 The arm of flesh didst make thy trust?

Raise up thy thoughts above the sky

That dunghill mists away may fly.
Thou hast an house on high erect,
Framed by that mighty Architect,
45 With glory richly furnished,
Stands permanent though this be fled.
It's purchased and paid for too
By Him⁷ who hath enough to do.
A price so vast as is unknown
50 Yet by His gift is made thine own;
There's wealth enough, I need no more,
Farewell, my pelf,⁸ farewell my store.
The world no longer let me love,
My hope and treasure lies above.

1867

6. "The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away; sins of Adam and Eve.

blessed be the name of the Lord" (Job 1.21).

8. Possessions, usually falsely gained.

7. I.e., Christ, whose death is said to pay for the 4 6 8

R I C H A R D C R A S H A W

1613-1649

On the Baptized Ethiopian¹

Let it no longer be a forlorn hope

To wash² an Ethiope;

He's washed, his gloomy skin a peaceful shade

For his white soul is made,

5 And now, I doubt not, the Eternal Dove³

A black-faced house will love.

1 6 4 6

To the Infant Martyrs⁴

Go, smiling souls, your new-built cages⁵ break,
In heaven you'll learn to sing, ere here to speak,⁶
Nor let the milky fonts⁷ that bathe your thirst
Be your delay;

5 The place that calls you hence is, at the worst,
Milk all the way.⁸

1 6 4 6

Upon the Infant Martyrs

To see both blended in one flood,
The mothers' milk, the children's blood,
Make me doubt⁰ if heaven will gather wonder Roses hence, or lilies rather.

1 6 4 6

The Tear

What bright soft thing is this?

Sweet Mary, thy fair eyes' expense?⁹

1. Acts 8.26—39 tells how an Ethiopian eunuch of i.e., Jesus (Matthew 2.16).

great authority under Queen Candace was con-

5. I.e., their bodies, which confined them to an verted and baptized by Philip the Evangelist.

earthly existence.

2. I.e., baptize. An allusion to the phrase washing

6. "Infant" derives from infans, Latin for "unable an Ethiope white, used as an expression for an

to speak.”

impossible task.

7. “Fonts” are receptacles used in the sacrament

3. I.e., the Holy Spirit; the spirit of God descends of baptism; i.e., a reference both to baptism and to “like a dove” during Christ’s baptism (Matthew mother’s milk.

3.16).

8. I.e., at worst, the Milky Way will replace their

4. The Holy Innocents, all the children of Beth-mothers’ milk; at best, they will be even higher in lehem of two years and under, who were slain by the heavens.

Herod in an effort to destroy the one who, accord-

9. I.e., is this the product of your fair eyes, Mary? ing to prophecy, would become the ruler of Israel,

THE TEAR / 469

A m o i s t spark it is,

A wat’ry d i a m o n d ; from w h e n c e

5 T h e very term, I think, w a s f o u n d

T h e water¹ of a d i a m o n d .

O ‘tis not a tear,

'Tis a star about to drop
From thine eye its sphere;
10 The sun will stoop and take it up.
Proud will his sister be to wear
This thine eyes' jewel in her ear.
O 'tis a tear
Too true a tear; for no sad eyne,^o eyes
15 How sad so e're,^o ever
Rain so true a teare as thine;
Each drop leaving a place so dear,
Weeps for itself, is its own tear.
Such a pearl as this is,
20 (Slipped from Aurora's^o dewy breast) the dawn's
The rose bud's sweet lip kisses;
And such the rose itself, when vexed
With gentle flames, does shed,
Sweating in too warm a bed.
25 Such the maiden gem,
By the wanton spring put on,
Peeps from her parents' tem,
And blushes on the manly sun:
This wat'ry blossom of thy eyne,
30 Ripe, will make the richer wine.
Faire drop, why quak'st thou so?
'Cause thou straight^o must lay thy head immediately
In the dust? o no;
The dust shall never be thy bed:
35 A pillow for thee will I bring,

S t u f f e d w i t h d o w n o f a n g e l s ' w i n g .
T h u s c a r r i e d u p o n h i g h ,
(F o r t o H e a v e n t h o u m u s t g o)
S w e e t l y s h a l t t h o u l i e
40 A n d i n s o f t s l u m b e r s b a t h e t h y w o e ;
T i l l t h e s i n g i n g o r b s ³ a w a k e t h e e ,
A n d o n e o f t h e i r b r i g h t c h o r u s m a k e t h e e .
T h e r e t h y s e l f s h a l t b e
A n e y e , b u t n o t a w e e p i n g o n e ,

1. The term for the transparency and luster of a talline spheres that contained one or more of the diamond.

heavenly bodies and revolved about Earth, creating

2. The moon.

beautiful music.

3. In Ptolemaic astronomy, the concentric crys-

470 / A B R A H A M C O W L E Y

45 Y e t I d o u b t o f t h e e ,

W h e t h e r t h ' h a d s t r a t h e r t h e r e h a v e s h o n e

A n e y e o f H e a v e n ; o r s t i l l s h i n e h e r e ,

I n t h ' H e a v e n o f M a r y ' s e y e , a t e a r .

1646

A B R A H A M C O W L E Y

1618-1667

The Wish

W e l l t h e n ; I n o w d o p l a i n l y s e e ,

T h i s b u s y w o r l d a n d I s h a l l n e ' e r a g r e e ;

T h e v e r y h o n e y o f a l l e a r t h l y j o y

D o e s of all meats the soonest cloy;1
5 And they, methinks, deserve my pity
W h o for it can endure the stings,
T h e crowd, and buzz, and murmurings
Of this great hive, the city.
Ah, yet, ere I d e s c e n d to the grave
io May I a small h o u s e and large garden have!
And a f e w friends, and many books, both true,
Both wise, and both delightful too!
And since love ne'er will from me flee,
A mistress moderately fair,
15 And good as guardian angels are,
Only beloved, and loving me!
O fountains, w h e n in you shall I
Myself, eased of unpeaceful thoughts, espy?
O fields! O woods! w h e n , w h e n shall I be made 20 T h e happy tenant of your shade?
Here's the spring-head of pleasure's flood,
Here's wealthy Nature's treasury,
W h e r e all the riches lie that she
Has coined and stamped for good.
25 Pride and ambition here
Only in farfetched metaphors appear;
Here naught but winds can hurtful murmurs scatter,
And naught but Echo² flatter.
T h e gods, w h e n they descended, hither
30 From heaven did always c h o o s e their way;
And therefore we may boldly say

That 'tis the way, too, thither.³

1. Overfeed to the point of loathing.

3. I.e., since the gods always come here when they

2. In Greek mythology, a nymph, who misused her descend from heaven, we can say that the way to power of speech and was therefore condemned to heaven (“thither”) is from here.

repeat others' words.

PLATONIC LOVE / 471

How happy here should I

And one dear she live and, embracing, die!

35 She who is all the world, and can exclude

In deserts, solitude.

I should have then this only fear,

Lest men, when they my pleasures see,

Should hither throng to live like me,

40 And so make a city here.

1647

Platonic Love⁴

i

Indeed I must confess,

When souls mix 'tis an happiness,

But not complete till bodies too do join,

And both our wholes into one whole combine;

5 But half of heaven the souls in glory taste

Till by love in heaven at last

Their bodies too are placed.

2

In thy immortal part

Man, as well as I, thou art.⁵

io But something 'tis that differs thee and me,
*distinguishes

And we must one even in that difference be.

I thee both as a man and woman prize,⁶

For a perfect love implies

Love in all capacities.

3

15 Can that for true love pass

When a fair woman courts her glass?⁰ mirror

Something unlike must in love's likeness be:

His⁰ wonder is one and variety. love's

For he whose soul nought but a soul can move

20 Does a new Narcissus prove,⁷

And his own image love.

4

That souls do beauty know

'Tis to the body's help they owe;

If when they know't they straight abuse that trust

25 And shut the body from't, 'tis as unjust

4. Based on the ideas of the ancient Greek phi-

5. I.e., in your soul, you are equal to man.

losopher Plato, the concept of Platonic love (as it

6. I.e., I value you both as my equal (as a "man") was expressed by many Renaissance writers) held and as a lover (as a "woman").

that physical beauty is the outer sign of a moral

7. I.e., prove to be a new Narcissus: in Greek and spiritual beauty of the soul; the proper Plamythology, a youth who fell in love with his own tonic lover adores the beloved's physical beauty reflection in a pool of water, then drowned in an only as a manifestation of spirit.

attempt to embrace the reflection.

472 / RICHARD LOVELACE

As if I brought my dearest friend to see

My mistress and at th' instant he Should steal her quite from me.

1656

RICHARD LOVELACE *

1618-1658

To Althea, from Prison

When Love with unconfined wings¹

Hovers within my gates,

And my divine Althea brings

To whisper at the grates;

5 When I lie tangled in her hair

And fettered to her eye,

The gods² that wanton in the air

Know no such liberty.

When flowing cups run swiftly round,

io With no allaying Thames, ³

Our careless heads with roses bound,

Our hearts with loyal flames;

When thirsty grief in wine we steep,

W h e n h e a l t h s 0 and draughts go free, toasts

15 F i s h e s , t h a t t i p p l e 0 i n t h e d e e p , drink

K n o w n o s u c h l i b e r t y .

W h e n , l i k e c o m m i t t e d 0 l i n n e t s , 0 I caged /finches

W i t h s h r i l l e r t h r o a t s h a l l s i n g

T h e s w e e t n e s s , m e r c y , m a j e s t y ,

20 A n d g l o r i e s o f m y K i n g ;

W h e n I s h a l l v o i c e a l o u d h o w g o o d

H e i s , h o w g r e a t s h o u l d b e ,

E n l a r g e d w i n d s , t h a t c u r l t h e f l o o d ,

K n o w n o s u c h l i b e r t y .

25 S t o n e w a l l s d o n o t a p r i s o n m a k e ,

N o r i r o n b a r s a c a g e ;

M i n d s i n n o c e n t a n d q u i e t t a k e

T h a t f o r a n h e r m i t a g e .

I f I h a v e f r e e d o m i n m y l o v e ,

* Since all the poems here are from Lovelace's vol-

2. Some seventeenth-century versions read ume Lucasta (1649), we do not repeat the publication date for each.

“birds.”

3. I.e., with no mixture of water in the wine (the

1. I.e., Cupid, the winged god of erotic love in river Thames flows through London).

Roman mythology.

T o A M A R A N T H A , T H A T S H E W O U L D D I S H E V E L H E R H A I R / 4 7 3

30 A n d i n m y s o u l a m f r e e ,

A n g e l s alone, that soar above,
Enjoy s u c h liberty.

To Lucasta, Going to the Wars

Tell me not, sweet, I am unkind,

T h a t from the n u n n e r y

Of thy c h a s t e breast and quiet mind,

To war and arms I fly.

5 True, a n e w mistress n o w I c h a s e ,

T h e f i r s t f o e i n t h e f i e l d ;

A n d w i t h a stronger faith e m b r a c e

A sword, a horse, a shield.

Yet this i n c o n s t a n c y is s u c h

io As y o u t o o shall adore;

I c o u l d not love thee, dear, so m u c h ,

Loved I n o t h o n o r more.

To Amarantha, That She Would Dishevel Her Hair

A m a r a n t h a s w e e t and fair,

Ah, braid no m o r e that s h i n i n g hair!

As my c u r i o u s h a n d or eye,

H o v e r i n g r o u n d t h e e , let it fly.

5 Let it fly as u n c o n f i n e d

As its c a l m ravisher, t h e wind,

W h o hath left his darling, th' East,

To w a n t o n o'er that spicy nest.

Every tress m u s t be c o n f e s s e d 4

io But neatly tangled at the best,

Like a c l u e 0 of g o l d e n thread, ball

M o s t excellently raveled.

D o n o t t h e n w i n d u p t h a t l i g h t
I n r i b a n d s , 0 a n d o ' e r c l o u d i n n i g h t ; r i b b o n s 15 L i k e t h e s u n i n ' s e a r l y r a y ,
B u t s h a k e y o u r h e a d a n d s c a t t e r d a y .
S e e , ' t i s b r o k e ! 5 W i t h i n t h i s g r o v e ,
T h e b o w e r a n d t h e w a l k s o f l o v e ,

4. I.e., said to be. speaker compares Amarantha's hair to the sun, and

5. I.e., the morning has broken, or started (a con- encourages her to shake it free, as the sun scatters tinuation of the previous stanza, in which the its light and begins day).

474 / R I C H A R D L O V E L A C E

W e a r y l i e w e d o w n a n d r e s t
20 A n d f a n e a c h o t h e r ' s p a n t i n g b r e a s t .
H e r e w e ' l l s t r i p a n d c o o l o u r f i r e
I n c r e a m b e l o w , i n m i l k - b a t h s h i g h e r ;
A n d w h e n a l l w e l l s a r e d r a w n d r y ,
I ' l l d r i n k a t e a r o u t o f t h i n e e y e .
25 W h i c h o u r v e r y j o y s s h a l l l e a v e ,
T h a t s o r r o w s t h u s w e c a n d e c e i v e ;
O r o u r v e r y s o r r o w s w e e p ,
T h a t j o y s s o r i p e s o l i t t l e k e e p .

The Grasshopper⁶

*To My Noble Friend, Mr. Charles Cotton*⁷

O t h o u t h a t s w i n g ' s t u p o n t h e w a v i n g h a i r
O f s o m e w e l l - f i l l e d o a t e n b e a r d , 8
D r u n k e v e r y n i g h t w i t h a d e l i c i o u s t e a r 0 d e w , w a t e r
D r o p p e d t h e e f r o m h e a v e n , w h e r e n o w t h ' o a r t r e a r e d ; y o u
5 T h e j o y s o f e a r t h a n d a i r a r e t h i n e e n t i r e ,

That with thy feet and wings dost hop and fly;
And, when thy poppy⁰ works, thou dost retire sleeping
potion
To thy carved acorn-bed to lie.
Up with the day, the sun thou welcom'st then,
io Sport'st in the gilt-plats⁰ of his beams, golden braids
And all these merry days mak'st merry men,
Thyself, and melancholy streams.⁹
But ah, the sickle! Golden ears are cropped;
Ceres and Bacchus' bid good night;
15 Sharp, frosty fingers all your flowers have topped,
And what scythes spared, winds shave off quite.
Poor verdant⁰ fool, and now green ice! thy joys, green
Large and as lasting as thy perch of grass,
Bid us lay in² 'gainst winter rain, and poise⁰ balance
20 Their floods with an o'erflowing glass.
Thou best of men and friends! we will create
A genuine summer in each other's breast,

6. This poem, a translation of an ancient Greek

8. I.e., grain.

lyric thought to be by Anacreon, embellishes the

9. "Men," "thyself" and "melancholy streams" are traditional ant and grasshopper fable, in which the all possible objects of "mak'st merry."

ant dutifully prepares for the coming winter, while

1. The grain and the grape, from Ceres, Roman the grasshopper plays instead of working. The cir-goddess of the harvest, and Bacchus, Roman god

cumstances are evidently those of the Interregof wine.

num, a winter of Puritanism for Royalists such as

2. Prepare for by storing food and drink

Lovelace.

(“o’erflowing glass,” line 20). Now green ice: i.e.,

7. A poet and fellow Royalist.

the grasshopper has frozen.

THE CORONET / 475

A n d s p i t e o f t h i s c o l d t i m e a n d f r o z e n f a t e ,

T h a w u s a w a r m s e a t t o o u r r e s t .

25 O u r s a c r e d h e a r t h s s h a l l b u r n e t e r n a l l y ,

A s v e s t a l f l a m e s ; ³ t h e N o r t h W i n d , h e

S h a l l s t r i k e h i s f r o s t - s t r e t c h e d w i n g s , d i s s o l v e , a n d f l y

T h i s E t n a i n e p i t o m e . ⁴

D r o p p i n g D e c e m b e r s h a l l c o m e w e e p i n g i n ,

30 B e w a i l t h ’ u s u r p i n g o f h i s r e i g n :

B u t w h e n i n s h o w e r s o f o l d G r e e k w e b e g i n ,

S h a l l c r y h e h a t h h i s c r o w n a g a i n ! ⁵

N i g h t , a s c l e a r H e s p e r , ⁶ s h a l l o u r t a p e r s w h i p

F r o m t h e l i g h t c a s e m e n t s w h e r e w e p l a y ,

35 A n d t h e d a r k h a g f r o m h e r b l a c k m a n t l e s t r i p , ⁷

A n d s t i c k t h e r e e v e r l a s t i n g d a y .

T h u s r i c h e r t h a n u n t e m p t e d k i n g s ⁸ a r e w e ,

T h a t , a s k i n g n o t h i n g , n o t h i n g n e e d :

T h o u g h l o r d o f a l l w h a t s e a s e m b r a c e , y e t h e

40 T h a t w a n t s h i m s e l f i s p o o r i n d e e d . ⁹

1649

ANDREW MARVELL *

1621-1678

The Coronet¹

W h e n for the thorns with w h i c h I long, too long,
W i t h m a n y a piercing w o u n d ,
M y Savior's h e a d have c r o w n e d ,
I s e e k w i t h garlands² to redress that wrong;
5 T h r o u g h every garden, every m e a d , 0 meadow
I gather flowers (my fruits are only flowers)
D i s m a n t l i n g all the fragrant towers⁰ high headdresses
That o n c e adorned m y shepherdess's head.

3. The vestal virgins, consecrated to Vesta, Roman goddess of the hearth, kept a sacred fire burning perpetually on her altar.

from Hecate ("the dark hag"), a Greek goddess

4. I.e., Boreas, the north wind, strikes (or folds up) his wings and flees from the underground warmth associated with night.

his wings and flees from the underground warmth

8. I.e., kings who have everything.

of Etna, a Sicilian volcano, whose flame serves as

9. I.e., even one who is lord of all and can embrace an emblem (or "epitome") of the flame of friendship; the sea is poor, if he "wants" himself (does not have self-knowledge).

have self-knowledge).

5. Greek wine was favored in the classical world,

* Since all of Marvell's poems were first published and drinkers often wore festive crowns; December (posthumously) in 1681, we do not print the date “crowns” or terminates the year; also, may allude for each selection.

to the crown worn by “King Christmas” at festivi-

1. A wreath of flowers; also, a small crown; here, ties banned by Puritans and to the crown Cavaliers the devotional poem itself. See also note 5 above. hoped Charles II would regain.

2. Wreaths; also, since garlands were a symbol of

6. Hesperus, the evening star.

poetic achievement, poems of praise.

4 7 6 / A N D R E W M A R V E L L

A n d n o w w h e n I h a v e s u m m e d u p a l l m y s t o r e ,

10 T h i n k i n g (s o I m y s e l f d e c e i v e)

S o r i c h a c h a p l e t o t h e n c e t o w e a v e g a r l a n d

A s n e v e r y e t t h e k i n g o f g l o r y ³ w o r e ;

A l a s I f i n d t h e s e r p e n t o l d ⁴

T h a t , t w i n i n g i n h i s s p e c k l e d b r e a s t ,

15 A b o u t t h e f l o w e r s d i s g u i s e d d o e s f o l d ,

W i t h w r e a t h s o f f a m e a n d i n t e r e s t . ⁵ c o i l s

A h , f o o l i s h m a n , t h a t w o u l d s t d e b a s e w i t h t h e m , A n d m o r t a l g l o r y , h e a v e n ' s d i a d e m ! ⁶ c r o w n

B u t T h o u ⁶ w h o o n l y c o u l d s t t h e s e r p e n t t a m e ,

20 E i t h e r h i s s l i p p e r y k n o t s a t o n c e u n t i e ,

A n d d i s e n t a n g l e a l l h i s w i n d i n g s n a r e ;

O r s h a t t e r t o o w i t h h i m m y c u r i o u s o f r a m e , o e l a b o r a t e / s t r u c t u r e A n d l e t t h e s e o w i t h e r , s o t h a t h e m a y die, poetic flowers T h o u g h set w i t h skill and c h o s e n out w i t h care,

25 That they, w h i l e T h o u on both their spoils dost tread,

M a y c r o w n T h y feet, that c o u l d not c r o w n T h y head.⁷

Bermudas

W h e r e t h e r e m o t e B e r m u d a s ride,⁰ float

In th' ocean's b o s o m u n e s p i e d ,

From a small boat that r o w e d along,

T h e listening w i n d s received this song:

5 "What s h o u l d we do but sing H i s praise,

That led us t h r o u g h t h e watery m a z e

U n t o a n i s l e s o l o n g u n k n o w n ,

A n d yet far kinder t h a n our own?

W h e r e H e t h e h u g e sea m o n s t e r s wracks,⁰ casts ashore i o That lift t h e d e e p u p o n their backs;

He lands us on a grassy stage,

S a f e from t h e storms, and prelate's rage.⁸

He gave us this eternal spring

W h i c h here e n a m e l s everything,

15 A n d s e n d s the f o w l s to us in care,

On daily visits t h r o u g h t h e air;

He h a n g s in s h a d e s t h e orange bright,

Like g o l d e n l a m p s in a g r e e n night,

A n d d o e s i n t h e p o m e g r a n a t e s c l o s e

20 J e w e l s m o r e rich t h a n O r m u s ⁹ shows;

H e m a k e s t h e f i g s our m o u t h s t o m e e t ,

A n d t h r o w s t h e m e l o n s at our feet;

But apples⁰ p l a n t s of s u c h a price, pineapples

3. I.e., Christ.

“And I will put enmity between thee and the

4. A reference to the serpent who tempted Eve woman, and between thy seed and her seed; it shall and thus brought about humanity’s Fall from parbruisse thy head, and thou shalt bruise his heel.”

adise (Genesis 3).

8. Storms at sea are here associated with bishops

5. I.e., self-glorification and self-advancement.

(thus indicating a Puritan stance by Marvell).

6. I.e., Christ.

9. Hormuz, a Persian Gulf island from which

7. Cf. God’s curse on Satan, from Genesis 3.15:

gems were exported.

A D I A L O G U E B E T W E E N T H E S O U L A N D
B O D Y / 4 7 7

No tree could ever bear them twice;

25 With cedars, chosen by His hand,

From Lebanon,¹ He stores the land;

And makes the hollow seas, that roar,

Proclaim the ambergris² on shore;

He cast (of which we rather⁰ boast) more properly

30 The Gospel’s pearl upon our coast,³

And in these rocks for us did frame

A temple, where to sound His name.

O! let our voice His praise exalt,

Till it arrive at heaven’s vault,

35 Which, thence (perhaps) rebounding, may Echo beyond the Mexique Bay.⁴

Thus sung they in the English boat,

An holy and a cheerful note;

And all the way, to guide their chime,

40 With falling oars they kept the time.

A Dialogue between the Soul and Body⁵

Soul

Oh, who shall from this dungeon raise

A soul enslaved so many ways?⁶

With bolts of bones that fettered stands

In feet, and manacled in hands;

5 Here blinded with an eye, and there

Deaf with the drumming of an ear;

A soul hung up, as 'twere, in chains

Of nerves and arteries and veins;

Tortured, besides each other part,

io In a vain head and double⁰ heart. deceitful

Body

Oh, who shall me deliver whole

From bonds of this tyrannic soul?

Which stretched upright, impales me so

That mine own precipice⁷¹ go,

15 And warms and moves this needless frame⁸—

A fever could but do the same—

And, wanting where⁹ its spite to try,

1. The tree called the cedar of Lebanon from its

6. Cf. St. Paul's Epistle to the Romans, 7.24: "O

most famous early locality.

wretched man that I am! who shall deliver me from

2. The roaring seas announce (“proclaim”) their the body of this death?”

bounty. Ambergris: a soapy secretion of the sperm

7. Humans walk “upright” instead of prowling like whale, gathered on beaches and used in perfumes.

animals because they possess souls; however, pos-

3. In Matthew 13.45—46, the kingdom of heaven session of a soul is also the reason they can fall and is compared to a “pearl of great price.”

be damned, so the soul is an internal “precipice.”

4. I.e., the Gulf of Mexico.

8. I.e., this frame, which does not need the soul.

5. Deriving from the medieval “debat,” a literary

9. I.e., lacking an object.

form wherein two speakers dispute a topic.

478 / A N D R E W M A R V E L L

H a s m a d e m e l i v e t o l e t m e d i e :

A b o d y t h a t c o u l d n e v e r r e s t ,

20 S i n c e t h i s i l l s p i r i t i t p o s s e s s e d .

Soul

W h a t m a g i c c o u l d m e t h u s c o n f i n e

W i t h i n a n o t h e r ’ s g r i e f t o p i n e ?

W h e r e w h a t s o e v e r i t c o m p l a i n ,

I f e e l , t h a t c a n n o t f e e l , t h e p a i n ,

25 A n d a l l m y c a r e i t s e l f e m p l o y s ,

T h a t t o p r e s e r v e w h i c h m e d e s t r o y s ,

C o n s t r a i n e d n o t o n l y t o e n d u r e
D i s e a s e s , b u t , w h a t ' s w o r s e , t h e c u r e ;
A n d r e a d y o f t t h e p o r t ² t o g a i n ,
B O A n d s h i p w r e c k e d i n t o h e a l t h a g a i n .

Body

B u t p h y s i c ⁰ y e t c o u l d n e v e r r e a c h medicine
T h e m a l a d i e s t h o u m e d o s t t e a c h :
W h o m f i r s t t h e c r a m p o f h o p e d o e s t e a r ,
A n d t h e n t h e p a l s y s h a k e s o f f e a r ;
35 T h e p e s t i l e n c e o f l o v e d o e s h e a t ,
O r h a t r e d ' s h i d d e n u l c e r e a t ;
J o y ' s c h e e r f u l m a d n e s s d o e s p e r p l e x ,
O r s o r r o w ' s o t h e r m a d n e s s v e x ;
W h i c h k n o w l e d g e f o r c e s m e t o k n o w ,
40 A n d m e m o r y w i l l n o t f o r g o .

W h a t b u t a s o u l c o u l d h a v e t h e w i t
T o b u i l d m e u p f o r s i n s o f i t ?
S o a r c h i t e c t s d o s q u a r e a n d h e w
G r e e n t r e e s t h a t i n t h e f o r e s t g r e w .

To His Coy³ Mistress

H a d w e b u t w o r l d e n o u g h , a n d t i m e , T h i s c o y n e s s , l a d y , w e r e n o c r i m e .
W e w o u l d s i t d o w n , a n d t h i n k w h i c h w a y
T o w a l k , a n d p a s s o u r l o n g l o v e ' s d a y .
5 T h o u b y t h e I n d i a n G a n g e s ' ⁰ s i d e Ganges River
S h o u d s t r u b i e s ⁴ f i n d ; I b y t h e t i d e
O f H u m b e r w o u l d c o m p l a i n . 5 I w o u l d

1. I.e., the soul can sympathize even though it has

4. Rubies were thought to help preserve virginity.

no power of physical sensation.

5. The Humber River flows through Marvell's

2. I.e., death.

native town of Hull (i.e., on the other side of the

3. In the seventeenth century, "coy" could mean world from the Ganges); "complain" implies plain-

"shy" or "quiet" as well as "coquettish," the comitive lyrics of unavailing love.

mon modern meaning.

T o H i s C O Y M I S T R E S S / 4 7 9

Love you ten years before the flood,

And you should, if you please, refuse

10 Till the conversion of the Jews.⁶

My vegetable⁷ love should grow

Vaster than empires and more slow;

An hundred years should go to praise

Thine eyes, and on thy forehead gaze;

15 Two hundred to adore each breast,

But thirty thousand to the rest;

An age at least to every part,

And the last age should show your heart.

For, lady, you deserve this state,⁰ dignity

20 Nor would I love at lower rate.⁸

But at my back I always hear

Time's winged chariot hurrying near;

And yonder all before us lie

Deserts of vast eternity.

25 Thy beauty shall no more be found;
Nor, in thy marble vault, shall sound
My echoing song; then worms shall try
That long-preserved virginity,
And your quaint⁹ honor turn to dust,
30 And into ashes all my lust:
The grave's a fine and private place,
But none, I think, do there embrace.
Now therefore, while the youthful hue
Sits on thy skin like morning dew,¹
35 And while thy willing soul transpires⁰ breathes out
At every pore with instant fires,
Now let us sport us while we may,
And now, like amorous birds of prey,
Rather at once our time devour 40 Than languish in his slow-chapped^o power. slowly devouring
Let us roll all our strength and all
Our sweetness up into one ball,
And tear our pleasures with rough strife
Through the iron gates² of life:
45 Thus, though we cannot make our sun
Stand still,³ yet we will make him run.

6. To occur, as Christian tradition had it, at the scholar argues for retaining “glew” on the grounds end of recorded history.

that the term had a specific meaning in alchemical

7. I.e., characterized by growth; in context, processes of distillation and that Marvell was increasing without conscious nurturing.

deeply interested in alchemy.

8. I.e., at any smaller amounts of time (“lower

2. The obscure “iron gates” suggests that the “ball” rate”) than what I’ve just mentioned.

of line 42 has become a missile from a siege gun,

9. Has several meanings, including fine, elegant, battering its way into a citadel. One manuscript fastidious, oversubtle, and out of date; also, with a

has “iron grates.”

pun on the Middle English noun queynte, or

3. An allusion to the power of Zeus, the chief female genitals.

Greek god, who, to prolong his night with the mor-

1. In the 1681 text, line 34 ends with the word tal Alcmena, ordered the sun not to shine; also, see “glew,” rhyming with hew. Some modern editors

Joshua 10.12-13.

emend to “glow” rather than “dew.” O n e recent

4 8 0 / A N D R E W M A R V E L L

The Fair Singer⁴

To m a k e a f i n a l c o n q u e s t o f a l l m e ,

L o v e d i d c o m p o s e s o s w e e t a n e n e m y ,

I n w h o m b o t h b e a u t i e s t o m y d e a t h a g r e e ,

J o i n i n g t h e m s e l v e s i n f a t a l h a r m o n y ;

5 T h a t w h i l e s h e w i t h h e r e y e s m y h e a r t d o e s b i n d ,

S h e w i t h h e r v o i c e m i g h t c a p t i v a t e m y m i n d .
I c o u l d h a v e f l e d f r o m o n e b u t s i n g l y f a i r :
M y d i s e n t a n g l e d s o u l i t s e l f m i g h t s a v e ,
B r e a k i n g t h e c u r l e d t r a m m e l s o f h e r h a i r . fine nets;
braids 10 B u t h o w s h o u l d I a v o i d t o b e h e r s l a v e ,
W h o s e s u b t l e a r t i n v i s i b l y c a n w r e a t h e
M y f e t t e r s o f t h e v e r y a i r I b r e a t h e ?
I t h a d b e e n e a s y f i g h t i n g i n s o m e p l a i n ,
W h e r e v i c t o r y m i g h t h a n g i n e q u a l c h o i c e ,
15 B u t a l l r e s i s t a n c e a g a i n s t h e r i s v a i n ,
W h o h a s t h ' a d v a n t a g e b o t h o f e y e s a n d v o i c e ,
A n d a l l m y f o r c e s n e e d s m u s t b e u n d o n e ,
S h e h a v i n g g a i n e d b o t h t h e w i n d a n d s u n . 5

The Definition of Love⁶

M y L o v e i s o f a b i r t h a s r a r e
A s ' t i s , f o r o b j e c t , s t r a n g e a n d h i g h ; 7
I t w a s b e g o t t e n b y D e s p a i r
U p o n I m p o s s i b i l i t y .
5 M a g n a n i m o u s D e s p a i r a l o n e
C o u l d s h o w m e s o d i v i n e a t h i n g ,
W h e r e f e e b l e H o p e c o u l d n e ' e r h a v e f l o w n
B u t v a i n l y f l a p p e d i t s t i n s e l 8 w i n g .
A n d y e t I q u i c k l y m i g h t a r r i v e i o W h e r e m y e x t e n d e d s o u l i s f i x e d ; 9
B u t F a t e d o e s i r o n w e d g e s d r i v e ,
A n d a l w a y s c r o w d s i t s e l f b e t w i x t .
F o r F a t e w i t h j e a l o u s e y e d o e s s e e
T w o p e r f e c t l o v e s , n o r l e t s t h e m c l o s e ; 0 unite

4. A poem in the genre of the courtly compliment ley, “Platonic Love” (p. 471).

paid to a lady to commend her skill in music or

7. I.e., my love’s lineage is as rare as my love itself dancing.

is strange and high.

5. In earlier warfare (especially at sea), the force

8. Glittering; also, flashy, with little or no intrinsic with the wind and sun behind it had distinct worth.

advantages.

9. The speaker describes his soul as having gone

6. This poem plays upon a Platonic definition of out of his body (“extended”) and attached (“fixed”) love as an unfulfilled longing. Cf. Abraham Cow-itself to his mistress.

THE PICTURE OF LITTLE T. C. IN A PROSP
ECT OF FLOWERS / 481

15 Their union would her ruin be,

And her tyrannic power depose.¹

And therefore her decrees of steel

Us as the distant poles have placed

(Though Love’s whole world on us doth wheel),²

20 Not by themselves to be embraced,

Unless the giddy heaven fall,

And earth some new convulsion tear,

And, us to join, the world should all

Be cramped into a planisphere.³

25 As lines, so loves oblique may well
Themselves in every angle greet;⁴
But ours, so truly parallel,
Though infinite, can never meet.
Therefore the love which us doth bind,
30 But Fate so enviously debars,
Is the conjunction of the mind,
And opposition of the stars.⁵

The Picture of Little T. C. in a Prospect⁶ of Flowers
See with what simplicity
This nymph⁷ begins her golden days!
In the green grass she loves to lie,
And there with her fair aspect tames
5 The wilder flowers, and gives them names;
But only with the roses plays,
And them does tell
What color best becomes them, and what smell.
What¹⁰ can foretell for what high cause
10 This darling of the gods was born?
Yet this is she whose chaster laws
The wanton Love⁸ shall one day fear,

1. A reference to the idea that an even mixture of stars determining their destinies are entirely hospitable (literally in “opposition,” or 180 degrees apart).
pound, able to withstand any sudden change, and
6. A background scene, or representation of a hence, in context, defying fate.

view. T. C.: a little girl; possibly Theophila

2. Though by decree of fate the lovers are as far Cornwall, who was baptized on September 26, apart as Earth's two poles, the relationship (liter-1644, the second daughter of that name in the ally, the line) between them forms the axis on family. The first Theophila had died two days after which love's world turns.

birth.

3. A chart formed by the projection of a sphere on
7. A young, beautiful female; in Greek mythology, a plane; the two poles could come together only if nymphs inhabited a particular place or natural the charted world were collapsed.

phenomenon.

4. I.e., the lines may converge at any angle.

8. I.e., Cupid, Roman god of erotic love. The "Oblique" lovers, in one sense, might deviate from speaker predicts that "T. C." will follow "chaster accepted behavior or thought.

laws," with a likely allusion to those laws followed

5. In this astronomical image, the minds of the by Diana, the mythological goddess of chastity and lovers are in accord (literally in "conjunction," or hunting.

occupying the same celestial longitude), but the

482 / A N D R E W M A R V E L L

And, u n d e r h e r c o m m a n d s e v e r e,

See his bow broke and ensigns torn.

15 Happy who can

Appease this virtuous enemy of man!⁹

Then let me in time compound ⁰ bargain

And parley¹ with those conquering eyes,

Ere they have tried their force to wound;

20 Ere with their glancing wheels they drive

In triumph over hearts that strive,

And them that yield but more despise:

Let me be laid

Where I may see thy glories from some shade.

25 Meantime, whilst every verdant⁰ thing green

Itself does at thy beauty charm,²

Reform the errors of the spring;

Make that the tulips may have share

Of sweetness, seeing they are fair;

30 And roses of their thorns disarm;

But most procure

That violets may a longer age endure.

But, O young beauty of the woods,

Whom nature courts with fruits and flowers,

35 Gather the flowers, but spare the buds,

Lest Flora, angry at thy crime

To kill her infants³ in their prime,

Do quickly make the example yours;

And ere we see,

40 Nip in the blossom all our hopes and thee.

The Mower against Gardens⁴

Luxurious man, to bring his vice in use,⁵
Did after him the world seduce,
And from the fields the flowers and plants allure,
Where Nature was most plain and pure.
5 He first enclosed within the gardens square
A dead and standing pool of air,
And a more luscious earth for them did knead,
Which stupefied them while it fed.
The pink grew then as double as his mind;⁶
io Then nutriment did change the kind.

9. By doing battle with Cupid, breaking his bow ferent aspects of rural life. Mower: one who cuts and tearing his flags (“ensigns”), she (“T. C.”) will grass with a scythe.

be a “virtuous enemy” to man (i.e., one whose

5. I.e., to establish his vice as custom. Luxurious:
 chaste virtue causes her to be the foe of love).

lustful; voluptuous.

1. Speak; also, hold a conference with the enemy.

6. The double pink carnation is produced by a

2. Enchants itself at thy beauty.

hypocritical (“double”) mind, i.e., one who coun-

3. I.e., the buds. Flora: Roman goddess of flowers.

terfeits the natural color.

4. One of four “mower” poems that examine dif-

THE MOWER TO THE GLOWWORMS / 483

With strange perfumes he did the roses taint;
And flowers themselves were taught to paint.

T h e tulip w h i t e did for c o m p l e x i o n seek,
A n d learned to interline its cheek;
15 I t s o n i o n root they t h e n s o h i g h did hold,
T h a t o n e w a s for a m e a d o w sold:7
A n o t h e r world w a s s e a r c h e d t h r o u g h o c e a n s n e w , To find t h e Marvel of Peru;8
A n d yet t h e s e rarities m i g h t be allowed 20 T o m a n , that sovereign thing and proud,
H a d he not dealt b e t w e e n t h e bark and tree,9
Forbidden mixtures there to see.
N o plant n o w k n e w t h e stock f r o m w h i c h i t c a m e
e ; H e grafts u p o n the wild the t a m e , 25 T h a t t h e u n c e r t a i n and adulterate⁰ fruit counterfeit M i g h t p u t the palate in dispute.1
H i s g r e e n seraglio has its e u n u c h s too,
Lest any tyrant h i m outdo;2
A n d in the cherry he does N a t u r e vex,
30 T o procreate w i t h o u t a sex.3
'Tis all e n f o r c e d , t h e f o u n t a i n a n d the grot,4
W h i l e t h e s w e e t fields do lie forgot,
W h e r e willing N a t u r e d o e s to all d i s p e n s e
A wild and fragrant i n n o c e n c e ;
35 A n d fauns⁵ a n d fairies do the m e a d o w s till
M o r e by their p r e s e n c e than their skill.
T h e i r statues p o l i s h e d by s o m e a n c i e n t hand,
M a y to adorn t h e gardens stand;
But, h o w s o e ' e r t h e figures do excel,
40 T h e G o d s t h e m s e l v e s w i t h u s do dwell.
The Mower to the Glowworms⁶

Ye living lamps, by whose dear light
The nightingale does sit so late,
And studying all the summer night,
Her matchless songs does meditate;⁷

7. A tulip fad in the 1630s brought extremely high woodland gods associated with lust and drinking prices for rare varieties. Onion root: bulb.

(often described as less wild than satyrs).

8. A tuliplike flower (mirabilis jalapa) that opens

6. Insects, the females of which emit a shining late in the afternoon.

green light from the abdomen. Mower: see note 4,

9. I.e., by grafting; proverbial for interfering. p. 482.

1. I.e., the result of which grafting confuses the

7. The nightingale is known for its sweet and sad palate as to what it tastes.

song, which has perhaps given rise to one tradition

2. Seraglio: harem in a sultan's palace, hence a that the bird's song laments the tragic result of place of confinement. I.e., his garden ("green serawrongful love. Another tale of the nightingale, as glio") has its castrated slaves ("eunuchs"; here, the told by Ovid, has the mournful song refer to the grafted plants, some of which could not reproduce) violence committed on Philomela, who was raped just like any tyrant.

by her brother-in-law, Tereus, who then tore out

3. Cherries are often propagated by budding on her tongue so that she could not speak. She wove the stocks of sturdier but less productive varieties.

the story in a tapestry and sent it to her sister, who

4. Grotto, a picturesque structure made to imitate rescued her. She was later changed into a night-a cave, serving as a cool retreat.

ingale while in flight from Tereus, after seeking

5. In classical mythology, half-goat, half-man revenge on him.

4 8 4 / A N D R E W M A R V E L L

5 Ye c o u n t r y c o m e t s , t h a t p o r t e n d

N o w a r n o r p r i n c e ' s f u n e r a l , ⁸

S h i n i n g u n t o n o h i g h e r e n d

T h a n t o p r e s a g e ⁰ t h e g r a s s ' s f a l l ; foretell

Y e g l o w w o r m s , w h o s e o f f i c i o u s ⁰ f l a m e dutiful 10 T o w a n d e r i n g m o w e r s s h o w s t h e w a y ,

T h a t i n t h e n i g h t h a v e l o s t t h e i r a i m ,

A n d a f t e r f o o l i s h f i r e s ⁹ d o s t r a y ;

Y o u r c o u r t e o u s l i g h t s i n v a i n y o u w a s t e ,

S i n c e J u l i a n a h e r e i s c o m e ,

15 F o r s h e m y m i n d h a t h s o d i s p l a c e d

T h a t I s h a l l n e v e r f i n d m y h o m e .

The Garden

H o w v a i n l y m e n t h e m s e l v e s a m a z e ⁰ perplex

T o w i n t h e p a l m , t h e o a k , o r b a y s , ¹

A n d t h e i r i n c e s s a n t ⁰ l a b o r s s e e unceasing

C r o w n e d f r o m s o m e s i n g l e h e r b , o r t r e e ,

5 W h o s e short and narrow-verged 2 s h a d e
D o e s prudently their toils upbraid;
W h i l e all flowers and all trees do c l o s e 0 join
To w e a v e t h e garlands of repose!
Fair Q u i e t , have I f o u n d t h e e here,
i o A n d I n n o c e n c e , thy sister dear?
M i s t a k e n long, I s o u g h t y o u t h e n
I n b u s y c o m p a n i e s of m e n .
Your sacred plants, 0 if here b e l o w , cuttings
O n l y a m o n g t h e plants will grow;
15 S o c i e t y is all but 0 rude° merely / barbarous
To° this d e l i c i o u s solitude. compared to N o w h i t e nor red 3 w a s ever s e e n
So a m o r o u s as this lovely green.
F o n d ° lovers, cruel as their flame, foolish
20 C u t in t h e s e trees their mistress' n a m e : 4
Little, alas, t h e y k n o w or h e e d
H o w far t h e s e b e a u t i e s hers exceed!
Fair trees, w h e r e s o e ' e r your barks I w o u n d ,
N o n a m e shall but your o w n b e f o u n d .

8. Comets were sometimes believed to be portents civic, and poetic accomplishments.

of approaching disasters.

2. Confined, not spreading luxuriantly like the liv-

9. Ignis fatuus (Latin), also known as the will-o'- ing branch.

the-wisp; said to draw travelers astray by holding a

3. The colors conventionally used to depict female false light before them; the phenomenon of nocturnal light is caused by the combustion of marsh gas.

his beloved's name in a tree (as Petrarch did with Laura's).

THE GARDEN / 485

25 When we have run our passion's heat,^o course

Love hither makes his best retreat.

The gods, that mortal beauty chase,

Still in a tree did end their race:⁵

Apollo hunted Daphne so,

30 Only that she might laurel grow;

And Pan did after Syrinx speed,

Not as a nymph, but for a reed.

What wondrous life is this I lead!

Ripe apples drop about my head;

35 The luscious clusters of the vine

Upon my mouth do crush their wine;

The nectarine and curious^o peach exquisite

Into my hands themselves do reach;

Stumbling on melons,⁶ as I pass,

40 Insnared with flowers, I fall on grass.

Meanwhile the mind, from pleasure less,⁷

Withdraws into its happiness;

The mind, that ocean where each kind

Does straight⁰ its own resemblance find;⁸ immediately
45 Yet it creates, transcending these,
Far other worlds and other seas,
Annihilating all that's made
To a green thought in a green shade.
Here at the fountain's sliding foot,
50 Or at some fruit tree's mossy root,
Casting the body's vest⁹ aside,
My soul into the boughs does glide:
There, like a bird, it sits and sings,
Then whets⁰ and combs its silver wings, preens
55 And, till prepared for longer flight,
Waves in its plumes the various⁰ light. iridescent
Such was that happy garden-state,
While man there walked without a mate:
After a place so pure and sweet,
60 What other help could yet be meet!¹
But 'twas beyond a mortal's share
To wander solitary there:
Two paradises 'twere in one
To live in paradise alone.²

5. I.e., even the gods who chase after their desired that led to the Fall (or "stumbling") of humankind.
nymphs (events described in the following lines)

7. "Less" may modify either "pleasure" or "mind."
succeed only in achieving a garden prize. Accord-

8. As every land creature was thought to have its ing to Ovid's versions of these two myths, the counterpart sea creature, so also in the ocean of nymphs (Daphne and Syrinx) both elude the the mind (in Neoplatonic philosophy).

unwanted sexual advances of their pursuers

9. Garment; i.e., the body itself.

(Apollo and Pan, respectively) by being meta-

1. Fit, suitable; also, God created Eve because “for morphosed into a laurel tree (Daphne) and reeds Adam there was not found an help meet for him” (Syrinx) through the intervention of sympathetic (Genesis 2.20).

deities.

2. I.e., it would be twice as wonderful to be alone

6. “Melon” has an etymological root in the Greek in paradise (i.e., before Eve).

word for apple; perhaps an allusion to the apple

4 8 6 / A N D R E W M A R V E L L

65 H o w well the skillful gardener drew

Of flowers and herbs this dial³ n e w ,

W h e r e , f r o m above, the milder s u n

D o e s t h r o u g h a fragrant zodiac run;

A n d as it works, th’ industrious b e e

70 C o m p u t e s its t i m e 4 as well as we!

H o w c o u l d s u c h s w e e t and w h o l e s o m e h o u r s

Be r e c k o n e d but w i t h herbs and flowers?

An Horatian Ode⁵

*Upon Cromwell’s Return from Ireland*⁶

T h e forward0 y o u t h t h a t w o u l d a p p e a r eager, ambitious M u s t n o w f o r s a k e h i s M u s e s 7 d e a r,

N o r i n t h e s h a d o w s s i n g

H i s n u m b e r s 0 l a n g u i s h i n g: poems

5 ‘T i s t i m e t o l e a v e t h e b o o k s i n d u s t,

A n d o i l t h e u n u s e d a r m o r ’ s r u s t,

R e m o v i n g f r o m t h e w a l l

T h e c o r s l e t o f t h e h a l l.8

S o r e s t l e s s C r o m w e l l c o u l d n o t c e a s e 0 rest

i o I n t h e i n g l o r i o u s a r t s o f p e a c e ,

B u t t h r o u g h a d v e n t u r o u s w a r

U r g e d h i s a c t i v e s t a r;

A n d l i k e t h e t h r e e - f o r k e d l i g h t n i n g , f i r s t

B r e a k i n g t h e c l o u d s w h e r e i t w a s n u r s e d,

15 D i d t h o r o u g h 0 h i s o w n s i d e through

H i s f i e r y w a y d i v i d e.9

F o r ‘ t i s a l l o n e t o c o u r a g e h i g h,

T h e e m u l o u s l o r e n e m y ;

A n d w i t h s u c h t o i n c l o s e

20 I s m o r e t h a n t o o p p o s e . 2

3. Flowers planted to form a dial face, through from conquering Ireland in May 1650, about eight-which the sun follows its course; it is “milder”
teen months after the execution of King Charles I.
because its intense rays are tempered by the flow-
His victory over the Irish was sometimes taken as ers through which they filter.

a sign that God approved of Charles’s beheading.

4. With a pun on thyme.

7. The nine Greek sister goddesses believed to be

5. Originally a classical form, an ode is a serious sources of inspiration for the arts.

lyric poem, dignified by its theme, occasion, or sub-

8. The suit of armor belonging to the household.

ject. In contrast to the odes of the Greek poet Pin-

9. Cromwell had begun as a Presbyterian, but dar (ca. 522-ca. 438 B.C.E.), which typically became the leader of the more radical group praised or glorified someone, a Horatian ode, known as the Independents, or the Rump. The derived from the work of the Roman poet Horace comparison to the “three-forked lightning” links

(65—8 B.C.E.), promises a poem of cool and bal-him to Zeus, the chief classical god, whose daughanced judgment. Balanced judgments of Oliver

ter Athena sprang fully formed from Zeus’s head.

Cromwell (see note 6 below) were not politic in

1. One who is greedy for praise or power; also, one the Restoration, and the poem was canceled from who imitates or rivals.

all but two known copies of the 1681 edition of

2. Possible paraphrase of stanza: It challenges

Miscellaneous Poems.

high courage as much to deal with competitors as

6. Oliver Cromwell (1599-1658), English general to deal with the enemy; and to make common and statesman, lord protector of England, returned cause with men like the sectarians of the Parlia-

A N H O R A T I A N O D E / 4 8 7

Then burning through the air he went,
And palaces and temples rent;⁰ tore
And Caesar's head at last
Did through his laurels blast.³

25 Tis madness to resist or blame
The force of angry heaven's flame;⁴
And if we would speak true,
Much to the man is due,
Who, from his private gardens, where 30 He lived reserved and austere
(As if his highest plot
To plant the bergamot),⁵
Could by industrious valor climb
To ruin the great work of time,
35 And cast the kingdom old
Into another mold;⁶
Though Justice against Fate complain,
And plead the ancient rights in vain;
But those do hold or break,
40 As men are strong or weak.
Nature, that hateth emptiness,
Allows of penetration less,⁷
And therefore must make room
Where greater spirits come.
45 What field of all the civil wars,

Where his were not the deepest scars?

And Hampton shows what part

He had of wiser art;⁸

Where, twining subtle fears with hope,

50 He wove a net of such a scope

That Charles himself might chase

To Carisbrooke's narrow case,⁹ mentary Party is more of an accomplishment than early days of private life.

effectually to oppose them. (Marvell's obscurities

6. I.e., a reference to the change from monarchy may be deliberate and politic.)

to republic.

3. I.e., like lightning, Cromwell beheaded Charles

7. I.e., Nature, which abhors a vacuum, is even

I ("Caesar"). Laurels were used for classical crowns less willing to let two bodies occupy the same because they were supposed to protect from light-space.

ning, which represented the gods' jealousy.

8. Cromwell purportedly let Charles escape from

4. The lightning hurled by Zeus represents divine

Hampton Court to Carisbrooke Castle, on the Isle judgment.

of Wight, to convince Parliament that the king

5. A variety of pear; its etymology (from the Turk-could not be trusted and must be executed.

ish, "prince's pear") may hold the insinuation that

9. "Case" may mean either "plight" or "prison."

Cromwell had been plotting for power even in his

488 / ANDREW MARVELL

That t h e n c e the royal actor borne

The tragic scaffold might adorn;

55 W h i l e round the armed bands

Did clap their bloody hands.

He1 nothing c o m m o n did or m e a n

U p o n that memorable scene,

But with his keener eye

60 T h e axe's edge did try;0 test

Nor called the gods with vulgar spite

To vindicate his helpless right;

But bowed his comely head

D o w n , as upon a bed.

65 This was that memorable hour

W h i c h first assured the forced power:

So, w h e n they did design

The Capitol's first line,

A bleeding head, where they begun,

70 Did fright the architects to run;

And yet in that the state

Foresaw its happy fate.2

And n o w the Irish are ashamed

To s e e themselves in o n e year tamed;

75 So such one man can do

That does both act and know.

They can affirm his praises best,

And have, though overcome, c o n f e s s e d
H o w good he is, h o w just,
so And fit for highest trust.

Nor yet grown stiffer with c o m m a n d ,
But still in the republic's hand—
H o w fit he is to sway
That can so well obey!

85 He to the C o m m o n s ' feet presents
A kingdom for his first year's rents;
And, what he may, forbears
His fame to make it theirs;

1. I.e., Charles.

suaded to believe it meant that Rome would be

2. When foundations were being dug for Jupiter's "head" of an empire. The temple and the hill on temple in Rome (according to Livy and Pliny), a which it stood were thereafter called Capitoline or bloody head was uncovered. The workers at first the Capitol (from the Latin caput, head).

thought it was an ill omen, but then were per-

A N H O R A T I A N O D E / 4 8 9

And has his sword and spoils ungirt,

90

To lay them at the public's skirt:3

So when the falcon high

Falls heavy from the sky,

She, having killed, no more does search

But on the next green bough to perch;

Where, when he first does lure,
The falconer⁴ has her sure.
What may not, then, our isle presume,
While victory his crests does plume?
What may not others fear,

100

If thus he crown each year?
A Caesar he, ere long, to Gaul
To Italy an Hannibal,⁶
And to all states not free
Shall climacteric⁷ be.

105

The Pict no shelter now shall find Within his parti-colored mind,⁸
But from this valor sad^o steadfast
Shrink underneath the plaid;⁰ tartan kilts
Happy if in the tufted brake⁰ hushes

110

The English hunter him mistake,
Nor lay his hounds in near
The Caledonian⁰ deer.⁹ Scottish
But thou, the war's and fortune's son,
March indefatigably on!
And for the last effect,
Still keep thy sword erect;
Besides the force it has to fright
The spirits of the shady night,¹
The same arts that did gain

A power must it maintain.

1681

3. I.e., at the feet of the Republic, conceived as a

7. I.e., ushering in a new epoch.

Roman senator wearing a toga.

8. The Scots, called Picti (“painted men”) by the

4. I.e., when the falconer casts out his lure—a

Romans because they painted their bodies for bat-

bunch of feathers attached to a cord and baited

tle, are stigmatized as factious (with a pun on party with meat.

and “parti-colored”). They were in fact torn

5. Of the falcon; also, the plumed helmet of the between their Calvinism and their loyalty to the warrior.

Catholic or Anglo-Catholic Stuart kings.

6. The Roman general Gaius Julius Caesar (100—

9. I.e., the “Pict” shall be happy if the English

44 B.C.E.) conquered Gaul; the Carthaginian gen-hunter mistakenly misses him and fails to send his eral Hannibal (247—183 B.C.E.) conquered Italy.

hounds in after him.

Cromwell was expected to take action against

1. Swords held upright to suggest a cross were European Catholic States.

believed to ward off evil spirits.

HENRY VAUGHAN *

1621-1695

Regeneration

A ward, and still in bonds,1 one day

I stole abroad;

It was high spring, and all the way

Primrosed and hung with shade;

5 Yet was it frost within,

And surly winds

Blasted my infant buds, and sin

Like clouds eclipsed my mind.

Stormed thus, I straight perceived my spring

io Mere stage and show,

My walk a monstrous,0 mountained thing, strange,
unnatural

Roughcast with rocks and snow;

And as a pilgrim's eye,

Far from relief,

15 Measures the melancholy sky,

Then drops and rains for grief,

So sighed I upwards still;2 at last

'Twixt steps and falls

I reached the pinnacle,0 where placed summit

20 I found a pair of scales;

I took them up and laid

In th' one, late pains;

The other smoke and pleasures weighed,

But proved the heavier grains.3

25 With that some cried, “Away!” Straight I immediately Obeyed, and led

Full east, a fair, fresh field could spy;

Some called it Jacob’s bed,

A virgin soil which no

30 Rude feet ere trod,

Where, since he stepped there, only go

Prophets and friends of God.

*The poems printed here are from Vaughan’s book has been variously interpreted. “Ward” may mean Silex Scintillans (Latin for “sparkling, or fiery, “prisoner” or “young person under the guardian-flint”)- First published in 1650 and reissued with ship of another,” here, perhaps, God.

additional poems in 1655, the volume dramatizes

2. I.e., as a pilgrim still far from relief looks up at Vaughan’s experience of religious conversion. Its

the dark sky—but also, albeit perhaps unknow-title alludes to the poet’s “stony” heart, from which ingly, up toward God—then cries, so did I keep

God strikes divine, purifying sparks. In the 1650 sighing as I climbed.

edition, the subtitle on the engraved title page

3. I.e., his sins (“smoke and pleasures”), being acknowledges Vaughan’s indebtedness to George compared to grains of corn or other seed, weigh

Herbert (1593-1633; see pp. 367-85), who had more than his recent penance (“late pains”).

used the same subtitle for The Temple (1633):

4. I.e., toward the place of rebirth.

“Sacred Poems and Private Ejaculations.”

5. Sleeping in a field, Jacob saw a ladder reaching

1. Literally, the constraints of being below legal from Earth to heaven, with angels ascending and age; metaphorically, the bondage of sin; the line descending on it (Genesis 28.10—12).

REGENERATION / 491

Here I reposed; but scarce^o well set,^o scarcely / settled

A grove descried^o saw

35 Of stately height, whose branches met

And mixed on every side;

I entered, and once in,

Amazed to see't,

Found all was changed, and a new spring

40 Did all my senses greet.

The unthrif^o sun shot vital gold, spendthrift

A thousand pieces,

And heaven its azure did unfold,

Checkered with snowy fleeces;

45 The air was all in spice,

And every bush

A garland wore; thus fed my eyes,

But all the ear lay hush.^o quiet

Only a little fountain⁶ lent

50 Some use for ears,

And on the dumb shades language spent^o expended

The music of her tears;
I drew her near, and found
The cistern full
55 Of divers stones, some bright and round,
Others ill-shaped and dull.⁷
The first, pray mark, as quick as light
Danced through the flood,⁸
But the last, more heavy than the night,
60 Nailed to the center stood;⁹
I wondered much, but tired
At last with thought,
My restless eye that still desired
As strange an object brought.¹
65 It was a bank of flowers, where I descried
Though 'twas midday,
Some fast asleep, others broad-eyed
And taking in the ray;²
Here, musing long, I heard
70 A rushing wind
Which still increased, but whence it stirred
No where I could not find.

6. Perhaps alluding to a baptismal font, or, per-of Christian theology. Other interpretations of haps, to the traditional allegory of Christ as a foun-“center” include Earth and hell.
tain.

1. I.e., his eye, still desiring to see something,

7. Critics have proposed various interpretations of brought to his sight an object as strange as the one the stones, e.g., ideas, images, and souls.

just described.

8. The water. Pray mark: i.e., take note.

2. God and Christ were often symbolized by the

9. Probably the “heaviest stone” is the idea of sun. Fast asleep: i.e., spiritually sluggish.

Christ’s Crucifixion, with the cross as the “center”

492 / HENRY VAUGHAN

I turned me round, a n d t o e a c h s h a d e

D i s p a t c h e d a n e y e

75 T o s e e i f a n y l e a f h a d m a d e

L e a s t m o t i o n o r r e p l y ,

B u t w h i l e I l i s t e n i n g s o u g h t

M y m i n d t o e a s e

B y k n o w i n g w h e r e ‘ t w a s , o r w h e r e n o t , s o I t w h i s p e r e d , “ W h e r e I p l e a s e . ” 3

“ L o r d , ” t h e n s a i d I , “ o n m e o n e b r e a t h , 4

A n d l e t m e d i e b e f o r e m y d e a t h ! ”

Cant. chap. 5. vex. 175

Arise O North, and come thou South-wind and blow upon my garden, that the spices thereof may flow out.

1650

The Retreat

H a p p y t h o s e e a r l y d a y s ! w h e n I

S h i n e d i n m y a n g e l i n f a n c y .

B e f o r e I u n d e r s t o o d t h i s p l a c e

A p p o i n t e d for m y s e c o n d race,⁶
5 Or taught my soul to f a n c y aught
But a w h i t e , celestial thought;
W h e n yet I had not walked above
A m i l e or t w o f r o m my first love,⁷
A n d looking back, at that short space,
io C o u l d s e e a glimpse of His bright face;
W h e n o n s o m e gilded c l o u d o r flower
M y gazing soul w o u l d dwell a n hour,
A n d in t h o s e w e a k e r glories spy
S o m e s h a d o w s of eternity;
15 Before I taught my t o n g u e to w o u n d
My c o n s c i e n c e w i t h a sinful s o u n d ,
Or had the black art to d i s p e n s e
A several¹⁰ sin to every s e n s e , separate
But felt t h r o u g h all this fleshly dress⁸
20 Bright s h o o t s of everlastingness.
O, h o w I l o n g to travel back,
A n d tread again that a n c i e n t track!

3. “The wind bloweth where it listeth, and thou

6. “Race” is a traditional Christian metaphor for hearest the sound thereof, but canst not tell

“life”; by “second” race Vaughan evidently alludes whence it cometh, and whither it goeth: so is every to a belief in the soul’s heavenly existence prior to one that is born of the Spirit” (John 3.8).

its human life. Such a belief was held by some

4. I.e., blow one of your life-giving (and perhaps Christian Neoplatonists and Hermetic authors; it also poetry-inspiring) breaths on me.

reappears in Wordsworth's "Ode: Intimations of 5. The poem ends by merging its voice, imaged as Immortality" (see p. 796).

breath, with that of the biblical Song of Solomon

7. I.e., Christ; see Revelation 2.4.

(though from 4.16, not 5.17).

8. I.e., the mortal body.

THE WORLD / 493

That I m i g h t o n c e m o r e r e a c h t h a t p l a i n

W h e r e f i r s t I l e f t m y g l o r i o u s t r a i n,⁹

25 F r o m w h e n c e t h' e n l i g h t e n e d s p i r i t s e e s

T h a t s h a d y c i t y o f p a l m t r e e s.¹

B u t, a h! m y s o u l w i t h t o o m u c h s t a y⁰ d e l a y

I s d r u n k, a n d s t a g g e r s i n t h e w a y.

S o m e m e n a f o r w a r d m o t i o n l o v e;

30 B u t I b y b a c k w a r d s t e p s w o u l d m o v e,

A n d w h e n t h i s d u s t f a l l s t o t h e u r n,²

I n t h a t s t a t e I c a m e, r e t u r n.

1650

The World

I s a w e t e r n i t y t h e o t h e r n i g h t,

L i k e a g r e a t r i n g o f p u r e a n d e n d l e s s l i g h t,

A l l c a l m a s i t w a s b r i g h t;

A n d r o u n d b e n e a t h i t, T i m e, i n h o u r s, d a y s, y e a r s,

5 D r i v e n b y t h e s p h e r e s³

Like a vast shadow moved, in which the world
And all her train were hurled.

The dotting lover in his quaintest strain most ingenious Did there complain;

10 Near him, his lute, his fancy, and his flights,
Wit's sour delights,

With gloves and knots, the silly snares of pleasure,
love knots Yet his dear treasure,

All scattered lay, while he his eyes did pour

15 Upon a flower.

The dark some statesman hung with weights and woe Like a thick midnight fog moved there so slow

He did nor^o stay nor go;

neither

Condemning thoughts, like sad eclipses, scowl

20 Upon his soul,

And clouds of crying witnesses without all around

Pursued him with one shout.

Yet digged them mole, and, lest his ways be found,

Worked underground,

25 Where he did clutch his prey. But one did see

That policy:

strategy

Churches and altars fed him; perjuries

Were gnats and flies;

It rained about him blood and tears; but he

30 Drank them as free.⁵

9. I.e., my previous mode of existence, or, possibly, my place in God's angelic entourage.
2. Tomb. This dust: my body.
3. The concentric crystalline spheres of Ptolemaic astronomy.
 1. Heaven or the Promised Land, as shown to Moses (Deuteronomy 34.1—4); for its identification with Jericho, see Deuteronomy 34.3.
 4. I.e., the "darksome statesman" of line 16.
 5. I.e., as freely as they rained.

494 / HENRY VAUGHAN

T h e f e a r f u l m i s e r o n a h e a p o f r u s t
S a t p i n i n g a l l h i s l i f e t h e r e , d i d s c a r c e 0 t r u s t scarcely

H i s o w n h a n d s w i t h t h e d u s t ;
Y e t w o u l d n o t p l a c e 0 o n e p i e c e a b o v e , b u t l i v e s invest

35 I n f e a r o f t h i e v e s .

T h o u s a n d s t h e r e w e r e a s f r a n t i c a s h i m s e l f ,
A n d h u g g e d e a c h o n e h i s p e l f : 0
T h e d o w n r i g h t e p i c u r e 6 p l a c e d h e a v e n i n s e n s e , A n d s c o r n e d p r e t e n s e ;
money, riches

40 W h i l e o t h e r s , s l i p p e d i n t o a w i d e e x c e s s ,
S a i d l i t t l e l e s s ;

T h e w e a k e r s o r t s l i g h t , t r i v i a l w a r e s e n s l a v e ,
W h o t h i n k t h e m b r a v e 0

A n d p o o r , d e s p i s e d T r u t h s a t c o u n t i n g b y 7

45 Their victory.

fine, showy

Yet some, who all this while did weep and sing,

And sing and weep, soared up into the ring;

But most would use no wing.

“O fools!” said I, “thus to prefer dark night

50 Before true light!

To live in grots⁰ and caves, and hate the day caverns

Because it shows the way,

The way which from this dead and dark abode

Leads up to God,

55 A way where you might tread the sun and be

More bright than he!”

But as I did their madness so discuss,

One whispered thus:

“This ring the bridegroom did for none provide,

60 But for his bride.”⁸

John Chap. 2. vex. 16, 17

All that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, is not of the father, hut is of the world.

And the world passeth away, and the lusts thereof, hut he that doth the will of God abideth forever.

1650

They Are All Gone into the World of Light!

They are all gone into the world of light!

And I alone sit lingering here;

Their very memory is fair and bright,

And my sad thoughts doth clear.

6. One who delights in the experience of the 8. See Revelation 19.7—9 and 21 for the marriage senses. of the Lamb and the bride (Christ and his Church).

7. Counting by: recording.

THEY ARE ALL GONE INTO THE WORLD OF FLIGHT! / 495

5 It⁰ glows and glitters in my cloudy breast the memory

Like stars upon some gloomy grove,

Or those faint beams in which this hill is dressed

After the sun's remove.

I see them walking in an air of glory,

10 Whose light doth trample on my days;

My days, which are at best but dull and hoary,⁰ gray,
ancient

Mere glimmering and decays.

O holy hope! and high humility,

High as the heavens above!

15 These are your walks, and you have showed them me

To kindle my cold love.

Dear, beautiful death! the jewel of the just,

Shining nowhere but in the dark;

What mysteries do lie beyond thy dust,

20 Could man outlook that mark!⁰ boundary

He that hath found some fledged bird's nest may know⁹

At first sight if the bird be flown;

But what fair well⁰ or grove he sings in now, spring

That is to him⁰ unknown. the seeker

25 And yet, as angels in some brighter dreams

Call to the soul when man doth sleep,

So some strange thoughts transcend our wonted themes,¹
And into glory peep.
If a star were confined into a tomb,²
30 Her captive flames must needs burn there;
But when the hand that locked her up gives room,
She'll shine through all the sphere.
O Father of eternal life, and all Created glories under Thee!
35 Resume 0 Thy spirit from this world of thrall⁰ take back /slavery
Into true liberty!
Either disperse these mists, which blot and fill
My perspective³ still as they pass;
Or else remove me hence unto that hill
40 Where I shall need no glass.⁴

1655

9. The bird often symbolizes the human soul; cf.

4. Vaughan superimposes the modern image of George Herbert, "Easter Wings" (p. 368). Fledged: the magnifying telescope onto the traditional fit to fly.

Christian and Platonic image of life as an experi-

1. I.e., accustomed ideas.

ence of distorted vision or darkness; "for now we

2. Probably a metaphor for the body, with the see through a glass, darkly; but then face to face" "star" as the soul.

(1 Corinthians 13.12). Hill: Sion hill; figuratively,

3. Literally, telescope; more generally, ability to heaven.

see into the distance.

496 / HENRY VAUGHAN

The Waterfall

With what deep murmurs through time's silent stealth

Doth thy transparent, cool, and watery wealth

Here flowing fall,

And chide, and call,

5 As if his liquid, loose retinue⁵ stayed

Lingering, and were of this steep place afraid,

The common pass

Where, clear as glass,

All must descend—

10 Not to an end,

But quickened by this deep and rocky grave,

Rise to a longer course more bright and brave.⁶

Dear stream! dear bank, where often I

Have sat and pleased my pensive eye,

15 Why, since each drop of thy quick⁰ store living

Runs thither whence it flowed before,⁷

Should poor souls fear a shade or night,

Who came, sure, from a sea of light?⁸

Or since those drops are all sent back

20 So sure to thee, that none doth lack,

Why should frail flesh doubt any more

That what God takes He'll not restore?

O useful element and clear!

My sacred wash and cleanser here,
 25 My first consignor⁹ unto those Fountains of life where the Lamb goes!
 What sublime truths and wholesome themes
 Lodge in thy mystical deep streams!
 Such as dull man can never find
 BO Unless that Spirit lead his mind
 Which first upon thy face did move,¹
 And hatched all with His quickening love.
 As this loud brook's incessant fall
 In streaming rings restagnates⁰ all, becomes stagnant
 35 Which reach by course the bank, and then
 Are no more seen, just so pass men.

5. Those in service; i.e., the water that has not yet the universe.

flowed over the edge is likened to time's ("his") fol-

8. A Hermetic concept; see "The Retreat," line 4 lowers or "retainers," with a probable bilingual pun (p. 492).

on retenu, French for "held back."

9. One who dispatches goods to another, i.e., the

6. I.e., elaborating on the central Christian parabolic baptismal water ("cleanser here") delivers the dox of resurrection, Vaughan imagines death as a speaker to eternal life ("where the Lamb goes"). Cf. quickening in the grave (a movement like that of a Revelation 7.17: "For the Lamb which is in the child in the womb) followed by a rising that defies midst of the throne shall feed them, and shall lead the waterfall's apparently natural downward them unto living fountains of waters: and God shall "course." Brave: splendid; cf. George Herbert, "Virwipe away all tears from their eyes."

tue," line 5 (p. 375).

1. Describes the beginning of Creation (thus
7. A reference to the cyclical movement of water "hatched all," line 31): "And the Spirit of God (from river to sea to clouds to rain or snow to rivers moved upon the face of the waters" (Genesis 1.2). again), often held to be a sign of God's ordering of

T H E N I G H T / 4 9 7

O my invisible estate,⁰ condition

My glorious liberty, still late!²

Thou art the channel my soul seeks,

40 Not this with cataracts⁰ and creeks. -waterfalls

1655

The Night

John 3.2

Through that pure virgin shrine,³

That sacred veil drawn o'er Thy glorious noon,⁴

That men might look and live, as glowworms⁵ shine,

And face the moon,

5 Wise Nicodemus saw such light

As made him know his God by night.⁶

Most blest believer he!

Who in that land of darkness and blind eyes

Thy long-expected healing wings⁷ could see,
io When Thou didst rise!
And, what can never more be done,
Did at midnight speak with the Sun!⁸
O who will tell me where
He found Thee at that dead and silent hour?
15 What hallowed solitary ground did bear
So rare a flower,
Within whose sacred leaves did lie
The fulness of the Deity?
No mercy-seat of gold,
20 No dead and dusty cherub, nor carved stone,
But His own living works did my Lord hold
And lodge alone;⁹

2. I.e., not yet arrived (i.e., the liberty of eternal

6. Nicodemus, coming to Christ at night, life after death); cf. Romans 8.21: “Because the addressed him as “come from God”; in the same creature itself also shall be delivered from the account, Christ speaks of his coming as “the light” bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of (John 3.1-21).

the children of God.”

7. A prophecy of Christ’s coming: “But unto you

3. Refers both to Christ’s mortal body and to the that fear my Name shall the Sun of righteousness night sky; indeed, the “virgin shrine” condenses arise with healing in his wings” (Malachi 4.2).

allusions not only to Christ but also to his mother,
8. A reference back to Nicodemus, who spoke Mary, and probably to Diana, virgin and goddess with Christ at midnight in a miracle the speaker of the moon (according to classical myth).

thinks (perhaps erroneously) can never recur.

4. Christ was often figured as the sun. Sacred veil:

9. God instructed Moses on how to make the ark

Paul writes of “a new and living way which he

of the Covenant: “And thou shalt make a mercy

[Christ] hath consecrated for us, through the veil, seat of pure gold... . And thou shalt make two that is to say, his flesh” (Hebrews 10.20).

cherubims of gold, of beaten work shalt thou make

5. An insect, (the female of) which emits a shining them, in the two ends of the mercy seat” (Exodus green light from the abdomen; i.e., perhaps, as the 25.17—18). Vaughan contrasts the physical temglowworms shine by reflecting the moon’s light, so ples of the Old Testament with the “living works”

humans spiritually shine by reflecting Christ’s

in which Christ lodges.

light.

498 / HENRY VAUGHAN

Where trees and herbs did watch and peep

And wonder, while the Jews did sleep.¹

25 Dear night! this world’s defeat;

The stop to busy fools; care’s check and curb;

The day of spirits; my soul's calm retreat
Which none disturb!
Christ's progress, and His prayer time;²
30 The hours to which high heaven doth chime;
God's silent, searching flight;
When my Lord's head is filled with dew, and all
His locks are wet with the clear drops of night;
His still, soft call;
35 His knocking time;³ the soul's dumb watch,
When spirits their fair kindred catch.
Were all my loud, evil days
Calm and unhaunted as is thy dark tent,
Whose peace but by some angel's wing or voice
40 Is seldom rent,⁰ torn
Then I in heaven all the long year
Would keep, and never wander here.
But living where the sun
Doth all things wake, and where all mix and tire
45 Themselves and others, I consent and run
To every mire,
And by this world's ill-guiding light,⁴
Err more than I can do by night.
There is in God, some say,
50 A deep but dazzling darkness, as men here
Say it is late and dusky, because they See not all clear.
O for that night! where I in Him
Might live invisible and dim!

1655

1. Vaughan imputes to plants an eagerness for is filled with dew, and my locks with the drops of Christ's coming lacking in the Jews. Their spiritual the night" (Song of Solomon 5.2).

lethargy ("sleep") prevents them from recognizing

4. The speaker's own "consent" to error, along Christ's divinity.

with the "ill-guiding light" of the world, cause him

2. "Mark, chap. i.35. Luke, chap, xxi.37"

to run into a spiritual swamp ("mire"). The "ill-

[Vaughan's note]. The cited passages mention guiding light" may allude to the will-o'-the-wisp,

Christ's praying at night.

which was said to draw travelers astray into bogs

3. "I sleep, but my heart waketh: it is the voice of

by holding a false light before them; the phenom-

my beloved that knocketh, saying, Open to me, my enon of nocturnal light is caused by the combus-

sister, my love, my dove, my undefiled: for my head

tion of marsh gas.

499

M A R G A R E T C A V E N D I S H

1623-1673

An Apology for Writing So Much upon This Book1

C o n d e m n m e n o t, I m a k e s o m u c h a d o

A b o u t t h i s b o o k; i t i s m y c h i l d, y o u k n o w.

J u s t l i k e a b i r d, w h e n h e r y o u n g a r e i n n e s t,

G o e s in, a n d out, a n d h o p s , a n d takes n o rest:
5 B u t w h e n their y o u n g are fledg'd, their h e a d s out-peep, Lord! W h a t a chirping d o e s the old o n e keep!

So I, for fear my strengthless child s h o u l d fall
Against a door, or stool, a l o u d I call;

Bid have a care of s u c h a d a n g e r o u s place:

io T h u s write I m u c h , to hinder all disgrace.

The Sea Similized to Meadows and Pastures: the Mariners, to Shepherds: the Mast, to a May-Pole:² the Fish, to Beasts

T h e waves, like ridges of plow'd land, are high;

W h e r e a t the ship oft stumbling, d o w n doth lie.

But, in a c a l m , the sea's like m e a d o w s s e e n

Level; its saltness m a k e s it look as green.

5 W h e n ships thereon a slow soft p a c e do walk;

T h e n mariners, as s h e p h e r d s , sing a n d talk:

S o m e whistle, a n d s o m e on their pipes do play;

A n d thus, with mirth, they p a s s their time away.

A n d every m a s t is like a M a y - p o l e high,

io R o u n d which they d a n c e , t h o u g h not so merrily

As s h e p h e r d s do, w h e n they their lasses bring

G a r l a n d s , to M a y - p o l e s tied with a silk string.

I n s t e a d of garlands, they h a n g on their m a s t

H u g e sails a n d ropes, to tie t h e s e garlands fast.

15 I n s t e a d of lasses, they do d a n c e with D e a t h ;

A n d for their m u s i c , they have B o r e a s 3 breath.

I n s t e a d of wine a n d wassails,⁴ drink salt tears;

A n d for their m e a t , they f e e d on n o u g h t but fears.

F o r flocks of s h e e p , great schools of herrings swim;

20 T h e w h a l e s , a s r a v e n o u s w o l v e s , d o f e e d o n t h e m .
A s s p o r t f u l k i d s s k i p o v e r h i l l o c k s g r e e n ,
S o d a n c i n g d o l p h i n s , o n t h e w a v e s a r e s e e n .
T h e p o r p o i s e , l i k e t h e i r w a t c h f u l d o g e s p i e s ,
A n d g i v e s t h e m w a r n i n g w h e n g r e a t w i n d s w i l l r i s e .

1. This poem appeared in slightly different ver-
“The Author to Her Book” (p. 465).

sions at the beginning of all three editions of Mar-

2. A high pole, painted with spiral stripes of different colors, decked with flowers, set up on a lifetime (in 1653, 1664, and 1668; our selections green for revelers to dance around at a May Day festival. Similized: compared.

or poem as child, see Sir Philip Sidney, Astrophil

3. The north wind’s.

and Stella, sonnet 1 (p. 213) and Anne Bradstreet,

4. The liquor with which healths were drunk.

5 0 0 / J O H N D R Y D E N

25 I n s t e a d o f b a r k i n g , h e h i s h e a d d o t h s h o w
A b o v e t h e w a t e r s , w h e n t h e y r o u g h l y f l o w :
A n d , l i k e a s m e n , i n t i m e o f s h o w ’ r i n g r a i n
A n d w i n d , d o n o t i n o p e n f i e l d s r e m a i n ;
B u t q u i c k l y r u n f o r s h e l t e r t o a t r e e :
30 S o s h i p s a t a n c h o r l i e u p o n t h e s e a .
Of Many Worlds in This World
J u s t l i k e a s i n a n e s t o f b o x e s 5 r o u n d ,

D e g r e e s of sizes in e a c h box are f o u n d :
S o , in this world, m a y m a n y others be
T h i n n e r a n d less, a n d less still by degree:
5 A l t h o u g h they are not subject to our s e n s e ,
A world m a y be no bigger t h a n two-pence.⁶
N a t u r e i s c u r i o u s , 0 a n d s u c h w o r k s m a y s h a p e , ingenious, skillful
W h i c h our dull s e n s e s easily e s c a p e :
F o r c r e a t u r e s , small as a t o m s , 7 m a y be there,
io If every o n e a creature's figure bear.
If a t o m s four, a world c a n m a k e , 8 then see
W h a t several worlds might in an ear-ring be:
For, millions of those a t o m s m a y be in
T h e h e a d of one small, little, single pin.
15 A n d if t h u s small, then ladies m a y well wear
A world of worlds, as p e n d e n t s in e a c h ear.

1668

J O H N D R Y D E N

1631-1700

Song from *The Indian Emperor*¹

Ah, f a d i n g joy, h o w quickly art thou past!

Yet we thy ruin h a s t e .

As if the cares of h u m a n life were few,

W e s e e k out new:

5 A n d follow fate, which would too fast p u r s u e . 2

5. A set of boxes of graduated sizes packed inside pany in the spring of 1665, focuses on the con-one another.

quest of Mexico by the Spanish conquistador

6. An English silver coin having the value of two pennies; a very small amount.

an Indian woman to a group of Spaniards reclining

7. Very minute or microscopic objects.

by a fountain (4.3); immediately after the song's

8. In another poem, Cavendish declares that the end, they are captured by Indian forces.

four elements—earth, water, air, and fire—are

2. I.e., which, even if we did not conspire with it, made of four different kinds of atoms: “square would hurry us too quickly to our end. Dryden, in flat,” “round,” “long straight,” and “sharpest,” response to criticism of this metaphor, explained respectively.

that it was borrowed from a line in Virgil's Aeneid

1. This play, first performed by the King's Com- (11.695).

A B S A L O M A N D A C H I T O P H E L : A P O E M / 5 0 1

S e e h o w o n e v e r y b o u g h t h e b i r d s e x p r e s s

I n t h e i r s w e e t n o t e s t h e i r h a p p i n e s s .

T h e y a l l e n j o y a n d n o t h i n g s p a r e ;

B u t o n t h e i r m o t h e r n a t u r e l a y t h e i r c a r e .

10 W h y t h e n s h o u l d m a n , t h e l o r d o f a l l b e l o w ,

S u c h t r o u b l e s c h o o s e t o k n o w

A s n o n e o f a l l h i s s u b j e c t s u n d e r g o ?

Hark, hark, the waters fall, fall, fall,
A n d w i t h a m u r m u r i n g s o u n d
15 D a s h , d a s h u p o n t h e g r o u n d ,
T o g e n t l e s l u m b e r s c a l l .

1667

Song from *Troilus and Cressida*³

i

C a n l i f e b e a b l e s s i n g ,
O r w o r t h t h e p o s s e s s i n g ,
C a n l i f e b e a b l e s s i n g , i f l o v e w e r e a w a y ?
A h , n o ! t h o u g h o u r l o v e a l l n i g h t k e e p u s w a k i n g ,
5 A n d t h o u g h h e⁴ t o r m e n t u s w i t h c a r e s a l l t h e d a y , Y e t h e s w e e t e n s , h e s w e e t e n s o u r p a i n s i n t h e t a k i n g ;
T h e r e ' s a n h o u r a t t h e l a s t , t h e r e ' s a n h o u r t o r e p a y .

2

I n e v e r y p o s s e s s i n g
T h e r a v i s h i n g b l e s s i n g , i o I n e v e r y p o s s e s s i n g t h e f r u i t o f o u r p a i n ,
P o o r l o v e r s f o r g e t l o n g a g e s o f a n g u i s h ,
W h a t e ' e r t h e y h a v e s u f f e r e d a n d d o n e t o o b t a i n ;
' T i s a p l e a s u r e , a p l e a s u r e t o s i g h a n d t o l a n g u i s h ,
W h e n w e h o p e , w h e n w e h o p e t o b e h a p p y a g a i n .

1679

*From Absalom and Achitophel: A Poem*⁵

I n p i o u s t i m e s , e r e p r i e s t c r a f t d i d b e g i n ,

B e f o r e p o l y g a m y w a s m a d e a s i n ;

3. Troilus and Cressida, or Truth Found Too Late

the lovers' door the morning after they have consummated their love, and then instructs a group of musicians to sing this song.

lus and Cressida, separated during the siege of

4. Love is commonly personified as the young boy, Troy, had also been told by Chaucer (see p. 67).

Cupid.

Dryden alters Shakespeare's play considerably;

5. The title names refer the reader to 2 Samuel unlike Shakespeare, Dryden has both title characters

13-18. Absalom there rebels against his father, actors die, for instance. In both versions, Cressida's

King David; Achitophel advises Absalom to destroy

uncle, Pandarus, is a voyeuristic, lewd character

David at once. Like many other texts from this who schemes to bring about the physical consum-

period, Dryden's poem uses this biblical story as an mation of the lovers' desires, but only in Dryden's analogue for the religious and political crisis of text does Pandarus use a song to serenade the lov-

1678 that came to be known as the "Popish Plot,"

ers. In this scene (3.2), Pandarus listens outside and its aftermath of bitter political struggle

When man on many multiplied his kind,
Ere on to one was cursedly confined;
When nature prompted and no law denied
Promiscuous use of concubine and bride;
Then Israel's monarch after Heaven's own heart, 6

His vigorous warmth did variously impart
To wives and slaves; and, wide as his command, Scattered his Maker's image through the land.

Michal, 7 of royal blood, the crown did wear,
As soil ungrateful to the tiller's scare:

Not so the rest; for several mothers bore
To godlike David several sons before.

But since like slaves his bed they did ascend,
Not true succession could their seed attend.

Of all this numerous progeny was none

So beautiful, so brave, as Absalom:

Whether, inspired by some diviner lust,

His father got^o him with a greater gust,^o
begot / enjoyment

Or that^o his conscious destiny made way, whether

By manly beauty, to imperial sway. 8

Early in foreign fields she won renown,

With kings and states allied to Israel's crown:
In peace the thought of war he could remove,
And seemed as^o he were only born for love. as if

Whatever he did, was done with some ease,
In him alone 'twas natural to please;

His motions all accompanied with grace;
And paradice was opened in his face.
With secret joy indulgent David viewed
His youthful image in his son renewed:
To all his wishes nothing he denied;
And made the charming Annabel his bride.
What faults she had (for who from faults is free?)
His father could not, or he would not see.

Some warm excesses which the law forbore
, Were construed youth that purged by boiling ingo'er: between King Charles II and the earl of Shaftes-while the earl was under arrest, apparently as an bury: David stands for Charles II and Absalom for attempt to stir public opinion against him; how-the duke of Monmouth, Charles's illegitimate son.
ever, the grand jury soon set the earl free (he died Achitophel represents the earl of Shaftesbury, who two years later). A second part appeared in 1682, urged Monmouth to seek the succession to the although much of this work is attributed to Nahum throne in an attempt to displace Charles's brother
Tate. After Charles II died in 1685 and James II
James, the duke of York, an openly practicing succeeded to the throne, Dryden (and his two Catholic. In 1678, Titus Oates offered sworn tessons) converted to Catholicism in 1686; he timony of the existence of a Jesuit plot to assassi-remained a Catholic for the rest of his life.
nate the king, burn London, massacre Protestants,

6. God calls David “a man after mine own heart” and restore the Catholic Church; this testimony, in Acts 13.22.

combined with the discovery of the murder of a

7. David’s childless wife. She stands for Charles’s London justice of the peace, Sir Edmund Berry childless queen, Catherine of Portugal.

Godfrey, who had received a copy of the oath for

8. Although the lines are ambiguous, Dryden safekeeping, prompted fear of a Catholic uprising; seems to be asking whether Absalom gained imperial power (sway) by heredity or by deliberate use try to exclude James from the succession. To what of his “manly beauty.” Dryden alludes here to extent (if any) such a plot really existed is a matter Monmouth’s personal attractiveness and, in the of historical debate. Charles managed to retain his following lines, to his prowess in wars against the brother’s position as heir and charged Shaftesbury Dutch and later the French, and to his marriage with high treason. Dryden anonymously published (arranged by the king) to the Scottish heiress Anne the first part of “Absalom and Achitophel” in 1681 Scott.

ABSALOM AND ACHITOPHEL: A POEM / 503

And Amnon’s murder, 9 by a specious name ,

Was called a just revenge for injured fame.

Thus praised and loved the noble youth remain'd,

While David, undisturbed, in Sion¹ reigned.

But life can never be sincerely⁰ blest;

wholly

Heaven punishes the bad, and proves⁰ the best.

tries

The Jews, ² a headstrong, moody, murmuring race, As ever tried the extent and stretch of grace;

God's ³ pamper'd people, whom, debauched with ease, No king could govern, nor no God could please

(Gods they had tried of every shape and size

That god-smiths could produce, or priests devise);³

These Adam-wits,⁴ too fortunately free,

Began to dream they wanted⁰ liberty;

lacked

And when no rule, no precedent was found,

Of men by laws less circumscribed and bound
,

They led their wild desires to woods and caves,⁵

And thought that all but savages were slaves.

They who, when Saul was dead, without a blow,

Made foolish Ishboeth the crown forego;⁶

Who banish'd David did from Hebron⁷ bring,

And with a general shout proclaim'd him king:

Those very Jews, who, at their very best,

Their humor⁰ more than loyalty expressed,

caprice

N o w w o n d e r e d w h y s o l o n g t h e y h a d o b e y e d
A n i d o l m o n a r c h , 8 w h i c h t h e i r h a n d s h a d m a d e ;
T h o u g h t t h e y m i g h t r u i n h i m t h e y c o u l d c r e a t e ,
O r m e l t h i m t o t h a t g o l d e n c a l f , a s t a t e . 9

B u t t h e s e w e r e r a n d o m b o l t s ; 0 n o f o r m e d d e s i g n *shots

N o r i n t e r e s t m a d e t h e f a c t i o u s c r o w d t o j o i n :

T h e s o b e r p a r t o f I s r a e l , f r e e f r o m s t a i n ,

W e l l k n e w t h e v a l u e o f a p e a c e f u l r e i g n ;

A n d , l o o k i n g b a c k w a r d w i t h a w i s e a f f r i g h t , 0

fear

S a w s e a m s o f w o u n d s , d i s h o n e s t 0 t o t h e s i g h t :

dishonorable

I n c o n t e m p l a t i o n o f w h o s e u g l y s c a r s

T h e y c u r s e d t h e m e m o r y o f c i v i l w a r s . 1

9. Absalom killed his half-brother Amnon, who him (see Genesis 2.16—17).

had raped Absalom's half-sister, Tamar (2 Samuel

5. Dissenters from the Church of England were 13.28—29). The parallel with Monmouth is vague, sometimes forced to worship in hiding.

although he had a reputation for violence in his

6. Saul stands for Oliver Cromwell (1599-1658), youth, and his troopers had recently attacked an English general and statesman, lord protector of abusive Parliamentarian, Sir John Coventry. Con-

England; Ishbosheth, Saul's son who briefly ruled strued: interpreted as the result of.

Israel, here represents Richard Cromwell (1626—

1. I.e., London.

1712), who had succeeded his father as lord pro-

2. I.e., the English.

tector before being forced to abdicate in 1659.

3. Perhaps a reference to the novelties in Church

7. David was first crowned king of the tribe of doctrine and practice that had issued in the dis-

Judah, in Hebron, before becoming king of Israel establishment of the Anglican Church under the

(2 Samuel 1-5); Charles II was first crowned king

Commonwealth; more generally, the recent in Scotland, before being restored to the throne in political and religious controversies that had

England in 1660.

divided England. The Israelites (God's chosen peo-

8. I.e., Oliver Cromwell. Jews were not allowed to

ple) were frequently converted to the worship of worship idols (Exodus 20.4).

the pagan gods of the tribes and peoples with

9. I.e., that idol, a republic or commonwealth. The whom they fought and traded.

biblical reference is to the image of a calf, made of

4. The word calls attention to the supposedly melted golden earrings, which the Israelites woruntutored quality of the dissenters from the Angli-shaped while Moses was on Mt. Sinai (Exodus can Communion, and also to the biblical Adam's 32.1-4).

rebellion against the single restraint imposed on

1. I.e., such as the religious and political turmoil

504 / JOHN DRYDEN

The moderate sort of men, thus qualified,⁰ mollified

Inclined the balance to the better side;

And David's mildness managed it so well,

The bad found no occasion to rebel.

But when to sin our biased nature leans,²

The careful⁰ Devil is still at hand with means;
*watchful

And providently pimps for ill desires:³

The Good Old Cause⁴ revived, a plot requires.

Plots, true or false, are necessary things,

To raise up commonwealths and ruin kings.

The inhabitants of old Jerusalem

Were Jebusites;⁵ the town so called from them;

And theirs the native right.

But when the chosen people⁶ grew more strong,

The rightful cause at length became the wrong;

And every loss the men of Jebus bore,

They still were thought God's enemies the more.

Thus worn and weakened, well or ill content,

Submit they must to David's government:

Impoverished and deprived of all command,

Their taxes doubled as they lost their land;

And, what was harder yet to flesh and blood,

T h e i r g o d s disgraced, a n d burnt like c o m m o n wood.

T h i s set the h e a t h e n p r i e s t h o o d ⁷ in a f l a m e ;

F o r priests of all religions are the s a m e :

Of whatsoe'er d e s c e n t their g o d h e a d be,

Stock,⁸ stone, or other h o m e l y pedigree,

In his d e f e n s e his servants are as bold,

As if he h a d b e e n b o r n of b e a t e n gold.

T h e J e w i s h rabbins, t h o u g h their e n e m i e s ,

In this c o n c l u d e t h e m h o n e s t m e n a n d wise:⁹

For 'twas their duty, all the learned think,

To e s p o u s e his c a u s e , by w h o m they eat a n d drink.¹

F r o m h e n c e b e g a n that Plot,² the nation's c u r s e ,

B a d in itself, but r e p r e s e n t e d worse;

R a i s e d in extremes, a n d in extremes decried;

W i t h oaths affirmed, with dying vows d e n i e d ;

N o t w e i g h e d o r w i n n o w e d by the multitude;³

that had led to the beheading of Charles II's father, see pp. 142-43).

Charles I, in 1649.

8. Block of wood, i.e., of humble descent.

2. Biased: prejudiced, or inclined in some direc-

9. I.e., even though the Anglican divines ("Jewish tion (the O.E.D. cites Dryden's line); i.e., when our rabbins") are "enemies" to Catholics, they consider human inclination to sin takes over.

Catholics wise in the "bold" defense of their God.

3. I.e., the devil prudently provides the means

1. I.e., Christ, whose body Catholics “eat and (“pimps”) for sinful desires.

drink” in Communion; according to the Catholic

4. A popular phrase referring to the Common-doctrine of transubstantiation, the bread and wine wealth.

actually become the body of Christ during Com-

5. The Jebusites (Judges 1.21) represent Roman munion (whereas Protestant doctrine holds that Catholics; Jerusalem stands for London.

the bread and wine symbolize or represent his

6. The Protestants, some of whom claimed for body).

England a divinely appointed destiny like that of

2. I.e., the Catholic plot described in note 5, the Hebrews.

p. 501.

7. The Catholic clergy, suffering from the recent

3. According to this simile, in which the reports of flare-up of prejudice as well as from the long his-a plot are compared to grain, the populace has not tory of restrictions to which Dryden has just carefully “weighed” and “winnowed” (separated alluded; in particular, many oppressive laws the good from the bad) the grain, but has swal-against Catholics were established under the forty-lowed it whole.

five-year reign of Queen Elizabeth I (1533-1603;

A B S A L O M A N D A C H I T O P H E L : A P O E M /
5 0 5

But swallowed in the mass, unchewed and crude.

Some truth there was, but dashed⁰ and brewed with lies, mixed

115 To please the fools, and puzzle all the wise.

Succeeding times did equal folly call,

Believing nothing, or believing all.

The Egyptian⁴ rites the Jebusites embraced,

Where gods were recommended by their taste.

120 Such savory deities must needs be good,

As served at once for worship and for food.

By force they could not introduce these gods,

For ten to one in former days was odds;⁵

So fraud was used (the sacrificer's trade):⁶

125 Fools are more hard to conquer than persuade.

Their busy teachers mingled with the Jews,

And raked for converts even the court and s t e w s b r o t h e l
s

Which Hebrew priests the more unkindly took,

Because the fleece accompanies the flock.⁷

no Some thought they God's anointed⁸ meant to slay

By guns, invented since full many a day:

Our author swears it not; but who can know

How far the Devil and Jebusites may go?

This Plot, which failed for want of common sense,

135 Had yet a deep and dangerous consequence:

For, as when raging fevers boil the blood,

The standing lake soon floats into a flood,

And every hostile humor, which before
 Slept quiet in its channels, bubbles o'er;
 140 So several factions from this first ferment
 Work up to foam, and threat the government.
 Some by their friends, more by themselves thought wise,
 Opposed the power to which they could not rise.
 Some had in courts been great, and thrown from thence,
 145 Like fiends were hardened in impenitence;⁰ unrepentance
 Some, by their monarch's fatal mercy, grown
 From pardoned rebels kinsmen to the throne,
 Were raised in power and public office high;
 Strong bands, if bands ungrateful men could tie.
 150 Of these the false Achitophel⁹ was first;
 A name to all succeeding ages cursed:
 For close⁰ designs, and crooked counsels fit;
secret
 Sagacious, bold, and turbulent of wit;^o imagination
 Restless, unfixed in principles and place;
 155 In power unpleased, impatient of disgrace:
 A fiery soul, which, working out its way,
 Fretted the pygmy⁰ body to decay, r overly small
 And o'er-informed the tenement of clay.¹ J
 4. I.e., the French; hence Roman Catholics. The ("Hebrew priests") resented any loss of tithes allusion is to the Mass, incorporating the doctrine ("fleece") paid to the established Church; such loss of transubstantiation.

was caused by Catholic conversions.

5. I.e., because Protestants outnumbered Catho-

8. The king.

lics (although the difference in numbers was prob-

9. Shaftesbury had been a member of Cromwell's ably much smaller than Dryden indicates).

council of state; later, he had helped bring back

6. I.e., those who use fraud sacrifice innocent peo-

Charles II and was made a member of the Cabal, ple.

a powerful committee of the Privy Council.

7. Dryden implies that the Anglican clergy

1. I.e., overanimated his body-

506 / JOHN DRYDEN

A d a r i n g p i l o t i n e x t r e m i t y ;

i60 P l e a s e d w i t h t h e d a n g e r , w h e n t h e w a v e s w e n t h i g h , H e s o u g h t t h e s t o r m s ; b u t , f o r a c a l m u n f i t , W o u l d s t e e r t o o n i g h t t h e s a n d s , t o b o a s t h i s w i t .

G r e a t w i t s ° a r e s u r e t o m a d n e s s n e a r a l l i e d , g e n i u s e s

A n d t h i n p a r t i t i o n s d o t h e i r b o u n d s d i v i d e ; 165 E l s e w h y s h o u l d h e , w i t h w e a l t h a n d h o n o r b l e s t , R e f u s e h i s a g e t h e n e e d f u l h o u r s o f r e s t ?

P u n i s h a b o d y w h i c h h e c o u l d n o t p l e a s e ,

B a n k r u p t o f l i f e , y e t p r o d i g a l o f e a s e ?

A n d a l l t o l e a v e w h a t w i t h h i s t o i l h e w o n , 170
T o t h a t u n f e a t h e r e d t w o - l e g g e d t h i n g , 2 a son; Got, ° while his soul did huddled 0 not i ons try; begotten / confused

And born a shapeless lump, like anarchy.

In friendship false, implacable in hate, R esolved to ruin or to rule the state.

175 To compass 0 this the triple bond he bro ke, 3 accomplish

The pillar of the public safety shook, r An d fitted Israel for a foreign yoke; J

Then seized with fear, yet still affecting fa me, Usurped a patriot's all-atonin name
.4

i80 So easy still it proves in factious times, W ith public zeal to cancel private crimes.

How safe is treason, and how sacred ill,

Where none can sin against the people's will!

Where crowds can wink, and no offense be known, 185 Since in another's guilt they fi nd their own!

Yet famed deserved, no enemy can grudge;

The statesman we abhor, but praise the jud ge.

In Israel's courts ne'ers at an Abbeth dins
With more discerning eyes, or hands more clean; 190 Unbribed, unsought, the wretch ed to redress; Swift of dispatch, and easy o f access.

Oh, had he been content to serve the crown,
With virtues only proper to the gown; ° judiciary

Or had the rankness of the soil been freed 195 From cockle, 0 that oppressed the noble seed; weedlike plant

David for him his tuneful harp had strung,
And Heaven had wanted one immortal song
. 6

But wild Ambition loves to slide, not stand
, And Fortune 'sice prefersto Virtue 's land
d.

200 Achitophel, grown weary to possess

A lawfull fame, and lazy happiness,

Disdained the golden fruit to gather free,

2. Plato's definition of cloddish man.

sided over the Court of Chancery from 1672 to

3. Shaftesbury helped bring about the war against 1673.

Holland, with France as an ally, in 1672. Triple

6. I.e., heaven would have lacked one Psalm of bond: an alliance (1668) between England, Swe-

David. Many interpretations exist for this difficult den, and the Dutch Republic against France,

couplet: perhaps it is a reference to Psalm 3, writ-which was thought to pose the threat of an inva-

ten, as tradition would have it, when David fled sion (line 177).

from Absalom; other suggestions include Psalm 4

4. The name of "patriot" was "affected" (put on), and Psalm 109. The application to Charles II is then and thereafter, by the party out of power.

unclear; some have suggested that it refers to Dry-

5. A rabbinical term for a justice. Shaftesbury pre-den's poem.

ABSALOM AND ACHITOPHEL: A POEM / 507

And lent the crowd his arm to shake the tree.

Now, manifest⁰ oP crimes contrived long since, detected/in 205 He stood at bold defiance with his prince;

Held up the buckler⁰ of the people's cause protector

Against the crown, and skulked behind the laws.

The wished occasion of the Plot he takes;

Some circumstances finds, but more he makes.

210 By buzzing emissaries fills the ears

Of listening crowds with jealousies⁰ and fears suspicious

Of arbitrary counsels brought to light,

And proves the king himself a Jebusite.

Weak arguments! which yet he knew full well

215 Were strong with people easy to rebel.

For, governed by the moon, the giddy Jews

Tread the same track when she the prime renews;

And once in twenty years, their scribes record,⁷

By natural instinct they change their lord.

220 Achitophel still wants a chief, and none

Was found so fit as warlike Absalom:

Not that he wished his greatness to create

(For politicians neither love nor hate),

But, for he knew his title not allowed,

225 Would keep him still depending on the crowd,

That kingly power, thus ebbing out, might be Drawn to the dregs of a democracy.⁸

Him he attempts with studied arts to please,

And sheds his venom in such words as these:
230 “Auspicious prince, at whose nativity
Some royal planet⁹ ruled the southern sky;
Thy longing country’s darling and desire;
Their cloudy pillar and their guardian fire:
Their second Moses,¹ whose extended wand
235 Divides the seas, and shows the promised land;
Whose dawning day in every distant age
Has exercised the sacred prophet’s rage:
The people’s prayer, the glad diviners’ theme,
The young men’s vision, and the old men’s dream!²
240 Thee, savior, thee, the nation’s vows confess,
And, never satisfied with seeing, bless:
Swift unbespoken⁰ pomps⁰ thy steps proclaim, voluntary / celebrations

And stammering babes are taught to lisp thy name.

How long wilt thou the general joy detain,

7. The phases of the moon fall on the same day of of fire by night (Exodus 13—14). In reference to the calendar year at roughly twenty-year intervals.

Christ, Moses said, “A Prophet shall the Lord your Crises in English politics occurred in 1640 (the God raise up unto you of your brethren, like unto rebellion against Charles I), 1660 (the restoration me”): Christ is sometimes referred to as “the second of Charles II), and the time of the poem.

Moses” (see Acts 7.37). Here, Achitophel tells

8. I.e., mob rule.

Absalom that he is meant to be a second Moses.

9. A planet whose influence determines that he

2. Cf. the prophecy delivered to Joel: “And it shall (Absalom) should be king.

come to pass afterward, that I will pour out my

1. I.e., their guide; after their exodus from Egypt spirit upon all flesh; and your sons and your daughunder the leadership of Moses, who separated the ters shall prophesy, your old men shall dream waters of the Red Sea long enough to allow them dreams, your young men shall see visions” (Joel to escape, the Israelites were led in their forty-year 2 . 2 8) .

wandering by a pillar of clouds by day and a pillar

5 0 8 / J O H N D R Y D E N

245 Starve and defraud the people of thy reign?

Content ingloriously to pass thy days

Like one of Virtue’s fools that feeds on praise;

Till thy fresh glories, which now shine so bright,

Grow stale and tarnish with our daily sight.

250 Believe me, royal youth, thy fruit must be

Or⁰ gathered ripe, or rot upon the tree. either

Heaven has to all allotted, soon or late,

Some lucky revolution of their fate;

Whose motions if we watch and guide with skill

255 (For human good depends on human will),

Our Fortune rolls as from a smooth descent,³

And from the first impression takes the bent;

But, if unseized, she glides away like wind,
And leaves repenting Folly far behind.
260 Now, now she meets you with a glorious prize,
And spreads her locks before her as she flies.
Had thus Old David, from whose loins you spring,
Not dared, when Fortune called him, to be king,
At Gath⁴ an exile he might still remain,
265 And heaven's anointing oil⁵ had been in vain.
Let his successful youth your hopes engage;
But shun the example of declining age;
Behold him setting in his western skies,
The shadows lengthening as the vapors rise.⁶
270 He is not now, as when on Jordan's sand⁷
The joyful people thronged to see him land, r
Covering the beach, and blackening all the strand;⁰ J shore
But, like the Prince of Angels,⁸ from his height
Comes tumbling downward with diminished light,
275 Betrayed by one poor plot to public scorn
(Our only blessing since his cursed return),⁹
Those heaps of people which one sheaf did bind,
Blown off and scattered by a puff of wind.¹
What strength can he to your designs oppose,
280 Naked of friends, and round beset with foes?
If Pharaoh's² doubtful succor he should use,
A foreign aid would more incense the Jews:
Proud Egypt would dissembled friendship bring;
Foment⁰ the war, but not support the king: heat, rouse
285 Nor would the royal party e'er unite

With Pharaoh's arms to assist the Jebusite;
Or if they should, their interest soon would break,
And with such odious aid make David weak.

3. Achitophel stresses the workings of Fortune, or
6. The vapors or humors associated with night.
what emblem books called "Occasion," rather than 7. I.e., at Dover, where Charles II landed at the divine Providence. He uses traditional images of time of the Restoration.

Fortune standing on a ball and having to be seized 8. I.e., Lucifer; cf. Luke 10.18: "I beheld Satan as by a forelock as she approaches, the back of her lightning fall from heaven."
head being bald.

9. I.e., the crisis of 1678 was the only favorable
4. David escaped Saul by fleeing to Gath (1 Sam-opportunity for the conspirators since the Restouel 27.1—4); here, a reference to Brussels, where ration.

Charles spent much of his exile.

1. I.e., the unity and loyalty of the people who had
5. God sent Samuel to anoint David as a token supported the king are easily dispersed.

that he would finally come to the throne (1 Samuel
2. I.e., King Louis XIV of France.
16.1-13).

All sorts of men by my successful arts,
290 Abhorring kings, estrange their altered hearts
From David's rule: and 'tis the general cry,
'Religion, commonwealth, and liberty.'
If you, as champion of the public good,
Add to their arms a chief of royal blood,
295 What may not Israel hope, and what applause
Might such a general gain by such a cause?
Not barren praise alone, that gaudy flower
Fair only to the sight, but solid power;
And nobler is a limited command,
300 Given by the love of all your native land,
Than a successive title, long and dark,
Drawn from the moldy rolls of Noah's ark.³
What cannot praise effect in mighty minds,
When flattery soothes, and when ambition blinds!
305 Desire of power, on earth a vicious weed,
Yet, sprung from high, is of celestial seed:
In God 'tis glory; and when men aspire,
'Tis but a spark too much of heavenly fire.⁴
The ambitious youth, too covetous of fame,
310 Too full of angel's metal⁵ in his frame,
Unwarily was led from virtue's ways,
Made drunk with honor, and debauched with praise.
Half loath, and half consenting to the ill
(For loyal blood within him struggled still),
315 He thus replied: "And what pretense have I
To take up arms for public liberty?"

My father governs with unquestioned right;
The faith's defender, and mankind's delight,
Good, gracious, just, observant of the laws:
320 And heaven by wonders has espoused his cause.
Whom has he wronged in all his peaceful reign?
Who sues for justice to his throne in vain?
What millions has he pardoned of his foes,
Whom just revenge did to his wrath expose?
325 Mild, easy, humble, studious of our good,
Inclined to mercy, and averse from blood;
If mildness ill with stubborn Israel suit,
His crime is God's beloved attribute.
What could he gain, his people to betray,
330 Or change his right for arbitrary sway?
Let haughty Pharaoh curse with such a reign
His fruitful Nile, and yoke a servile train.⁶
If David's rule Jerusalem displease,
The Dog Star⁷ heats their brains to this disease.
3. Achitophel (Shaftesbury) espouses constitutional monarchy ("a limited command") and par-
6. I.e., if King Louis XIV of France were to help liamentary as opposed to hereditary determination Charles II remain in power, he would only be curs-of the succession.
ing his own country. In Exodus, the Pharaoh's
4. Perhaps including a reference to Prometheus, refusal to release the enslaved Israelites caused who angered the gods by stealing fire for the benefit of mortals.

people.

5. A double pun: the gold of which the coin

7. Sirius, the morning and evening star of late

("angel") is made, and the spirit ("mettle") of the summer, associated with crazing heat.

510 / JOHN DRYDEN

Why then should I, encouraging the bad,

Turn rebel and run popularly mad?

Were he a tyrant, who, by lawless might

Oppressed the Jews, and raised the Jebusite,

Well might I mourn; but nature's holy bands

Would curb my spirits and restrain my hands:

The people might assert their liberty,

But what was right in them were crime in me.

His favor leaves me nothing to require,

Prevents my wishes, and outruns desire.

What more can I expect while David lives?

All but his kingly diadem he gives:

And that" — But there he pauses; then sighing, says aid —

"Is justly destined for a worthier head.

For when my father from his toils shall rest

And late augment the number of the blest,⁸

His lawful issue shall the throne ascend,

Or the collateral⁰ line, where that shall end.

brother's

H i s brother,9 t h o u g h o p p r e s s e d with vulgar spite,
Yet d a u n t l e s s , a n d s e c u r e of native right,
Of every royal virtue s t a n d s p o s s e s s e d ;
Still dear to all the bravest a n d the best.

H i s c o u r a g e foes,1 his friends his truth proclaim;

H i s loyalty the king, the world his f a m e .

H i s m e r c y even the o f f e n d i n g crowd will find,

F o r sure he c o m e s of a forgiving kind.0

family

W h y s h o u l d I then repine0 at heaven's decree,

complain

W h i c h gives me no p r e t e n s e to royalty?

Yet O that fate, propitiously0 inclined, favorably

H a d raised my birth, or h a d d e b a s e d my m i n d ;

To my large soul not all her treasure lent,

A n d then betrayed it to a m e a n 0 d e s c e n t !

low

I find, I find my m o u n t i n g spirits bold,

A n d David's part disdains my mother's mold.

W h y am I s c a n t e d by a niggard2 birth?

My soul disclaims the kindred of her earth;3

And, m a d e for e m p i r e , whispers m e within,

'Desire of g r e a t n e s s is a godlike sin.' ”

H i m staggering so w h e n hell's dire agent4 f o u n d ,

W h i l e fainting Virtue s c a r c e m a i n t a i n e d her g r o u n d , He p o u r s fresh forces in, a n d thus replies:

” T h e e t e r n a l G o d , s u p r e m e l y g o o d a n d w i s e ,
I m p a r t s n o t t h e s e p r o d i g i o u s g i f t s i n v a i n :
W h a t w o n d e r s a r e r e s e r v e d t o b l e s s y o u r r e i g n !
A g a i n s t y o u r w i l l , y o u r a r g u m e n t s h a v e s h o w n ,
S u c h v i r t u e ’ s o n l y g i v e n t o g u i d e a t h r o n e .

8. I.e., increase the number of souls in heaven.

confer succession to the throne.

9. Although Monmouth and the duke of York were

3. I.e., her body.

able to get along for many years, by 1679 they were

4. I.e., as Absalom (Monmouth) wavers, tempted opposed to each other, and so it is unlikely that by the sin of pride to attempt the throne despite

Monmouth would have felt the emotions for his his own arguments against it, Achitophel (Shaftesuncle that Dryden here has him express.

bury), acting as “hell’s agent,” again tries to per-

1. I.e., his foes proclaim his courage.

suade him to rebel.

2. Ungenerous; the birth of a king’s son should

A B S A L O M A N D A C H I T O P H E L : A P O E M / 5 1 1

Not that your father’s mildness I contemn,

But manly force becomes the diadem.

‘Tis true he grants the people all they crave;

And more, perhaps, than subjects ought to have:

385 For lavish grants suppose a monarch tame,

And more his goodness than his wit⁰ proclaim. intelligence

But when should people strive their bonds to break,
If not when kings are negligent or weak?
Let him give on till he can give no more,
390 The thrifty Sanhedrins shall keep him poor;
And every shekel which he can receive,
Shall cost a limb of his prerogative.⁶
To ply him with new plots shall be my care;
Or plunge him deep in some expensive war;
395 Which when his treasure can no more supply,
He must, with the remains of kingship, buy.
His faithful friends our jealousies and fears
Call Jebusites, and Pharaoh's pensioners;
Whom when our fury from his aid has torn,

400 He shall be naked left to public scorn.
The next successor, whom I fear and hate,
My arts have made obnoxious to the state;
Turned all his virtues to his overthrow,
And gained our elders⁷ to pronounce a foe.
405 His right, for sums of necessary gold,
Shall first be pawned, and afterward be sold;
Till time shall ever-wanting David draw,
To pass your doubtful title into law:
If not, the people have a right supreme 410 To make their kings; for kings are made for them.
All empire is no more than power in trust,
Which, when resumed, can be no longer just.
Succession, for the general good designed,
In its own wrong a nation cannot bind;
415 If altering that the people can relieve,
Better one suffer than a nation grieve.
The Jews well know their power: ere Saul they chose,
God was their king, and God they durst depose.⁸
Urge now your piety,⁹ your filial name, dutifulness
420 A father's right, and fear of future fame;
The public good, that universal call,
To which even heaven submitted, answers all.
Nor let his love enchant your generous mind;
'Tis Nature's trick to propagate her kind.
5. The high council of the Jews; here, the Parliapoem, the Parliamentarians who voted to exclude ment, which provided the crown with its monies.

James from the succession.

The Whigs hoped to limit the powers of the crown

8. The Israelites' demand that a secular king

by refusing to vote money to Charles, but he lived

(Saul, as it happened) replace the theocratic

on French subsidies and refused to summon Par-

Judges was condemned as impious: "And the Lord

liament for the duration of the crisis.

said ... , they have rejected me, that I should not

6. A term used with particular reference to a sovreign over them" (1 Samuel 8.7). As Saul replaced ereign's rights (in theory, subject to no restric-

the Judges, so, in the poem, Oliver Cromwell took

tions).

over authority from the theocrats of the Common-

7. In the Bible, the Jewish magistrates; in the wealth.

512 / JOHN DRYDEN

425 Our fond begetters, who would never die,

Love but themselves in their posterity.

Or let his kindness by the effects be tried,

Or let him lay his vain pretense aside.

God said he loved your father; could he bring 430 A better proof than to anoint him king?

It surely showed he loved the shepherd⁹ well,

Who gave so fair a flock as Israel.

Would David have you thought his darling son?

What means he then, to alienate¹ the crown?

435 The name of godly he may blush to bear:
‘Tis after God’s own heart to cheat his heir.²
He to his brother gives supreme command;
To you a legacy of barren land,³
Perhaps the old harp, on which he thrums his lays,⁰ songs
440 Or some dull Hebrew ballad in your praise.
Then the next heir, a prince severe and wise,
Already looks on you with jealous eyes;
Sees through the thin disguises of your arts,
And marks your progress in the people’s hearts.
445 Though now his mighty soul its grief contains,
He meditates revenge who least complains;
And, like a lion, slumbering in the way,
Or sleep dissembling, while he waits his prey,
His fearless foes within his distance draws,
450 Constrains his roaring, and contracts his paws;
Till at the last, his time for fury found,
He shoots with sudden vengeance from the ground;
The prostrate vulgar⁰ passes o’er and spares, populace
But with a lordly rage his hunters tears.
455 Your case no tame expedients will afford:
Resolve on death, or conquest by the sword,
Which for no less a stake than life you draw;
And self-defense is nature’s eldest law.
Leave the warm⁴ people no considering time;
460 For then rebellion may be thought a crime.
Prevail⁰ yourself of what occasion gives, avail
But try your title while your father lives;

And that your arms may have a fair pretense,⁰ pretext

Proclaim you take them in the king's defense;

465 Whose sacred life each minute would expose

To plots, from seeming friends, and secret foes.

And who can sound the depth of David's soul?

Perhaps his fear his kindness may control.⁵

He fears his brother, though he loves his son,

470 For plighted vows too late to be undone.

If so, by force he wishes to be gained,

9. As a youth, David tended sheep for his father.

see also line 981. Conflicting interpretations exist

1. I.e., transfer title to another (a legal term).

for how these lines apply to Charles II.

2. A reference to the story of Jacob and Esau

3. James had been titled generalissimo (the (Genesis 27—28). Esau, the older twin, was entitled supreme commander of combined forces) in 1678;
to the birthright and blessing of his father, but God
Monmouth had been exiled the following year.

chose Jacob to continue the covenant he had made

4. I.e., recently heated or roused in anger.

with Abraham. Jacob tricked Esau out of his birth-

5. I.e., perhaps his fear of James keeps Charles II right and blessing, apparently with God's approval;
from being kind to you.

ABSALOMANDACHITOPHEL: A POEM / 513

Like women's lechery, to seem constrained.⁰ forced

Doubt not; but when he most affects the frown,
Commit a pleasing rape⁰ upon the crown. seizure
475 Secure his person to secure your cause:
They who possess the prince, possess the laws.”
He said, and this advice above the rest
With Absalom’s mild nature suited best:
Unblamed of life (ambition set aside),⁶
480 Not stained with cruelty, nor puffed with pride,
How happy had he been, if destiny
Had higher placed his birth, or not so high!
His kingly virtues might have claimed a throne,
And blest all other countries but his own.
485 But charming greatness since so few refuse,
‘Tis juster to lament him than accuse.
Strong were his hopes a rival to remove,
With blandishments to gain the public love;
To head the faction while their zeal was hot,
490 And popularly prosecute the Plot.
To further this, Achitophel unites
The malcontents of all the Israelites;⁷
Whose differing parties he could wisely join,
For several ends, to serve the same design:
495 The best (and of the princes some were such),
Who thought the power of monarchy too much;
Mistaken men, and patriots in their hearts;
Not wicked, but seduced by impious arts.
By these the springs of property were bent,
500 And wound so high, they cracked the government.

The next⁸ for interest sought to embroil the state,
 To sell their duty at a dearer rate;
 And make their Jewish markets of the throne,
 Pretending public good, to serve their own.
 505 Others thought kings an useless heavy load,
 Who cost too much, and did too little good.
 These were for laying honest David by,
 On principles of pure good husbandry.⁰ economy
 With them joined all the haranguers of the throng, 510 That thought to get preferment by the tongue.
 Who follow next, a double danger bring,
 Not only hating David, but the king:
 The Solymaeen rout,⁹ well-versed of old
 In godly faction, and in treason bold;
 515 Cowering and quaking at a conqueror's sword,
 But lofty to a lawful prince restored;
 Saw with disdain an ethnic¹ plot begun,
 And scorned by Jebusites to be outdone.
 Hot Levites² headed these; who, pulled before
 6. I.e., not guilty except perhaps for ambition.
 Jerusalem.

7. Lines 492—543 describe the various groups that

1. In the biblical context, gentile; in the historical, Shaftesbury sought to unite against Charles II. Catholic.

8. I.e., those primarily concerned with economic

2. Men of the tribe of Levi conveyed the ark of the gain, namely London merchants.

Covenant when Israel moved camp (Numbers
9. The London populace. Solyma was a name for 4.15); the Presbyterian clergy administered the

514 / JOHN DRYDEN

F r o m the ark, which in the J u d g e s ' days they bore,

R e s u m e d their cant, a n d with a zealous cry

P u r s u e d their old beloved theocracy:

W h e r e S a n h e d r i n a n d priest e n s l a v e d the nation,

A n d justified their spoils by inspiration:

F o r w h o so fit for reign as Aaron's race,³

I f o n c e d o m i n i o n they c o u l d f o u n d i n g r a c e ?

T h e s e led the pack; t h o u g h not of surest scent,

Y e t d e e p e s t - m o u t h e d 0 against the g o v e r n m e n t .

baying loudest

A n u m e r o u s host of d r e a m i n g saints⁴ s u c c e e d ,

O f the true old e n t h u s i a s t i c 0 breed:

fanatic

G a i n s t f o r m a n d order they their power employ,

N o t h i n g to build, a n d all things to destroy.

B u t far m o r e n u m e r o u s w a s the herd of s u c h ,

W h o think too little, a n d w h o talk too m u c h .

T h e s e out of m e r e instinct, they k n e w not why,

A d o r e d their fathers' G o d a n d property;

A n d , by the s a m e blind benefit of fate,

T h e Devil a n d the J e b u s i t e did hate:

B o r n to be saved, even in their own despite,

B e c a u s e they c o u l d not help believing right.⁵

S u c h were the tools; but a whole Hydra6 m o r e R e m a i n s , of s p r o u t i n g h e a d s too long to score.0
*record

S o m e of their chiefs were princes of the land:
In the first rank of these did Zimri7 stand;
A m a n so various, that he s e e m e d to be
N o t one, but all m a n k i n d ' s e p i t o m e :
Stiff in opinions, always in the wrong;
W a s everything by starts, a n d n o t h i n g long;
But, in the c o u r s e of one revolving m o o n ,
W a s c h e m i s t , f i d d l e r , s t a t e s m a n , a n d b u f f o o n : T h e n all for w o m e n , painting, rhyming, drinking,
B e s i d e s t e n t h o u s a n d f r e a k s 0 that died in thinking.
*whims

Blest m a d m a n , w h o c o u l d every h o u r employ,
With s o m e t h i n g n e w to wish, or to enjoy!
Railing a n d praising were his u s u a l t h e m e s ;
A n d both (to s h o w his j u d g m e n t) in extremes:
So over-violent, or over-civil,
T h a t every m a n , with him, w a s G o d or Devil.
In s q u a n d e r i n g wealth with his peculiar art:
N o t h i n g went u n r e w a r d e d but desert.0
B e g g a r e d by fools, w h o m still
*worth

0 h e f o u n d t o o late ,
He h a d his jest, a n d they h a d his estate.
*always

H e l a u g h e d himself f r o m court; then s o u g h t relief

By forming parties, but could ne'er be chief;
For, spite of him, the weight of business fell state religion under the Commonwealth (“in the 536) to the commercial origins of many dissenters.
Judges’ days”).

6. Mythical beast with nine heads, each of which

3. The priestly family; (derisively) the theocrati-was replaced by two heads when it was cut off.
cally disposed dissenters.

7. An Israelite executed for whoredom (Numbers

4. A term used by some dissenters for those 25); a second Zimri was a traitor and regicide (1 elected to salvation.

Kings 26.8—20). Dryden gives the name to George

5. Dryden calls attention to the Calvinist doc-Villiers, duke of Buckingham, a latecomer to Mon-trines of predestination and election, and (in line mouth’s cause (described in lines 492—543).

A B S A L O M A N D A C H I T O P H E L : A P O E M / 5 1 5

On Absalom and wise Achitophel:

Thus, wicked but in will, of means bereft,

He left not faction, but of that was left.⁸

With all these loads of injuries oppressed,

And long revolving in his careful breast

935 The event⁰ of things, at last, his patience tired, outcome

Thus from his royal throne, by Heaven inspired,

The godlike David spoke: with awful fear

His train their Maker in their master hear.
“Thus long have I, by native mercy swayed,
940 My wrongs dissembled, my revenge delayed:
So willing to forgive the offending age,
So much the father did the king assuage.
But now so far my clemency they slight,
The offenders question my forgiving right.⁹
945 That one was made for many, they contend;
But ‘tis to rule; for that’s a monarch’s end.
They call my tenderness of blood my fear;
Though manly tempers can the longest bear.
Yet, since they will divert my native course,
950 ‘Tis time to show I am not good by force.
Those heaped affronts that haughty subjects bring,
Are burdens for a camel, not a king:
Kings are the public pillars of the State,
Born to sustain and prop the nation’s weight:
955 If my young Samson will pretend a call
To shake the column, let him share the fall: 1
But, oh, that yet he would repent and live!
How easy ‘tis for parents to forgive!
With how few tears a pardon might be won 960 From nature, pleading for a darling son!
Poor pitied youth, by my paternal care
Raised up to all the height his frame could bear:
Had God ordained his fate for empire born,
He would have given his soul another turn:
8. The passage here omitted has five parts. (1)

the flaws, and buttress up the wall, / Thus far 'tis Lines 569—681: A further roll of the rebels or dis-duty; but here fix the mark; / For all beyond it is senters, including briefly “The well-hung Balaam to touch the ark” (lines 795—804; to touch the ark and cold Caleb,” “canting Nadab” and “bull-faced of the Covenant, which contained the Ten Com-Jonas,” and, extensively, Shimei (Slingsby Bethel, mandments, is to commit sacrilege). (4) Lines
 a sheriff of London), “whose youth did early prom-811—913: A short roll of David’s supporters, ise bring / Of zeal to God and hatred to his king,” including at length Barzillai (the duke of and Corah (Titus Oates), whose “zeal to heaven Ormond)—“The court he practiced, not the court-made him his prince despise.” (2) Lines 682—752:
 ier’s art: / Large was his wealth, but larger was his Absalom’s courting of the people and the develheart”—and, briefly, Zadoc, Adriel, Jotham, opment of the plot against David. (3) Lines 753—
 Hushai, and Amiel. (5) Lines 914-932: A brief 810: Dryden’s analysis of the issues involved in reprise of number 2, Absalom’s courting of the conflicts between the people (divinely obligated to people, and an indication of the mounting danger obedience) and their monarchs (divinely obligated of open revolt.
 to just stewardship), culminating thus: “Yet, grant

9. The right of the king to pardon, questioned by our lords the people kings can make, / What prudent members of the opposition.

dent men a settled throne would shake? / For

1. Samson, pulling down the supporting columns whatsoe'er their sufferings were before, / That of a Philistine temple, was destroyed in the ruin change they covet makes them suffer more. ... If (Judges 16.29-30).

ancient fabrics nod, and threat to fall, / To patch

5 1 6 / J O H N D R Y D E N

965 Gulled⁰ with a patriot's name, whose modern sense deceived.

Is one that would by law supplant his prince:

The people's brave,² the politician's tool;

Never was patriot yet, but was a fool.

Whence comes it that religion and the laws

970 Should more be Absalom's than David's cause?

His old instructor, ere he lost his place,³

Was never thought indued⁰ with so much grace. endowed

Good heavens, how faction can a patriot paint!

My rebel ever proves my people's saint:

975 Would they impose an heir upon the throne?

Let Sanhedrins be taught to give their own.

A king's at least a part of government,

And mine as requisite as their consent;

Without my leave a future king to choose,

980 Infers a right the present to depose:

True, they petition me to approve their choice;
But Esau's hands suit ill with Jacob's voice.⁴
My pious subjects for my safety pray,
Which to secure, they take my power away.
985 From plots and treasons Heaven preserve my years,
But save me most from my petitioners.⁵
Unsatiated as the barren womb or grave;
God cannot grant so much as they can crave.
What then is left but with a jealous eye
990 To guard the small remains of royalty?
The law shall still direct my peaceful sway,
And the same law teach rebels to obey:
Votes shall no more established power control—
Such votes as make a part exceed the whole:
995 No groundless clamors shall my friends remove,
Nor crowds have power to punish ere they prove:
For gods and godlike kings their care express,
Still to defend their servants in distress.
O that my power to saving were confined:
1000 Why am I forced, like Heaven, against my mind, F
To make examples of another kind? J
Must I at length the sword of justice draw?
O cursed effects of necessary law!
How ill my fear they by my mercy scan!⁶
1005 Beware the fury of a patient man.
Law they require, let Law then show her face;
They could not be content to look on Grace,
Her hinder parts, but with a daring eye

To tempt the terror of her front and die.⁷

IOIO By their own arts, 'tis righteously decreed,

2. I.e., hero (derisive); show-off. in attempts to force the king to meet the demands 3. Shaftesbury had been dismissed as chancellor of the Parliament in 1681.

in 1673 and as lord president of the Council in 6. I.e., how wrong they are to estimate my fear 1679. (determine that I am afraid) by the mercy I show.

4. Jacob deceived his old, blind father by making 7. Moses, on Mt. Sinai, was forbidden on pain of his hands hairy (like Esau's) with animal fur; but death to look upon God's face, but he was able to he could not mask his voice (Genesis 27). see God's back after God had passed by (Exodus 5. Shaftesbury (and others) made use of petitions 33.20—23).

MACFLECKNOE / 517

Those dire artificers of death shall bleed.

Against themselves their witnesses wills wear, Till viper-like their mother Plot the ytear: And suck for nutriment that bloody gore, 8

1015 Which was their principle of life before.

Their Belial with their Belzebub 9 will fight; Thus on my foes, my foes shall domeright: No doubt the event, 0 for factious crowd engage, outcome

In their first onset, all their brutal rage.

1020 Then let 'em take an unresisted course, Retire and traverse, and delude their force: But when they stand all breathless, urge the fight, And rise upon 'em with redoubled might:

For lawful power is still superior found,

1025 When long driven back, at length it stands
the ground.”

He said. The Almighty, nodding, gave consent;
And peals of thunders shook the firmament. 0 heavens

Henceforth a series of new time began,

The mighty years in long procession ran:
1030 Once more the godlike David was restored,
And willing nations knew their lawful lord.

1681

Mac Flecknoe 1

All human things are subject to decay,
And when fate summons, monarchs must obey.

This Flecknoe found, who, like Augustus, young Was called to empire, and had governed long; 2

5 In prose and verse, was owned, without dispute,
Through all the realms of Nonsense, absolute.

This aged prince, now flourishing in peace,
And blest with issue of a large increase, 3

Worn out with business, did at length debate to settle the succession of the state; 4

8. The simile is based on a common idea that uscript for a few years before being printed in a vipers eat their own mothers.

pirated edition in 1682 by an obscure publisher. A

9. I.e., their principal leaders; in Milton's Paradise

subtitle, "Or a Satire Upon the True-Blue Protes-

Lost, Belial and Beelzebub, leaders of Satan's host,

tant Poet, T. S.," evoked contemporary political disagree about their course of action (Book 2). controversies by referring to Shadwell's member- 1. Or Thomas Shadwell (1640-1692), a comic ship in the Whig party, the political haven of displaywright who considered himself the dramatic sending Protestants. This subtitle, presumably heir of Ben Jonson and the champion of the type added when the poem was published to stimulate of comedy that Jonson had written, the "comedy of sales, was removed in the 1684 edition and all other humors." Such plays allude to the medical theory ers that Dryden oversaw.

that said a healthy human body was composed of 2. Augustus (Octavian) became the first Roman four humors, kept in careful balance. Characters emperor at thirty-six and reigned from 27 B.C.E. to without such a balance have a predominant humor 14 C.E.

portrayed as a comic eccentricity. Dryden and 3. Figuratively, children; also, perhaps, a more Shadwell conducted a public argument for years specific reference to Flecknoe's practice of col- on the merits of Jonson's plays. Dryden names lecting pieces from his earlier publications and Shadwell "Mac" (Gaelic for "son of") Flecknoe, publishing them again with a new title. "Increase" making him heir not of Jonson but of the recently was stressed on the second syllable.

dead Irish priest Richard Flecknoe, a poet Dryden

4. Comic allusion to the serious question of who considered not only prolific but tiresome.

would succeed King Charles II. Business: with a “Mac Flecknoe” was probably circulated in man-play on sexual intercourse.

518 / JOHN DRYDEN

And, pondering which of all his sons was fit
To reign, and wage immortal war with wit,⁵ Cried: ” ‘Tis resolved; for Nature pleads that he Should only rule, who most resembles me.

15 Sh 6 alone my perfect image bears,

Mature in dullness from his tender years:

Sh alone, of all my sons, is he

Who stands confirmed in full stupidity.

The rest to some faint meaning make pretense,

20 But Sh never deviates into sense.

Some beams of wit on other souls may fall,

Strike through, and make a lucid interval;⁷

But Sh ‘s genuine night admits no ray,

His rising fogs prevail upon the day.

25 Besides, his goodly fabric⁸ fills the eye,

And seems designed for thoughtless majesty:

Thoughtless as monarch oaks that shade the plain,

And, spread in solemn state, supinely reign.

Heywood and Shirley⁹ were but types⁰ of thee, precursors

30 Thou last great prophet of tautology.¹

Even I, a dunce of more renown than they,
 Was sent before but to prepare thy way;
 And, coarsely clad in Norwich drugget,² came
 To teach the nations in thy greater name.
 35 My warbling lute, the lute I whilom⁰ strung, formerly
 When to King John of Portugal I sung,
 Was but the prelude to that glorious day,
 When thou on silver Thames didst cut thy way,⁴
 With well-timed oars before the royal barge,
 40 Swelled with the pride of thy celestial charge;
 And big with hymn, commander of a host,
 The like was ne'er in Epsom blankets tossed.⁵
 Methinks I see the new Arion⁶ sail,
 The lute still trembling underneath thy nail.^o fingernail
 45 At thy well-sharpened thumb from shore to shore
 The treble squeaks for fear, the basses roar;
 Echoes from Pissing Alley Sh call,
 And Sh they resound from A Hall.⁷
 About thy boat the little fishes throng,

5. "Wit," here as in other poems of the time, var-

2. A coarse cloth.

iously denotes the intellect, the poetic imagination,

3. Flecknoe, a Catholic priest, visited the king of and a general sprightliness of mind.

Portugal and claimed him as a patron.

6. A transparent pretense of anonymity for Shad-

4. Dryden alludes here to the royal pageants per-well. The use of dashes is a common device of the formed on the river Thames, which flows through period's satire. Also, a scatological suggestion. The London.

name is spelled out in some manuscripts.

5. A simultaneous reference to two of Shadwell's

7. A bright period; also, a medical term referring plays: The Virtuoso (1676), in which a character to periods of sanity between attacks of lunacy.

who thinks himself a "wit" is tossed in a blanket in

8. His body; Shadwell was corpulent.

a farcical scene, and Epsom Wells (1673).

9. Thomas Heywood (1574?-1641) and James

6. When the semilegendary Greek poet Arion was Shirley (1596—1666), prolific playwrights of an cast into the sea, a dolphin, charmed by his sing- earlier time, now out of fashion. Dryden suggests ing, bore him ashore. Shadwell was proud of his that they prefigure Shadwell as the Hebrew Scrip- own musical accomplishments.

ture prophets and (in lines 31—34) John the Baptist

7. This scatologically named hall, written out as prefigured Christ.

"Aston" in the 1682 edition, has not been located.

1. A repetition of the same point in different Pissing Alley ran between the Strand and the words.

Thames.

MACFLECKNOE / 519

As at the m o r n i n g toast⁸ that floats along.
S o m e t i m e s , as prince of thy h a r m o n i o u s b a n d ,
T h o u wield'st thy p a p e r s in thy t h r e s h i n g h a n d
.9
St. Andre's feet¹ ne'er kept m o r e e q u a l time,
N o t ev'n the feet of thy own Psyche's rhyme,
T h o u g h they in n u m b e r 0 as in s e n s e excel: meter
S o j u s t , so like tautology, they⁰ fell, the papers
T h a t , pale with envy, S i n g l e t o n forswore
T h e lute a n d sword, which he in t r i u m p h bore, [
A n d vowed he ne'er w o u l d act Villerius² more." J
H e r e s t o p p e d the g o o d old sire, a n d wept for joy
I n silent raptures of the h o p e f u l boy.³
A l l a r g u m e n t s , b u t m o s t his plays, p e r s u a d e , T h a t for a n o i n t e d dullness⁴ h e w a s m a d e .
C l o s e to the walls which fair A u g u s t a ⁵ bind
(The fair A u g u s t a m u c h to fears inclined),
A n a n c i e n t f a b r i c ⁰ raised to i n f o r m the sight building
T h e r e stood of yore, a n d B a r b i c a n it h i g h t : ⁰ was called
A w a t c h t o w e r o n c e ; but now, so fate ordains,
O f all the pile a n e m p t y n a m e r e m a i n s .
F r o m its old ruins brothel h o u s e s rise,
S c e n e s of lewd loves, a n d of polluted joys,
W h e r e their vast courts the m o t h e r - s t r u m p e t s
keep,
A n d , u n d i s t u r b e d by watch, in silence sleep.
N e a r these a N u r s e r y ⁶ erects its head,

W h e r e q u e e n s a r e f o r m e d , a n d f u t u r e h e r o e s bred; W h e r e u n f l e d g e d a c t o r s l e a r n t o l a u g h a n d cry,

W h e r e i n f a n t p u n k s ⁰ t h e i r t e n d e r v o i c e s t r y , r prostitutes

A n d l i t t l e M a x i m i n s ⁷ t h e g o d s d e f y . J

G r e a t F l e t c h e r n e v e r t r e a d s i n b u s k i n s h e r e ,

N o r g r e a t e r J o n s o n d a r e s i n s o c k s a p p e a r ; ⁸

B u t g e n t l e S i m k i n ⁹ j u s t r e c e p t i o n f i n d s

A m i d s t t h i s m o n u m e n t o f v a n i s h e d m i n d s :

P u r e c l i n c h e s ⁰ t h e s u b u r b i a n M u s e l a f f o r d s , puns

A n d P a n t o n ⁰ w a g i n g h a r m l e s s w a r w i t h w o r d s .
a punster

85

H e r e F l e c k n o e , a s a p l a c e t o f a m e w e l l k n o w n ,

8. A comic metaphor for sewage.

nations; i.e., all arguments favor Mac Flecknoe's

9. I.e., his hand beats or strikes as with a flail, with ascent to the throne of dullness, but most of all his a pun on the violence of his "beating," or writing, plays.

and the accents or beats in measured verse. In the

5. I.e., London; an allusion to contemporary fears following lines, Dryden continues to make fun of of a Catholic plot to burn down the city (see "From the mechanical metrics of the songs in Shadwell's Absalom and Achitophel: A Poem," note 5, p. 501).

opera Psyche (1675). Shadwell had apologized for

6. The name of a training school for young actors his use of rhyme in the preface to the printed text.

built in the Barbican in 1671, against the wishes

1. With a pun on dancing and metrical feet. St.

of many residents.

Andre: a French dancing master, choreographer of

7. The bombastic Roman emperor in Dryden's

Shadwell's Psyche.

Tyrannic Love (1669).

2. A role in Sir William Davenant's The Siege of

8. "Buskins," the high-soled boots worn in Ath-

Rhodes (1656), the first English opera. Singleton:

enian tragedy, are opposed to "socks," the low

John Singleton (d. 1686), a musician of the The-shoes worn in comedy (thus the reference to Ben atre Royal. Dryden seems to be suggesting (sarcas-Jonson). Fletcher: John Fletcher (1579—1625), a tically) that Shadwell's art is so skilled that it playwright.

evokes the admiration of an undistinguished per-

9. A clown; a popular character in farces.

former.

1. The nine Muses were Greek sister goddesses

3. I.e., Mac Flecknoe, or Shadwell (who was in his believed to be sources of inspiration for the arts;

mid thirties). Good old sire: i.e., Flecknoe.

this Muse, unlike the classical ones, is associated

4. The expected phrase is anointed majesty, since with the licentious suburbs of London, where

English kings are anointed with oil at their coronations and theaters were located.

520 / JOHN DRYDEN

Ambitiously designed his Sh 's throne;
For ancient Dekker² prophesied long since,
That in this pile would reign a mighty prince, [
Born for a scourge of wit, and flail of sense;³ J
90 To whom true dullness should some Psyches owe,
But worlds of Misers from his pen should flow;⁴
Humorists and Hypocrites it should produce,
Whole Raymond families, and tribes of Bruce.
Now Empress Fame had published the renown
95 Of Sh 's coronation through the town.
Roused by report of Fame, the nations meet,
From near Bunhill, and distant Watling Street.⁵
No Persian carpets spread the imperial way,
But scattered limbs of mangled poets lay;
100 From dusty shops neglected authors come,
Martyrs of pies, and relics of the bum.⁶
Much Heywood, Shirley, Ogilby⁷ there lay,
But loads of Sh almost choked the way.
Bilked stationers⁸ for yeomen stood prepared,
105 And H was captain of the guard.
The hoary⁰ prince in majesty appeared, gray, aged
High on a throne of his own labors reared.
At his right hand our young Ascanius⁹ sate,
Rome's other hope, and pillar of the state.
110 His brows thick fogs, instead of glories, grace,

And lambent dullness played around his face.
As Hannibal did to the altars come,
Sworn by his sire a mortal foe to Rome,¹
So Sh swore, nor should his vow be vain,
115 That he till death true dullness would maintain;
And, in his father's right, and realm's defense,
Ne'er to have peace with wit, nor truce with sense.
The king himself the sacred unction⁰ made, ointment
As king by office, and as priest by trade.

120 In his sinister hand, instead of ball,²
He placed a mighty mug of potent ale;
2. Thomas Dekker (ca. 1572-1632), a playwright by Dryden (and later by Pope); Thomas Heywood satirized by Ben Jonson in The Poetaster (1602).
and James Shirley (see note 9, p. 518).

He probably figures in the line of poets leading
8. Booksellers, impoverished because they had up to Shadwell because he was a city poet and a stocked the works of Shadwell and others, stood proponent of a dramatic realism that Dryden guard to protect what remained of their interests.
deplored.

Their "captain," Henry Herringman, however,
3. I.e., born to be one who punishes wit and whips referred to in line 105, had been Dryden's pub-sense.

lisher as well as Shadwell's.

4. In these lines, Dryden names plays of (and

9. Aeneas's son; hence, like Shadwell, the descharacters in plays by) Shadwell.

tinued heir. Virgil referred to him as "spes altera

5. Victims of the plague (1665—66) were buried in Romae" ("Rome's other hope," Aeneid 12.168); as Bunhill.
Because these locations are both within a

Troy fell, his favor with the gods was marked by a half-mile of the scene of the supposed coronation flickering ("lambent") flame that played around his ("the Nursery"), Mac Flecknoe's fame is narrowly head (Aeneid 2.680-84).

circumscribed; furthermore, his subjects live in the

1. Hannibal (247-183 B.C.E.), the Carthaginian unfashionable commercial center of the city, re-general who invaded Italy, and whose father garded as a place of bad taste and vulgarity.

("sire") had dedicated Hannibal to the conquering

6. I.e., unsold books, the paper of which was used of Rome.

in bakers' shops and in privies (toilets).

2. In British coronations, the monarch holds in his

7. John Ogilby (1600-1676), a translator of Virgil or her left ("sinister") hand a globe surmounted by and Homer and a dramatic entrepreneur derided a cross.

MAC FLECKNOE / 521

Love's Kingdom to his right he did convey,

At once his scepter, and his rule of sway;

Whose righteous lore the prince had practiced young,
125 And from whose loins recorded Psyche sprung.
His temples, last, with poppies⁴ were o'erspread,
That nodding seemed to consecrate his head.
Just at that point of time, if fame not lie,
On his left hand twelve reverend owls⁵ did fly.
130 So Romulus, 'tis sung, by Tiber's brook,
Presage of sway from twice six vultures took.⁶
The admiring throng loud acclamations make,
And omens of his future empire take.
The sire then shook the honors⁷ of his head,
135 And from his brows damps⁰ of oblivion shed vapors
Full on the filial dullness: long he stood,
Repelling from his breast the raging god; r
At length burst out in this prophetic mood: J
"Heavens bless my son, from Ireland let him reign
140 To far Barbadoes on the western main;⁸
Of his dominion may no end be known,
And greater than his father's be his throne;
Beyond Love's Kingdom let him stretch his pen!"
He paused, and all the people cried, "Amen."
145 Then thus continued he: "My son, advance
Still in new imprudence, new ignorance.
Success let others teach, learn thou from me
Pangs without birth, and fruitless industry.
Let Virtuosos in five years be writ;
150 Yet not one thought accuse thy toil of wit.⁹
Let gentle George¹ in triumph tread the stage,

Make Dorimant betray, and Loveit rage;
Let Cully, Cockwood, Fopling, charm the pit,
And in their folly show the writer's wit.
155 Yet still thy fools shall stand in thy defense,
And justify their author's want of sense.
Let 'em be all by thy own model made
Of dullness, and desire no foreign aid;
That they to future ages may be known,
160 Not copies drawn, but issue of thy own.
Nay, let thy men of wit too be the same,
All full of thee, and differing but in name.

3. A pastoral tragicomedy by Flecknoe, apparently of Romulus was presaged.

visualized by Dryden as a rolled-up manuscript

7. Locks; in Virgil's Aeneid, Jove, ruler of the gods, held like a scepter. Shadwell's Psyche, a pastoral shakes his locks. Here and in the following lines, opera, could be described as the child ("from Dryden parodies two epic motifs: the father influencing his son and the Sybil receiving the "raging

4. Connoting both intellectual heaviness and God" who speaks through her (see Aeneid 6.46—Shadwell's addiction to opiates; a parody of the 51).

laurel wreath with which a poet was traditionally

8. I.e., a realm of empty ocean.

crowned as a sign of poetic achievement.

9. I.e., even if Shadwell spent five years writing a

5. Symbols of dullness.

comedy, it would still lack wit.

6. When the site (“Tiber’s brook”) that Romulus

1. Sir George Etherege (ca. 1635-1691), play-had chosen for Rome was visited by twelve vul-

wright who set the tone for stylish Restoration

tures, or twice as many as had visited the site comedy; Dryden proceeds to name five of his picked by his brother Remus, the kingship (“sway”) characters.

5 2 2 / J O H N D R Y D E N

B u t l e t n o a l i e n s — d l — y 2 i n t e r p o s e ,

T o l a r d w i t h w i t 3 t h y h u n g r y Epsom p r o s e .

165 A n d w h e n f a l s e f l o w e r s o f r h e t o r i c t h o u w o u l d s t c u l l , T r u s t n a t u r e , d o n o t l a b o r t o b e d u l l ;

B u t w r i t e t h y b e s t , a n d t o p ; a n d , i n e a c h l i n e ,
S i r F o r m a l ‘ s 4 o r a t o r y w i l l b e t h i n e :

S i r F o r m a l , t h o u g h u n s o u g h t , a t t e n d s t h y
q u i l l , 170 A n d d o e s t h y n o t h e r n d e d i c a t i o n s ‘ f i l l .

N o r l e t f a l s e f r i e n d s s e d u c e t h y m i n d t o f a m e , B y a r r o g a t i n g J o n s o n ‘ s h o s t i l e n a m e .

L e t f a t h e r F l e c k n o e f i r e t h y m i n d w i t h p r a i s e , A n d u n c l e O g i l b y t h y e n v y r a i s e .

175 T h o u a r t m y b l o o d , w h e r e J o n s o n h a s n o p a r t : W h a t s h a r e h a v e w e i n n a t u r e , o r i n a r t ?

W h e r e d i d h i s w i t o n l e a r n i n g f i x a b r a n d , A n d r a i l a t a r t s h e d i d n o t u n d e r s t a n d ? 6

Where made he love in Prince Nicander's vein, is Or swept the dust in Psyche's humblest rain? 7

Where sold he bargains, 8 'whip-stitch, kiss my arse, '

Promised a play and dwindled to a farce?

When did his Muse from Fletcher scenes purloin,
0 steal

As thou whole Eth' redost transfuse to hine?

185 But so transfused, as oil on water's flow,
His always floats above, thine sinks below

This is thy province, this thy wondrous way,
New humor sto invent for each new play:

This is that boasted bias 9 of thy mind,

190 By which oneway, to dullness, 'tis inclined;
Which makes thy writings lean on ones ide still, And, in all changes, that way bendst hy will.

Nor let thy mountain-belly make pretense
Of likeness; thine 'satympany 1 of sense.

195 A tun^o of man in thy large bulk is writ, big cask

But sure thou 'rt but a kilderkin 0 of wit.
little cask

Like mine, thy gentlenumbers 0 feebly creep;
verses

Thy tragic Muse gives smiles, thy comical leep.

With what 'ergall thou sett'st thyself to write, 200 Thy inoffensivesatires never bite.

In thy felonious heart though venom lies, I does but touch thy Irish pen, and dies.

Thy genius 2 calls the eno to purchase fame
e 2. Sir Charles Sedley (ca. 1639-1701), Restora-7. Nicander pays court to the title character, Psy-tion wit who had contributed a prologue and (Dry-che, in Shadwell's opera.

den suggests in line 184) a part of the text to

8. A "bargain" is a gross rejoinder to an innocent Shadwell's Epsom Wells.

question. The rest of the line, a kind of bargain,

3. The phrase recalls a sentence in Anatomy of echoes a farcical character in The Virtuoso.

Melancholy (1621), by the English clergyman and

9. In bowling, the spin a player puts on the ball to scholar Robert Burton (1577-1640): "They lard make it swerve. Humors: parodying Shadwell's ded-their lean books with the fat of others' works."

ication to The Virtuoso, in which he claims that

4. Sir Formal Trifle was an inflated orator in The "four of the humours are entirely new."

Virtuoso.

1. A swelling caused by air.

5. I.e., to Shadwell's patron the duke of Newcas-

2. The tutelary spirit allotted to every person at tle, whose seat was in northern England.

birth to govern his or her fortunes and determine

6. Perhaps an allusion to the satire on experimenthe individual's character. Dryden terms Shadwell tal science in The Virtuoso.

Irish as an insult.

T o T H E M E M O R Y O F M R . O L D H A M / 5 2 3

I n k e e n i a m b i c s , 3 b u t m i l d a n a g r a m . 4

205 L e a v e w r i t i n g p l a y s , a n d c h o o s e f o r t h y c o m m a n d

S o m e p e a c e f u l p r o v i n c e i n a c r o s t i c l a n d .

T h e r e t h o u m a y ' s t w i n g s d i s p l a y a n d a l t a r s r a i s e ,

A n d t o r t u r e o n e p o o r w o r d t e n t h o u s a n d w a y s .

O r , i f t h o u w o u l d s t t h y d i f f e r e n t t a l e n t s u i t ,

210 S e t t h y o w n s o n g s , a n d s i n g t h e m t o t h y l u t e . ”

H e s a i d : b u t h i s l a s t w o r d s w e r e s c a r c e l y h e a r d

F o r B r u c e a n d L o n g v i l l e h a d a t r a p p r e p a r e d ,

A n d d o w n t h e y s e n t t h e y e t d e c l a i m i n g b a r d . 5

S i n k i n g h e l e f t h i s d r u g g e t 0 r o b e b e h i n d , c o a r s e

215 B o r n e u p w a r d s b y a s u b t e r r a n e a n w i n d .

T h e m a n t l e f e l l t o t h e y o u n g p r o p h e t ' s p a r t , 6

W i t h d o u b l e p o r t i o n o f h i s f a t h e r ' s a r t .

ca. 1 6 7 6 1 6 8 2 , 1 6 8 4

To the Memory of Mr. Oldham⁷

F a r e w e l l , t o o l i t t l e , a n d t o o l a t e l y k n o w n ,

W h o m I b e g a n t o t h i n k a n d c a l l m y o w n :

F o r s u r e o u r s o u l s w e r e n e a r a l l i e d , a n d t h i n e

C a s t i n t h e s a m e p o e t i c m o l d w i t h m i n e . 8

5 O n e c o m m o n n o t e o n e i t h e r l y r e d i d s t r i k e ,

A n d k n a v e s a n d f o o l s w e b o t h a b h o r r e d a l i k e .

T o t h e s a m e g o a l d i d b o t h o u r s t u d i e s 0 d r i v e ; e n d e a v o r s

T h e l a s t s e t o u t t h e s o o n e s t d i d a r r i v e .

T h u s N i s u s 9 fell u p o n the slippery place, io W h i l e his y o u n g friend p e r f o r m e d 0 a n d won the race. completed

O early ripe! to thy a b u n d a n t store

W h a t c o u l d a d v a n c i n g a g e have a d d e d m o r e
?

I t m i g h t (what n a t u r e never gives the young)

H a v e t a u g h t the n u m b e r s 0 of thy native tongue.
metrics

15 B u t satire n e e d s not those, a n d wit will shine

T h r o u g h the harsh c a d e n c e of a r u g g e d line:

A noble error, a n d but s e l d o m m a d e ,

W h e n p o e t s are by too m u c h f o r c e betrayed.

3. The meter of (Greek) satire; hence satire itself.

Flecknoe's "subterranean wind" is a fart, and an

4. The transposition of letters in a word so as to allusion to the moment in Paradise Lost where make a new word; mild: tame, feeble. Dryden

Satan lands on ground seemingly destroyed by "the scorns this form of ingenuity, and the others that force / Of subterranean wind" (1.231).

follow, as trivial. An "acrostic" (line 206) is a poem

7. John Oldham (1653-1683), author of Satires in which the first letter of each line, read down-Upon the Jesuits (1681), was a promising young ward, makes up the name of the person or thing poet, harsh (partly by calculation) in metrics and that is the subject of the poem. "Wings" and manner, but earnest and vigorous. He died of “altars” (line 207) refer to poems in the shape of smallpox.

their subjects, such as George Herbert’s “The 8. Dryden cast horoscopes and had the same Altar” (p. 367) and “Easter Wings” (p. 368).

birthday as Oldham.

5. These characters in The Virtuoso so trap Sir

9. A footracer in Virgil’s Aeneid, he slipped in a Formal Trifle.

pool of blood. His young friend Euryalus came

6. When the prophet Elijah was carried to heaven from behind to reach the goal before him (5.315 in a chariot of fire borne on a whirlwind, his mantle ff.).

fell on Elisha, his successor (2 Kings 2.8—14).

524 / JOHN DRYDEN

Thy generous fruits, though gathered ere their prime, 20 Still showed a quickness, 0
and maturing timer sharpness

But mellow what we write to the dull sweet sof rhyme. J

Once more, hail and farewell; farewell, th ou young, But a too short, Marcellus 1 of o ur tongue; Thy brows with ivy, and with la urels bound; 25 But fate and gloom night e n compass the around. 2

1684

A Song for St. Cecilia’s Day³

i

From harmony, from heavenly harmony

This universal frame 4 began :
When Nature 5 underneath a heap
Of jarring atoms lay,
5 And could no theave her head,
The tuneful voice was heard from high :
” Arise, ye more than dead.”
Then cold, and hot, and moist, and dry, 6
In order to their stations leap,
10 And Music’s power obey.
From harmony, from heavenly harmony
This universal frame began :
From harmony to harmony
Through all the compass 0 of the notes it ran, full range
15 The diapason 7 closing full in man .

2

What passion cannot Music raise and quell
I!

When Jubal 8 struck the corded shell,
His listening brethren stood around,
And, wondering, on their faces fell 20 To worship that celestial sound.

Less than a god they thought there could not
td well 1. Roman Emperor Augustus Caesar’s nephew,

British (German-born) composer George Frideric who died at twenty after a meteoric military career.

Handel composed a new musical setting for the

2. The Roman elegiac phrase Hail and farewell!

poem.

(line 22); the mention of Marcellus (line 23) and

4. The physical universe.

of the classical poet's wreath, a symbol of poetic

5. Created nature as distinguished from chaos.

achievement (line 24); and the echo of Virgil's

6. The four elements: earth, fire, water, and air.

lament for Marcellus (see Aeneid 6.866) work to

7. The entire range or scale of tones; representing Romanize Oldham.

the perfection of God's harmony in his final crea-

3. St. Cecilia, a Roman martyr of the second or tion, humankind. The just gradation of notes in a third century, was patron saint of music, custom-scale is analogous to the equally just gradation in arily represented at the organ (cf. line 52). Cele-the ascending scale of created beings according to brations of her festival day (November 22) in the idea of the Chain of Being (in which the Cre-

England were usually devoted to music, and from ation is ordered from inanimate nature up to about 1683 to 1703 the Musical Society in London humans, God's best and final work).

annually commemorated it with a religious service

8. "Father of all such as handle the harp and and a public concert. Dryden's ode was set to organ" (Genesis 4.21). The "corded" or stringed music (by the Italian composer Giovanni Battista tortoise "shell" is a harp or lyre.

Draghi) for this occasion in 1687. In 1739, the

A S O N G F O R S T . C E C I L I A ' S D A Y / 5 2 5

Within the hollow of that shell

That spoke so sweetly and so well.

What passion cannot Music raise and quell!

3

25 The trumpet's loud clangor

Excites us to arms,

With shrill notes of anger,

And mortal alarms.

The double double double beat

30 Of the thundering drum

Cries: "Hark! the foes come;

Charge, charge, 'tis too late to retreat."

4

The soft complaining flute

In dying notes discovers

35 The woes of hopeless lovers,

Whose dirge is whispered by the warbling lute.

5

Sharp violins⁹ proclaim

Their jealous pangs, and desperation,

Fury, frantic indignation,

40 Depth of pains, and height of passion,

For the fair, disdainful dame.

6

But O! what art can teach,

What human voice can reach,

The sacred organ's praise?
45 Notes inspiring holy love,
Notes that wing their heavenly ways
To mend the choirs above.¹

7

Orpheus could lead the savage race;
And trees unrooted left their place,
50 Sequacious of² the lyre;
But bright Cecilia raised the wonder higher:
When to her organ vocal breath³ was given,
An angel heard, and straight appeared,
Mistaking earth for heaven.

9. A reference to the bright tone of the violin, race") grew tame and followed him, as did even recently introduced into England. The tone of the rocks and trees.

old-fashioned viol is much duller.

3. I.e., its ability to sustain notes as the human

1. I.e., to improve the music of the angels.

voice does. According to the legend, however,

2. Following. According to Greek mythology,

Cecilia's piety, not her music, made an angel

Orpheus, son of the Muse Calliope, played so won-appear.

derfully on the lyre that wild beasts ("the savage

5 2 6 / K A T H E R I N E P H I L I P S

Grand Chorus

55 As from the power of sacred lays

*The spheres began to move,
And sung the great Creator's praise⁴
To all the blest above;
So, when the last and dreadful hour
60 This crumbling pageant⁵ shall devour,
The trumpet⁶ shall be heard on high,
The dead shall live,⁷ the living die,
And Music shall untune the sky.*

1687

KATHERINE PHILIPS

1632-1664

Epitaph

On Her Son H. P. at St. Syth's Church Where Her Body Also Lies Interred

W H A T O N E A R T H D E S E R V E S O U R T R U S T ?
Y O U T H A N D B E A U T Y B O T H A R E D U S T .
L O N G W E G A T H E R I N G A R E W I T H P A I N , W H A T O N E M O M E N T C A L L S A G A I N .
5 S E V E N Y E A R S C H I L D L E S S M A R R I A G E P A S T ,
A S O N , A S O N I S B O R N A T L A S T ;
S O E X A C T L Y L I M B E D L A N D F A I R ,
F U L L O F G O O D S P I R I T S , M I E N , A N D A I R , 2
A S A L O N G L I F E P R O M I S E D , i o Y E T , I N L E S S T H A N S I X W E E K S D E A D .
T O O P R O M I S I N G , T O O G R E A T A M I N D
I N S O S M A L L R O O M T O B E C O N F I N E D :
T H E R E F O R E , F I T I N H E A V E N T O D W E L L , H E Q U I C K L Y B R O K E T H E P R I S O N S H E L L .

15 So the subtle alchemist, 3
Can't with Hermes' seal resist
The powerful spirit's subtler flight,

4. As it was harmony that ordered the universe, so the Resurrection (in which the “dead shall live”) it was angelic song (“sacred lays”) that put the and the Last Judgement (1 Corinthians 15.52).

celestial bodies (“spheres”) in motion. The har-

7. I.e., the sounding of the last trumpet will end monious chord that results from the music of the the harmony of the spheres.

spheres (in Ptolemaic astronomy, angelic music

1. I.e., having perfect limbs.

produced by the turning of the spheres, concentric

2. Apparent character or disposition. Mien:

transparent shells containing the heavenly bodies) appearance or expression.

is a hymn of “praise” sung by created nature to its

3. Alchemy was the science aiming to achieve the “Creator.”

transmutation of baser metals into gold and also to

5. The universe, the stage on which the drama of find a panacea or universal remedy.

human salvation has been acted out. The last and

4. Hermetic seal, the airtight closure of a con-dreadful hour: Judgment Day.

tainer, named after Hermes, the Greek messenger

6. The sounding of the last trumpet announces god.

To MR. HENRY LAWES / 527

Butt' will bid him long good night.

So the Sun if it arise

20 Half so glorious as his eyes,

Likethis infant, takes a shroud,

Buried in a morning cloud.

1655 1667

To Mr. Henry Lawes⁵

Nature, which is the vast creation's soul,
That steady curious agent⁶ in the whole, T heart of Heaven, the order of this frame, Is only number⁷ in another name.

5 For as some king conqu'ring what was his own, Hath choice of several titles to his cro wn; So harmony on this score now, that the n,

Yet still is all that takes and governs men.⁸

Beauty is but composure, and we find io Content⁰ is but the concord of the mind, contentment

Friendship the unison of well-tuned heart s, Honor the chorus of the noblest parts,⁹

And all the world on which we can reflect M usic to th' ear, or to the intellect.

15 If then each man a little world must be,¹

How many worlds are copied out in thee,

Who art so richly formed, so complete

T' epitomize all that is good and great;

Whose stars² this brave advantaged idim part,²⁰ Thy nature's a harmonious a thy

art?

Thoudostabovethepoets'praiselive,Whofetchfromtheeth'eternitytheygive.

5. A friend of Philips, and a well-known musician

8. I.e., just as a king, who has conquered lands and composer, he set to music the words of some that are by rights his, may be called by the title of of the most prominent poets of his day, including any of those lands, so harmony, by natural right, Jonson, Davenant, Waller, Herrick, Carew, Lovemay be credited with being both the force that initiates and preserves the order of the natural world Lawes, On His Airs," p. 416).

("that then" refers to this topic, mentioned in the

6. The material cause whereby effects are produced. In the Timaeus, Plato gives an account of the world of human society (as Philips demonstrates in the next four lines, thus "on this score the Pythagorean generation of the consonant now").

intervals in music; in the Somnium Scipionis, Cicero

9. In these lines, Philips plays on the musical meanings of words. Composure: collectedness, but in terms of proportional intervals and tones. Many also referring to a musical composition. Concord: early Christian writers also explained the creation agreement, but also referring to a combination of of the world in Pythagorean terms.

notes that is pleasing to the ear. Unison: a sound 7. Music; drawing on Pythagorean ideas, many or note of the same pitch as another. Chorus: both classical and Neoplatonic writers believed that to a choir and the song sung by the choir.

understand God, the universe, or humankind, one 1. Perhaps a reference to the Platonic idea that had to understand numbers and their relationships. the soul of humankind and the soul of the universe ships. Music, based on numerical relationships, are similarly harmonious, and therefore music may spatial measurements of intervals, and metrical reveal to the human being (“a little world”) the measurements of time, afforded one access to the divine harmony of the universe, or larger world, in measurements of those things that were intangible which his or her soul shares.

or invisible.

2. Destiny as determined by astrology.

528 / KATHERINE PHILIPS

And a struereason triumphs over sense,

Yet is subjected to intelligence: 3

25 So poet on the lower world look down, But Lawe son them; his height is all his own.

For, like Divinity itself, his lyre
Rewards the wit it did at first inspire. 4
And thus by double right poets allow 30 His and their laurel should adorn his brow. 5

Live then, great soul of nature, to assuage
The savagedulness of this sullen age.

Charmustosense; for though experience fail
Andreason too, 6 thy numbers 0 may prevail. songs

35 Then, like those ancients, strike, and so command All nature to obey thy gen'rous hand. 7

None will resist but such who need will be More stupid 0 than a stone, a fish, a tree.
senseless

Be it thy care our age to new-create:

40 What built a world may sure repair a state. 8

1667

On the Welsh Language 9

If honor to an ancient name be due,

Or riches challenge it for one that's new,
The British language 1 claims sineither sense
e Both for its age, and for its opulence. 0
wealth

5 But all great things must be from us removed,
To be with higher reverence beloved.

So landskips 0 which in prospects distant lie, landscapes

With greater wonder draw the pleased eye

.

Is not great Troy to our dark ruin hurled?

io O n c e t h e f a m ' d s c e n e o f a l l t h e f i g h t i n g w o r l d . 2

3. According to Aristotle, reason governs the

9. The Welsh language appears here to mean that lesser faculties of the soul—the physical senses language spoken by the earliest settlers of Britain, and the appetites they generate. Both reason and namely the Britons, or Celts. That language was sense are subject to intelligence, which Aristotle thought to have survived in Wales, which was a believed to be the divine element in humans.

stronghold of resistance against the Romans in the 4. I.e., his songs “reward” (by setting to music) the first century and against the Anglo-Saxons in the poetry originally inspired by his art.

fourth and fifth centuries. After the defeat of

5. The laurel was a symbol of poetic achievement.

Wales by King Edward I, in the thirteenth century,

6. According to Aristotle, sense experience gives

Welsh cultural identity began to erode, and in knowledge of the concrete, while reason acts on 1636, when Wales was officially incorporated into that knowledge to arrive at an understanding of England, Welshmen holding positions in Henry universal or first principles.

VIII's regime were required to speak English. In

7. Perhaps a reference to Orpheus, famed for the seventeenth century, however, some interest

singing and playing the lyre, and said to have developed among the Welsh in preserving their charmed birds, animals, rocks, and trees with his language. Philips moved with her husband to Carmarthen. Other “ancients” that Philips may have had in mind: Amphion, who with his music caused stones to build the walls of Thebes, and Arion, whose singing won him the love of dolphins. Strike:

1. The language spoken by the ancient Britons.
2. Troy was the site of the legendary Trojan War, here, to play a stringed instrument.

in which the Greeks fought with the Trojans to possess Helen. Helen, married to Menelaus, a Greek king, was carried off by Paris, a son of the king of Troy. At the end of the ten-year war, the Greeks defeated the Trojans and destroyed the city. Philips is thought to have had Royalist sympathies; therefore this line, along with the reference to “this sullen age” in line 32, may refer to her dissatisfaction with the British government during the Interregnum (1649-60).

city.

ON THE WELSH LANGUAGE / 529

Where's Athens now, to whom Rome learning owes,
And the safe laurels that adorned her brows?³

A strange reverse of fate she did endure,

Never once greater, than she's now obscure.
15 Even Rome her self can but some footsteps show
Of Scipio's times, or those of Cicero.⁴
And as the Roman and the Grecian state,
The British fell,⁵ the spoil of time and fate.
But though the language hath the beauty lost,
20 Yet she has still some great remains to boast.
For 'twas in that,⁶ the sacred bards of old,
In deathless numbers⁰ did their thoughts unfold. poetry
In groves, by rivers, and on fertile plains,
They civilized and taught the listening swains;⁰ rustics
25 Whilst with high raptures, and as great success,
Virtue they clothed in music's charming dress.
This Merlin spoke, who in his gloomy cave,
Even Destiny her self seemed to enslave.
For to his sight the future time was known,
30 Much better than to others is their own;
And with such state, predictions from him fell,
As if he did decree, and not foretell.
This spoke King Arthur,⁷ who, if fame be true,
Could have compelled mankind to speak it too.
35 In this once Boadicca⁸ valor taught,
And spoke more nobly than her soldiers fought:
Tell me what hero could be more than she,
Who fell at once for fame and liberty?
Nor could a greater sacrifice belong,
40 Or^o to her children's, or her country's wrong. either
This spoke Caractacus,⁹ who was so brave,

That to the Roman fortune check he gave:
And when their yoke he could decline no more,
He it so decently and nobly wore,
45 That Rome her self with blushes did believe,
A Britain⁰ would the law of honor¹ give; a Briton, British person

3. Athens was the Greek city that became the cultural, military, and economic center of an extensive empire (during the sixth and fifth centuries B.C.E.)
7. A legendary king of Britain, who, according to Geoffrey of Monmouth's Historia Regum Britannie, defeated a Roman army but was mortally wounded in battle during a rebellion at home by Romans, who adopted and imitated Greek culture his nephew, Mordred. Chretien de Troyes added and learning. Laurel wreaths, sometimes worn on the head, were symbols of both poetic and military achievement.
In 86 B.C.E., the city was taken over by the wounded in battle during a rebellion at home by Romans, who adopted and imitated Greek culture his nephew, Mordred. Chretien de Troyes added and learning. Laurel wreaths, sometimes worn on the head, were symbols of both poetic and military achievement.

Darthur, written in the fifteenth century. Merlin,
4. Marcus Tullius Cicero (106-43 B.C.E.), a Roman statesman and orator who was executed on both Arthur and his father, Uther Pendragon.
the order of Marc Antony after the assassination
8. A British queen who led a revolt against the

of Julius Caesar. There were two “Scipios”: Scipio Romans but was finally defeated in 61 c.E.

the Great, or Publius Cornelius Scipio (236—184

9. A king of Silures, in the west of Britain, during or 183 B.C.E.), a Roman general and statesman

the reign of Claudius, Caractacus (or Caraduc) who distinguished himself in the Punic Wars; and was defeated by the Romans and taken as a pris-

Aemilianus Numantinus (185 or 184—129 B.C.E.), oner to Rome in 51 c.E. The Roman emperor was who was represented by Cicero as the ideal of wise

so impressed by his noble spirit that he pardoned statesmanship.

and released him.

5. A reference to the Roman conquest of the Brit-

1. Perhaps a reference to the agreement between ish Isles. By 78 c.E, Wales had been brought under the Roman emperor and Caractacus that the latter,

Roman control, but its language survived.

if pardoned, would not engage in armed resistance

6. I.e., the Welsh language, also the referent of against the Romans.

“this” in lines 27, 33, 35, and 41.

530 / KATHERINE PHILIPS

A n d h a s t i l y h i s c h a i n s a w a y s h e t h r e w,

L e s t h e r o w n c a p t i v e e l s e s h o u l d h e r s u b d u e .

1667

To My Excellent Lucasia, on Our Friendship²

I did not live until this time
 C r o w n e d my felicity,
 W h e n I c o u l d say without a crime,³
 I am not thine, but thee.
 5 This c a r c a s s breathed, a n d walked, a n d slept,
 So that the world believed
 T h e r e w a s a soul the m o t i o n s kept;⁴
 B u t they were all deceived.
 F o r as a w a t c h by art⁵ is w o u n d
 io To m o t i o n , s u c h was mine:
 B u t never h a d O r i n d a ⁶ f o u n d
 A soul till she f o u n d thine;
 W h i c h now inspires, c u r e s a n d supplies,
 A n d guides m y d a r k e n e d breast:
 15 F o r thou art all that I c a n prize,
 My joy, my life, my rest.
 N o bridegroom's nor c r o w n - c o n q u e r o r ' s mirth
 T o m i n e c o m p a r e d c a n be:
 T h e y have but p i e c e s of the earth,
 20 I've all the world in thee.
 T h e n let our f l a m e s still light a n d shine,
 A n d no false fear control,
 As innocent as our design,
 I m m o r t a l as our soul.

1667

2. In her poems on the theme of friendship, Phil-addressing a male beloved, Phaon, and mentioning ips frequently employs the terminology and the many women she previously loved “without imagery of love poems. The addressee of this poem crime” (sine crimine). Some Renaissance editors is Mrs. Anne Owens, whom Philips calls “Lucasia,” emended Ovid’s line to “not without crime.” Same-name taken from William Cartwright’s play The sex love was a legally and culturally debated topic Lady Errant (1636).

in the seventeenth century.

3. This line recalls a famous and disputed phrase

4. I.e., that guided the body’s movements.

in line 19 of Ovid’s Heroides 15, a verse letter in

5. I.e., by artificial means.

which Ovid imagines the Greek poet Sappho

6. Philips’s name for herself.

5 3 1

T H O M A S T R A H E R N E *

1637-1674

The Salutation

T h e s e l i t t l e l i m b s ,

T h e s e e y e s a n d h a n d s w h i c h h e r e I f i n d ,

T h e s e r o s y c h e e k s w h e r e w i t h m y l i f e b e g i n s ,

W h e r e h a v e y e b e e n ? b e h i n d

5 W h a t c u r t a i n w e r e y e f r o m m e h i d s o l o n g ?

W h e r e w a s , i n w h a t a b y s s , m y s p e a k i n g t o n g u e ?

W h e n s i l e n t I

S o m a n y t h o u s a n d , t h o u s a n d y e a r s

B e n e a t h t h e d u s t d i d i n a c h a o s l i e , io H o w c o u l d I s m i l e s o r t e a r s ,

Or l i p s o r h a n d s o r e y e s o r e a r s p e r c e i v e ?
W e l c o m e y e t r e a s u r e s w h i c h I n o w r e c e i v e .
I t h a t s o l o n g
W a s n o t h i n g f r o m e t e r n i t y ,
15 D i d l i t t l e t h i n k s u c h j o y s a s e a r o r t o n g u e
T o c e l e b r a t e o r s e e :
S u c h s o u n d s t o h e a r , s u c h h a n d s t o f e e l , s u c h
f e e t , B e n e a t h t h e s k i e s o n s u c h a g r o u n d t o m e e t .
N e w b u r n i s h e d j o y s ,
20 W h i c h y e l l o w g o l d a n d p e a r l s e x c e l !
S u c h s a c r e d t r e a s u r e s a r e t h e l i m b s i n b o y s ,
I n w h i c h a s o u l d o t h d w e l l ;
T h e i r o r g a n i z e d j o i n t s a n d a z u r e v e i n s
M o r e w e a l t h i n c l u d e t h a n a l l t h e w o r l d c o n t a i n s .
25 F r o m d u s t I r i s e ,
A n d o u t o f n o t h i n g n o w a w a k e ;
T h e s e b r i g h t e r r e g i o n s w h i c h s a l u t e m i n e e y e s ,
A g i f t f r o m G o d I t a k e .
T h e e a r t h , t h e s e a s , t h e l i g h t , t h e d a y , t h e s k i e s ,
30 T h e s u n a n d s t a r s a r e m i n e i f t h o s e I p r i z e .
L o n g t i m e b e f o r e
I i n m y m o t h e r ' s w o m b w a s b o r n ,
A G o d , p r e p a r i n g , d i d t h i s g l o r i o u s s t o r e ,
T h e w o r l d , f o r m e a d o r n .
35 I n t o t h i s E d e n s o d i v i n e a n d f a i r ,
S o w i d e a n d b r i g h t , I c o m e H i s s o n a n d h e i r .

*Traherne's poems were discovered in 1903 by the lished in his lifetime, an anti-Catholic prose tract scholar Bertram Dobell, who found an anonymous called Roman Forgeries (1673). Traherne's poems manuscript and attributed it to Traherne after do not appear to have circulated widely (if at all) comparing it with the one work that Traherne publishing during his lifetime.

532 / T H O M A S T R A H E R N E

A stranger here

Strange things doth meet, strange glories see;
Strange treasures lodged in this fair world appear,
40 Strange all and new to me;
But that they mine should be, who nothing was,
That strangest is of all, yet brought to pass.

ca. 1665 1903

Wonder

How like an angel came I down!
How bright are all things here!
When first among his works I did appear
Oh, how their glory me did crown!
5 The world resembled his eternity,
In which my soul did walk;
And everything that I did see
Did with me talk.

The skies in their magnificence,

10

The lively, lovely air,
Oh, how divine, how soft, how sweet, how fair!

The stars did entertain my sense,
And all the works of God, so bright and pure,
So rich and great did seem,

15

As if they ever must endure
In my esteem.

A native health and innocence

Within my bones did grow;

And while my God did all his glories show,

20 I felt a vigor in my sense

That was all Spirit. I within did flow

With seas of life, like wine;

I nothing in the world did know

But° 'twas divine. except that 25

Harsh ragged objects were concealed;

Oppressions, tears, and cries,

Sins, griefs, complaints, dissensions, weeping eyes

Were hid, and only things revealed

Which heavenly spirits and the angels prize.

30

The state of innocence

And bliss, not trades⁰ and poverties, goods

Did fill my sense.

The streets were paved with golden stones,

The boys and girls were mine,

35 Oh, how did all their lovely faces shine!

T o T H E S A M E P U R P O S E / 5 3 3

The sons of men were holy ones,
In joy and beauty they appeared to me,
And everything I found,
While like an angel I did see,
40 Adorned the ground.
Rich diamond and pearl and gold
In every place was seen;
Rare splendors, yellow, blue, red, white, and green,
Mine eyes did everywhere behold.
45 Great wonders clothed with glory did appear,
Amazement was my bliss,
That and my wealth met everywhere;
No joy to^o this! compared to Cursed and devised proprieties,
50 With envy, avarice,
And fraud, those fiends that spoil even paradise,
Flew from the splendor of mine eyes;
And so did hedges, ditches, limits, bounds:
I dreamed not aught of those,
55 But wandered over all men's grounds,
And found repose.
Proprieties themselves were mine,
And hedges ornaments;
Walls, boxes, coffers, and their rich contents
60 To make me rich combine.
Clothes, ribbons, jewels, laces, I esteemed
My joys by others worn:
For me they all to wear them seemed

When I was born.

ca. 1665 1903

To the Same Purpose

To the same purpose: he, not long before
Brought home from nurse, going to the door

To do some little thing

He must not do within,

5 With wonder cries,

As in the skies

He saw the moon, "O yonder is the moon,

Newly come after me to town,

That shined at Lugwardin² but yesternight, io Where I enjoyed the self-same sight."

1. Properties, including both private property and 2. A town in south-central England on the Lugg the self. River.

5 3 4 / T H O M A S T R A H E R N E

As if it had ev'n twenty thousand faces,

It shines at once in many places;

To all the earth so wide

God doth the stars divide,

15 With so much art

The moon impart,

They serve us all; serve wholly every one

As if they served him alone.

While every single person hath such store,

20 'Tis want of sense that makes us poor.

ca. 1665 1910

Shadows in the Water

In unexperienced⁰ infancy inexperienced
Many a sweet mistake doth lie:
Mistake though false, intending⁰ true; directing to
A seeming somewhat more than view;³
5 That doth instruct the mind
In things that lie behind,
And many secrets to us show
Which afterwards we come to know.
Thus did I by the water's brink
io Another world beneath me think;
And while the lofty spacious skies
Reversed there, abused mine eyes,
I fancied other feet
Came mine to touch or meet;
15 As by some puddle I did play
Another world within it lay.
Beneath the water people drowned,
Yet with another heaven crowned,
In spacious regions seemed to go
20 As freely moving to and fro:
In bright and open space
I saw their very face;
Eyes, hands, and feet they had like mine;
Another sun did with them shine.
25 'Twas strange that people there should walk,
And yet I could not hear them talk:
That through a little watery chink,
Which one dry ox or horse might drink,

We other worlds should see,

30 Yet not admitted be;

3. I.e., an outward appearance (“seeming”) that suggests more than what is visible to the eye.

S H A D O W S I N T H E W A T E R / 5 3 5

A n d o t h e r c o n f i n e s t h e r e b e h o l d

O f l i g h t a n d d a r k n e s s , h e a t a n d c o l d .

I c a l l e d t h e m o f t , b u t c a l l e d i n v a i n ;

N o s p e e c h e s w e c o u l d e n t e r t a i n :

35 Y e t d i d I t h e r e e x p e c t t o f i n d

S o m e o t h e r w o r l d , t o p l e a s e m y m i n d .

I p l a i n l y s a w b y t h e s e

A n e w a n t i p o d e s , 4

W h o m , t h o u g h t h e y w e r e s o p l a i n l y s e e n ,

40 A f i l m k e p t o f f t h a t s t o o d b e t w e e n .

B y w a l k i n g m e n ‘ s r e v e r s e d f e e t

I c h a n c e d a n o t h e r w o r l d t o m e e t ;

T h o u g h i t d i d n o t t o v i e w e x c e e d

A p h a n t o m , ‘ t i s a w o r l d i n d e e d ,

45 W h e r e s k i e s b e n e a t h u s s h i n e ,

A n d e a r t h b y a r t d i v i n e

A n o t h e r f a c e p r e s e n t s b e l o w ,

W h e r e p e o p l e ‘ s f e e t a g a i n s t o u r s g o .

W i t h i n t h e r e g i o n s o f t h e a i r ,

50 C o m p a s s e d a b o u t w i t h h e a v e n s f a i r ,

G r e a t t r a c t s o f l a n d t h e r e m a y b e f o u n d

E n r i c h e d w i t h f i e l d s a n d f e r t i l e g r o u n d ;

W h e r e m a n y n u m e r o u s h o s t s

In t h o s e far distant c o a s t s ,
55 F o r other great a n d glorious e n d s
Inhabit, my yet u n k n o w n friends.
O ye that s t a n d u p o n the brink,
W h o m I so near me t h r o u g h the chink
W i t h w o n d e r see: what f a c e s there,
60 W h o s e feet, w h o s e bodies, do ye wear?
I my c o m p a n i o n s s e e
In you, a n o t h e r m e .
T h e y s e e m e d others, but are we;
O u r s e c o n d selves t h e s e s h a d o w s be.
65 L o o k h o w far off those lower skies
E x t e n d themselves! s c a r c e with m i n e eyes
I c a n t h e m reach. O ye my friends,
W h a t secret borders o n those e n d s ?
Are lofty h e a v e n s hurled
70 ‘ B o u t your inferior world?
Are yet the representatives
Of other p e o p l e s ‘ distant lives?
Of all the p l a y m a t e s which I k n e w
T h a t here I do the i m a g e view
75 In other selves, what c a n i t m e a n ?

4. People living at a diametrically opposite point on the globe (literally, “with the feet opposite”).

536 / E D W A R D T A Y L O R

But that below the purling⁰ stream swirling; murmuring

Some unknown joys there be Laid up in store for me;

To which I shall, when that thin skin
so Is broken, be admitted in.

ca. 1665 1910

E D W A R D TAYLOR

ca. 1642-1729

Meditation 81

I kenning² through astronomy divine

The world's bright battlement,⁰ wherein I spy heavens

A golden path my pencil cannot line,

From that bright throne unto my threshold lie.

5 And while my puzzled thoughts about it pore

I find the bread of life in it at my door.

When that this bird of paradise³ put in

This wicker cage (my corpse)⁴ to tweedle⁰ praise sing

Had pecked the fruit forbad,⁵ and so did fling

io Away its food, and lost its golden days,

It fell into celestial famine sore,

And never could attain a morsel more.

Alas! alas! Poor bird, what wilt thou do?

The creatures' field no food for souls e'er gave.

15 And if thou knock at angels' doors they show

An empty barrel; they no soul bread have.

Alas! Poor bird, the world's white loaf⁶ is done,

And cannot yield thee here the smallest crumb.

In this sad state, God's tender bowels⁷ run

20 Out streams of grace; and he to end all strife

The purest wheat in heaven, his dear, dear son

Grinds, and kneads up into this bread of life.

Which bread of life from heaven down came and stands
Dished on my table up by angels' hands.

1. Based on the words of Christ in John 6.51: "I

3. I.e., the soul.

am the living bread that came down from heaven;

4. In this context, the living body, with an empha-

if any man eat of this bread, he shall live forever;

sis on its mortality.

and the bread that I will give is my flesh, which I

5. A reference to the sin of Adam and Eve, who will give for the life of the world."

ate the fruit that God had forbidden them (Genesis

2. Here, an adjective describing the speaker as

2.17).

"learning," through divine astronomy, how the uni-

6. A reference to God's gift to the Israelites, the verse is constructed; as a noun, "kenning" signifies manna "like coriander seed, white" (Exodus

the distance bounding the range of ordinary vision.

16.31).

A kenning-glass is a small telescope.

7. I.e., God's powers of mercy and compassion.

U P O N W E D L O C K , A N D D E A T H O F C H I L
D R E N / 5 3 7

25 D i d G o d m o u l d u p t h i s b r e a d i n h e a v e n , a n d b a k e ,

W h i c h f r o m h i s t a b l e c a m e , a n d t o t h i n e g o e t h ?

D o t h h e b e s p e a k t h e e t h u s : T h i s s o u l b r e a d t a k e ;

C o m e e a t t h y f i l l o f t h i s t h y G o d ' s w h i t e l o a f ?

It's f o o d too fine for angels, yet c o m e , take

30 A n d eat thy fill: it's heaven's s u g a r cake.

W h a t g r a c e is this k n e a d ° in this loaf? This thing kneaded

S o u l s are but petty things it to a d m i r e .

Ye angels, help. T h i s fill w o u l d to the brim

H e a v e n ' s w h e l m e d - d o w n 8 crystal m e a l bowl, yea a n d higher, 35 This b r e a d of life d r o p p e d in thy
m o u t h , doth cry:

E a t , eat m e , soul, a n d t h o u shalt never die.

1684 1937

Upon Wedlock, and Death of Children⁹

A c u r i o u s knot¹ G o d m a d e in p a r a d i s e ,

A n d drew it out e n a m e l e d 0 neatly fresh. variously colored

It w a s the true love knot, m o r e sweet than spice

A n d set with all the flowers of grace's dress.

5 Its w e d d i n g knot, that ne'er c a n be untied;

No Alexander's sword c a n it divide.²

T h e slips⁰ here planted, gay a n d glorious grow, sprigs

U n l e s s an hellish b r e a t h do singe their p l u m e s .

H e r e primrose, cowslips, roses, lilies blow⁰ bloom

io With violets a n d pinks that void⁰ p e r f u m e s : give off, exude

W h o s e b e a u t e o u s leaves o'er laid with honey-dew,

A n d c h a n t i n g birds chirp out sweet m u s i c true.

W h e n in this knot I p l a n t e d was, my stock³

S o o n knotted, a n d a m a n l y flower out brake.

15 A n d after it my b r a n c h a g a i n did knot;

Brought out another flower its sweet breathe
mate.

One knot gave one t'other the t'other's place;

Whence chuckling smiles fought in each other's face.

But oh! a glorious hand from glory came

20 Guarded with angels, soon did crop this flower

Which almost tore the root up of the same

8. Turned over upon something so as to cover it.

plants: to bud, to begin to develop fruit.

9. Taylor had fourteen children; this poem

2. In Greek mythology, Gordius, king of Phrygia, appears to allude to his first four children: two daughters who died in childhood and two sons who devised a complicated knot to be undone only by the person who was to rule Asia; Alexander the Great cut the knot with a blow of his sword. Jesus lived to maturity.

Great cut the knot with a blow of his sword. Jesus

1. In this poem, Taylor plays on several meanings said, concerning marriage, "what, therefore, God of the word "knot," including the marriage bond; hath joined together, let not man put asunder" an intricately laid out flower bed; the base of a (Matthew 19.6).

woody branch enclosed in the stem from which it

3. Stem, as in cuttings used for grafting; but also arises; figuratively, something intricate, involved, genealogical tree.

or difficult to trace out or explain; as a verb, of

538 / EDWARD TAYLOR

At that unlooked for, dolesome, darksome hour.

In prayer to Christ perfumed it did ascend,

And angels bright did it to heaven tend.

25 But pausing on't, this sweet⁴ perfumed my thought,

Christ would in glory have a flower, choice, prime,

And having choice, choose this my branch forth brought.

Lord take't. I thank thee, thou takest aught of mine,
*nothing

It is my pledge in glory; part of me

BO Is now in it, Lord, glorified with thee.

But praying o'er my branch, my branch did sprout

And bore another manly flower, and gay;

And after that another, sweet, brake out,

The which the former hands soon got^o away. took

35 But oh! the tortures, vomit, screechings, groans,

And six weeks fever would pierce hearts like stones.

Grief o'er doth flow, and nature fault would find

Were not thy will, my spell charm, joy, and gem;

That as I said, I say, take, Lord, they're thine.

40 I piece me a lpass to glory bright in them.

I joy, may I sweet flowers for glory breed,

Whether thou getst them green, or let them seed.

ca. 1682

1937

Upon a Spider Catching a Fly

T h o u sorrow, v e n o m elf:
I s this thy ploy,
T o spin a w e b out of thyself
T o c a t c h a fly?
5 For why?
I s a w a pettish⁰ w a s p peevish, petulant
Fall foul therein,
W h o m yet thy whorl-pins' did not c l a s p
L e s t he s h o u l d fling
i o His sting.
B u t as afraid, r e m o t e
D i d s t s t a n d hereat
A n d with thy little fingers stroke
A n d gently tap
15 His back.

4. I.e., this sweet thought or idea.

the spindle that regulates speed. Here, the spider's

5. Technically, the pin that attaches the spindle legs.

of a spinning wheel to the whorl, the flywheel on

U P O N A S P I D E R C A T C H I N G A F L Y / 5 3 9

Thus gently him didst treat
 Lest he should pet,^o take offense
 And in a froppish,⁰ waspish heat fretful
 Should greatly fret
20 Thy net.
 Whereas the silly fly,
 Caught by its leg

Thou by the throat tookst hastily
And hind^o the head behind
25 Bite dead.
This goes to pot, that not[;]6
Nature doth call.
Strive not above what strength hath got Lest in the brawl
BO Thou fall.
This fray seems thus to us.
Hell's spider gets
His entrails spun to whip-cords⁷ thus,
And wove to nets
35 And sets.
To tangle Adam's race
In's^o strategems in his
To their destructions, spoiled, made base
By venom things,
40 Damned sins.
But mighty, gracious Lord
Communicate
Thy grace to break the cord, afford
Us glory's gate
45 And state.
We'll nightingale sing like
When perched on high
In glory's cage, thy glory, bright,
And thankfully,
50 For joy.

ca. 1680-82 1939

6. An enigmatic statement, especially because the meaning: “this goes to show (‘pot’ as an old form manuscript supplies no punctuation between “not” of ‘put,’ as in put forward for consideration) that and “Nature.” If punctuation is supplied editorially, what is ‘not nature’ (i.e., the hellish spider) com- pally, one can paraphrase, “This (i.e., the fly) dete- pels or calls.”

riorates, that (i.e., the spider) does not, according

7. Strong cord or binding, like that made of hemp to the law (‘call’) of nature.” Another possible or catgut.

540 / A P H R A B E H N

Housewifery

M a k e m e , O L o r d , t h y s p i n n i n g w h e e l c o m p l e t e . 8

T h y h o l y w o r d m y d i s t a f f m a k e f o r m e .

M a k e m i n e a f f e c t i o n s t h y s w i f t f l y e r s n e a t , A n d m a k e m y s o u l t h y h o l y s p o o l t o b e .

5 M y c o n v e r s a t i o n m a k e t o b e t h y r e e l ,

A n d r e e l t h e y a r n t h e r e o n s p u n o n t h y w h e e l .

M a k e m e t h y l o o m t h e n , k n i t t h e r e i n t h i s t w i n e ; A n d m a k e t h y h o l y s p i r i t , L o r d , w i n d q u i l l s . 9

T h e n w e a v e t h e w e b t h y s e l f . T h e y a r n i s f i n e .

10 T h i n e o r d i n a n c e s m a k e m y f u l l i n g m i l l s . 1

Thendyethesameinheavenlycolorschoic
e, Allpinked0withvarnished0flowersof ornamented / luminous

paradise.

Thenclothetherewithmineunderstandin
g, will, Affections, judgment, conscience
, memory, 15 My words, and actions, thatt heirshinemayfillMywayswithgloryandt heglorify.

Thenmineapparelshalldisplaybeforeye ThatIamclothedinholyrobesforglory.

1682-83 1939

APHRA BEHN

1640?—1689

Song

Love Armed

Loveinfantastictriumph2sat,
Whilstbleedingheartсарoundhimflowed
, Forwhomfreshpainshedidcreate, Andstrangetyrannicpowerheshowed;

8. In the first stanza, parts of the spinning wheel

The song ironically foreshadows the Moor's own specified are: the "distaff," which holds the matefate of suffering from unrequited love.

rial to be spun; "flyers," which twist the thread as

2. A formal celebration of conquest in which the

it conducts it to and winds it upon the bobbin;

defeated party in a war was, according to Roman

"spool," on which the thread is wound as it is spun;

tradition, paraded through the streets as a trophy

“reel,” which receives the finished thread.

of victory; a popular Renaissance masque (a court

9. “Quills” are the spools of a looming machine.

entertainment that included dancing, song, drama,

1. In the “fulling mills,” the cloth is “fulled,” or and spectacle) was the Triumph of Cupid, in which milled, by being pressed between rollers and the Roman god of erotic love displays his spoils;

cleansed with soap or fuller’s earth.

the scene in this poem is reminiscent of the

1. This lyric, one of Behn’s most popular, was first masque of Cupid depicted in Edmund Spenser’s

published at the beginning of her play Abdelazar,

The Faerie Queene, in which Amoret appears or the Moor’s Revenge. The song arouses the heroic carrying her own heart, steeped in blood, “in silver villain Abdelazar to action and seems initially to basin layd, / Quite through transfixed with a describe the emotional condition of the queen who deadly dart” (3.12.21.2-3). Cf. also Mary Wroth, illicitly loves him—and whom he secretly scorns.

Pamphilia to Amphilanthus, sonnet 1 (p. 347).

T H E D I S A P P O I N T M E N T / 5 4 1

5 F r o m t h y b r i g h t e y e s h e t o o k h i s f i r e,

W h i c h r o u n d a b o u t, i n s p o r t h e h u r l e d;

B u t ‘t w a s f r o m m i n e h e t o o k d e s i r e,

E n o u g h t o u n d o t h e a m o r o u s w o r l d.

F r o m m e h e t o o k h i s s i g h s a n d t e a r s,

10 F r o m thee his pride a n d cruelty;
F r o m me his l a n g u i s h m e n t s and fears,
A n d every killing dart f r o m thee;
T h u s thou a n d I, the G o d have armed,
A n d set him up a deity;
15 B u t my poor heart alone is h a r m e d ,
W h i l s t thine the victor is, and free.

1677

The Disappointment³

i

O n e day the a m o r o u s Lysander,⁴
By an impatient p a s s i o n swayed,
S u r p r i s e d fair Cloris,⁵ that loved maid,
W h o could d e f e n d her self no longer.
5 A l l things did with his love conspire;
T h e gilded planet of the day,⁶
In his gay chariot drawn by fire,
W a s n o w d e s c e n d i n g to the sea,
A n d left no light to guide the world,
10 B u t what f r o m Cloris' brighter eyes was hurled.

II

In a lone thicket m a d e for love,
Silent as yielding maids' consent,
S h e with a c h a r m i n g l a n g u i s h m e n t ,
Permits his force, yet gently strove;⁰ struggled 15 H e r h a n d s his b o s o m softly meet,
B u t not to put him b a c k designed,
Rather to draw em on inclined;

Whilst he lay trembling at her feet,

R e s i s t a n c e ‘tis in vain to show;

20 S h e w a n t s 0 t h e p o w e r t o s a y— Ah ! What d’ye do?7
lacks

3. A free translation of parts of a French poem

4. A conventional name for a male lover in pas-about impotence by Jean Bénéch de Cantenac (ca.
toral poetry.

1630—1714), Behn’s poem, like others on this

5. A conventional name for a young woman in pas-topic, harks back to Ovid’s Amores 3.7. Her poem toral poetry.

was originally attributed to John Wilmot, earl of

6. I.e., the sun; according to myth, the god Apollo Rochester, but her speaker adopts a distinctly dif-
drove his chariot, the sun, across the sky daily.

ferent perspective on impotence than Rochester’s

7. The question of whether an alleged victim of speaker does in “The Imperfect Enjoyment” rape had “shown resistance” by crying out was
(p. 551).

important in English trials for rape.

5 4 2 / A P H R A B E H N

ill

Her bright eyes sweet, and yet severe,

Where love and shame confusedly strive,

Fresh vigor to Lysander give;

And breathing faintly in his ear,

25 She cried— Cease, cease—your vain desire,
Or I'll call out—What would you do?
My dearer honor ev'n to you
I cannot, must not give—retire,
Or take this life, whose chiefest part
BO I gave you with the conquest of my heart.

IV

But he as much unused to fear,
As he was capable of love,
The blessed minutes to improve,⁰ employ to advantage
Kisses her mouth, her neck, her hair;
35 Each touch her new desire alarms,
His burning trembling hand he prest
Upon her swelling snowy brest,
While she lay panting in his arms.
All her unguarded beauties lie
40 The spoils and trophies of the enemy.

v

And now without respect or fear,
He seeks the object of his vows,
(His love no modesty allows)
By swift degrees advancing—where 45 His daring hand that altar seized,
Where gods of love do sacrifice:
That awful⁸ throne, that paradise
Where rage is calmed, and anger pleased;
That fountain where delight still flows,
50 And gives the universal world repose.

VI

Her balmy lips encount'ring his,
Their bodies, as their souls, are joined;
Where both in transports unconfined
Extend themselves upon the moss.
55 Cloris half dead and breathless lay;
Her soft eyes cast a humid light,
Such as divides the day and night;
Or falling stars, whose fires decay:
And now no signs of life she shows,
60 But what in short-breathed sighs returns and goes.

8. Awe-inspiring; the word has the sense both of “causing dread” and of “commanding profound respect or reverential fear.”

T H E D I S A P P O I N T M E N T / 5 4 3

He saw how at her length she lay;
He saw her rising bosom bare;
Her loose thin robes, through which appear
A shape designed for love and play;
65 Abandoned by her pride and shame,
She does her softest joys dispense,
Off'ring her virgin-innocence
A victim to love's sacred flame;
While the o'er-ravished shepherd lies 70 Unable to perform the sacrifice.

VIII

Ready to taste a thousand joys,
The too transported hapless swain0 rustic fellow
Found the vast pleasure turned to pain;

Pleasure which too much love destroys:

75 The willing garments by he laid,
And heaven all opened to his view,
Mad to possess, himself he threw
On the defenseless lovely maid.
But Oh what envying gods conspire
so To snatch his power, yet leave him the desire!

IX

Nature's support, (without whose aid
She can no human being give)⁹
It self now wants⁰ the art⁰ to live; lacks / capacity
Faintness its slackened nerves invade:
85 In vain th' enraged youth essayed⁰ tried
To call its fleeting vigor back,
No motion 'twill from motion take;
Excess of love his love betrayed;
In vain he toils, in vain commands;
90 The insensible¹ fell weeping in his hand.

x

In this so amorous cruel strife,
Where love and fate were too severe,
The poor Lysander in despair
Renounced his reason with his life:
95 Now all the brisk and active fire
That should the nobler part inflame,
Served to increase his rage and shame,
And left no spark for new desire:
Not all her naked charms could move

100 Or calm that rage that had debauched his love.

9. I.e., the aid of “Nature’s support,” without any human.

which Nature (“she”) cannot give life (“being”) to 1. Lacking feeling; also, too small to be noticed.

544 / A P H R A B E H N

Cloris returning from the trance

Which love and soft desire had bred,

Her timorous hand she gently laid

(Or⁰ guided by design or chance) whether

105 Upon that fabulous Priapus,²

That potent god, as poets feign;

But never did young shepherdess,

Gath’ring of fern upon the plain,

More nimbly draw her fingers back,

110 Finding beneath the verdant leaves a snake;

XII

Than Cloris her fair hand withdrew,

Finding that god of her desires

Disarmed of all his awful fires,

And cold as flowers bathed in the morning dew.

115 Who can the Nymph’s confusion guess?

The blood forsook the hinder place,

And strewed with blushes all her face,

Which both disdain and shame expressed:

And from Lysander’s arms she fled,

120 Leaving him fainting on the gloomy bed.

XIII

Like lightning through the grove she hies,

Or Daphne from the Delphic God,³
No print upon the grassy road
She leaves, t' instruct pursuing eyes.
125 The wind that wantoned in her hair,
And with her ruffled garments played,
Discovered in the flying maid
All that the gods e'er made, if fair.
So Venus, when her love was slain,
130 With fear and haste flew o'er the fatal plain.⁴

XIV

The Nymph's resentments none but I
Can well imagine or condole:
But none can guess Lysander's soul,
But⁰ those who swayed his destiny. except 135 His silent griefs swell up to storms,
And not one god his fury spares;

2. A god of fertility often represented with groin from her father, a river god, and was turned into a grotesquely enlarged genitals; here, a euphemism for laurel.

penis.

4. Adonis, the beloved of Venus, goddess of love,

3. The nymph Daphne spurned the advances of Apollo (‘‘the Delphic God’’), whose oracle was at Delphi. Fleeing from him, she begged assistance was killed by a wild boar during a hunt. Venus rushed to his side, but was unable to save him.

Delphi. Fleeing from him, she begged assistance

S O N G / 5 4 5

He c u r s e d his birth, his fate, his stars;
B u t m o r e the s h e p h e r d e s s ' s c h a r m s ,
W h o s e s o f t b e w i t c h i n g i n f l u e n c e
140 H a d d a m n ' d him to the hell of i m p o t e n c e .

1680

Song

*On Her Loving Two Equally*⁵

S E T B Y C A P T A I N P A C K 6

I

H o w s t r o n g l y d o e s m y p a s s i o n f l o w ,
D i v i d e d e q u a l l y ' t w i x t t w o ?
D a m o n h a d n e ' e r s u b d u ' d m y h e a r t ,
H a d n o t A l e x i s t o o k h i s p a r t ;
5 N o r c o u ' d A l e x i s p o w ' r f u l p r o v e ,
W i t h o u t m y D a m o n ' s a i d , t o g a i n m y l o v e .

II

W h e n m y A l e x i s p r e s e n t i s ,
T h e n I f o r D a m o n s i g h a n d m o u r n ;
B u t w h e n A l e x i s I d o m i s s , i o D a m o n g a i n s n o t h i n g b u t m y s c o r n .
B u t i f i t c h a n c e t h e y b o t h a r e b y ,
F o r b o t h a l i k e I l a n g u i s h , s i g h , a n d d i e .

in

C u r e t h e n , t h o u m i g h t y w i n g e d g o d ,⁷
T h i s r e s t l e s s f e v e r i n m y b l o o d ;
15 O n e g o l d e n - p o i n t e d d a r t t a k e b a c k :
B u t w h i c h , O C u p i d , w i l t t h o u t a k e ?
I f D a m o n ' s , a l l m y h o p e s a r e c r o s t ;

Or that of my Alexis, I am lost.

1684

5. This poem first appeared as “How Strangely

6. Simon Pack (1654—1701), an amateur musician who achieved some fame as a composer of Count (1682). This version of the poem was first songs for plays.

printed in Behn’s volume Poems on Several Occa-

7. Cupid, Roman god of erotic love.

sions (1684).

5 4 6 / A P H R A B E H N

On the Death of the Late Earl of Rochester⁸

M o u r n , m o u r n , y e M u s e s , 9 a l l y o u r l o s s d e p l o r e ,

T h e y o u n g , t h e n o b l e S t r e p h o n 1 i s n o m o r e .

Y e s , y e s , h e f l e d q u i c k a s d e p a r t i n g l i g h t ,

A n d n e ’ e r s h a l l r i s e f r o m D e a t h ‘ s e t e r n a l n i g h t ,

5 S o r i c h a p r i z e t h e S t y g i a n 2 g o d s n e ’ e r b o r e ,

S u c h w i t , s u c h b e a u t y , n e v e r g r a c e d t h e i r s h o r e .

H e w a s b u t l e n t t h i s d u l l e r w o r l d t ’ i m p r o v e

I n a l l t h e c h a r m s o f p o e t r y , a n d l o v e ;

B o t h w e r e h i s g i f t , w h i c h f r e e l y h e b e s t o w e d ,

10 A n d l i k e a g o d , d e a l t t o t h e w o n d ’ r i n g c r o w d .

S c o r n i n g t h e l i t t l e v a n i t y o f f a m e ,

S p i g h t 0 o f h i m s e l f a t t a i n e d a g l o r i o u s n a m e . in spite

B u t o h ! i n v a i n w a s a l l h i s p e e v i s h 3 p r i d e ,

T h e s u n a s s o o n m i g h t h i s v a s t l u s t e r h i d e , is As piercing , pointed , a n d m o r e lastin g bright,

 As s u f f e r i n g no vicissitudes⁴ of night.
 M o u r n , m o u r n , ye M u s e s , all your loss deplore,
 T h e young, the noble S t r e p h o n is no m o r e .
 N o w u n i n s p i r e d u p o n your b a n k s ⁵ we lie,
 20 U n l e s s w h e n we w o u l d m o u r n his elegy;⁶
 His n a m e ‘ s a g e n i u s ⁷ that w o u l d w i t d i s p e n s e
 ,
 A n d give the t h e m e a soul, the words a s e n s e .
 B u t all fine t h o u g h t that ravisht⁰ w h e n it spoke, enraptured
 W i t h the soft youth eternal leave h a s took;
 25 U n c o m m o n wit that did the soul o ‘ e r c o m e ,
 Is buried all in S t r e p h o n ‘ s w o r s h i p p e d t o m b ;
 Satire has lost its art, its sting is gone,
 T h e F o p a n d C u l l y ⁸ n o w m a y b e u n d o n e ;
 T h a t d e a r i n s t r u c t i n g r a g e is n o w a l l a y e d ,
 0 laid down
 30 A n d no s h a r p p e n dares tell ‘em h o w they’ve strayed;
 Bold as a god w a s ev’ry lash he took,
 B u t kind a n d gentle the chastizing stroke.
 M o u r n , m o u r n , ye youths, w h o m f o r t u n e has betrayed, T h e last r e p r o a c h e r of your vice is d e a d .

8. This poem eulogizes John Wilmot, the second disparagement expressing the speaker’s feeling earl of Rochester (1647-1680; see pp. 549-53), a toward, rather than a quality of, the object referred lyric poet, satirist, and leading member of the
 to.

“wits” at the court of King Charles II. Rochester

4. Changes, mutations; particularly an alternation lived a fashionable life in London, reputedly had of opposite or contrasting things or conditions.

several mistresses, and, according to Samuel John-

5. According to mythology, the Muses sang on the son, “blazed out his youth and health in lavish banks of the Hippocrene spring, on Mt. Helicon. voluptuousness.”

6. A funeral song or lament; here, a sorrowful

9. The nine Greek sister goddesses believed to be utterance.

the sources of inspiration for the arts.

7. A spirit with the capacity to influence or inspire

1. A conventional name for a pastoral lover.

the character, conduct, or fortunes of a person.

2. Infernal; Styx was one of the rivers of the under-

8. The fool and dupe (one easily taken in); these world, over which Charon ferried the shades of the types were frequent objects of satire in Restoration dead.

literature.

3. Obstinate; “peevisish” can also be an epithet of

ON THE DEATH OF THE LATE EARL OF ROCHESTER / 547

35 Mourn, all ye beauties, put your Cyprus⁹ on,

The truest swain¹ that e’re adored you’s gone;

Think how he loved, and writ, and sighed, and spoke,

Recall his mien,^o his fashion, and his look. bearing, manner
By what dear arts the soul he did surprise,
40 Soft as his voice, and charming as his eyes.
Bring garlands all of never-dying flowers,
Bedewed with everlasting falling showers;
Fix your fair eyes upon your victim'd slave,
Sent gay and young to his untimely grave.
45 See where the noble swain extended lies,
Too sad a triumph of your victories;²
Adorned with all the graces Heaven e'er lent,
All that was great, soft, lovely, excellent
You've laid into his early monument. J
50 Mourn, mourn, ye beauties, your sad loss deplore,
The young, the charming Strephon is no more.
Mourn, all ye little gods of love,³ whose darts
Have lost their wonted⁰ power of piercing hearts; usual
Lay by the gilded quiver and the bow,
55 The useless toys can do no mischief now,
Those eyes that all your arrows' points inspired,
Those lights⁴ that gave ye fire are now retired,
Cold as his tomb, pale as your mother's doves;⁵
Bewail him then oh all ye little loves,
60 For you the humblest votary⁰ have lost devoted worshiper
That ever your divinities could boast;
Upon your hands your weeping heads decline,
And let your wings encompass round his shrine;
In stead of flowers your broken arrows strow,^o scatter about 65 And at his feet lay the neglected bow.

Mourn, all ye little gods, your loss deplore,
The soft, the charming Strephon is no more.
Large was his fame, but short his glorious race,
Like young Lucretius⁶ lived and died apace.⁰ quickly
70 So early roses fade, so over all
They cast their fragrant scents, then softly fall,
While all the scattered perfumed leaves declare,
How lovely 'twas when whole, how sweet, how fair.
Had he been to the Roman Empire known,

9. A light, transparent material like lawn or crepe, armed with a quiver and bow. His gold-tipped originally from Cyprus; but also, perhaps, with ref-arrows incited his victims to love.

erence to a branch of the cypress tree, regarded as 4. I.e., eyes.

a symbol of mourning.

5. Venus, Cupid's mother and the goddess of love

1. Lover; but also, shepherd, in keeping with the and beauty, was often depicted attended by doves.
pastoral references in the poem.

6. A Roman poet of the early first century B.C.E.,

2. Triumph here refers to the defeated party in a author of De Rerum Natura ("On the Nature of war, who was, according to Roman tradition, Things"), the themes of which included the mor-paraded through the streets as a trophy of victory.
tality of the soul and the pointlessness of the fear

3. Figures of Eros, or Cupid, the god of erotic love, of death; he was said to have committed suicide.

who was often portrayed as a winged child or boy

548 / A P H R A B E H N

75 W h e n g r e a t A u g u s t u s ⁷ f i l l e d t h e p e a c e f u l t h r o n e ;

H a d h e t h e n o b l e w o n d r o u s p o e t s e e n , ⁸

A n d k n o w n h i s g e n i u s , a n d s u r v e y e d h i s m i e n ,

(W h e n w i t s , a n d h e r o e s g r a c e d d i v i n e a b o d e s)

,

H e h a d i n c r e a s e d t h e n u m b e r o f t h e i r g o d s ;

s o T h e r o y a l j u d g e ⁹ h a d t e m p l e s r e a r ' d t o ' s ⁰ n a m e , t o h i s

A n d m a d e h i m a s i m m o r t a l a s h i s f a m e ;

I n l o v e a n d v e r s e h i s O v i d h e ' a d ¹ o u t - d o n e ,

A n d a l l h i s l a u r e l s , a n d h i s J u l i a ² w o n .

M o u r n , m o u r n , u n h a p p y w o r l d , h i s l o s s d e p l o r e ,

85 T h e g r e a t , t h e c h a r m i n g S t r e p h o n i s n o m o r e

.

1685

To the Fair Clarinda, Who Made Love to Me,

Imagined More Than Woman³

F a i r l o v e l y m a i d , o r i f t h a t t i t l e b e

T o o w e a k , t o o f e m i n i n e f o r n o b l e r t h e e ,

P e r m i t a n a m e t h a t m o r e a p p r o a c h e s t r u t h :

A n d l e t m e c a l l t h e e , l o v e l y c h a r m i n g y o u t h . ⁴

5 T h i s l a s t w i l l j u s t i f y m y s o f t c o m p l a i n t , ⁵

W h i l e t h a t m a y s e r v e t o l e s s e n m y c o n s t r a i n t ;

A n d w i t h o u t b l u s h e s I t h e y o u t h p u r s u e ,

W h e n s o m u c h b e a u t e o u s w o m a n i s i n v i e w .

A g a i n s t t h y c h a r m s w e s t r u g g l e b u t i n v a i n
i o W i t h t h y d e l u d i n g f o r m t h o u g i v ' s t u s p a i n , r
W h i l e t h e b r i g h t n y m p h b e t r a y s u s t o t h e s w a i n . 6 J
I n p i t y t o o u r s e x s u r e t h o u w e r t s e n t ,
T h a t w e m i g h t l o v e , a n d y e t b e i n n o c e n t :
F o r s u r e n o c r i m e w i t h t h e e w e c a n c o m m i t ;
15 O r i f w e s h o u l d — t h y f o r m e x c u s e s i t .
F o r w h o , t h a t g a t h e r s f a i r e s t f l o w e r s b e l i e v e s
A s n a k e l i e s h i d b e n e a t h t h e f r a g r a n t l e a v e s .
T h o u b e a u t e o u s w o n d e r o f a d i f f e r e n t k i n d ,
S o f t C l o r i s w i t h t h e d e a r A l e x i s j o i n e d ; 7

7. The first Roman emperor, Augustus ruled from 27 B.C.E. until his death in 14 c.E., a period marked by relative peace, cultural achievement, and civil improvements. Virgil, Horace, and Ovid were banished from Rome by Augustus; “his laurels” refers to Ovid’s poetic achievement.

3. This final phrase can modify either “Clarinda” among the writers of this period.

or “me,” the speaker. Clarinda is a conventional pastoral name.

8. I.e., if “he,” Augustus, had seen Rochester, “the noble wond’rous poet”;

this line begins an “if ... then” construction: if Augustus had known Rochester, then he (Augustus) would have added the

4. Young man; although “youth” can denote something, it is used here in opposition to ester, then he (Augustus) would have added the the title of “maid,” i.e., young woman, in line 1.

English poet to the ranks of the Roman gods, built

5. A lyric poem in which the speaker bewails the temples in his honor, and made him immortal.

misery caused by his or her absent or unresponsive

9. I.e., Augustus.

beloved.

1. He had, i.e., he would have. Ovid is famous for,

6. The nymph and the swain are conventional among other things, his love poems, including the characters of pastoral poetry. The nymph is a

Amoves, purportedly based on his own experiences.

young, beautiful woman; the swain is a young,

Ovid was popular during the Restoration for his wit

male shepherd or rustic.

and sensuality.

7. I.e., she combines features of stock male and

2. The daughter of Augustus, thought to have female pastoral figures.

T H E D I S A B L E D D E B A U C H E E / 5 4 9

20 W h e n e'er the m a n l y part of thee, w o u l d p l e a d

T h o u t e m p t s us with the i m a g e of the m a i d ,

W h i l e we the noblest p a s s i o n s do extend

T h e love to H e r m e s , Aphrodite⁸ the friend.

1688

A Thousand Martyrs⁹

A t h o u s a n d martyrs I have m a d e ,

All sacrificed to my desire;

A t h o u s a n d b e a u t i e s h a v e b e t r a y e d ,
T h a t l a n g u i s h i n r e s i s t l e s s f i r e .
5 T h e u n t a m e d h e a r t t o h a n d I b r o u g h t ,
A n d f i x e d t h e w i l d a n d w a n d e r i n g t h o u g h t .
I n e v e r v o w e d n o r s i g h e d i n v a i n
B u t b o t h , t h o u g h f a l s e , w e r e w e l l r e c e i v e d .
T h e f a i r a r e p l e a s e d t o g i v e u s p a i n ,
i o A n d w h a t t h e y w i s h i s s o o n b e l i e v e d .
A n d t h o u g h I t a l k e d o f w o u n d s a n d s m a r t ,
L o v e ' s p l e a s u r e s o n l y t o u c h e d m y h e a r t .
A l o n e t h e g l o r y a n d t h e s p o i l
I a l w a y s l a u g h i n g b o r e a w a y ;
15 T h e t r i u m p h s , w i t h o u t p a i n o r t o i l ,
W i t h o u t t h e h e l l , t h e h e a v ' n o f j o y .
A n d w h i l e I t h u s a t r a n d o m r o v e
D e s p i s e t h e f o o l s t h a t w h i n e f o r l o v e .

1688

J O H N W I L M O T , E A R L O F R O C H E S T E R

1647-1680

The Disabled Debauchee

A s s o m e b r a v e a d m i r a l , i n f o r m e r w a r
D e p r i v e d o f f o r c e , b u t p r e s s e d w i t h c o u r a g e s t i l l ,
T w o r i v a l f l e e t s a p p e a r i n g f r o m a f a r ,
C r a w l s t o t h e t o p o f a n a d j a c e n t h i l l ;

8. Hermaphroditus was the son of Hermes (Mer-

9. This lyric is from Behn's Lycidus: Or the Lover cury), the messenger god, and Aphrodite (Venus).

in Fashion, a prose work with verse interspersed

Bathing in the fountain of the nymph Salmacis, that translates Le Second Voyage de l'Isle d'Amour whose love he spurned, he merged with her and (1664), by the Abbe Paul Tallemant. This song is became male and female in one body. Behn was introduced by the narrator with the line "Take then described by a contemporary, Daniel Kendricks, as the history of my heart, which I assure, boasts itself belonging to a "third" sex: "ah, more than woman, of the conquests it has made."

more than man she is," he wrote in 1688.

550 / JOHN WILMOT, EARL OF ROCHESTER

5 From whence, with thoughts full of concern, he views
The wise and daring conduct of the fight,
Whilst each bold action to his mind renews
His present glory and his past delight;
From his fierce eyes flashes of fire he throws,
10 As from black clouds when lightning breaks away;
Transported, thinks himself amidst the foes,
And absent, yet enjoys the bloody day;
So, when my days of impotence approach,
And Fm by pox¹ and wine's unlucky chance
15 Forced from the pleasing billows of debauch
On the dull shore of lazy temperance,
My pains at least some respite shall afford
While I behold the battles you maintain
When fleets of glasses sail about the board,⁰ table

20 From whose broadsides² volleys of wit shall rain.
 Nor let the sight of honorable scars,
 Which my too forward valor did procure,
 Frighten new-listed⁰ soldiers from the wars: newly enlisted
 Past joys have more than paid what I endure.
 25 Should any youth (worth being drunk) prove nice,⁰ reluctant, fastidious
 And from his fair inviter meanly shrink,
 ‘Twill please the ghost of my departed vice
 If, at my counsel, he repent and drink.
 Or should some cold-complexioned sot^o forbid, fool
 30 With his dull morals, our bold night-alarms,
 I’ll fire his blood by telling what I did
 When I was strong and able to bear arms.
 I’ll tell of whores attacked, their lords at home;
 Bawds’ quarters beaten up,³ and fortress won;
 35 Windows demolished, watches⁰ overcome; watchmen
 And handsome ills by my contrivance done.
 Nor shall our love-fits, Chloris,⁴ be forgot,
 When each the well-looking linkboy⁵ strove t’ enjoy,
 And the best kiss was the deciding lot
 40 Whether the boy fucked you, or I the boy.
 With tales like these I will such thoughts inspire
 As to important mischief shall incline:

1. Venereal disease often left extensive scarring.
4. A conventional poetic name for a young
2. The table’s sides; ship’s artillery; sheets on woman.

which satirical verses were printed.

5. A boy employed to carry a torch to light the way

3. Madams' "houses" aroused, disturbed.

for people in the streets.

THE IMPERFECT ENJOYMENT / 551

I'll make him long some ancient church to fire,

And fear no lewdness he's called to by wine.

45 Thus, statesmanlike, I'll saucily impose,

And safe from action, valiantly advise;

Sheltered in impotence, urge you to blows,

And being good for nothing else, be wise.

1680

The Imperfect Enjoyment⁶

Naked she lay, clasped in my longing arms,

I filled with love, and she all over charms;

Both equally inspired with eager fire,

Melting through kindness, flaming in desire.

5 With arms, legs, lips close clinging to embrace,

She clips⁰ me to her breast, and sucks me to her face. hugs

Her nimble tongue, love's lesser lightning, played

Within my mouth, and to my thoughts conveyed

Swift orders that I should prepare to throw

10 The all-dissolving thunderbolt below.

My fluttering soul, sprung with the pointed kiss,

Hangs hovering o'er her balmy brinks of bliss.

But whilst her busy hand would guide that part

Which should convey my soul up to her heart,

15 In liquid raptures I dissolve all o'er,

Melt into sperm, and spend at every pore.
A touch from any part of her had done't:
Her hand, her foot, her very look's a cunt.
Smiling, she chides in a kind murmuring noise,
20 And from her body wipes the clammy joys,
When, with a thousand kisses wandering o'er
My panting bosom, "Is there then no more?"
She cries. "All this to love and rapture's due;
Must we not pay a debt to pleasure too?"
25 But I, the most forlorn, lost man alive,
To show my wished obedience vainly strive:
I sigh, alas! and kiss, but cannot swive.° screw
Eager desires confound my first intent,
Succeeding shame does more success prevent,
30 And rage at last confirms me impotent.
Ev'n her fair hand, which might bid heat return
To frozen age, and make cold hermits burn,
Applied to my dead cinder,⁷ warms no more
Than fire to ashes could past flames restore.
35 Trembling, confused, despairing, limber,⁰ dry, slack, limp

6. Like Ovid (Amores 3.7) and several scenario that includes a "nymph's" point of view, seventeenth-century poets, both French and see Aphra Behn, "The Disappointment" (p. 541).
English, Rochester here explores a scene of erotic
7. Partly burned coal that, unlike ashes, could be failure from the man's point of view. For a similar reignited and reused a number of times.

552 / JOHN WILMOT, EARL OF ROCHESTER

A wishing, weak, unmoving lump I lie.

This dart of love, whose piercing point, oft tried,

With virgin blood ten thousand maids has dyed,

Which nature still directed with such art

40 That it through every cun tre a ch e d every h e a r t —

Stiffly resolved, 'twould carelessly invade

W o m a n o r m a n , n o r o u g h t 0 i t s f u r y s t a y e d : 0 anything / kept hack

W h e r e ' e r i t p i e r c e d , a c u n t i t f o u n d o r m a d e —

N o w l a n g u i d l i e s i n t h i s u n h a p p y h o u r ,

45 S h r u n k u p a n d s a p l e s s l i k e a w i t h e r e d f l o w e r .

T h o u t r e a c h e r o u s , b a s e d e s e r t e r o f m y f l a m e
, F a l s e t o m y p a s s i o n , f a t a l t o m y f a m e ,

T h r o u g h w h a t m i s t a k e n m a g i c d o s t t h o u p r o v e

S o t r u e t o l e w d n e s s , s o u n t r u e t o l o v e ?

50 W h a t o y s t e r - c i n d e r - b e g g a r - c o m m o n w h o r e 8

Didst thou e'er fail in all thy life before?

W h e n v i c e , d i s e a s e , a n d s c a n d a l l e a d t h e w a y ,

W i t h w h a t o f f i c i o u s h a s t e d o e s t t h o u o b e y !

L i k e a r u d e , 0 r o a r i n g h e c t o r 0 i n t h e s t r e e t s blustery / bully

55 W h o s c u f f l e s , c u f f s , a n d j u s t l e s a l l h e m e e t s , B u t i f h i s k i n g o r c o u n t r y c l a i m h i s a i d ,

T h e r a k e h e l l v i l l a i n s h r i n k s a n d h i d e s h i s h e a d ;

E v ' n s o t h y b r u t a l v a l o r i s d i s p l a y e d ,

B r e a k s every strew,⁹ does e a c h small whore invade, 60 B u t w h e n great L o v e the onset does c o m m a n d ,
 B a s e recreant to thy prince, thou dar'st not stand.
 Worst part of m e , a n d h e n c e f o r t h h a t e d m o s t ,
 T h r o u g h all the town a c o m m o n f u c k i n g post,
 O n w h o m e a c h w h o r e relieves her tingling c u n t
 65 A s h o g s on gates do rub t h e m s e l v e s a n d grunt,
 M a y s t thou to ravenous c h a n c r e s ⁰ be a prey,
venereal ulcers
 Or in c o n s u m i n g w e e p i n g s w a s t e away;
 M a y strangury a n d stone¹ they days attend;
 May'st thou never piss, w h o didst r e f u s e to s p e n d
 70 W h e n all my joys did on f a l s e thee d e p e n d .
 A n d m a y t e n t h o u s a n d abler pricks agree
 To do the w r o n g e d C o r i n n a right for thee.

1680

The Mock Song²

I swive⁰ as well as others do, screw
 I'm young, not yet d e f o r m e d ,
 My tender heart, sincere, a n d true,
 D e s e r v e s not to be s c o r n e d .

8. I.e., what oyster-woman, cinder-woman, nation difficult. Weepings: the flow or discharge of beggar-woman, or common whore?
 humors from the body.

9. Enters forcefully every brothel.

2. This poem is a burlesque of a song probably

1. Usually fatal diseases in men that rendered uri-composed by Rochester's enemy Sir Carr Scroope.

A S O N G O F A Y O U N G L A D Y T O H E R A N C I E
N T L O V E R / 5 5 3

5 W h y Phyllis then, why will you swive,

W i t h forty lovers m o r e ?

C a n I (said she) with N a t u r e strive,

Alas I a m , alas I am a whore.

W e r e all my body larded³ o'er,

10 W i t h darts of love, so thick,

T h a t you might find in ev'ry pore,

A well s t u c k s t a n d i n g prick;

Whilst yet my eyes a l o n e w e r e free,

M y heart, w o u l d never d o u b t ,

15 In a m ' r o u s rage, a n d ecstasy,

To wish t h o s e eyes, to wish t h o s e eyes f u c k e d out.

1680

A Song of a Young Lady to Her Ancient Lover

A n c i e n t person, for w h o m I

All the flattering youth defy,

L o n g be it ere thou grow old,

Aching, shaking, crazy, cold;

5 B u t still c o n t i n u e as thou art,

Ancient p e r s o n of my heart.

On thy withered lips a n d dry,

W h i c h like barren furrows lie,

B r o o d i n g kisses I will p o u r

10 Shall thy y o u t h f u l [heat]⁴ restore

(S u c h kind showers in a u t u m n fall,

A n d a s e c o n d spring recall);
N o r f r o m thee will ever part,
A n c i e n t p e r s o n of my heart.
15 T h y nobler part, w h i c h but to n a m e
I n o u r s e x w o u l d b e c o u n t e d s h a m e ,
B y a g e ' s f r o z e n g r a s p p o s s e s s e d ,
F r o m [his] i c e s h a l l b e r e l e a s e d ,
A n d s o o t h e d b y m y r e v i v i n g h a n d ,
20 I n f o r m e r w a r m t h a n d v i g o r s t a n d .
A l l a l o v e r ' s w i s h c a n r e a c h
F o r t h y j o y m y l o v e s h a l l t e a c h ,
A n d f o r t h e y p l e a s u r e s h a l l i m p r o v e
A l l t h a t a r t c a n a d d t o l o v e .

25 Y e t s t i l l I l o v e t h e e w i t h o u t a r t ,
A n c i e n t p e r s o n o f m y h e a r t .

1 6 9 1

3. Smeared with lard, greased.

4. Modern editorial conjecture; the posthumously printed text reads "heart."

5 5 4

A N N E K I L L I G R E W

1660-1685

Alexandreis1

I sing the man that never equal knew,

Whose mighty arms all Asia did subdue,²

Whose conquests through the spacious world do ring,

That city-raser,³ king-destroying king,
5 Who o'er the warlike Macedons did reign,
And worthily the name of Great did gain.
This is the prince (if fame you will believe,
To ancient story any credit give.)
Who when the globe of Earth he had subdued,
10 With tears the easy victory pursued;
Because that no more worlds there were to win,
No further scene to act his glories in.
Ah that some pitying Muse⁴ would now inspire
My frozen style with a poetic fire,
15 And raptures worthy of his matchless fame,
Whose deeds I sing, whose never fading name
Long as the world shall fresh and deathless last,
No less to future ages, than⁰ the past. than
Great my presumption is, I must confess,
20 But if I thrive, my glory's ne'er the less;
Nor will it from his conquests derogate⁰ detract
A female pen his acts did celebrate.
If thou O Muse wilt thy assistance give,
Such as made Naso and great Maro⁵ live,
25 With him whom Melas⁶ fertile banks did bear,
Live, though their bodies dust and ashes are;
Whose laurels⁷ were not fresher, than their fame
Is now, and will for ever be the same.
If the like favor thou wilt grant to me,
30 O Queen of Verse,⁸ I'll not ungrateful be,
My choicest hours to thee I'll dedicate,

‘Tis thou shalt rule, ‘tis thou shalt be my fate.

1. This unfinished poem was an early work of the Asia Minor, Persia, and the Punjab), Alexander young poet, who apparently (according to the note, destroyed many kings.

reprinted here, at the end of the poem in the vol-

4. The Muses were nine Greek sister goddesses ume of collected works published after her death)

believed to be the sources of inspiration for the felt herself unequal to the task of completing an arts. The invocation of the Muse, requesting divine epic poem about Alexander the Great. Alexander aid in the writing of the poem, is an epic conven-(356—323 B.C.E.), considered one of the greatest
tion.

military leaders of all time, became king of Mace-

5. Publius Vergilius Maro (70-19 B.C.E.) is the full don in 336 B.C.E. and succeeded during his short name of the Roman poet Virgil; Publius Ovidius life in conquering Egypt and most of Southeast Naso (43 B.C.E.-17? c.E.) is the full name of the Asia.

Roman poet Ovid, author of the Metamorphoses.

2. Cf. the beginning of Virgil’s great epic, the

6. The ancient Greek poet Homer, author of the Aeneid: “Of arms and the man I sing ... ”

Iliad and the Odyssey, was said to have been born

3. One who razes, or obliterates, cities. In 335 and lived by the Melas River.

B.C.E., Thebes, a Greek state, revolted. Alexander

7. The laurel was a symbol of poetic achievement.

put down the revolt and destroyed the city. In the

8. I.e., the Muse of epic poetry, Calliope.

course of his conquests (of Phoenicia, Egypt, Tyre,

A L E X A N D R E I S / 5 5 5

But if coy goddess thou shalt this deny,

And from my humble suit disdain^g fly,

35 I'll stoop and beg no more, since I know this,

Writing of him, I cannot write amiss:

His lofty deeds will raise each feeble line,

And god-like acts will make my verse divine.

'Twas at the time the golden sun doth rise,

40 And with his beams enlight^s the azure skies,

When lo a troop in silver arms drew near,

The glorious sun did nere^o so bright appear; never

Dire⁹ scarlet plumes adorned their haughty crests,⁰ helmets

And crescent shields did shade their shining breasts;

45 Down from their shoulders hung a panther's hide,

A bow and quiver rattled by their side;

Their hands a knotty well tried spear did bear,

Jocund⁰ they seemed, and quite devoid of fear. merry

These warlike virgins were, that do reside

50 Near Thermodon's smooth banks¹ and verdant⁰ side, green

The plains of Themiscyre² their birth do boast,

Thalestris³ now did head the beauteous host;

She emulating that illustrious dame,

Who to the aid of Troy and Priam came,⁴
55 And her who the Retulian prince did aid,⁵
Though dearly both for their assistance paid.
But fear she scorned, nor the like fate did dread,
Her host she often to the field had led,
As oft in triumph had returned again,
60 Glory she only sought for all her pain.
This martial queen⁶ had heard how loudly fame,
Echoed our conqueror's redoubted⁰ name, respected; dreaded
Her soul his conduct and his courage fired,
To see the hero she so much admired;
65 And to Hyrcania for this cause she went,
Where Alexander (wholly then intent
On triumphs⁷ and such military sport)
At truce with war held both his camp and court.
And while before the town she did attend⁰ await 70 Her messengers return, she saw ascend
A cloud of dust, that covered all the sky,
And still at every pause there stroke⁰ her eye. struck
The interrupted beams of burnished gold,
9. Terrible, in the sense of inspiring terror or fear the death of the Trojan hero Hector, with the Troin an onlooker.
jans all but defeated. She and a small band of Ama-
1. The Amazons were a tribe of warrior women zons fight valiantly against the Greeks, killing many believed to live on the plain of the Thermodon Greek heroes, before she is killed by Achilles, who River, which sprang from the Amazonian Moun-is so impressed by her beauty and valor that he tains and emptied into the Black Sea.

laments her death and prevents the Greeks from

2. The capital city of the Amazons.

desecrating her body. Priam was the king of Troy.

3. A queen of the Amazons who desired to have a

5. In the Aeneid, Virgil records the bravery of the daughter sired by Alexander. Legend has it that she warrior queen Camilla, who fought with Turnus, consorted with him for thirteen days at Hyrcania, prince of the Rutulians, against Aeneas and the but died shortly after returning to her own country.

Trojans. She is killed in the battle.

4. Penthesilea, an earlier queen of the Amazons,

6. I.e., Thalestris.

fought in the Trojan War against the Greeks. In

7. Formal celebrations of conquests.

most versions of her story, she arrives in Troy after

5 5 6 / A N N E F I N C H , C O U N T E S S O F W I N C H I
L S E A

As dust the splendor hid, or did unfold;

75 Loud neighings of the steeds, and trumpets' sound

Filled all the air, and echoed from the ground:

The gallant Greeks with a brisk march drew near,

And their great chief did at their head appear.

And now come up to th' Amazonian band,

so They made a halt and a respectful stand:

And both the troops (with like amazement strook⁰) struck
Did each on other with deep silence look.

Th'heroic queen (whose high pretence⁰ to war aspiration

Cancelled the bashful laws and nicer bar

85 Of modesty,⁸ which did her sex restrain)

First boldly did advance before her train,

And thus she spake. All but a god in name,

And that a debt time owes unto thy fame.

This was the first essay^o of this young lady in attempt

•poetry, hut finding the task she had undertaken hard, she laid it hy till practice and more time should make her equal to so great a work.

1686

A N N E F I N C H , C O U N T E S S O F W I N C H I L S E A

1661-1720

The Introduction¹

Did I, my lines intend for public view,

How many censures, would their faults pursue,

Some would, because such words they do affect,

Cry they're insipid, empty, uncorrect.

5 And many have attained, dull and untaught,

The name of wit only by finding fault.

True judges might condemn their want⁰ of wit, lack

And all might say, they're by a woman writ.

Alas! a woman that attempts the pen,

io Such an intruder on the rights of men,

Such a presumptuous creature, is esteemed,

The fault can by no virtue be redeemed.

They tell us we mistake our sex and way;

Good breeding, fashion, dancing, dressing, play

15 Are the accomplishments we should desire;

8. I.e., the queen's martial aims cancel (or super-indeed, many of her works remained in manuscript cede) the laws that usually "restrain" women by at her death, or were first printed anonymously.

requiring them to be bashful and to adhere to the

She did, however, allow a collection of poems to stricter limits ("nicer bar") of modesty.

be published in 1713. With the exception of "The

1. Most critics think this poem was written early

Introduction," our ordering follows dates of first in Finch's poetic career, probably as a preface to printing and, for poems first printed in her 1713

an imagined book of poems. For reasons explained book, the order given there.

in the text, Finch did not publish this poem;

THE INTRODUCTION / 557

To write, or read, or think, or to inquire

Would cloud our beauty, and exhaust our time,

And interrupt the conquests of our prime;

Whilst the dull manage of a servile house

20 Is held by some our outmost⁰ art, and use. utmost

Sure 'twas not ever thus, nor are we told

Fables, of women that excelled of old;

To whom, by the diffusive hand of Heaven

Some share of wit, and poetry was given.
25 On that glad day, on which the Ark returned,²
The holy pledge, for which the land had mourned,
The joyful tribes, attend it on the way,
The Levites do the sacred charge convey,
Whilst various instruments, before it play;
30 Here, holy virgins in the concert join
The louder notes, to soften, and refine,
And with alternate verse³ complete the hymn divine.
Lo! the young Poet,⁴ after God's own heart,
By Him inspired, and taught the Muses' ⁵ art,
35 Returned from conquest, a bright chorus meets,
That sing his slain ten thousand in the streets.
In such loud numbers⁶ they his acts declare,
Proclaim the wonders of his early war,
That Saul upon the vast applause does frown,
40 And feels its mighty thunder shake the crown.
What, can the threatened judgment now prolong?
Half of the kingdom is already gone;
The fairest half, whose influence guides the rest,
Have David's empire o'er their hearts confessed.
45 A woman⁷ here, leads fainting Israel on,
She fights, she wins, she triumphs with a song,
Devout, majestic, for the subject fit,
And far above her arms,⁸ exalts her wit;
Then, to the peaceful, shady palm withdraws,
50 And rules the rescued nation, with her laws.
How are we fall'n, fall'n by mistaken rules?

And education's, more than nature's fools,

Debarred from all improvements of the mind,

2. The ark of the Covenant was captured by the women of the city sang and said, "Saul hath slain Philistines, but God forced them to return it by his thousands, and David his ten thousands" (1

Samuel 18.7). The prophet Samuel had earlier pre-not allow the ark to be returned to Jerusalem, dicted Saul's downfall and replacement by "a because of the transgressions of the Israelites, and neighbor of thine, who is better than thou" (1 Sam-

during its absence "all the house of Israel lamented uel 15.28), and the women's praise initiated Saul's after the Lord" (1 Samuel 7.2). The ark was jealous rage against David.

returned to Jerusalem twenty years later, during

5. The nine Greek sister goddesses believed to be the reign of David. The Levites (the tribe of priests) sources of inspiration for the arts.

were assigned to convey it to the city, and it was

6. Measures of music and verse.

accompanied by a procession with much singing

7. Deborah, the fourth judge of Israel (before and music (1 Chronicles 15.25—28).

Israel had kings, judges administered the laws

3. A series of couplets. The choir of virgins given by God; see Judges 4.5). W h e n the Israelites (Finch's invention) chants every other line, in were enslaved by the Canaanites, Deborah urged response, as in some of the Psalms.

her fellow judge, Barak, to wage war against the
4. I.e., David, second king of Israel, who wrote enslavers and accompanied him to the site of the many of the Psalms. Before he became king, dur-battle. After their victory, Deborah and Barak ing the reign of Saul, David won a great battle over wrote a song of praise (Judges 5).

the Philistines. Upon returning to Jerusalem, the
8. I.e., her military feats.

5 5 8 / A N N E F I N C H , C O U N T E S S O F W I N C H I
L S E A

A n d t o b e d u l l , e x p e c t e d a n d d e s i g n e d ; 0 appointed, intended 55 A n d i f s o m e o n e w o u l d s o a r a b o v e t h e r e s t ,

W i t h w a r m e r f a n c y , a n d a m b i t i o n p r e s s e d
, S o s t r o n g t h ' o p p o s i n g f a c t i o n s t i l l a p p e a r s , T h e h o p e s t o t h r i v e c a n n e ' e r o u t w e i g h t h e f e a r s ,

B e c a u t i o n e d t h e n m y M u s e , a n d s t i l l 9 r e t i r e d ;
60 N o r b e d e s p i s e d , a i m i n g t o b e a d m i r e d ;

C o n s c i o u s o f w a n t s , s t i l l w i t h c o n t r a c t e d w i n g , T o s o m e f e w f r i e n d s , a n d t o t h y s o r r o w s s i n g ; F o r g r o v e s o f l a u r e l 1 t h o u w e r t n e v e r m e a n t
;

B e d a r k e n o u g h t h y s h a d e s , a n d b e t h o u t h e r e c o n t e n t .

1689? 1903

The Spleen²

*A Pindaric Poem*³

What art thou, Spleen, which ev'ry thing dost ape?

Thou Proteus⁴ to a abused mankind,
Whom ever yet thy real cause could find,
Or fix thee to remain in one continued shape
.

5 Still varying thy perplexing form,
Now a Dead Sea thou'lt represent,
A calm of Stupid⁰ discontent, unfeeling, unreasoning Then, dashing on the rocks wilt rage in to a storm.

Tremblings sometimes thou dost appear,
in Dissolved into a panic fear;
On sleep intruding dost thy shadows spread,
Thy gloomy terrors round the silent bed,
And crowd with boding⁰ dreams the melancholy head; forboding Or, when the midnight hour is told,

15 And drooping lids thou still dost waking hold,
Thy fond delusions cheat⁰ the eyes, deceive
Before the mantic⁰ spectres dance, antique;
bizarre Unusual fires their pointed heads advance,
ce,

And airy phantoms rise.

20 Such was the monstrous vision seen,
When Brutus⁶ (now beneath his cares
opprest,

9. Here and in line 61, may mean both “always”
“spleen” and was praised by at least one contemand “motionless.”

porary physician for this accurate portrayal of the

1. The laurel was a symbol of poetic achievement.
symptoms of the disease.

2. A mysterious illness, believed to be connected

3. The Greek poet Pindar (ca. 522-ca. 438 B.C.E.)

with the organ of the same name, the effects of

was an early practitioner of the ode form. An ode which seemed to be depression, hypochondria, illis a lyric poem, usually with a serious subject and temper, melancholy, and a variety of other nervous

a dignified style.

disorders. Although considered largely a disease of

4. In Greek mythology, a shape-changing sea god.

women, it sometimes afflicted men. It often

5. The Dead Sea, located on the border between affected lovers and poets, and other eighteenth-

Israel and Jordan, is a salt lake, called “dead”

century poets examined it, notably Alexander

because it contains no visible plant or animal life.

Pope, in The Rape of the Lock (see p. 604), and

6. Before the Battle of Philippi (42 B.C.E.), the

Matthew Green, in The Spleen (see p. 645). In this Roman politician Brutus saw the ghost of Caesar, poem, Finch distinguishes between those who pre-whom he had assassinated. Brutus was defeated at tend to be affected by the disorder and those who

Philippi by Marc Anthony and Octavius, Caesar’s really do suffer from it. Finch suffered from nephew and eventual successor.

T H E S P L E E N / 5 5 9

And all Rome's fortunes rolling in his breast,

Before Philippi's latest field,

Before his fate did to Octavius lead)

25 Was vanquished by the Spleen.

Falsely, the mortal part we blame

Of our depressed, and pond'rous⁰ frame, heavy, unwieldy

Which, till the first degrading sin

Let thee,^o its dull attendant, in, spleen

30 Still with the other did comply,⁷

Nor clogged the active soul, disposed to fly,

And range the mansions of its native sky.

Nor, whilst in his own heaven he dwelt,

Whilst Man his paradise possessed,

35 His fertile Garden in the fragrant East,

And all united odors smelled,

No armed sweets,⁸ until thy reign,

Could shock the sense, or in the face

A flushed, unhandsome color place.

40 Now the jonquil⁰ o'ercomes the feeble brain; daffodil

We faint beneath the aromatic pain,

Till some offensive scent thy pow'rs appease,

And pleasure we resign⁰ for short and nauseous ease. give up

In ev'ry one thou dost possess,

45 New are thy motions,⁰ and thy dress: effects

Now in some grove a list'ning friend

Thy false suggestions must attend,

Thy whispered griefs, thy fancied sorrows hear,
 Breathed in a sigh, and witnessed⁰ by a tear; confirmed
 50 Whilst in the light and vulgar crowd,⁹
 Thy slaves, more clamorous and loud,
 By laughters unprovoked, thy influence too confess.
 In the imperious wife thou vapors¹ art,
 Which from o'erheated passions rise
 55 In clouds to the attractive² brain,
 Until descending thence again,
 Through the o'er-cast and show'ring eyes,
 Upon her husband's softened heart,
 He the disputed point must yield,
 60 Something resign of the contested field;
 Till lordly Man, born to imperial sway,
 Compounds⁰ for peace, to make that right away, bargains
 And Woman, arm'd with Spleen, does servilely obey.

7. I.e., before Adam and Eve's original sin let symptoms of "spleen," such as the two examples spleen into the human body, it (our "frame," denoting that follow: the "imperious wife" of line 53 and the uncorrupted, immortal body) complied "fool" of line 64.

with the soul ("the other"). Finch here revises traditional. A disorder associated with "spleen" and suppositional stories that see the mortal body as a clog posed to be caused by exhalations within the (hindrance) to the soul. organs of the body and characterized by depres-

8. Finch seems to imply that sweet odors bring on sion, hypochondria, hysteria, and other nervous the disorder and that foul odors can “appease” or disorders.

lessen the symptoms.

2. In the medical sense of drawing something (the

9. A description of those (the frivolous and pre“passions,” in this case) to itself.

tentious or uncultivated) who counterfeit the

558 / ANNE FINCH, COUNTESS OF WINCHIL
LSEA

The fool, to imitate the wits,

65 Complains of thy pretended fits,

And dullness, born with him, would lay

Upon thy accidental sway;

Because, sometimes, thou dost presume

Into the ablest heads to come:

70 That, often, men of thoughts refined,

Impatient to unequal sense,

Such slow returns, where they so much dispen se, Retiring from the crowd, are to thy shades in clined. 4

O'er me alas! thou dost too much prevail:

75 I feel thy force, whilst I against thee rail;

I feel my verse decay, and my cramped numbe rs fail. verses, poetry Through thy black jaundic
e I all objects see, As dark and terrible as thee,

My lines decried, and my employment thou gh t so An useless folly, or presumptuous fault:

Whilst in the Muses' paths I stray,

W h i l s t i n t h e i r g r o v e s , a n d b y t h e i r s e c r e t s p r i n g s
M y h a n d d e l i g h t s t o t r a c e 0 u n u s u a l t h i n g s , w r i t e A n d d e v i a t e s f r o m t h e k n o w n a n d c o m m o n w a y ; 8 5 N o r w i l l i n f a d i n g s i l k s c o m p o s e
F a i n t l y t h ' i n i m i t a b l e r o s e ,
F i l l u p a n i l l - d r a w n b i r d , o r p a i n t o n g l a s s 6
T h e s o v ' r e i g n ' s b l u r r e d a n d u n d i s t i n g u i s h e d f a c e , T h e t h r e a t ' n i n g a n g e l , a n d t h e s p e a k i n g a s s . 7
9 0 P a t r o n t h o u a r t t o e v ' r y g r o s s 0 a b u s e , f l a g r a n t T h e s u l l e n h u s b a n d ' s f e i g n e d e x c u s e , W h e n t h e i l l h u m o r w i t h h i s w i f e h e s p e n d s , 0
e x h a u s t s A n d b e a r s r e c r u i t e d 0 w i t , a n d s p i r i t s 0 t o h i s s t r e n g t h e n e d / c h e e r f u l n e s s f r i e n d s .
T h e s o n o f B a c c h u s 8 p l e a d s t h y p o w ' r ,
9 5 A s t o t h e g l a s s h e S t i l l 0 r e p a i r s , 0 c o n t i n u a l l y / r e t u r n s t o
P r e t e n d s b u t t o r e m o v e t h y c a r e s ,
S n a t c h f r o m t h y s h a d e s o n e g a y a n d s m i l i n g
h o u r , A n d d r o w n t h y k i n g d o m i n a p u r p l e s h o w ' r . 9
W h e n t h e C o q u e t t e , 1 w h o m e v ' r y f o o l a d m i r e s , 1 0 0 W o u l d i n v a r i e t y b e f a i r ,

3. I.e., would blame.

lical story of the prophet Balaam and his ass. Intent

4. According to Robert Burton's Anatomy of Mel- ancholy (1621), love of learning could be a cause commands of God until he is rebuked by his ass and of "spleen."

threatened by an angel of the Lord (Numbers

5. The nine Greek sister goddesses believed to be 22.21-25).

sources of inspiration for the arts. Originally they

8. Bacchus is the Roman god of wine, sometimes were nymphs of wells or springs, which inspired called the “drunken god”; thus “Son of Bacchus” those who drank from them and near which they is one who indulges or overindulges in drink.

were worshipped.

9. I.e., in wine or drink.

6. Acceptable artistic pursuits for women were

1. A flirtatious woman who uses arts to gain the embroidery, painting, and tapestry making. Inimi- admiration and affection of men for the gratifica-table: surpassing or defying imitation.

tion of vanity or desire for conquest. A type much

7. The subjects of such art (see previous note): the commented on and satirized during the Restora“sov’ reign” at this time would have been William
tion.

of Orange (1650-1702); line 89 refers to the bib-

T H E S P L E E N / 5 6 1

And, changing hastily the scene,

From light, impertinent, and vain,

Assumes a soft, a melancholy air,

And of her eyes rebates⁰ the wand’ring fires, diminishes

105 The careless posture, and the head reclined,

The thoughtful, and composed face,

Proclaiming the withdrawn, the absent mind,

Allows the Fop² more liberty to gaze,
Who gently for the tender cause inquires;
no The cause, indeed, is a defect in sense,
Yet is the Spleen alleged,⁰ and still the dull pretence. blamed
But these are thy fantastic⁰ harms, imaginary
The tricks of thy pernicious stage,
Which do the weaker sort engage;
115 Worse are the dire effects of thy more pow'rful charms.
By thee Religion, all we know,
That should enlighten here below,
Is veiled in darkness, and perplexed
With anxious doubts, with endless scruples⁰ vexed, uncertainties
120 And some restraint implied from each perverted text.³
Whilst touch not, taste not, what is freely giv'n,
Is but thy niggard⁰ voice, disgracing bounteous heav'n.⁴
miserly
From speech restrained, by thy deceits abused,
To deserts banished, or in cells secluded,
125 Mistaken vot'ries⁰ to the pow'rs divine, devout worshippers
Whilst they a purer sacrifice design,
Do but the Spleen obey, and worship at thy shrine.
In vain to chase thee ev'ry art we try,
In vain all remedies apply,
130 In vain the Indian leaf infuse, tea
Or the parched Eastern berry⁰ bruise; coffee
Some pass, in vain, those bounds, and nobler liquors use.
Now harmony, in vain, we bring,

Inspire the flute, and touch the string.
 135 From harmony no help is had;
 Music but soothes thee, if too sweetly sad,
 And if too light, but turns thee gaily mad.
 Though the physicians greatest gains,
 Although his growing wealth he sees 140 Daily increased by ladies' fees,
 Yet dost thou baffle all his studious pains.
 Not skillful Lower⁵ thy source could find,
 Or through the well-dissected body trace
 The secret, the mysterious ways,
 145 By which thou dost surprise, and prey upon the mind.

2. A fool or dandy; one who is foolishly attentive to his attentions and manners; another type satirically harshly repressive.
 rized during the Restoration.

5. Richard Lower (1631 — 1691), an English phy-
 3. I.e, some prohibition (“restraint”) inferred from sician noted for his research in anatomy and phys-misreadings of biblical texts.
 iology; author of Treatise on the Heart (1669).

4. Puritan zeal was considered another manifes-

558 / ANNE FINCH, COUNTESS OF WINCHILSEA

Though in the search, too deep for humane thought,
 With unsuccessful toil he wrought,⁰ worked ‘Till thinking thee to’ve caught, himself by thee was caught,

Retained thy pris'ner, thy acknowledged slave,
And sunk beneath thy chain to a lamented grave.

1701, 1713

Adam Posed⁶

Could our first father, at his toilsome plow,
Thorns in his path, and labor on his brow,
Clothed only in a rude, unpolished skin,
Could he a vain fantastic nymph⁷ have seen,
⁵ In all her airs, in all her antic⁰ graces, bizarre
Her various fashions, and more various faces;
How had it posed that skill, which late assigned
Just appellations to each several kind!⁸
A right idea of the sight to frame;
io T'have guessed from what new element⁹ she came;
T'have hit the wav'ring form,¹ or giv'n this thing a name.

1709, 1713

To Death

O King of terrors, whose unbounded sway
All that have life must certainly obey;
The King, the Priest, the Prophet, all are thine,
Nor would ev'n God (in flesh) thy stroke decline.²
⁵ My name is on thy roll, and sure I must Increase thy gloomy kingdom in the dust.
My soul at this no apprehension feels,
But trembles at thy swords, thy racks, thy wheels;³
Thy scorching fevers, which distract the sense,
io And snatch us raving, unprepared, from hence;
At thy contagious darts, that wound the heads

Of weeping friends, who wait at dying beds.

Spare these, and let thy time be when it will;

6. Perplexed.

8. According to Genesis 2.19, Adam named

7. “Fantastic” may mean “capricious” or “foppish (“assign’d / just appellations to”) all the animals.

in attire,” but may also have the sense of “imagi-

9. I.e., she is not created from one of the four ele-nary” or “unreal.” “Nymph” is a conventional pas-ments—earth, air, water, and fire—out of which toral word for a young woman. The character is a all things were believed to be composed.

coquette, or flirtatious young woman, a type much

1. I.e., to have accurately identified the nature of commented on and satirized during the Restora-
her changing form.

tion. Attacks on artificiality and the use of cos-

2. I.e., Christ (God in his h u m a n incarnation) suf-metics were common during the Renaissance and fered death on the cross.

still popular during the Restoration.

3. Like “racks,” instruments of torture.

A N O C T U R N A L R E V E R I E / 5 6 3

My bus’ness is to die, and thine to kill.

15 Gently thy fatal scepter on me lay,

And take to thy cold arms, insensibly, thy prey.

1713

Friendship between Ephelia and Ardelia⁴

Eph. What Friendship is, Ardelia show.

Ard. 'Tis to love, as I love you.

Eph. This account, so short (tho' kind)

Suits not my inquiring mind.

Therefore farther now repeat:

What is Friendship when complete?

Ard. 'Tis to share all joy and grief;

'Tis to lend all due relief

From the tongue, the heart, the hand;

'Tis to mortgage house and land;

For a friend be sold a slave;

Tis to die upon a grave,

If a friend therein do lie.

Eph. This indeed, tho' carried high,⁵

This, tho' more than e'er was done

Underneath the rolling sun,

This has all been said before.

Can Ardelia say no more?

Ard. Words indeed no more can show:

But 'tis to love, as I love you.

1713

A Nocturnal Reverie

In such a night,⁶ when every louder wind

Is to its distant cavern safe confined;

And only gentle Zephyr⁷ fans his wings,

And lonely Philomel, still waking,⁸ sings;

⁵ Or from some tree, famed for the owl's delight,

She, hollowing⁰ clear, directs the wand'rer right: crying out

In such a night, when passing clouds give place,
Or thinly veil the heav'ns' mysterious face;

4. Ardelia is a conventional poetic name that

7. According to myth, Zephyr, the west wind, is Finch sometimes used to refer to herself.

warm and mild. The four winds resided in caves.

5. I.e., expressed loudly or in high style; or, per-

8. I.e., ever wakeful; according to myth, Philomela haps, highly esteemed.

was raped by her brother-in-law, Tereus, who then

6. This phrase, repeated twice below, recalls the tore out her tongue so that she could not speak.

same repeated phrase in the night scene that opens

She wove the story into a tapestry and sent it to act 5 of Shakespeare's Merchant of Venice. Finch her sister, who rescued her. She was later changed also echoes many words from Milton's "Il Penserointo a nightingale while in flight from Tereus.
roso" (see p. 405).

558 / ANNE FINCH, COUNTESS OF WINCHILSEA

When in some river, overhung with green,

The waving moon and trembling leaves are seen;

When freshened grass now bears itself upright,

And makes cool banks to pleasing rest invite,

Whence springs the woodbind,⁰ and the bramble -rose,
honeysuckle

And where the sleepy cowslip sheltered grows;

Whilst now a paler hue the foxglove takes,

Yet checkers still with red the dusky brakes⁹
When scatter'd glow-worms,¹ but in twilight fine,
Shew trivial beauties, watch their hour to shine;²
Whilst Salisb'ry stands the test of every light,
In perfect charms, and perfect virtue bright:
When odors, which declined repelling day,³
Through temp'rate air uninterrupted stray;
When darkened groves their softest shadows wear,
And falling waters we distinctly hear;
When through the gloom more venerable⁴ shows
Some ancient fabric, awful⁵ in repose,
While sunburnt hills their swarthy looks conceal,
And swelling haycocks⁶ thicken up the vale:° valley
When the loosed horse now, as his pasture leads,
Comes slowly grazing through th' adjoining meads,⁰ meadows
Whose stealing pace, and lengthened shade we fear,
Till torn-up forage in his teeth we hear:
When nibbling sheep at large pursue their food,
And unmolested kine° re chew the cud; cattle
When curlews⁷ cry beneath the village walls,
And to her straggling brood the partridge calls;
Their shortlived jubilee the creatures keep,
Which but endures, whilst tyrant man does sleep;
When a sedate content the spirit feels,
And no fierce light disturbs, whilst it reveals;
But silent musings urge the mind to seek Something, too high for syllables to speak;
Till the free soul to a composedness charmed,

Finding the elements of rage disarmed,
 O'er all below a solemn quiet grown,
 Joys in th' inferior world, and thinks it like her own:
 In such a night let me abroad remain,
 Till morning breaks, and all's confused again;
 Our cares, our toils, our clamors are renewed,
 Or pleasures, seldom reached, again pursued.

1713

9. Thickets; tall ferns or bracken. English cowslips

3. I.e., when the aromas (“odors”) of field and (line 13) have droopy yellow petals.

wood, which refused to come forth (“declined”)

1. Insects, (the females of) which emit a shining under the hot, “repelling” rays of the sun (“day”).
 green light from the abdomen.

4. Impressive or worthy of religious reverence.

2. I.e., show lesser beauties and—unlike the

5. May mean both awe-inspiring and causing fear countess of Salisbury, Anne Tufton, of the follow-or dread. Fabric: structure, i.e., building.

ing line—make the most of their limited opportu-

6. Conical piles of hay.

nities to shine.

7. A kind of shore bird, similar to a sandpiper.

T H E A N S W E R / 5 6 5

The Answer⁸

(To Pope's Impromptu)

Disarmed with so genteel an air,

The contest I give o'er;
Yet, Alexander, have a care,
And shock the sex no more.
5 We rule the world our life's whole race,
Men but assume that right;
First slaves to ev'ry tempting face,
Then martyrs to our spite.
You of one Orpheus⁹ sure have read,
10 Who would like you have writ
Had he in London town been bred,
And polished too his wit;
But he poor soul thought all was well,
And great should be his fame,
is When he had left his wife in hell,
And birds and beasts could tame.
Yet venturing then with scoffing rhymes
The women to incense,
Resenting heroines of those times
20 Soon punished his offense.
And as the Hebrus rolled his skull,
And harp besmeared with blood,
They clashing as the waves grew full,
Still harmonized the flood.
25 But you our follies gently treat,
And spin so fine the thread,
You need not fear his awkward fate,
The lock¹ won't cost the head.
Our admiration you command

30 For all that's gone before;
What next we look for at your hand
Can only raise it more.

Yet sooth⁰ the ladies I advise truly
(As me too pride has wrought)

35 We're born to wit, but to be wise
By admonitions taught.

1 7 1 7

8. Finch and Alexander Pope engaged in a dispute of hell on condition that he not look back to see over some lines in his Rape of the Lock that depicted her following. When they were nearly out of hell, recited female wits (see 4 . 5 9 - 6 2 [p. 616]). He he glanced over his shoulder and she returned to responded to her complaint in a short poem, the ranks of the dead. Inconsolable, Orpheus never "Impromptu," subtitled "To Lady Winchelsea" (see again took pleasure in women, but continued to p. 637), in which he complimented her poetic talent, enchanting even the stones and trees. The ent while slighting the talent of earlier women Maenads, frenzied devotees of the god Dionysus, poets. This poem is her response.

hated Orpheus (perhaps because of his lack of

9. According to Greek mythology, Orpheus, interest in them), and one day they tore him to famed for singing and playing the lyre, was able to pieces, casting his head and lyre into the river charm birds and animals with his music. W h e n his Hebros. The severed head continued to sing as it wife, Eurydice, died, he traveled to the under-floated down the river.

world, charmed the infernal gods with his singing,

1. I.e., The Rape of the Lock; see note 8 above.

and was granted permission to lead Eurydice out

5 6 6 / M A T T H E W P R I O R

On Myself

Good Heav'n, I thank thee, since it was designed

I should be framed, but of the weaker kind,

That yet, my Soul, is rescued from the love

Of all those trifles which their passions move.

5 Pleasures and praise and plenty have with me

But^o their just value. If allowed they be, only

Freely, and thankfully as much I taste,

As will not reason or religion waste.

If they're denied, I on my self can live,

10 And slight^o those aids unequal chance does give. disdain

When in the sun, my wings can be displayed,

And, in retirement, I can bless the shade.

1903

M A T T H E W P R I O R

1664-1721

A Fable

In /Esop's tales an honest wretch we find,

Whose years and comforts equally declined;

He in two wives had two domestic ills,

For different age they had, and different wills;
5 One plucked his black hairs out, and one his gray,
The man for quietness did both obey,
Till all his parish saw his head quite bare,
And thought he wanted brains as well as hair.

The Moral

The parties, henpecked William,¹ are thy wives,
10 The hairs they pluck are thy prerogatives;²
Tories thy person hate, the Whigs thy power,³
Though much thou yieldest, still they tug for more,
Till this poor man and thou alike are shown,
He without hair, and thou without a crown.

1703

1. King William III (1650-1702), who ruled

3. The Tories and Whigs were the two main polit-England from 1689 until his death.

ical parties in seventeenth- and eighteenth-century

2. The rights of the king, previously not subject to England.

parliamentary restriction.

T o A L A D Y / 5 6 7

To a Lady: She Refusing to Continue a Dispute with Me, and Leaving Me in the Argument

i

Spare, gen'rous victor, spare the slave,

Who did unequal war pursue;

That more than triumph he might have,

In being overcome by you.

2

5 In the dispute whate'er I said,
My heart was by my tongue belied;
And in my looks you might have read,
How much I argued on your side.

3

You, far from danger as from fear,
io Might have sustained an open fight:
For seldom your opinions err;
Your eyes are always in the right.

4

Why, fair one, would you not rely
On reason's force with beauty's joined?
15 Could I their prevalence deny;
I must at once be deaf and blind.

5

Alas! not hoping to subdue,
I only to the fight aspired:
To keep the beauteous foe in view
20 Was all the glory I desired.

6

But she, howe'er of vict'ry sure,
Contemns the wreath too long delayed;
And, armed with more immediate pow'r,
Calls cruel silence to her aid.

7

25 Deeper to wound, she shuns the fight:
She drops her arms, to gain the field:

Secures her conquest by her flight;
And triumphs, when she seems to yield.

8

So when the Parthian⁵ turned his steed,
30 And from the hostile camp withdrew;

4. A wreath of laurel or other leaves was a symbol 5. A people of western Asia, whose cavalry fought of victory. in the manner Prior describes.

5 6 8 / J O N A T H A N S W I F T

W i t h c r u e l s k i l l t h e b a c k w a r d r e e d 0 arrow
H e s e n t ; a n d a s h e f l e d , h e s l e w .

1718

An Ode

T h e m e r c h a n t , t o s e c u r e h i s t r e a s u r e ,
C o n v e y s i t i n a b o r r o w e d n a m e ;
E u p h e l i a s e r v e s t o g r a c e m y m e a s u r e , 6
B u t C l o e i s m y r e a l f l a m e .

5 M y s o f t e s t v e r s e , m y d a r l i n g l y r e , U p o n E u p h e l i a ' s t o i l e t 0 l a y ; dressing table
W h e n C l o e n o t e d h e r d e s i r e
T h a t I s h o u l d s i n g , t h a t I s h o u l d p l a y .

M y l y r e I t u n e , m y v o i c e I r a i s e ,
10 B u t w i t h m y n u m b e r s 0 m i x m y s i g h s ; songs
A n d w h i l s t I s i n g E u p h e l i a ' s p r a i s e ,
I f i x m y s o u l o n C l o e ' s e y e s .

F a i r C l o e b l u s h e d ; E u p h e l i a f r o w n e d ;
I s u n g a n d g a z e d ; I p l a y e d a n d t r e m b l e d ;
15 A n d V e n u s t o t h e L o v e s a r o u n d 7
R e m a r k e d h o w i l l w e a l l d i s s e m b l e d .

1718

JONATHAN SWIFT

1667-1745

A Description of the Morning

N o w h a r d l y h e r e a n d t h e r e a h a c k n e y - c o a c h 1

A p p e a r i n g , s h o w e d t h e r u d d y m o r n ' s a p p r o a c h .

N o w B e t t y f r o m h e r m a s t e r ' s b e d h a d f l o w n ,

A n d s o f t l y s t o l e t o d i s c o m p o s e h e r o w n ;

5 T h e s l i p - s h o d ' p r e n t i c e f r o m h i s m a s t e r ' s d o o r

H a d p a r e d t h e d i r t a n d s p r i n k l e d r o u n d t h e f l o
o r .

N o w M o l l ² h a d w h i r l e d h e r m o p w i t h d e x t r o u s a i r s , P r e p a r e d t o s c r u b t h e e n t r y a n d t h e s t a i r s .

T h e y o u t h w i t h b r o o m y s t u m p s b e g a n t o t r a c e 6. I.e., Euphelia adorns or adds grace to my context, attractive young women.

poetry, or is the name used in my poetry.

1. A horse-drawn carriage, for hire.

7. Venus is the Greek goddess of love and beauty.

2. A diminutive form of Mary; a common name

Her attendant "Loves" are, in mythology, the

for a servant.

Graces, givers of charm and beauty; in the social

A DESCRIPTION OF A CITY SHOWER / 569

10 T h e k e n n e l - e d g e , 3 w h e r e w h e e l s h a d w o r n t h e p l a c e .

The small-coalman⁴ was heard with cadence deep,
Till drowned in shriller notes of chimney-sweep:
Duns⁰ at his lordship's gate began to meet;
bill collectors And brick dust Moll¹⁵ had screamed through half the street.

15 The turnkey⁰ now his flock returning sees, jailer Duly let out a-night to steal for fees:⁶

The watchful bailiffs⁷ take their silent stands,
And schoolboys lag with satchels in their hands.

1709

A Description of a City Shower

Careful observers may foretell the hour

(By sure prognostics) when to dread a shower:

While rain depends,⁰ the pensive cat gives o'er impends Her frolics, and pursues her tail no more.

5 Returning home at night, you'll find the sink⁰ sewer Strike your offended sense with double stink.

If you be wise, then go not far to dine;

You'll spend in coach hire more than save in wine.

A coming shower your shooting corns presage,
^{io} Old aches throb, your hollow tooth will rage.

Sauntering in coffeehouse is Dulman⁰ seen
; dull man Hedamns the climate and complain
sof spleen.⁰ melancholy Meanwhile the South
,⁰ rising with dabbled⁰ wings, a wind / spattered
A sable cloud athwart the welkin⁰ flings, sky 15
That will edmore liquor than it could contain,
And, like a drunkard, gives it up again.

Brisk Susan whips her linen from the rope,

While the first drizzling shower is borne aslope
: 0 slanting Such is that sprinkling which some care
e less quean 0 wench 20 Flirts 0 on you from her mop, but not so clean: flicks You fly, invoke the gods; then turning, stop

To rail; she singing, still whirls on her mop.

Not yet the dust had shunned the unequal strife, But, aided by the wind, fought still for
life,

25 And wafted with its foe by violent gust,

'Twas doubtful which was rain and which was dust.

Ah! where must need y poet seek for aid,

When dust and rain at once his coat invade?

Sole coat, where dust cemented by the rain

30 Erects then a p, 8 and leaves a mingled stain.

Now in contiguous drops the flood comes down,
Threatening with deluge this devoted 0 town. doomed 3. Curb of the road. their jailers, who could charge fees for allowing

4. Seller of charcoal. certain privileges, such as better accommodations.

5. A woman selling powdered brick (used for 7. I.e., sheriff's deputies.

cleaning knives). 8. I.e., makes the fibers on the surface of the fab-

6. Prisoners were allowed out to get money to pay ric stand up stiffly.

570 / JONATHAN SWIFT

To shops in crowds the dagged 0 females fly, mud-spattered Pretend to cheapen 0 goods, but nothing buy. bargain for 35 The Templars spruc e, 9 while every spout's a broach, 0 running Stays till

'tis fair, yet seems to call a coach.

The tucked-up sempstress 0 walks with hasty strides, seamstress While streams run down her oiled umbrella's sides.

Here various kinds, by various fortunes led,

40 Commence acquaintance underneath a shed.

Triumphant Tories and desponding Whigs 1

Forget their feuds, and join to save their wigs.

Boxed in a chair 0 the beau impatient sits, sedan chair While spouts run clattering o'er the roof by its, 45 And ever and anon with frightful din

The leather 2 sounds; he trembles from within.

So when Troy chairmen bore the wooden steed,

Pregnant with Greeks impatient to be freed (Those bully Greeks, who, as the moderns
do,

50 Instead of paying chairmen, run them through), Laocoon struck the outside with his spear,

And each imprisoned hero quaked for fear.³

Now from all parts the swelling kennels 0 flow, gutters And bear their trophies with them as they go: 55 Filth of all hues and odors seem to tell

What street they sailed from, by their sight and smell.

They, as each torrent drives with rapid force,

From Smithfield or St. Pulchre's shape their course, And in huge confluence joined at Sn ow Hill ridge, 60 Fall from the conduit prone 0 to Holborn Bridge.4 downward Sweepings from but chers ' stalls, dung, guts, and blood, Drown

d puppies, stinking sprats,0 all drenched in m ud, f herring Dead cats, and turnip tops, com e t u m b ling down the flood. J

1710

Stella's Birthday

March 13, 17275

This day, whatever the fates decree,

Shall still0 be kept with joy by me: always

This day then, let us not be told

That you are sick, and I grown old,

5 Nor think on our approaching ills,

And talk of spectacles and pills;

Tomorrow will be time enough

9. The dapper law student.

4. The offal from the Smithfield cattle market

1. The Tories and Whigs were the two main polit-would be swept toward the Fleet Ditch, spanned ical parties in seventeenth- and eighteenth-century
by Holborn Bridge, where it would merge with England; the Tories (Swift's party) had recently garbage floating down the Snow Hill stream. St.
assumed power.

Pulchre's: St. Sepulchre's Church, in Holborn.

2. Leather roof of the sedan chair.

5. The forty-sixth birthday of Swift's devoted com-

3. In Virgil's Aeneid 2, Laocoon so struck the side panion and protegee, Esther Johnson.

of the Trojan horse, frightening the Greeks within.

STELLA 'S BIRTHDAY / 571

To hear such mortifying⁰ stuff. depressing

Yet since from reason may be brought

10 A better and more pleasing thought,

Which can in spite of all decays

Support a few remaining days:

From not the gravest of divines,

Accept for once some serious lines.

15 Although we now can form no more

Long schemes of life, as heretofore;

Yet you, while time is running fast,

Can look with joy on what is past.

Were future happiness and pain

20 A mere contrivance of the brain,

As atheists argue, to entice

And fit their proselytes⁰ for vice converts

(The only comfort they propose,

To have companions in their woes),

25 Grant this the case, yet sure 'tis hard

That virtue, styled its own reward,

And by all sages understood

To be the chief of human good,

Should acting, die, nor leave behind

30 Some lasting pleasure in the mind,

Which, by remembrance, will assuage

Grief, sickness, poverty, and age;

And strongly shoot a radiant dart,

To shine through life's declining part.
35 Say, Stella, feel you no content,
Reflecting on a life well spent?
Your skillful hand employed to save
Despairing wretches from the grave;
And then supporting from your store
40 Those whom you dragged from death before
(So Providence on mortals waits, Preserving what it first creates);
Your generous boldness to defend
An innocent and absent friend;
45 That courage which can make you just,
To merit humbled in the dust:
The detestation you express
For vice in all its glittering dress:
That patience under torturing pain,
50 Where stubborn stoics⁶ would complain.
Must these like empty shadows pass,
Or forms reflected from a glass?
Or mere chimeras⁰ in the mind, wild fancies
That fly and leave no marks behind?
55 Does not the body thrive and grow
By food of twenty years ago?
And, had it not been still supplied,
It must a thousand times have died.
6. Those who practice repression of emotion, indifference to pleasure and pain, and patient endurance.

Then how with reason can maintain 60 That no effects of food remain?
And is not virtue in mankind
The nutriment that feeds the mind?
Upheld by each good action past,
And still continued by the last:
65 Then how with reason can pretend
That all effects of virtue end?
Believe me, Stella, when you show
That true contempt for things below,
Nor prize your life for other ends
70 Than merely to oblige your friends,
Your former actions claim their part,
And joint to fortify your heart.
For virtue in her daily race,
Like Janus, 7 bears a double face,
75 Looks back with joy where she has gone,
And therefore goes with courage on.
She at your sickly couch will wait,
And guide you to some better state.
O then, whatever Heaven intends,
so Take pity on your pitying friends;
Nor let your ills affect your mind,
To fancy they can be unkind.
Me, surely me, you ought to spare,
Who gladly would your sufferings share;
85 Or give my scrap of life to you,
And think it far beneath your due;

You, to whose care so oft I owe

That I'm alive to tell you so.

1727

The Lady's Dressing Room

Five hours, (and who can do it less in?)

By haughty Celia⁸ spent in dressing;

The goddess from her chamber issues,

Arrayed in lace, brocades and tissues.⁹

5 Strephon, who found the room was void,

And Betty otherwise employed,

Stole in, and took a strict survey,

Of all the litter as it lay;

Whereof, to make the matter clear,

io An inventory follows here.

And first a dirty smock appeared,

Beneath the armpits well besmeared.

7. The Roman god of doors, with opposed faces, poetic names often used in pastoral poetry.

one looking forward, the other back. 9. Fine, lightweight fabric. Brocades: a rich silk 8. Celia and Strephon (line 5) are conventional fabric with raised patterns in gold and silver.

THE LADY'S DRESSING ROOM / 573

Strephon, the rogue, displayed it wide,

And turned it round on every side.

15 On such a point few words are best,

And Strephon bids us guess the rest,

But swear show damnably the men lie,

In calling Celia sweet and cleanly.

Now listen while he next produces

20 The various combs for various uses,
Filled up with dirt so closely fixt,
No brush could force away betwixt.
A paste of composition rare,
Sweat, dandruff, powder, lead¹ and hair;
25 A forehead cloth with oil upon 't
To smooth the wrinkles on her front;⁰ brow
Here alum flower to stop the steams,²
Exhaled from sour unsavory streams,
The renight-gloves made of Tripsy's hide,
30 Bequeathed by Tripsy when she died,
With puppy water,³ beauty's help
Distilled from Tripsy's darling whelp;
Here gallypots⁴ and vials placed,
Some filled with washes, some with paste,
35 Some with pomatum, paints and slops,
And ointments good for scabby chops.⁵
Hard by a filthy basin stands,
Fouled with the scouring of her hands;
The basin takes whatever comes 40 The scrapings of her teeth and gums,
A nasty compound of all hues,
For hereshespits, and hereshespews.
But oh! it turned poor Strephon's bowels,
When he beheld and smelled the towels,
45 Begummed, bemattered, and beslimed
With dirt, and sweat, and earwax grimed.
No object Strephon's eyes escapes,

H e r e p e t t i c o a t s i n f r o w z y h e a p s ; i l l - s m e l l i n g , u n k e m p t N o r b e t h e h a n d k e r c h i e f s f o r g o t

50 A l l v a r n i s h e d o ' e r w i t h s n u f f a n d s n o t .

T h e s t o c k i n g s w h y s h o u l d I e x p o s e ,

S t a i n e d w i t h t h e m a r k s o f s t i n k i n g t o e s ;

O r g r e a s y c o i f s a n d p i n n e r s r e e k i n g ,

W h i c h C e l i a s l e p t a t l e a s t a w e e k i n ?

55 A p a i r o f t w e e z e r s n e x t h e f o u n d

T o p l u c k h e r b r o w s i n a r c h e s r o u n d ,

O r h a i r s t h a t s i n k t h e f o r e h e a d l o w ,

O r o n h e r c h i n l i k e b r i s t l e s g r o w .

1. Then used to make hair glossy.

5. Painful fissures or cracks in the skin. Washes:

2. Vapors or exhalations produced as an excretion liquid cosmetic for the complexion. Paste: either of the body, e.g., hot breath, perspiration, or the medicinal or cosmetic compound. Pomatum:

infectious effluvium of a disease. Alum flower:

scented ointment for application to the skin.

powdered mineral salt used in medicine.

Paints: rouges. Slops: refuse liquid.

3. The urine of a puppy, used as a cosmetic.

6. Powdered tobacco inhaled through the nostrils.

4. Small ceramic pots, often containers for medi-

7. Coifs and pinnars: types of headwear.

cine.

574 / J O N A T H A N S W I F T

T h e v i r t u e s w e m u s t n o t l e t p a s s ,

60 Of Celia's magnifying glass.

When frightened Strepson cast his eye on't

It showed visage of a giant. face

A glass that can to sight disclose,

The smallest worm in Celia's nose,

65 And faithfully direct her nail

To squeeze it out from head to tail;

For catch it nicely by the head,

It must come out alive or dead.

Why Strepson will you tell the rest?

70 And must you needs describe the chest? 0

commode That careless wench! no creature w arner To move it out from yonder corner;

But leave it standing full in sight

For you to exercise your spite.

75 In vain the workman showed his wit

With rings and hinges counterfeit

To make it seem in this disguise

A cabinet to vulgar eyes;

For Strepson ventured to look in,

so Resolved to go through thick and thin;

He lifts the lid, there needs no more,

He smelled it all the time before.

As from within Pandora's box,

When Epimetheus op'd the locks,

85 As sudden universal crew

Of human evils upwards flew;

He still was comforted to find

That Hope at last remained behind;

S o S t r e p h o n l i f t i n g u p t h e l i d ,
90 T o v i e w w h a t i n t h e c h e s t w a s h i d .
T h e v a p o r s f l e w f r o m o u t t h e e v e n t ,
B u t S t r e p h o n c a u t i o u s n e v e r m e a n t
T h e b o t t o m o f t h e p a n o t t o g r o p e , vessel
A n d f o u l h i s h a n d s i n s e a r c h o f H o p e .
95 O n e v e r m a y s u c h v i l e m a c h i n e
B e o n c e i n C e l i a ' s c h a m b e r s e e n !
O m a y s h e b e t t e r l e a r n t o k e e p
T h o s e " s e c r e t s o f t h e h o a r y d e e p ! " 9
A s m u t t o n c u t l e t s , p r i m e o f m e a t ,
100 W h i c h t h o u g h w i t h a r t y o u s a l t a n d b e a t
A s l a w s o f c o o k e r y r e q u i r e ,
A n d t o a s t t h e m a t t h e c l e a r e s t f i r e ;
I f f r o m a d o w n t h e h o p e f u l c h o p s
T h e f a t u p o n a c i n d e r d r o p s ,
105 T o s t i n k i n g s m o k e i t t u r n s t h e f l a m e
P o i s ' n i n g t h e f l e s h f r o m w h e n c e i t c a m e , 8 .
 In Greek mythology, brother of Prometheus

9. From Milton's Paradise Lost (2.891), a poetic and husband of Pandora. Created by the gods as reference to the ocean; Swift puns on "hoary," the first h u m a n woman, Pandora brought with her which means ancient but may also mean corrupt, to Earth a box containing all h u m a n ills, which,
 and perhaps also on whore and on the homonym,
 when it was opened, were released into the world,
hory, meaning filthy.

leaving only Hope behind.

A B E A U T I F U L Y O U N G N Y M P H G O I N G T O
B E D / 5 7 5

And up exhales a greasy stench,

For which you curse the careless wench;

So things, which m u s t not be expressed,

110 W h e n p l u m p e d 0 into the reeking chest, dropped

S e n d up an excremental smell

To taint the parts from w h e n c e they fell.

T h e petticoats and gown p e r f u m e ,

W h i c h waft a stink round every room,

lis T h u s finishing his grand survey,

Disgusted Strephon stole away

R e p e a t i n g in his a m o r o u s fits,

Oh! Celia, Celia, Celia shits!

But V e n g e a n c e , goddess never sleeping

120 S o o n punishe d Strepho n for his peeping ;

His foul imagination links

E a c h D a m e he sees with all her stinks:

And, if unsavory odors fly,

Conceives a lady standing by:

125 All w o m e n his description fits,

And both ideas j u m p like wits:1

By vicious fancy coupled fast,

And still appearing in contrast.

I pity wretched Strephon blind

iso To all the c h a r m s of f e m a l e kind;

S h o u l d I the q u e e n of love² refuse,

B e c a u s e she rose from stinking ooze?
To him that looks behind the scene,
Satira's but s o m e pocky queen.³
135 W h e n Celia in her glory shows,
If Strephon would but stop his nose
(Who now so impiously b l a s p h e m e s
Her ointments, daubs, and paints and c r e a m s ,
Her w a s h e s , slops, and every clout,^{0 rag}
HO With which he m a k e s so foul a rout⁰)^{fuss}
He soon would learn to think like me,
And bless his ravished sight to see
S u c h order from c o n f u s i o n sprung,
S u c h gaudy tulips raised f r o m dung.
1730

A Beautiful Young Nymph Going to Bed
Corinna, pride of Drury-Lane⁴

For w h o m no shepherd sighs in vain;
Never did Covent G a r d e n ⁵ boast

1. fumy: match; from the proverbial phrase good ably Statira, one of the wives of Alexander the wits jump, i.e., great minds think alike.

Great in Nathaniel Lee's tragedy Rival Queens

2. Aphrodite, or Venus, the classical goddess often (1677).

depicted as rising out of the sea.

4. A London street notorious for prostitutes.

3. Whore, here infected with pox (usually syphi-

5. A flashy, vulgar district in London.

lis), or marked with pocks or pustules. Satira: prob-

5 7 6 / J O N A T H A N S W I F T

So bright a battered, strolling toast;

5 No drunken rake to pick her up,

No cellar where on tick⁰ to sup; credit

Returning at the midnight hour;

Four stories climbing to her bow'r;⁰ room,

Then, seated on a three-legged chair,⁶

10 Takes off her artificial hair:

Now, picking out a crystal eye,

She wipes it clean, and lays it by.

Her eye-brows from a mouse's hide,

Stuck on with art on either side,

15 Pulls off with care, and first displays 'em,

Then in a play-book smoothly lays 'em.

Now dextrously her plumpers⁷ draws,

That serve to fill her hollow jaws.

Untwists a wire; and from her gums

20 A set of teeth completely comes.

Pulls out the rags contrived to prop

Her flabby dugs⁰ and down they drop. breasts

Proceeding on, the lovely goddess

Unlaces next her steel-ribbed bodice;

25 Which by the operator's skill,

Press down the lumps, the hollows fill,

Up goes her hand, and off she slips

The bolsters that supply her hips.

With gentlest touch, she next explores

30 Her shankers,⁸ issues, running sores,
 Effects of many a sad disaster;
 And then to each applies a plaister.⁰ plaster for face
 But must, before she goes to bed,
 Rub off the dawbs of white and red;
 35 And smooth the furrows in her front⁰ forehead
 With greasy paper stuck upon't.
 She takes a bolus⁹ ere she sleeps;
 And then between two blankets creeps.
 With pains of love tormented lies;
 40 Or if she chance to close her eyes,
 Of Bridewell and the Compter¹ dreams,
 And feels the lash, and faintly screams;
 Or, by a faithless bully⁰ drawn, pimp
 At some hedge-tavern⁰ lies in pawn; poor, squalid inn
 45 Or to Jamaica seems transported,²
 Alone, and by no planter courted;
 Or, near Fleet-Ditch's³ oozy brinks,
 Surrounded with a hundred stinks,
 Belated, seems on watch to lie,
 50 And snap some cully⁰ passing by; simpleton
 6. I.e., one missing a leg.
 1. Pronounced counter; a city prison. Bridewell
 7. Small, light balls sometimes carried in the was a prison for vagrant women and prostitutes.
 mouth for filling out hollow cheeks.
 2. Some convicts were shipped to Jamaica and
 8. Chancres: ulcers resulting from venereal dis-other West Indian sites, although the majority ease.

were transported to the North American colonies.

9. A larger than ordinary pill.

3. An open sewer in London.

VERSES ON THE DEATH OF DR. SWIFT, D.
S. P. D. / 577

Or, struck with fear, her fancy runs

On watchmen, constables and duns,^o debt collectors

From whom she meets with frequent rubs;^o unpleasant encounters

But, never from religious clubs;⁴

55 Whose favor she is sure to find,

Because she pays 'em all in kind.

Corinna wakes. A dreadful sight!

Behold the ruins of the night!

A wicked rat her plaster stole,

60 Half eat, and dragged it to his hole.

The crystal eye, alas, was missed;

And puss had on her plumpers pissed.

A pigeon picked her issue-peas;

And Shock⁵ her tresses⁰ filled with fleas. artificial hair

65 The nymph, tho' in this mangled plight,

Must ev'ry morn her limbs unite.

But how shall I describe her arts

To recollect the scattered parts?

Or shew the anguish, toil, and pain,

70 Of gath'ring up herself again?

The bashful muse^o will never bear source of inspiration

In such a scene to interfere.

Corinna in the morning dizen'd,0 dressed up

Who sees, will spew; who smells, be poison'd.

1 7 3 1

Verses on the Death of Dr. Swift, D.S.P.D.6

Occasioned by Reading a Maxim in Rochefoucauld7

Dans l'adversite de nos meilleurs amis nous trouvons toujours quelque chose, qui ne nous deplait pas.

“In the adversity of our best friends, we find something that does not displease us.”

As Rochefoucauld his maxims drew

From nature, I believe 'em true:

They argue0 no corrupted mind suggest

4. Groups of religious dissenters or enthusiasts of Swift, most notably Alexander Pope, King man-who were often suspected of hypocrisy.

aged to offend the author while thinking to do him

5. Shough, the name for a kind of lapdog, became a favor. “Much dissatisfied” with the censored ver-

“Shock” in Alexander Pope’s Rape of the Lock

sion, Swift arranged for the poem and notes to be

1.115 (see p. 607). Issue-peas: peas or other small,

printed in Dublin; this version, although much globular bodies placed in surgical incisions to con-longer, still had many blanks in lieu of proper

tinue the irritation that made a discharge.

names. Swift correctly foresaw that the poem

6. The initials signify “Dean of St. Patrick’s, Dub-would prove controversial, both in its attacks on lin.” Evidently intending this poem to be published Queen Caroline and her prime minister, Robert only after his death, Swift allowed some of his Walpole, and in its praise of leading political oppofriends to see the (changing) text in manuscript; he nents of Walpole such as William Pulteney and completed explanatory notes for it in 1732. We Henry St. John, Lord Viscount Bolingbroke, to have included most of these notes below. They whom Pope had written his “Essay on Man” (see were omitted, along with over 150 lines deemed
p. 623) and whom Swift praises in his note to line potentially offensive, in the version of the poem 196.

that one of Swift’s friends, Dr. William King,

7. Francois de la Rochefoucauld (1613-1680), arranged to have printed in London in 1739. Edit-writer of witty, cynical maxims.

ing the poem with the help of other English friends

578 / JONATHAN SWIFT

In him; the fault is in mankind.

5 This maxim more than all the rest

Is thought too base for human breast:

“In all distresses of our friends

We first consult our private ends,

While Nature, kindly bent to ease us,

10 Points out s o m e c i r c u m s t a n c e to please us.”

If this perhaps your patience move,

Let reason and experience prove.⁸

We all behold with envious eyes

O u r equal raised above our size.

15 W h o would not at a crowded show

S t a n d high himself, keep others low?

I love my friend as well as you,

B u t why should he obstruct my view?

T h e n let me have the higher post;

20 S u p p o s e it but an inch at most.

If in a battle you should find

One, w h o m you love of all mankind,

H a d s o m e heroic action done,

A c h a m p i o n killed, or trophy won;

25 Rather than thus be overtopped⁰ outdone

W o u l d you not wish his laurels⁹ cropped?

D e a r honest N e d is in the gout,¹

Lies racked with pain, and you without:

H o w patiently you hear him groan!

30 H o w glad the c a s e is not your own!

W h a t poet would not grieve to see

His brethren write as well as he?

But rather than they should excel,

He'd wish his rivals all in hell.

35 Her end when emulation⁰ misses, imitation

S h e turns to envy, stings, a n d hisses:

T h e strongest friendship yields to pride,

Unless the odds be on our side.
Vain humankind! fantastic race!
40 Thy various follies who can trace?
Self-love, ambition, envy, pride,
Their empire in our hearts divide.
Give others riches, power, and station;
Tis all on me an usurpation;
45 I have no title to aspire,²
Yet, when you sink, I seem the higher.
In Pope I cannot read a line,
But with a sigh I wish it mine:
When he can in one couplet fix

8. I.e., if this perhaps strains your patience, let letes, and warriors as a sign of victory or distincreason and experience prove its truth. Rochefou-
tion.

could evidently thought this maxim would tax some

1. A disease characterized by painful inflamma-readers' patience, because he omitted it from all tion of the joints. Ned is a generic name for the editions of his Reflexions ... et maximes after the type of "friend" Rochefoucauld had described.
first edition of 1665.

2. I.e., I don't aim for a title of noble rank; or, I

9. Laurels were traditionally worn by poets, athhave no title to announce.

VERSES ON THE DEATH OF DR. SWIFT, D.
S. P. D. / 579

More sense than I can do in six,
It gives me such a jealous fit,
I cry, "Pox take him and his wit!"
I grieve to be outdone by Gay³
In my own humorous biting way.
Arbuthnot⁴ is no more my friend,
Who dares to irony pretend,
Which I was born to introduce,
Refined it first, and showed its use.
St. John, as well as Pulteney,⁵ knows
That I had some repute for prose;
And, till they drove me out of date,
Could maul a minister of state.
If they have mortified my pride,
And made me throw my pen aside;
If with such talents Heaven hath blessed 'em,
Have I not reason to detest 'em?
To all my foes, dear Fortune, send Thy gifts, but never to my friend:
I tamely can endure the first,
But this with envy makes me burst.
Thus much may serve by way of proem;⁰ preface
Proceed we therefore to our poem.
The time is not remote, when I
Must by the course of nature die;
When, I foresee, my special friends
Will try to find their private ends:⁰ benefits
Though it is hardly⁰ understood⁰ hard to / understand

Which way my death can do them good;
Yet thus methinks I hear ‘em speak:
“See how the Dean begins to break!0 weaken
Poor gentleman! he droops apace! quickly
You plainly find it in his face.
That old vertigo0 in his head dizziness
Will never leave him till he’s dead.
Besides, his memory decays;
He recollects not what he says;
He cannot call his friends to mind;
Forgets the place where last he dined;
Plies you with stories o’er and o’er;
He told them fifty times before.
How does he fancy we can sit
To hear his out-of-fashion wit?
But he takes up with younger folks,
Who for his wine will bear his jokes.
Faith, he must make his stories shorter,
Or change his comrades once a quarter;

3. John Gay (1 6 8 5 - 1 7 3 2 ; see pp. 594-96), poet, latter’s “Epistle to Dr. Arbuthnot” (p. 626).

playwright, author of the Beggar’s Opera (1728),

5. For these two politicians, both opposed to and intimate friend of Swift and Pope.

Prime Minister Walpole, see note 1 above and

4. Dr. John Arbuthnot (1667-1735), physician Swift’s notes to line 194 and 196.

and wit, friend of Swift, Gay, and Pope. See the

580 / JONATHAN SWIFT

In half the time he talks them round, 6

There must another set be found.

“For poetry, he’s past his prime;

He takes an hour to find a rhyme;

His fire is out, his wit decayed,

His fancy sunk, his Muse a jade. 7

I’d have him throw away his pen —

But there’s no talking to some men.”

And then their tenderness appears

By adding largely to my years:

“He’s older than he would be reckoned,

And well remembers Charles the Second. 8

He hardly drinks a pint of wine;

And that, I doubt, is no good sign. suspect

His stomach, too, begins to fail; appetite

Last year we thought him strong and hale;^o healthy But now he’s quite another thing;

I wish he may hold out till spring.”

They hug themselves, and reason thus:

“It is not yet so bad with us.”

In such a case they talk in tropes,^o figures of speech And by their fears express their hopes.

Some great misfortune to portend ^o predict

No enemy can match a friend.

With all the kindness they profess,

The merit of a lucky guess

(When daily how-d’ye’s come of course, 9

And servants answer, “Worse and worse!”)

Would please 'em better, than to tell
That God be praised the Dean is well.
Then he who prophesied the best,
Approves his foresight to the rest:
"You know I always feared the worst,
And often told you so at first."
He 'd rather choose that I should die,
Than his prediction prove a lie.
Not one foretells I shall recover,
But all agree to give me over.
Yet, should some neighbor feel a pain
Just in the parts where I complain,
How many a message would he send!
What hearty prayers that I should mend!
Inquire what regimen I kept;
What gave me ease, and how I slept,
And more lament, when I was dead,
Then all the snivelers round my bed.
My good companions, never fear;
For though you may mistake a year,

6. I.e., he tells all his stories once, then starts

8. King of England who died in 1685, when Swift again.

was eighteen.

7. His Muse, source of inspiration personified as

9. I.e., when it's routinely asked, "How is he?"

a female, is a worn-out horse or a whore.

VERSES ON THE DEATH OF DR. SWIFT, D.
S. P. D. / 581

145 Though your prognostics run too fast,
They must be verified at last.

Behold the fatal day arrive!

”How is the Dean?” — ”He’s just alive.”

Now the departing prayer is read.

150 “He hardly breathes” — ”The Dean is dead.”

Before the passing bell begun, 0 death / begun to ring
The news through half the town has run.

“Oh! may we all for death prepare!

What has he left? and who’s his heir?”

155 “I know no more than what the news is;

‘Tis all bequeathed to public uses.“¹

“To public use! a perfect whim!

What had the public done for him?

Mere envy, avarice, and pride.

160 He gave it all — but first he died.

And had the Dean in all the nation

Noworthy friend, nor poor relation?

So ready to do strangers good,

Forgetting his own flesh and blood?”

165 Now Grub Street² wits are all employed;

With elegies the town is cloyed;⁰ overfilled

Some paragraph in every paper

To curse the Dean, or bless the Drapier.³

The doctors, tender 0 of their fame, careful ¹⁷⁰

Wisely on me lay all the blame.

“We must confess his case was nice, ⁴

B u t h e w o u l d n e v e r t a k e a d v i c e .
H a d h e b e e n r u l e d , f o r a u g h t a p p e a r s ,
H e m i g h t h a v e l i v e d t h e s e t w e n t y y e a r s :
175 F o r , w h e n w e o p e n e d h i m , w e f o u n d ,
T h a t a l l h i s v i t a l p a r t s w e r e s o u n d . ”
F r o m D u b l i n s o o n t o L o n d o n s p r e a d , ‘T i s t o l d a t c o u r t , “T h e D e a n i s d e a d .”
K i n d L a d y S u f f o l k , 5 i n t h e s p l e e n , i s o R u n s l a u g h i n g u p t o t e l l t h e Q u e e n .
T h e Q u e e n , s o g r a c i o u s , m i l d a n d g o o d ,
C r i e s , “I s h e g o n e ? ‘t i s t i m e h e s h o u l d .
H e ‘ s d e a d , y o u s a y ; w h y , l e t h i m r o t :
I ‘ m g l a d t h e m e d a l s w e r e f o r g o t . 6

1. I.e., the inheritance is all left to charity.

4. Delicate; thus demanding careful diagnosis and

2. Originally a street in London inhabited largely treatment.

by hack writers; later, a term applied to all writers

5. Mrs. Howard, later the countess of Suffolk, was paid to produce (often scandalous) stories for Lon-the mistress of the Prince of Wales (later crowned don publishers.

as George II) and the lady of the bed-chamber for

3. “The author imagines, that the scribblers of the the Princess of Wales (who became Queen Caroprevailing [political] party, which he always line in 1727). She “professed m u c h friendship for opposed, will libel him after his death; but that oth-

the Dean” [Swift’s note]. In the spleen: in low spir-ers will remember him with gratitude, who con-its (ironic, as “laughing” in the next line indicates).
sider the service he had done to Ireland, under the
6. According to Swift, the princess commanded name of M.B. Drapier.” [Swift’s note refers to the him “a dozen times” to visit her; he finally did so character that Swift constructed in his Drapier’s on “the advice of friends,” and then, in return, he Letters (1724—25) to encourage Irish resistance to “taxed” (asked) the princess for a present worth ten the imposition of a new coin, called “Wood’s half-pounds. She promised him some medals, but they pence.” He believed that this coin would hurt the were not ready when he returned to Ireland, and Irish economy. See lines 407—08.]

later, “she forgot them, or thought them too dear”

582 / JONATHAN SWIFT

I promised him, I own; but when?

I only was the Princess then;

But now, as consort of the King,

You know, ‘tis quite a different thing.”

Now Chartres,⁷ at Sir Robert’s levee,

Tells with a sneer the tidings heavy:

“Why, is he dead without his shoes?”⁸

Cries Bob,⁹ “I’m sorry for the news:

Oh, were the wretch but living still,

And in his place my good friend Will!¹

Or had a miter⁰ on his head, bishop's hat Provided Bolingbroke² were dead!"
Now Curll his shop from rubbish drains.³
Three genuine tomes of Swift's remains!
And then, to make them pass⁰ the glibber,⁰ sell/better
Revised by Tibbalds, Moore, and Cibber.⁴
He'll treat me as he does my betters,
Publish my will, my life, my letters;
Revive the libels born to die,
Which Pope must bear, as well as I.
Here shift the scene, to represent
How those I love my death lament.
Poor Pope will grieve a month, and Gay
A week, and Arbuthnot a day.
St. John himself will scarce forbear⁰ refrain
To bite his pen, and drop a tear.
The rest will give a shrug, and cry,
"I'm sorry—but we all must die!"
Indifference clad in wisdom's guise
All fortitude of mind supplies:

(expensive). Swift's note continues: "The Dean, would see him no more [and Walpole, in turn] being in Ireland, sent Mrs. Howard a piece of would never see him again" [Swift's note].

Indian plaid made in that kingdom [Ireland]:

1. "Mr. William Pulteney, from being Mr. Walpole's intimate friend, detesting his Administra-wore it herself and sent to the Dean for as much tion, opposed his measures, and joined with my as would clothe herself and her children, desiring Lord Bolingbroke, to represent his [Walpole's]

he would send charge of it. He did the former. It conduct in an excellent paper, called Craftsman, cost thirty-five pounds, but he said he would have which is still continued" [Swift's note].

nothing except the medals. He was the summer
2. "Henry St. John, Lord Viscount Bolingbroke, following in England, was treated as usual, and she Secretary of State to Queen Anne of blessed membeing then Queen, the Dean was promised a setory [i.e., Anne Stuart, who reigned before George tlement in England, but returned as he went, and,
I]. He is reckoned the most universal genius in instead of favor or medals, hath been ever since Europe; Walpole dreading his abilities, treated him under her Majesty's displeasure."

most injuriously, working with King George, who
7. Francis Charteris was "a most infamous, vile forgot his promise of restoring the said Lord, upon scoundrel, grown from a foot-boy, or worse, to a the restless importunity [pleading] of Walpole" prodigious fortune" [Swift's note], Charteris was [Swift's note].

convicted of rape and then pardoned by Robert
3. "Edmund Curll hath been the most infamous

Walpole in 1730 after “sacrificing a great part of bookseller of any age or country: his character in his fortune,” according to Swift. A “levee,” or ris-part may be found in Mr. Pope’s Dunciad. He ing, is a morning audience held in an important [Curll] published three volumes all charged on person’s bedroom.

[attributed to] the Dean, who never writ three 8. I.e., did he die in his bed rather than in the pages of them: he hath used many of the Dean’s violent fashion that Swift imagines Walpole pre-friends in almost as vile a manner” [Swift’s note], ferring?

4. “Three stupid verse writers in London, the last 9. “Sir Robert Walpole, Chief Minister of State, to the shame of the court, and the highest disgrace treated the Dean, in 1726, with great distinction, to wit and learning, was made Laureate” [Swift’s invited him to dinner ... with the Dean’s friends note], Lewis Theobald (1688-1744), James Moore chosen on purpose; appointed an hour to talk with Smythe (1702-1734), and Colley Cibber (1 6 7 1 - him of Ireland, to which kingdom and people the 1757) were all men of letters satirized in Pope’s Dean found him no great friend... . The Dean Dunciad.

V E R S E S O N T H E D E A T H O F D R . S W I F T , D .
S . P . D . / 5 8 3

215 For how can stony bowels melt
In those who never pity felt?⁵
When we are lashed, they kiss the rod,⁶
Resigning to the will of God.
The fools, my juniors by a year,
220 Are tortured with suspense and fear;
Who wisely thought my age a screen,
When death approached, to stand between:
The screen removed, their hearts are trembling;
They mourn for me without dissembling.
225 My female friends, whose tender hearts
Have better learned to act their parts,
Receive the news in doleful dumps:
“The Dean is dead (and what is trumps?)
Then, Lord have mercy on his soul!
2BO (Ladies, I’ll venture for the vole.)⁷
Six deans, they say, must bear the pall.
(I wish I knew what king to call.)
Madam, your husband will attend
The funeral of so good a friend?”
235 “No, madam, ‘tis a shocking sight;
And he’s engaged tomorrow night:
My Lady Club would take it ill,
If he should fail her at quadrille.
He loved the Dean—(I lead a heart)
240 But dearest friends; they say, must part.
His time was come; he ran his race;
We hope he’s in a better place.”

Why do we grieve that friends should die?

No loss more easy to supply.

245 One year is past; a different scene!

No further mention of the Dean,

Who now, alas! no more is missed,

Than if he never did exist.

Where's now this favorite of Apollo?⁸

250 Departed—and his works must follow,

Must undergo the common fate;

His kind of wit is out of date.

Some country squire to Lintot⁹ goes,

Inquires for Swift in verse and prose.

255 Says Lintot, "I have heard the name;

He died a year ago."—"The same."

He searches all the shop in vain.

"Sir, you may find them in Duck Lane.¹

I sent them, with a load of books,

260 Last Monday to the pastry-cook's²

5. I.e., how can hard-heartedness dissolve in per-

8. Greek and Roman sun god and patron of poets.

sons who have never felt pity?

9. Bernard Lintot, the London publisher of some

6. Humbly accept chastisement; kissing a mon-of Pope's and Gay's works.

arch's scepter was a gesture of submission to

1. "A place in London where old [i.e., secondhand authority.

and remaindered] books are sold" [Swift's note].

7. I.e., the female speaker will bid for all the tricks

2. I.e., to be used as wastepaper for wrapping par-in the popular card game quadrille.

cels and lining baking dishes.

5 8 4 / J O N A T H A N S W I F T

To fancy they could live a year!

I find you're but a stranger here.

The Dean was famous in his time,

And had a kind of knack at rhyme.

265 His way of writing now is past:

The town has got a better taste.

I keep no antiquated stuff;

But spick and span I have enough.

Pray do but give me leave to show 'em:

270 Here's Colley Cibber's birthday poem.³

This ode you never yet have seen.

By Stephen Duck⁴ upon the Queen.

Then here's a letter finely penned.

Against the Craftsman ⁵ and his friend;

275 It clearly shows that all reflection

On ministers is disaffection.

Next, here's Sir Robert's vindication,⁶

And Mr. Henley's last oration.⁷

The hawkers⁰ have not got them yet: street sellers

280 Your honor please to buy a set?

"Here's Woolston's tracts,⁸ the twelfth edition;

'Tis read by every politician:

The country members,⁰ when in town, members of Parliament

To all their boroughs⁰ send them down; districts

285 You never met a thing so smart;

The courtiers have them all by heart,

Those maids of honor (who can read)

Are taught to use them for their creed

The reverend author's good intention

290 Has been rewarded with a pension.

He does an honor to his gown,

By bravely running priestcraft down;

He shows, as sure as God's in Gloucester,⁹

That Jesus was a grand impostor;

295 That all his miracles were cheats,

Performed as jugglers do their feats:

The Church had never such a writer;

A shame he has not got a miter!⁰ bishop's hat

Suppose me dead; and then suppose

3. Cibber, appointed poet laureate in 1730 for ment] in the established Church" of England, set political rather than artistic reasons, fulfilled the up a pulpit, or "oratory," of his own, where, "at set laureate's duty of writing a poem every year for the times, he delivereth strange speeches, compiled by monarch's birthday.

himself and his associates... . He is an absolute

4. Agricultural laborer (1705—1756), known as dunce, but generally reputed crazy" [Swift's note],

the "thresher poet"; his poetry brought him the

8. "Woolston was a clergyman, but for want of notice and patronage of Queen Caroline. Swift bread, hath in several treatises, in the most blas-mocked him in On Stephen Duck, the Thresher, phemous manner, attempted to turn our Savior and Favorite Poet, A Quibbling Epigram (1730).

and his miracles into ridicule. He is much caressed
5. A periodical written in opposition to Walpole by many great courtiers, and by all the infidels, and from 1726 onwards; the title defines Walpole as a his books read generally by the Court ladies” man of “craft” in the sense of “deception”; see [Swift’s note]. Swift is probably referring to Swift’s note to line 194.

Thomas Woolston (1670—1733), a freethinker
6. “Walpole hires a set of party scribblers, who do who gained notoriety with his Discourses on the nothing else but write in his defense” [Swift’s Miracles of our Savior.
note].

9. Before the Reformation, Gloucestershire had
7. The Rev. John Henley (1692-1756), “lacking been rich in monasteries, and hence was prover-both merit and luck to get preferment [advancebially God’s home.

V E R S E S O N T H E D E A T H O F D R . S W I F T , D .
S . P . D . / 5 8 5

BOO A club assembled at the Rose;1
Where, from discourse of this and that

I grow the subject of their chat.
And while they toss my name about,
With favor some, and some without,
305 One, quite indifferent in the cause,
My character impartial⁰ draws: impartially, without bias
“The Dean, if we believe report,
Was never ill received at court.
As for his works in verse and prose,
BIO I own myself no judge of those;
Nor can I tell what critics thought ‘em,
But this I know, all people bought ‘em,
As with a moral view designed
To cure the vices of mankind.
BIS “His vein, ironically grave,
Exposed the fool and lashed the knave,
To steal a hint was never known,
But what he writ was all his own.²
“He never thought an honor done him,
320 Because a duke was proud to own him,
Would rather slip aside and choose
To talk with wits in dirty shoes;
Despised the fools with stars and garters,³
So often seen caressing Chartres.⁴
325 He never courted men in station,
Nor persons held in admiration;
Of no man’s greatness was afraid,
Because he sought for no man’s aid.
Though trusted long in great affairs,

330 He gave himself no haughty airs;
Without regarding private ends,
Spent all his credit for his friends;
And only chose the wise and, good;
No flatterers, no allies in blood;
335 But succored⁰ virtue in distress, aided
And seldom failed of good success;
As numbers in their hearts must own⁰ acknowledge
Who, but for him, had been unknown.

“With princes kept a due decorum,

340 But never stood in awe before ‘em.⁵

He followed David’s lesson just:

In princes never put thy trust:⁶

1. A fashionable tavern popular with playgoers

4. See the note to line 189.

because it was near the Drury Lane Theater.

5. Two early copies of Swift’s poem insert the fol-

2. An ironic line, since Swift praises his own orig-lowing lines after line 340, presumably from man-inality with a line stolen from Sir John Denham’s uscripts containing some of Swift’s corrections to elegy for another poet, Abraham Cowley (1618—

the m u c h revised text (see note 6, p. 577): “And to 1667; see pp. 470—72): “To him no author was her majesty, God bless her, / Would speak as free unknown / Yet what he wrote was all his own.”

as to her dresser, / She thought it his peculiar

3. Stars and garters were symbols of knighthood whim, / Nor took it ill as come from him.” The and other high honor. Garters were worn by the reference is to Queen Caroline and Lady Suffolk, members of the chivalric order called the Knights her “dresser.”

of the Garter, membership in which allowed a man
6. Cf. Psalm 146.3. David, the second king of to put Sir before his name.

Israel, is the biblical Psalmist.

5 8 6 / J O N A T H A N S W I F T

And would you make him truly sour,

Provoke him with a slave in power.

345 The Irish senate if you named,

With what impatience he declaimed!

Fair Liberty was all his cry.

For her he stood prepared to die;

For her he boldly stood alone;

350 For her he oft exposed his own.

Two kingdoms, just as faction led,

Had set a price upon his head,

But not a traitor could be found,

To sell him for six hundred pound.⁷

355 “Had he but spared his tongue and pen,

He might have rose like other men;

But power was never in his thought,

And wealth he valued not a groat:⁸

Ingratitude he often found,

360 And pitied those who meant the wound;

But kept the tenor⁰ of his mind, usual course
 To merit well of human kind:
 Nor made a sacrifice of those Who still⁰ were true, to please his foes. always 365 He labored many a fruitless hour,
 To reconcile his friends in power;
 Saw mischief by a faction brewing,
 While they pursued each other's ruin.
 But finding vain was all his care,
 370 He left the court in mere⁰ despair.⁹ complete
 "And, oh! how short are human schemes!
 Here ended all our golden dreams.
 What St. John's skill in state affairs,
 What Ormonde's¹ valor, Oxford's cares,
 375 To save their sinking country lent,
 Was all destroyed by one event.²
 Too soon that precious life was ended,
 On which alone our weal⁰ depended well-being
 When up a dangerous faction starts,³

7. Two "proclamations," one from the queen in thereupon returned to his Deanery in Dublin, 1713, one from Lord Carteret, a member of the where for many years he was worried by the new queen's party, in 1724, offered rewards of £300 to people in power" [Swift's note], anyone who could "discover the author" of, respec-
 1. James Butler, duke of Ormonde, who suctively, The Public Spirit of the Whigs and The Dra-

ceeded to the command of the English armies on pier's Fourth Letter [for the latter, see note to line the Continent when the duke of Marlborough was 168]; in neither case “was the Dean discovered” stripped of his offices by Anne, in 1711. He went [Swift's note].

into exile in 1714 and was active in Jacobite polit-8. English coin from 1351 until 1662; the equivical intrigues, i.e., efforts to return the Stuart monalent of four pence.

archy to the throne. For Bolingbroke and Oxford,
9. In the last months of Queen Anne's life, her see previous note.

Tory “Ministry fell to variance [into dispute], ...

2. “In the height of the quarrel between the min-[Simon] Harcourt the Chancellor, and Lord
isters, the Queen [Anne] died” [Swift's note].

Bolingbroke the Secretary, were discontented with

3. After Anne's death, the opposing party, the the Treasurer [Robert Harley, earl of] Oxford, for Whigs, came to power, “which they exercised with his too much mildness to the Whig Party... . The the utmost rage and revenge” [Swift's note]. Swift Dean, who was the only person who endeavored feared for his own safety and considered emigrat-to reconcile them, found it impossible, and ing to one of the Channel Islands.

VERSES ON THE DEATH OF DR. SWIFT, D.
S. P. D. / 5 8 7

380 With wrath and vengeance in their hearts;

By solemn League and Covenant bound,⁴

To ruin, slaughter, and confound;

To turn religion to a fable,

And make the government a Babel;

385 Pervert the laws, disgrace the gown,

Corrupt the senate, rob the crown;

To sacrifice old England's glory,

And make her infamous in story:

When such a tempest shook the land,

390 How could unguarded Virtue stand?

With horror, grief, despair, the Dean

Beheld the dire destructive scene:

His friends in exile, or the Tower,⁵

Himself within the frown of power,

395 Pursued by base envenomed pens,⁶

Far to the land of slaves and fens;⁷

A servile race in folly nursed,

Who truckle⁰ most, when treated worst. cringe obsequiously

“By innocence and resolution,

400 He bore continual persecution;

While numbers to preferment rose,

Whose merits were to be his foes;

When even his own familiar friends,

Intent upon their private ends,

405 Like renegades now he feels,

Against him lifting up their heels.⁸
 “The Dean did, by his pen, defeat
 An infamous destructive cheat;⁹
 Taught fools their interest how to know,
 410 And gave them arms to ward⁰ the blow. ward off
 Envy has owned it was his doing,
 To save that hapless land from ruin;
 While they who at the steerage¹ stood,
 And reaped the profit, sought his blood.
 415 “To save them from their evil fate,
 In him was held a crime of state.
 A wicked monster on the bench,²
 Whose fury blood could never quench;
 As vile and profligate a villain,

4. A reference to the establishment of Scottish copper halfpence into Ireland in 1723-24. See Presbyterianism, in 1643; as an Anglican, Swift note to line 168.

deplored this development.

1. The helm for steering a ship or, metaphorically,

5. Bolingbroke was in exile; the Whigs sent Oxford public affairs in Ireland.

to the Tower of London, where suspected traitors

2. William Whitshed, lord chief justice of the were imprisoned.

King’s Bench of Ireland. In 1720, when the jury

6. “Upon the Queen’s death, the Dean returned refused to find Swift’s anonymous pamphlet Pro- to live in Dublin... . Numberless libels were writ posal for the Universal Use of Irish Manufacture against him England, as a Jacobite; he was insulted wicked and seditious, Whitshed sent them back in the street” [Swift’s note],

nine times hoping to force them to another verdict.

7. Ireland; fens: wetlands.

Swift further notes that Whitshed “sat as a Judge

8. Cf. Psalm 41.9: “Yea, mine own familiar friend, afterwards on the trial of the printer of the Drain whom I trusted, which did eat of my bread, hath pier’s Fourth Letter [by Swift; see note to line 168] lifted up his heel against me.”

but the Jury, against all he could say or swear,

9. A reference to the scheme to introduce Wood’s threw out the bill.”

588 / J O N A T H A N S W I F T

420 As modern Scroggs, or old Tresilian;³

Who long all justice had discarded,

Nor feared he God, nor man regarded;⁴

Vowed on the Dean his rage to vent,

And make him of his zeal repent:

425 But Heaven his innocence defends,

The grateful people stand his friends;

Not strains of law, nor judge’s frown,

Nor topics⁰ brought to please the crown, charges

Nor witness hired, nor jury picked,

430 Prevail to bring him in convict.

“In exile,⁵ with a steady heart,
He spent his life’s declining part;
Where folly, pride, and faction sway,
Remote from St. John, Pope, and Gay.
435 “His friendships there, to few confined,
Were always of the middling kind;⁶
No fools of rank, a mongrel breed,
Who fain would pass for lords indeed:
Where titles give no right or power,
440 And peerage is a withered flower;⁷
He would have held it a disgrace,
If such a wretch had known his face.
On rural squires, that kingdom’s bane,
He vented oft his wrath in vain;
445 Biennial squires⁸ to market brought:
Who sell their souls, and votes for naught;
The nation stripped, go joyful back,
To rob the church, their tenants rack,⁰ torture by excessive rent
Go snacks with rogues and rapparees;⁹
450 And keep the peace¹ to pick up fees;
In every job to have a share,
A jail or barrack to repair;
And turn the tax for public roads,
Commodious to their own abodes.²
455 “Perhaps I may allow the Dean
Had too much satire in his vein;
And seemed determined not to starve it,
3. Sir William “Scroggs was Chief Justice under

7. “The peers of Ireland lost a great part of their King Charles the Second: his judgment always varied jurisdiction by one single Act [of 1720] and tamely yielded in State trials, according to directions from the submitted to this infamous mark of slavery without [royal] Court.” Scroggs was impeached for his misdeeds the least resentment, or remonstrance” [Swift’s demeanors in office in 1680. Sir Robert “Tresilian note], was a wicked Judge, hanged above three hundred

8. “The Parliament ... in Ireland meet but once years ago [impeached in 1381 and hanged in in two years; and after giving five times more than 1387]” [Swift’s note],

they can afford, return home to reimburse them-

4. Cf. Luke 18.2: “There was in a city a judge, selfish by all country jobs and oppression, of which which feared not God, neither regarded man.”

some few only are here mentioned” [Swift’s note],

5. “In Ireland, which he had reason to call a place

9. “The highwaymen in Ireland are ... usually of exile; to which country nothing could have called rapparees, which was a name given to those driven him, but the Queen’s death, who had deter- Irish soldiers who in small parties used ... to plundered to fix him to England” [Swift’s note], der the Protestants” [Swift’s note],

6. “The Dean was not acquainted with one single

1. Act as magistrates.

Lord spiritual or temporal. He only conversed with

2. Make the new public turnpike roads more convenient for themselves by having them cross near small number of either” [Swift’s note; not entirely true].

true].

T H E D A Y O F J U D G M E N T / 5 8 9

B e c a u s e n o a g e c o u l d m o r e d e s e r v e i t .

Y e t m a l i c e n e v e r w a s h i s a i m ;

460 H e l a s h e d t h e v i c e , b u t s p a r e d t h e n a m e ; 3

N o i n d i v i d u a l c o u l d r e s e n t ,

W h e r e t h o u s a n d s e q u a l l y w e r e m e a n t ;

H i s s a t i r e p o i n t s a t n o d e f e c t ,

B u t w h a t a l l m o r t a l s m a y c o r r e c t ;

465 F o r h e a b h o r r e d t h a t s e n s e l e s s t r i b e

W h o c a l l i t h u m o r w h e n t h e y g i b e :

H e s p a r e d a h u m p , o r c r o o k e d n o s e ,

W h o s e o w n e r s s e t n o t u p f o r b e a u x .

T r u e g e n u i n e d u l l n e s s m o v e d h i s p i t y ,

470 U n l e s s i t o f f e r e d t o b e w i t t y .

T h o s e w h o t h e i r i g n o r a n c e c o n f e s s e d ,

H e n e ’ e r o f f e n d e d w i t h a j e s t ;

B u t l a u g h e d t o h e a r a n i d i o t q u o t e

A v e r s e f r o m H o r a c e 4 l e a r n e d b y r o t e .

475 ” H e k n e w a n h u n d r e d p l e a s a n t s t o r i e s ,

W i t h a l l t h e t u r n s o f W h i g s a n d T o r i e s :

W a s cheerful to his dying day;
And friends would let him have his way.
” H e gave the little wealth he h a d
480 To build a h o u s e for fools and mad;5
And showed by one satiric touch,
No nation wanted it so m u c h .
T h a t kingdom he hath left his debtor,
I wish it soon may have a better.”

1731-32 1739

ISAAC W A T T S

1674-1748

The Day of Judgment

An Ode Attempted in English Sapphic1

W h e n the fierce north wind with his airy forces
Rears up the Baltic to a f o a m i n g fury,
And the red lightning with a storm of hail c o m e s
R u s h i n g a m a i n 0 down, violently
5 H o w the poor sailors stand a m a z e d and tremble,
While the hoarse thunder, like a bloody trumpet,

3. An ironic disclaimer, as this poem shows.

Hospital.

4. Roman poet and satirist (65—8 B.C.E.).

1. A poetic form consisting of quatrains utilizing

5. Swift's will left a substantial sum for the construction of a mental hospital, the first in Ireland, which was opened in 1757 as St. Patrick's

590 / I S A A C W A T T S

Roars a loud onset⁰ to the gaping waters, assault

Quick to devour them!

Such shall the noise be and the wild disorder,

(If things eternal may be like these earthly)

Such the dire terror, when the great Archangel

Shakes the creation,

Tears the strong pillars of the vault of heaven,

Breaks up old marble, the repose of princes;

See the graves open, and the bones arising,

Flames all around 'em!

Hark, the shrill outcries of the guilty wretches!

Lively bright horror and amazing anguish

Stare through their eyelids, while the living worm lies²

Gnawing within them.

Thoughts like old vultures prey upon their heart-strings,

And the smart⁰ twinges,⁰ when the eye beholds the sharp / pains

Lofty Judge frowning, and a flood of vengeance

Rolling afore him.

Hopeless immortals! how they scream and shiver,

While devils push them to the pit wide-yawning

Hideous and gloomy, to receive them headlong

Down to the center.³

Stop here, my fancy: (all away ye horrid

Doleful⁰ ideas); come, arise to Jesus; gloomy

How He sits God-like! and the saints around him

Throned, yet adoring!

Oh may I sit there when he comes triumphant Dooming the nations! then ascend to glory
While our hosannas⁴ all along the passage Shout the Redeemer.

1 7 0 6

A Prospect of Heaven Makes Death Easy

There is a land of pure delight
Where saints immortal reign;
Infinite day excludes the night,
And pleasures banish pain.

2. In Mark 9.44, Christ describes hell as a place liovers, casting the unbelievers into hell (“the pit”), “where their worm dieth not.”

and inviting believers to inherit the kingdom of

3. At the Last Judgment, Christ will judge “all the heaven (Matthew 25.31-41).

nations,” separating the believers from the unbe-

4. Expressions of great praise.

O U R G O D , O U R H E L P / 5 9 1

5 There everlasting spring abides,

And never-withering flowers;

D e a t h like a narrow sea divides

This heavenly land f r o m ours.

Sweet fields beyond the swelling flood

10 S t a n d dressed in living green:

So to the Jews old C a n a a n stood,

While J o r d a n rolled between.⁵

B u t timorous⁰ mortals start⁰ and shrink fearful / recoil

To cross this narrow sea,
15 And linger shivering on the brink,
And fear to l a u n c h away.
Oh could we m a k e our doubts remove, withdraw
T h e s e gloomy doubts that rise,
And see the C a n a a n that we love,
20 With u n b e c l o u d e d eyes;
C o u l d we but climb where M o s e s stood
And view the l a n d s c a p e o'er,⁶
Not Jordan's stream, nor death's cold flood,
Should fright us f r o m the shore.

1 7 0 7

Our God, Our Help⁷

O u r G o d , our help in ages past,
O u r hope for years to c o m e ,
O u r shelter f r o m the stormy blast,
And our eternal home:

5 U n d e r the shadow of thy throne
Thy saints have dwelt secure;
Sufficient is thine arm alone,
And our d e f e n s e is sure.

B e f o r e the hills in order stood

io Or earth received her frame,⁰ shape, structure

F r o m everlasting thou art G o d ,
To endless years the same.

Thy word c o m m a n d s our flesh to dust,
“Return, ye sons of men”;⁸

5. Canaan was the land, “flowing with milk and

7. Originally titled “Man Frail and God Eternal,” honey” (Joshua 5.6), promised to the Israelites this hymn derives from Psalm 90.

after their forty years of wandering in the wilder-

8. From Psalm 90.3; God’s curse after the sin of ness. To reach it they had to cross the Jordan River.

Adam and Eve: “In the sweat of thy face shalt thou

6. Moses was allowed to ascend Mt. Nebo to see eat bread, till thou return unto the ground; for out the promised land, but was not allowed to enter of it was thou taken: for dust thou art, and unto Canaan because of his sins (Deuteronomy 34.1—4).

dust shalt thou return” (Genesis 3.19).

592 / I S A A C W A T T S

15 All nations rose from earth at first,

And turn to earth again.

A thousand ages in thy sight

Are like an evening gone;

Short as the watch⁹ that ends the night

20 Before the rising sun.

The busy tribes of flesh and blood,

With all their lives and cares,

Are carried downwards by thy flood,

And lost in following years.

25 Time, like an ever-rolling stream,

Bears all its sons away;

They fly forgotten, as a dream

Dies at the opening day.

Like flowery fields the nations stand,
30 Pleased with the morning light;
The flowers beneath the mower's hand
Lie withering e'er 'tis night.
Our God, our help in ages past,
Our hope for years to come,
35 Be thou our guard while troubles last,
And our eternal home.

1719

Psalm 58

Warning to Magistrates¹

Judges, who rule the world by laws,
Will ye despise the righteous cause,
When th'injur'd poor before you stands?
Dare ye condemn the righteous poor,
5 And let rich sinners 'scape secure,
While gold and greatness bribe your hands?
Have ye forgot or never knew
That God will judge the judges too?
High in the Heavens his justice reigns;
io Yet you invade the rights of God,
And send your bold decrees abroad
To bind the conscience in your chains.

9. One of the three, four, or five periods into setts Bay Psalm Book (pp. 391-93), and by Chris-which the night was divided.

topher Smart (pp. 684—86). All of Watts's versions

1. Cf. the versions of this Psalm and the next one of the Psalms have short, italicized narrative titles.

by Mary Sidney (pp. 225 - 26) , from The Massachu-

P S A L M 1 1 4 / 5 9 3

A poisoned arrow is your tongue,

T h e arrow sharp, the poison strong,

15 And death attends where e'er it wounds:

You hear no counsels, cries or tears;

So the deaf adder stops her ears

Against the power of c h a r m i n g sounds.

B r e a k out their teeth, eternal God,

20 T h o s e teeth of lions dyed in blood;

And c r u s h the serpents in the dust:

As empty chaff,² when whirlwinds rise,

B e f o r e the sweeping tempest flies,

So let their hopes and n a m e s be lost.

25 Th'Almighty thunders f r o m the sky,

Their grandeur melts, their titles die,

As hills of snow dissolve and run,

Or snails that perish in their slime,

Or births that c o m e before their time,

30 Vain births, that never see the sun.

T h u s shall the v e n g e a n c e of the Lord

Safety and joy to saints afford;

And all that hear shall join and say,

” S u r e there's a G o d that rules on high,

35 “A G o d that hears his children cry,

“And will their sufferings well repay.”

1719

Psalm 114

Miracles Attending Israel's Journey

W h e n I s r ' e l , f r e e d f r o m P h a r a o h ' s h a n d ,

L e f t t h e p r o u d t y r a n t a n d h i s l a n d ,³

T h e t r i b e s w i t h c h e e r f u l h o m a g e o w n^o a c k n o w l e d g e

T h e i r k i n g ; a n d J u d a h w a s h i s t h r o n e .⁴

5 A c r o s s t h e d e e p t h e i r j o u r n e y l a y ;

T h e d e e p^o d i v i d e s t o m a k e t h e m w a y . R e d S e a

J o r d a n⁵ b e h e l d t h e i r m a r c h , a n d l e d ,

W i t h b a c k w a r d c u r r e n t , t o h i s h e a d .

T h e m o u n t a i n s s h o o k l i k e f r i g h t e d s h e e p , i o L i k e l a m b s t h e l i t t l e h i l l o c k s l e a p ;

2. The husks of the grain separated by threshing southern portion of the Israelites' land.

or winnowing.

5. River in Palestine that empties into the Dead

3. I.e., Egypt.

Sea. For the river's miraculous turning back, see

4. Originally (Genesis 29) the name of the fourth

Joshua 3; for the Red Sea's splitting, see Exodus son of Jacob and Leah, Judah (which comes from 14.

the Hebrew word for praise) came to designate the

594 / J O H N G A Y

N o t S i n a i⁶ o n h e r b a s e c o u l d s t a n d ,

C o n s c i o u s o f s o v ' r e i g n p o w ' r a t h a n d .

W h a t p o w ' r c o u l d m a k e t h e d e e p d i v i d e ?

M a k e J o r d a n b a c k w a r d r o l l h i s t i d e ?

15 Why did ye leap, ye little hills?
And whence the fright that Sinai feels?
Let ev'ry mountain, ev'ry flood,
Retire and know th' approaching G o d ,
T h e King of Isr'el: see him here!

20 Tremble , thou earth, adore an d fear.
He thunders, and all nature m o u r n s ;
T h e rock to standing pools he turns,
Flints spring with fountains at his word,
A n d fires and seas c o n f e s s the Lord.

1719

J O H N G A Y

1685-1732

Songs from The Beggar's Opera

Act I, Scene viii, Air X — "Thomas, I Cannot," 2 etc.

Polly. I like a ship in storms was tossed,
Yet afraid to put into land,
For seized in the port the vessel's lost
W h o s e treasure is contraband.⁰ smuggled goods
T h e waves are laid,
My duty's⁰ paid; tax on imports
O joy beyond expression!
T h u s safe ashore
I ask no more;
My all is in my possession.

6. Mt. Sinai, the mountain in a desert region marries the handsome highwayman, Macheath.
south and west of modern-day Israel from which Peacham informs against Macheath (both to col-God, according to Exodus 20.1—20, gave the Ten lect the reward and to rid himself of an unwanted Commandments to Moses. For the miraculous son-in-law). Lucy Lockit, the prison warder's events associated with Sinai during the Israelites' daughter, whom Macheath had previously seduced journey out of Egypt, see Exodus 19.16-20.

and promised to marry, effects his escape.

1. The Beggar's Opera (1728) was the first ballad Macheath is recaptured and sentenced to hang, opera, a type of play in which the action, usually but through an absurd twist the play ends happily.
comic, is conveyed in prose interspersed with Because all the songs from The Beggar's Opera songs set to traditional or contemporary melodies were published in 1728, we do not print the date (each set of lyrics here is sung to a preexisting for each.

tune). This opera is a satire of corrupt government,

2. A popular song, the tune to which these words and its comic but realistic characters are the are sung; Polly, having secretly married Macheath, underclass of London. Polly, the daughter of Pea-has been first violently chided, then forgiven, by cham (an informer and receiver of stolen goods), her parents.

SONGS FROM THE BEGGAR'S OPERA / 595

*Act I, Scene ix, Air XI—‘A Soldier and a Sailor’*³

A fox may steal your hens, sir,

A whore your health and pence, 0 sir, money

Your daughter rob your chest, sir,

Your wife may steal your rest, sir,

5 A thief your goods and plate.

B u t this is all for p i c k i n g , 0 pilfering, petty thievery

With rest, pence, chest and chicken;

It ever was decreed, sir,

If lawyer’s hand is fee’d, sir,

10 He steals your whole estate.

*Act I, Scene xiii, Air XVI—“Over the Hills, and Far Away”*⁴

Mac. Were I laid on Greenland’s coast,

And in my arms embraced my lass,

Warm amidst eternal frost,

Too soon the half-year’s night would pass.

5 Polly. Were I sold on Indian soil,

Soon as the burning day was closed,

I could mock the sultry toil

When on my charmer’s breast reposed.

Mac. And I would love you all the day,

io Polly. Every night would kiss and play,

Mac. If with me you’d fondly stray

Polly. Over the hills, and far away.

*Act II, Scene iv, Air IV—Cotillion*⁵

Youth’s the season made for joys,

Love is then our duty:

She alone who that employs,

Well deserves her beauty.
Let's be gay
While we may,
Beauty's a flower despised in decay.

Chorus.

Youth's the season, etc.
Let us drink and sport to-day,
Ours is not to-morrow:
Love with youth flies swift away,
Age is naught but sorrow.
Dance and sing,
Time's on the wing,
Life never knows the return of spring.

Chorus.

Let us drink, etc.

3. Sung by Polly's father, Peacham; Polly's parents penal settlement; here, they sing about their desire worry that Macheath may have several wives, so not to be separated.

that if he were to die, her inheritance of his prop-

5. A dance of French origin; Macheath dances erty would come into dispute.

and sports with a group of women in a tavern.

4. Polly fears that Macheath will be deported to a

596 / ALEXANDER POPE

*Act II, Scene xv, Air XXII—"The Lass of Patie's Mill"*6

Lucy. I like the fox shall grieve, Whose mate hath left her side;

W h o m hounds, from m o r n to eve,

C h a s e o'er the country wide.

5 W h e r e ca n my lover hide?

W h e r e cheat the wary pack?

If love be not his guide,

He never will c o m e back.

Act III, Scene xiii, Air XXVII—"Green Sleeves"7

Since laws were m a d e , for every degree,

To curb vice in others, as well as me,

I wonder we han't better c o m p a n y

U p o n Tyburn tree.8

5 B u t gold fro m law ca n take out the sting;

And if rich m e n , like us, were to swing,

'Twould thin the land, such n u m b e r s to string

U p o n Tyburn tree.

1 7 2 8

A L E X A N D E R P O P E

1688-1744

From An Essay on Criticism

Part II

Of all the causes which conspire to blind
Man's erring judgment, and misguide the mind,
What the weak head with strongest bias rules,
Is pride, the never-failing vice of fools.

205 Whatever Nature has in worth denied,
She gives in large recruits⁰ of needful pride;
supplies

For as in bodies, thus in souls, we find What wants⁰ in blood and spirits swelled with wind
lacks

Pride, where wit fails, steps in to our defense,
210 And fills up all the mighty void of sense.

If once right reason drives that cloud away,
Truth breaks upon us with resistless day.

Trust not yourself: but your defects to know,
Make use of every friend — and every foe.

6. Lucy has agreed to help Macheath escape, and sits in his jail cell, drinking and singing.

he has promised to send for her when it is safe. 8. The gallows; Tyburn was a place of public execution. 7. Macheath, recaptured and condemned to hang, was kept in Middlesex until 1783.

AN ESSAY ON CRITICISM / 597

215 A little learning is a dangerous thing;
Drink deep, or taste not the Pierian spring.¹
There shallow draughts intoxicate the brain,
And drinking largely sobers us again.

Fired at first sight with what the Muse imparts, 220 In fearless youth we tempt⁰ the heights of arts, attempt While from the bounded level of our mind
Short views we take, nor see the lengths behind;
But more advanced, behold with strange surprise
New distant scenes of endless science rise!
225 So pleased at first the towering Alps we try,
Mount o'er the vales,⁰ and seem to tread the sky, valleys
The eternal snows appear already past,
And the first clouds and mountains seem the last;
But, those attained, we tremble to survey
230 The growing labors of the lengthened way,
The increasing prospect tires our wandering eyes,
Hills peep o'er hills, and Alps on Alps arise!
A perfect judge will read each work of wit
With the same spirit that its author writ:
235 Survey the whole, nor seek slight faults to find
Where Nature moves, and rapture warms the mind;
Nor lose, for that malignant dull delight,
The generous pleasure to be charmed with wit.
But in such lays as neither ebb nor flow,
240 Correctly cold, and regularly low,
That, shunning faults, one quiet tenor keep,
We cannot blame indeed—but we may sleep.
In wit, as nature, what affects our hearts
Is not the exactness of peculiar⁰ parts; particular 245 'Tis not a lip, or eye, we beauty call,
But the joint force and full result of all.

Thus when we view some well-proportioned dome
(The world's just wonder, and even thine, O Rome!²),
No single parts unequally surprise,
250 All comes united to the admiring eyes:
No monstrous height, or breadth, or length appear;
The whole at once is bold and regular.
Whoever thinks a faultless piece to see,
Thinks what ne'er was, nor is, nor e'er shall be.
255 In every work regard the writer's end,
Since none can compass more than they intend;
And if the means be just, the conduct true,
Applause, in spite of trivial faults, is due.
As men of breeding, sometimes men of wit,
260 To avoid great errors must the less commit,
Neglect the rules each verbal critic lays,
For not to know some trifles is a praise.

1. The spring in Pieria on Mt. Olympus, sacred to
2. Refers either to the dome of St. Peter's, i.e., the the Muses (in Greek mythology, nine sister god-wonder in (Catholic) Rome; or to the dome of St.
desses who inspired song, poetry, and the arts and Paul's, in London, i.e., a wonder to Rome. sciences).

598 / A L E X A N D E R P O P E

Most critics, fond of some subservient art,
Still make the whole depend upon a part:
265 They talk of principles, but notions prize,
And all to one loved folly sacrifice.

Once on a time La Mancha's knight,³ they say,
A certain bard encountering on the way,
Discoursed in terms as just, with looks as sage,
270 As e'er could Dennis,⁴ of the Grecian stage;
Concluding all were desperate sots and fools
Who durst depart from Aristotle's rules.⁵
Our author, happy in a judge so nice,⁰ overrefined
Produced his play, and begged the knight's advice;
275 Made him observe the subject and the plot,
The manners, passions, unities; what not?
All which exact to rule were brought about,
Were but a combat in the lists⁰ left out. arena
"What! leave the combat out?" exclaims the knight.
280 "Yes, or we must renounce the Stagirite."⁶
"Not so, by Heaven!" he answers in a rage,
"Knights, squires, and steeds must enter on the stage."
"So vast a throng the stage can ne'er contain."
"Then build a new, or act it in a plain."
285 Thus critics of less judgment than caprice,
Curious,⁰ not knowing, not exact, but nice, laboriously careful
Form short ideas, and offend in arts
(As most in manners), by a love to parts.
Some to conceit⁷ alone their taste confine,
290 And glittering thoughts struck out at every line;
Pleased with a work where nothing's just or fit,
One glaring chaos and wild heap of wit.
Poets, like painters, thus unskilled to trace
The naked nature and the living grace,

295 With gold and jewels cover every part,
 And hide with ornaments their want of art.
 True wit is Nature to advantage dressed,
 What oft was thought, but ne'er so well expressed;
 Something whose truth convinced at sight we find,
 300 That gives us back the image of our mind.
 As shades more sweetly recommend the light,
 So modest plainness sets off sprightly wit;
 For works may have more wit than does them good,
 As bodies perish through excess of blood.
 305 Others for language all their care express,
 And value books, as women men, for dress.
 Their praise is still⁰—the style is excellent; continually
 The sense they humbly take upon content.⁰ mere acquiescence

3. Don Quixote, hero of Cervantes's novel; but
 6. I.e., Aristotle, a native of Stagira. One of his this story comes from a spurious sequel to it, by principles was that tragic drama should maintain Don Alonzo Fernandez de Avellaneda.

unity of time and place.

4. John Dennis (1657—1734), an English critic.

7. Pointed wit, ingenuity and extravagance, or

5. Refers to the description of the purpose and affectation in the use of figures, especially similes forms of tragic drama contained in Aristotle's and metaphors.

Poetics.

AN ESSAY ON CRITICISM / 599

Words are like leaves; and where they most abound, 310 Much fruit of sense beneath is rarely found.

False eloquence, like the prismatic glass,
Its gaudy colors spreads on every place;
The face of Nature we no more survey,
All glares alike, without distinction gay.

315 But true expression, like the unchanging sun,
Clears and improves whate'er it shines upon; f
It gilds all objects, but it alters none. J

Expression is the dress of thought, and still Appears more decent as more suitable.

320 A vile conceit in pompous words expressed
Is like a clown⁰ in regal purple dressed: peasant
For different styles with different subjects sort,
As several garbs with country, town, and court.

Some by old words to fame have made pretense,
325 Ancients in phrase, mere moderns in their sense.

Such labored nothings, in so strange a style,
Amaze the unlearned, and make the learned smile;
Unlucky as Fungoso⁸ in the play,

These sparks with awkward vanity display f

330 What the fine gentleman wore yesterday; J

And but so mimic ancient wits at best,

As apes our grandsires in their doublets⁹ dressed.

In words as fashions the same rule will hold,

Alike fantastic if too new or old:

335 Be not the first by whom the new are tried,

Nor yet the last to lay the old aside.

But most by numbers⁰ judge a poet's song, versification
 And smooth or rough with them is right or wrong.
 In the bright Muse though thousand charms conspire,
 340 Her voice is all these tuneful fools admire,
 Who haunt Parnassus¹ but to please their ear,
 Not mend their minds; as some to church repair, (
 Not for the doctrine, but the music there. J
 These equal syllables alone require,
 345 Though oft the ear the open vowels tire,
 While expletives² their feeble aid do join,
 And ten low words oft creep in one dull line:
 While they ring round the same unvaried chimes,
 With sure returns of still expected rhymes;
 350 Where'er you find "the cooling western breeze,"
 In the next line, it "whispers through the trees";
 If crystal streams "with pleasing murmurs creep,"
 The reader's threatened (not in vain) with "sleep";
 Then, at the last and only couplet fraught 355 With some unmeaning thing they call a thought,
 A needless Alexandrine³ ends the song
 That, like a wounded snake, drags its slow length along.

8. A character in Ben Jonson's comedy Every Man

2. Words added to fill out lines—for example, "do" out of His Humor (1599).

in this line.

9. Jackets in a style popular in the sixteenth and

3. A line in iambic hexameter—for example, the seventeenth centuries.

next line.

1. The mountain in Greece sacred to the Muses.

600 / A L E X A N D E R P O P E

Leave such to tune their own dull rhymes, and know

What's roundly smooth or languishingly slow;

360 And praise the easy vigor of a line

Where Denham's strength and Waller's sweetness join.⁴

True ease in writing comes from art, not chance,

As those move easiest who have learned to dance.

'Tis not enough no harshness gives offense,

365 The sound must seem an echo to the sense.

Soft is the strain when Zephyr⁰ gently blows, the west wind

And the smooth stream in smoother numbers flows;

But when loud surges lash the sounding shore,

The hoarse, rough verse should like the torrent roar.

370 When Ajax⁵ strives some rock's vast weight to throw,

The line too labors, and the words move slow;

Not so when swift Camilla scours the plain,

Flies o'er the unbending corn, and skims along the main.

Hear how Timotheus⁶ varied lays surprise,

375 And bid alternate passions fall and rise!

While at each change the son of Libyan Jove⁷

Now burns with glory, and then melts with love;

Now his fierce eyes with sparkling fury glow,

Now sighs steal out, and tears begin to flow:

380 Persians and Greeks like turns of nature⁸ found

And the world's victor stood subdued by sound!

The power of music all our hearts allow,

And what Timotheus was is Dryden now.
 Avoid extremes; and shun the fault of such 385 Who still are pleased too little or too much.
 At every trifle scorn to take offense:
 That always shows great pride, or little sense.
 Those heads, as stomachs, are not sure the best,
 Which nauseate⁰ all, and nothing can digest. vomit
 390 Yet let not each gay turn thy rapture move;
 For fools admire,⁰ but men of sense approve:⁹ wonder
 As things seem large which we through mists descry,⁰ perceive
 Dullness is ever apt to magnify.
 Some foreign writers, some our own despise;
 395 The ancients only, or the moderns prize.
 Thus wit, like faith, by each man is applied
 To one small sect, and all are damned beside.
 Meanly they seek the blessing to confine,
 And force that sun but on a part to shine,
 400 Which not alone the southern wit sublimes,⁰ raises, purifies
 But ripens spirits in cold northern climes;
 Which from the first has shone on ages past,
 Enlightens the present, and shall warm the last;
 4. John Dryden (1631-1700; see pp. 500-526), of the Greek warriors in the war with Troy. He is whom Pope echoes here, considered Sir John Den-contrasted with Camilla, a swift-footed messenger ham (1 6 1 5 - 1 6 6 9) and Edmund Waller (1 6 0 6 - of the moon goddess, Diana.

1687; see pp. 393—94) the principal shapers of the

6. The musician in Dryden's "Alexander's Feast."

closed pentameter couplet. He distinguished

7. The ... Jove: Alexander the Great.

between Denham's "strength" and Waller's "sweet-

8. Comparable alternations of feelings.

ness."

9. I.e., only after due deliberation.

5. The strongest, though not the most intelligent,

AN ESSAY ON CRITICISM / 601

Though each may feel increases and decays,

405 And see now clearer and now darker days.

Regard not then if wit be old or new,

But blame the false and value still the true.

Some ne'er advance a judgment of their own,

But catch the spreading notion of the town;

410 They reason and conclude by precedent,

And own" stale nonsense which they ne'er invent. claim as theirs

Some judge of authors' names, not works, and then

Nor praise nor blame the writings, but the men.

Of all this servile herd the worst is he 415 That in proud dullness joins with quality,

A constant critic at the great man's board,⁰ table

To fetch and carry nonsense for my lord.

What woeful stuff this madrigal would be

In some starved hackney⁰ sonneteer or me! for-hire

420 But let a lord once own" the happy lines, acknowledge as his

How the wit brightens! how the style refines!
Before his sacred name flies every fault,
And each exalted stanza teems with thought!
The vulgar thus through imitation err;
425 As oft the learn'd by being singular;⁰ peculiar
So much they scorn the crowd, that if the throng
By chance go right, they purposely go wrong.
So schismatics¹ the plain believers quit,
And are but damned for having too much wit.
430 Some praise at morning what they blame at night,
But always think the last opinion right.
A Muse by these is like a mistress used,
This hour she's idolized, the next abused;
While their weak heads like towns unfortified,
435 'Twixt sense and nonsense daily change their side.
Ask them the cause; they're wiser still, they say;
And still tomorrow's wiser than today.
We think our fathers fools, so wise we grow;
Our wiser sons, no doubt, will think us so.
440 Once school divines² this zealous isle o'erspread;
Who knew most sentences³ was deepest read.
Faith, Gospel, all seemed made to be disputed,
And none had sense enough to be confuted.
Scotists and Thomists now in peace remain
445 Amidst their kindred cobwebs in Duck Lane.⁴
If faith itself has different dresses worn,
What wonder modes in wit should take their turn?
Oft, leaving what is natural and fit,

The current folly proves the ready wit;
450 And authors think their reputation safe,
Which lives as long as fools are pleased to laugh.

1. Those who divide the church on points of tioned below.

theology.

3. Alludes to Peter Lombard's Book of Sentences,

2. Scholastic philosophers such as the Scotists a twelfth-century theological work.

and Thomists (followers of the medieval theologi-

4. A place in London where secondhand and ans Duns Scotus and St. Thomas Aquinas) menremaindered books were sold.

6 0 2 / A L E X A N D E R P O P E

Some valuing those of their own side or mind,
Still make themselves the measure of mankind:

Fondly⁰ we think we honor merit then, foolishly

455 When we but praise ourselves in other men.

Parties in wit attend on those of state,

And public faction doubles private hate.

Pride, Malice, Folly against Dryden rose,

In various shapes of parsons, critics, beaux;

460 But sense survived, when merry jests were past;

For rising merit will buoy up at last.

Might he return and bless once more our eyes,

New Blackmores and new Milbourns must arise.⁵

Nay, should great Homer lift his awful head,

465 Zoilus⁶ again would start up from the dead.

Envy will merit, as its shade,⁰ pursue, ghost
But like a shadow, proves the substance true;
For envied wit, like Sol^o eclipsed, makes known the sun
The opposing body's grossness, not its own.

470 When first that sun too powerful beams displays,
It draws up vapors which obscure its rays;
But even those clouds at last adorn its way,
Reflect new glories, and augment the day.

Be thou the first true merit to befriend;
475 His praise is lost who stays till all commend.

Short is the date, alas! of modern rhymes,
And 'tis but just to let them live betimes.⁰ early

No longer now that golden age appears,
When patriarch wits survived a thousand years:
480 Now length of fame (our second life) is lost,
And bare threescore is all even that can boast;
Our sons their fathers' failing language see,
And such as Chaucer is shall Dryden be.

So when the faithful pencil has designed 485 Some bright idea of the master's mind,
Where a new world leaps out at his command,
And ready Nature waits upon his hand;
When the ripe colors soften and unite,
And sweetly melt into just shade and light;
490 When mellowing years their full perfection give,
And each bold figure just begins to live,
f The treacherous colors the fair art betray,
And all the bright creation fades away!

Unhappy wit, like most mistaken things, misunderstood.

495 Atones not for that envy which it brings.

In youth alone its empty praise we boast,

But soon the short-lived vanity is lost;

Like some fair flower the early spring supplies,

That gaily blooms, but even in blooming dies,

500 What is this wit, which must our cares employ?

5. Sir Richard Blackmore (1650—1729), physician 1720) had attacked his translation of Virgil, and poet, had attacked Dryden for the immorality 6. A Greek critic of the fourth century B.C.E., who of his plays; the Rev. Luke Milbourne (1649— wrote a book of carping criticism of Homer.

AN ESSAY ON CRITICISM / 603

The owner's wife, that other men enjoy;

Then most our trouble still when most admired,

And still the more we give, the more required;

Whose fame with pains we guard, but lose with ease,

505 Sure some to vex, but never all to please;

'Tis what the vicious fear, the virtuous shun,

By fools 'tis hated, and by knaves undone!

If wit so much from ignorance undergo,

Ah, let not learning too commence its foe!

510 Of old those met rewards who could excel,

And such were praised who but endeavored well;

Though triumphs were to generals only due,

Crowns were reserved to grace the soldiers too.

Now they who reach Parnassus' lofty crown

515 Employ their pains to spurn some others down;

And while self-love each jealous writer rules,

Contending wits become the sport of fools;
But still the worst with most regret commend,
For each ill author is as bad a friend.
520 To what base ends, and by what abject ways,
Are morals urged through sacred lust of praise! accursed
Ah, ne'er so dire a thirst of glory boast,
Nor in the critic let the man be lost!
Good nature and good sense must ever join;
525 To err is human, to forgive divine.
But if in the noble minds some dregs remain
Nor yet purged off, spleen and sour disdain,
Discharge that rage on more provoking crimes,
Nor fear a dearth in these flagitious times. shameful, wicked
530 No pardon vile obscenity should find,
Though wit and art conspire to move your mind;
But dullness with obscenity must prove
As shameful sure as impotence in love.
In the fat age of pleasure, wealth, and ease
535 Sprung the rank weed, and thrived with large increase:
When love was all an easy monarch's care,
Seldom at council, never in a war;
Jilts ruled the state, and statesmen farces writ; king's mistresses
Nay, wits had pensions, and young lords had wit;
540 The fair sat panting at a courtier's play,
And not a mask went unimproved away;
The modest fan was lifted up no more,
And virgins smiled at what they blushed before.

The following license of a foreign reign⁹
545 Did all the dregs of bold Socinus¹ drain;
Then unbelieving priests reformed the nation,
And taught more pleasant methods of salvation;
Where Heaven's free subjects might their rights dispute,
7. Charles II, king of England from 1660 to 1685.

9. That of William III, king of England from 1689
The following lines describe the corruption of morto 1702. He was born in Holland.

als and letters under this recently dead monarch.

1. The name of two sixteenth-century Italian the-

8. A woman in a mask, as at a masquerade.

ologians who denied the divinity of Jesus.

604 / A L E X A N D E R P O P E

Lest G o d himself should s e e m too absolute;

550 Pulpits their sacred satire learned to spare,

And Vice admired to find a flatterer there!

E n c o u r a g e d thus, wit's Titans² braved the skies,

And the press groaned with licensed b l a s p h e m i e s .

T h e s e monsters, critics! with your darts engage,

555 H e r e point your thunder, and exhaust your rage!

Yet s h u n their fault, who, scandalously nice,⁰ overrefined

Will needs mistake³ an author into vice;

All s e e m s infected that the infected spy,

As all looks yellow to the j a u n d i c e d eye.

1709 1711

The Rape of the Lock

An Heroi-Comical Poem in Five Cantos⁴

Nolueram, Belinda, tuos violate capillos; sed juvat hoc precibus me

*tribuisse tuis.*⁵

MARTIAL

CANTOI

W h a t d i r e o f f e n s e f r o m a m o r o u s c a u s e s springs, W h a t m i g h t y c o n t e s t s r i s e f r o m t r i v i a l t h i n g s,

I s i n g — T h i s v e r s e t o C a r y l l, M u s e ! i s d u e:

T h i s, e v e n B e l i n d a m a y v o u c h s a f e t o v i e w:

5 S l i g h t i s t h e s u b j e c t, b u t n o t s o t h e p r a i s e,

I f s h e i n s p i r e, a n d h e a p p r o v e m y l a y s.⁰ songs

S a y w h a t s t r a n g e m o t i v e, G o d d e s s ! c o u l d c o m p e l

A w e l l - b r e d l o r d t o a s s a u l t a g e n t l e b e l l e ?

O h, s a y w h a t s t r a n g e r c a u s e, y e t u n e x p l o r e d, i o C o u l d m a k e a g e n t l e b e l l e r e j e c t a l o r d ?

I n t a s k s s o b o l d c a n l i t t l e m e n e n g a g e,

A n d i n s o f t b o s o m s d w e l l s s u c h m i g h t y r a g e ?

S o l^o t h r o u g h w h i t e c u r t a i n s s h o t a t i m o r o u s r a y, the sun

A n d o p e d t h o s e e y e s t h a t m u s t e c l i p s e t h e d a y.⁶

15 N o w l a p d o g s g i v e t h e m s e l v e s t h e r o u s i n g s h a k e,

A n d s l e e p l e s s l o v e r s j u s t a t t w e l v e a w a k e:

T h r i c e r u n g t h e b e l l, t h e s l i p p e r k n o c k e d t h e g r o u n d,⁷

2. Primordial giants, whose rule over Earth was ment of the topic, which the poet says he will broken by the Olympian gods.

“sing” as if in oral recitation, and the request to the

3. I.e., give a wrong meaning to (an author’s writ-

Muse (line 7) to grant him the necessary insight.

ings).

In Greek mythology, the Muses were nine sister
4. Based on an actual incident. A young man, goddesses who presided over poetry, song, and the Lord Petre, had sportively cut off a lock of a Miss
arts and sciences.

Arabella Fermor's hair. She and her family were
5. I did not want, Belinda, to violate your locks, angered by the prank, and Pope's friend John but it pleases me to have paid this tribute to your Caryll (line 3), a relative of Lord Petre's, asked the prayers (Latin); from the ancient Roman poet Mar-poet to turn the incident into jest, so that good cus Valerius Martialis. Miss Fermor did not in fact relations (and possibly negotiations toward a mar-request the poem.

riage between the principals) might be resumed.

6. The eyes of lovely young women—though
Pope responded by treating the incident in a mock Belinda is still asleep.

epic, or "heroi-comical poem." The epic conven-

7. These are two ways of summoning servants.

tions first encountered are the immediate state-

T H E R A P E O F T H E L O C K / 6 0 5

And the pressed watch returned a silver sound.⁸

Belinda still her downy pillow pressed,

20 Her guardian Sylph⁹ prolonged the balmy rest:

'Twas he had summoned to her silent bed

The morning dream that hovered o'er her head.

A youth more glittering than a birthnight beau
(That even in slumber caused her cheek to glow)
25 Seemed to her ear his winning lips to lay,
And thus in whispers said, or seemed to say:
“Fairest of mortals, thou distinguished care° object of care
Of thousand bright inhabitants of air!
If e’er one vision touched thy infant thought,
30 Of all the nurse and all the priest have taught,
Of airy elves by moonlight shadows seen,
The silver token, and the circled green,²
Or virgins visited by angel powers,
With golden crowns and wreaths of heavenly flowers,
35 Hear and believe! thy own importance know,
Nor bound thy narrow views to things below.
Some secret truths, from learned pride concealed,
To maids alone and children are revealed:
What though no credit doubting wits may give?
40 The fair and innocent shall still believe.
Know, then, unnumbered spirits round thee fly,
The light militia of the lower sky:
These, though unseen, are ever on the wing,
Hang o’er the box, and hover round the Ring.³
45 Think what an equipage thou hast in air,
And view with scorn two pages and a chair.⁰ sedan chair
As now your own, our beings were of old,
And once enclosed in woman’s beauteous mold;
Thence, by a soft transition, we repair
50 From earthly vehicles⁴ to these of air.

Think not, when woman's transient breath is fled,
That all her vanities at once are dead:
Succeeding vanities she still regards,
And though she plays no more, o'erlooks the cards.
55 Her joy in gilded chariots,0 when alive, carriages
And love of ombre,5 after death survive.
For when the Fair in all their pride expire,
To their first elements their souls retire:6

8. In a darkened bed, one discovered the approx-
note 9, p. 611.

imate time by a watch that chimed the hour and

6. Namely, to fire, water, earth, and air, the four quarter-hour when the stem was pressed.

elements of the old cosmology and the several hab-

9. Air spirit. He accounts for himself in the lines itats (in the Rosicrucian myths upon which Pope
below.

embroiders) of four different kinds of "spirit."

1. Courtier dressed for a royal birthday celebra-Envisaging these spirits as the transmigrated souls
tion.

of different kinds of women, Pope causes terma-

2. The silver token is the coin left by a fairy or elf, gants (scolds) to become fire spirits, or Salaman-
and the circled green is a ring of bright green grass, ders (line 60); irresolute women to become water supposed dancing circle of fairies.

spirits, or Nymphs (line 62); prudes, or women

3. The box is a theater box; the Ring, the circular who delight in rejection and negation, to become carriage course in Hyde Park.

earth spirits, or Gnomes (line 63); and coquettes

4. Mediums of existence, with a side glance at the to become air spirits, or Sylphs (line 65). Since fondness of young women for riding in carriages.

“nymph” could designate either a water spirit or (in

5. A popular card game, pronounced omher. See literary usage) a young lady, Pope permits his water

606 / ALEXANDER POPE

The sprites of fiery terms agants in flame

60 Mount up, and take a Salamander's name.

Soft yielding minds to water glide away,

And sip, with Nymphs, their elemental tea.

The graver prude sinks down ward to a Gnome,

In search of mischief still on earth to roam.

65 The light coquettes in Sylphs aloft repair,

And sport and flutter in the fields of air.

“Know further yet; whoever fair and chaste

Rejects mankind, is by some Sylph embrace d: For spirits, freed from mortal laws, with ease

70 Assume what sexes and what shapes they please. 7

What guards the purity of melting maids,

In courtly balls, and midnight masquerades
, Safe from the treacherous friend, the daring spark, The glance by day, the whisper in the dark,

75 When kind occasion prompts their warm
desires,

When music softens, and when dancing fires?

'Tis but their Sylph, the wise Celestials know,
Though Honor is the word with men below.

"Some nymphs there are, too conscious of their face, so For life predestined to the Gnomes
'embrace.

These swell their prospects and exalt their pride,
When offers are disdained, and love denied:

Then gay ideas crowd the vacant brain,

While peers, and dukes, and all their sweeping train, 85 And garters, stars, and coronets 8
appear,

And in soft sounds, your Grace's lutes their ear.

'Tis these that early taint the female soul,

Instruct the eyes of young coquette to roll,
Teach infant cheeks a bidden blush to know,
90 And little hearts to flutter at a beau.

"Oft, when the world 0 imagine women stray, fashionable people The Sylphs through mystic mazes guide their way, Through all the giddy circle
they pursue,

And old impertinence 0 expel by new. trifle

95 What tender maid but must a victim fall

To one man's treat, but for another's ball?

When Florio speaks what virgin could withstand,
If gentle Damon 9 did not squeeze her hand?

With varying vanities, from every part,

100 They shift the moving toys
shop of their heart;
Where wigs with wigs, with sword-knots sword-knots strive,¹

Beaux banish beaux, and coaches coaches drive.

This erring mortals levity may call;

Oh, blind to truth! the Sylphs contrive it all.

105 “Of these am I, who thy protection claim,
A watchful sprite, and Ariel is my name.

Late, as I ranged the crystal wilds of air, spirits to claim tea (pronounced tay) as their native

9. Like Florio, a conventional poetic name.

element (line 62) and to keep their former com-

1. Sword knots are ribbons tied to hilts. The verbal pany at tea parties.

repetition and the tangled syntax recall descrip-

7. Like Milton’s angels (Paradise Lost 1.423 ff.).

tions of the throng and press of battle appearing in

8. Insignia of rank and court status.

English translations of classical epic.

THERAPE OF THE LOCK / 607

In the clear mirror of thy ruling star

I saw, alas! some dread event
impend,

no Ere to them again² this morning
sundescend,

But Heaven reveals not what, or how,
or where: Warned by the Sylph, Opious maid, beware!

This to disclose is all thy guardian can:

Beware of all, but most beware of Man!”

lis He said; when Shock, 3 who thought she slept too long, Leaped up, and waked his mistress with his tongue.

'Twas then, Belinda, if report say true,

Thy eyes first opened on a billet-doux; 4

Wounds, charms, and ardors were no sooner read, 120 But all the vision vanished from thy head.

And now, unveiled, the toilet stands displayed,
Each silver vase in mystic order laid.

First, robed in white, then nymph intent adores,
With head uncovered, the cosmetic powers
s.

125 A heavenly image in the glass 5 appears;

To that she bends, to that her eyes she rears.

The inferior priestess, at her altar's side,

Trembling begins the sacred rites of pride.

Unnumbered treasures ope at once, and here
re 130 The various offerings of the world appear;

From each shenically culls with curious toil,
And decks the goddess with the glittering spoil.

This casket India's glowing gems unlocks,

And all Arabia 6 breathes from yonder box.

135 The tortoise here and elephant unite,

Transformed to combs, the speckled and the white.

Here files of pins extend their shining rows,

Puffs, powders, patches, Bibles, billet-doux
x.

Now awful 10 Beauty put on all its arms; awe- inspiring 140 The fair each moment rises in her charms,

Repairs her smiles, awakens every grace,
And calls forth all the wonders of her face;
Sees by degrees a purer blush arise,
And keener lightnings quicken in her eyes

145 The busy Sylphs surround their darling care,
These set the head, and those divide the hair,
Some fold the sleeve, whilst to others plait the gown; And Betty's praised for labors not her own.

CANTO II

Not with more glories, in the etheral plain,^{0 sky}
The sun first rises o'er the purpled main,^{0 sea} Than han, issuing forth, the rival of his beams⁷

Launched on the bosom of the silver Thames.

2. Broad expanse of land or sea.

tion, the "goddess" named later. Belinda presides

3. A name for lapdogs (like "Poll" for parrots; see over the appropriate rites. Betty, her maid, is the 4.164 [p. 618]); they looked like little "shocks" of "inferior priestess."

hair.

6. (Source of) perfumes.

4. A love letter. The affected language of the fash-

7. I.e., Belinda. She is en route to Hampton

ionable love letter is exhibited in the next line.

Court, a royal palace some twelve miles up the

5. The mirror. Her image is the object of venera-river Thames from London.

5 Fair nymphs and well-dressed youths around her shone,
But every eye was fixed on her alone.

On her white breast a sparkling cross she wore,
Which Jews might kiss, and infidels adore.

Her lively looks a sprightly mind disclose,
10 Quick as her eyes, and as unfixed as those:

Favors to none, to all she smiles extends;
Oft she rejects, but never once offends.

Bright as the sun, her eyes the gazers strike,
And, like the sun, they shine on all alike.

15 Yet graceful ease, and sweetness void of pride,
Might hide her faults, if belles had faults to hide:

If to her share some female errors fall,

Look on her face, and you'll forget 'em all.

This nymph, to the destruction of mankind,

20 Nourished two locks which graceful hung behind

In equal curls, and well conspired to deck

With shining ringlets the smooth ivory neck.

Love in these labyrinths his slaves detains,

And mighty hearts are held in slender chains.

25 With hairy springes⁰ we the birds betray, snares

Slight lines of hair surprise the finny prey,

Fair tresses man's imperial race ensnare,

And beauty draws us with a single hair.

The adventurous Baron the bright locks admired,

30 He saw, he wished, and to the prize aspired.

Resolved to win, he meditates the way,

By force to ravish, or by fraud betray;

For when success a lover's toil attends,
Few ask if fraud or force attained his ends.
35 For this, ere Phoebus⁸ rose, he had implored
Propitious Heaven, and every power adored,
But chiefly Love—to Love an altar built,
Of twelve vast French romances, neatly gilt.
There lay three garters, half a pair of gloves,
40 And all the trophies of his former loves.
With tender billet-doux he lights the pyre,
And breathes three amorous sighs to raise the fire.
Then prostrate falls, and begs with ardent eyes
Soon to obtain, and long possess the prize:
45 The powers gave ear, and granted half his prayer,
The rest the winds dispersed in empty air.
But now secure the painted vessel glides,
The sunbeams trembling on the floating tides,
While melting music steals upon the sky,
50 And softened sounds along the waters die.
Smooth flow the waves, the zephyrs⁰ gently play, west winds
Belinda smiled, and all the world was gay.
All but the Sylph—with careful thoughts oppressed,
The impending woe sat heavy on his breast.
55 He summons straight his denizens⁰ of air; inhabitants

8. Apollo, Greek and Roman god of the sun.

T H E R A P E O F T H E L O C K / 6 0 9

The lucid squadrons round the sails repair:0

assemble

Soft o'er the shrouds aerial whispers breathe

That seemed but zephyrs to the train beneath.
Some to the sun their insect-wings unfold,
Waft on the breeze, or sink in clouds of gold.
Transparent forms too fine for mortal sight,
Their fluid bodies half dissolved in light,
Loose to the wind their airy garments flew,
Thin glittering textures of the filmy dew,⁹
Dipped in the richest tincture of the skies,
Where light disports in ever-mingling dyes,
While every beam new transient colors flings,
Colors that change whene'er they wave their wings.
Amid the circle, on the gilded mast,
Superior by the head was Ariel placed;
His purple pinions opening to the sun,
He raised his azure wand, and thus begun:
"Ye Sylphs and Sylphids, to your chief give ear!
Fays, Fairies, Genii, Elves, and Daemons, hear!
Ye know the spheres and various tasks assigned
By laws eternal to the aerial kind.
Some in the fields of purest ether play,
And bask and whiten in the blaze of day.
Some guide the course of wandering orbs on high,
Or roll the planets through the boundless sky.
Some less refined, beneath the moon's pale light
Pursue the stars that shoot athwart the night,
Or suck the mists in grosser air below,
Or dip their pinions in the painted bow,^o

rainbow

Or brew fierce tempests on the wintry main,
Or o'er the glebe⁹ distill the kindly rain.

farmland

Others on earth o'er human race preside,
Watch all their ways, and all their actions guide:
Of these the chief the care of nations own,
And guard with arms divine the British Throne.

“Our humbler province is to tend the Fair,
Not a less pleasing, though less glorious care:
To save the powder from too rude a gale,
Nor let the imprisoned essences exhale;
To draw fresh colors from the vernal flowers;
To steal from rainbows e'er they drop in showers
A brighter wash;¹⁰ to curl their waving hairs,

cosmetic lotion

Assist their blushes, and inspire their airs;
Nay oft, in dreams invention we bestow,
To change a flounce, or add a furbelow.¹¹

ornamental pleat

“This day black omens threat the brightest fair,
That e'er deserved a watchful spirit's care;
Some dire disaster, or^o by force or slight,

whether

But what, or where, the Fates have wrapped in night:
Whether the nymph shall break Diana's law,¹
Or some frail china jar receive a flaw,

9. The supposed material of spider webs.

1. Diana was the goddess of chastity.

610 / ALEXANDER POPE

Or stain her honor or her new brocade,
Forget her prayers, or miss a masquerade,
Or lose her heart, or necklace, at a ball;

no Or whether Heaven has doomed that Shock
2 must fall.

Haste, then, ye spirits! to your charge repair:

The fluttering fan be Zephyretta's care;

The drops⁰ to thee, Brillante, we consign; earrings
And, Momentilla, let the watch be thine;

115 Do thou, Crispissa,³ tend her favorite Lock;

Ariel himself shall be the guard of Shock.

“To fifty chosen Sylphs, of special note, We trust the important charge, the petticoat;
Of that we know that sevenfold fence to fail, 120 Though stiff with hoops, and armed with the ribs of whale.

Form a strong line about the silver bound,

And guard the wide circumference around.

” Whatever spirit, careless of his charge,

His post neglects, or leaves the fair at large,

125 Shall feel sharp vengeance soon o’ertake his sins,

Bestopped in vials, or transfixed with pins,

Or plunged in lakes of bitter washes lie,

Or wedged whole ages in a bodkin’s⁰ eye;

large needle’s

Gums and pomatums⁴ shall his flight restrain,

130 While clogged he beats his silken wings in vain, Or alum styptics with contracting power

S h r i n k h i s t h i n e s s e n c e l i k e a r i v e l e d ⁰ f l o w e r :

shriveled

O r , a s I x i o n s f i x e d , t h e w r e t c h s h a l l f e e l

T h e g i d d y m o t i o n o f t h e w h i r l i n g m i l l , ⁰

cocoa mill

135 I n f u m e s o f b u r n i n g c h o c o l a t e s h a l l g l o w ,

A n d t r e m b l e a t t h e s e a t h a t f r o t h s b e l o w ! ”

H e s p o k e ; t h e s p i r i t s f r o m t h e s a i l s d e s c e n d ;

S o m e , o r b i n o r b , a r o u n d t h e n y m p h e x t e n d ;

S o m e t h r e a d t h e m a z y r i n g l e t s o f h e r h a i r ;

140 S o m e h a n g u p o n t h e p e n d a n t s o f h e r e a r :

W i t h b e a t i n g h e a r t s t h e d i r e e v e n t t h e y w a i t ,

A n x i o u s , a n d t r e m b l i n g f o r t h e b i r t h o f F a t e .

C A N T O I I I

C l o s e b y t h o s e m e a d s , ⁰ f o r e v e r c r o w n e d w i t h f l o w e r s , meadows W h e r e T h a m e s w i t h p r i d e s u r v e y s h i s r i s i n g t o w e r s ,

T h e r e s t a n d s a s t r u c t u r e o f m a j e s t i c f r a m e , ⁶

W h i c h f r o m t h e n e i g h b o r i n g H a m p t o n t a k e s i t s n a m e .

5 H e r e B r i t a i n ’ s s t a t e s m e n o f t h e f a l l f o r e d o o m

O f f o r e i g n t y r a n t s a n d o f n y m p h s a t h o m e ;

H e r e t h o u , g r e a t A n n a ! ⁷ w h o m t h r e e r e a l m s o b e y , D o s t s o m e t i m e s c o u n s e l t a k e — a n d s o m e t i m e s t e a .

H i t h e r t h e h e r o e s a n d t h e n y m p h s r e s o r t , io T o t a s t e a w h i l e t h e p l e a s u r e s o f a c o u r t ;

2. See note to 1.115 (p. 607).

5. In Greek mythology, a king punished by being

3. To “crisp” is to curl (hair).

bound eternally to a turning wheel.

4. Scented, apple-based ointments applied to the

6. Hampton Court (see note 7, p. 607).

face and hair.

7. Anne, then queen of England.

T H E R A P E O F T H E L O C K / 6 1 1

In various talk the instructive hours they passed,

Who gave the ball, or paid the visit last;

One speaks the glory of the British Queen,

And one describes a charming Indian screen;

15 A third interprets motions, looks, and eyes;

At every word a reputation dies.

Snuff,⁸ or the fan, supply each pause of chat,

With singing, laughing, ogling, and all that.

Meanwhile, declining from the noon of day,

20 The sun obliquely shoots his burning ray;

The hungry judges soon the sentence sign,

And wretches hang that jurymen may dine;

The merchant from the Exchange⁰ returns in peace, stock market

And the long labors of the toilet cease.

25 Belinda now, whom thirst of fame invites,

Burns to encounter two adventurous knights,

At ombre⁹ singly to decide their doom,

And swells her breast with conquests yet to come.

Straight the three bands prepare in arms⁰ to join, combat

30 Each band the number of the sacred nine.

Soon as she spreads her hand, the aerial guard
 Descend, and sit on each important card:
 First Ariel perched upon a Matadore,
 Then each according to the rank they bore;
 35 For Sylphs, yet mindful of their ancient race,
 Are, as when women, wondrous fond of place.
 Behold, four Kings in majesty revered,
 With hoary⁰ whiskers and a forked beard; gray or white
 And four fair Queens whose hands sustain a flower, 40 The expressive emblem of their softer power;
 Four Knaves in garbs succinct,¹ a trusty band,
 Caps on their heads, and halberts² in their hand;
 And parti^o-colored troops, a shining train, variously
 Draw forth to combat on the velvet plain.
 45 The skillful nymph reviews her force with care;
 "Let Spades be trumps!" she said, and trumps they were Now move to war her sable⁰ Matadores, black
 In show like leaders of the swarthy Moors.
 Spadillio first, unconquerable lord!

8. Pulverized tobacco to be inhaled through the declared, the Matadors are, in order of value, the nostrils, chewed, or placed against the gums.
 ace of spades (Spadille, line 49), the deuce of 9. This game is like three-handed bridge with spades (Manille, line 51), and the ace of clubs some features of poker added. From a deck lacking (Basto, line 53). The remaining spades fill out the 8s, 9s, and 10s, nine cards are dealt to each player

trump suit. In the game here described, Belinda (line 30) and the rest put in a central pool on the leads out her high trumps (lines 49—56), but the green velvet cloth (line 44) that provides the play-suit breaks badly (line 54); the Baron retains the ing surface. A declarer, called the Ombre (hombre, queen (line 67), with which he presently trumps Spanish for man), commits himself to taking more her king of clubs (line 69). He then leads high dia-tricks than either of his opponents individually; monds until she is on the verge of a set (Codille, hence Belinda’s encountering two knights “singly.” line 92). But she makes her bid at the last trick The declarer, followed by the other players, then (line 94), taking his ace of hearts with her king selects discards and replenishes his hand with (line 95), this being, in ombre, the highest card in cards drawn sight unseen from the pool (line 45). the heart suit.

He proceeds to name his trumps (line 46). The

1. Hemmed up short, not flowing.

three principal trumps, called Matadors (line 47),

2. Weapons combining pike and ax on a single always include the black aces. W h e n spades are shaft.

6 1 2 / A L E X A N D E R P O P E

50 L e d o f f t w o c a p t i v e t r u m p s , a n d s w e p t t h e board.

As many more Manillio forced to yield,
And marched a victor from the verdant field.
green Him Basto followed, but his fate more hard

Gained but one trump and one plebeian card.

55 With his broadsaber next, a chief in years,

The hoary Majesty of Spades appears,

Puts forth one manly leg, to sight revealed,

The rest his many-colored robe concealed.

The rebel Knave, who dares his prince engage
,jack 60 Proves the just victim of his royal rage.

Even mighty Pam, that kings and queens o'erthrew And mowed down armies in the fights of flog, Sad chance of war! now destitute of
aid,

Falls undistinguished by the victor Spade.

65 Thus far both armies to Belinda yield;

Now to the Baron fate inclines the field.

His warlike amazon her host invades,

The imperial consort of the crown of Spades.

The Club's black tyrant first the victim died,

70 Spite of his haughty mien^o and barbarous pride. expression What boots the regal circle on his head,

His giant limbs, in state unwieldy spread?

That long behind he trails his pompous robe.

And of all monarchs only grasps the globe?

75 The Baron now his Diamonds pours apace
;

The embroidered King who shows but half his face, And his refulgent Queen, with powers combined Of broken troops an easy conquest
find.

Clubs, Diamonds, Hearts, in wild disorder seen, so With throngs promiscuous strew the level green.

Thus when dispersed a routed army runs,

Of Asia's troops, and Afric's sable sons,

With like confusion different nations fly,

Of various habit,⁰ and of various dye,^o dress / color

85 The pierced battalions disunited fall

In heaps on heaps; one fate o'erwhelms them all.

The Knave of Diamonds tries his wily arts,

And wins (oh, shameful chance!) the Queen of Hearts.

At this, the blood the virgin's cheek forsook,

90 A livid paleness spreads o'er all her look;

She sees, and trembles at the approaching ill, Just in the jaws of ruin, and Codille,

And now (as oft in some distemp'ered state)

On one nice⁰ trick depends the general fate.

subtle; particular 95 An Ace of Hearts steps forth: the King unseen

Lurked in her hand, and mourned his captive Queen.

He springs to vengeance with an eager pace,

And falls like thunder on the prostrate Ace.

Then nymph exulting fills with shout the sky, 100 The walls, the woods, and long canals⁴ reply.

3. The jack of clubs, paramount trump in the 4. Passages between avenues of trees, game of loo.

THE RAPE OF THE LOCK / 613

O thoughtless mortals! ever blind to fate,
Too soon dejected, and too soon elate:

Sudden these honors shall be snatched away,
And cursed for ever this victorious day.

io? For lo! the board⁰ with cups and spoons is crowned, table The berries crackle, and the mill turns round; 5

On shining altars of Japan⁶ they raise

The silver lamp; the fiery spirits blaze:

From silver spouts the grateful liquors glide,
e, 110 While China's earthen⁷ receives the sm oking tide.

At once they gratify their scent and taste,
And frequent cups prolong the rich repast

Straight over round the fair her airy band;

Some, as she sipped, the fuming liquor fanned, 115 Some o'er her lap their careful plumes displayed, Trembling, and conscious of the rich brocade.

Coffee (which makes the politician wise,
And sees through all things with his half-shut eyes) Sent up in vapor to the Baron's brain

120 New stratagems, the radiant Lock to gain.

Ah, cease, rash youth! desist ere 'tis too late,
Fear the just Gods, and think of Scylla's fate!

8

Changed to a bird, and sent to flit in air,

She dearly pays for Nisus 'injured hair!

125 But when to mischief mortals bend their will,
How soon they find fit instruments of ill!

Just then, Clarissa drew with tempting grace
A two-edged weapon from her shining case:
So ladies in romance assist their knight,
130 Present the spear, and arm him for the fight.

He takes the gift with reverence, and extends
The little engine on his fingers' ends;

This just behind Belinda's neck he spread,
As 'er the fragrant steam she bends her head.

135 Swift to the Lock a thousand sprites repair, sprites A thousand wings, by turns, blow back the hair, And thrice they twitched the diamond in her ear, Thrice she looked back, and thrice the foe drew near.

Just in that instant, anxious Arielsought
140 The closer recesses of the virgin's thought;
As on the nosegay⁰ in her breast reclined, posy

He watched the ideas rising in her mind,
Sudden he viewed, in spite of all her art,
A earthly lover lurking at her heart.

145 Amazed, confused, he found his power expired,⁹

Resigned to fate, and with a sigh retired.

The Peernow spreads the glittering for 0 wide, scissors To enclose the Lock; now join sit, to divide.

5. As coffee beans are roasted and ground.

Crete, who was besieging Nisus's city. For this she

6. Lacquered tables.

was turned into a seabird relentlessly pursued by

7. Ceramic cups.

an eagle.

8. In Greek mythology, Scylla cut from the head

9. Belinda, being strongly attracted to the baron of her father, Nisus, the lock of hair on which his (line 144), can no longer merely flirt. She hence life depended and gave it to her lover, Minos of passes beyond Ariel's control.

614 / A L E X A N D E R P O P E

Even then, before the fatal engine closed,

150 A wretched Sylph too fondly interposed;

Fate urged the shears, and cut the Sylph in twain

(But airy substance soon unites again):1

The meeting points the sacred hair dissever

From the fair head, forever, and forever!

155 Then flashed the living lightning from her eyes,

And screams of horror rend the affrighted skies.

Not louder shrieks to pitying heaven are cast,

When husbands, or when lapdogs breathe their last;

Or when rich china vessels fallen from high,

160 In glittering dust and painted fragments lie!

“Let wreaths of triumph now my temples twine,”

The victor cried, “the glorious prize is mine!

While fish in streams, or birds delight in air,

Or in a coach and six the British Fair,

165 As long as *Atalantis*2 shall be read,

Or the small pillow grace a lady's bed,
While visits shall be paid on solemn days,
When numerous wax-lights in bright order blaze,³ While nymphs take treats, or assignations give,
i70 So long my honor, name, and praise shall live!
What Time would spare, from Steel receives its date,⁰ termination And monuments, like men, submit to fate!
Steel could the labor of the Gods destroy,
And strike to dust the imperial towers of Troy;⁴
175 Steel could the works of mortal pride confound,
And hew triumphal arches to the ground.
What wonder then, fair nymph! thy hairs should feel,
The conquering force of unresisted Steel?"

C A N T O I V

But anxious cares the pensive nymph oppressed,
And secret passions labored in her breast.
Not youthful kings in battle seized alive,
Not scornful virgins who their charms survive,
5 Not ardent lovers robbed of all their bliss,
Not ancient ladies when refused a kiss,
Not tyrants fierce that unrepenting die,
Not Cynthia when her manteau's⁰ pinned awry, robe is E'er felt such rage, resentment, and despair,
io As thou, sad virgin! for thy ravished hair.
For, that sad moment, when the Sylphs withdrew
And Ariel weeping from Belinda flew,
Umbriel,⁵ a dusky, melancholy sprite⁰ spirit

1. Like Milton's angels (Paradise Lost 6.329—31);

mythology, was built by the gods Apollo and Poseidon and destroyed by the Greeks at the end of the Trojan War.

2. Delariviere Manley's New Atalantis (1709), a set of memoirs that, under thin disguise, recounted actual scandals.

5. Suggesting umbra, shadow; and umber, brown.

The final el of this name is a further reminiscence of Milton's angels: Gabriel, Abdiel, Zophiel. (Cf. previous line.)

1.70 [p. 606] and 3.152 [above].)

4. Ancient city-state that, according to Greek

T H E R A P E O F T H E L O C K / 6 1 5

As ever sullied the fair face of light,

is Down to the central earth, his proper scene,

Repaired to search the gloomy Cave of Spleen.⁶

Swift on his sooty pinions flits the Gnome,

And in a vapor reached the dismal dome.

No cheerful breeze this sullen region knows,

20 The dreaded east is all the wind that blows.

Here in a grotto, sheltered close from air,

And screened in shades from day's detested glare,

She sighs forever on her pensive bed,

Pain at her side, and Megrim⁰ at her head. migraine

25 Two handmaids wait⁰ the throne: alike in place, attend

But differing far in figure and in face.

Here stood Ill-Nature like an ancient maid,
Her wrinkled form in black and white arrayed;
With store of prayers for mornings, nights, and noons,
30 Her hand is filled; her bosom with lampoons.⁰ slanders
There Affectation, with a sickly mien,^o appearance
Shows in her cheek the roses of eighteen,
Practiced to lisp, and hang the head aside,
Faints into airs, and languishes with pride,
35 On the rich quilt sinks with becoming woe,
Wrapped in a gown, for sickness and for show.
The fair ones feel such maladies as these,
When each new nightdress gives a new disease.
A constant vapor o'er the palace flies,
40 Strange phantoms rising as the mists arise;
Dreadful as hermit's dreams in haunted shades,
Or bright as visions of expiring maids.
Now glaring fiends, and snakes on rolling spires,⁰ coils
Pale specters, gaping tombs, and purple fires;
45 Now lakes of liquid gold, Elysian scenes,
And crystal domes, and angels in machines.⁷
Unnumbered throngs on every side are seen
Of bodies changed to various forms by Spleen.
Here living teapots stand, one arm held out,
50 One bent; the handle this, and that the spout:
A pipkin⁸ there, like Homer's tripod, walks;
Here sighs a jar, and there a goose pie talks;
Men prove with child, as powerful fancy works,
And maids, turned bottles, call aloud for corks.

55 Safe passed the Gnome through this fantastic band,
A branch of healing spleenwort⁹ in his hand.

Then thus addressed the Power: “Hail, wayward Queen!

6. This journey is formally equivalent to Odys-Finch (p. 558) and Matthew Green (p. 645).

seus’s and Aeneas’s visits to the underworld.

7. These images are 1) the hallucinations of “Spleen” refers to the h u m a n organ, the supposed insane melancholy and 2) parodies of stage prop-seat of melancholy; hence to melancholy itself.
erties and effects.

Believed to be induced by misty weather such as

8. An earthen pot; it walks like the three-legged the east wind brings (lines 18—20), the condition stools that Vulcan made for the gods in Iliad 18.

was also called the “vapors.” In its severer mani-

9. A kind of fern, purgative of spleen; suggesting festations, it tended toward madness; in its milder
the golden bough that Aeneas bore as a passport forms, it issued in peevishness and suspicion. See to Hades in Aeneid 6.

the poems on “spleen” in this anthology by Anne

616 / A L E X A N D E R P O P E

Who rule the sex to fifty from fifteen:

Parent of vapors and of female wit,

Who give the hysteric or poetic fit,

On various tempers act by various ways,

Make some take physic,⁰ others scribble plays;

medicine

Who cause the proud their visits to delay,
And send the godly in a pet^o to pray.

fit of anger

A nymph there is that all thy power disdains,
And thousands more in equal mirth maintains.
But oh! if e'er thy Gnome could spoil a grace,
Or raise a pimple on a beauteous face,
Like citron-waters^o matrons' cheeks inflame,

lemon brandy

Or change complexions at a losing game;
If e'er with airy horns I planted heads,¹
Or ruffled petticoats, or tumbled beds,
Or caused suspicion when no soul was rude,
Or discomposed the headdress of a prude,
Or e'er to costive^o lapdog gave disease,

constipated

Which not the tears of brightest eyes could ease, Hear me, and touch Belinda with chagrin:^o

annoyance

That single act gives half the world the spleen.”
The Goddess with a discontented air
Seems to reject him though she grants his prayer.
A wondrous bag with both her hands she binds,
Like that where once Ulysses held the winds;²
There she collects the force of female lungs,
Sighs, sobs, and passions, and the war of tongues.
A vial next she fills with fainting fears,

Soft sorrows, melting griefs, and flowing tears.
 The Gnome rejoicing bears her gifts away,
 Spreads his black wings, and slowly mounts to day.
 Sunk in Thalestris'3 arms the nymph he found,
 Her eyes dejected and her hair unbound.
 Full o'er their heads the swelling bag he rent,
 And all the Furies issued at the vent.
 Belinda burns with more than mortal ire,
 And fierce Thalestris fans the rising fire.
 "O wretched maid!" she spreads her hands, and cried (While Hampton's4 echoes, "Wretched maid!" replied),
 "Was it for this you took such constant care
 The bodkin,0 comb, and essence0 to prepare?
hairpin / perfume
 For this your locks in paper durance bound,
 For this with torturing irons wreathed around?
 For this with fillets0 strained your tender head, bands
 And bravely bore the double loads of lead?5
 Gods! shall the ravisher display your hair,
 While the fops envy, and the ladies stare!
 Honor forbid! at whose unrivaled shrine

1. I.e., made men imagine they were being cuck-bative woman.

olded.

4. Hampton Court's (see note 7, p. 607).

2. Aeolus, the wind god, enabled Odysseus (Ulys-

5. The means by which Belinda's locks were fash-

ses) so to contain all adverse winds in Odyssey 10.
ioned into a ringlet: lead strips held her curl papers
3. The name of an Amazon; hence a fierce, comin place.

T H E R A P E O F T H E L O C K / 6 1 7

Ease, pleasure, virtue, all, our sex resign.

Methinks already I your tears survey,

Already hear the horrid things they say,

Already see you a degraded toast,

110 And all your honor in a whisper lost!

How shall I, then, your helpless fame defend?

‘Twill then be infamy to seem your friend!

And shall this prize, the inestimable prize,

Exposed through crystal to the gazing eyes,

115 And heightened by the diamond’s circling rays,

On that rapacious hand forever blaze?

Sooner shall grass in Hyde Park Circus⁶ grow,

And wits take lodgings in the sound of Bow;⁷

Sooner let earth, air, sea, to chaos fall,

120 Men, monkeys, lapdogs, parrots, perish all!”

She said; then raging to Sir Plume repairs,

And bids her beau demand the precious hairs

(Sir Plume of amber snuffbox justly vain,

And the nice⁰ conduct⁰ of a clouded cane). precise / handling

125 With earnest eyes, and round unthinking face,

He first the snuffbox⁸ opened, then the case,

And thus broke out—“My Lord, why, what the devil!

Zounds! O damn the lock! 'fore Gad, you must be civil! God's wounds

Plague on't! 'tis past a jest—nay prithee, pox!

130 Give her the hair"—he spoke, and rapped his box.

"It grieves me much," replied the Peer again,

"Who speaks so well should ever speak in vain.

But by this Lock, this sacred Lock I swear

(Which never more shall join its parted hair;

135 Which never more its honors shall renew,

Clipped from the lovely head where late it grew),

That while my nostrils draw the vital air,

This hand, which won it, shall forever wear."

He spoke, and speaking, in proud triumph spread

140 The long-contended honors⁰ of her head. ornaments

But Umbriel, hateful Gnome, forbears not so;

He breaks the vial whence the sorrows flow.

Then see! the nymph in beauteous grief appears,

Her eyes half languishing, half drowned in tears;

145 On her heaved bosom hung her drooping head,

Which with a sigh she raised, and thus she said:

"Forever cursed be this detested day,

Which snatched my best, my favorite curl away!

Happy! ah, ten times happy had I been,

150 If Hampton Court these eyes had never seen!

Yet am not I the first mistaken maid,

By love of courts to numerous ills betrayed.

Oh, had I rather unadmired remained

In some lone isle, or distant northern land;

6. The fashionable carriage course (the “Ring” of Le Bow, in the unfashionable commercial section 1.44). of London.

7. I.e., the sound of the church bells of St. Mary 8. See note 8, p. 611.

618 / ALEXANDER POPE

155 Where the gilt chariot never marks the way,
Where none learn ombre, none e'er taste bohea!
° fine tea There kept my charms conceal'd
From mortal eye, Like roses that in deserts bloom and die.

What moved my mind with youth full of storm?
O am?

160 Oh, had I stay'd, and said my prayers at home!

'Twas this the morning omens seem'd to tell,
Thrice from my trembling hand the patch-box fell; The tottering chin shook without wind,
and,

Nay, Poll sat mute, and Shock was most unkind!

165 A Sylph to warn'd me of the threats of fate,
In mystic visions, now believ'd too late!

See the poor remnant of these slighted hairs!
s!

My hands shall rend what e'er thy rapine spares.
res.

These in two sable rings let staught to break,
170 Once given new beauties to the snowy neck;
; The sister lock now sits uncouth, alone,

And in its fellow's fate foresees its own;

Uncurl'd its hands, the fatal shears demands,
And tempt oncemore thy sacrilegious hands.
ds.

175 Oh, hadst thou, cruel! been content to seize Hairs less insight, or any hairs but these!
”

CANTO v

She said: the pitying audience melt in tears.

But Fate and Jove^o had stopped the Baron's ears. chief Roman god In vain Thalestris with reproach sails, For who can move when fair Belinda fails?

5 No half so fixed the Trojan could remain,
While Annabegged and Didoraged in vain. 1

Then grave Clarissa graceful waved her fan;
Silence ensued, and thus the nymph began:

” Say why are beauties praised and honored most, is the wiseman's passion, and the vainman's toast?

Why decked with all that land and sea afford,
Why angels called, and angel-like adored?

Why round our coaches crowd the white-gloved beaux, Why bow the side box² from its inmost rows?

15 How vain are all these glories, all our pains,
Unless good sense preserve what beauty gains;
That men may say when we the front box grace,

‘ Behold the first in virtue as in face! ‘

Oh! if to dance all night, and dress all day,

20 Charmed the smallpox, or chased old age away, Who would not scorn what housewife's ares produce, Or who would learn none earthly thing of use?

To patch, nay ogle, might become a saint,

Nor could it sure be such as in to paint. 0 apply
cosmetics 25 But since, alas! frail beauty must dec a y ,

9. A box for ornamental patches of court plaster Italy, though the enamored queen Dido raved and worn to accent the face.

her sister Anna pleaded with him to stay.

1. Aeneas was determined to leave Carthage for

2. I.e., at the theater.

T H E R A P E O F T H E L O C K / 6 1 9

Curled or uncurled, since locks will turn to gray;

Since painted, or not painted, all shall fade,

And she who scorns a man must die a maid;

What then remains but well our power to use,

30 And keep good humor still whate'er we lose?

And trust me, dear, good humor can prevail

When airs, and flights, and screams, and scolding fail.

Beauties in vain their pretty eyes may roll;

Charms strike the sight, but merit wins the soul.“3

35 So spoke the dame, but no applause ensued;

Belinda frowned, Thalestris called her prude.

”To arms, to arms!” the fierce virago cries,

And swift as lightning to the combat flies.

All side in parties, and begin the attack;

40 Fans clap, silks rustle, and tough whalebones crack;

Heroes' and heroines' shouts confusedly rise,

And bass and treble voices strike the skies.

No common weapons in their hands are found,

Like Gods they fight, nor dread a mortal wound.

45 So when bold Homer makes the Gods engage,

And heavenly breasts with human passions rage;
'Gainst Pallas, Mars; Latona, Hermes arms;⁴
And all Olympus rings with loud alarms:
Jove's thunder roars, heaven trembles all around,
50 Blue Neptune⁵ storms, the bellowing deeps resound:
Earth shakes her nodding towers, the ground gives way,
And the pale ghosts start at the flash of day!
Triumphant Umbriel on a sconce's⁰ height mounted candlestick
Clapped his glad wings, and sat to view the fight:
55 Propped on the bodkin spears, the sprites⁰ survey spirits
The growing combat, or assist the fray.
While through the press enraged Thalestris flies,
And scatters death around from both her eyes,
A beau and witling⁰ perished in the throng, one of little wit
60 One died in metaphor, and one in song.
"O cruel nymph! a living death I bear,"
Cried Dapperwit, and sunk beside his chair.
A mournful glance Sir Fopling upwards cast,
"Those eyes are made so killing"—was his last.
65 Thus on Maeander's⁶ flowery margin lies
The expiring swan, and as he sings he dies.⁷
When bold Sir Plume had drawn Clarissa down,
Chloe stepped in, and killed him with a frown;
She smiled to see the doughty hero slain,
70 But, at her smile, the beau revived again.
Now Jove suspends his golden scales in air,⁸
3. Clarissa's address parallels—indeed, closely to mirror the press of battle.

parodies Pope's 1709 translation of—a speech in

5. Neptune is the Roman god of the sea.

Iliad 12, wherein Sarpedon tells Glaucus that, as

6. A river in Asia Minor noted for its wandering leaders of the army, they must justify their privilege course.

by extraordinary prowess.

7. The swan was said to sing only before its death.

4. Mars arms against Pallas, and Hermes against

8. He so weighs the fortunes of war in classical Latona, in Iliad 20. The tangled syntax is supposed epic.

620 / ALEXANDER POPE

Weighs the men's wits against the lady's hair;
The doubtful beam long nods from side to side;
At length the wits mount up, the hairs subside.

75 See, fierce Belinda on the Baron flies,
With more than usual lightning in her eyes;
Nor feared the chief the unequal fight to try,
Who sought no more than on his foe to die.⁹
But this bold lord with manly strength endued,
so She with one finger and a thumb subdued:
Just where the breath of life his nostrils drew,
A charge of snuff the wily virgin threw;
The Gnomes direct, to every atom just,
The pungent grains of titillating dust.

85 Sudden, with starting tears each eye o'erflows,

And the high dome re-echoes to his nose.
“Now meet thy fate,” incensed Belinda cried,
And drew a deadly bodkin¹ from her side.
(The same, his ancient personage to deck,
90 Her great-great-grandsire wore about his neck,
In three seal rings; which after, melted down,
Formed a vast buckle for his widow’s gown:
Her infant grandame’s whistle next it grew,
The bells she jingled, and the whistle blew;
95 Then in a bodkin graced her mother’s hairs,
Which long she wore, and now Belinda wears.) “Boast not my fall,” he cried, “insulting foe!
Thou by some other shalt be laid as low.
Nor think to die dejects my lofty mind:
100 All that I dread is leaving you behind!
Rather than so, ah, let me still survive,
And burn in Cupid’s flames—but burn alive.”
“Restore the Lock!” she cries; and all around “Restore the Lock!” the vaulted roofs rebound.
105 Not fierce Othello in so loud a strain
Roared for the handkerchief that caused his pain.²
But see how oft ambitious aims are crossed,
And chiefs contend till all the prize is lost!
The lock, obtained with guilt, and kept with pain,
110 In every place is sought, but sought in vain:
With such a prize no mortal must be blessed,
So Heaven decrees! with Heaven who can contest?
Some thought it mounted to the lunar sphere,

Since all things lost on earth are treasured there.

115 There heroes' wits are kept in ponderous vases,
And beaux' in snuffboxes and tweezer cases.

There broken vows and deathbed alms are found,
And lovers' hearts with ends of riband bound,

The courtier's promises, and sick man's prayers,

120 The smiles of harlots, and the tears of heirs,

9. I.e., to experience sexual bliss. rings" (line 91) are for impressing seals on letters 1. Here an ornamental hairpin. Its history sug- and legal documents, gests that of Agamemnon's scepter in Iliad 2. "Seal 2. In Othello 3.4.

E P I S T L E T O M i s s B L O U N T / 62 1

Cages for gnats, and chains to yoke a flea,

Dried butterflies, and tomes of casuistry.³

But trust the Muse—she saw it upward rise,

Though marked by none but quick, poetic eyes

125 (So Rome's great founder to the heavens withdrew,

To Proculus alone confessed in view);⁴

A sudden star, it shot through liquid⁰ air, clear

And drew behind a radiant trail of hair.

Not Berenice's locks first rose so bright,⁵

130 The heavens bespangling with disheveled light.

The Sylphs behold it kindling as it flies,

And pleased pursue its progress through the skies.

This the beau monde shall from the Mall⁶ survey,

And hail with music its propitious ray.

135 This the blest lover shall for Venus⁷ take,

And send up vows from Rosamonda's Lake.

This Partridge soon shall view in cloudless skies,
When next he looks through Galileo's eyes;⁸
And hence the egregious wizard shall foredoom
140 The fate of Louis, and the fall of Rome.
Then cease, bright nymph! to mourn thy ravished hair,
Which adds new glory to the shining sphere!
Not all the tresses that fair head can boast,
Shall draw such envy as the Lock you lost.
145 For, after all the murders of your eye,
When, after millions slain, yourself shall die:
When those fair suns shall set, as set they must,
And all those tresses shall be laid in dust,
This Lock the Muse shall consecrate to fame,
150 And 'midst the stars inscribe Belinda's name.
1712 1714

Epistle to Miss Blount⁹

On Her Leaving the Town, after the Coronation

As some fond virgin, whom her mother's care
Drags from the town to wholesome country air,
Just when she learns to roll a melting eye,
And hear a spark,⁰ yet think no danger nigh; beau, gallant
5 From the dear man unwilling she must sever,
Yet takes one kiss before she parts forever:

3. Books of seemingly solid but false reasoning.

(line 136), was in St. James's Park.

4. According to Livy's Early History of Rome, the

7. Greek goddess of love and beauty.

empire's "founder" and first king, Romulus, van-

8. Galileo's eyes: the telescope. Partridge: John Partridge, a London astrologer who predicted calamities for the enemies of England and Protestants. Some of Pope's contemporaries had satirized Partridge's annually published predictions in 1708.

5. The locks that the ancient Egyptian queen Berenice dedicated to her husband's safe return were

9. Teresa Blount, sister of Pope's lifelong friend Martha Blount. The "coronation" was that of

6. A fashionable walk that, like Rosamonda's Lake George I (1714).

6 2 2 / A L E X A N D E R P O P E

Thus from the world fair Zephalinda¹ flew,

Saw others happy, and with sighs withdrew;
Not that their pleasures caused her discontent;
She sighed not that they stayed, but that she went.

She went to plain-work,^o and to purling² brooks, needlework

Old-fashioned halls, dull aunts, and croaking rooks:³
She went from opera, park, assembly, play,
To morning walks, and prayers three hours a day;
To part her time 'twixt reading and bohea,^o fine tea

To muse, and spill her solitary tea,
Or o'er cold coffee trifle with the spoon,
Count the slow clock, and dine exact at noon;⁴
Divert her eyes with pictures in the fire,
Hum half a tune, tell stories to the squire;
Up to her godly garret after seven,
There starve and pray, for that's the way to heaven.
Some squire, perhaps, you take delight to rack,⁰ torture
Whose game is whist, whose treat a toast in sack;⁰ wine, sherry
Who visits with a gun, presents you birds,
Then gives a smacking buss,^o and cries—"No words!" kiss
Or with his hounds comes hollowing from the stable,
Makes love with nods and knees beneath a table;
Whose laughs are hearty, though his jests are coarse,
And loves you best of all things—but his horse.
In some fair evening, on your elbow laid,
You dream of triumphs in the rural shade;
In pensive thought recall the fancied scene,
See coronations rise on every green:
Before you pass the imaginary sights
Of lords and earls and dukes and gartered knights,
While the spread fan o'er shades your closing eyes;
Then gives one flirt,⁵ and all the vision flies.
Thus vanish scepters, coronets, and balls,
And leave you in lone woods, or empty walls!
So when your slave,⁶ at some dear idle time
(Not plagued with headaches or the want of rhyme)
Stands in the streets, abstracted from the crew,

And while he seems to study, thinks of you;
 Just when his fancy points⁷ your sprightly eyes,
 Or sees the blush of soft Parthenia⁸ rise,
 Gay⁹ pats my shoulder, and you vanish quite;
 Streets, chairs,⁰ and coxcombs¹ rush upon my sight; sedan chairs Vexed to be still in town, I knit my brow, Look sour, and hum a tune—as you may now.

1 7 1 7

1. A fanciful name adopted by Miss Blount.

6. I.e., the speaker, Pope.

2. Gently rippling.

7. Focuses or zeroes in on.

3. Crowlike birds.

8. Martha Blount.

4. While fashionable Londoners dined at three or

9. The poet John Gay (1685-1732; see pp. 594-four o'clock, the old-fashioned and rustic might 96), Pope's friend.

have dined at noon.

1. Dandies, fops.

5. I.e., suddenly opens and closes her fan.

A N E S S A Y O N M A N , I N F O U R E P I S T L E S / 6
 2 3

*From An Essay on Man, in Four Epistles*²

T O H E N R Y S T . J O H N , L O R D B O L I N G B R O K E 3

From Epistle 1. Of the Nature and State of Man, with Respect to the Universe

Awake, my St. John! leave all meaner things

To low ambition, and the pride of kings.

Let us (since life can little more supply

Than just to look about us and to die)

5 Expatiate⁰ free o'er all this scene of man;

range; expound

A mighty maze! but not without a plan;

A wild, where weeds and flowers promiscuous shoot,

Or garden, tempting with forbidden fruit.

Together let us beat this ample field,

10 Try what the open, what the covert yield;

The latent⁰ tracts,⁰ the giddy heights, explore hidden / areas

Of all who blindly creep, or sightless soar;

Eye Nature's walks, shoot folly as it flies,

And catch the manners living as they rise;

15 Laugh where we must, be candid⁰ where we can;

kindly, frank

But vindicate the ways of God to man.

1. Say first, of God above, or man below,

What can we reason, but from what we know?

Of man, what see we but his station here,

20 From which to reason, or to which refer?

Through worlds unnumbered though the God be known,

'Tis ours to trace him only in our own.

He, who through vast immensity can pierce,

See worlds on worlds compose one universe,

25 Observe how system into system runs,

What other planets circle other suns,

What varied being peoples every star,
May tell why Heaven has made us as we are.
But of this frame the bearings, and the ties,
30 The strong connections, nice dependencies,
Gradations just, has thy pervading soul
Looked through? or can a part contain the whole?

2. In this ambitious poem (from which we include know what condition and relation it is placed in, the first four parts of epistle 1), Pope employs what and what is the proper end and purpose of its he calls an “epistolary way of writing’ to describe being.” Pope tells the reader that he chooses verse humanity’s place in the “universal system.” Explicitly taking up (and revising) Milton’s ambition to and is more striking and memorable than prose.

“justify the ways of God to men” (Paradise Lost

3. English statesman (1678-1751), secretary of 1.26; see p. 422), Pope states in a prefatory address state in the Tory ministry of 1710—14; now out of to the reader that he will initially consider “man in political office. He became close friends with Pope the abstract, his Nature and his State, since, to after settling near him at Dawley farm. St. John prove any moral duty, to enforce any moral pre- was pronounced sin-jun—a fact important for cept, or to examine the perfection or imperfection scanning the poem’s first line.

of any creature whatsoever, it is necessary first to

6 2 4 / A L E X A N D E R P O P E

Is the great chain, that draws all to agree,

And drawn supports, upheld by God, or thee?⁴

35 2. Presumptuous man! the reason wouldst thou find,

Why formed so weak, so little, and so blind?

First, if thou canst, the harder reason guess,

Why formed no weaker, blinder, and no less!

Ask of thy mother earth, why oaks are made

40 Taller or stronger than the weeds they shade?

Or ask of yonder argent⁰ fields above, silvery

Why Jove's satellites⁵ are less than Jove?

Of systems possible, if 'tis confessed

That Wisdom Infinite must form the best,

45 Where all must full or not coherent be,

And all that rises, rise in due degree;

Then, in the scale of reasoning life, 'tis plain,

There must be, somewhere, such a rank as man:

And all the question (wrangle e'er so long)

50 Is only this, if God has placed him wrong?

Respecting man, whatever wrong we call,

May, must be right, as relative to all.⁶

In human works, though labored on with pain,

A thousand movements scarce one purpose gain;

55 In God's, one single can its end produce;

Yet serves to second too some other use.

So man, who here seems principal alone,

Perhaps acts second to some sphere unknown,

Touches some wheel, or verges to some goal;
60 'Tis but a part we see, and not a whole.
When the proud steed shall know why man restrains
His fiery course, or drives him o'er the plains;
When the dull ox, why now he breaks the clod,^o earth
Is now a victim, and now Egypt's god:
65 Then shall man's pride and dullness comprehend
His actions', passions', being's use and end;
Why doing, suffering, checked, impelled; and why
This hour a slave, the next a deity.
Then say not man's imperfect, Heaven in fault;
70 Say rather, man's as perfect as he ought;^o ought to be
His knowledge measured to his state and place,
His time a moment, and a point his space.
If to be perfect in a certain sphere,
What matter, soon or late, or here or there?⁷
75 The blest today is as completely so,
As who^o began a thousand years ago. whoever

4. The Great Chain of Being is a visual metaphor other parts of the Chain of Being.
for a divinely inspired hierarchy that ranks all

7. Lines 73-74 are compressed in syntax and in forms of life from highest to lowest.
thought. A possible paraphrase: If perfection is

5. The planets. Jove (Jupiter) was the chief god of defined as a condition of completeness measured Roman mythology.
by specific time and place, then variations of time

6. I.e., what seems wrong in relation to humanand place do not affect this ideal.

kind may, indeed must, be right relative to the

AN ESSAY ON MAN, IN FOUR EPISTLES / 6
25

3. Heaven from all creatures hides the book of Fate,

All but the page prescribed, their present state:

From brutes what men, from men what spirits know:

so Or who could suffer being here below?

The lamb thy riot dooms to bleed today,

Had he thy reason, would he skip and play?

Pleased to the last, he crops the flowery food,

And licks the hand just raised to shed his blood.

85 O blindness to the future! kindly given,

That each may fill the circle marked by Heaven:

Who sees with equal eye, as God of all,

A hero perish, or a sparrow fall,

Atoms or systems⁰ into ruin hurled. solar systems

90 And now a bubble burst, and now a world.

Hope humbly then; with trembling pinions soar;

Wait the great teacher Death, and God adore!

What future bliss, he gives not thee to know,

But gives that hope to be thy blessing now.

95 Hope springs eternal in the human breast:

Man never is, but always to be blest:

The soul, uneasy and confined from home,

Rests and expatiates in a life to come.

Lo! the poor Indian, whose untutored mind

100 Sees God in clouds, or hears him in the wind;
His soul proud Science never taught to stray
Far as the solar walk, or milky way;
Yet simple Nature to his hope has given,
Behind the cloud-topped hill, an humbler heaven;
105 Some safer world in depth of woods embraced,
Some happier island in the watery waste,
Where slaves once more their native land behold,
No fiends torment, no Christians thirst for gold!
To be, contents his natural desire, no He asks no angel's wing, no seraph's^o fire; high-ranking angel's But thinks, admitted to that equal sky,
His faithful dog shall bear him company.

4. Go, wiser thou! and, in thy scale of sense,
Weigh thy opinion against Providence;
115 Call imperfection what thou fancy'st such,
Say, here he gives too little, there too much;
Destroy all creatures for thy sport or gust,^o taste
Yet cry, if man's unhappy, God's unjust;
If man alone engross not Heav'n's high care,
120 Alone made perfect here, immortal there:
Snatch from his hand the balance and the rod,
Rejudge his justice, be the God of God!
In pride, in reasoning pride, our error lies;
All quit their sphere, and rush into the skies.
125 Pride still is aiming at the blest abodes,
Men would be angels, angels would be gods.
Aspiring to be gods, if angels fell,

626 / ALEXANDER POPE

Aspiring to be angels, men rebel:

And who but wishes to invert the laws

130 Of order, sins against the Eternal Cause.

$$$

1733

Epistle to Dr. Arbuthnot⁸

p. Shut, shut the door, good John!⁹ (fatigued, I said),

Tie up the knocker, say I'm sick, I'm dead.

The Dog Star¹ rages! nay 'tis past a doubt

All Bedlam, or Parnassus,² is let out:

Fire in each eye, and papers in each hand,

They rave, recite, and madden round the land.

What walls can guard me, or what shades can hide?

They pierce my thickets, through my grot³ they glide,

By land, by water, they renew the charge,

They stop the chariot,⁰ and they board the barge.⁴

carriage

No place is sacred, not the church is free;

Even Sunday shines no Sabbath day to me:

Then from the Mints walks forth the man of rhyme,

Happy to catch me just at dinner time.

Is there a parson, much bemused in beer,

A maudlin poetess, a rhyming peer,

A clerk foredoomed his father's soul to cross,

Who pens a stanza when he should engross?⁶

Is there who," locked from ink and paper, scrawls

one who

W i t h desperate charcoal round his darkened walls?

All fly to Twit'nam,⁰ and in humble strain

Twickenham

Apply to me to keep t h e m mad or vain.

Arthur,⁷ w h o s e giddy son neglects the laws,

Imputes to me and my damned works the cause:

Poor Cornus⁸ sees his frantic wife elope,

And curses wit, and poetry, and Pope.

Friend to my life (which did not you prolong,

The world had wanted many an idle song)

W h a t drop or nostrum⁰ can this plague remove?

drug

8. John Arbuthnot (1667-1735), former physician to Queen Anne, was Pope's physician, and Bedlam: London's Bethlehem Hospital for the friend and literary collaborator of Pope, Swift, and insane.

Gay. (See Swift's "Verses on the Death of Dr.

3. Pope's "grotto," one entrance to the grounds of Swift, D.S.P.D.," esp. lines 53-58 [p. 579].) He his villa at Twickenham.

had asked Pope to moderate his attacks on his per-

4. Pope often traveled from Twickenham to London and literary enemies and was hence a logical person to whom to address an apology for writing

5. A sanctuary for debtors. They emerged on Sun-satire.

day, being everywhere immune from arrest on that

9. John Serle, Pope's servant.

day.

1. The summer star Sirius, attendant upon crazing

6. Prepare legal documents.

heat. In ancient Rome, late summer was a season

7. Arthur Moore, whose son, the playwright James for public recitations of poetry.

Moore Smythe, had plagiarized some lines from

2. Mt. Parnassus, the haunt of the Muses (in Pope.

Greek mythology, nine sister goddesses who pre-

8. From cornu, Latin for horn; hence a cuckold.

EPISTLE TO DR. ARBUTHNOT / 627

Or which must end me, a fool's wrath or love?

A dire dilemma! either way I' m sped,^o ruined

If foes, they write, if friends, they read me dead.

Seized and tied down to judge, h o w wretched I!

W h o can't be silent, and w h o will not lie.

To laugh were want^o of goodness and of grace, a lack

And to be grave exceeds all power of face.

I sit with sad^o civility, I read sober

With honest anguish and an aching head,

And drop at last, but in unwilling ears,

This saving counsel, "Keep your piece nine years."⁹

"Nine years!" cries he, w h o high in Drury Lane,¹

Lulled by soft zephyrs^o through the broken pane, winds

Rhymes ere he wakes, and prints before term^o ends, the publishing season Obliged by hunger and request of friends:

"The piece, you think, is incorrect? why, take it,

I'm all submission, what you'd have it, make it."

Three things another's modest wishes bound,

My friendship, and a prologue, and ten pound.

Pitholeon² sends to me: “You know his Grace,
 I want a patron; ask him for a place.”
 Pitholeon libeled me—“but here’s a letter
 Informs you, sir, ‘twas w h e n he knew no better.
 Dare you refuse him? Curll³ invites to dine,
 He’ll write a Journal, or he’ll turn divine.”⁴
 Bless me! a packet.—” ‘Tis a stranger sues,
 A virgin tragedy, an orphan Muse.”
 If I dislike it, “Furies, death, and rage!”
 If I approve, “Commend it to the stage.”
 There (thank my stars) my whole c o m m i s s i o n ends,
 T h e players and I are, luckily, no friends.
 Fired that the h o u s e⁰ reject him, ” ‘Sdeath, I’ll print it, playhouse And shame the fools—Your interest, sir, with Lintot!“⁵
 Lintot, dull rogue, will think your price too m u c h .
 “Not, sir, if you revise it, and retouch.”
 All my demurs but double his attacks;
 At last he whispers, “Do; and we go snacks.”⁰ shares
 Glad of a quarrel, straight I clap the door,
 “Sir, let me see your works and you no more.”
 ‘Tis sung, w h e n Midas’ ears began to spring
 (Midas, a sacred person and a king),
 His very minister w h o spied t h e m first
 (S o m e say his queen) was forced to speak, or burst.⁶

9. Horace, Ars Poetica (lines 386-89).

writing.

1. The theater district, where the speaker lives in

5. Bernard Lintot, an early publisher of Pope.

a garret.

6. According to Greek mythology, King Midas,

2. “A foolish poet of Rhodes, who pretended much preferring Pan’s music to Apollo’s, was given ass’s to Greek” [Pope’s note]. He stands for Leonard ears by the affronted god. His barber (in Chaucer’s Welsted, translator of Longinus and an enemy of version of the tale, his wife) discovered the ears Pope’s.

and, fairly bursting with the secret, whispered it

3. Edmund Curll, an unscrupulous publisher, into a hole in the ground. Here, Pope suggests that derided in Pope’s Dunciad.

Prime Minister Walpole and Queen Caroline know

4. Referring to attacks on Pope in The London Journal and (perhaps) to Welsted’s theological that George II is an ass.

Journal and (perhaps) to Welsted’s theological

6 2 8 / A L E X A N D E R P O P E

And is not mine, my friend, a sorer case,

When every coxcomb perks them in my face?

75 A. Good friend, forbear! you deal in dangerous things.

I’d never name queens, ministers, or kings;

Keep close to ears, and those let asses prick;

‘Tis nothing P. Nothing? if they bite and kick?

Out with it, Dunciad! let the secret pass,

so That secret to each fool, that he’s an ass:

The truth once told (and wherefore should we lie?)

The queen of Midas slept, and so may I.

You think this cruel? take it for a rule,
No creature smarts⁰ so little as a fool. hurts
85 Let peals of laughter, Codrus!⁷ round thee break,
Thou unconcerned canst hear the mighty crack.
Pit, box, and gallery in convulsions hurled,
Thou stand'st unshook amidst a bursting world.
Who shames a scribbler? break one cobweb through,
90 He spins the slight, self-pleasing thread anew:
Destroy his fib or sophistry,⁸ in vain;
The creature's at his dirty work again,
Throned in the center of his thin designs,
Proud of a vast extent of flimsy lines.
95 Whom have I hurt? has poet yet or peer
Lost the arched eyebrow or Parnassian⁹ sneer?
And has not Colley¹ still his lord and whore?
His butchers Henley? his freemasons Moore?²
Does not one table Bavius still admit?
100 Still to one bishop Philips seem a wit?
Still Sappho A. Hold! for God's sake—you'll offend.
No names—be calm—learn prudence of a friend.
I too could write, and I am twice as tall;
But foes like these! p. One flatterer's worse than all.
105 Of all mad creatures, if the learn'd are right,
It is the slaver⁰ kills, and not the bite. spittle
A fool quite angry is quite innocent:
Alas! 'tis ten times worse when they repent.
One dedicates in high heroic prose,
110 And ridicules beyond a hundred foes;

One from all Grub Street³ will my fame defend,
And, more abusive, calls himself my friend.

This prints my letters,⁴ that expects a bribe,
And others roar aloud, “Subscribe, subscribe!”⁵

115 There are, who to my person pay their court:
I cough like Horace, and, though lean, am short;

7. Ancient Roman poet ridiculed by Virgil and referred to by Virgil. The bishop of Armagh Juvenal.

employed Ambrose Philips (line 100; called

8. Seemingly solid but flawed reasoning.

“Namby-Pamby” by the wits) as his secretary.

9. Pertaining to poetry and the Muses.

“Sappho” (line 101) is the poet Lady Mary Wortley

1. Colley Cibber, poet laureate.

Montagu (1689-1762; see pp. 639-45).

2. John Henley (known as “Orator” Henley) was

3. The traditional haunt of hack writers.

an independent preacher with a mass following.

4. As Curll had done without permission.

James Moore Smythe was a member of the

5. Pay for copies in advance of publication.

Masonic order. Bavius (line 99) was a bad poet

EPISTLE TO DR. ARBUTHNOT / 629

Amnon’s great son⁶ one shoulder had too high,

Such Ovid’s nose, and “Sir! you have an eye—”

Go on, obliging creatures, make me see

120 All that disgraced my betters met in me.

Say for my comfort, languishing in bed,
“Just so immortal Maro⁰ held his head”: Virgil
And when I die, be sure you let me know
Great Homer died three thousand years ago.
125 Why did I write? what sin to me unknown
Dipped me in ink, my parents’, or my own?
As yet a child, nor yet a fool to fame,
I lisped in numbers,⁰ for the numbers came. verses
I left no calling for this idle trade,
130 No duty broke, no father disobeyed.
The Muse but served to ease some friend, not wife,
To help me through this long disease, my life,
To second, Arbuthnot! thy art and care,
And teach the being⁰ you preserved, to bear.⁰ life / endure
135 A. But why then publish? P. Granville the polite,⁷
And knowing Walsh, would tell me I could write;
Well-natured Garth inflamed with early praise,
And Congreve loved, and Swift endured my lays;
The courtly Talbot, Somers, Sheffield, read;
140 Even mitered Rochester⁸ would nod the head,
And St. John’s⁹ self (great Dryden’s friends before)
With open arms received one poet more.
Happy my studies, when by these approved!
Happier their author, when by these beloved!
145 From these the world will judge of men and books,
Not from the Burnets, Oldmixons, and Cookes.¹
Soft were my numbers; who could take offense
While pure description held the place of sense?

Like gentle Fanny's² was my flowery theme,
 150 A painted mistress, or a purling⁰ stream. murmuring
 Yet then did Gildon³ draw his venal quill;
 I wished the man a dinner, and sat still.
 Yet then did Dennis⁴ rave in furious fret;
 I never answered, I was not in debt.
 155 If want⁰ provoked, or madness made the m print, lack
 I waged no war with Bedlam or the Mint.⁵
 Did some more sober critic come abroad?
 If wrong, I smiled; if right, I kissed⁰ the rod.⁰ accepted
/punishment
 Pains, reading, study are their just pretense,
 6. Alexander the Great was called the son, or
 1. Thomas Burnet, John Oldmixon, and Arthur descendant, of the supreme Libyan god, Ammon.
 Cooke had all attacked Pope or his works.
 7. There follow the names of poets and men of
 2. Lord Hervey, satirized as Sporus in lines 305 ff.
 letters, Pope's early friends. They were literary
 3. Charles Gildon, a critic who had, as Pope elder statesmen, chiefly, who had befriended John believed, written against him "venally," to curry Dryden (1631-1700; see pp. 500-526) in his later favor with the essayist and poet Joseph Addison.
 years.
 4. John Dennis, who wrote a furious condemna-
 8. The bishop of Rochester (the miter being a tion of Pope's Essay on Criticism.

bishop's hat).

5. See note 2 to line 4 and note 5 to line 13 above.

9. Pronounced sm-jin's.

630 / ALEXANDER POPE

160 And all they want is spirit, taste, and sense.

Commas and points they set exactly right,

And 'twere a sin to rob them of their mite.^o small coin

Yet ne'er one sprig of laurel graced these ribalds,

From slashing Bentley down to piddling Tibbalds.⁶

165 Each wight^o who reads not, and but scans and spells,
man

Each word-catcher that lives on syllables,

Even such small critics some regard may claim,

Preserved in Milton's or in Shakespeare's name.

Pretty! in amber to observe the forms

170 Of hairs, or straws, or dirt, or grubs, or worms!

The things, we know, are neither rich nor rare,

But wonder how the devil they got there.

Were others angry? I excused them too;

Well might they rage; I gave them but their due.

175 A man's true merit 'tis not hard to find;

But each man's secret standard in his mind,

That casting weight⁷ pride adds to emptiness,

This, who can gratify? for who can guess?

The bard whom pilfered pastorals renown,

iso Who turns a Persian tale for half a crown,⁸

Just writes to make his barrenness appear,

And strains from hard-bound brains eight lines a year:

He, who still wanting, though he lives on theft,
Steals much, spends little, yet has nothing left;
185 And he who now to sense, now nonsense leaning,
Means not, but blunders round about a meaning:
And he whose fustian's⁰ so sublimely bad, pretentious
writing's
It is not poetry, but prose run mad:
All these, my modest satire bade translate,
190 And owned that nine such poets made a Tate.⁹
How did they fume, and stamp, and roar, and chafe!
And swear, not Addison¹ himself was safe.
Peace to all such! but were there one whose fires
True Genius kindles, and fair Fame inspires;
195 Blessed with each talent and each art to please,
And born to write, converse, and live with ease:
Should such a man, too fond to rule alone,
Bear, like the Turk, no brother near the throne;²
View him with scornful, yet with jealous eyes,
200 And hate for arts that caused himself to rise;
Damn with faint praise, assent with civil leer,
And without sneering, teach the rest to sneer;
Willing to wound, and yet afraid to strike,

6. Richard Bentley, a classical scholar, had edited competed with the youthful Pope as a pastoral Paradise Lost with undue license on the grounds poet; author of Persian Tales.

that Milton was blind and never saw his text. Lewis

9. Nahum Tate, successor to Dryden as poet lau-

Theobald, no wit but a closer scholar than Pope, reate. This line adapts the adage that it takes nine had exposed the faults of Pope's edition of Shaketailors to make a man.

speare in a subsequent edition of his own. Laurel:

1. Joseph Addison, coauthor of The Tatler and The classical symbol of poetic achievement Ribalds:

Spectator, and arbiter of polite taste.

rascals.

2. The Ottoman emperors, Europeans believed,

7. Weight tipping the scales.

regularly killed their principal kinsmen upon

8. Ambrose Philips (named in line 100), who had ascending the throne.

E P I S T L E T O D R . A R B U T H N O T / 6 3 1

Just hint a fault, and hesitate dislike;

205 Alike reserved to blame or to commend,

A timorous foe, and a suspicious friend;

Dreading even fools; by flatterers besieged,

And so obliging that he ne'er obliged;

Like Cato, give his little senate laws,³

210 And sit attentive to his own applause;

While wits and Templars⁰ every sentence raise, law students

And wonder with a foolish face of praise—

Who but must laugh, if such a man there be?

Who would not weep, if Atticus⁴ were he?

215 What though my name stood rubric⁰ on the walls? in red letters

Or plastered posts, with claps,⁰ in capitals? posters
Or smoking forth, a hundred hawkers' load,
On wings of winds came flying all abroad?
I sought no homage from the race that write;
220 I kept, like Asian monarchs, from their sight:
Poems I heeded (now berhymed so long)
No more than thou, great George!⁵ a birthday song.
I ne'er with wits or witlings⁰ passed my days ones of little wit
To spread about the itch of verse and praise;
225 Nor like a puppy daggled⁰ through the town dragged about
To fetch and carry sing-song up and down;
Nor at rehearsals sweat, and mouthed, and cried,
With handkerchief and orange at my side;
But sick of fops, and poetry, and prate,
230 To Bufo left the whole Castalian state.⁶
Proud as Apollo on his forked hill,⁷
Sat full-blown Bufo, puffed by every quill;
Fed with soft dedication all day long,
Horace and he went hand in hand in song.
235 His library (where busts of poets dead
And a true Pindar⁸ stood without a head)
Received of wits an undistinguished race,
Who first his judgment asked, and then a place:
Much they extolled his pictures, much his seat,⁰ estate
240 And flattered every day, and some days eat:^o ate
Till grown more frugal in his riper days,
He paid some bards with port, and some with praise;

To some a dry rehearsal was assigned, without performance
And others (harder still) he paid in kind.⁹

245 Dryden alone (what wonder?) came not nigh;

Dryden alone escaped this judging eye:

But still the great have kindness in reserve;

3. Addison, author of the immensely popular tragedy Cato (1713), presided over an admiring comedy of the Muses. Bubo (Latin for toad), perhaps a company of political and literary partisans at Button's house opposite Lord Halifax and "Bubo," Bubb Dodington's Coffee House. Pope's prologue to Cato includes the line "While Cato gives his little senate laws."

7. The twin peaks of Parnassus, one sacred to

4. A wealthy, wise man of letters (109-32 B.C.E.)

Apollo and the other sacred to Dionysus (Greek god of wine and a friend of Cicero; here, a pseudonym for Addison).

son.

8. Ancient Greek poet famous for his odes and

5. George II.

lyrics.

6. Pope leaves Bubo the whole republic of letters,

9. I.e., he read them his poetry in turn.

named from the spring Castalia, which was sacred

632 / A L E X A N D E R P O P E

He helped to bury whom he helped to starve.

May some choice patron bless each gray goose quill!0 quill pen

250 May every Bavius have his Bufo still!1

So when a statesman wants a day's defense,

Or Envy holds a whole week's war with Sense,

Or simple Pride for flattery makes demands,

May dunce by dunce be whistled off my hands!

255 Blessed be the great! for those they take away,

And those they left me—for they left me Gay;2

Left me to see neglected genius bloom,

Neglected die, and tell it on his tomb;

Of all thy blameless life the sole return

260 My verse, and Queensberry weeping o'er thy urn!

Oh, let me live my own, and die so too!

("To live and die is all I have to do")3

Maintain a poet's dignity and ease,

And see what friends, and read what books I please;

265 Above a patron, though I condescend

Some times to call a minister my friend.

I was not born for courts or great affairs;

I pay my debts, believe, and say my prayers,

Can sleep without a poem in my head,

270 Nor know if Dennis be alive or dead.

Why am I asked what next shall see the light?

Heavens! was I born for nothing but to write?

Has life no joys for me? or (to be grave)

Have I no friend to serve, no soul to save?

275 "I found him close with Swift"—"Indeed? no doubt,"

Cries prating Balbus, “something will come out.”

‘Tis all in vain, deny it as I will.

“No, such a genius never can lie still,”

And then for mine obligingly mistakes

280 The first lampoon Sir Will or Bubo⁴ makes.

Poor guiltless I! and can I choose but smile,

When every coxcomb knows me by my style?

Cursed be the verse, how well soe’er it flow,

That tends to make one worthy man my foe,

285 Give Virtue scandal, Innocence a fear,

Or from the soft-eyed virgin steal a tear!

But he who hurts a harmless neighbor’s peace,

Insults fallen worth, or Beauty in distress,

Who loves a lie, lame Slander helps about,

290 Who writes a libel, or who copies out:

That fop whose pride affects a patron’s name,

Yet absent, wounds an author’s honest fame;

Who can your merit selfishly approve,

1. For Bavius, see note 2 to line 98; for Bufo, note

3. Quotation from Denham’s poem “Of Pru-

6 to line 230.

dence.”

2. John Gay (1 6 8 5 - 1 7 3 2 ; s e e p p . 5 9 4 - 9 6) , a u t h
o r

4. Sir William Yonge or Bubb Dodington. Both of The Beggar’s Opera, associate of Pope and Swift; were Pope’s political adversaries as well as, in some befriended (line 260) by the duke and duchess of degree, silly men.

Queensberry.

EPISTLE TO DR. ARBUTHNOT / 633

And show the sense of it without the love;

295 Who has the vanity to call you friend,

Yet wants the honor, injured, to defend;

Who tells whate'er you think, whate'er you say,

And, if he lie not, must at least betray:

Who to the dean and silver bell can swear,

300 And sees at Cannons what was never there:5

Who reads but with a lust to misapply,

Make satire a lampoon, and fiction, lie:

A lash like mine no honest man shall dread,

But all such babbling blockheads in his stead.

305 Let Sporus6 tremble A. What? that thing of silk,

Sporus, that mere white curd of ass's milk?

Satire or sense, alas! can Sporus feel?

Who breaks a butterfly upon a wheel?

p. Yet let me flap this bug with gilded wings,

310 This painted child of dirt, that stinks and stings;

Whose buzz the witty and the fair annoys,

Yet wit ne'er tastes, and beauty ne'er enjoys;

So well-bred spaniels civilly delight

In mumbling of the game they dare not bite.

315 Eternal smiles his emptiness betray,

As shallow streams run dimpling all the way.

Whether in florid impotence he speaks,

And, as the prompter breathes, the puppet squeaks;

Or at the ear of Eve,⁷ familiar toad,
 320 Half froth, half venom, spits himself abroad,
 In puns, or politics, or tales, or lies,
 Or spite, or smut, or rhymes, or blasphemies.
 His wit all seesaw between that and this,
 Now high, now low, now master up, now miss, [
 325 And he himself one vile antithesis. J
 Amphibious thing! that acting either part,
 The trifling head or the corrupted heart,
 Fop at the toilet, flatterer at the board,
 Now trips⁰ a lady, and now struts a lord. walks like 330 Eve's tempter thus the rabbins⁰ have expressed, Hebrew scholars
 A cherub's face, a reptile all the rest;
 Beauty that shocks you, parts⁰ that none will trust, talents
 Wit that can creep, and pride that licks the dust.
 Not Fortune's worshiper, nor Fashion's fool,
335 Not Lucre's⁰ madman, nor Ambition's tool, Money's
 Not proud, nor servile, be one poet's praise,
 That if he pleased, he pleased by manly ways:
 That flattery, even to kings, he held a shame,
 And thought a lie in verse or prose the same:

5. In his Epistle to Burlington, Pope satirized in the poem, Lord Hervey, a foppish and effemi-"Timon's Villa," an estate where a silver bell and nate courtier who was Pope's personal, political, an obsequious dean invite worshipers to an over-and literary enemy. He attested his frailty by drinkstuffed chapel. Mischief-makers had unjustly identifying ass's milk as a tonic.

tified this estate with Cannons, the ostentatious

7. Like Satan in Eden (Paradise Lost 4.790 ff.).

home of Pope's well-wisher the duke of Chandos.

Hervey was Queen Caroline's confidant; the word

6. Roman eunuch, object of Nero's sexual desires;

"familiar" suggests a demonic ministrant.

634 / A L E X A N D E R P O P E

340 That not in fancy's maze he wandered long,

But stooped⁸ to truth, and moralized his song:

That not for fame, but Virtue's better end,

He stood the furious foe, the timid friend,

T h e damning critic, half approving wit,

345 T h e coxcomb hit, or fearing to be hit;

Laughed at the loss of friends he never had,

T h e dull, the proud, the wicked, and the mad;

T h e distant threats of v e n g e a n c e on his head,

T h e blow unfelt, the tear he never shed;

350 T h e tale revived, the lie so oft o'erthrown,

T h e imputed trash, and dullness not his own;

The morals blackened w h e n the writings 'scape,

T h e libeled person, and the pictured shape;⁹

Abuse on all he loved, or loved him, spread,

355 A friend in exile, or a father dead;

T h e whisper,¹ that to greatness still too near,

Perhaps yet vibrates on his sovereign's ear—

W e l c o m e for thee, fair Virtue! all the past!

For thee, fair Virtue! w e l c o m e even the last!
 360 A. But why insult the poor, affront the great?
 p. A knave's a knave to me in every state:
 Alike my scorn, if he s u c c e e d or fail,
 Sporus at court, or Japhet² in a jail,
 A hireling scribbler, or a hireling peer,
 365 Knight of the post³ corrupt, or of the shire,
 If on a pillory, or near a throne,
 He gain his prince's ear, or lose his own.
 Yet soft by nature, more a dupe than wit,
 Sappho can tell you h o w this man was bit:0 deceived
 370 This dreaded satirist D e n n i s will c o n f e s s
 Foe to his pride, but friend to his distress:4
 So humble, he has knocked at Tibbald's door,
 Has drunk with Cibber, nay, has rhymed for Moore.
 Full ten years slandered, did he o n c e reply?
 375 Three thousand suns w e n t down on Welsted's lie.5
 To please a mistress one⁶ aspersed⁰ his life; maligned
 He lashed him not, but let her be his wife.
 Let Budgell charge low Grub Street on his quill,
 And write whate'er he pleased, except his will;7
 380 Let the two Curlls, of town and court,⁸ abuse
 His father, mother, body, soul, and muse.
 Yet why? that father held it for a rule,
 It was a sin to call our neighbor fool;
 That harmless mother thought no wife a whore:

8. Swooped down, perceiving prey (a term from

4. Pope contributed to a benefit performance for falconry).

the aging Dennis.

9. Cartoons were drawn of Pope's hunched pos-

5. Welsted had accused Pope of causing the death ture.

of a female admirer.

1. Hervey's whisper to Queen Caroline.

6. The statesman William Windham.

2. Japhet Crook, a forger; his ears were cropped

7. Eustace Budgell (perhaps falsely) attributed to for his crime (line 367). For Sporus, see note 6 to Pope a squib in the Grub-Street journal charging line 305.

that Budgell had forged a will.

3. Knight of the post: professional witness.

8. The publisher Edmund Curll and Lord Hervey.

THE UNIVERSAL PRAYER / 635

385 Hear this, and spare his family, James Moore!9

Unspotted names, and memorable long,

If there be force in virtue, or in song.

Of gentle blood (part shed in honor's cause,

While yet in Britain honor had applause)

390 Each parent sprung A. What fortune, pray? p. Their own,

And better got than Bestia's1 from the throne.

Born to no pride, inheriting no strife,

Nor marrying discord in a noble wife,

Stranger to civil and religious rage,

395 The good man walked innoxious⁰ through his age.
harmless

No courts he saw, no suits would ever try,

Nor dared an oath, nor hazarded a lie.²

Unlearned, he knew no schoolman's subtle art,

No language but the language of the heart.

400 By nature honest, by experience wise,

Healthy by temperance, and by exercise;

His life, though long, to sickness passed unknown,

His death was instant, and without a groan.

Oh, grant me thus to live, and thus to die!

405 Who sprung from kings shall know less joy than I.

O friend! may each domestic bliss be thine!

Be no unpleasing melancholy mine:

Me, let the tender office long engage,

To rock the cradle of reposing Age,

410 With lenient arts extend a mother's breath,³

Make Languor smile, and smooth the bed of Death,

Explore the thought, explain the asking eye,

And keep a while one parent from the sky!

On cares like these if length of days attend,

415 May Heaven, to bless those days, preserve my friend,

Preserve him social, cheerful, and serene,

And just as rich as when he served a Queen!⁴

A. Whether that blessing be denied or given,

Thus far was right—the rest belongs to Heaven.

1 7 3 5

The Universal Prayer

15 This, teach me more than Hell to shun,
That, more than Heaven pursue.⁶

What blessings thy free bounty gives,

Let me not cast away;

For God is paid when man receives,

20 To enjoy is to obey.

Yet not to earth's contracted span,

Thy goodness let me bound,

Or think thee Lord alone of man,

When thousand worlds are round:

25 Let not this weak, unknowing hand

Presume thy bolts⁷ to throw,

And deal damnation round the land,

On each I judge thy foe.

If I am right, thy grace impart,

30 Still in the right to stay;

If I am wrong, oh teach my heart

To find that better way.

Save me alike from foolish pride,

Or impious discontent,

35 At aught thy wisdom has denied,

Or aught thy goodness lent.

Teach me to feel another's woe,

To hide the fault I see;

That mercy I to others show,

40 That mercy show to me.

5. God considered as the first principle, creator of the afterlife.

all creatures, cause of all truth and goodness.

7. The weapons, thunderbolts, of Zeus, chief

6. I.e., teach me to refine my conscience here on Greek god.

Earth instead of concerning myself overmuch with

I M P R O M P T U / 6 3 7

M e a n though I am, not wholly so

Since quickened by thy breath;

Oh lead me wheresoe'er I go,

Through this day's life or death.

45 This day, be bread and peace⁸ my lot:

All else beneath the sun,

T h o u know'st if best bestowed or not,

And let thy will be done.

To thee, w h o s e temple is all space,

50 W h o s e altar, earth, sea, skies!

O n e chorus let all being raise!

All Nature's i n c e n s e rise!

ca. 1 7 1 5 1 7 3 8

Impromptu

To Lady Winchelsea,

Occasioned by four Satirical Verses on Women Wits,

In The Rape of the Lock⁹

In vain you boast poetic n a m e s of yore,

And cite those Sapphos we admire no more:¹

Fate d o o m e d the fall of every female wit;

But d o o m e d it then, w h e n first Ardelia² writ.

5 Of all examples by the world confessed,

I knew Ardelia could not quote the best;
 Who, like her mistress on Britannia's throne,
 Fights and subdues in quarrels not her own.³
 To write their praise you but in vain essay;
 io Even while you write, you take that praise away.
 Light to the stars the sun does thus restore,
 But shines himself till they are seen no more.

ca. 1715 1741

8. Perhaps an allusion to the Lord's Prayer: "Give written in 1713, Pope complained that the expe-us this day our daily bread ..."

rience of hearing Lady Winchilsea read her poetry

9. Ostensibly written casually, without premedi-at a dinner party gave him a headache—an ailment tation ("impromptu"), this poem to Anne Finch, that in the Rape he associates only with women.
 countess of Winchilsea (1661—1720), replies to
 For another view of spleen—an ailment similar to some verses she had sent Pope in response to The depression—see the selection from Matthew Rape of the Lock 4 . 5 9 - 6 2 (see p. 616). Since these Green's poem on that subject (p. 645).

lines, from the "Cave of Spleen" episode, are

1. Applies to all female poets the name of the directed specifically against female poets, and ancient Greek poet.

Anne Finch wrote a poem titled "The Spleen"

2. The name under which Anne Finch sometimes

(p. 558), she was probably right in reading Pope's wrote.

verses as containing a comic slur directed at her.

3. An allusion to Queen Anne (reigned 1702—14), Her initial response to Pope has not survived, but who involved England in wars (of the Spanish Succession) that Pope viewed as irrelevant to the national interest. her witty "Answer" to this "Impromptu" was printed in 1717 (p. 565). In a letter to a male friend

638 / ALEXANDER POPE

From The Dunciad

*[The Triumph of Dulness]*⁴

In vain, in vain,—the all-composing hour

Resistless⁰ falls: the M u s e obeys the power. irresistibly

She⁵ comes! she comes! the sable⁰ throne behold black

Of Night primeval, and of Chaos old!⁶

Before her, Fancy's gilded clouds decay,

And all its varying rainbows die away.

Wit shoots in vain its momentary fires,

T h e meteor drops, and in a flash expires.

As o n e by one, at dread Medea's strain,

T h e sickening stars fade off the ethereal plain;⁷

As Argus' eyes by Hermes' wand oppressed,

Closed one by o n e to everlasting rest;⁸

T h u s at her felt approach, and secret might,

Art after Art goes out, and all is night.

See skulking Truth to her old cavern fled,⁹

Mountains of casuistry¹ heaped o'er her head!
Philosophy, that leaned on Heaven before,
Shrinks to her s e c o n d cause,² and is no more.
Physic⁰ of Metaphysic begs defense, natural science
And Metaphysic calls for aid on Sense!
See Mystery⁰ to Mathematics fly! mystical knowledge
In vain! they gaze, turn giddy, rave, and die.
Religion blushing veils her sacred fires,
And unawares Morality expires.
Nor public flame, nor private, dares to shine;
Nor h u m a n spark is left, nor glimpse divine!
Lo! thy dread empire, C h a o s is restored;
Light dies before thy uncreating word:³
Thy hand, great Anarch! lets the curtain fall;
And universal darkness buries all.

1 7 2 1 - 2 5

1 7 4 7

4. Dunciad (B) 4.627-56.

then killed him.

5. Dulness, the center of a mock-apocalyptic

9. "Alluding to the saying of Democritus, that vision in which the light of the arts and sciences is Truth lay at the bottom of a deep well" [Pope's extinguished.

note].

6. Milton, in Paradise Lost 1.543, describes the

1. Discourse about "cases of conscience"; also, elements separating heaven and hell as "Chaos and overly complex reasoning.

old Night,” or disorder and darkness, the first

2. In classical philosophy, God is defined as the materials of the cosmos.

first cause of all things. Under the sway of Dulness,

7. In Seneca’s Medea, the stars obey the curse of a materialistic explanation (or “second cause”) is Medea, a magician and avenger.

substituted.

8. Hermes, the Greek gods’ messenger, charmed

3. As opposed to God’s first creating words in Genesis, “Let there be light.”

6 3 9

LADY MARY W O R T L E Y M O N T A G U

1689-1762

Saturday

The Small-Pox

FLAVIA1

T h e wretched Flavia, on her c o u c h reclined,

T h u s breathed the anguish of a w o u n d e d mind.

A glass⁰ reversed in her right hand she bore, mirror

For n o w she s h u n n e d the face she sought before.

5 “How am I changed! alas! h o w am I grown

A frightful spectre, to myself unknown!

Where’s my complexion? where the radiant bloom,

That promised happiness for years to come?

Then,⁰ with what pleasure I this face surveyed! in the past

10 To look o n c e more, my visits oft delayed!
Charmed with the view, a fresher red would rise,
And a n e w life shot sparkling from my eyes!
Ah! faithless glass, my wonted⁰ bloom restore! accustomed,
Alas! I rave, that bloom is n o w no more!
15 “The greatest good the gods on m e n bestow,
Ev’n youth itself, to me is useless now.
There was a time (oh! that I could forget!)
W h e n opera-tickets poured before my feet;
And at the Ring² where brightest beauties shine,
20 T h e earliest cherries of the spring were mine.
Witness, O Lillie, and thou, Motteux, tell,
H o w m u c h japan³ these eyes have made you sell.
W i t h what contempt ye saw me oft despise
T h e humble offer of the raffled prize;
25 For at e a c h raffle still the prize I bore,
W i t h scorn rejected, or with triumph wore.
N o w beauty’s fled, and presents are no more.
“For me the patriot has the H o u s e ⁴ forsook,
And left debates to catch a passing look;
30 For me the soldier has soft verses writ;
For me the beau^o has aimed to be a wit. suitor
For me the wit to n o n s e n s e was betrayed;
T h e gamester has for me his dun^o delayed demand for payment

1. Eclogues are traditionally sophisticated, became a vocal advocate of inoculation when she medium-length pastoral poems; see, e.g., Edmund returned to England in 1718. She wrote various Spenser's "Aprill" (p. 159). In this poem, as in her letters and an essay attacking physicians who other five "town" eclogues, Montagu revises the opposed inoculation and the "fools" who believed genre, satirizing Londoners' manners and morals in them.

through characters given classical (Greek and

2. A fashionable area in Hyde Park.

Roman) names. Here, focusing on "Flavia," Mon-

3. Japanese work with painted and varnished

tagu examines a disease that had killed her brother

design; Charles Lillie and Peter Motteux were men and ten-year-old nephew; she had suffered from it of letters who also dealt in Asian goods.

in 1715, but without being badly scarred. She later

4. I.e., the House of Commons, the lower house had her son inoculated for smallpox in Turkey and of the English Parliament.

640 / L A D Y M A R Y W O R T L E Y M O N T A G U

And overseen⁰ the card I would have paid.⁵ overlooked

35 The bold and haughty by success made vain,

Awed by my eyes, has trembled to complain:

The bashful squire, touched with a wish unknown,

Has dared to speak with spirit not his own:

Fired by one wish, all did alike adore;

40 Now beauty's fled, and lovers are no more.

"As round the room I turn my weeping eyes,

New unaffected scenes of sorrow rise.
Far from my sight that killing picture bear,
The face disfigure, or the canvas tear!⁶
45 That picture, which with pride I used to show,
The lost resemblance but upbraids me now.
And thou, my toilette, where I oft have sat,
While hours unheeded passed in deep debate,
How curls should fall, or where a patch⁷ to place;
50 If blue or scarlet best became my face;
Now on some happier nymph^o your aid bestow; girl
On fairer heads, ye useless jewels, glow!
No borrowed lustre can my charms restore,
Beauty is fled, and dress is now no more.
55 “Ye meaner beauties, I permit you shine;
Go, triumph in the hearts that once were mine;
But, midst your triumphs with confusion know,
‘Tis to my ruin all your charms ye owe.
Would pitying heaven restore my wonted^o mien, usual / appearance
60 Ye still might move unthought of and unseen:
But oh, how vain, how wretched is the boast
Of beauty faded, and of empire lost!
What now is left but weeping to deplore
My beauty fled, and empire now no more?
65 “Ye cruel chemists,^o what withheld your aid? druggists
Could no pomatums⁸ save a trembling maid?
How false and trifling is that art you boast;
No art can give me back my beauty lost!

In tears, surrounded by my friends I lay,
70 Masked o'er, and trembling at the light of day;
Mirmillo⁹ came my fortune to deplore
(A golden-headed cane well carved he bore):
Cordials, he cried, my spirits must restore!
Beauty is fled, and spirit is no more!
75 Galen the grave, officious Squirt was there,
With fruitless grief and unavailing care:
Machaon too, the great Machaon, known
By his red cloak and his superior frown;
And why, he cried, this grief and this despair?

5. I.e., underwritten her next bet.

8. Scented, apple-based ointments applied to the

6. The painting is “killing” to her present sense of face and hair.

self because it shows her face as it used to be,

9. A “Mirmillo,” or mermillo, was a type of Roman unblemished; in anger, she wishes to “disfigure” gladiator typically represented in statues as armed the painting as the disease has disfigured her.

with helmet, oval shield, and a short sword held in

7. A small piece of silk or court plaster worn on front of him. This name, like “Galen,” “Squirt,” and the face to heighten the complexion and attract “Machaon” in the next lines, is a mock-heroic allu-attention.

sion to a contemporary medical expert.

THE LOVER : A BALLAD / 641

so You shall again be well, again be fair;
Believe my oath (with that an oath he swore);
False was his oath! my beauty is no more.
“Cease, hapless maid, no more thy tale pursue,
Forsake mankind, and bid the world adieu.
85 Monarchs and beauties rule with equal sway,
All strive to serve, and glory to obey:
Alike unpitied w h e n deposed they grow,
M e n mock the idol of their former vow.
“Adieu, ye parks—in s o m e obscure recess,
90 W h e r e gentle streams will w e e p at my distress,
W h e r e no false friend will in my grief take part,
And mourn my ruin with a joyful heart;
There let me live in s o m e deserted place,
There hide in shades this lost inglorious face.
95 Plays, operas, circles,⁰ I no more must view! tiers of theater seats
My toilette, patches, all the world, adieu!”

1 7 1 6 1 7 4 7

The Lover: A Ballad

At length, by so m u c h importunity pressed,
Take, Molly,¹ at once, the inside of my breast;
This stupid indifference so often you blame
Is not owing to nature, to fear, or to shame;
I am not as cold as a Virgin in lead,²
Nor is Sunday’s sermon so strong in my head;
I know but too well how time flies along,
That we live but f e w years and yet fewer are young.
But I hate to be cheated, and never will buy

Long years of repentance for moments of joy.
Oh was there a man (but where shall I find Good sense and good nature so equally joined?)
Would value his pleasure, contribute to mine,
Not meanly would boast, nor would lewdly design,^{0 plot}
Not over severe, yet not stupidly vain,
For I would have the power though not give the pain;
No pedant yet learned, not rakehell^{0 gay like a libertine}
Or laughing because he has nothing to say,
To all my whole sex obliging and free,
Yet never be fond of any but me;
In public preserve the decorum that's just,
And show in his eyes he is true to his trust,

1. Molly Skerrett, a friend of Montagu, was the 2. I.e., an image of the Virgin Mary, either as a mistress of the English statesman Sir Robert Wal- leaden statue or as a stained-glass window framed pole. in lead.

642 / LADY MARY WORTLEY MONTAGU

Then rarely approach, and respectfully bow,
Yet not fulsomely pert, nor yet foppishly low.
25 But when the long hours of public are past
And we meet with champagne and a chicken at last,
May every fond pleasure that hour endear,
Be banished afar both discretion and fear,
Forgetting or scorning the airs of the crowd
30 He may cease to be formal, and I to be proud,
Till lost in the joy we confess that we live,
And he may be rude, and yet I may forgive.
And that my delight may be solidly fixed,

Let the friend and the lover be handsomely mixed,
35 In whose tender bosom my soul might confide, Whose kindness can sooth me, whose counsel could guide.

From such a dear lover as here I describe
No danger should fright me, no millions should bribe;
But till this astonishing creature I know,
40 As I long have lived chaste, I will keep myself so.
I never will share with the wanton coquette,
Or be caught by a vain affectation of wit.
The toasters and songsters may try all their art
But never shall enter the pass of my heart.

45 I loathe the lewd rake, the dressed fopling despise;
Before such pursuers the nice⁰ virgin flies; fastidious
And as Ovid has sweetly in parables told
We harden like trees, and like rivers are cold.³

ca. 1721 - 25 1747

A Receipt to Cure the Vapors⁴

I

Why will Delia thus retire,
And idly languish life away?
While the sighing crowd admire,
'Tis too soon for hartshorn tea:⁵

II

5 All those dismal looks and fretting
Cannot Damon's life restore;

3. In Ovid's Metamorphoses, two nymphs (minor name.) Receipt: formula of a remedy for a disease.

nature goddesses) escape from gods: Daphne, fleeing from Apollo, is turned into a laurel; Arethusa, fleeing from Alpheus, becomes a fountain.

terized by depression, hypochondria, hysteria, and other nervous disorders. Synonymous with the malaise of “spleen,” analyzed by Anne Finch (see p. 558) and Matthew Green (p. 645).

Delia. (Damon, line 6, is also a conventional poetic name for a medicinal tea made from ammonia.)

EPISTLE FROM MRS. YONGE TO HER HUSBAND / 643

Long ago the worms have eat him,
You can never see him more.

III

O n c e again consult your toilette,⁶
10 In the glass⁰ your face review: mirror
So m u c h weeping soon will spoil it,
And no spring your charms renew.

IV

I, like you, was born a woman,
Well I know what vapors mean:
15 T h e disease, alas! is c o m m o n ;
Single, we have all the spleen.⁷

V

All the morals that they tell us,

Never cured the sorrow yet:

C h u s e , among the pretty fellows,

20 O n e of honor, youth, and wit.

VI

Prithee hear him every morning

At the least an hour or two;

O n c e again at night returning—

I believe the dose will do.

ca. 1730 1748

Epistle from Mrs. Yonge to Her Husband⁸

Think not this paper c o m e s with vain pretense

To move your pity, or to mourn th' offense.

T o o well I know that hard obdurate heart;

No softening mercy there will take my part,

5 Nor can a woman's arguments prevail,

6. I.e., consider your manner of dressing.

sensational affair, it is also a work of imagination.

7. I.e., we alone (i.e., women only) are affected by

Like Alexander Pope's "Eloisa to Abelard"—to vapors; or, alternatively, women are affected by which Pope called Montagu's attention—it takes vapors when they are "single" (i.e., without the

the form of a heroic epistle, the passionate outcry company of a man).

of an abandoned woman. The poet, entering into

8. In 1724, the notorious libertine William Yonge, the feelings of Mrs. Yonge, justifies her conduct separated from his wife, Mary, discovered that she with reasons of both the heart and the head. The (like him) had committed adultery. He sued her objects of her attack include the institution of marriage, Colonel Norton, for damages and collected riage, which binds wives in “eternal chains”; the £1,500. Later that year, according to the law of the double standard of morality, which requires chastity, he petitioned the Houses of Parliament for a tity from women but not men; the hypocrisy of divorce. The case was tried in public, Mrs. Yonge’s society, which condemns the very behavior it love letters were read aloud, and two men testified secretly lusts after; and the craven greed and cruelty that they had found her and Norton “together in elty of the husband. But eighteenth-century naked bed.” Yonge was granted the divorce, his women seldom dared speak like this in public, and wife’s dowry, and the greater part of her fortune. the “Epistle” was not published until the 1970s.

Though the “Epistle” is obviously based on this

644 / L A D Y M A R Y W O R T L E Y M O N T A G U

When even your patron’s wise example fails.⁹

But this last privilege I still retain;

Th’ oppressed and injured always may complain.

Too, too severely laws of honor bind

10 The weak submissive sex of womankind.

If sighs have gained or force compelled our hand,
Deceived by art, or urged by stern command,
Whatever motive binds the fatal tie,
The judging world expects our constancy.
15 Just heaven! (for sure in heaven does justice reign, Though tricks below that sacred name profane)
To you appealing I submit my cause,
Nor fear a judgment from impartial laws.
All bargains but^o conditional^o are made; only / conditionally
20 The purchase void, the creditor unpaid;
Defrauded servants are from service free;
A wounded slave regains his liberty.
For wives ill used no remedy remains,
To daily racks condemned, and to eternal chains.
25 From whence is this unjust distinction grown?
Are we not formed with passions like your own?
Nature with equal fire our souls endued,
Our minds as haughty, and as warm our blood;
O'er the wide world your pleasures you pursue,
30 The change is justified by something new;
But we must sigh in silence—and be true.
Our sex's weakness you expose and blame
(Of every prattling fop the common theme),
Yet from this weakness you suppose is due 35 Sublimer virtue than your Cato¹ knew.
Had heaven designed us trials so severe,
It would have formed our tempers then to bear.
And I have borne (oh what have I not borne!)

The pang of jealousy, the insults of scorn.
40 Wearied at length, I from your sight remove,
And place my future hopes in secret love.
In the gay bloom of glowing youth retired,
I quit the woman's joy to be admired,
With that small pension your hard heart allows,
45 Renounce your fortune, and release your vows.
To custom (though unjust) so much is due;
I hide my frailty from the public view.
My conscience clear, yet sensible of shame,
My life I hazard, to preserve my fame.
50 And I prefer this low inglorious state
To vile dependence on the thing I hate— f
But you pursue me to this last retreat. J Dragged into light, my tender crime is shown
And every circumstance of fondness known.

55 Beneath the shelter of the law you stand,
9. Sir Robert Walpole, Yonge's friend at court, was ancient Roman statesman Cato had been empha-rumored to tolerate his own wife's infidelities.
sized in Addison's famous tragedy Cato (1713).

1. The asceticism and self-discipline of the

THE SPLEEN / 645

And urge my ruin with a cruel hand,
While to my fault thus rigidly severe,
Tamely submissive to the man you fear.²
This wretched outcast, this abandoned wife, 60 Has yet this joy to s w e e t e n shameful life:

By your mean⁰ conduct, infamously loose, vulgar
You are at once my accuser and excuse.
Let me be d a m n e d by the censorious prude
(Stupidly dull, or spiritually lewd),
65 My hapless case will surely pity find
From every just and reasonable mind.
W h e n to the final s e n t e n c e I submit,
T h e lips c o n d e m n me, but their souls acquit.
No more my husband, to your pleasures go,
70 T h e sweets of your recovered freedom know.
Go: court the brittle friendship of the great,
Smile at his board,⁰ or at his levee³ wait; dining table
And w h e n dismissed, to madam's toilet fly,⁴
More than her chambermaids, or glasses,⁰ lie, mirrors
75 Tell her h o w young she looks, h o w heavenly fair,
Admire the lilies and the roses there.
Your high ambition may be gratified,
S o m e c o u s i n of her own be made your bride,
A n d you the father of a glorious race
so Endowed with Ch -l's strength and Low r's face.⁵

1 7 2 4 1 9 7 2

M A T T H E W G R E E N

1696-1737

From The Spleen¹

An Epistle to Mr. Cuthbert Jackson

This motley piece to you I send,
W h o always were a faithful friend;
W h o , if disputes should happen hence,

Can best explain the author's sense;

5 And, anxious for the public weal,

Do, what I sing, so often feel.²

2. I.e., Walpole. Montagu suggests that the whole married the daughter of a baron.

political establishment of England takes sides

1. The effects of "the spleen" were believed to be against Mrs. Yonge.

depression, hypochondria, ill-temper, melancholy,

3. Morning reception of visitors.

and a variety of other nervous disorders. Green

4. It was fashionable for women like Lady Walpole wrote this poem supposedly in reply to a friend who to receive visitors during the last stages of dressing asked him how he coped with this malady.

(their "toilet").

Although he cites causes and treatments for the

5. General Churchill was rumored to have had an disorder, Green uses the subject to write a satire affair with Lady Walpole; Anthony Lowther was a on religion, politics, and contemporary social prac- notorious gallant. The author implies that Yonge's tices. Cf. Anne Finch, "The Spleen" (p. 558).

next wife may be as untrue as his first. Mrs. Yonge

2. Green claims to suffer from "what I sing," i.e., remarried immediately after her divorce; five years "spleen," as a result of his concern for the "public later, Yonge (whose divorce had made him rich) weal," i.e., the public welfare, a reference to his

646 / MATTHEW GREEN

The want of method pray excuse,

Allowing for a vapored Muse;³

Nor to a narrow path confined,

10 Hedg e in by rules a roving mind.

The child is genuine, you may trace

Throughout the sire's transmitted⁰ face. inherited

Nothing is stolen: my Muse, though mean,⁰ lowly, poor

Draws from the spring she finds within;

15 Nor vainly⁰ buys what Gildon⁴ sells, in vain

Poetic buckets for dry wells.

School-helps I want,⁵ to climb on high,

Where all the ancient treasures lie,

And there unseenc omm it a theft

20 On wealth in Greek exchequers⁰ left. treasuries

Then where? from whom? what can I steal,

Who only with the moderns deal?

This were attempting to put on

Raiment from naked bodies won:⁶

25 They safely sing before a thief,

They cannot give who want relief;

Some few excepted, names well known,

And justly laureled⁷ with renown,

Whose stamp of genius marks their ware,

30 And theft detects: of theft beware;

From More so lashed,⁸ example fit,

Shun petty larceny in wit.

First know, my friend, I do not mean
 To write a treatise on the spleen;
 35 Nor to prescribe when nerves convulse;
 Nor mend th' alarum watch, your pulse.
 If I am right, your question lay,
 What course I take to drive away
 The day-mare⁹ Spleen, by whose false pleas
 40 Men prove mere suicides in ease;¹
 And how I do myself demean⁰ manage
 In stormy world to live serene.

When by its magic lantern² Spleen
 With frightful figures spreads life's scene,

job as a clerk in a Custom House (the office Howard's epic poem British Princes (1669): "A responsible for levying taxes on imported and painted vest Prince Vortiger had on, / Which from exported goods) in London.

a naked Pict his grandsire won."

3. The Muses were the nine Greek sister god-

7. The laurel was a symbol of poetic achievement.

desses supposed to be the sources of inspiration

8. In The Dunciad 2.50, Alexander Pope (1688—for the arts. Vapored: i.e., afflicted with the vapors, 1744) "lashed," i.e., castigated, the playwright

a disorder supposed to be caused by exhalations

James Moore Smythe (1702-1734) for having plawithin the organs of the body and characterized by giarized.

symptoms similar to those of spleen.

9. Similar to a nightmare, but occurring during

4. Charles Gildon (1665-1724), author of The wakefulness; a term coined by Green.

Complete Art of English Poetry.

1. Without hesitation; or, at leisure. Mere: unas-

5. Lack; Green claims to not have a classical education, a claim somewhat belied by the many

2. An optical instrument by means of which a learned allusions in the poem.

magnified image of a picture on glass is thrown

6. Perhaps a reference to two lines from Edward upon a white screen or wall in a darkened room.

T H E S P L E E N / 6 4 7

45 And threatening prospects⁰ urged my fears, *expectations

A stranger to the luck of heirs;³

Reason, some quiet to restore,

S h o w e d part was substance, shadow more;

W i t h Spleen's dead weight though heavy grown,

50 In life's rough tide I sunk not down,

But swam, 'till Fortune threw a rope,

Buoyant on bladders⁴ fill'd with hope.

I always c h o o s e the plainest food

To m e n d viscosity⁰ of blood.

glutinousness

55 Hail! water-gruel,⁰ healing power, thin porridge

Of easy access to the poor;
 Thy help love's confessors implore,
 And doctors secretly adore;
 To thee, I fly, by thee dilute—
 60 Through veins my blood doth quicker shoot,⁵
 And by swift current throws off clean Prolific particles of Spleen.
 I never sick by drinking grow,
 N o r keep myself a cup too low,⁰ sad, gloomy
 65 And seldom Cloe's lodgings haunt,
 Thrifty of spirits, w h i c h I want.⁶
 Hunting I reckon very good
 To brace the nerves, and stir the blood:
 But after no field-honors⁰ itch, honors -won in the hunt
 70 Achieved by leaping hedge and ditch,
 While Spleen lies soft relaxed in bed,
 Or o'er coal fires inclines the head,
 Hygeia's sons⁷ with h o u n d and horn,
 And jovial cry awake the morn.
 To cure the mind's wrong bias, Spleen,
 S o m e r e c o m m e n d the bowling-green;⁸
 Some, hilly walks; all, exercise;
 Fling but a stone, the giant dies;⁹
 Laugh and be well. Monkeys have b e e n
 Extreme good doctors for the Spleen;
 And kitten, if the humor hit,¹
 Has harlequinned⁰ away the fit. conjured away
 3. I.e., he has no hope of an inheritance.

7. Healthy men (Hygeia being the Greek goddess
4. Animals' bladders, inflated and used as flotation of health).

devices.

8. The lawn on which bowls, a popular English

5. "Blood" is the noun acted on by the past parti-game, is played.

ciple, "dilute": i.e., "blood," diluted by the gruel,

9. The metaphor alludes to 1 Samuel 17, in which "doth quicker shoot" through the veins.

a young David kills the Philistine giant, Goliath,

6. I.e., economical of liveliness or energy, which I with a stone from his sling.

lack. C[h]loe: a conventional poetic name for a

1. I.e., if it affects the disposition.

young woman.

6 4 8 / M A T T H E W G R E E N

If spleen-fogs rise at close of day,

I clear my evening with a play,

Or to some concert take my way.

T h e company, the shine of lights,

The scenes of humor, music's flights,

Adjust and set the soul to rights.

Life's moving pictures, well-wrought plays,

To others' grief attention raise:

Here, while the tragic fictions glow,

We borrow joy by pitying woe;

There gaily c o m i c scenes delight,

And hold true mirrors to our sight.
Virtue, in charming dress arrayed,
Calling the passions to her aid,
When moral scenes just actions join,
Takes shape, and shows her face divine.
Sometimes I dress, with women sit,
And chat away the gloomy fit;
Quit the stiff garb of serious sense,
And wear a gay impertinence,⁰ indifference
Nor think nor speak with any pains,
But lay on fancy's neck the reins;
Talk of unusual swell of waist
In maid of honor² loosely laced,
And beauty borrow Spanish red,³
And loving pair with separate bed,
And jewels pawned for loss of game,
And then redeemed by loss of fame;
Of Kitty (aunt left in the lurch
By grave pretence to go to church)
Perceived in hack⁰ with lover fine, rented carriage
Like Will and Mary on the coin:⁴
And thus in modish⁰ manner we, fashionable
In aid of sugar, sweeten tea.
Permit, ye fair,⁰ your idol form, beautiful woman
Which even the coldest heart can warm,
May with its beauties grace my line,
While I bow down before its shrine,
And your thronged altars with my lays⁰ songs

Perfume, and get by giving praise.

W i t h speech so sweet, so sweet a mien,^o appearance

You e x c o m m u n i c a t e the Spleen.

1 7 3 7

2. An unmarried woman, usually of noble birth,

4. William and Mary were joint rulers of England who attends upon a queen or princess.

from 1689 until her death, in 1694. During their

3. A cosmetic that added reddish color to the reign, coins were minted that bore the likenesses cheeks.

of their two heads in profile.

6 4 9

J A M E S T H O M S O N

1700-1748

From The Seasons

From Winter

The keener tempests come: and, fuming dun^o dark; murky

From all the livid east or piercing north,

225 Thick clouds ascend, in whose capacious womb

A vapory deluge lies, to snow congealed.

Heavy they roll their fleecy world along,

And the sky saddens with the gathered storm.

Through the hushed air the whitening shower descends,

230 At first thin-wavering; till at last the flakes

Fall broad and wide and fast, dimming the day

With a continual flow. The cherished fields

Put on their winter robe of purest white.

'Tis brightness all; save where the new snow melts
235 Along the mazy current. Low the woods
Bow their hoar^o head; and, ere the languid sun frozen, icy
Faint from the west emits his evening ray,
Earth's universal face, deep-hid and chill,
Is one wild dazzling waste that buries wide
240 The works of man. Drooping, the laborer-ox
Stands covered o'er with snow, and then demands
The fruit of all his toil. The fowls of heaven,
Tamed by the cruel season, crowd around
The winnowing store,¹ and claim the little boon
245 Which Providence assigns them. One alone,
The redbreast, sacred to the household gods,
Wisely regardful of the embroiling sky,
In joyless fields and thorny thickets leaves
His shivering mates, and pays to trusted man
250 His annual visit. Half afraid, he first Against the window beats; then brisk alights
On the warm hearth; then, hopping o'er the floor,
Eyes all the smiling family askance,
And pecks, and starts, and wonders where he is—255 Till, more familiar grown, the table crumbs Attract his slender feet. The foodless wilds
Pour forth their brown inhabitants. The hare,
Though timorous of heart, and hard beset
By death in various forms, dark snares, and dogs, 260 And more un pitying men, the garden seeks,
Urged on by fearless want. The bleating kind²

Eye the bleak heaven, and next the glistening earth,
With looks of dumb despair; then, sad-dispersed,
Dig for the withered herb through heaps of snow.

1. Place where the harvest has been threshed.

2. Sheep.

650 / JAMES THOMSON

N o w , shepherds, to your helpless charge be kind;

Baffle the raging year, and fill their pens

W i t h food at will; lodge t h e m below the storm,

And watch them strict, for, from the bellowing east,

In this dire season, oft the whirlwind's wing

Sweeps up the burden of whole wintry plains

In one wide weft,^o and o'er the hapless flocks, web

Hid in the hollow of two neighboring hills,

T h e billowy tempest w h e l m s , 0 till, upward urged,
pours T h e valley to a shining mountain swells,

Tipped with a wreath high-curling in the sky.

As thus the snows arise, and, foul and fierce,

All Winter drives along the darkened air,

In his own loose-revolving^o fields the swain^o giddily turning /rustic Disastered stands; sees other hills ascend,

Of unknown joyless brow, and other scenes,

Of horrid prospect, shag^o the trackless plain; make shaggy

Nor finds the river nor the forest, hid

Beneath the formless wild, but wanders on

From hill to dale, still more and more astray,

Impatient flouncing through the drifted heaps,

Stung with the thoughts of h o m e — t h e thoughts of h o
m e

Rush on his nerves and call their vigor forth
In many a vain attempt. How sinks his soul!
What black despair, what horror fills his heart,
When, for the dusky spot which fancy feigned
His tufted⁰ cottage rising through the snow, tree- surrounded
He meets the roughness of the middle waste,
Far from the track and blest abode of man,
While round him night resistless closes fast,
And every tempest, howling o'er his head,
Renders the savage wilderness more wild.
Then throng the busy shapes into his mind
Of covered pits, unfathomably deep,
A dire descent! beyond the power of frost;
Of faithless bogs; of precipices huge,
Smoothed up with snow; and (what is land unknown,
What water) of the still unfrozen spring,
In the loose marsh or solitary lake,
Where the fresh fountain from the bottom boils.
These check his fearful steps; and down he sinks
Beneath the shelter of the shapeless drift,
Thinking o'er all the bitterness of death,
Mixed with the tender anguish nature shoots
Through the wrung bosom of the dying man —
His wife, his children, and his friends unseen.
In vain for him the officious⁰ wife prepares dutiful
The fire fair-blazing and the vestment warm;
In vain his little children, peeping out

Into the mingling storm, demand their sire
With tears of artless innocence. Alas!
Nor wife nor children more shall he behold,
THESEASONS / 651
Nor friends, nor sacred home. On every nerve
The deadly winter seizes, shuts up sense,
And, o'er his inmost vitals creeping cold,
Lays him along the snows a stiffened corse,⁰ corpse
Stretched out and bleaching in the northern blast.
Ah! little think the gay licentious proud,
Whom pleasure, power, and affluence surround—
They who their thoughtless hours in giddy mirth,
And wanton, often cruel, riot⁰ waste — revelry
Ah! little think they, while they dance along,
How many feel, this very moment, death
And all the sad variety of pain;
How many sink in the devouring flood,
Or more devouring flame; how many bleed,
By shameful variance⁰ betwixt man and man; quarreling
How many pine in want,⁰ and dungeon glooms, lack Shut from the common air and common use
Of their own limbs; how many drink the cup
Of baleful grief, or eat the bitter bread
Of misery; sore pierced by wintry winds,
How many shrink into the sordid hut
Of cheerless poverty; how many shake
With all the fiercer tortures of the mind,
Unbounded passion, madness, guilt, remorse—

W h e n c e , tumbled headlong from the height of life,
They furnish matter for the Tragic Muse;³
Even in the vale,⁰ where wisdom loves to dwell, valley
W i t h friendship, peace, and contemplation joined,
H o w many, racked with honest passions, droop
In deep retired distress; h o w many stand
Around the death-bed of their dearest friends,
And point⁰ the parting anguish! Thought fond man accentuate
Of these, and all the thousand nameless ills
That one incessant struggle render life,⁴
O n e s c e n e of toil, of suffering, and of fate,
Vice in his high career would stand appalled,
And heedless rambling Impulse learn to think;
T h e conscious⁰ heart of Charity would warm, sympathetic
And her wide wish Benevolence dilate⁰ diffuse
T h e social tear would rise, the social sigh;
And into clear perfection, gradual⁰ bliss, progressive
Refining still, the social passions work.

1 7 2 6

3. Melpomene, Muse of tragedy, one of the nine 4. I.e., if foolish human beings thought of these, sister goddesses in Greek mythology who inspired and of all the thousand nameless ills that render the arts. life one incessant struggle.

6 5 2

C H A R L E S W E S L E Y

1707-1788

HYMNS1

[My God! I Know, I Feel Thee Mine²]

i

My God! I know, I feel thee mine,
And will not quit my claim
Till all I have is lost in thine,
And all renewed I am.

2

5 I hold thee with a trembling hand,
But will not let thee go
Till steadfastly by faith I stand,
And all thy goodness know.

3

W h e n shall I see the welcome hour
10 That plants my God in me!
Spirit of health, and life, and power,
And perfect liberty!

4

Jesu, thine all-victorious love
Shed in my heart abroad!
is Then shall my feet no longer rove,
Rooted and fixed in God.

5

Love only can the conquest win,
The strength of sin subdue
(Mine own unconquerable sin),
20 And form my soul anew.

6

Love can bow down the stubborn neck,
The stone to flesh convert;

1. Many tenets of the Methodist movement, popularize hymn singing in English at worship founded by John Wesley (1703-1791) in 1739, are services. The hymns selected below were first expressed by the hymns of his brother, Charles. printed in different editions of the Wesleys' Hymns Some Methodists believed in the assurance of sal-and Sacred Prayers; we follow the text of the 1780 vation (rejecting the Calvinist doctrine of predes-Hymnbook.

2. The subtext for this hymn is Romans 4.13: "For methodical study and devotion as a means of the promise that he should be the heir of the world attaining Christian perfection. Charles Wesley was not to Abraham, or to his seed, through the law, but through the righteousness of faith."

[C O M E O N , M Y P A R T N E R S I N D I S T R E S S
] / 6 5 3

Soften, and melt, and pierce, and break

An adamantin⁰ heart. unyielding, hard

7

25 Oh, that in me the sacred fire

Might n o w begin to glow,

Burn up the dross of base desire,

And make the mountains flow!

8

Oh, that it n o w from heaven might fall, 30 And all my sins consume!

C o m e , Holy Ghost, for thee I call,
Spirit of burning, come!

9

Refining fire, go through my heart,
Illuminate my soul;

35 Scatter thy life through every part,
And sanctify the whole.

1 0

Sorrow and sin shall then expire,
While, entered into rest,

I only live my God t'admire—

40 My God forever blest.

11

No longer then my heart shall mourn,
While purified by grace

I only for his glory burn,

And always see his face.

12

45 My steadfast soul, from falling free,
Shall then no longer move;

But Christ be all the world to me,

And all my heart be love.

1 7 4 0

[Come on, My Partners in Distress]

i

C o m e on, my partners in distress,

My comrades through the wilderness,3

W h o still your bodies feel;

3. Where the Israelites wandered for forty years; also, the place where Christ was tempted, thus a place of suffering, testing, wandering, used here as a metaphor for earthly life.

6 5 4 / C H A R L E S W E S L E Y

Awhile forget your griefs and fears,

5 And look beyond this vale of tears

To that celestial hill.4

2

Beyond the bounds of time and space

Look forward to that heavenly place,

T h e saints' secure abode;

10 On faith's strong eagle pinions rise,

And force your passage to the skies,

And scale the m o u n t of God.

3

W h o suffer with our Master5 here,

We shall before his face appear,

15 And by his side sit down;

To patient faith the prize is sure,

And all that to the end endure

T h e cross, shall wear the crown.6

4

Thrice blessed bliss-inspiring hope!

20 It lifts the fainting spirits up,

It brings to life the dead;

Our conflicts here shall soon be past,

And you and I ascend at last

Triumphant with our head.⁷

5

25 That great mysterious Deity

We soon with open face shall see;

T h e beatific sight⁸

Shall fill heaven's sounding courts with praise,

And wide diffuse the golden blaze

30 Of everlasting light.

6

T h e Father shining on his throne,

T h e glorious, co-eternal Son,

T h e Spirit, one and seven,⁹

Conspire our rapture to complete,

35 And lo! we fall before his feet,

And silence heightens heaven.

4. The heavenly Jerusalem is thought to be located

7. I.e., Christ; "the head of every man is Christ" on a hill, Mt. Sion. Vale of tears: this world,

(1 Corinthians 11.3).

regarded as a place of trouble, sorrow, misery, or

8. A sight of the glories of heaven, especially that weeping.

first granted to a disembodied spirit.

5. I.e., Christ.

9. The "seven spirits of God" are referred to in

6. The New Testament promises a "crown of life"

Revelation 1.4, 3.1, 4.5, 5.6.

to the faithful Christian (James 1.12).

PROLOGUE SPOKEN BY MR. GARRICK / 655

7

In hope of that ecstatic pause,
Jesu, we n o w sustain the cross,
And at thy footstool fall,
40 Till thou our hidden life reveal,
Till thou our ravished spirits fill,
And God is all in all.

1749

SAMUEL JOHNSON

1709-1784

Prologue Spoken by Mr. Garrick¹

At the Opening of the Theater Royal, Drury Lane, 1747

W h e n Learning's triumph o'er her barbarous foes
First reared the stage, immortal Shakespeare rose;
E a c h change of many-colored life he drew,
Exhausted worlds, and then imagined new:
5 Existence saw him spurn her bounded reign,
And panting Time toiled after him in vain.
His powerful strokes presiding Truth impressed,
And unresisted Passion stormed the breast.
T h e n Jonson² came, instructed from the school
io To please in method and invent by rule;
His studious patience and laborious art
By regular approach essayed the heart;
Cold Approbation gave the lingering bays,³
For those w h o durst not censure, scarce could praise.

15 A mortal born, he met the general doom,
 But left, like Egypt's kings, a lasting tomb.
 The wits of Charles⁴ found easier ways to fame,
 Nor wished for Jonson's art, or Shakespeare's flame;
 Themselves they studied; as they felt, they writ;
 20 Intrigue was plot, obscenity was wit.
 Vice always found a sympathetic friend;
 They pleased their age, and did not aim to mend.⁰ amend it
 Yet bards like these aspired to lasting praise,
 And proudly hoped to pimp⁰ in future days. bid for reward
 25 Their cause was general, their supports were strong,
 Their slaves were willing, and their reign was long:
 Till S h a m e regained the post that Sense betrayed,
 And Virtue called Oblivion to her aid.
 Then, crushed by rules, and weakened as refined,
 30 For years the power of Tragedy declined;

1. David Garrick (1717-1779), English actor and 3. Laurel, given in recognition of poetic achieve-theater manager. ment.
 2. Ben Jonson (1572-1637), poet and playwright. 4. The comic playwrights of the Restoration.

6 5 6 / S A M U E L J O H N S O N

From bard to bard the frigid caution crept,
 Till Declamation roared while Passion slept;
 Yet still did Virtue deign the stage to tread;
 Philosophy remained though Nature fled;
 35 But forced at length her ancient reign to quit,
 She saw great Faustus⁵ lay the ghost of Wit;
 Exulting Folly hailed the joyous day,
 And P a n t o m i m e and S o n g confirmed her sway.

But w h o the c o m i n g changes can presage,
40 And mark the future periods of the stage?
Perhaps if skill could distant times explore,
N e w Behns, n e w Durfeys,⁶ yet remain in store;
Perhaps where Lear has raved, and Hamlet died,
On flying cars n e w sorcerers may ride;
45 Perhaps (for w h o can guess the effects of chance?)
Here H u n t may box, or M a h o m e t may dance.⁷
Hard is his lot that, here by fortune placed,
Must watch the wild vicissitudes of taste;
W i t h every meteor of caprice must play,
50 And chase the new-blown bubbles of the day.
Ah! let not censure term our fate our choice,
The stage but e c h o e s back the public voice;
The drama's laws, the drama's patrons give,
For we that live to please, must please to live.
55 T h e n prompt no more the follies you decry,
As tyrants doom their tools of guilt to die;
T i s yours this night to bid the reign c o m m e n c e
Of rescued Nature and reviving Sense;
To chase the charms of Sound, the p o m p of Show,
60 For useful Mirth and salutary W o e ;
Bid scenic Virtue form the rising age,
And Truth diffuse her radiance from the stage.

1747

The Vanity of Human Wishes

*In Imitation of the Tenth Satire of Juvenal*⁸

Let Observation, with extensive view,

Survey mankind, from China to Peru;
Remark each anxious toil, each eager strife,
And watch the busy scenes of crowded life;
5 Then say how hope and fear, desire and hate
O'erspread with snares the clouded maze of fate,
Where wavering man, betrayed by venturous pride
To tread the dreary paths without a guide,

5. Magician of German legend, here as treated in wright and poetaster who was a standing joke current farce and pantomime.

among the wits.

6. Playwrights like Aphra Behn (1640?-1689),

7. Referring to two then-popular figures, a pugilist admired by some but also attacked for her racy and a tightrope dancer.

plays, and Thomas D'Urfey (1653-1723), play-

8. Ancient Roman poet and satirist.

THE VANITY OF HUMAN WISHES / 6 5 7

As treacherous phantoms in the mist delude,

10 Shuns fancied ills, or chases airy good;

How rarely Reason guides the stubborn choice,

Rules the bold hand, or prompts the suppliant voice;

How nations sink, by darling schemes oppressed,

When Vengeance listens to the fool's request.⁹

15 Fate wings with every wish the afflictive dart,

Each gift of nature, and each grace of art;¹

With fatal heat impetuous courage glows,

With fatal sweetness elocution flows,

Impeachment stops the speaker's powerful breath,
20 And restless fire precipitates on death.²
But scarce observed, the knowing and the bold
Fall in the general massacre of gold;
Wide-wasting pest! that rages unconfined,
And crowds with crimes the records of mankind;
25 For gold his sword the hireling ruffian draws,
For gold the hireling judge distorts the laws;
Wealth heaped on wealth, nor truth nor safety buys,
The dangers gather as the treasures rise.
Let History tell where rival kings command,
30 And dubious title shakes the madded land,
When statutes glean the refuse of the sword,
How much more safe the vassal than the lord,

Low skulks the hind^o beneath the rage of power, -peasant
And leaves the wealthy traitor in the Tower,³
35 Untouched his cottage, and his slumbers sound,
Though Confiscation's vultures hover round.
The needy traveler, serene and gay,
Walks the wild heath, and sings his toil away.
Does envy seize thee? crush the upbraiding joy,
40 Increase his riches and his peace destroy;
New fears in dire vicissitude invade,
The rustling brake^o alarms, and quivering shade, thicket
Nor light nor darkness bring his pain relief,
One shows the plunder, and one hides the thief.
45 Yet still one general cry the skies assails,
And gain and grandeur load the tainted gales;
Few know the toiling statesman's fear or care,
The insidious rival and the gaping heir.
Once more, Democritus,⁴ arise on earth,
50 With cheerful wisdom and instructive mirth,
See motley life in modern trappings dressed,
And feed with varied fools the eternal jest:
Thou who couldst laugh where Want enchained Caprice,
Toil crushed Conceit, and man was of a piece;
55 Where Wealth unloved without a mourner died;
9. I.e., when vengeance hangs over a nation, ready
2. Perhaps, i.e., impetuous energy hastens men to to descend on it if the proposals of political fools their death.
prevail.

3. Tower of London (a prison).

1. The sense of this couplet is that men can be

4. Greek philosopher of the late fifth century hurried toward misery by their desires and even by

B.C.E., a fatalist who exalted cheerfulness and their talents and accomplishments.

derided all immoderate pretensions.

6 5 8 / S A M U E L J O H N S O N

And scarce a sycophant was fed by Pride;

W h e r e ne'er was known the form of mock debate,

Or seen a new-made mayor's unwieldy state;^{0 pomp}

W h e r e change of favorites made no change of laws,

60 And senates heard before they judged a cause;

H o w wouldst thou shake at Britain's modish tribe,

Dart the quick taunt, and edge the piercing gibe?

Attentive truth and nature to descry,

And pierce each scene with philosophic eye,

65 To thee were solemn toys or empty show

T h e robes of pleasures and the veils of woe:

All aid the farce, and all thy mirth maintain,

W h o s e joys are causeless, or w h o s e griefs are vain.

S u c h was the scorn that filled the sage's mind,

70 Renewed at every glance on h u m a n kind;

H o w just that scorn ere yet thy voice declare,

Search every state, and canvass every prayer.

U n n u m b e r e d suppliants crowd Preferment's gate,

Athirst for wealth, and burning to be great;

75 Delusive Fortune hears the incessant call,

They mount, they shine, evaporate, and fall.
On every stage the foes of peace attend,
Hate dogs their flight, and Insult mocks their end.
Love ends with hope, the sinking statesman's door
so Pours in the morning worshiper no more;⁵
For growing n a m e s the weekly scribbler lies,
To growing wealth the dedicator flies;
From every room descends the painted face,
That h u n g the bright palladium⁶ of the place;
85 And smoked in kitchens, or in auctions sold,
To better features yields the frame of gold;
For n o w no more we trace in every line
Heroic worth, benevolence divine:
T h e form distorted justifies the fall,
90 And Detestation rids the indignant wall.
But will not Britain hear the last appeal,
Sign her foes' doom, or guard her favorites' zeal?
Through Freedom's sons no more remonstrance rings,
Degrading nobles and controlling kings;
95 Our supple tribes repress their patriot throats,
And ask no questions but the price of votes,
W i t h weekly libels and septennial ale.⁷
Their wish is full⁰ to riot and to rail. satisfied
In full-blown dignity, see Wolsey⁸ stand,
100 Law in his voice, and fortune in his hand:
To him the church, the realm, their powers consign,
Through him the rays of regal bounty shine;
5. Important personages received petitions and

7. I.e., public attacks in the weekly press and ale official calls in the morning.

distributed at the parliamentary elections held

6. An image of Pallas (Athena, Greek goddess of every seventh year.

wisdom) that supposedly preserved Troy from cap-

8. Thomas Cardinal Wolsey (ca. 1475-1530), lord ture as long as it remained in the city; hence a chancellor under Henry VIII.

safeguard.

THE VANITY OF HUMAN WISHES / 659

Turned by his nod the stream of honor flows,

His smile alone security bestows:

105 Still to new heights his restless wishes tower,

Claim leads to claim, and power advances power;

Till conquest unresisted ceased to please,

And rights submitted, left him none to seize.

At length his sovereign frowns—the train of state⁹

110 Mark the keen glance, and watch the sign to hate.

Where'er he turns, he meets a stranger's eye,

His suppliants scorn him, and his followers fly;

At once is lost the pride of awful state,

The golden canopy, the glittering plate,

115 The regal palace, the luxurious board,⁰ table

The liveried army, and the menial lord.

With age, with cares, with maladies oppressed,

He seeks the refuge of monastic rest.

Grief aids disease, remembered folly stings,

120 And his last sighs reproach the faith of kings.
Speak thou, whose thoughts at humble peace repine,⁰ com-plain

Shall Wolsey's wealth, with Wolsey's end be thine?
Or liv'st thou now, with safer pride content,
The wisest justice on the banks of Trent?¹

125 For why did Wolsey, near the steeps of fate,
On weak foundations raise the enormous weight?
Why but to sink beneath misfortune's blow,
With louder ruin to the gulfs below?

What gave great Villiers² to the assassin's knife,
130 And fixed disease on Harley's closing life?

What murdered Wentworth, and what exiled Hyde,
By kings protected and to kings allied?

What but their wish indulged in courts to shine,
And power too great to keep or to resign?

135 When first the college rolls receive his name,
The young enthusiast quits his ease for fame;
Resistless burns the fever of renown

Caught from the strong contagion of the gown:³

O'er Bodley's dome his future labors spread,

140 And Bacon's mansion trembles o'er his head.⁴

Are these thy views? proceed, illustrious youth,

And Virtue guard thee to the throne of Truth!

Yet should thy soul indulge the generous heat,

Till captive Science yields her last retreat;

9. I.e., followers of the king.

1667.

1. A river flowing through the English Midlands.
3. Academic gown, put on upon entering the uni-
2. George Villiers, duke of Buckingham, court versity, with allusion to the shirt of Nessus, the favorite of James I and Charles I; assassinated in flaming robe that clung to the mythical Greek hero 1628. Robert Harley (line 130), earl of Oxford, a Hercules and drove him to his death.

member of the Tory ministry under Q u e e n Anne,

4. “There is a tradition, that the study of friar was subsequently imprisoned and suffered a Bacon [i.e., the thirteenth-century scientist and decline. Thomas Wentworth (line 131), earl of philosopher Roger Bacon], built on an arch over Strafford, advisor to Charles I, was executed in the bridge, will fall, when a man greater than 1641, under the Long Parliament. Edward Hyde Bacon shall pass under it” [Johnson’s note]. Bod- (line 131), earl of Clarendon, who was Charles II’s ley’s dome: the Bodleian Library, Oxford (Latin for lord chancellor and whose daughter married into domus, house).

the royal family, was impeached and exiled in

660 / S A M U E L J O H N S O N

145 Should Reason guide thee with her brightest ray,
And pour on misty Doubt resistless day;
Should no false kindness lure to loose delight,
Nor praise relax, nor difficulty fright;

Should tempting Novelty thy cell refrain,⁰ -pass by, avoid 150 And Sloth effuse her opiate fumes in vain;

Should Beauty blunt on fops her fatal dart,

Nor claim the triumph of a lettered heart;

Should no disease thy torpid veins invade,

Nor Melancholy's phantoms haunt thy shade;

155 Yet hope not life from grief or danger free,

Nor think the doom of man reversed for thee:

Deign on the passing world to turn thine eyes,

And pause a while from letters, to be wise;

There mark what ill the scholar's life assail,

160 Toil, envy, want, the patron, and the jail.

See nations slowly wise, and meanly just,

To buried merit raise the tardy bust.

If dreams yet flatter, once again attend,

Hear Lydiat's life, and Galileo's end.⁵

165 Nor deem, when Learning her last prize bestows,

The glittering eminence exempt from foes;

See when the vulgar 'scapes, despised or awed,

Rebellion's vengeful talons seize on Laud.⁶

From meaner minds though smaller fines content,

170 The plundered palace, or sequestered⁷ rent;

Marked out by dangerous parts he meets the shock,

And fatal Learning leads him to the block:

Around his tomb let Art and Genius weep,

But hear his death, ye blockheads, hear and sleep.⁸

175 The festal blazes, the triumphal show,

The ravished standard, and the captive foe,

The senate's thanks, the gazette's⁹ pompous tale,
 With force resistless o'er the brave prevail.
 Such bribes the rapid Greek¹ o'er Asia whirled, 180 For such the steady Romans shook the world;
 For such in distant lands the Britons shine,
 And stain with blood the Danube or the Rhine;
 This power has praise that virtue scarce can warm,²
 Till fame supplies the universal charm.
 185 Yet Reason frowns on War's unequal game,
 Where wasted nations raise a single name,
 And mortgaged states their grandsires' wreaths regret
 From age to age in everlasting debt;
 Wreaths which at last the dear-bought right convey
 5. Galileo (1564—1642), the Italian astronomer, 7. Confiscated by the state.
 was imprisoned for heresy by the Inquisition; he
 8. Rest secure, i.e., since you lack Laud's learning died blind. Thomas Lydiat (1572-1646), the and gifts.
 Oxford mathematician and don, endured lifelong
 9. Newspaper's or official report's.
 poverty because of his Royalist sympathies.
 1. I.e., Alexander the Great.
 6. William Laud (1573-1645), archbishop of
 2. I.e., praise has a power (to activate the brave)
 Canterbury under Charles I; executed in 1645, that an abstract love of virtue can scarcely begin under the Long Parliament, for his devotion to

to kindle.

episcopacy.

THE VANITY OF HUMAN WISHES / 661

190 To rust on medals, or on stones decay.

On what foundation stands the warrior's pride,

How just his hopes, let Swedish Charles³ decide;

A frame of adamant, a soul of fire,

No dangers fright him, and no labors tire;

195 O'er love, o'er fear, extends his wide domain,

Unconquered lord of pleasure and of pain;

No joys to him pacific scepters yield,

War sounds the trump, he rushes to the field;

Behold surrounding kings their powers combine,

200 And one capitulate, and one resign;⁴

Peace courts his hand, but spreads her charms in vain;

"Think nothing gained," he cries, "till naught remain,

On Moscow's walls till Gothic⁰ standards fly, Teutonic

And all be mine beneath the polar sky."

205 The march begins in military state,

And nations on his eye suspended wait;

Stern Famine guards the solitary coast,

And Winter barricades the realms of Frost;

He comes, nor want nor cold his course delay—

210 Hide, blushing Glory, hide Pultowa's day:

The vanquished hero leaves his broken bands,

And shows his miseries in distant lands;

Condemned a needy supplicant to wait,

While ladies interpose, and slaves debate.

215 But did not Chance at length her error mend?
 Did no subverted empire mark his end?
 Did rival monarchs give the fatal wound?
 Or hostile millions press him to the ground?
 His fall was destined to a barren strand,
 220 A petty fortress, and a dubious hand;
 He left the name at which the world grew pale,
 To point a moral, or adorn a tale.
 All times their scenes of pompous woes afford,
 From Persia's tyrant to Bavaria's lord.⁵
 225 In gay hostility, and barbarous pride,
 With half mankind embattled at his side,
 Great Xerxes comes to seize the certain prey,
 And starves exhausted regions in his way;
 Attendant Flattery counts his myriads o'er,
 230 Till counted myriads soothe his pride no more;
 Fresh praise is tried till madness fires his mind,
 The waves he lashes, and enchains the wind;
 New powers are claimed, new powers are still bestowed,
 Till rude resistance lops the spreading god;
 235 The daring Greeks deride the martial show,
 3. King Charles XII (1682-1718) of Sweden.
 throne to Charles in 1704.
 Defeated by the Russians at Pultowa in 1709, and
 5. Charles Albert, elector of Bavaria, who successfully aspired to the crown of the Holy Roman sought an alliance with the Turkish Sultan. He was Empire but was deposed in a few years through the killed in an attack on “a petty fortress” (line 220), political skill of Maria Theresa (“fair Austria,” line Fredrikshald, in Norway.

245). Persia’s tyrant: Xerxes, emperor whose forces

4. Frederick IV of Denmark capitulated to Charles the Greeks defeated by sea at Salamis in 480 B.C.E.
in 1700, and Augustus II of Poland resigned his and later, on land, at Plataea.

6 6 2 / S A M U E L J O H N S O N

And heap their valleys with the gaudy foe;

The insulted sea with humbler thought he gains,

A single skiff to speed his flight remains;

The encumbered oar scarce leaves the dreaded coast

240 Through purple⁰ billows and a floating host. blood- stained

The bold Bavarian, in a luckless hour,

Tries the dread summits of Caesarean⁰ power, imperial

With unexpected legions bursts away,

And sees defenseless realms receive his sway;

245 Short sway! fair Austria spreads her mournful charms,

The queen, the beauty, sets the world in arms;

From hill to hill the beacon’s rousing blaze

Spreads wide the hope of plunder and of praise;

The fierce Croatian, and the wild Hussar,⁶

250 With all the sons of ravage crowd the war;

The baffled prince, in honor’s flattering bloom,

Of hasty greatness finds the fatal doom;

His foes' derision, and his subjects' blame,
And steals to death from anguish and from shame.
255 Enlarge my life with multitude of days!
In health, in sickness, thus the suppliant prays;
Hides from himself his state, and shuns to know,
That life protracted is protracted woe.
Time hovers o'er, impatient to destroy,
260 And shuts up all the passages of joy;
In vain their gifts the bounteous seasons pour,
The fruit autumnal, and the vernal flower;
With listless eyes the dotard views the store,
He views, and wonders that they please no more;
265 Now pall the tasteless meats, and joyless wines,
And Luxury with sighs her slave resigns.
Approach, ye minstrels, try the soothing strain,
Diffuse the tuneful lenitives⁰ of pain: relievers
No sounds, alas! would touch the impervious ear, 270 Though dancing mountains witnessed Orpheus⁷ near;
Nor lute nor lyre his feeble powers attend,
Nor sweeter music of a virtuous friend,
But everlasting dictates crowd his tongue,
Perversely grave, or positively wrong.
275 The still returning tale, and lingering jest,
Perplex the fawning niece and pampered guest,
While growing hopes scarce awe the gathering sneer,
And scarce a legacy can bribe to hear;
The watchful guests still hint the last offense;
280 The daughter's petulance, the son's expense,

Improve⁰ his heady rage with treacherous skill, play upon
And mold his passions till they make his will.

Unnumbered maladies his joints invade,
Lay siege to life and press the dire blockade;
285 But unextinguished avarice still remains,

6. Hungarian cavalryman.

7. In Greek mythology, a poet and musician whose playing could move even trees and hills.

THE VANITY OF HUMAN WISHES / 6 6 3

And dreaded losses aggravate his pains;
He turns, with anxious heart and crippled hands,
His bonds of debt, and mortgages of lands;
Or views his coffers with suspicious eyes,
290 Unlocks his gold, and counts it till he dies.

But grant, the virtues of a temperate prime Bless with an age exempt from scorn or crime;
An age that melts with unperceived decay,
And glides in modest innocence away;

295 Whose peaceful day Benevolence endears,
Whose night congratulating Conscience cheers;
The general favorite as the general friend:

Such age there is, and who shall wish its end?

Yet even on this her load Misfortune flings,
300 To press the weary minutes' flagging wings;
New sorrow rises as the day returns,
A sister sickens, or a daughter mourns.

Now kindred Merit fills the sable⁰ bier, black

Now lacerated Friendship claims a tear;

305 Year chases year, decay pursues decay,
Still drops some joy from withering life away;
New forms arise, and different views engage,
Superfluous lags the veteran⁸ on the stage,
Till pitying Nature signs the last release,
310 And bids afflicted Worth retire to peace.
But few there are whom hours like these await,
Who set unclouded in the gulfs of Fate.
From Lydia's monarch⁹ should the search descend,
By Solon cautioned to regard his end, 315 In life's last scene what prodigies surprise,
Fears of the brave, and follies of the wise!
From Marlborough's eyes the streams of dotage flow,
And Swift expires a driveler and a show.¹
The teeming mother, anxious for her race,
320 Begs for each birth the fortune of a face:
Yet Vane could tell what ills from beauty spring;
And Sedley² cursed the form that pleased a king.
Ye nymphs of rosy lips and radiant eyes,
Whom Pleasure keeps too busy to be wise,
325 Whom Joys with soft varieties invite,
By day the frolic, and the dance by night;
Who frown with vanity, who smile with art,
And ask the latest fashion of the heart;
What care, what rules your heedless charms shall save,
330 Each nymph your rival, and each youth your slave?
Against your fame with Fondness Hate combines,
The rival batters, and the lover mines.⁰ undermines

8. I.e., an aged person.

Marlborough, and the writer Jonathan Swift

9. Croesus (d. ca. 549 B.C.E.), a very rich king who (1667 - 1745 ; see pp. 568-89) declined into senility, boasted of his happiness, and who was advised by the Athenian lawmaker Solon to regard no man as

2. Catherine Sedley, mistress of James II. Anne securely happy. He was later deposed.

Vane, mistress of Frederick, prince of Wales, died

1. Both the military hero John Churchill, duke of at thirty-one.

664 / S A M U E L J O H N S O N

With distant voice neglected Virtue calls,
Less heard and less, the faint remonstrance falls;
335 Tired with contempt, she quits the slippery reign,
And Pride and Prudence take her seat in vain.
In crowd at once, where none the pass defend,
The harmless freedom, and the private friend.
The guardians yield, by force superior plied:
340 To Interest, Prudence; and to Flattery, Pride.
Now Beauty falls betrayed, despised, distressed,
And hissing Infamy proclaims the rest.
Where then shall Hope and Fear their objects find?
Must dull Suspense corrupt the stagnant mind?
345 Must helpless man, in ignorance sedate,
Roll darkling down the torrent of his fate?
Must no dislike alarm, no wishes rise,

No cries invoke the mercies of the skies?
Inquirer, cease; petitions yet remain,
350 Which Heaven may hear, nor deem religion vain.
Still raise for good the supplicating voice,
But leave to Heaven the measure and the choice.
Safe in His power, whose eyes discern afar
The secret ambush of a specious prayer.
355 Implore His aid, in His decisions rest,
Secure, whate'er He gives, He gives the best.
Yet when the sense of sacred presence fires,
And strong devotion to the skies aspires,
Pour forth thy fervors for a healthful mind,
360 Obedient passions, and a will resigned;
For love, which scarce collective man can fill;
For patience sovereign o'er transmuted ill;³
For faith, that panting for a happier seat,
Counts death kind Nature's signal of retreat:
365 These goods for man the laws of Heaven ordain,
These goods He grants, who grants the power to gain;
With these celestial Wisdom calms the mind,
And makes the happiness she does not find.

1749

On the Death of Dr. Robert Levet⁴

Condemned to Hope's delusive mine,
As on we toil from day to day,
By sudden blasts, or slow decline,
Our social comforts drop away.

3. I.e., a capacity for love such that all humankind

4. An unlicensed physician, who practiced among together can hardly engage it fully; and for the poor and who had long lived in Johnson's patience, which, by asserting sovereignty over ills, house. He was uncouth in appearance and stiff in changes their nature.

manner.

ON THE DEATH OF DR. ROBERT LEVET / 66
5

5 Well tried through many a varying year,

See Levett to the grave descend;

Officious, innocent, sincere, dutiful

Of every friendless name the friend.

Yet still he fills Affection's eye,

10 Obscurely wise, and coarsely kind;

Nor, lettered Arrogance, deny

Thy praise to merit unrefined.

W h e n fainting Nature called for aid,

And hovering Death prepared the blow,

15 His vigorous remedy displayed

The power of art without the show.

In Misery's darkest cavern known,

His useful care was ever nigh,

W h e r e hopeless Anguish poured his groan,

20 And lonely W a n t retired to die.

No s u m m o n s m o c k e d by chill delay,

No petty gain disdained by pride,

T h e modest wants of every day

The toil of every day supplied.
25 His virtues walked their narrow round,
N o r made a pause, nor left a void;
And sure the Eternal Master found
T h e single talent⁵ well employed.
T h e busy day, the peaceful night,
30 Unfelt, uncounted, glided by;
His frame was firm, his powers were bright,
T h o u g h n o w his eightieth year was nigh.
T h e n with no throbbing fiery pain,
No cold gradations of decay,
35 D e a t h broke at once the vital chain,
And freed his soul the nearest way.

1783

5. An allusion to the parable of the talents, in which Christ suggests that salvation will be granted to those who use well their abilities, however small (Matthew 25.14—30).

666

T H O M A S GRAY

1716-1771

Ode on a Distant Prospect of Eton College

‘ A v B p a m o g - t K a v r) J i p o ^ a a i g e t g t o S v c r - r u x 8 ^ . 1

— M E N A N D E R

Ye distant spires, ye antique towers,
That crown the watery glade,
W h e r e grateful S c i e n c e ⁰ still adores learning
Her Henry’s holy shade;²
5 And ye, that from the stately brow

Of Windsor's heights³ the expanse below
Of grove, of lawn, of mead^o survey, meadow
Whose turf, whose shade, whose flowers among Wanders the hoary^o Thames along aged io His silver-winding way.

Ah happy hills, ah pleasing shade,
Ah fields beloved in vain,
Where once my careless childhood strayed,
A stranger yet to pain!

15 I feel the gales, that from ye blow,
A momentary bliss bestow,
As waving fresh their gladsome wing,
My weary soul they seem to soothe,
And, redolent of joy and youth,
20 To breathe a second spring.

Say, Father Thames, for thou hast seen
Full many a sprightly race
Disporting on thy margent^o green marginal

The paths of pleasure trace,
25 Who foremost now delight to cleave
With pliant arm thy glassy wave?
The captive linnet which enthrall^o imprison

What idle progeny succeed⁴
To chase the rolling circle's^o speed, hoop's

30 Or urge the flying ball?

W h i l e some on earnest business bent
Their murmuring labors ply
'Gainst graver hours, that bring constraint
To sweeten liberty:

35 S o m e bold adventurers disdain
The limits of their little reign,
And unknown regions dare descry:⁰ discover

1. I am a man, and that is reason enough for being
3. On the opposite side of the river Thames from miserable (Greek); from the dramatist Menander
Eton; most of the "height" belongs to the castle.
(342-292 B.C.E.).

4. Follow the example of the preceding genera-
2. Henry VI, founder of Eton.
tion.

ODE ON A DISTANT PROSPECT OF ETON COLLEGE / 667

Still as they run they look behind,
They hear a voice in every wind,
40 And snatch a fearful joy.
Gay hope is theirs by fancy fed,
Less pleasing when possessed;
The tear forgot as soon as shed,
The sunshine of the breast:
45 Theirs buxom⁰ health of rosy hue, zestful, jolly
Wild wit, invention ever new,
And lively cheer of vigor born;
The thoughtless day, the easy night,

The spirits pure, the slumbers light,
50 That fly the approach of morn.
Alas, regardless of their doom,
The little victims play!
No sense have they of ills to come,
Nor care beyond today.
55 Yet see how all around 'em wait
The ministers of human fate,
And black Misfortune's baleful train!
Ah, show them where in ambush stand
To seize their prey the murderous band!
60 Ah, tell them they are men!
These shall the fury Passions tear,
The vultures of the mind,
Disdainful Anger, pallid Fear,
And Shame that skulks behind;
65 Or pining Love shall waste their youth,
Or Jealousy with rankling tooth,
That inly gnaws the secret heart,
And Envy wan, and faded Care,
Grim-visaged comfortless Despair,
70 And Sorrow's piercing dart.
Ambition this⁵ shall tempt to rise,
Then whirl the wretch from high,
To bitter Scorn a sacrifice,
And grinning Infamy.
75 The stings of Falsehood those⁶ shall try,
And hard Unkindness' altered eye,

That mocks the tear it forced to flow;
And keen Remorse with blood defiled,
And moody Madness laughing wild
so Amid severest woe.

Lo, in the vale of years beneath⁷

A grisly troop are seen,

5. I.e., one of them.

7. A pointed variation on the common description

6. I.e., others.

of life as a “vale of tears.”

668 / T H O M A S GRAY

The painful family of Death,

More hideous than their queen:

85 This racks the joints, this fires the veins,

That every laboring sinew strains,

Those in the deeper vitals rage:

Lo, Poverty, to fill the band,

That numbs the soul with icy hand,

90 And slow-consuming Age.

To each his sufferings: all are men,

Condemned alike to groan;

The tender for another's pain,

The unfeeling for his own.

95 Yet ah! why should they know their fate?

Since sorrow never comes too late,

And happiness too swiftly flies.

Thought would destroy their paradise.

No more; where ignorance is bliss,

IOO 'Tis folly to be wise.

1742 1747

Ode

On the Death of a Favorite Cat, Drowned in a Tub of Goldfishes

'Twas on a lofty vase's side,

W h e r e China's gayest art had dyed

T h e azure flowers that blow;⁰ bloom

Demurest of the tabby kind,

5 T h e pensive Selima reclined,

Gazed on the lake below.

Her conscious tail her joy declared;

T h e fair round face, the snowy beard,

T h e velvet of her paws,

io Her coat, that with the tortoise vies,

Her ears of jet,^o and emerald eyes, black

She saw; and purred applause.

Still had she gazed; but 'midst the tide

Two angel forms were seen to glide,

15 T h e genii⁰ of the stream: guardian spirits

Their scaly armor's Tyrian hue

Through richest purple to the view

Betrayed a golden gleam.⁸

T h e hapless nymph with wonder saw:

20 A whisker first and then a claw,

8. "Tyrian" and (in classical reference) "purple" cover a considerable spectrum, including crimson. The fish are seen, through red highlights, as golden.

ELEGY WRITTEN IN A COUNTRY CHURCH
HYARD / 669

With many an ardent wish,
She stretched in vain to reach the prize.
What female heart can gold despise?
What cat's averse to fish?
25 Presumptuous maid! with looks intent
Again she stretched, again she bent,
Nor knew the gulf between.
(Malignant Fate sat by and smiled)
The slippery verge her feet beguiled,
30 She tumbled headlong in.
Eight times emerging from the flood
She mewed to every watery god,
Some speedy aid to send.
No dolphin came, no Nereid stirred;
35 Nor cruel Tom, nor Susan heard;
A favorite has no friend!
From hence, ye beauties, undeceived,
Know, one false step is ne'er retrieved,
And be with caution bold.
40 Not all that tempts your wandering eyes
And heedless hearts, is lawful prize;
Nor all that glisters, gold.

1747 1748

Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard

The curfew tolls the knell of parting day, evening bell

The lowing herd wind slowly o'er the lea,

The plowman homeward plods his weary way,
And leaves the world to darkness and to me.
5 Now fades the glimmering landscape on the sight,
And all the air a solemn stillness holds,
Save where the beetle wheels his droning flight,
And drowsy tinklings lull the distant folds;
Save that from yonder ivy-mantled tower
10 The moping owl does to the moon complain
Of such, as wandering near her secret bower,
Molest her ancient solitary reign.
Beneath those rugged elms, that yew tree's shade,
Where heaves the turf in many a mouldering heap,
9. In Greek mythology, a dolphin saved the singer and maiden, are at play in line 19, where the Arion when he was cast overboard. A Nereid is a "nymph" is the personified cat. Tom and Susan are sea nymph; both meanings of "nymph," water spirit conventional names for servants.

670 / T H O M A S GRAY

15 Each in his narrow cell forever laid,
T h e r u d e ° forefathers of the hamlet sleep. rustic
The breezy call of incense-breathing morn,
The swallow twittering from the straw-built shed,
The cock's shrill clarion, or the echoing horn, ° hunting horn
20 No more shall rouse them from their lowly bed.
For them no more the blazing hearth shall burn,
Or busy housewife ply her evening care;
No children run to lisp their sire's return,
Or climb his knees the envied kiss to share.
25 Oft did the harvest to their sickle yield,

Their furrow oft the stubborn glebe⁰ has broke; soil
How jocund did they drive their team afield!
How bowed the woods beneath their sturdy stroke!
Let not Ambition mock their useful toil,
30 Their homely joys, and destiny obscure;
Nor Grandeur hear with a disdainful smile
The short and simple annals of the poor.
The boast of heraldry,¹ the pomp of power,
And all that beauty, all that wealth e'er gave,
35 Awaits alike the inevitable hour.
The paths of glory lead but to the grave.
Nor you, ye proud, impute to these the fault,
If Memory o'er their tomb no trophies² raise,
Where through the long-drawn aisle and fretted⁰ vault ornamented
40 The pealing anthem swells the note of praise.
Can storied urn³ or animated⁰ bust lifelike
Back to its mansion call the fleeting breath?
Can Honor's voice provoke⁰ the silent dust, call forth
Or Flattery soothe the dull cold ear of Death?
45 Perhaps in this neglected spot is laid
Some heart once pregnant with celestial fire;
Hands that the rod of empire might have swayed,
Or waked to ecstasy the living lyre.
But Knowledge to their eyes her ample page
50 Rich with the spoils of time did ne'er unroll;
Chill Penury repressed their noble rage,
And froze the genial current of the soul.

Full many a gem of purest ray serene,

The dark unfaulthomed caves of ocean bear:

1. I.e., noble family. representations of arms captured in battle.

2. Memorials to military heroes; typically, statuary 3. Funeral urn with descriptive epitaph.

ELEGY WRITTEN IN A COUNTRY CHURCH
HYARD / 671

55 Full many a flower is born to blush unseen,

And waste its sweetness on the desert air.

Some village Hampden,⁴ that with dauntless breast

The little tyrant of his fields withstood;

Some mute inglorious Milton here may rest,

60 Some Cromwell⁵ guiltless of his country's blood.

The applause of listening senates to command,

The threats of pain and ruin to despise,

To scatter plenty o'er a smiling land,

And read their history in a nation's eyes,

65 Their lot forbade: nor circumscribed alone

Their growing virtues, but their crimes confined;

Forbade to wade through slaughter to a throne,

And shut the gates of mercy on mankind,

The struggling pangs of conscious truth to hide,

70 To queen the blushes of ingenuous shame,

Or heap the shrine of Luxury and Pride

With incense kindled at the Muse's⁶ flame.

Far from the madding⁷ crowd's ignoble strife,

Their sober wishes never learned to stray;

75 Along the cool sequestered vale of life

They kept the noiseless tenor of their way.

Yet even these bones from insult to protect
Some frail memorial still erected nigh,
Without rhymes and shapeless sculpture decked,
so Implores the passing tribute of a sigh.
Their name, their years, spelt by the unlettered Muse,
The place of fame and elegy supply:
And many a holy text around she strews,
That teach the rustic moralist to die.

85 For who to dumb Forgetfulness a prey,
This pleasing anxious being e'er resigned,
Left the warm precincts of the cheerful day,
Nor cast on e longing lingering look behind?
On some fond breast the parting soul relies,
90 Some pious drops the closing eye requires;
Even from the tomb the voice of Nature cries,
Even in our ashes live their wonted fires. *usual

4. John Hampden (1594-1643), leader of the statesman; lord protector of England 1653—58.

opposition to Charles I in the controversy over ship

6. One of the nine Greek sister goddesses who money; killed in battle in the civil wars.

inspired the arts.

5. Oliver Cromwell (1599—1658), general and

7. I.e., either maddening or acting madly.

672 / T H O M A S G R A Y

For thee, who mindful of the unhonored dead
Dost in these lines their artless tale relate;

95 If chance, by lonely contemplation led,
S o m e kindred spirit shall inquire thy fate,
Haply some hoary^o-headed swain⁰ may say, gray or white / rustic

“Oft have we seen him at the peep of dawn
Brushing with hasty steps the dews away
100 To m e e t the sun u p o n the upland lawn.

“There at the foot of yonder nodding b e e c h
That wreathes its old fantastic roots so high,
His listless length at noontide would he stretch,
And pore upon the brook that babbles by.

105 “Hard by yon wood, n o w smiling as in scorn,
Muttering his wayward fancies he would rove,
N o w drooping, woeful wan, like one forlorn,
Or crazed with care, or crossed in hopeless love.

“One morn I missed him on the c u s t o m e d hill,
no Along the heath and near his favorite tree;
Another came; nor yet beside the rill,
Nor up the lawn, nor at the w o o d was he;

“The next with dirges due in sad array
Slow through the churchway path we saw him borne.

115 Approach and read (for thou canst read) the lay,^o song
Graved on the stone beneath yon aged thorn.”

The Epitaph

Here rests his head upon the lap of Earth

A youth to Fortune and to Fame unknown.

Fair Science⁰ frowned not on his humble birth, learning

120 And Melancholy marked him for her own.

*Large was his bounty, and his soul sincere,
Heaven did a recompense as largely send:
He gave to Misery all he had, a tear,
He gained from Heaven ('twas all he wished) a friend.*

125 *No farther seek his merits to disclose,
Or draw his frailties from their dread abode
(There they alike in trembling hope repose),
The bosom of his Father and his God.*

ca. 1742 - 501751

ODE WRITTEN IN THE BEGINNING OF THE YEAR 1746/673

Sonnet

*On the Death of Mr. Richard West*⁸

In vain to me the smiling mornings shine,
And reddening Phoebus⁰ lifts his golden fire;
the sun

The birds in vain their amorous descant join,⁰ harmonize

Or cheerful fields resume their green attire;
These ears, alas! for other notes repine,
A different object do these eyes require;⁰

ask for

My lonely anguish melts no heart but mine,
And in my breast the imperfect joys expire.
Yet morning smiles the busy race to cheer,
And newborn pleasure brings to happier men;
The fields to all their wonted⁰ tribute bear;
usual

To warm their little loves the birds complain:⁹
I fruitless mourn to him that cannot hear,
And weep the more, because I weep in vain.

1742

1775

WILLIAM COLLINS

1721-1759

Ode Written in the Beginning of the Year 1746¹

How sleep the brave who sink to rest
By all their country's wishes blest!
When Spring, with dewy fingers cold,
Returns to deck their hallowed mold,⁰ earth
5 She there shall dress a sweeter sod
Than Fancy's feet have ever trod.
By fairy hands their knell is rung,
By forms unseen their dirge is sung;
There Honor comes, a pilgrim gray,
10 To bless the turf that wraps their clay,
And Freedom shall awhile repair,
To dwell a weeping hermit there!

1746

8. A friend of Gray since preparatory school, who
p. 190).

died at twenty-six.

1. This poem celebrates Englishmen who fell

9. I.e., sing of their unfulfilled desire. "Little resisting the pretender to the throne (Bonnie loves" puns on its Italian translation, amoretti, the Prince Charlie, the grandson of James II) in 1745.

title of Edmund Spenser's sonnet sequence (see

674 / WILLIAM COLLINS

Ode on the Poetical Character

*Strophe*²

As once, if not with light regard,

I read aright that gifted bard

(Him whose school above the rest

His loveliest Elfin Queen has blest).³

5 One, only one, unrivaled fair,

Might hope the magic girdle⁴ wear,

At solemn tourney⁰ hung on high, tournament

The wish of each love-darting eye;

Lo! to each other nymph in turn applied,

10 As if, in air unseen, some hovering hand,

Some chaste and angel-friend to virgin-fame,

With whispered spell had burst the starting band,

It left unblest her loathed dishonored side;

Happier, hopeless fair, if never

15 Her baffled hand with vain endeavor

Had touched that fatal zone to her denied!

Young Fancy thus, to me divinest name,

To whom, prepared and bathed in Heaven

The cest of amplest power is given;

20 To few the godlike gift assigns,

To gird their blest, prophetic loins,

And gaze her visions wild, and feel unmixed her flame!

Epode

The band, as fairy legends say,
 W a s wove on that creating day,
 W h e n He, w h o called with thought to birth
 Yon tented sky, this laughing earth,
 And dressed with springs, and forests tall,
 And poured the main⁰ engirting all, sea
 Long by the loved Enthusiast⁵ wooed,
 Himself in some diviner mood,
 Retiring, sate with her alone,
 And placed her on his sapphire throne;
 T h e whiles, the vaulted shrine around,
 Seraphic⁰ wires were heard to sound, angelic
 N o w sublimest triumph⁰ swelling, trumpet
 N o w on love and mercy dwelling;
 And she, from out the veiling cloud,
 Breathed her magic notes aloud:
 And thou, thou rich-haired Youth of Morn,⁶

2. Initial segment of the Greek choral ode, deliv-

4. A belt, “band” (line 12), “zone” (line 16), or ered with the chorus in motion; normally followed “cest” (line 19) described in Faerie Queene 4.5: it by the antistrophe, with the chorus in reverse “gave the virtue of chaste love and wifehood to all motion, and then by the epode, with the chorus that did it bear.” “Peerless was she thought” that standing still.

wore it.

3. Edmund Spenser (1552-1599; see pp. 159-

5. Literally, one inspired by God; i.e., Fancy.
205), whose followers (“school”) have exalted his
6. Apollo, the sun, Greek and Roman god of Faerie Queene above his other poems.
poetry.

ODE TO EVENING / 675

40 And all thy subject life was born!
The dangerous Passions kept aloof,
Far from the sainted growing woof;⁷
But near it sate ecstatic Wonder,
Listening the deep applauding thunder;
45 And Truth, in sunny vest arrayed,
By whose the tassel’s⁰ eyes were made; male falcon’s
All the shadowy tribes of Mind,
In braided dance their murmurs joined,
And all the bright uncounted Powers
50 Who feed on Heaven’s ambrosial flowers.
Where is the bard, whose soul can now
Its high presuming hopes avow?
Where he who thinks, with rapture blind,
This hallow’d work for him designed?

Antistrophe

55 High on some cliff, to Heaven up-piled,
Of rude access, of prospect wild,
Where, tangled round the jealous steep,
Strange shades o’erbrow the valleys deep,
And holy Genii⁰ guard the rock, guardian spirits
60 Its glooms embrown, its springs unlock,

While on its rich ambitious head,
 An Eden, like his^o own, lies spread; Milton's
 I view that oak, the fancied glades among,
 By which as Milton lay, his evening ear,
 65 From many a cloud that dropped ethereal dew,
 Nigh sphered in Heaven its native strains could hear;
 On which that ancient trump⁸ he reached was hung;
 Thither oft, his glory greeting,
 From Waller's⁹ myrtle shades retreating,
 70 With many a vow from Hope's aspiring tongue,
 My trembling feet his guiding steps pursue;
 In vain—such bliss to one alone,
 Of all the sons of soul was known,
 And Heaven, and Fancy, kindred powers,
 75 Have now o'erturned the inspiring bowers,¹
 Or curtained close such scene from every future view.

1746

Ode to Evening

If aught of oaten stop,² or pastoral song,
 May hope, chaste Eve, to soothe thy modest ear,
 7. The fabric of the girdle (line 6).
 9. Edmund Waller (1607-1687; see pp. 393-94).
 8. Milton's epic or sublime trumpet. The line
 The myrtle, sacred to Venus, Roman goddess of echoes "Il Penseroso," lines 59—60 ("While Cynlove and beauty, is an emblem of love.

thia checks her Dragon yoke, / Gently o'er

1. Leafy coverts or arbors; also, poetically, ideal-th'accustomed Oke"), and "Ode on the Morning of ized abodes.

Christ's Nativity," line 1 56 ("The wakefull trump").

2. I.e., if any modulation of a (shepherd's) reed.

6 7 6 / W I L L I A M C O L L I N S

Like thy own solemn springs,

Thy springs and dying gales,

5 O nymph⁰ reserved, while now the bright-haired sun maiden

Sits in yon western tent, whose cloudy skirts,

With brede^o ethereal wove, braid

O'erhang his wavy bed:

Now air is hushed, save where the weak-eyed bat,

10 With short shrill shriek flits by on leathern wing,

Or where the beetle winds

His small but sullen horn,

As oft he rises 'midst the twilight path,

Against the pilgrim⁰ borne in heedless hum: wayfarer

15 Now teach me, maid composed,

To breathe some softened strain,

Whose numbers, stealing through thy darkening vale,³

May not unseemly with its stillness suit,

As, musing slow, I hail

20 Thy genial loved return!

For when thy folding-star⁴ arising shows

His paly^o circlet, at his warning lamp pale

The fragrant Hours, and elves

Who slept in flowers the day,

25 And many a nymph who wreaths her brows with sedge,

And sheds the freshening dew, and, lovelier still,
The pensive Pleasures sweet,
Prepare thy shadowy car.^o carriage
Then lead, calm votaress,^o where some sheety lake devotee
30 Cheers the lone heath, or some time-hallowed pile
Or upland fallows⁵ gray
Reflect its last cool gleam.
But when chill blustering winds, or driving rain,
Forbid my willing feet, be mine the hut
35 That from the mountain's side
Views wilds, and swelling floods,
And hamlets^o brown, and dim-discovered spires, villages
And hears their simple bell, and marks o'er all Thy dewy fingers draw
40 The gradual dusky veil.
While Spring shall pour his showers, as oft he wont,^o is
accustomed
And bathe thy breathing tresses, meekest Eve;
While Summer loves to sport
Beneath thy lingering light;
45 While sallow Autumn fills thy lap with leaves;
Or Winter, yelling through the troublous air,
Affrights thy shrinking train,
And rudely rends thy robes;
So long, sure-found beneath the sylvan shed,⁶
50 Shall Fancy, Friendship, Science, rose-lipped Health,
3. Valley. Numbers: measures.
5. I.e., ploughed land. Cf. Milton, "L'Allegro," line

4. The evening star, which, when it becomes visible,
71 (p. 403).

ible, tells the shepherd to drive his flock to the

6. I.e., secure beneath the shelter of the forest.

sheepfold.

THE FLOWERS OF THE FOREST / 677

Thy gentlest influence own,

And hymn thy favorite name!

1746, 1748

J E A N E L L I O T

1727-1805

The Flowers of the Forest¹

I've heard the lilting² at our yowe^o-milking,

Lasses a-lilting before the dawn o' day;

But now they are moaning on ilka^o green loaning:³

each

“The Flowers of the Forest are a' wede away.”⁴

5 At buchts,^o in the morning, nae^o blythe lads are sheepfolds / no

scorning ”

teasing

The lasses are lonely, and dowie,^o and wae;^o sad /wretched

N a e daffin',^o n a e gabbin', b u t sighing a n d foolish playing

sabbing:^o sobbing

Ilk^o ane^o lifts her leglen,^o and hies her away. each / one / milk pail

In hairst,^o at the shearing, nae youths now are jeering, harvest

10 The bandsters⁵ are lyart,^o and runkled^o and gray; silvery / rumped

At fair or at preaching, nae wooing, nae fleeching:⁰ flattering

The Flowers of the Forest are a' wede away.

At e'en, in the gloaming,⁰ nae swankies⁶ are roaming

twilight

'Bout stacks⁷ wi' the lasses at bogle⁰ to play,

hide-and-seek

But ilk ane sits drearie, lamenting her dearie:

The Flowers of the Forest are a' wede away.

Dule⁰ and wae⁰ for the order sent our lads to the Border;

grief/woe

The English, for ance,⁰ by guile wan⁰ the day; once / won

The Flowers of the Forest, that foucht aye the foremost,

The prime o' our land, are cauld⁰ in the clay.

cold

We'll hear nae mair⁰ liltin' at our yowe-milkin',

more

Women and bairns⁰ are heartless and wae;

children

Sighin' and moanin' on ilka green loanin':

"The Flowers of the Forest are a' wede away."

1769

1. This poem is a ballad on the battle of Flodden, takes her first and fourth lines; cf. Pete Seeger, an English victory over the Scots in 1513. James

"Where Have All the Flowers Gone?" (p. 1853).

IV of Scotland, in alliance with France, had

2. Sweet and cheerful singing.

invaded the north of England. At Flodden, in

3. Uncultivated ground used for milking.

Northumberland, James's army occupied a strong

4. Carried off, especially by death.

position and outnumbered the English troops, but

5. Those who bind sheaves behind the reaper.

James proved an incompetent, though brave, gen-

6. Strapping young men.

eral. More than ten thousand Scots were killed at

7. Large piles of dried peat erected outdoors as a Flodden, James among them. Elliot set the words fuel store.

of the ballad to an old Scottish air, from which she

6 7 8

C H R I S T O P H E R S M A R T

1722-1771

From Jubilate Agno¹

For I will consider my Cat Jeoffry.

For he is the servant of the Living God, duly and daily serving him.

For at the first glance of the glory of God in the East he worships in his way.

700 For is this done by wreathing his body seven times round with elegant quickness.

For then he leaps up to catch the musk,² which is the blessing
of

God upon his prayer.

For he rolls upon plank³ to work it in.

For having done duty and received blessing he begins to consider himself.

For this he performs in ten degrees.

705 For first he looks upon his forepaws to see if they are clean.

For secondly he kicks up behind to clear away there.

For thirdly he works it upon stretch with the forepaws extended.

For fourthly he sharpens his paws by wood.

For fifthly he washes himself.

710 For sixthly he rolls upon wash.

For seventhly he fleas himself, that he may not be interrupted upon the beat.⁴

For eighthly he rubs himself against a post.

For ninthly he looks up for his instructions.

For tenthly he goes in quest of food.

715 For having considered God and himself he will consider his neighbor.

For if he meets another cat he will kiss her in kindness.

For when he takes his prey he plays with it to give it a chance.

For one mouse in seven escapes by his dallying.

For when his day's work is done his business more properly begins.

720 For he keeps the Lord's watch in the night against the adversary.

For he counteracts the powers of darkness by his electrical skin and glaring eyes.

For he counteracts the Devil, who is death, by brisking about the life.

For in his morning orisons he loves the sun and the sun loves him.

For he is of the tribe of Tiger.

725 For the Cherub Cat is a term of the Angel Tiger.⁵

For he has the subtlety and hissing of a serpent, which in goodness he suppresses.

For he will not do destruction if he is well-fed, neither will he spit without provocation.

1. Rejoice in the Lamb (Latin); i.e., in Jesus, the

3. I.e., in display or jest.

Lamb of God. Smart wrote this poem while con-

4. Upon his daily round, possibly of hunting.

finned for insanity. Its form derives from the biblical

5. Smart apparently thinks of Jeoffry as an imma-Psalms.

ture or diminutive phase of a larger creature—

2. His own or another animal's scent, or perhaps cherubs being by artistic convention small and a plant odor.

childlike angels.

JUBILATE AGNO / 679

For he purrs in thankfulness when God tells him he's a good Cat.

For he is an instrument for the children to learn benevolence upon.

730 For every house is incomplete without him, and a blessing is lacking in the spirit.

For the Lord commanded Moses concerning the cats at the departure of the Children of Israel from Egypt.

For every family had one cat at least in the bag.⁶

For the English Cats are the best in Europe.

For he is the cleanest in the use of his forepaws of any quadruped.

735 For the dexterity of his defense is an instance of the love of God to him exceedingly.

For he is the quickest to his mark of any creature.

For he is tenacious of his point.

For he is a mixture of gravity and waggery.

For he knows that God is his Saviour.

740 For there is nothing sweeter than his peace when at rest.

For there is nothing brisker than his life when in motion.

For he is of the Lord's poor, and so indeed is he called by benevolence perpetually—Poor Jeoffry! poor Jeoffry! the rat has bit thy throat.

For I bless the name of the Lord Jesus that Jeoffry is better.

For the divine spirit comes about his body to sustain it in complete cat.

745 For his tongue is exceeding pure so that it has in purity what it wants in music.

For he is docile and can learn certain things.

For he can sit up with gravity, which is patience upon approbation.

For he can fetch and carry, which is patience in employment.

For he can jump over a stick, which is patience upon proof positive.

750 For he can spraggle upon waggle⁷ at the word of command.

For he can jump from an eminence into his master's bosom.

For he can catch the cork and toss it again.

For he is hated by the hypocrite and miser.

For the former is afraid of detection.

755 For the latter refuses the charge.

For he camels his back to bear the first notion of business.

For he is good to think on, if a man would express himself neatly.

For he made a great figure in Egypt for his signal services.

For he killed the Icneumon rat, very pernicious by land.⁸

760 For his ears are so acute that they sting again.

For from this proceeds the passing quickness of his attention.

For by stroking of him I have found out electricity.

For I perceived God's light about him both wax and fire.

For the electrical fire is the spiritual substance which God sends from heaven to sustain the bodies both of man and beast.

765 For God has blessed him in the variety of his movements.

For, though he cannot fly, he is an excellent clamberer.

For his motions upon the face of the earth are more than any other quadruped.

6. The Israelites took with them silver and gold 7. He can sprawl at the waggle of a finger, ornaments and raiment, as well as flocks and herds 8. The Ichneumon resembles a weasel; the an-

(Exodus 11.2 and 12.32, 35). Smart adds the cats. cient Egyptians venerated and domesticated it.

6 8 0 / C H R I S T O P H E R S M A R T

For he c a n tread to all t h e m e a s u r e s 9 u p o n the m u s i c .

For he c a n s w i m for life.

770 For he c a n creep.

1759-63 1939

*From A Song to David*¹

David the son of Jesse said, and the man who was raised up on high, the anointed of the God of Jacob, and the sweet psalmist of

Israel, said, “The Spirit of the Lord spake by me, and His Word was in my tongue.”

— 2 Samuel 23.1, 2

O T h o u , that sit’st u p o n a throne, [Invocation]²

W i t h harp of high majestic tone,

To praise the King of kings;

A n d voice of h e a v ‘ n - a s c e n d i n g swell,

5 W h i c h , w h i l e its d e e p e r n o t e s excel,

Clear, as a clarion,0 rings: trumpet

2

To bless e a c h valley, grove and coast,

A n d c h a r m the c h e r u b s 3 to the p o s t

Of gratitude in throngs;

io To k e e p the days on Zion's m o u n t , 4

A n d s e n d the year to his a c c o u n t ,

W i t h d a n c e s and w i t h songs:5

3

O Servant of God's holiest charge,

T h e minister of praise at large,

15 W h i c h t h o u may'st n o w receive;6

From thy b l e s s e d m a n s i o n hail and hear,

F r o m t o p m o s t e m i n e n c e appear

To this the wreath I w e a v e . 7

9. He can dance in a rhythmic or stately manner.

3. One of the nine orders of angels.

1. The second king of Israel. In an advertisement

4. Mt. Zion, one of the hills of Jerusalem; here, for the first edition (printed in Poems on Several perhaps, the Israelites, the Christian Church, the Occasions, 1763), Smart called this work "A Poem heavenly Jerusalem, or a place of worship.

composed in a Spirit of affection and thankfulness

5. David's task, to "keep the days," is both to to the great Author of the Book of Gratitude, which observe the religious rites and festivals and to rec-is the Psalms of David the King." Smart's main ord the Israelites' history, to "send the year to his sources for the poem were the Bible and Patrick

[God's] account," i.e., to his reckoning, for his

Delaney's An Historical Account of the Life and sake, or to his credit. (One of Smart's own projects

Reign of David King of Israel (1740).

was to compose a complete cycle of hymns for the

2. In the first edition, Smart prefaced the poem major occasions in the calendar of the Anglican with a summary, here reprinted as a series of mar-Church.)

ginal glosses. The invocation is a poetic convention

6. I.e., David, whose responsibility is praise of in which the poet requests divine inspiration and God, will now receive the praise of the poet.

assistance to write his poem. Smart here calls on

7. Smart compares his poem to a wreath; the lau-David.

rel wreath was a symbol of poetic achievement.

A S O N G T O D A V I D / 6 8 1

Great, valiant, pious, good, and clean, [The excellence and luster

20 Sublime, contemplative, serene, of David's character in Strong, constant, pleasant, wise!8 t w e l v e P o i n t s ° f v i e w]

Bright effluence⁰ of exceeding grace; outflowing

Best man!—the swiftness and the race,

The peril, and the prize!

5

25 Great—from the luster of his crown, [proved from the

From Samuel's horn⁹ and God's renown, history of his life]

Which is the people's voice;

From all the host⁰ from rear to van,⁰ Israelites /front

Applauded and embraced the man—

30 The man of God's own choice.

6

Valiant—the word, and up he rose—

The fight—he triumphed o'er the foes,

Whom God's just laws abhor;⁰ hate

And armed in gallant faith he took

35 Against the boaster,¹ from the brook

The weapons of the war,

7

Pious—magnificent and grand;

'Twas he the famous temple planned:

(The seraph in his soul)²

40 Foremost to give the Lord his dues,

Foremost to bless the welcome news,

And foremost to condole.

8

Good—from Jehudah's genuine vein,

From God's best nature good in grain,³

45 His aspect and his heart;

To pity, to forgive, to save,

Witness En-gedi's conscious cave,⁴

And Shimei's blunted dart.⁵

8. The next twelve stanzas will give an example to do so and that David's son, Solomon, would do from David's life of each of these twelve virtues.

it. "Welcome news" (line 41) is the Davidic Covenant. (In "Jubilate Agno," Smart associates these virtues with God's promise that David's line would be with the twelve tribes of Israel.)

established kings of Israel.

9. God sent Samuel to B e t h l e h e m to choose

3. In background and substance; David came

David, a t h e n - u n k n o w n shepherd-boy, to be the
from the tribe of J u d a h (of which J e h u d a h is a var-next king of Israel: “Then Samuel took the horn of iation).

oil, and anointed him in the midst of his brethren:

4. Before David became king of Israel, Saul, the and the spirit of the Lord came u p o n David from reigning king, p u r s u e d him with an army in an that day forward” (1 Samuel 16.13).

attempt to kill him. O n e day, in the wilderness of

1. T h e Philistine giant, Goliath, w h o m David Engedi, Saul wandered alone into a cave where killed using his sling and a stone from a brook.

David and his m e n were hiding. Although his m e n

2. David received the “pattern,” or plan, for the urged him to kill Saul, David refused (1 Samuel temple “by the Spirit” (1 Chronicles 28.12); the 24).

“seraph” seems to be Delaney’s invention. David

5. Shimei, a relative of Saul, cursed and threw wanted to build the temple himself, but the stones at David, but David refused to kill him (2 prophet N a t h a n said that God would not allow him Samuel 16, 19).

9

Clean—if perpetual prayer be pure,
50 And love, which could itself inure⁰ accustom
To fasting and to fear—
Clean in his gestures, hands, and feet,
To smite the lyre, the dance complete,
To play the sword and spear.

10

55 Sublime—invention ever young,
Of vast conception, towering tongue,
To God the external theme;
Notes from yon exaltations caught,
Unrivalled royalty of thought,
60 O'er meaner strains supreme.

II

Contemplative—on God to fix
His musings, and above the six
The sabbath-day he blessed;
'Twas then his thoughts self-conquest pruned,
65 And heavenly melancholy tuned,
To bless and bear the rest.

12

Serene—to sow the seeds of peace,
Remembering, when he watched the fleece,
How sweetly Kidron⁶ purled⁰— murmured
70 To further knowledge, silence vice,
And plant perpetual paradise

When God had calmed the world.

J3

Strong—in the Lord, who could defy

Satan, and all his powers that lie

75 In sempiternal⁰ night; everlasting

And hell, and horror, and despair

Were as the lion and the bear⁷

To his undaunted might.

14

Constant—in love to God The Truth,

so Age, manhood, infancy, and youth—

To Jonathan his friend

6. A brook that borders the district of Jerusalem. 7. In 1 Samuel 17, David credits God with helping As a youth, David tended his father's flocks near him kill a lion and a bear that were ravaging his this brook. flock.

A S O N G T O D A V I D / 6 8 3

Constant, beyond the verge of death;

And Ziba, and Mephibosheth

His endless fame attend.⁸

15

85 Pleasant—and various as the year;

Man, soul, and angel, without peer,

Priest, champion, sage and boy;

In armor, or in ephod⁰ clad, priestly vestment

His pomp, his piety was glad;

90 Majestic was his joy.

16

Wise—in recovery from his fall,⁹

Whence rose his eminence o'er all,
Of all the most reviled;
The light of Israel in his ways,
95 Wise are his precepts, prayer and praise,
And counsel to his child.¹

17

His muse,² bright angel of his verse, [He consecrates his Gives balm for all the thorns that pierce, genius for consolation

For all the pangs that rage and edification\

100 Blessed light, still gaining on the gloom,
The more than Michal of his bloom,
The Abishag of his age.³

He sung of god—the mighty source [The subjects he

Of all things—the stupendous force ” ^ e choice of—

105 Of which all strength depends; *the SuPreme Beinft*⁴

From whose right arm, beneath whose eyes,

All period,⁴ power, and enterprise

Commences, reigns, and ends.

1763 1763

8. During the time that Saul was trying to kill him, emphasizes David's repentance and insists that his David b e c a m e fast friends with Saul's son Jona-greatness rose out of his recovery f r o m sin.

than. David made a covenant with J o n a t h a n , prom-

1. According to 1 Kings 2 and 1 Chronicles 22, ising to extend his kindness to Jonathan's house,
just before his death David gave advice to Soloeven after Jonathan's death (1 Samuel 20.15).

mon, his son and successor, counseling him to David honored this covenant m a n y years later keep the c o m m a n d m e n t s of God and to build the w h e n he restored Saul's land to Jonathan's son, temple. Delaney notes that David left precepts for M e p h i b o s h e t h , and invited him to eat at David's his son in the Psalms and Proverbs.

own table (2 Samuel 9). T h e stewardship of the

2. Source of inspiration.

land was awarded to Ziba (a servant of Saul) and

3. Michal was David's first wife; Abishag, a young his family.

w o m a n w h o nursed him in his old age.

9. David's "fall" resulted from his lust for Bath-

4. Possibly meaning accomplishments, achievesheba and his arranging to have h e r husband, ments; or, set a m o u n t of time (during which one Uriah, killed in battle. David repented of his sin has power).

and asked God's forgiveness (Psalm 51). Delaney

6 8 4 / C H R I S T O P H E R S M A R T

Psalm 58s

Ye congregation of the tribes,⁶

On justice do you set your mind;

And are ye free from guile and bribes

Ye judges of mankind?

5 Nay, ye of frail and mortal mould

Imagine mischief in your heart;
Your suffrages⁷ and selves are sold
Unto the general mart.
Men of unrighteous seed betray io Perverseness from their mother's womb;⁸
As soon as they can run astray,
Against the truth presume.
They are with foul infection stained,
Ev'n with the serpent's taint impure;
15 Their ears to blest persuasion chained,
And locked against her lure.⁹
Though Christ himself the pipe should tune,
They will not to the measure tread,¹
Nor will they with his grief commune⁰ sympathize
20 Though tears of blood he shed.
Lord, humanize their scoff and scorn,
And their malevolence defeat;
Of water and the spirit born²
Let grace their change complete.
25 Let them with pious ardor burn,
And make thy holy church their choice;
To thee with all their passions turn,
And in thy light rejoice.

As quick as lightning to its mark,

30 So let thy gracious angel speed;

5. Cf. the versions of this Psalm and the next one

9. Cf. the King James Bible's image (in Psalm 58)

by Mary Sidney (pp. 225—26), from The Massachu-

of an adder that “stoppeth up her ear” so that the setts Bay Psalm Book (pp. 391—93), and by Isaac charmer cannot charm her.

Watts (pp. 592-94).

1. “To tread a measure” is to dance in a rhythmic

6. “Congregation,” a common Protestant term for or stately manner.

members of a church, here refers to the collective

2. Jesus uses these terms in the Christian Scrip-body of the Israelites; there were twelve tribes of tures: “Except a man be born of water and of the Israel.

Spirit, he cannot enter the kingdom of God” (John

7. Intercessory prayers; petitions to god; suppli-

3.5); but in the Hebrew Scriptures, God, in form-cations; also, in the Church of England, various

ing a new covenant with the people of Israel, says, versicles and their responses in morning and eve-“Then will I sprinkle clean water upon you, and ye ning prayer and in the Litany.

shall be clean; from all your filthiness, and from all

8. The doctrine of original sin holds that children your idols, will I cleanse you. A new heart also will are born sinful, but Smart seems here to allude to I give you, and a new spirit will I put within you”
the Calvinist idea that some people are predestined (Ezekiel 36.25-26).

to damnation.

P S A L M 1 1 4 / 6 8 5

And take their spirits in thine ark³
To their eternal mead.⁰ reward
The righteous shall exult the more
As he such powerful mercy sees,
35 Such wrecks and ruins safe on shore,
Such tortured souls at ease.
So that a man shall say, no doubt,
The penitent has his reward;
There is a God to bear him out,
40 And he is Christ our Lord.

1763 1765

Psalm 114

When Israel came from Egypt's coast,
And Goshen's⁴ marshy plains,
And Jacob with his joyful host
From servitude and chains;
5 Then was it seen how much the Jews
Were holy in his sight,
And God did Israel's kingdom choose
To manifest his might.
The sea beheld it, and with dread
io Retreated to make way;
And Jordan⁰ to his fountain head river in Palestine
Ran backwards in dismay.
The mountains, like the rams that bound,
Exulted on their base;
15 Like lambs the little hills around

Skipt lightly from their place.
What is the cause, thou mighty sea,
That thou thyself should shun;
And Jordan, what is come to thee,
20 That thou should backward run?
Ye mountains that ye leaped so high
From off the solid rock,
Ye hills that ye should gambols⁰ try, leaps, dances
Like firstlings of the flock?

3. The ark of the Covenant contained “the two guide and protect the Israelites.

tables of stone, which Moses put there at Horeb,

4. T h e Hebrew word refers to the fertile land allotw h e n the Lord made a covenant with the children
ted to the Israelites during their exile in Egypt;
of Israel, w h e n they came out of the land of Egypt”
metaphorically, Goshen is a place of plenty and (1 Kings 8.9); thus it symbolizes God’s promise to light.

6 8 6 / O L I V E R G O L D S M I T H

Earth, from the center to the sod
His fearful presence hail
The presence of Jeshurun’s⁵ God,
In whom our arms prevail.
Who beds of rocks in pools to stand
Can by his word compel,
And from the veiny flint command
The fountain and the well.

1765

OLIVER GOLDSMITH

ca. 1730-1774

When Lovely Woman Stoops to Folly

When lovely woman stoops to folly,
And finds too late that men betray,
What charm can soothe her melancholy,
What art can wash her guilt away?
5 The only art her guilt to cover,
To hide her shame from every eye,
To give repentance to her love,
And wring his bosom—is to die.

1766

The Deserted Village

Sweet Auburn! 1 loveliest village of the plain,
Where health and plenty cheered the laboring swain,⁰ rustic
Where smiling spring its earliest visit paid,
And parting summer's lingering blooms delayed:
5 Dear lovely bowers² of innocence and ease,
Seats of my youth, when every sport could please,
How often have I loitered o'er thy green,
Where humble happiness endeared each scene;
How often have I paused on every charm,
10 The sheltered cot,⁰ the cultivated farm, cottage
The never-failing brook, the busy mill,
The decent church that topped the neighboring hill,
The hawthorn bush, with seats beneath the shade,

5. A poetic title for Israel, meaning “the dear much debate about its exact prototype, upright people.” 2. Leafy coverts or arbors; also, poetically, ideal-1. Apparently a fictional, ideal village; there is ized abodes.

THE DESERTED VILLAGE / 687

For talking age and whispering lovers made;
15 How often have I blessed the coming day,^o holiday
When toil remitting lent its turn to play,
And all the village train, from labor free,
Led up their sports beneath the spreading tree,
While many a pastime circled in the shade,
20 The young contending as the old surveyed;
And many a gambol frolicked o’er the ground,
And sleights of art and feats of strength went round;
And still as each repeated pleasure tired,
Succeeding sports the mirthful band inspired;
25 The dancing pair that simply sought renown,
By holding out to tire each other down;
The swain mistrustless of his smutted face,
While secret laughter tittered round the place;
The bashful virgin’s sidelong looks of love,
30 The matron’s glance that would those looks reprove:
These were thy charms, sweet village! sports like these,
With sweet succession, taught even toil to please;
These round thy bowers their cheerful influence shed,
These were thy charms—But all these charms are fled.
35 Sweet smiling village, loveliest of the lawn,
Thy sports are fled, and all thy charms withdrawn;
Amidst thy bowers the tyrant’s hand is seen,

And desolation saddens all thy green:
One only master grasps the whole domain,
40 And half a tillage³ stints thy smiling plain;
No more thy glassy brook reflects the day,
But choked with sedges, works its weedy way;
Along thy glades, a solitary guest,
The hollow-sounding bittern⁴ guards its nest;
45 Amidst thy desert walks the lapwing flies,
And tires their echoes with unvaried cries.
Sunk are thy bowers, in shapeless ruin all,
And the long grass o'ertops the moldering wall,
And, trembling, shrinking from the spoiler's hand,
50 Far, far away thy children leave the land.
Ill fares the land, to hastening ills a prey,
Where wealth accumulates, and men decay;⁵
Princes and lords may flourish, or may fade;
A breath can make them, as a breath has made;
55 But a bold peasantry, their country's pride,
When once destroyed, can never be supplied.
A time there was, ere England's griefs began,
When every rood⁶ of ground maintained its man;
For him light labor spread her wholesome store,
60 Just gave what life required, but gave no more:
3. I.e., only half the land is cultivated u n d e r the
5. In the opening dedication to the English new monopoly; or, the land was being plowed and painter Sir Joshua Reynolds (1 7 2 3 - 1 7 9 2) , Gold-was left unfinished w h e n ownership changed. T h e

smith writes, “I . . . continue to think those luxusignificant landowners were displacing less prosperous freeholders and at the same time appropriate introduced, and so many kingdoms have been ating land formerly held in c o m m o n .
undone.”

4. Marsh bird with a booming call.

6. A measure of land, varying by locality.

6 8 8 / O L I V E R G O L D S M I T H

His best companions, innocence and health;

And his best riches, ignorance of wealth.

But times are altered; Trade’s unfeeling train

Usurp the land and dispossess the swain;

65 Along the lawn, where scattered hamlets rose,

Unwieldy wealth, and cumbrous pomp repose;

And every want to opulence allied,

And every pang that folly pays to pride.

These gentle hours that plenty bade to bloom,

70 Those calm desires that asked but little room,

Those healthful sports that graced the peaceful scene,

Lived in each look, and brightened all the green;

These far departing seek a kinder shore,

And rural mirth and manners are no more.

75 Sweet Auburn! parent of the blissful hour,

Thy glades forlorn confess the tyrant’s power.

Here, as I take my solitary rounds,

Amidst thy tangling walks, and ruined grounds,

And, many a year elapsed, return to view
so Where once the cottage stood, the hawthorn grew,
Remembrance wakes with all her busy train,
Swells at my breast, and turns the past to pain.
In all my wanderings round this world of care,
In all my griefs—and God has given my share—
85 I still had hopes my latest hours to crown,
Amidst these humble bowers to lay me down;
To husband out life's taper⁰ at the close, candle
And keep the flame from wasting by repose.
I still had hopes, for pride attends us still,
90 Amidst the swains to show my book-learned skill,
Around my fire an evening group to draw,
And tell of all I felt, and all I saw;
And, as an hare whom hounds and horns pursue,
Pants to the place from whence at first she flew,
95 I still had hopes, my long vexations past,
Here to return—and die at home at last.
O blest retirement, friend to life's decline,
Retreats from care that never must be mine,
How happy he who crowns in shades like these 100 A youth of labor with an age of ease;
Who quits a world where strong temptations try,
And, since 'tis hard to combat, learns to fly!
For him no wretches, born to work and weep,
Explore the mine, or tempt the dangerous deep;
105 No surly porter stands in guilty state
To spurn imploring famine from the gate;

But on he moves to meet his latter end,
Angels around befriending virtue's friend;
Bends to the grave with unperceived decay,
110 While Resignation gently slopes the way;
And, all his prospects brightening to the last,
His Heaven commences ere the world be passed!
THE DESERTED VILLAGE / 689
Sweet was the sound when oft at evening's close,
Up yonder hill the village murmur rose;
There, as I passed with careless steps and slow,
The mingling notes came softened from below;
The swain responsive as the milkmaid sung,
The sober herd that lowed to meet their young,
The noisy geese that gabbled o'er the pool,
The playful children just let loose from school;
The watchdog's voice that bayed the whispering wind,
And the loud laugh that spoke the vacant mind; carefree
These all in sweet confusion sought the shade,
And filled each pause the nightingale had made.
But now the sounds of population fail,
No cheerful murmurs fluctuate in the gale,
No busy steps the grass-grown footway tread,
For all the bloomy flush of life is fled.
All but yon widowed, solitary thing
That feebly bends beside the plashy spring; marshy
She, wretched matron, forced, in age, for bread,
To strip the brook with mantling cresses spread, covering
To pick her wintry faggot from the thorn, firewood

To seek her nightly shed, and weep till morn;
She only left of all the harmless train,
The sad historian of the pensive plain.
Near yonder copse,⁰ where once the garden smiled, grove
And still where many a garden flower grows wild,
There, where a few torn shrubs the place disclose,
The village preacher's modest mansion⁷ rose.
A man he was, to all the country dear,
And passing rich with forty pounds a year;
Remote from towns he ran his godly race,
Nor e'er had changed, nor wished to change his place;
Unpracticed he to fawn, or seek for power,
By doctrines fashioned to the varying hour;
Far other aims his heart had learned to prize,
More skilled to raise the wretched than to rise.
His house was known to all the vagrant train,
He chid their wanderings, but relieved their pain;
The long-remembered beggar was his guest,
Whose beard descending swept his aged breast;
The ruined spendthrift, now no longer proud,
Claimed kindred there, and had his claims allowed;
The broken soldier, kindly bade to stay,
Sate by his fire, and talked the night away;
Wept o'er his wounds, or tales of sorrow done,
Shouldered his crutch, and showed how fields were won.
Pleased with his guests, the good man learned to glow,
And quite forgot their vices in their woe;
Careless their merits, or their faults to scan,

His pity gave ere charity began.

7. There seem to have been no conventional mansions in Goldsmith's village; see lines 195 and 238, and cf. George Crabbe, "The Parish Register," line 19 (p. 724).

690 / O L I V E R G O L D S M I T H

Thus to relieve the wretched was his pride,

And even his failings leaned to Virtue's side;

165 But in his duty prompt at every call,

He watched and wept, he prayed and felt, for all.

And, as a bird each fond endearment tries,

To tempt its new-fledged offspring to the skies,

He tried each art, reproved each dull delay,

170 Allured to brighter worlds, and led the way.

Beside the bed where parting life was laid,

And sorrow, guilt, and pain, by turns dismayed,

The reverend champion stood. At his control,

Despair and anguish fled the struggling soul;

175 Comfort came down the trembling wretch to raise,

And his last faltering accents whispered praise.

At church, with meek and unaffected grace,

His looks adorned the venerable place;

Truth from his lips prevailed with double sway,

180 And fools, who came to scoff, remained to pray.

The service past, around the pious man,

With steady zeal each honest rustic ran;

Even children followed with endearing wile,

And plucked his gown, to share the good man's smile.

185 His ready smile a parent's warmth expressed,

Their welfare pleased him, and their cares distressed;

To them his heart, his love, his griefs were given,
 But all his serious thoughts had rest in Heaven.
 As some tall cliff that lifts its awful form, 190 Swells from the vale,^o and midway leaves the storm, valley
 Though round its breast the rolling clouds are spread,
 Eternal sunshine settles on its head.
 Beside yon straggling fence that skirts the way,
 With blossomed furze^o unprofitably gay, « wild shrub
 195 There, in his noisy mansion, skilled to rule,
 The village master taught his little school;
 A man severe he was, and stern to view,
 I knew him well, and every truant knew;
 Well had the boding^o tremblers learned to trace anxious 200 The day's disasters in his morning face;
 Full well they laughed with counterfeited glee,
 At all his jokes, for many a joke had he;
 Full well the busy whisper circling round,
 Conveyed the dismal tidings when he frowned;
 205 Yet he was kind, or if severe in aught,
 The love he bore to learning was in fault;⁸
 The village all declared how much he knew;
 'Twas certain he could write, and cipher too;
 Lands he could measure, terms and tides presage,⁹
 210 And even the story ran that he could gauge.

8. Pronounced like fought. church year, and the sea tides.
 "Tides" here liter-s'. He could calculate (for example) when rents ally means "times." To "gauge" (line 210) is to cal-were due, the dates of feasts and seasons in the culate the fluid content of casks and other vessels.

THE DESERTED VILLAGE / 691

In arguing too, the parson owned his skill,¹
For even though vanquished, he could argue still;
While words of learned length, and thundering sound,
Amazed the gazing rustics ranged around;
215 And still they gazed, and still the wonder grew,
That one small head could carry all he knew.
But past is all his fame. The very spot
Where many a time he triumphed, is forgot.
Near yonder thorn, that lifts its head on high,
220 Where once the signpost caught the passing eye,
Low lies that house where nut-brown draughts inspired,²
Where graybeard Mirth and smiling Toil retired,
Where village statesmen talked with looks profound,
And news much older than their ale went round.
225 Imagination fondly stoops to trace
The parlor splendors of that festive place:
The whitewashed wall, the nicely sanded floor,
The varnished clock that clicked behind the door;
The chest contrived a double debt to pay,
2BO A bed by night, a chest of drawers by day;
The pictures placed for ornament and use,
The twelve good rules, the royal game of goose;⁰ « *board
game*
The hearth, except when winter chilled the day,
With aspen boughs, and flowers, and fennel gay,
235 While broken teacups, wisely kept for show,
Ranged o'er the chimney, glistened in a row.

Vain transitory splendors! Could not all
 Reprieve the tottering mansion from its fall!
 Obscure it sinks, nor shall it more impart
 240 An hour's importance to the poor man's heart;
 Thither no more the peasant shall repair
 To sweet oblivion of his daily care;
 No more the farmer's news, the barber's tale,
 No more the woodman's ballad shall prevail;
 245 No more the smith his dusky brow shall clear,
 Relax his ponderous strength, and lean to hear;
 The host himself no longer shall be found
 Careful to see the mantling bliss³ go round;
 Nor the coy maid, half willing to be pressed,
 250 Shall kiss the cup to pass it to the rest.
 Yes! let the rich deride, the proud disdain,
 These simple blessings of the lowly train,
 To me more dear, congenial to my heart,
 One native charm, than all the gloss of art;
 255 Spontaneous joys, where nature has its play,
 The soul adopts, and owns their first-born sway;
 Lightly they frolic o'er the vacant mind,
 1. I.e., admitted his (the schoolmaster's) skill.
 to the cottage of the "industrious swain," and
 2. I.e., the public house where ale inspired the which describes the p u b as a place of crime and customers. Cf. Crabbe's "The Parish Register," corruption.
 which transfers Goldsmith's "twelve good rules"

3. The ale covering itself with foam.

(line 232), rules of c o n d u c t often posted in taverns,

692 / O L I V E R G O L D S M I T H

Unenvied, unmolested, unconfined.

But the long pomp, the midnight masquerade,

260 With all the freaks of wanton wealth arrayed,

In these, ere triflers half their wish obtain,

The toiling pleasure sickens into pain;

And, even while fashion's brightest arts decoy,

The heart distrusting asks if this be joy.

265 Ye friends to truth, ye statesmen, who survey

The rich man's joys increase, the poor's decay,

'Tis yours to judge how wide the limits stand

Between a splendid and an happy land.

Proud swells the tide with loads of freighted ore,

270 And shouting Folly hails them from her shore;

Hoards, even beyond the miser's wish abound,

And rich men flock from all the world around.

Yet count our gains. This wealth is but a name

That leaves our useful products still the same.

275 Not so the loss. The man of wealth and pride,

Takes up a space that many poor supplied;

Space for his lake, his park's extended bounds,

Space for his horses, equipage, and hounds;

The robe that wraps his limbs in silken sloth

280 Has robbed the neighboring fields of half their growth;

His seat, where solitary sports are seen,

Indignant spurns the cottage from the green;

Around the world each needful product flies,
For all the luxuries the world supplies:
285 While thus the land adorned for pleasure, all
In barren splendor feebly waits the fall.
As some fair female unadorned and plain,
Secure to please while youth confirms her reign,
Slights every borrowed charm that dress supplies,
290 Nor shares with art the triumph of her eyes;
But when those charms are past, for charms are frail,
When time advances, and when lovers fail,
She then shines forth, solicitous to bless,
In all the glaring impotence of dress:
295 Thus fares the land, by luxury betrayed;
In nature's simplest charms at first arrayed;
But verging to decline, its splendors rise,
Its vistas strike, its palaces surprise;
While scourged by famine from the smiling land,
BOO The mournful peasant leads his humble band;
And while he sinks without one arm to save,
The country blooms—a garden, and a grave.
Where then, ah where, shall Poverty reside,
To scape the pressure of contiguous Pride?
305 If to some common's fenceless limits strayed,
He drives his flock to pick the scanty blade,
Those fenceless fields the sons of wealth divide,
And even the bare-worn common is denied.⁴

4. Refers to the enclosure and appropriation of common land.

THE DESERTED VILLAGE / 693

If to the city sped—What waits him there?

BIO To see profusion that he must not share;

To see ten thousand baneful arts combined

To pamper luxury, and thin mankind;

To see those joys the sons of pleasure know,

Extorted from his fellow creature's woe.

315 Here, while the courtier glitters in brocade,

There the pale artist⁰ plies the sickly trade; artisan

Here, while the proud their long-drawn pomps display,

There the black gibbet⁰ glooms beside the way. gallows

The dome where Pleasure holds her midnight reign,

320 Here, richly decked, admits the gorgeous train;

Tumultuous grandeur crowds the blazing square,

The rattling chariots clash, the torches glare.

Sure scenes like these no troubles e'er annoy!

Sure these denote one universal joy!

325 Are these thy serious thoughts?—Ah, turn thine eyes

Where the poor houseless shivering female lies.

She once, perhaps, in village plenty blest,

Has wept at tales of innocence distressed;

Her modest looks the cottage might adorn,

330 Sweet as the primrose peeps beneath the thorn;

Now lost to all; her friends, her virtue fled,

Near her betrayer's door she lays her head,

And pinched with cold, and shrinking from the shower,

With heavy heart deplores that luckless hour,

335 When idly first, ambitious of the town,

She left her wheel and robes of country brown.
Do thine, sweet Auburn, thine, the loveliest train,
Do thy fair tribes participate her pain?
Even now, perhaps, by cold and hunger led,
340 At proud men's doors they ask a little bread!
Ah, no. To distant climes, a dreary scene,
Where half the convex world intrudes between,
Through torrid tracts with fainting steps they go,
Where wild Altama⁵ murmurs to their woe.
345 Far different there from all that charmed before,
The various terrors of that horrid shore;
Those blazing suns that dart a downward ray,
And fiercely shed intolerable day;
Those matted woods where birds forget to sing,
350 But silent bats in drowsy clusters cling,
Those poisonous fields with rank luxuriance crowned,
Where the dark scorpion gathers death around;
Where at each step the stranger fears to wake
The rattling terrors of the vengeful snake;
355 Where crouching tigers⁰ wait their hapless prey, pumas
And savage men, more murderous still than they;
While oft in whirls the mad tornado flies,
Mingling the ravaged landscape with the skies.
Far different these from every former scene,
5. Altamaha, a river in Georgia (North America).
694 / O L I V E R G O L D S M I T H
The cooling brook, the grassy-vested green,
The breezy covert of the warbling grove,

That only sheltered thefts of harmless love.
Good Heaven! what sorrows gloomed that parting day,
That called them from their native walks away;
When the poor exiles, every pleasure past,
Hung round their bowers, and fondly looked their last,
And took a long farewell, and wished in vain
For seats like these beyond the western main;
And shuddering still to face the distant deep,
Returned and wept, and still returned to weep.
The good old sire the first prepared to go
To new-found worlds, and wept for other's woe;
But for himself, in conscious virtue brave,
He only wished for worlds beyond the grave.
His lovely daughter, lovelier in her tears,
The fond companion of his helpless years,
Silent went next, neglectful of her charms,
And left a lover's for a father's arms.
With louder plaints⁰ the mother spoke her woes, lamentations
And blessed the cot where every pleasure rose;
And kissed her thoughtless babes with many a tear,
And clasped them close in sorrow doubly dear;
Whilst her fond husband strove to lend relief
In all the silent manliness of grief.
O luxury! Thou cursed by Heaven's decree,
How ill exchanged are things like these for thee!
How do thy potions, with insidious joy,
Diffuse their pleasures only to destroy!
Kingdoms, by thee, to sickly greatness grown,

Boast of a florid vigor not their own.
At every draught more large and large they grow,
A bloated mass of rank unwieldy woe;
Till sapped their strength, and every part unsound,
Down, down they sink, and spread a ruin round.
Even now the devastation is begun,
And half the business of destruction done;
Even now, methinks, as pondering here I stand,
I see the rural Virtues leave the land.
Down where yon anchoring vessel spreads the sail,
That idly waiting flaps with every gale,
Downward they move, a melancholy band,
Pass from the shore, and darken all the strand.
Contented Toil, and hospitable Care,
And kind connubial Tenderness are there;
And Piety, with wishes placed above,
And steady Loyalty, and faithful Love:
And thou, sweet Poetry, thou loveliest maid,
Still first to fly where sensual joys invade;
Unfit in these degenerate times of shame,
To catch the heart, or strike for honest fame;
Dear charming Nymph, neglected and decried,
O L N E Y H Y M N S / 6 9 5
My shame in crowds, my solitary pride;
Thou source of all my bliss, and all my woe,
That found'st me poor at first, and keep'st me so;
415 Thou guide by which the nobler arts excel,
Thou nurse of every virtue, fare thee well.

Farewell, and O! where'er thy voice be tried,
On Torno's cliffs, or Pambamarca's side,⁶ Whether where equinoctial⁰ fervors glow, tropical 420 Or winter wraps the polar world in snow,
Still let thy voice, prevailing over time,
Redress the rigors of the inclement clime;
Aid slighted truth, with thy persuasive strain
Teach erring man to spurn the rage of gain;
425 Teach him that states of native strength possessed,
Though very poor, may still be very blest;
That Trade's proud empire hastes to swift decay,
As ocean sweeps the labored mole^o away; breakwater
While self-dependent power can time defy,
430 As rocks resist the billows and the sky.⁷

1770

W I L L I A M C O W P E R

1731-1800

*From Olney Hymns*¹

Light Shining out of Darkness

God moves in a mysterious way,

His wonders to perform;

He plants his footsteps in the sea,

And rides upon the storm.

5 Deep in unfathomable mines

Of never failing skill,

He treasures up his bright designs,

And works his sovereign will.

Ye fearful saints, fresh courage take,

10 The clouds ye so much dread
Are big with mercy, and shall break
In blessings on your head.

Judge not the Lord by feeble sense,
But trust him for his grace;

6. I.e., on the cliffs overlooking the river Tome, in
(1 7 0 9 - 1 7 8 4 ; see pp. 6 5 5 - 6 5) .

Sweden, or the side of Mt. Pambamarca, in Ecua-

1. Cowper lived in Olney, Buckinghamshire, from dor.

1767 until 1786.

7. The last four lines are by Samuel Johnson

6 9 6 / W I L L I A M C O W P E R

15 Behind a frowning providence,
He hides a smiling face.

His purposes will ripen fast,
Unfolding every hour;

The bud may have a bitter taste,
20 But sweet will be the flower.

Blind unbelief is sure to err,
And scan his work in vain;

God is his own interpreter,
And he will make it plain.

1779

Epitaph on a Hare

Here lies, whom hound did ne'er pursue,

Nor swifter greyhound follow,

Whose foot ne'er tainted morning dew, left a scent on

Nor ear heard huntsman's hallo',
5 Old Tiney, surliest of his kind,
Who, nursed with tender care,
And to domestic bounds confined,
Was still a wild jack-hare.
Though duly from my hand he took 10 His pittance every night,
He did it with a jealous look,
And, when he could, would bite.
His diet was of wheaten bread,
And milk, and oats, and straw,
15 Thistles, or lettuces instead,
With sand to scour his maw.
On twigs of hawthorn he regaled,⁰ feasted
On pippins⁰ russet peel; apples'
And, when his juicy salads failed,
20 Sliced carrot pleased him well.
A Turkey carpet was his lawn,²
Whereon he loved to bound,
To skip and gambol like a fawn,
And swing his rump around.
25 His frisking was at evening hours,
For then he lost his fear;
2. Cowper exercised his hares on his parlor carpet of Turkey red.

T H E T A S K / 6 9 7

Eight years and five round-rolling moons
30 He thus saw steal away,
Dozing out all his idle noons,
And every night at play.
I kept him for his humor's sake,
For he would oft beguile
35 My heart of thoughts that made it ache,
And force me to a smile.
But now, beneath this walnut-shade
He finds his long, last home,
And waits in snug concealment laid,
40 Till gentler Puss shall come.
He,3 still more aged, feels the shocks
From which no care can save,
And, partner once of Tiney's box,
Must soon partake his grave.

1783 1784

*From The Task*⁴

From Book IV: The Winter Evening

Just when our drawing-rooms begin to blaze
With lights, by clear reflection multiplied
From many a mirror, in which he of Gath,
270 Goliath,⁵ might have seen his giant bulk
Whole without stooping, towering crest and all,
My pleasures too begin. But me perhaps
The glowing hearth may satisfy awhile
With faint illumination, that uplifts
275 The shadow to the ceiling, there by fits

Dancing uncouthly to the quivering flame.
Not undelightful is an hour to me
So spent in parlour twilight; such a gloom
Suits well the thoughtful or unthinking mind,
280 The mind contemplative, with some new theme
Pregnant, or indisposed alike to all.

Laugh ye, who boast your more mercurial powers
That never feel a stupor, know no pause,

3. Puss, the longest-lived of Cowper's three hares.
completed work ran to six books and ranged over 4. So called because, when he complained of the diverse subjects.

lack of a poetic topic, a friend, Lady Austen, set 5. The giant slain by David (1 Samuel 17. 19 - 51).
him the task of writing about the parlor sofa. The
698 / WILLIAM COWPER

Nor need one; I am conscious, and confess, conscious of 285 Fearless, a soul that does not always think.

Me oft has fancy ludicrous and wild
Soothed with a waking dream of houses, towers,
Trees, churches, and stranger visages expressed
In the red cinders, while with poring eye

290 I gazed, myself creating what I saw.⁶

Nor less amused have I quiescent watched
The sooty films that play upon the bars⁰ fireplace grate
Pendulous, and foreboding in the view
Of superstition, prophesying still,

295 Though still deceived, some stranger's near approach

'Tis thus the understanding takes repose
In indolent vacuity of thought,
And sleeps and is refreshed. Meanwhile the face
Conceals the mood lethargic with a mask 300 Of deep deliberation, as^o the man as if
Were tasked to his full strength, absorbed and lost.
Thus oft reclined at ease, I lose an hour
At evening, till at length the freezing blast
That sweeps the bolted shutter, summons home
305 The recollected powers, and, snapping short
The glassy threads with which the fancy weaves
Her brittle toys, restores me to myself.
How calm is my recess! and how the frost
Raging abroad, and the rough wind, endear 310 The silence and the warmth enjoyed within!
I saw the woods and fields at close of day
A variegated show; the meadows green
Though faded, and the lands, where lately waved
The golden harvest, of a mellow brown,
315 Upturned so lately by the forceful share;^o plough
I saw far off the weedy fallows^o smile dormant land
With verdure not unprofitable, grazed
By flocks fast feeding, and selecting each
His favorite herb; while all the leafless groves
320 That skirt th' horizon wore a sable^o hue, black
Scarce noticed in the kindred dusk of eve.
Tomorrow brings a change, a total change,
Which even now, though silently perform'd

And slowly, and by most unfelt, the face
325 Of universal nature undergoes.
Fast falls a fleecy shower; the downy flakes,
Descending and with never-ceasing lapse⁰ gentle downward glide
Softly alighting upon all below,
Assimilate all objects. Earth receives
330 Gladly the thickening mantle, and the green
And tender blade that feared the chilling blast,
Escapes unhurt beneath so warm a veil.

###

6. Cf. lines 291 - 310 with Coleridge, "Frost at Midnight"
(p. 810).

THE TASK / 699

From Book VI: The Winter Walk at Noon

###

The groans of nature in this nether world,
730 Which Heaven has heard for ages, have an end.
Foretold by prophets, and by poets sung,
Whose fire was kindled at the prophets' lamp,
The time of rest, the promised Sabbath, comes.⁷
Six thousand years⁸ of sorrow have well-nigh
735 Fulfilled their tardy and disastrous course
Over a sinful world; and what remains
Of this tempestuous state of human things
Is merely as the working of a sea
Before a calm, that rocks itself to rest:
740 For He, whose car^o the winds are, and the clouds chariot
The dust that waits upon his sultry march,

When sin hath moved him, and his wrath is hot,
Shall visit earth in mercy; shall descend,
Propitious, in his chariot paved with love;
745 And what his storms have blasted and defaced
For man's revolt shall with a smile repair.
Sweet is the harp of prophecy; too sweet
Not to be wronged by a mere mortal touch:
Nor can the wonders it records be sung
750 To meaner music, and not suffer loss.
But, when a poet, or when one like me,
Happy to rove among poetic flowers,
Though poor in skill to rear them, lights at last
On some fair theme, some theme divinely fair, 755 Such is the impulse and the spur he feels
To give it praise proportioned to its worth,
That not t' attempt it, arduous as he deems
The labor, were a task more arduous still.
Oh scenes surpassing fable, and yet true,
760 Scenes of accomplished bliss! which who can see,
Though but in distant prospect, and not feel
His soul refreshed with foretaste of the joy?
Rivers of gladness water all the earth,
And clothe all climes with beauty; the reproach
765 Of barrenness is past. The fruitful field
Laughs with abundance; and the land, once lean,
Or fertile only in its own disgrace,
Exults to see its thistly curse repealed.
The various seasons woven into one,

770 And that one season an eternal spring,
The garden fears no blight, and needs no fence,
For there is none to covet, all are full.

The lion, and the libbard,⁰ and the bear leopard

7. An allusion to the end of the world and the sec- “promised Sabbath.”

ond coming of Christ, w h e n God will make “a new 8. T h e creation of the world was traditionally heaven and a new earth” (Revelation 21.1). Lines believed to have taken place four thousand years 7 5 9 - 8 1 7 are Cowper’s visionary description of this before the birth of Christ.

7 0 0 / W I L L I A M C O W P E R

Graze with the fearless flocks; all bask at noon

775 Together, or all gambol in the shade

Of the same grove, and drink one common stream.

Antipathies are none. No foe to man

Lurks in the serpent now: the mother sees,

And smiles to see, her infant’s playful hand

780 Stretched forth to dally with the crested worm,⁰ serpent

To stroke his azure neck, or to receive

The lambent⁰ homage of his arrowy tongue. flickering

All creatures worship man, and all mankind

One Lord, one Father. Error has no place:

785 That creeping pestilence is driven away;

The breath of heaven has chased it. In the heart

No passion touches a discordant string,

But all is harmony and love. Disease

Is not: the pure and uncontaminate blood

790 Holds its due course, nor fears the frost of age.

One song employs all nations; and all cry,

“Worthy the Lamb, for he was slain for us!”

The dwellers in the vales⁰ and on the rocks valleys

Shout to each other, and the mountain tops

795 From distant mountains catch the flying joy;

Till, nation after nation taught the strain,

Earth rolls the rapturous hosanna⁹ round.

Behold the measure of the promise filled;

See Salem¹ built, the labor of a God!

800 Bright as a sun the sacred city shines;

All kingdoms and all princes of the earth

Flock to that light; the glory of all lands

Flows into her; unbounded is her joy,

And endless her increase. Thy rams are there,

805 Nebaioth, and the flocks of Kedar there;²

The looms of Ormus, and the mines of Ind,

And Saba’s spicy groves, pay tribute there.³

Praise is in all her gates: upon her walls,

And in her streets, and in her spacious courts,

810 Is heard salvation. Eastern Java there

Kneels with the native of the farthest west;

And Ethiopia spreads abroad the hand,

And worships. Her report has traveled forth

Into all lands. From every clime they come

815 To see thy beauty and to share thy joy,

O Sion!⁴ an assembly such as earth

Saw never, such as heaven stoops down to see.

9. Expression of great praise.

note]. By “the prophetic Scripture here alluded to”

1. Jerusalem; not only the terrestrial city but the Cowper means Isaiah 60.3—7, in which God prom-N e w Jerusalem or Holy City, God’s perfect a n d ises a blessed f u t u r e to Jerusalem: “And the Gen-eternal order of t h e f u t u r e . See Revelation 31.2:
tiles shall come to thy light... . All the flocks of
“And I J o h n saw the holy city, new Jerusalem, com-Keder shall be gathered together unto thee, the ing down f r o m G o d out of heaven.”
rams of Nebaioth shall minister unto thee.”

2. “Nebaioth a n d Kedar, the sons of Ishmael and

3. O r m u s (or Hormuz, an island in the Persian progenitors of t h e Arabs, in t h e prophetic Scripture Gulf), India, and Saba (Sheba, a country in Arabia) here alluded to may be reasonably considered as were renowned for their wealth.

representatives of t h e Gentiles at large” [Cowper’s

4. O f t e n , as here, equivalent to Jerusalem.

T H E T A S K / 7 0 1

Thus heaven-ward all things tend. For all were once Perfect, and all must be at length restored.

820 So God has greatly purposed; who would else

In his dishonored works himself endure

Dishonor, and be wronged without redress.

Haste, then, and wheel away a shattered world,

Ye slow-revolving seasons! we would see

825 (A sight to which our eyes are strangers yet)

A world that does not dread and hate his laws,

And suffer for its crime; would learn how fair
The creature is that God pronounces good,
How pleasant in itself what pleases him.
830 Here every drop of honey hides a sting,
Worms wind themselves into our sweetest flowers;
And even the joy that haply⁰ some poor heart luckily
Derives from heaven, pure as the fountain is,
Is sullied in the stream, taking a taint
835 From touch of human lips, at best impure.
Oh for a world in principle as chaste
As this is gross and selfish! over which Custom and prejudice shall bear no sway,
That govern all things here, shouldering aside
840 The meek and modest truth, and forcing her
To seek a refuge from the tongue of strife
In nooks obscure, far from the ways of men;
Where violence shall never lift the sword,
Nor cunning justify the proud man's wrong,
845 Leaving the poor no remedy but tears;
Where he that fills an office shall esteem
Th' occasion it presents of doing good
More than the perquisite;⁰ where law shall speak profits
Seldom, and never but as wisdom prompts
850 And equity; not jealous more to guard
A worthless form, than to decide aright;
Where fashion shall not sanctify abuse,
Nor smooth good breeding (supplemental grace)
With lean performance ape the work of love!

855 Come then, and, added to thy many crowns,
Receive yet one, the crown of all the earth,
Thou who alone art worthy! It was thine
By ancient covenant, ere nature's birth;
And thou hast made it thine by purchase since,
860 And overpaid its value with thy blood.
Thy saints proclaim thee king; and in their hearts
Thy title is engraven with a pen
Dipped in the fountain of eternal love.
Thy saints proclaim thee king; and thy delay
865 Gives courage to their foes, who, could they see
The dawn of thy last advent, long desired,
Would creep into the bowels of the hills,
And flee for safety to the falling rocks.
The very spirit of the world is tired

7 0 2 /

W I L L I A M C O W P E R

870 Of its own taunting question, asked so long,
“Where is the promise of your Lord's approach?”
The infidel has shot his bolts⁰ away, arrows
Till, his exhausted quiver yielding none,
He gleans the blunted shafts that have recoiled,
875 And aims them at the shield of truth again.
The veil is rent, rent too by priestly hands,
That hides divinity from mortal eyes;
And all the mysteries to faith proposed,
Insulted and traduced, are cast aside,
880 As useless, to the moles and to the bats.

They now are deemed the faithful, and are praised,
Who, constant only in rejecting thee,
Deny thy Godhead with a martyr's zeal,
And quit their office for their error's sake.
885 Blind, and in love with darkness! yet even these Worthy, compared with sycophants, who knee
Thy name adoring, and then preach thee man!
So fares thy church. But how thy church may fare
The world takes little thought. Who will may preach, 890 And what they will. All pastors are alike
To wandering sheep, resolved to follow none.
Two gods divide them all—Pleasure and Gain:
For these they live, they sacrifice to these,
And in their service wage perpetual war
895 With conscience and with thee. Lust in their hearts,
And mischief in their hands, they roam the earth
To prey upon each other: stubborn, fierce,
High-minded, foaming out their own disgrace.
Thy prophets speak of such; and, noting down
900 The features of the last degenerate times, Exhibit every lineament of these.
Come then, and, added to thy many crowns,
Receive yet one, as radiant as the rest,
Due to thy last and most effectual work,
905 Thy word fulfilled, the conquest of a world!
1785
The Castaway
Obscurest night involved the sky, engulfed

The Atlantic billows roared,
When such a destined wretch as I,
Washed headlong from on board,
5. The veil of the Temple in Jerusalem divided the death. “And Jesus cried with a loud voice, and gave inner sanctuary from the rest of the Temple. For up the ghost. And the veil of the temple was rent Christians, rending of the veil represented gaining in twain from the top to the bottom” (Mark 15:37—direct access to God, notably through Christ’s 8).

THE CASTAWAY / 703

5 Of friends, of hope, of all bereft,
His floating home forever left.
No braver chief could Albion boast
Than he with whom he went,⁶
Nor ever ship left Albion’s coast,
10 With warmer wishes sent.
He loved them both, but both in vain,
Nor him beheld, nor her again.
Not long beneath the whelming brine,
Expert to swim, he lay;
15 Nor soon he felt his strength decline,
Or courage die away;
But waged with death a lasting strife,
Supported by despair of life.
He shouted; nor his friends had failed
20 To check the vessel’s course,

But so the furious blast prevailed,
That, pitiless perforce,
They left their outcast mate behind,
And scudded still before the wind.
25 Some succor yet they could afford;
And, such as storms allow,
The cask, the coop, the floated cord,
Delayed not to bestow.
But he (they knew) nor ship, nor shore,
30 Whate'er they gave, should visit more.
Nor, cruel as it seemed, could he
Their haste himself condemn,
Aware that flight, in such a sea,
Alone could rescue them;
35 Yet bitter felt it still to die
Deserted, and his friends so nigh.
He long survives, who lives an hour
In ocean, self-upheld;
And so long he, with unspent power,
40 His destiny repelled;
And ever, as the minutes flew,
Entreated help, or cried, "Adieu!"
At length, his transient respite past,
His comrades, who before
45 Had heard his voice in every blast,
Could catch the sound no more.

6. Namely, George, Lord Anson (1697—1762), who told the castaway's story in his memoir, Voyage Round the World (1748).

704 / WILLIAM COWPER

For then, by toil subdued, he drank
The stifling wave, and then he sank.

No poet wept him; but the page

50 Of narrative sincere,

That tells his name, his worth, his age,

Is wet with Anson's tear.

And tears by bards or heroes shed

Alike immortalize the dead.

55 I therefore purpose not, or dream,

Descanting⁰ on his fate, singing

To give the melancholy theme

A more enduring date:

But misery still delights to trace

60 Its semblance in another's case.

No voice divine the storm allayed,

No light propitious shone,

When, snatched from all effectual aid,

We perished, each alone;

65 But I beneath a rougher sea,

And whelmed in deeper gulfs than he.

1799 1803

Lines Written during a Period of Insanity

Hatred and vengeance, my eternal portion,

Scarce can endure delay of execution,

Wait, with impatient readiness, to seize my Soul in a moment.

5 Damned below Judas: 7 more abhorred than he was,

Who for a few pence sold his holy Master.
Twice betrayed Jesus me, the last delinquent,
Deems the profanest.⁸

Man disavows, and Deity disowns me:
10 Hell might afford my miseries a shelter;
Therefore hell keeps her ever hungry mouths all Bolted against me.

Hard lot! encompassed with a thousand dangers;
Weary, faint, trembling with a thousand terrors;
15 I'm called, if vanquished, to receive a sentence
Worse than Abiram's.⁹

7. Judas betrayed Jesus to the chief priests for a n d Aaron, was swallowed up with his fellow dis-money (Matthew 26 . 14 - 16) .

sidents in a cleft of the earth. They “went down

8. I.e., Jesus, betrayed by me as well as by Judas, alive into the pit, and the earth closed upon them”
deems me the most profane.

(N u m b e r s 16.33).

9. Abirim, rebelling against the authority of Moses

T H E R I G H T S O F W O M A N / 7 0 5

Him the vindictive rod of angry justice

Sent quick and howling to the center headlong;

I, fed with judgment, in a fleshly tomb, am

20 Buried above ground.

ca. 1774 1816

A N N A L A E T I T I A B A R B A U L D

1743-1825

The Rights of Woman¹

Yes, injured Woman! rise, assert thy right!

Woman! too long degraded, scorned, oppressed;

O born to rule in partial⁰ Law's despite,⁰ biased /contempt

Resume thy native empire o'er the breast!

5 Go forth arrayed in panoply² divine;

That angel pureness which admits no stain;

Go, bid proud Man his boasted rule resign,

And kiss the golden scepter of thy reign.

Go, gird thyself with grace; collect thy store

io Of bright artillery glancing⁰ from afar; gleaming

Soft melting tones thy thundering cannon's roar,

Blushes and fears thy magazine³ of war.

Thy rights are empire: urge no meaner⁰ claim,— humbler

Felt, not defined, and if debated, lost;

15 Like sacred mysteries, which withheld from fame,

Shunning discussion, are revered the most.

Try all that wit and art suggest to bend

Of thy imperial foe the stubborn knee;

Make treacherous Man thy subject, not thy friend;

20 Thou mayst command, but never canst be free.

Awe the licentious, and restrain the rude;

Soften the sullen, clear the cloudy brow:

Be, more than princes' gifts, thy favors sued;⁰— sought

She hazards all, who will the least allow.

25 But hope not, courted idol of mankind,

On this proud eminence secure to stay;

Subduing and subdued, thou soon shalt find

Thy coldness soften, and thy pride give way.

1. Until the last two stanzas, a seemingly positive 2. Complete armor; Ephesians 6.11: “Put on the response to Mary Wollstonecraft’s A Vindication of whole armor of God, that ye may be able to stand the Rights of Woman (1792), a radical look at the against the wiles of the devil.”

place of women in society. 3. Storage place for weapons or ammunition.

706 / ANNALÆTITIA BARBAULD

Then, then, abandon each ambitious thought,

30

Conquest or rule thy heart shall feebly move,
In Nature’s school, by her soft maxims taught,
That separate rights are lost in mutual love.

ca. 1795

1825

To the Poor

Child of distress, who meet’st the bitter scorn
Of fellow-men to happier prospects born,
Doomed Art and Nature’s various stores to see
Flow in full cups of joy—and not for thee;
Who seest the rich, to heaven and fate resigned,
Bear thy afflictions with a patient mind;
Whose bursting heart disdains unjust control,
Who feel’st oppression’s iron in thy soul,
Who dragg’st the load of faint and feeble years,

10

Whose bread is anguish, and whose water tears;
Bear, bear thy wrongs—fulfill thy destined hour,
Bend thy meek neck beneath the foot of Power;

But when thou feel'st the great deliverer nigh,
And thy freed spirit mounting seeks the sky,
Let no vain fears thy parting hour molest,

15

No whispered terrors shake thy quiet breast:
Think not their threats can work thy future woe,
Nor deem the Lord above like lords below;—
Safe in the bosom of that love repose
By whom the sun gives light, the ocean flows;

20

Prepare to meet a Father undismayed,
Nor fear the God whom priests and kings have made.

1795

1825

Life

*Animula, vagula, blandula.*⁴

Life! I know not what thou art,
But know that thou and I must part;
And when, or how, or where we met,
I own^o to me's a secret yet. acknowledge

5

But this I know, when thou art fled,
Where'er they lay these limbs, this head,
No clod so valueless shall be,
As all that then remains of me.

4. Charming little soul, hastening away (Latin); deathbed, quoted from Aelius Spartianus, Life of the first line of a poem supposedly composed by Hadrian 25.

the Roman emperor Hadrian (76—138 C. E.) on his

INSCRIPTION IN A BEAUTIFUL RETRE AT CALLED FAIRY BOWER / 707

O whither, whither dost thou fly,
Where bend unseen thy trackless course,
And in this strange divorce,
Ah tell where I must seek this compound I?
To the vast ocean of empyreal flame, celestial
From whence thy essence came,
Dost thou thy flight pursue, when freed
From matter's base encumbering weed?
Or dost thou, hid from sight,
Wait, like some spell-bound knight,
Through blank oblivious years th' appointed hour,
To break thy trance and reassume thy power?
Yet canst thou without thought or feeling be?
O say what art thou, when no more thou art thee?
Life! we've been long together,
Through pleasant and through cloudy weather;
'Tis hard to part when friends are dear;
Perhaps't will cost a sigh, a tear;
Then steal away, give little warning,
Choose thine own time;
Say not Good night, but in some brighter clime
Bid me Good morning.

1825

H A N N A H M O R E

1745-1833

Inscription in a Beautiful Retreat Called Fairy Bower¹

Airy spirits, you who love

Cooling bower, or shady grove;

Streams that murmur as they flow,

Zephyrs² bland that softly blow;

5 Babbling echo,³ or the tale

Of the lovelorn Nightingale;⁴

1. A leafy covert or arbor; also, poetically, an ide-

4. T h e nightingale is known for its sweet, nocturalized abode.

nal song; there are several classical myths about

2. Gentle breezes f r o m the west.

nightingales. Ovid tells the story of Philomela: she

3. In Greek mythology, Echo was a nymph whose was raped by her brother-in-law, Tereus, who then chatter distracted Hera, the queen of the gods,
tore out her tongue so that she could not speak.

while Zeus, Hera's h u s b a n d , consorted with other

She wove the story into a tapestry and sent it to nymphs and mortal women. Hera punished her by her sister, who rescued her. She was later changed

depriving her of speech, save to repeat the words

into a nightingale while in flight from Tereus; Phil-of others. Later, Echo pined for the youth Narcis-omela was "lovelorn" only in the ironic sense of sus, who spurned her love, until nothing was left being victimized by another's passion.

of her but her voice.

7 0 8 / H A N N A H M O R E

Hither, airy spirits, come,

This is your peculiar⁰ home. own

If you love a verdant⁰ glade, green

10 If you love a noon-tide shade,

Hither, Sylphs⁵ and Fairies, fly,

Unobserved of earthly eye.

Come, and wander every night,

By the moonbeam's glimmering light;

15 And again at early day

Brush the silver dews away.

Mark where first the daisies blow,⁰ bloom.

Where the bluest violets grow;

Where the sweetest linnet⁰ sings, a songbird

20 Where the earliest cowslip⁰ springs; awildflower

Where the largest acorn lies,

Precious in a Fairy's eyes:

Sylphs, though unconfined to place,

Love to fill an acorn's space.

25 Come, and mark within what bush

Builds the blackbird or the thrush;

Great his joy who first espies,

Greater his who spares the prize.

Come, and watch the hallowed bower,

30 Chase the insect from the flower;

Little offices like these,

Gentle souls and Fairies please.

Mortals! formed of grosser clay,
From our haunts keep far away;
35 Or, if you should dare appear,
See that you from vice are clear.
Folly's minion, 0 Fashion's fool, darling
Mad ambition's restless tool!
Slave of passion, slave of power,
40 Fly, ah fly! this tranquil bower!
Son of avarice, 0 soul of frost, greed
Wretch! of Heaven abhorred the most,
Learn to pity others' wants, 0 needs
Or avoid these hallowed haunts.

5. Spirits supposed to inhabit the air.

T H E S L A V E T R A D E / 7 0 9

45 Eye, unconscious of a tear,
When affliction's train appear;
Heart that never heaved a sigh,
For another, come not nigh.
But, ye darling sons of Heaven,
50 Giving freely what was given,
You, whose liberal hands dispense
The blessings of benevolence:
You, who wipe the tearful eye,
You, who stop the rising sigh;
55 You, whose souls have understood
The luxury of doing good,
Come, ye happy virtuous few,
Open is my bower to you;

You, these mossy banks may press;
60 You, each guardian Fay^o shall bless. fairy

1774

From The Slave Trade

Strange power of song!⁶ the strain that warms the heart
Seems the same inspiration to impart;

Touched by the extrinsic^o energy alone, external

We think the flame which melts us is our own;

5 Deceived, for genius we mistake delight,

Charmed as we read, we fancy we can write.⁷

Though not to me, sweet Bard, thy powers belong,

The cause I plead shall sanctify my song.

The Muse⁸ awakes no artificial fire,

io For Truth rejects what Fancy would inspire:

Here Art would weave her gayest flowers in vain,

The bright invention Nature would disdain.

For no fictitious ills these numbers^o flow, verses

But living anguish, and substantial woe;

15 No individual griefs my bosom melt,

For millions feel what Oronoko felt:

Fired by no single wrongs, the countless host

I mourn, by rapine^o dragged from Afric's coast. seizure

Perish the illiberal⁹ thought which would debase

6. The "song" refers to Thomas Southerne's

below.

Oroonoko: A Tragedy (1696), a stage adaptation of

7. I.e., we mistake the pleasure we receive from

Aphra Behn's Oroonoko, or the Royal Slave, reading for genius of our own, leading us to think (1688). Both the novel and the play critiqued some we can write.

aspects of the slave trade. The title character is an 8. One of the nine Greek sister goddesses believed African prince, sold into slavery in Surinam, who to be the source of inspiration for the arts.

leads a slave revolt and is eventually executed.

9. Not generous in respect of the rights or liberties Southerne is the “sweet Bard” referred to in line 7 of others, narrow-minded or bigoted.

7 1 0 / H A N N A H M O R E

20 The native genius of the sable⁰ race! dark-complexioned

Perish the proud philosophy, which sought

To rob them of the powers of equal thought! 1

Does then the immortal principle within

Change with the casual color of a skin?

25 Does matter⁰ govern spirit? or is mind body

Degraded by the form to which ‘tis joined?

No; they have heads to think, and hearts to feel,

And souls to act, with firm, though erring zeal; 2

For they have keen affections, kind desires,

30 Love strong as death, and active patriot fires;

All the rude energy, the fervid flame,

Of high-souled passion, and ingenuous³ shame:

Strong, but luxuriant virtues boldly shoot

From the wild vigor of a savage root.

35 Nor weak their sense of honor’s proud control,

For pride is virtue in a Pagan soul;
A sense of worth, a conscience⁰ of desert,⁰ consciousness / worth
A high, unbroken haughtiness of heart;
That self-same stuff which erst^o proud empires swayed, formerly
40 Of which the conquerors of the world were made.
Capricious fate of men! that very pride
In Afric scourged, in Rome was deified.
No Muse, O Qua-shi!⁴ shall thy deeds relate,
No statue snatch thee from oblivious fate!
45 For thou wast born where never gentle Muse
On Valor's grave the flowers of Genius strews;
And thou wast born where no recording page
Plucks the fair deed from Time's devouring rage.
Had Fortune placed thee on some happier coast,
50 Where polished s Pagans' souls heroic boast,
To thee, who soughtest a voluntary grave,
The uninjured honors of thy name to save,
Whose generous arm thy barbarous Master spared,⁶
Altars had smoked, and temples had been reared.
55 Whenever to Afric's shores I turn my eyes,
Horrors of deepest, deadliest guilt arise;
I see, by more than Fancy's mirror⁷ shewn,
The burning village, and the blazing town:
See the dire victim torn from social life,
60 The shrieking babe, the agonizing wife!
She, wretch forlorn! is dragged by hostile hands,
To distant tyrants sold, in distant lands!

Transmitted8 miseries, and successive chains,

1. Perhaps an allusion to Aristotle's theory (in the about them.

Politics 1.5) that some are "naturally" b o m a s

6. W h e n his master tried to punish him, Q u a s h i slaves or inferior persons.

resisted. In the ensuing struggle, Quashi gained

2. Erring because not Christian.

the upper h a n d and drew a knife, but used it to kill

3. Noble, freeborn. The slaves feel s h a m e because himself rather than the master.

they are "ingenuous."

7. Fictions generated by imagination; perhaps

4. A slave in Bermuda who killed himself rather referring to Southerne's play or other theatrical or than undergo p u n i s h m e n t by the master with literary works.

w h o m he had been brought up as a playfellow.

8. Passed by inheritance.

5. M a d e more refined or elegant by the stories told

T o T H E S H A D E O F B U R N S / 7 1 1

The sole sad heritage her child obtains!

65 Even this last wretched boon0 their foes deny, request

To weep together, or together die.

By felon hands, by one relentless stroke,

See the fond links of feeling Nature broke!

The fibers twisting round a parent's heart,

70 Torn from their grasp, and bleeding as they part.

1788

CHARLOTTE SMITH

1749-1806

Written in the Church Yard at Middleton in Sussex

Pressed by the moon, mute arbitress of tides,

While the loud equinox its power combines,

The sea no more its swelling surge confines,

But o'er the shrinking land sublimely rides.

5 The wild blast, rising from the western cave,

Drives the huge billows from their heaving bed,

Tears from their grassy tombs the village dead,

And breaks the silent sabbath of the grave!

With shells and sea-weed mingled, on the shore

io Lo! their bones whiten in the frequent wave;

But vain to them the winds and waters rave;

They hear the warring elements no more:

While I am doomed—by life's long storm oppressed,

To gaze with envy on their gloomy rest.

1789

To the Shade of Burns¹

Mute is thy wild harp, now, O Bard sublime!

Who, amid Scotia's⁰ mountain solitude, Scotland's

Great Nature taught to "build the lofty rhyme,"²

And even beneath the daily pressure, rude,^o harsh

5 Of laboring Poverty,³ thy generous blood,

Fired with the love of freedom—Not subdued

Wert thou by thy low fortune: But a time

Like this we live in, when the abject chime

Of echoing Parasite is best approved,⁴

1. This sonnet was written upon the death of the his own health was broken by efforts to earn a liv-Scottish poet Robert Burns (1 7 5 9 - 1 7 9 6 ; see ing at farming.

pp. 7 4 7 - 6 0) .

4. I.e., in our time (unlike Burns's), public taste

2. Cf. Milton, "Lycidas," line 11 (p. 410).

favors "low," unoriginal (parasitical) poetry.

3. Burns was the son of an u n s u c c e s s f u l farmer;

7 1 2 / C H A R L O T T E S M I T H

10 Was not for thee—Indignantly is fled

Thy noble Spirit; and no longer moved

By all the ills o'er which thine heart has bled,

Associate worthy of the illustrious dead,

Enjoys with them "the Liberty it loved."⁵

1796 1797

Written near a Port on a Dark Evening

Huge vapors brood above the clifted shore,

Night on the Ocean settles, dark and mute,

Save where is heard the repercussive roar

Of drowsy billows,⁰ on the rugged foot waves

5 Of rocks remote; or still more distant tone

Of seamen in the anchored bark^o that tell ship

The watch relieved; or one deep voice alone

Singing the hour, and bidding "Strike the bell."

All is black shadow, but the lucid line

10 Marked by the light surf on the level sand,

Or where afar the ship-lights faintly shine
Like wandering fairy fires,⁶ that oft on land
Mislead the Pilgrim—Such the dubious ray
That wavering Reason lends, in life's long darkling way.

1797

Written in October

The blasts of Autumn as they scatter round
The faded foliage of another year,
And muttering many a sad and solemn sound,
Drive the pale fragments o'er the stubble sere,^o dry; withered

5 Are well attuned to my dejected mood;
(Ah! better far than airs that breathe of Spring!)

While the high rooks, that hoarsely clamoring
Seek in black phalanx⁷ the half-leafless wood,
I rather hear, than that enraptured lay^o song
10 Harmonious, and of Love and Pleasure born,
Which from the golden furze,⁸ or flowering thorn
Awakes the Shepherd in the ides^o of May; fifteenth
Nature delights me most when most she mourns,
For never more to me the Spring of Hope returns!

1797

5. Cf. Alexander Pope, "Epitaph on Sir William n o m e n o n of nocturnal light is caused by the com-Trumbull," lines 11 — 12: "Such this man was, who bustion of marsh gas.

now, from earth remov'd, / At length enjoys that

7. A flock of rooks (a species of crow that nests in Liberty he lov'd."

a colony and hence looks like a phalanx).

6. The will-o'-the-wisp was said to draw travelers

8. A spiny evergreen shrub with yellow flowers.

astray by holding a false light before them; the phe-

S T A N Z A S / 7 1 3

Nepenthe⁹

Oh! for imperial Polydamna's art,

Which to bright Helen was in Egypt taught,

To mix with magic power the oblivious draught¹

Of force to staunch the bleeding of the heart,

5 And to Care's wan and hollow cheek impart

| The smile of happy youth, uncursed with thought.

Potent indeed the charm that could appease

Affection's ceaseless anguish, doomed to weep

O'er the cold grave; or yield even transient ease

10 By soothing busy Memory to sleep!

—Around me those who surely must have tried

Some charm of equal power, I daily see,

But still to me Oblivion is denied,

There's no Nepenthe, now, on earth for me.

1797

Stanzas

Ah! think'st thou, Laura,² then, that wealth

Should make me thus my youth, and health,

And freedom and repose resign?—

Ah, no!—I toil to gain by stealth

5 One look, one tender glance of thine.

Born where huge hills on hills are piled,

In Caledonia's³ distant wild,
Unbounded Liberty was mine:
But thou upon my hopes hast smiled,
io And bade me be a slave of thine!
Amid these gloomy haunts of gain,
Of weary hours I not complain,
While Hope forbids me to repine,⁰ complain
And whispering tells me I obtain 15 Pity from that soft heart of thine.

j

9. A drink or drug supposed to bring forgetfulness learned the art of herbs.

of trouble or grief, used by Helen (in Homer, Odys- 1. A potion or drink producing forgetfulness.

sey 4.219—32) to quell the lament over the appar- 2. This poem originally appeared in Smith's The entirely lost Odysseus.
In a note to this poem, Smith Young Philosopher: A Novel (1798), in which it is cites lines from Alexander Pope's "Odyssey," which written by the character Glenmorris to Laura, his describes Helen's mixing the potion and her acqui-future wife.

sition of the drug from "Thone's imperial wife," i.e., 3.
Caledonia is the Roman name for the northern Polydamna, the Egyptian woman from whom she part of Britain; hence, used poetically for Scotland.

714 / CHARLOTTE SMITH

Tho' far capricious Fortune flies,
Yet Love will bless the sacrifice,
And all his purer joys combine;
While I my little world comprise 20 In that fair form, and fairer soul of thine.

1798

Ode to Death

Friend of the wretched! wherefore⁰ should the eye why
Of blank Despair, whence tears have ceased to flow,
Be turned from thee?—Ah! wherefore fears to die
He, who compelled each poignant grief to know,
5 Drains to its lowest dregs the cup of woe?
Would Cowardice postpone thy calm embrace,
To linger out long years in torturing pain?
Or not prefer thee to the ills that chase
Him, who too much impoverished to obtain
10 From British Themis⁴ right, implores her aid in vain!
Sharp goading Indigence⁰ who would not fly, poverty
That urges toil the exhausted strength above?
Or shun the once fond friend's averted eye?
Or who to thy asylum not remove,
15 To lose the wasting pain of unrequited love?
Can then the wounded wretch who must deplore
What most she loved, to thy cold arms consigned,
Who hears the voice that soothed her soul no more,⁵
Fear thee, O Death!—Or hug the chains that bind
20 To joyless, cheerless life, her sick, reluctant mind?
Oh! Misery's Cure; who e'er in pale dismay
Has watched the angel form they could not save,
And seen their dearest blessing tore away,
May well the terrors of thy triumph brave,
25 Nor pause in fearful dread before the opening grave!

1797, 1800

4. The British judicial system. Smith spent many
5. Smith refers to the death of her daughter, Anna years embroiled in the legal system, trying to settle Augusta de Foville, who died while giving birth in her father-in-law's will in order to allow her chil-1795.

dren to claim their shares in his estate.

B E A C H Y H E A D / 7 1 5

*From Beachy Head*⁶

On thy stupendous summit, rock sublime!
That o'er the channel reared, half way at sea
The mariner at early morning hails,⁷
I would recline; while Fancy should go forth,
5 And represent the strange and awful hour
Of vast concussion;⁸ when the Omnipotent
Stretched forth his arm, and rent the solid hills,
Bidding the impetuous main flood rush between
The rifted shores, and from the continent
10 Eternally divided this green isle.
Imperial lord of the high southern coast!
From thy projecting head-land I would mark
Far in the east the shades of night disperse,
Melting and thinned, as from the dark blue wave
15 Emerging, brilliant rays of arrowy light
Dart from the horizon; when the glorious sun
Just lifts above it his resplendent orb.
Advances now, with feathery silver touched,
The rippling tide of flood; glisten the sands,

20 While, inmates of the chalky clefts that scar
 Thy sides precipitous, with shrill harsh cry,
 Their white wings glancing in the level beam,
 The terns, and gulls, and tarrocks, seek their food,⁹
 And thy rough hollows echo to the voice
 25 Of the gray choughs,¹ and ever restless daws,
 With clamor, not unlike the chiding hounds,
 While the lone shepherd, and his baying dog,
 Drive to thy turfey crest his bleating flock.
 The high meridian of the day is past,
 30 And Ocean now, reflecting the calm Heaven,
 Is of cerulean hue; and murmurs low
 The tide of ebb, upon the level sands.
 The sloop, her angular canvas shifting still,
 Catches the light and variable airs
 35 That but a little crisp the summer sea,
 Dimpling its tranquil surface.

1807

6. This long poem (732 lines) appeared in Smith's countries. Yet the cliffs about Dieppe, resemble last volume of poetry, Beachy Head and Other the chalk cliffs on the southern coast. But Nor-Poems, published after her death. The notes below mandy has no likeness whatever to the part of are Smith's, printed originally as endnotes.
 England opposite to it."

7. "In crossing the Channel from the coast of

9. "Terns. Sterna hirundo, or Sea Swallow. Gulls.

France, Beachy-Head is the first land made.”

Larus canus. Tarrocks. Larus tridactylus.”

8. “Alluding to an idea that this Island was once

1. “Gray choughs. Corvus Graculus, Cornish joined to the continent of Europe, and torn from Choughs, or, as these birds are called by the Sussex it by some convulsion of Nature. I confess I never people, Saddle-backed Crows, build in great numbers on this coast.”

716

PHILIP FRENEAU

1752-1832

The Indian Burying Ground

In spite of all the learned have said,

I still my opinion keep;

The posture, that we give the dead,

Points out the soul’s eternal sleep.

5 Not so the ancients of these lands—

The Indian, when from life released,

Again is seated¹ with his friends,

And shares again the joyous feast.

His imaged birds, and painted bowl,

10 And venison, for a journey dressed,²

Bespeak the nature of the soul,

Activity, that knows no rest.

His bow, for action ready bent,

And arrows, with a head of stone,

15 Can only mean that life is spent,
And not the old ideas gone.
Thou, stranger, that shalt come this way,
No fraud upon the dead commit—
Observe the swelling turf, and say 20 They do not lie, but here they sit.
Here still a lofty rock remains,
On which the curious eye may trace
(Now wasted, half, by wearing rains)
The fancies of a ruder race.

25 Here still an aged elm aspires,
Beneath whose far-projecting shade
(And which the shepherd still admires)
The children of the forest played!
There oft a restless Indian queen
30 (Pale Shebah,³ with her braided hair)
And many a barbarous form is seen
To chide the man that lingers there.

1. “The North American Indians bury their dead
note],

in a sitting posture; decorating the corpse with

2. P u n on “dress”: to prepare for cooking as well w a m p u m , t h e images of birds, quadrupeds, etc.:
as to clothe.

And (if that of a warrior) with bows, arrows, tom-

3. Sheba, the queen who visited Solomon to judge ahawks and other military weapons” [Freneau’s his wisdom (1 Kings 10.1 — 13).

T o S I R T O B Y / 7 1 7

By midnight moons, o'er moistening dews;

In habit for the chase arrayed,

35 The hunter still the deer pursues,

The hunter and the deer, a shade! 0 soul

And long shall timorous fancy see

The painted chief, and pointed spear,

And Reason's self shall bow the knee

40 To shadows and delusions here.

1787 1788

To Sir Toby⁴

A Sugar Planter in the Interior Parts of Jamaica, Near the City of

San Jago De La Vega (Spanish Town), 1784

“The motions of his spirit are black as night,

And his affections dark as Erebus.”

S H A K E S P E A R E 5

If there exists a hell—the case is clear—

Sir Toby's slaves enjoy that portion here:

Here are no blazing brimstone lakes—'tis true;

But kindled rum too often burns as blue;

5 In which some fiend, whom nature must detest,

Steeps Toby's brand, and marks poor Cudjoe's breast.⁶

Here whips on whips excite perpetual fears,

And mingled howlings vibrate on my ears:

Here nature's plagues abound, to fret and tease,

10 Snakes, scorpions, despots, lizards, centipedes—

No art, no care escapes the busy lash;

All have their dues—and all are paid in cash—
The eternal driver keeps a steady eye
On a black herd, who would his vengeance fly,
15 But chained, imprisoned, on a burning soil,
For the mean avarice of a tyrant toil!⁷
The lengthy cart-whip guards this monster's reign—
And cracks, like pistols, from the fields of cane.
Ye powers! who formed these wretched tribes, relate,
20 What had they done, to merit such a fate!
Why were they brought from Eboe's⁸ sultry waste,
To see that plenty which they must not taste—

4. First published in the Daily Advertiser, February slave. “This passage has a reference to the West
1, 1791, titled “The Island Field Negro.” We print Indian custom (sanctioned by law) of branding a the 1809 text.

newly imported slave on the breast, with a red hot 5. The Merchant of Venice 5.1. Freneau has sub-iron, as evidence of the purchaser's property” [Fre-stituted “black” for dull Erehus: darkness; in Greek neau's note].

mythology, part of the underworld through which

7. Lines 13-16 were added in 1809.

the dead passed before entering Hades.

8. “A small Negro kingdom near the river Senegal”

6. Cudge or Cudjoe was a common name for a [Freneau's note].

718 / PHILIP FRENEAU

Food, which they cannot buy, and dare not steal;
Yams and potatoes—many a scanty meal!—
25 One, with a gibbet⁰ wakes his negro's fears, gallows
One to the windmill nails him by the ears;
One keeps his slave in darkened dens, unfed,
One puts the wretch in pickle⁹ ere he's dead:
This, from a tree suspends him by the thumbs,
30 That, from his table grudges even the crumbs!
O'er yond' rough hills a tribe of females go,
Each with her gourd,⁰ her infant, and her hoe; water cwp
Scorched by a sun that has no mercy here,
Driven by a devil, whom men call overseer—
35 In chains, twelve wretches to their labors haste;
Twice twelve I saw, with iron collars graced!—
Are such the fruits that spring from vast domains?
Is wealth, thus got, Sir Toby, worth your pains!—
Who would your wealth on terms, like these, possess,
40 Where all we see is pregnant with distress—
Angola's¹ natives scourged by ruffian hands,
And toil's hard product shipped to foreign lands.
Talk not of blossoms, and your endless spring;
What joy, what smile, can scenes of misery bring?— 45 Though Nature, here, has every blessing spread,
Poor is the laborer—and how meanly fed!—
Here Stygian² paintings light and shade renew,
Pictures of hell, that Virgil's³ pencil drew:
Here, surly Charons make their annual trip,
50 And ghosts arrive in every Guinea ship,⁴

To find what beasts these western isles afford,
Plutonian⁵ scourges, and despotic lords:—
Here, they, of stuff determined to be free,
Must climb the rude cliffs of the Liguane;⁶
55 Beyond the clouds, in sculking haste repair,
And hardly safe from brother traitors⁷ there.—

1784 1791, 1809

9. I.e., rubs salt or salt and vinegar on the slave's Telemaque (1699), a didactic romance concerning back after a flogging.

the son of the hero Ulysses as he searches for his

1. West African Portuguese colony's.

father.

2. Hellish; alluding to the river Styx, which, in

4. Slave ships from West Africa.

Greek mythology, souls must cross to enter Hades.

5. Hellish; Pluto was the Roman name for the god

They were ferried across to the underworld by
of the underworld.

Charon.

6. "The mountains northward of the kingdom"

3. "See Aeneid, Book 6th.—and Fenelon's Tele- [Freneau's note],

machus, Book 18" [Freneau's note]. The Trojan

7. "Alluding to the Independent negroes in the hero Aeneas descends to the underworld in the blue mountains, who, for a stipulated reward, sixth book of the epic by the Latin poet Virgil (70—

deliver up every fugitive that falls into their hands, 19 B.C.E.). The French theologian Francois de Salto the English Government” [Freneau’s note].

ignac de la Mothe-Fenelon (1651-1715) wrote

7 1 9

P H I L L I S W H E A T L E Y

ca. 1753-1784

A Farewell to America. To Mrs. S. W.1

i

Adieu, New-England’s smiling meads,⁰ meadows

Adieu, the flow’ry plain:

I leave thine op’ning charms, O spring,

And tempt the roaring main.⁰ sea

II

5 In vain for me the flow’rets rise,

And boast their gaudy pride,

While here beneath the northern skies

I mourn for health denied.²

in

Celestial maid of rosy hue,³

10 O let me feel thy reign!⁰ influence, dominion

I languish till thy face I view,

Thy vanished joys regain.

IV

Susannah mourns, nor can I bear

To see the crystal show’r, i5 Or mark the tender falling tear

At sad departure’s hour;

v

Not unregarding can I see
Her soul with grief opprest;
But let no sighs, no groans for me,
20 Steal from her pensive breast.

VI

In vain the feathered warblers sing,
In vain the garden blooms,
And on the bosom of the spring
Breathes out her sweet perfumes,

VII

25 While for Britannia's distant shore
We sweep the liquid plain,
And with astonished eyes explore
The wide-extended main.

1. Susanna Wheatley (1 7 0 9 - 1 7 7 4) , Wheatley's
2. Wheatley was frail and sickly for m u c h of her owner and mistress, who had afforded her an excellent education and had encouraged her writing.
health.

Wheatley departed Boston for London in May

3. I.e., N e w England (or America?).

1773.

7 2 0 / P H I L L I S W H E A T L E Y

VIII

Lo! Health appears! celestial dame!
30 Complacent and serene,

With Hebe's mantle o'er her frame,
With soul-delighting mien. appearance, expression

IX

To mark the vale where London lies valley
With misty vapors crowned,
35 Which cloud Aurora's thousand dyes,
And veil her charms around,

x

Why, Phoebus, moves thy car so slow?
So slow thy rising ray?
Give us the famous town to view,
40 Thou glorious king of day!

XI

For thee, Britannia, I resign
New England's smiling fields;
To view again her charms divine,
What joy the prospect yields!

XII

45 But thou! Temptation hence away,
With all thy fatal train
Nor once seduce my soul away,
By thine enchanting strain.

XIII

Thrice happy they, whose heav'nly shield
50 Secures their souls from harms,
And fell Temptation on the field destructive
Of all its pow'r disarms!

Boston, May 7, 1773

On Being Brought from Africa to America⁷

'Twas mercy brought me from my pagan land,

Taught my benighted⁸ soul to understand

That there's a God, that there's a Savior too:

4. Hebe, the Greek goddess of youth, performed who daily drove his chariot ("car"), the sun, across small services for the gods, including cupbearing the sky.

(until replaced by Ganymede); she was considered

7. Wheatley was brought from West Africa to Boston in July 1761, as a child of eight. the personification of youthful beauty. "Health" in this stanza may refer to Hygieia, the Greek goddess

8. Overtaken by darkness; also, figuratively, in- of health.

involved in intellectual or moral darkness, involved

5. The Greek and Roman goddess of the dawn. in obscurity.

6. Apollo, the Greek and Roman god of the sun,

To S. M., A YOUNG AFRICAN PAINTER, ON NSEEING HIS WORKS / 7 2 1

Once I redemption neither sought nor knew.

5 Some view our sable⁰ race with scornful eye, black

"Their color is a diabolic dye."

Remember, Christians, Negros, black as Cain,⁹

May be refined, and join th' angelic train.

1773

To S. M.,¹ a Young African Painter, on Seeing His Works

To show the lab'ring bosom's deep intent,
And thought in living characters to paint,
When first thy pencil did those beauties give,
And breathing figures learnt from thee to live, s How did those prospects give my soul delight,
A new creation rushing on my sight?
Still,0 wond'rous youth! each noble path pursue, always
On deathless glories fix thine ardent view:
Still may the painter's and the poet's fire
10 To aid thy pencil, and thy verse conspire!
And may the charms of each seraphic2 theme
Conduct thy footsteps to immortal fame!
High to the blissful wonders of the skies
Elate thy soul, and raise thy wishful eyes, is Thrice happy, when exalted to survey
That splendid city, crowned with endless day,
Whose twice six gates on radiant hinges ring:
Celestial Salem3 blooms in endless spring.
Calm and serene thy moments glide along,
20 And may the muse4 inspire each future song!
Still, with the sweets of contemplation blessed,
May peace with balmy wings your soul invest!
But when these shades5 of time are chased away,
And darkness ends in everlasting day,
25 On what seraphic pinions6 shall we move,
And view the landscapes in the realms above?
There shall thy tongue in heav'nly murmurs flow,
And there my muse with heav'nly transport glow:

No more to tell of Damon's⁷ tender sighs,
Or rising radiance of Aurora's⁸ eyes,

9. The son of Adam and Eve, Cain killed his

5. Souls of the dead in the classical underworld.

brother, Abel, and God punished him with this

6. Wings; from the Latin, pennae, feathers, and curse: "When thou tillest the ground, it shall not therefore with a pun on the associated meaning,

henceforth yield unto thee its strength; a fugitive pens (originally made from quills).

and a vagabond shalt thou be in the earth" (Gen-

7. According to one version of the Greek legend, esis 4.12).

Damon was a friend of Pythias, who had been con-

1. Scipio Moorhead, the slave of a Boston clergy-demned to death by the tyrant Dionysius. Damon man, John Moorhead.

stood pledge for Pythias as the latter left to settle

2. Resembling a seraph (a member of one of the his affairs. W h e n Pythias returned, Dionysius was nine orders of angels) either in beauty or in fervor so impressed by the actions of both men that he of exalted devotion.

pardoned Pythias.

3. The heavenly Jerusalem.

8. The Greek and Roman goddess of the dawn's.

4. Imagined source of poetic power.

7 2 2 / P H I L L I S W H E A T L E Y

For nobler themes demand a nobler strain,
And purer language on th' ethereal plain.
Cease, gentle muse! the solemn gloom of night
Now seals the fair creation from my sight.

1773

On Imagination

Thy various works, imperial queen, we see,
How bright their forms! how deck'd with pomp by thee!
Thy wond'rous acts in beauteous order stand,
And all attest how potent is thine hand.

5 From Helicon's⁹ refulgent⁰ heights attend, bright, shining

Ye sacred choir, and my attempts befriend:

To tell her glories with a faithful tongue,

Ye blooming Graces,¹ triumph in my song.

Now here, now there, the roving Fancy flies,

io Till some loved object strikes her wand'ring eyes,

Whose silken fetters⁰ all the senses bind, shackles

And soft captivity involves the mind.

Imagination! who can sing thy force?

Or who describe the swiftness of thy course?

i5 Soaring through air to find the bright abode,

Th' empyreal⁰ place of the thund'ring God, heavenly

We on thy pinions² can surpass the wind,

And leave the rolling universe behind:

From star to star the mental optics rove,

20 Measure the skies, and range the realms above.

There in one view we grasp the mighty whole,

Or with new worlds amaze th' unbounded soul.

Though Winter frowns to Fancy's raptur'd eyes
The fields may flourish, and gay scenes arise;
25 The frozen deeps may break their iron bands,
And bid their waters murmur o'er the sands.
Fair Flora³ may resume her fragrant reign,
And with her flow'ry riches deck the plain;
Sylvanus⁴ may diffuse his honors round,
BO And all the forest may with leaves be crown'd:
Show'rs may descend, and dews their gems disclose,
And nectar sparkle on the blooming rose.

9. A mountain in Greece that was sacred to the
2. Wings; from the Latin, pennae, feathers, and Muses (nine sister goddesses who presided over therefore with a pun on the associated meaning, poetry, song, and the arts and sciences) and thus pens (originally made from quills).

figures poetic inspiration.

3. Roman goddess of flowers.

1. In Greek mythology, three sister goddesses who

4. Roman god of the woods.

gave charm and beauty. Her: i.e., imagination's.

THE PARISH REGISTER / 723

Such is thy pow'r, nor are thine orders vain,
O thou the leader of the mental train:
35 In full perfection all thy works are wrought,
And thine the sceptre o'er the realms of thought.
Before thy throne the subject-passions bow,
Of subject-passions sov'reign ruler Thou,

At thy command joy rushes on the heart,
40 And through the glowing veins the spirits dart.
Fancy might now her silken pinions try
To rise from earth, and sweep th' expanse on high;
From Tithon's bed now might Aurora⁵ rise,
Her cheeks all glowing with celestial dyes,^{0 colors}
45 While a pure stream of light o'erflows the skies.
The monarch of the day⁰ I might behold, sun
And all the mountains tipt with radiant gold,
But I reluctant leave the pleasing views,
Which Fancy dresses to delight the Muse;
50 Winter austere forbids me to aspire,
And northern tempests damp the rising fire;⁶
They chill the tides of Fancy's flowing sea,
Cease then, my song, cease the unequal lay.⁷

1784

G E O R G E C R A B B E

1754-1832

*From The Parish Register*¹

Part I

BAPTISMS

*Turn porro puer (ut saevis projectus ob undis, Navita) nudus humi jacet infans indigus omni
Vitali auxilio, ...*

*Vagituque locum lugubri complet, ut sequum est,
Cui tantum in vita restat transire malorum.²*

5. Greek and Roman goddess of the dawn, represented to compete with Milton's epic. She has, however, sented as rising with rosy fingers from the bed of echoed Milton's acknowledgment of his inability to her aged lover, Tithonus.

write without the help of a power greater than

6. Wheatley here alludes to and revises Milton's (unequal to) his own.

famous lines to his Muse (his source of inspiration)

1. Crabbe's poem is modeled on the parish registers in which baptisms, marriages, and deaths were in a time and place too inhospitable to poetry, to recorded. The following section, although titled accomplish his poetic aims; without the Muse's "Baptisms," serves as an introduction to the whole help, "an age too late" or a climate too northern or poem.

"cold" may "damp" (depress) his "intended wing"

2. From Lucretius, De Rerum Natura (Latin, On Paradise Lost 9.44-45; see p. 426).

the Nature of Things) 5.222-24, 225-27: “Then

7. A “lay” is a short narrative or lyric poem, but the child, like a sailor thrown forth by the cruel the term harks back, specifically, to the late medieval lais—tales of magic and romance—written in ing all kinds of vital support ... and he fills the England and Northern France. Wheatley’s adjective “unequal” is ambiguous, referring perhaps given that so much trouble awaits in life.”

(with ironic modesty?) to her short poem’s inability

4 / G E O R G E C R A B B E

The year revolves, and I again explore
The simple Annals of my Parish poor;
What Infant-members in my flock appear,
What Pairs I blessed in the departed year;
5 And who, of Old or Young, or Nymphs or Swains,³
Are lost to Life, its pleasures and its pains.
No Muse I ask, before my view to bring
The humble actions of the swains I sing.—
How passed the youthful, how the old their days;
10 Who sank in sloth, and who aspired to praise;
Their tempers, manners, morals, customs, arts,
What parts they had, and how they employed their parts;
By what elated, soothed, seduced, depressed,

Full well I know—these Records give the rest.

15 Is there a place, save one the poet sees,

A land of love, of liberty and ease;

Where labor wearies not, nor cares suppress

Th' eternal flow of rustic happiness;

Where no proud mansion frowns in awful state,

20 Or keeps the sunshine from the cottage-gate;

Where young and old, intent on pleasure, throng,

And half man's life is holiday and song?

Vain search for scenes like these! no view appears;

By sighs unruffled or unstained by tears;

25 Since vice the world subdued and waters drowned,

Auburn⁴ and Eden can no more be found.

Hence good and evil mixed, but man has skill

And power to part them, when he feels the will!

Toil, care, and patience bless th' abstemious⁰ few, not self-indulgent

30 Fear, shame, and want the thoughtless herd pursue.

Behold the Cot!^o where thrives th' industrious swain, cottage

Source of his pride, his pleasure, and his gain;

Screened from the winter's wind, the sun's last ray

Smiles on the window and prolongs the day;

35 Projecting thatch the woodbine's branches stop,

And turn their blossoms to the casement's top:

All need requires is in that cot contained,

And much that taste untaught and unrestrained

Surveys delighted; there she loves to trace,

40 In one gay picture, all the royal race;

Around the walls are heroes, lovers, kings;
The print that shows them and the verse that sings.
Here the last Lewis on his throne is seen,
And there he stands imprisoned, and his Queen;⁵
45 To these the mother takes her child, and shows
What grateful duty to his God he owes;
Who gives to him a happy home, where he Lives and enjoys his freedom with the free;
Poetic diction for “or beautiful young w o m e n ing section of Crabbe’s p o e m argues explicitly young m e n . ”

against Goldsmith’s views of village life.

T h e Active village invoked by Oliver Goldsmith
5. Louis XVI and Marie Antoinette of France, who
“The Deserted Village” (see p. 686). The open-were guillotined in 1793.

T H E P A R I S H R E G I S T E R / 7 2 5

When kings and queens, dethroned, insulted, tried,
50 Are all these blessings of the poor denied.
There is King Charles, and all his Golden Rules,⁶
Who proved Misfortune’s was the best of schools:
And there his Son,⁷ who, tried by years of pain,
Proved that misfortunes may be sent in vain.
55 The Magic-mill that grinds the gran’nam’s young,⁸
Close at the side of kind Godiva hung;⁹
She, of her favorite place the pride and joy,
Of charms at once most lavish and most coy,
By wanton act the purest fame could raise,

60 And give the boldest deed the chastest praise.
There stands the stoutest Ox in England fed;¹
There fights the boldest Jew, Whitechapel bred;²
And here Saint Monday's worthy votaries live,
In all the joys that ale and skittles³ give.
65 Now lo! on Egypt's coast that hostile fleet,
By nations dreaded and by N E L S O N beat;⁴
And here shall soon another triumph come,
A deed of glory in a day of gloom;
Distressing glory! grievous boon of fate!
70 The proudest conquest, at the dearest rate.^s
On shelf of deal⁰ beside the cuckoo-clock, pine or fir wood.
Of cottage-reading rests the chosen stock;
Learning we lack, not books, but have a kind
For all our wants, a meat for every mind:
75 The tale for wonder and the joke for whim,
The half-sung sermon and the half-groaned hymn.
No need of classing; each within its place,
The feeling finger in the dark can trace;
"First from the corner, farthest from the wall," 80 Such all the rules, and they suffice for all.
There pious works for Sunday's use are found;
Companions for that Bible newly bound;
That Bible, bought by sixpence weekly saved,
Has choicest prints by famous hands engraved;
85 Has choicest notes by many a famous head,
Such as to doubt, have rustic readers led;
Have made them stop to reason why? and how?

And, where they once agreed, to cavil now.
Oh! rather give me commentators plain,
90 Who with no deep researches vex the brain;
Who from the dark and doubtful love to run,
And hold their glimmering tapers to the sun;
6. British King Charles I was thought to have on the citizens.

a u t h o r e d twelve popular maxims shortly before he

1. A Lancashire ox famous for its size.
was executed, in 1649.
2. The boxer Daniel Mendoza.
7. Charles II (reigned 1660 - 85) .
3. An English bowling game. "Saint Monday's ...
8. A popular contemporary print depicting the votaries" are working people devoted to taking Guildford Mill, comically imagined to grind old Monday (as well as Sunday) as "holy days."
w o m e n into young ones.
4. At the Battle of the Nile (1798).
9. An eleventh-century noblewoman reputed to
5. I.e., the Battle of Trafalgar (1805), in which have ridden naked through the streets of Coventry Admiral Horatio Nelson died.

to dissuade her h u s b a n d from imposing heavy taxes

7 2 6 / G E O R G E C R A B B E

Who simple truth with nine-fold reasons back,
And guard the point no enemies attack.
95 Bunyan's famed Pilgrim rests that shelf upon,

A genius rare but rude was honest John;6
Not one who, early by the Muse beguiled,
Drank from her well the waters undefiled;7
Not one who slowly gained the hill sublime,8
100 Then often sipped and little at a time;
But one who dabbled in the sacred springs,
And drank them muddy, mixed with baser things.
Here to interpret dreams we read the rules,
Science our own! and never taught in schools;
105 In moles and specks we Fortune's gifts discern,
And Fate's fixed will from Nature's wanderings learn.
Of Hermit Quarll we read, in island rare,9
Far from mankind and seeming far from care;
Safe from all want, and sound in every limb;
110 Yes! there was he, and there was care with him.
Unbound and heaped, these valued tomes beside,
Lay humbler works, the pedlar's pack supplied;
Yet these, long since, have all acquired a name;
The Wandering Jew¹ has found his way to fame;
115 And fame, denied to many a labored song,
Crowns Thumb the Great, and Hickathrift the strong.
There too is he, by wizard-power upheld,
Jack,² by whose arm the giant-brood were quelled:
His shoes of swiftness on his feet he placed;
120 His coat of darkness on his loins he braced;
His sword of sharpness in his hand he took,
And off the heads of doughty⁰ giants stroke: mighty
Their glaring eyes beheld no mortal near;

No sound of feet alarmed the drowsy ear;
 125 No English blood their pagan sense could smell,
 But heads dropt headlong, wondering why they fell.
 These are the peasant's joy, when placed at ease,
 Half his delighted offspring mount his knees.
 To every cot^o the lord's indulgent mind cottage
BO Has a small space for garden-ground assigned;
 Here—till return of morn dismissed the farm—
 The careful peasant plies the sinewy arm,
 Warmed as he works, and casts his look around
 On every foot of that improving ground:

6. John Bunyan (1628—1688), English preacher or Unparalleled Sufferings and Surprising Advenand author of Pilgrim's Progress (1678).

tures of Philip Quarll tells the story of a Robinson

7. A phrase applied by Spenser (Faerie Queene Crusoe—like hero. First published in 1727, it was 5.2.32) to Chaucer, and by Samuel Johnson (in the often adapted for children.

preface to his Dictionary) to Spenser and others.

1. A proverbial figure condemned to a life of eter-

8. Perhaps Milton, who contrasted his “slownal wandering as punishment for his cruelty to endeavoring art” to Shakespeare’s “easy numbers” Christ.

(“On Shakespeare”) and who stressed the idea of

2. Jack the Giant Killer; like Tom T h u m b and Tom temperance throughout Paradise Lost.

Hickathrift, a folk hero.

9. Attributed to Edward Dorrington, The Hermit,

THE PARISH REGISTER / 727

135 It is his own he sees; his master's eye

Peers not about, some secret fault to spy;

Nor voice severe is there, nor censure known;—

Hope, profit, pleasure,—they are all his own.

Here grow the humble cives,^o and, hard by them,

chives

140 The leek with crown globose^o and reedy stem;

globular

High climb his pulse^o in many an even row,

peas, beans

Deep strike the ponderous roots in soil below;

And herbs of potent smell and pungent taste,

Give a warm relish to the night's repast.

145 Apples and cherries grafted by his hand,

And clustered nuts for neighboring market stand.

Nor thus concludes his labor; near the cot,

The reed-fence rises round some favorite spot;

Where rich carnations, pinks with purple eyes,

150 Proud hyacinths, the least some florist's prize,

Tulips tall-stemmed and pounced auriculas^o rise.

primroses

Here on a Sunday-eve, when service ends,

Meet and rejoice a family of friends;

All speak aloud, are happy and are free,

155 And glad they seem, and gaily they agree.

What, though fastidious ears may shun the speech,
Where all are talkers, and where none can teach;
Where still the welcome and the words are old,
And the same stories are for ever told;
160 Yet theirs is joy that, bursting from the heart,
Prompts the glad tongue these nothings to impart;
That forms these tones of gladness we despise,
That lifts their steps, that sparkles in their eyes;
That talks or laughs or runs or shouts or plays,
165 And speaks in all their looks and all their ways.
Fair scenes of peace! ye might detain us long,
But vice and misery now demand the song;
And turn our view from dwellings simply neat,
To this infected row, we term our Street.
170 Here, in cabal,⁰ a disputatious crew illegal assembly
Each evening meet; the sot, the cheat, the shrew:
Riots are nightly heard:—the curse, the cries
Of beaten wife, perverse in her replies;
While shrieking children hold each threatening hand,
175 And sometimes life, and sometimes food demand:
Boys, in their first-stolen rags, to swear begin,
And girls, who heed not dress, are skilled in gin:
Snarers⁰ and smugglers here their gains divide; poachers
Ensnaring females here their victims hide;
180 And here is one, the Sibyl³ of the Row,
Who knows all secrets, or affects to know.
Seeking their fate, to her the simple run,
To her the guilty, theirs awhile to shun;

3. Name given by the Greeks and Romans to certain women who prophesied and claimed divine inspiration.

728 / GEORGE CRABBE

Mistress of worthless arts, depraved in will,
185 Her care unblest and unrepaid her skill,
Slave to the tribe, to whose command she stoops,
And poorer than the poorest maid she dupes.
Between the road-way and the walls, offence
Invades all eyes and strikes on every sense:
190 There lie, obscene, at every open door,
Heaps from the hearth and sweepings from the floor,
And day by day the mingled masses grow,
As sinks are disembogued⁰ and kennels flow. drained
There hungry dogs from hungry children steal;
195 There pigs and chickens quarrel for a meal;
There dropsied infants wail without redress,
And all is want and wo and wretchedness:
Yet should these boys, with bodies bronzed and bare,
High-swollen and hard, outlive that lack of care—
200 Forced on some farm, the unexerted strength,
Though loth to action, is compelled at length,
When warmed by health, as serpents in the spring,
Aside their slough of indolence they fling.
Yet, ere they go, a greater evil comes—205 See! crowded beds in those contiguous rooms;
Beds but ill parted, by a paltry screen
Of papered lath or curtain dropt between;
Daughters and sons to yon compartments creep,

And parents here beside their children sleep:
210 Ye who have power, these thoughtless people part,
Nor let the ear be first to taint the heart.
Come! search within, nor sight nor smell regard;
The true physician walks the foulest ward.
See! on the floor, what frousy⁰ patches rest! dirty, messy
215 What nauseous fragments on yon fractured chest!
What downy dust beneath yon window-seat!
And round these posts that serve this bed for feet;
This bed where all those tattered garments lie,
Worn by each sex, and now perforce thrown by!
220 See! as we gaze, an infant lifts its head,
Left by neglect and burrowed in that bed;
The Mother-gossip has the love suppressed
An infant's cry once wakened in her breast;
And daily prattles, as her round she takes,
225 (With strong resentment) of the want she makes.
Whence all these woes?—From want of virtuous will,
Of honest shame, of time-improving skill;
From want of care t' employ the vacant hour,
And want of ev'ry kind but want of power.
230 Here are no wheels for either wool or flax,
But packs of cards—made up of sundry packs;
Here is no clock, nor will they turn the glass,
And see how swift th' important moments pass;
Here are no books, but ballads on the wall,
THE PARISH REGISTER / 729
235 Are some abusive, and indecent all;

Pistols are here, unpaired; with nets and hooks,
Of every kind, for rivers, ponds, and brooks;
An ample flask, that nightly rovers fill
With recent poison from the Dutchman's still;⁴
240 A box of tools, with wires of various size,
Frocks, wigs, and hats, for night or day disguise,
And bludgeons stout to gain or guard a prize.
To every house belongs a space of ground,
Of equal size, once fenced with paling⁰ round; pointed stakes
245 That paling now by slothful waste destroyed,
Dead gorse and stumps of elder⁵ fill the void;
Save in the center-spot, whose walls of clay
Hide sots and striplings at their drink or play:
Within, a board,⁶ beneath a tiled retreat,
250 Allures the bubble⁰ and maintains the cheat; dupe
Where heavy ale in spots like varnish shows,
Where chalky tallies yet remain in rows;
Black pipes and broken jugs the seats defile,
The walls and windows, rhymes and reck'nings vile;
255 Prints of the meanest kind disgrace the door,
And cards, in curses torn, lie fragments on the floor.
Here his poor bird th' inhuman Cocker⁷ brings,
Arms his hard heel and clips his golden wings;
With spicy food th' impatient spirit feeds,
260 And shouts and curses as the battle bleeds.
Struck through the brain, deprived of both his eyes,
The vanquished bird must combat till he dies;

Must faintly peck at his victorious foe,
And reel and stagger at each feeble blow:
265 When fallen, the savage grasps his dabbled plumes,
His blood-stained arms, for other deaths assumes;
And damns the craven-fowl, that lost his stake,
And only bled and perished for his sake.
Such are our Peasants, those to whom we yield 270 Praise with relief,⁰ the fathers of the field; welfare
And these who take from our reluctant hands,
What Burn⁸ advises or the Bench⁰ commands. judiciary
Our Farmers round, well pleased with constant gain,
Like other farmers, flourish and complain.—
275 These are our groups; our Portraits next appear,
And close our Exhibition for the year.

1807

I.e., with illegally imported alcohol.

8. Richard Burn (1709-1795), English legal Elderberry; like gorse, a shrub.

scholar who wrote Justice of the Peace and Eccle-

Probably a gambling table.

siastical Law.

The owner of fighting cocks.

730 / G E O R G E C R A B B E

From The Borough

From Letter XXII, The Poor of The Borough: Peter Grimes

165 Alas! for Peter, not a helping hand,

So was he hated, could he now command.⁹

Alone he rowed his boat, alone he cast

His nets beside, or made his anchor fast;
To hold a rope or hear a curse was none—
170 He toiled and railed, he groaned and swore alone.
Thus by himself compelled to live each day,
To wait for certain hours the tide's delay;
At the same times the same dull views to see,
The bounding marsh-bank and the blighted tree;
175 The water only, when the tides were high,
When low, the mud half-covered and half-dry;
The sun-burnt tar that blisters on the planks,
And bank-side stakes in their uneven ranks;
Heaps of entangled weeds that slowly float,
iso As the tide rolls by the impeded boat.
When tides were neap^o and, in the sultry day, low
Through the tall bounding mud-banks made their way,
Which on each side rose swelling, and below
The dark warm flood ran silently and slow;
185 There anchoring, Peter chose from man to hide,
There hang his head, and view the lazy tide r
In its hot slimy channel slowly glide; J
Where the small eels that left the deeper way
For the warm shore within the shallows play;
190 Where gaping mussels, left upon the mud,
Slope their slow passage to the fallen flood.
Here dull and hopeless he'd lie down and trace
How sidelong crabs had scrawled their crooked race,
Or sadly listen to the tuneless cry

195 Of fishing gull or clanging golden-eye;° species of wild duck

What time the sea-birds to the marsh would come, 1
And the loud bittern,1 from the bulrush0 home, > cattail
Gave from the salt-ditch side the bellowing boom. J
He nursed the feelings these dull scenes produce, 200 And loved to stop beside the opening sluice;
Where the small stream, confined in narrow bound,
Ran with a dull, unvaried, saddening sound;
Where all, presented to the eye or ear,
Oppressed the soul with misery, grief, and fear.
205 Besides these objects, there were places three,
Which Peter seemed with certain dread to see;
When he drew near them he would turn from each,
9. Grimes has fatally exploited three boys provided forbidden to employ any more, by the workhouses as child laborers and has been 1. M a r s h bird with a booming call.

T H E B O R O U G H / 7 3 1

And loudly whistle till he passed the reach.2
A change of scene to him brought no relief;
210 In town, 'twas plain, men took him for a thief.
The sailors' wives would stop him in the street,
And say, "Now, Peter, thou'st no boy to beat!"
Infants at play, when they perceived him, ran,
Warning each other—"That's the wicked man!"
215 He growled an oath, and in an angry tone
Cursed the whole place and wished to be alone.
Alone he was, the same dull scenes in view,
And still more gloomy in his sight they grew;

Though man he hated, yet employed alone
220 At bootless labor, he would swear and groan,
Cursing the shoals⁰ that glided by the spot, schools offish
And gulls that caught them when his arts could not.
Cold nervous tremblings shook his sturdy frame,
And strange disease—he couldn't say the name;
225 Wild were his dreams, and oft he rose in fright,
Waked by his view of horrors in the night—
Horrors that would the sternest minds amaze,
Horrors that demons might be proud to raise;
And though he felt forsaken, grieved at heart
230 To think he lived from all mankind apart, r
Yet, if a man approached, in terrors he would start. J
A winter passed since Peter saw the town,
And summer lodgers were again come down.
These, idly curious, with their glasses⁰ spied telescopes
235 The ships in bay as anchored for the tide—
The river's craft—the bustle of the quay—
And sea-port views, which landmen love to see.
One, up the river, had a man and boat
Seen day by day, now anchored, now afloat;
240 Fisher he seemed, yet used no net nor hook,
Of sea-fowl swimming by no heed he took, f
But on the gliding waves still fixed his lazy look. J
At certain stations he would view the stream,
As if he stood bewildered in a dream,
245 Or that⁰ some power had chained him for a time, as if
To feel a curse or meditate on crime.

This known, some curious, some in pity went,
And others questioned—"Wretch, dost thou repent?"
He heard, he trembled, and in fear resigned
250 His boat; new terror filled his restless mind;
Furious he grew, and up on the country ran,
And there they seized him—a distempered man.
Him we received, and to a parish-bed,³
Followed and cursed, the groaning man was led.

*

1810

2. A "reach" is the distance between two points on to the three dead boys, a river or along its banks. The places correspond 3.
A bed in the charity hospital.

7 3 2

W I L L I A M B L A K E

1757-1827

FROM POETICAL SKETCHES

To the Muses¹

Whether on Ida's² shady brow,
Or in the chambers of the East,
The chambers of the sun, that now
From ancient melody have ceas'd;
5 Whether in Heav'n ye wander fair,
Or the green corners of the earth,
Or the blue regions of the air,
Where the melodious winds have birth;
Whether on chrystal rocks ye rove,
io Beneath the bosom of the sea
Wand'ring in many a coral grove,

Fair Nine, forsaking Poetry!
How have you left the ancient love
That bards of old enjoy'd in you!
15 The languid strings do scarcely move!
The sound is forc'd, the notes are few!

1783

Song

How sweet I roam'd from field to field,
And tasted all the summer's pride,
'Till I the prince of love beheld,
Who in the sunny beams did glide!
5 He shew'd me lilies for my hair,
And blushing roses for my brow;
He led me through his gardens fair,
Where all his golden pleasures grow.
With sweet May dews my wings were wet,
io And Phoebus fir'd my vocal rage;³
He caught me in his silken net,
And shut me in his golden cage.

1. In Greek mythology, nine sister goddesses who and Parnassus, mountains in Greece sacred to the presided over the arts and sciences, especially Muses.

poetry.

3. Impassioned song. P h o e b u s is Apollo, Greek

2. M o u n t a i n in Asia Minor, distant f r o m Helicon and R o m a n god of poetic inspiration.

SONGS OF INNOCENCE: INTRODUCTION / 733

He loves to sit and hear me sing,
Then, laughing, sports and plays with me;
15 Then stretches out my golden wing,
And mocks my loss of liberty.

1783

To the Evening Star⁴
Thou fair-hair'd angel of the evening,
Now, while the sun rests on the mountains, light
Thy bright torch of love; thy radiant crown
Put on, and smile upon our evening bed!
5 Smile on our loves; and, while thou drawest the Blue curtains of the sky, scatter thy silver dew
On every flower that shuts its sweet eyes
In timely sleep. Let thy west wind sleep on
The lake; speak silence with thy glimmering eyes,
10 And wash the dusk with silver. Soon, full soon,
Dost thou withdraw; then the wolf rages wide,
And the lion glares thro' the dun forest:
The fleeces of our flocks are cover'd with Thy sacred dew: protect them with thine influence.⁵

1783

FROM SONGS OF INNOCENCE

Introduction

Piping down the valleys wild

Piping songs of pleasant glee

On a cloud I saw a child,

And he laughing said to me,

5 “Pipe a song about a Lamb”;

So I piped with merry cheer.

“Piper pipe that song again”—

So I piped, he wept to hear.

“Drop thy pipe thy happy pipe

10 Sing thy songs of happy cheer”;

So I sung the same again

While he wept with joy to hear.

4. Venus, R o m a n goddess of love and beauty.

5. In astrology, the effect that heavenly bodies exert on earthly things and creatures.

7 3 4 / W I L L I A M C O W P E R

“Piper sit thee down and write

In a book that all may read”—

15 So he vanish’d from my sight.

And I pluck’d a hollow reed,

And I made a rural pen,

And I stain’d the water clear,

And I wrote my happy songs

20 Every child may joy to hear.

1789

The Lamb

Little Lamb, who made thee?

Dost thou know who made thee?

Gave thee life & bid thee feed,

By the stream & o'er the mead;

5 Gave thee clothing of delight,

Softest clothing wooly bright;

Gave thee such a tender voice,

Making all the vales rejoice!

Little Lamb who made thee?

io Dost thou know who made thee?

Little Lamb I'll tell thee,

Little Lamb I'll tell thee!

He^o is called by thy name, Christ

For he calls himself a Lamb:

15 He is meek & he is mild,

He became a little child:

I a child & thou a lamb,

We are called by his name.

Little Lamb God bless thee.

20 Little Lamb God bless thee.

1789

Holy Thursday [I.]

'Twas on a Holy Thursday,⁶ their innocent faces clean,

The children⁷ walking two & two, in red & blue & green,

Gray headed beadles⁸ walkd before with wands as white as snow,

Till into the high dome of Paul's they like Thames⁹ waters flow.

6. Probably Ascension Day (the Thursday forty in St. Paul's Cathedral, London.

days after Easter). 8. Ushers charged with keeping order.

7. The children of charity schools, here depicted 9. The river Thames.

SONGS OF INNOCENCE: THE LITTLE BLACK BOY / 735

5 O what a multitude they seemd, these flowers of London town!

Seated in companies they sit with radiance all their own.

The hum of multitudes was there, but multitudes of lambs,
Thousands of little boys & girls raising their innocent hands.

Now like a mighty wind they raise to heaven the voice of song,

10 Or like harmonious thunderings the seats of heaven among.

Beneath them sit the aged men, wise guardians of the poor;

Then cherish pity, lest you drive an angel from your door.

1789

The Divine Image

To Mercy, Pity, Peace, and Love,

All pray in their distress:

And to these virtues of delight

Return their thankfulness.

5 For Mercy, Pity, Peace, and Love,

Is God, our father dear:

And Mercy, Pity, Peace, and Love,

Is Man, his child and care.

For Mercy has a human heart,

10 Pity, a human face:

And Love, the human form divine,

And Peace, the human dress.
Then every man of every clime,
That prays in his distress,
15 Prays to the human form divine,
Love, Mercy, Pity, Peace.
And all must love the human form,
In heathen, Turk, or Jew.
Where Mercy, Love, & Pity dwell,
20 There God is dwelling too.

1789

The Little Black Boy

My mother bore me in the southern wild,
And I am black, but O! my soul is white;
White as an angel is the English child:
But I am black as if bereav'd of light.
7 3 6 / W I L L I A M B L A K E
5 My mother taught me underneath a tree,
And sitting down before the heat of day,
She took me on her lap and kissed me,
And pointing to the east, began to say:
“Look on the rising sun: there God does live,
10 And gives his light, and gives his heat away;
And flowers and trees and beasts and men receive Comfort in morning, joy in the noon day.
“And we are put on earth a little space,
That we may learn to bear the beams of love,
15 And these black bodies and this sun-burnt face
Is but a cloud, and like a shady grove.

“For when our souls have learn’d the heat to bear,
The cloud will vanish; we shall hear his voice,
Saying: ‘Come out from the grove, my love & care,
20 And round my golden tent like lambs rejoice.’ ”
Thus did my mother say, and kissed me;
And thus I say to little English boy:
When I from black and he from white cloud free,
And round the tent of God like lambs we joy,
25 I’ll shade him from the heat till he can bear
To lean in joy upon our father’s knee;
And then I’ll stand and stroke his silver hair,
And be like him, and he will then love me.

1789

The Little Boy Lost

“Father, father, where are you going?

O do not walk so fast.

Speak, father, speak to your little boy

Or else I shall be lost.”

5 The night was dark, no father was there,

The child was wet with dew.

The mire was deep, & the child did weep,

And away the vapor flew.

1 7 8 9

T H E B O O K O F T H E L / 7 3 7

The Little Boy Found

The little boy lost in the lonely fen,

Led by the wand’ring light,¹

Began to cry, but God ever nigh

Appeard like his father in white.
5 He kissed the child & by the hand led
And to his mother brought,
Who in sorrow pale, thro' the lonely dale,
Her little boy weeping sought.

1789

T H E B O O K O F T H E L 2

Thel's Motto

Does the Eagle know what is in the pit?
Or wilt thou go ask the Mole?
Can Wisdom be put in a silver rod?
Or Love in a golden bowl?

l

5 The daughters of Mne Seraphim³ led round their sunny flocks,
All but the youngest; she in paleness sought the secret air,
To fade away like morning beauty from her mortal day;
Down by the river of Adona⁴ her soft voice is heard,
And thus her gentle lamentation falls like morning dew:
10 "O life of this our spring! why fades the lotus of the water?
Why fade these children of the spring? born but to smile & fall.
Ah! Thel is like a watry bow, and like a parting cloud,
Like a reflection in a glass, like shadows in the water,
Like dreams of infants, like a smile upon an infant's face, 15 Like the dove's voice, like transient day, like music in the air.
Ah! gentle may I lay me down, and gentle rest my head,
And gentle sleep the sleep of death and gentle hear the voice

Of him that walketh in the garden in the evening time.”

The Lilly of the valley, breathing in the humble grass,

20 Answer'd the lovely maid and said: “I am a watry weed,

And I am very small, and love to dwell in lowly vales;⁵

So weak, the gilded butterfly scarce perches on my head;

1. A will-o'-the-wisp, said to draw travelers astray

3. Angels who guard Jehovah's throne. Mne: possibly holding a false light before them; the phenomenon of nocturnal light is caused by the combustion of marsh gas.

4. Probably the river Adonis in Milton's Paradise of Lost 1.540-42, associated with rituals of fertility

2. “Thel,” like the other proper names in the

and of death and rebirth.

poem, is Blake's invention, and its meaning can

5. Valleys.

only be inferred.

738 / WILLIAM COWPER

Yet I am visited from heaven, and he that smiles on all

Walks in the valley and each morn over me spreads his hand,

25 Saying: ‘Rejoice, thou humble grass, thou new-born lilly flower,

Thou gentle maid of silent valleys and of modest brooks;

For thou shalt be clothed in light, and fed with morning manna,⁶

Till summer's heat melts thee beside the fountains and the springs

To flourish in eternal vales.’ Then why should Thei complain?

30 Why should the mistress of the vales of Har utter a sigh?"

She ceas'd & smild in tears, then sat down in her silver shrine.

Thei answerd: "O thou little virgin of the peaceful valley,

Giving to those that cannot crave, the voiceless, the o'tired;

Thy breath doth nourish the innocent lamb, he smells thy milky garments,

35 He crops thy flowers, while thou sittest smiling in his face,

Wiping his mild and meekin mouth⁷ from all contagious taints.

Thy wine doth purify the golden honey; thy perfume,

Which thou dost scatter on every little blade of grass that springs,

Revives the milked w, & tames the fire-breathing steed.

40 But Thei is like a faint cloud kindled at the rising sun:

I vanish from my pearly throne, and who shall find my place?"

"Queen of the vales," the Lilly answered, "ask the tender cloud, And it shall tell thee why it glitters in the morning sky,

And why it scatters its bright beauty thro' the humid air.

45 Descend, O little cloud, & hover before the eyes of Thei."

The Cloud descended, and the Lilly bowd her modest head,

And went to mind her numerous charge among the verdant grass.

2

"Oh little Cloud," the virgin said, "I charge thee tell to me,
Why thou complainest not when in one hour thou fade away:

50 Then we shall seek thee but not find; ah, Thei is like to Thee.

I pass away, yet I complain, and no one hears my voice."

The Cloud then shew'd his golden head & his bright form
emerg'd,

Hovering and glittering on the air before the face of Thei.

“O virgin, know'st thou not our steeds drink of the golden springs

55 Where Luvah⁸ doth renew his horses? Look'st thou on my youth,

And fearest thou, because I vanish and am seen no more,

Nothing remains? O maid, I tell thee, when I pass away,

It is to tenfold life, to love, to peace, and raptures holy:

Unseen descending, weigh my light wings upon balmy
flowers,

60 And court the fair eyed dew, to take me to her shining tent;

The weeping virgin trembling kneels before the risen sun,

6. Food (from heaven).

8. In Blake's mythology, a sun god of Love (Love,

7. Perhaps describing a lamb's delicately wrin-

Lover, Luvah).

kl i n g m o u t h .

T H E B O O K O F T H E L / 7 3 9

Till we arise link'd in a golden band, and never part,

But walk united, bearing food to all our tender flowers.”

“Dost thou, O little Cloud? I fear that I am not like thee;

65 For I walk through the vales of Har and smell the sweetest flowers,

But I feed not the little flowers; I hear the warbling birds,

But I feed not the warbling birds; they fly and seek their food;

But Thel delights in these no more, because I fade away,

And all shall say, ‘Without a use this shining woman liv'd,

70 Or did she only live to be at death the food of worms?’ ”

The Cloud reclind upon his airy throne and answer'd thus:
“Then if thou are the food of worms, O virgin of the skies, How great thy use, how great thy blessing! Every thing that lives

Lives not alone, nor for self; fear not, and I will call 75 The weak worm from its lowly bed, and thou shalt hear its voice.

Come forth, worm of the silent valley, to thy pensive queen.”
The helpless worm arose, and sat upon the Lilly's leaf,
And the bright Cloud saild on, to find his partner in the vale.

3

Then Thel astonish'd view'd the Worm upon its dewy bed.
so “Art thou a Worm? Image of weakness, art thou but a Worm?

I see thee like an infant wrapped in the Lilly's leaf;
Ah, weep not, little voice, thou can'st not speak, but thou can'st
weep.

Is this a Worm? I see thee lay helpless & naked, weeping,
And none to answer, none to cherish thee with mother's smiles.”

85 The Clod of Clay heard the Worm's voice, & raisd her pitying head;

She bow'd over the weeping infant, and her life exhal'd
In milky fondness; then on Thel she fix'd her humble eyes.

“O beauty of the vales of Har! we live not for ourselves;
Thou seest me the meanest thing, and so I am indeed.

90 My bosom of itself is cold, and of itself is dark;
But he that loves the lowly, pours his oil upon my head,
And kisses me, and binds his nuptial bands around my breast,

And says: T h o u mother of my children, I have loved thee,
And I have given thee a crown that none can take away.’

95 But how this is, sweet maid, I know not, and I cannot
know;

I ponder, and I cannot ponder; yet I live and love.”

The daughter of beauty wip’d her pitying tears with her white veil,

And said: “Alas! I knew not this, and therefore did I weep.

That God would love a Worm, I knew, and punish the evil foot

100 That, wilful, bruis’d its helpless form; but that he cherish’d it With milk and oil I never knew; and therefore did I
weep,

7 4 0 / W I L L I A M C O W P E R

And I complaind in the mild air, because I fade away,

And lay me down in thy cold bed, and leave my shining lot.”

“Queen of the vales,” the matron Clay answerd, “I heard thy sighs, 105 And all thy moans flew o’er my roof, but I have call’d them down.

Wilt thou, O Queen, enter my house? ‘Tis given thee to enter

And to return; fear nothing, enter thy virgin feet.”

4

The eternal gates’ terrific porter lifted the northern bar:9

Thei enter’d in & saw the secrets of the land unknown.

110 She saw the couches of the dead, & where the fibrous roots

Of every heart on earth infixes deep its restless twists:

A land of sorrows & of tears where never smile was seen.

She wanderd in the land of clouds thro’ valleys dark, listning

Dolors & lamentations; waiting oft beside a dewy grave,

115 She stood in silence, listning to the voices of the ground,

Till to her own grave plot she came, & there she sat down,
And heard this voice of sorrow breathed from the hollow pit:
“Why cannot the Ear be closed to its own destruction?
Or the glistning Eye to the poison of a smile?
120 Why are Eyelids stord with arrows ready drawn,
Where a thousand fighting men in ambush lie?
Or an Eye of gifts & graces, show’ring fruits & coined gold?
Why a Tongue impress’d with honey from every wind?
Why an Ear, a whirlpool fierce to draw creations in?
125 Why a Nostril wide inhaling terror, trembling, & affright?
Why a tender curb upon the youthful burning boy?
Why a little curtain of flesh on the bed of our desire?”
The Virgin started from her seat, & with a shriek
Fled back unhinderd till she came into the vales of Har.

T H E E N D

1789-91

FROM SONGS OF EXPERIENCE

Introduction

Hear the voice of the Bard!

Who Present, Past, & Future sees,

Whose ears have heard

9. Possibly the gate through which a soul or spirit enters the world of earthly life and death.

SONGS OF EXPERIENCE: HOLY THURSDAY [II.] / 741

The Holy Word

5 That walk'd among the ancient trees; 1

Calling the lapsed Soul

And weeping in the evening dew;

That might controll

The starry pole,

10 And fallen fallen light renew!

“O Earth O Earth return!

Arise from out the dewy grass;

Night is worn,

And the morn

15 Rises from the slumberous mass.

“Turn away no more:

Why wilt thou turn away?

The starry floor

The watry shore

20 Is giv'n thee till the break of day.”

1794

A Divine Image

Cruelty has a Human heart
And Jealousy a Human Face, Terror, the Human Form Divine,
And Secrecy, the Human Dress.
5 The Human Dress is forged Iron,
The Human Form, a fiery Forge,
The Human Face, a Furnace seal'd,
The Human Heart, its hungry Gorge.⁰ throat

1790-91 1921

Holy Thursday [II.]

Is this a holy thing to see,
In a rich and fruitful land,
Babes reduced to misery,
Fed with cold and usurous hand?
5 Is that trembling cry a song?
Can it be a song of joy?

1. "And Adam and Eve heard the voice of the Lord God walking in the garden in the cool of the day"

(Genesis 3.8).

7 4 2 / W I L L I A M B L A K E

And so many children poor?
It is a land of poverty!
And their sun does never shine,
10 And their fields are bleak & bare,
And their ways are fill'd with thorns;
It is eternal winter there.
For where-e'er the sun does shine,
And where-e'er the rain does fall,

15 Babe can never hunger there,
Nor poverty the mind appall.

1794

The Clod & the Pebble

“Love seeketh not Itself to please,
Nor for itself hath any care;
But for another gives its ease,
And builds a Heaven in Hell’s despair.”

5 So sang a little Clod of Clay,
Trodden with the cattle’s feet;
But a Pebble of the brook,
Warbled out these meters meet:⁰ appropriate

“Love seeketh only Self to please,
10 To bind another to its delight,
Joys in another’s loss of ease,
And builds a Hell in Heaven’s despite.”

1794

The Sick Rose

O Rose, thou art sick.

The invisible worm

That flies in the night

In the howling storm

5 Has found out thy bed

Of crimson joy,

And his dark secret love

Does thy life destroy.

1 7 9 4

SONGS OF EXPERIENCE: THE TYGER / 7 43

A Poison Tree

I was angry with my friend:
I told my wrath, my wrath did end.
I was angry with my foe:
I told it not, my wrath did grow.
5 And I waterd it in fears,
Night & morning with my tears;
And I sunned it with smiles,
And with soft deceitful wiles.
And it grew both day and night,
10 Till it bore an apple bright.
And my foe beheld it shine,
And he knew that it was mine,
And into my garden stole,
When the night had veild the pole;
i5 In the morning glad I see
My foe outstretchd beneath the tree.

1794

The Tyger

Tyger! Tyger! burning bright
In the forests of the night,
What immortal hand or eye
Could frame thy fearful symmetry?
5 In what distant deeps or skies
Burnt the fire of thine eyes?
On what wings dare he aspire?

What the hand dare seize the fire?
And what shoulder, & what art,
io Could twist the sinews of thy heart?
And when thy heart began to beat,
What dread hand? & what dread feet?
What the hammer? what the chain?
In what furnace was thy brain?
15 What the anvil? what dread grasp Dare its deadly terrors clasp?
When the stars threw down their spears,
And water'd heaven with their tears,
Did he smile his work to see?
20 Did he who made the Lamb make thee?

7 4 4 / W I L L I A M W o R D S w O r T H

Tyger! Tyger! burning bright
In the forests of the night,
What immortal hand or eye
Dare frame thy fearful symmetry?

1794

Ah Sun-flower
Ah Sun-flower! weary of time,
Who countest the steps of the Sun,
Seeking after that sweet golden clime
Where the traveller's journey is done;
5 Where the Youth pined away with desire,
And the pale Virgin shrouded in snow,
Arise from their graves and aspire,
Where my Sun-flower wishes to go.

1794

The Garden of Love

I went to the Garden of Love,
And saw what I never had seen:
A Chapel was built in the midst,
Where I used to play on the green.
5 And the gates of this Chapel were shut,
And “Thou shalt not” writ over the door;
So I turn’d to the Garden of Love,
That so many sweet flowers bore,
And I saw it was filled with graves,
io And tomb-stones where flowers should be:
And Priests in black gowns were walking their rounds,
And binding with briars my joys & desires.

1794

London

I wander thro’ each charter’d street,
Near where the charter’d Thames does flow,
And mark in every face I meet
Marks of weakness, marks of woe.

2. Mapped out, legally defined, constricted.

MOCKON, MOCKON, VOLTAIRE, ROUS SEAU / 7 4 5

5 In every cry of every man,
In every Infant’s cry of fear,
In every voice, in every ban,³
The mind-forg’d manacles I hear.
How the Chimney-sweeper’s cry

10 Every blackning Church appalls;⁰ horrifies; casts a pall over

And the hapless Soldier's sigh

Runs in blood down Palace walls.

But most thro' midnight streets I hear

How the youthful Harlot's curse

15 Blasts the new-born Infant's tear,

And blights with plagues the Marriage hearse.

1794

FROM SONGS AND BALLADS

I Asked a Thief

I asked a thief to steal me a peach,

He turned up his eyes;

I ask'd a lithe lady to lie her down,

Holy & meek she cries.

5 As soon as I went

An angel came.

He wink'd at the thief

And smild at the dame—

And without one word said

io Had a peach from the tree

And still as a maid

Enjoy'd the lady.

1796 1863

Mock on, Mock on, Voltaire, Rousseau

Mock on, Mock on, Voltaire, Rousseau;⁴

Mock on, Mock on, 'tis all in vain.

You throw the sand against the wind,

And the wind blows it back again.

3. A law or notice commanding or forbidding; a “Enlightenment”; critics of the established order, published penalty. here representing thinkers who destroy without

4. Leaders of the pre-Revolutionary French creating.

7 4 6 / W I L L I A M W O R D S W O R T H

5 And every sand becomes a Gem

Reflected in the beams divine;

Blown back, they blind the mocking Eye,

But still in Israel’s paths they shine.

The Atoms of Democritus

10 And Newton’s Particles of light⁵

Are sands upon the Red sea shore,⁶

Where Israel’s tents do shine so bright.

1800-08 1863

Eternity

He who binds to himself a joy

Does the winged life destroy

But he who kisses the joy as it flies

Lives in eternity’s sun rise.

1800-08 1863

A Question Answered

What is it men in women do require?

The lineaments of Gratified Desire.

What is it women do in men require?

The lineaments of Gratified Desire.

1800-08 1863

FROM MILTON

And Did Those Feet

And did those feet in ancient time
Walk upon England's mountains green?

And was the holy Lamb of God
On England's pleasant pastures seen?

5 And did the Countenance Divine
Shine forth upon our clouded hills?

And was Jerusalem builded here,
Among these dark Satanic Mills?7

5. The Greek philosopher Democritus (fifth cen-Egyptians (Exodus 14).

tury B.C.E) and the English physicist Sir Isaac New-

7. The primary meaning is “millstone”—two heavy ton (1642—1727) are represented as nonsensically cylindrical stones that grind grain into meal reducing nature to inanimate matter.

between them; “factory” is an extended meaning.

6. Where God delivered the Israelites from the

GREENGROWTHERASHES / 747

Bring me my Bow of burning gold:

10 Bring me my Arrows of desire:

Bring me my Spear: O clouds unfold!

Bring me my Chariot of fire!

I will not cease from Mental Fight,

Nor shall my Sword sleep in my hand,

15 Till we have built Jerusalem

In England's green & pleasant Land.

1804-10 1804-10

FROM JERUSALEM

England! Awake! Awake! Awake!
England! awake! awake! awake!
Jerusalem thy Sister calls!
Why wilt thou sleep the sleep of death?
And close her from thy ancient walls.
5 Thy hills & valleys felt her feet
Gently upon their bosoms move:
Thy gates beheld sweet Zion's ways;
Then was a time of joy and love.
And now the time returns again:
10 Our souls exult & London's towers,
Receive the Lamb of God to dwell
In England's green & pleasant bowers.

1804-09 1818

R O B E R T B U R N S

1759-1796

Green Grow the Rashes

Green grow the rashes, O; tall grasses or rushes

Green grow the rashes, O;

The sweetest hours that e'er I spend,

Are spent among the lasses, O!

5 There's nought but care on ev'ry han',

In ev'ry hour that passes, O:

What signifies the life o' man,

An'° 'twere na for the lasses, O. if

7 4 8 / R O B E R T B U R N S

Green grow the rashes, O; ...

10 The warly° race may riches chase, worldly

An' riches still may fly them, O;
An' though at last they catch them fast,
Their hearts can ne'er enjoy them, O.

Green grow the rashes, O; ...

15 But gie me a canny⁰ hour at e'en, pleasant

My arms about my Dearie, O;
An' warly cares, an' warly men,
May a' gae tapsalteerie,⁰ O!

topsy-turvy

Green grow the rashes, O; ...

20 For you sae douce,⁰ ye sneer at this, prudent

Ye're nought but senseless asses, O:

The wisest man¹ the warl' saw,
He dearly loved the lasses, O.

Green grow the rashes, O; ...

25 Auld Nature swears, the lovely Dears

Her noblest work she classes, O:

Her prentice han' she tried on man,

An' then she made the lasses, O.

Green grow the rashes, O; ...

1784 1787

To a Mouse

On Turning Her up in Her Nest with the Plough, November, 1785

Wee, sleeket,⁰ cow'rin, tim'rous beastie,
sleek

O, what a panic's in thy breastie!

Thou need na start awa sae hasty,

Wi' bickering⁰ brattle!⁰

hurried / scamper

I wad be laith^o to rin an' chase thee,

loath

Wi' murd'ring pattle!⁰

plowstajf ("paddle")

I'm truly sorry Man's dominion

Has broken Nature's social union,

An' justifies that ill opinion,

Which makes thee startle,

1. Solomon, king of Israel (tenth century B.C.E.), who had many wives and was proverbial for his wisdom.

T o A M O U S E / 7 4 9

At me, thy poor, earth-born companion,

An' fellow-mortal!

I doubt na, whiles,⁰ but thou may thieve; sometimes

What then? poor beastie, thou maun^o live! must

15 A daimen-icker in a thrave²

'S a sma' request:

I'll get a blessin wi' the lave,^o rest

An' never miss't!

Thy wee bit housie, too, in ruin!

20 Its silly⁰ wa's the win's are strewin! frail

An' naething, now, to big^o a new ane, build

O' foggage⁰ green! mosses

An' bleak December's winds ensuin,

Baith snell^o an' keen! bitter

25 Thou saw the fields laid bare and wast,^o waste
An' weary winter comin fast,
An' cozie here, beneath the blast,
Thou thought to dwell,
Till crash! the cruel coulter⁰ past plowshare
30 Out thro' thy cell.
That wee bit heap o' leaves an' stibble⁰ stubble
Has cost thee mony a weary nibble!
Now thou's turned out, for a' thy trouble,
But⁰ house Or hald,^o without / home ("hold")
35 To thole⁰ the winter's sleety dribble, endure
An' cranreuch⁰ cauld! hoarfrost
But, Mousie, thou art no thy-lane,³
In proving foresight may be vain:
The best laid schemes o' mice an' men
40 Gang⁰ aft a-gley.^o go I astray
An' lea'e us nought but grief an' pain,
For promised joy!
Still, thou art blest, compared wi' me!
The present only toucheth thee:
45 But och! I backward cast my e'e,
On prospects drear!
An' forward, tho' I canna see,
i
I guess an' fear!
1785
1786

2. A rare ear of corn in a stook/stack of (generally 3. No thy-lane: not alone, twelve) sheaves.

750 / R O B E R T B U R N S

Holy Willie's⁴ Prayer

0 Thou that in the heavens does dwell!

Wha, as it pleases best thysel,

Sends ane to heaven and ten to hell,

A' for thy glory!

5 And no for ony guid or ill

They've done before thee.

1 bless and praise thy matchless might,

Whan thousands thou has left in night,

That I am here before thy sight,

10 For gifts and grace

A burning an' a shining light

To a' this place.

What was I, or my generation,

That I should get such exaltation?

15 I, wha deserv'd most just damnation,

For broken laws

Sax thousand years ere my creation,

Thro' Adam's cause!

When from my mother's womb I fell,

20 Thou might hae plunged me deep in hell,

To gnash my gooms, and weep and wail,

In burning lakes,

Where damned devils roar and yell

Chained to their stakes.

25 Yet I am here, a chosen sample,
To show thy grace is great and ample:
I'm here, a pillar o' thy temple,
Strong as a rock,
A guide, a ruler, and example
30 To a' thy flock.
O Lord thou kens what zeal I bear,
When drinkers drink, and swearers swear,
And singin' there, and dancin' here,
Wi' great an' sma';
35 For I am keepet by thy fear,
Free frae them a'.

But yet—O Lord—confess I must—
At times I'm fashed⁰ wi' fleshy lust; troubled

4. William Fisher, an elder in the church at Mauchline, the seat of Burns's farm. He habitually pected of stealing church funds.

censured other men's behavior and doctrine, but

HOLY W I L L I E ' S P R A Y E R / 7 5 1

And sometimes too, in warldly trust

40 Vile Self gets in;

But thou remembers we are dust,

Defiled wi' sin.

O Lord—yestreen—^o thou kens—wi' Meglast night

Thy pardon I sincerely beg!

O may't ne'er be a living plague,

To my dishonor!
And I'll ne'er lift a lawless leg
Again upon her.
Besides, I farther maun" allow,
must Wi' Lizzie's lass, three times—I trow°—
believe
But Lord, that Friday I was fou° full (of liquor)
When I cam near her;
Or else, thou kens, thy servant true
Wad never steer0 her.
touch ("stir")
Maybe thou lets this fleshly thorn
Buffet thy servant e'en and morn,
Lest he o'er high and proud should turn,
That he's sae gifted;
If sae, thy hand maun e'en be borne
Until thou lift it.
Lord bless thy Chosen in this place,
For here thou hast a chosen race;
But God, confound their stubborn face,
And blast their name,
65 Wha bring thy elders to disgrace
And open shame.
Lord mind Gaun Hamilton's5 deserts!
He drinks, and swears, and plays at cartes,
Yet has sae mony taking arts

70 Wi' Great an' Sma',
Frae God's ain priest the people's hearts
He steals awa'.

An when we chastened him therefore,
Thou kens how he bred sic a splore0 row

75 As set the warld in a roar

O' laughin at us;

Curse thou his basket and his store,

Kail° and potatoes. cabbage

5. Gavin Hamilton, a convivial lawyer friend of Burns, was cleared by the Presbytery of Ayr (line 80) with Burns. Accused of Sabbath-breaking and other the help of his counsel, Robert Aiken (line 85).

offenses by the elders of Mauchline Church, he

752 / R O B E R T B U R N S

Lord hear my earnest cry and prayer

so Against that Presbytery of Ayr!

Thy strong right hand, Lord, make it bare

Upon their heads!

Lord visit them, and dinna spare,

For their misdeeds!

85 O Lord my God, that glib-tongued Aiken!

My very heart and flesh are quaking

To think how I sat, sweating, shaking,

And pissed wi' dread,

While Auld, wi' hingin0 lips gaed sneaking hanging

90 And hid his head!

Lord, in thy day o' vengeance try him!

Lord visit him that did employ him!

And pass not in thy mercy by them,
Nor hear their prayer;
95 But for thy people's sake destroy them,
And dinna spare!
But Lord, remember me and mine
Wi' mercies temporal and divine!
That I for grace and gear⁰ may shine wealth
100 Excelled by nane!
And a' the glory shall be thine!

A M E N , A M E N !

1785 1808

Of A' the Airts⁶
Of a' the airts the wind can blaw,
I dearly like the west,
For there the bonie lassie lives,
The lassie I lo'e best:
5 There's wild woods grow, and rivers row," flow
And mony a hill between;
But day and night my fancy's flight
Is ever wi' my Jean.
I see her in the dewy flowers,
io I see her sweet and fair;
I hear her in the tunefu' birds,
I hear her charm the air:
There's not a bonie flower that springs
By fountain, shaw,^o or green, wood.

6. Written from Dumfriesshire to Burns's wife, Jean Armour, in Ayrshire, the county to the west. Airts: quarters.

A U L D L A N G S Y N E / 7 5 3

15 There's not a bonie bird that sings,
But minds me o' my Jean.

1788 1790

*Auld Lang Syne*⁷

Should auld acquaintance be forgot
And never brought to mind?

Should auld acquaintance be forgot,
And auld lang syne!

5 For auld lang syne, my jo, ° joy

For auld lang syne,

We'll tak a cup o' kindness yet

For auld lang syne.

And surely ye'll be° your pint stowp!° pay for / pint cup

10 And surely I'll be mine!

And we'll tak a cup o' kindness yet,
For auld lang syne.

For auld lang syne, my jo, ...

We twa hae run about the braes⁰ slopes

15 And pou'd the gowans⁰ fine; daisies

But we've wander'd many a weary fitt,
Sin auld lang syne.

For auld lang syne, my jo, ...

We twa hae paidl'd in the burn⁰ stream

20 Frae morning sun till dine;° dinner, noon

But seas between us braid⁰ hae roar'd, broad Sin auld lang syne.

For auld lang syne, my jo, ...

And there's a hand, my trusty fiere!^o friend

25 And gie's a hand o' thine!

And we'll tak a right gude-willie-waught,⁸

For auld lang syne

For auld lang syne, my jo, ...

1788 1796

7. Old long since (Scottish), the days of long ago.

8. Good-will swig.

7 5 4 / R O B E R T B U R N S

John Anderson My Jo

John Anderson my jo,^o John, joy

When we were first acquent;

Your locks were like the raven;

Your bonie brow was brent;⁹

5 But now your brow is beld, John,

Your locks are like the snow;

But blessings on your frosty pow,^o head.

John Anderson my jo.

John Anderson my jo, John,

10 We clamb^o the hill thegither; climbed

And mony a canty⁰ day, John, merry

We've had wi' ane anither:

Now we maun totter down, John,

And hand in hand we'll go,

15 And sleep thegither at the foot,

John Anderson my jo.

1789 1790

Tam O'Shanter

Of Brownies and of Bogillies full is this Buke.'

— G a v i n Douglas

When chapman⁰ billies⁰ leave the street, peddler /fellows
And drouthy⁰ neebors neebors meet, thirsty
As market-days are wearing late,
An' folk begin to tak the gate;⁰ road
5 While we sit bousing at the nappy,⁰ ale
An' getting fou^o and unco^o happy, full/very
We think na on the lang Scots miles,
The mosses,⁰ waters, slaps,⁰ and styles, bogs /gaps in walls
That lie between us and our hame, io Where sits our sulky sullen dame,
Gathering her brows like gathering storm,
Nursing her wrath to keep it warm.
This truth fand^o honest Tam o' Shanter, found
As he frae Ayr ae night did canter,
15 (Auld Ayr, wham ne'er a town surpasses
For honest men and bonie lasses).

O Tam! hadst thou but been sae wise,
As ta'en thy ain wife Kate's advice!

She tauld thee weel thou was a skellum,⁰ good-for-nothing
20 A blethering,⁰ blustering, drunken blellum,⁰ babbling /
windbag 9. Straight, steep; not rounding off into a bald

Aeneid, translated into Scots dialect by Gavin pate.

Douglas (1474-1522). Brownies are friendly gob-
1. From the prologue to the sixth book of Virgil's lins; bogles, unfriendly.

TAM O ' S H A N T E R / 7 5 5

That frae November till October,
Ae market-day thou was nae sober;

That ilka^o melder,⁰ wi' the miller
every / meal-grinding

Thou sat as lang as thou had siller;⁰ silver

That every naig^o was ca'd^o a shoe on, horse / driven

The smith and thee gat roaring fou on;
That at the Lord's house, even on Sunday,
Thou drank wi' Kirkton Jean¹ till Monday.

She prophesied that, late or soon,
Thou would be found deep drowned in Doon;
Or caught wi' warlocks⁰ in the mirk,^o
wizards / dark

By Alloway's auld haunted kirk.²
Ah, gentle dames! it gars⁰ me greet⁰
ikes/weep

To think how mony counsels sweet,
How mony lengthened sage advices,
The husband frae the wife despises!
But to our tale: Ae market night,
Tam had got planted unco right;
Fast by an ingle,⁰ bleezing⁰ finely,
fireplace / blazing

Wi' reaming⁰ swats,⁰ that drank divinely;
foaming / ale

And at his elbow, Souter⁰ Johnny,

cobbler

His ancient, trusty, drouthy crony;

Tam lo'ed him like a vera brither;

They had been fou for weeks thegither.

The night drave on wi' sangs and clatter;⁰

talk

And aye the ale was growing better:

The landlady and Tam grew gracious,

Wi' favors, secret, sweet, and precious:

The souter tauld his queerest stories;

The landlord's laugh was ready chorus:

The storm without might rair^o and rustle,

Tam did na mind the storm a whistle.

Care, mad to see a man sae happy,

E'en drowned himsel amang the nappy;

As bees flee hame wi' lades⁰ o' treasure,

loads

The minutes winged their way wi' pleasure;

Kings may be blest, but Tam was glorious,

O'er a' the ills o' life victorious!

But pleasures are like poppies spread,

You seize the flow'r, its bloom is shed;

Or like the snow falls in the river,

A moment white—then melts for ever;

Or like the borealis race,

That flit ere you can point their place;

Or like the rainbow's lovely form

Evanishing amid the storm—

Nae man can tether time nor tide;

The hour approaches Tam maun^o ride;

must

That hour, o' night's black arch the key-stane,^o

keystone

That dreary hour, he mounts his beast in;

1. Mistress of a tavern.

2. The ruins of a church near Burns's home, the object of much superstitious dread.

756 / R O B E R T B U R N S

And sic a night he taks the road in,

As ne'er poor sinner was abroad in.

The wind blew as 'twad^o blawn its last; it would have

The rattling show'rs rose on the blast;

75 The speedy gleams the darkness swallowed;

Loud, deep, and lang, the thunder bellowed:

That night, a child might understand,

The Deil^o had business on his hand. Devil

Weel mounted on his gray mare, Meg,

80 A better never lifted leg,

Tam skelpit^o on thro' dub^o and mire, hurried / puddle

Despising wind, and rain, and fire;

Whiles^o holding fast his guid blue bonnet; sometimes

Whiles crooning^o o'er some auld Scots sonnet;^o

humming/song

85 Whiles glow'ring^o round wi' prudent cares, staring

Lest bogles catch him unawares.

Kirk-Alloway was drawing nigh,

Whare ghaists⁰ and houlets⁰ nightly cry. ghosts / owls
By this time he was cross the ford,
90 Where in the snaw the chapman smoored;⁰ smothered
And past the birks^o and meikle⁰ stane,^o birches / great / stone
Where drunken Charlie brak's neck-bane;
And thro' the whins,⁰ and by the cairn, furze
Where hunters fand the murdered bairn;⁰ child
95 And near the thorn, aboon⁰ the well, above
Where Mungo's mither hanged hersel.
Before him Doon pours all his floods;
The doubling storm roars thro' the woods;
The lightnings flash from pole to pole;
100 Near and more near the thunders roll:
When, glimmering thro' the groaning trees,
Kirk-Alloway seemed in a bleeze;⁰ blaze
Thro' ilka^o bore⁰ the beams were glancing;
every / chink
And loud resounded mirth and dancing.
105 Inspiring bold John Barleycorn!
What dangers thou canst make us scorn!
Wi' tippenny,⁰ we fear nae evil;
twopenny ale
Wi' usquebae⁰ we'll face the devil!
whisky

The swats⁰ sae reamed⁰ in Tammie's noddle ale / foamed

110 Fair play, he cared na deils a boddle.⁰
farthing

But Maggie stood right sair^o astonished, sorely

Till, by the heel and hand admonished,
She ventured forward on the light;
And, vow! Tam saw an unco sight!

115 Warlocks and witches in a dance;

Nae cotillon⁰ brent⁰ new frae France, dance / brand

But hornpipes, jigs, strathspeys,⁰ and reels, Highland dances
Put life and mettle in their heels.

A winnock-bunker⁰ in the east, window seat

120 There sat auld Nick, in shape o' beast;

A towzie⁰ tyke,^o black, grim, and large! tousled/dog

To gie them music was his charge:

TAM O' SHANTER / 757

He screwed the pipes and gart⁰ them skirl,⁰ made / shrill

Till roof and rafters a' did dirl.⁰ ring

125 Coffins stood round like open presses,⁰ closets

That shawed the dead in their last dresses;

And by some devilish cantraip⁰ slight⁰ weird / trick

Each in its cauld hand held a light,

By which heroic Tam was able

130 To note upon the haly table

A murderer's banes in gibbet-airns;⁰ irons

Twa span-lang,' wee, unchristened bairns;⁰ children

A thief new-cutted frae a rape,⁰ rope
Wi' his last gasp his gab⁰ did gape; mouth
135 Five tomahawks, wi' blude red-rusted;
Five scymitars, wi' murder crusted;
A garter, which a babe had strangled;
A knife, a father's throat had mangled,
Whom his ain son o' life bereft,
140 The gray hairs yet stack to the heft;
Wi' mair of horrible and awfu',
Which even to name wad be unlawfu'.
As Tammie glowred,⁰ amazed, and curious, stared
The mirth and fun grew fast and furious:
145 The piper loud and louder blew;
The dancers quick and quicker flew;
They reeled, they set, they crossed, they cleekit,⁰ joined hands
Till ilka carlin⁰ swat⁰ and reekit,⁰ old woman / sweated / steamed
And coost⁰ her duddies⁰ to the wark, cast off / dress
iso And linkit⁰ at it in her sark!⁰ tripped nimbly / shift
Now Tam, O Tam! had thae been queans,⁰ girls
A' plump and strapping in their teens;
Their sarks, instead o' creeshie⁰ flannen,⁰ greasy/flannel
Been snaw-white seventeen hunder linen!⁴
155 Thir⁰ breeks o' mine, my only pair, these
That ance were plush, o' gude blue hair,
I wad hae gi'en them off my hurdies,⁰ buttocks
For ae blink o' the bonie burdies!⁰ maidens

But wither'd beldams,0 auld and droll, old women
i6o Rigwoodie0 hags wad spean0 a foal, scrawny / wean
Louping0 and flinging on a crummock,0 leaping / staff
I wonder didna turn thy stomach.

But Tam kend what was what fu' brawlie,0 well
There was ae winsome wench and wawlie0 buxom
165 That night enlisted in the core,0 company

(Lang after kent0 on Carrick shore known

For mony a beast to dead she shot,

And perished mony a bonie boat,

And shook baith meikle0 corn and bear,0 much / barley

170 And kept the country-side in fear).

Her cutty0 sark, o' Paisley harn,0 short / coarse cloth

3. Two spans long (a span is the distance from 4. Fine linen, with seventeen hundred threads to outstretched thumb to pinkie). a width.

758 / R O B E R T B U R N S

That while a lassie she had worn,

In longitude tho' sorely scanty,

It was her best, and she was vauntie.0

proud

Ah! little kend thy reverend grannie

That sark she coft0 for her wee Nannie bought

Wi' twa pund Scots ('twas a' her riches)

Wad ever graced a dance of witches!

But here my Muse her wing maun cour;0

stoop

Sic flights are far beyond her pow'r—

To sing how Nannie lap0 and flang, leaped
(A souple jade she was, and Strang),
And how Tam stood, like ane bewitched,
And thought his very een° enriched;
eyes
Even Satan glowr'd, and fided0 fu' fain,0 / happy
And hotched0 and blew wi' might and main:
hitched (himself)
Till first ae caper, syne0 anither,
then
Tam tint0 his reason a' thegither,
lost
And roars out, "Weel done, Cutty-sark!"
And in an instant all was dark!
And scarcely had he Maggie rallied,
When out the hellish legion sallied.
As bees bizz out wi' angry fyke,0 fuss
When plundering herds0 assail their byke;0 shepherds / hive
As open0 pussie's0 mortal foes, bay / the hare's
When pop! she starts before their nose;
As eager runs the market-crowd,
When "Catch the thief!" resounds aloud;
So Maggie runs; the witches follow,

Wi' mony an eldritch⁰ skriech and hollow.

unearthly

Ah, Tam! ah, Tam! thou'11 get thy fairin!⁰

punishment

In hell they'll roast thee like a herrin!

In vain thy Kate awaits thy comin!

Kate soon will be a woefu' woman!

Now do thy speedy utmost, Meg,

And win the key-stane o' the brig;⁰

bridge

There at them thou thy tail may toss,

A running stream they dare na cross.

But ere the key-stane she could make,

The fient a tail she had to shake!⁵

For Nannie, far before the rest,

Hard upon noble Maggie prest,

And flew at Tam wi' furious ettle;⁰

purpose

But little wist she Maggie's mettle.

Ae spring brought off her master hale,⁰

whole

But left behind her ain gray tail:

The carlin claught⁰ her by the rump, clutched

And left poor Maggie scarce a stump.

Now, wha this tale o' truth shall read,

Each man and mother's son, take heed:

Whene'er to drink you are inclined,

Or cutty-sarks run in your mind,
5. I.e., she had no tail left. Fient a: devil-a.

A R E D R E D R O S E / 7 5 9

Think! ye may buy the joys o'er dear;
Remember Tam o' Shanter's mare.

1790 1791

The Banks o' Doon

Ye flowery banks o' bonie Doon,
How can ye blume sae fair;
How can ye chant, ye little birds,
And I sae fu' o' care!

5 Thou'll break my heart, thou bonie bird

That sings upon the bough;

Thou minds me o' the happy days

When my fause⁰ luv^e was true. false

Thou'll break my heart, thou bonie bird,

10 That sings beside thy mate;

For sae I sat, and sae I sang,

And wist⁰ na o' my fate. knew

Aft hae I rov'd by bonie Doon

To see the wood-bine twine,

15 And ilka⁰ bird sang o' its love, every

And sae did I o' mine.

Wi' lightsome heart I pu'd a rose

Frae aff its thorny tree,

And my fause luv^er staw⁰ the rose, stole

20 But left the thorn wi' me.

Wi' lightsome heart I pu'd a rose,

Upon a morn[^]in June:
And sae I flourish'd on the morn,
And sae was pu'd or noon!

1791 1792

A Red Red Rose
O my luv'e's like a red, red rose,
That's newly sprung in June;
O my luv'e's like the melodie
That's sweetly played in tune.

5 As fair art thou, my bonie lass,
So deep in luv'e am I;

760 / JOANNABAILLIE

And I will luv'e thee still, my dear,
Till a' the seas gang dry.
Till a' the seas gang dry, my dear,
10 And the rocks melt wi' the sun:
O I will love thee still, my dear,
While the sands o' life shall run.
And fare thee weel, my only luv'e!
And fare thee weel a while!
And I will come again, my luv'e,
Tho' it were ten thousand mile!

1796

Oh Wert Thou in the Cauld Blast
Oh wert thou in the cauld blast,
On yonder lea, on yonder lea;
My plaidie to the angry airt,⁰ quarter (of the -wind)
I'd shelter thee, I'd shelter thee:

5 Or did misfortune's bitter storms
Around thee blow, around thee blow,
Thy bield⁰ should be my bosom, shelter
To share it a', to share it a'.
Or were I in the wildest waste,
io Sae black and bare, sae black and bare,
The desart were a paradise,
If thou wert there, if thou wert there.
Or were I monarch o' the globe,
Wi' thee to reign, wi' thee to reign;
15 The brightest jewel in my crown,
Wad be my queen, wad be my queen.

1796 1800

J O A N N A B A I L L I E

1762-1851

A Mother to Her Waking Infant

Now in thy dazzling⁰ half-oped eye, dazed
Thy curled nose and lip awry,
Thy up-hoist arms and noddling⁰ head, nodding
And little chin with crystal spread,
5 Poor helpless thing! what do I see,
That I should sing of thee?

A M O T H E R T O H E R W A K I N G I N F A N T / 7 6

1

From thy poor tongue no accents come,
Which can but rub thy toothless gum;
Small understanding boasts thy face,
10 Thy shapeless limbs nor step nor grace;

A few short words thy feats may tell,
And yet I love thee well.

When sudden wakes the bitter shriek,
And redder swells thy little cheek;

15 When rattled keys thy woes beguile,
And through the wet eye gleams the smile,
Still for thy weakly self is spent
Thy little silly plaint.

But when thy friends are in distress,
20 Thou'lt laugh and chuckle ne'er the less;
Nor e'en with sympathy be smitten,
Though all are sad but thee and kitten;
Yet little varlet⁰ that thou art, rascal
Thou twitchest at the heart.

25 Thy rosy cheek so soft and warm;
Thy pinky hand and dimpled arm;
Thy silken locks that scanty peep,
With gold-tipped ends, where circles deep
Around thy neck in harmless grace
30 So soft and sleekly hold their place,
Might harder hearts with kindness fill,
And gain our right good will.

Each passing clown bestows his blessing,
Thy mouth is worn with old wives' kissing:
35 E'en lighter looks the gloomy eye
Of surly sense, when thou art by;
And yet I think whoe'er they be,
They love thee not like me.

Perhaps when time shall add a few 40 Short years to thee, thou'lt love me too.
Then wilt thou through life's weary way
Become my sure and cheering stay:
Wilt care for me, and be my hold,
When I am weak and old.
45 Thou'lt listen to my lengthened tale,
And pity me when I am frail—
But see, the sweepy spinning fly
Upon the window takes thine eye.
Go to thy little senseless play—
50 Thou dost not heed my lay.0 song

1 7 9 0

7 6 2 / J O A N N A B A I L L I E

Song: Woo'd and Married and A'

The bride she is winsome and bonny,

Her hair it is snooded0 sae sleek,

bound up with a ribbon

And faithfu' and kind is her Johnny,

Yet fast fa' the tears on her cheek.

New pearlins0 are cause of her sorrow,

lace trimmings

New pearlins and plenishing0 too, furnishings

The bride that has a' to borrow,

Has e'en right mickle0 ado, much

Woo'd and married and a'!

Woo'd and married and a'!

Is na' she very weel aff

To be woo'd and married at a'?

Her mither then hastily spak,

“The lassie is glaikit wi' pride;

foolish

In my pouch I had never a plack

farthing

On the day when I was a bride.

E'en tak' to your wheel, and be clever,

And draw out your thread in the sun;

The gear that is gifted, it never goods, wealth / given

Will last like the gear that is won.

earned

Woo'd and married and a'!

Wi' havins and toucher sae sma',

possessions / dowry

I think ye are very weel aff,

To be woo'd and married at a'!”

25 “Toot, toot!” quo' her gray-headed faither,

“She's less o' a bride than a bairn;

child

She's ta'en like a colt frae the heather,

colt

Wi' sense and discretion to learn.

Half husband, I trow, and half daddy,

30 As humor inconstantly leans,

The chieP maun0 be patient and steady,

man / must

That yokes wi' a mate in her teens.

A kerchief sae douce0 and sae neat, sedate; respectable

O'er her locks that the winds used to blaw!

35 I'm baith like to laugh and to greet,0

weep

When I think o' her married at a'!"

Then out spak' the wily bridegroom;

Weel waled0 were his wordies, I ween—

chosen

"I'm rich, though my coffer be toom,0 empty

Wi' the blinks o' your bonny blue een.0

eyes

I'm prouder o' thee by my side,

Though thy ruffles or ribbons be few,

Than if Kate o' the Croft were my bride,

Wi' purfles0 and pearlins enow.

embroidered trimmings

Dear and dearest of ony!

EXPOSTULATION AND REPLY / 763

Ye're woo d and buikit1 and a'!"

And do ye think scorn o' your Johnny,

And grieve to be married at a'?"

She turn'd, and she blush'd, and she smiled,

And she looket sae bashfully down;

The pride o' her heart was beguiled,

And she played wi' the sleeves o' her gown;
She twirled the tag o' her lace,
And she nippet her boddice sae blue,
Syne0 blinket sae sweet in his face, then
And aff like a maukin0 she flew. hare
Woo'd and married and a'!
Wi' Johnny to roose0 her and a'! praise
She thinks hersel very weel aff,
To be woo'd and married at a'!

1822

W I L L I A M W O R D S W O R T H

1770-1850

Expostulation and Reply1

“Why, William, on that old gray stone,
Thus for the length of half a day,
Why, William, sit you thus alone,
And dream your time away?
5 “Where are your books?—that light bequeathed
To Beings else forlorn and blind!
Up! up! and drink the spirit breathed
From dead men to their kind.
“You look round on your Mother Earth,
10 As if she for no purpose bore you;
As if you were her first-born birth,
And none had lived before you!”
One morning thus, by Esthwaite lake,
When life was sweet, I knew not why,
15 To me my good friend Matthew spake,

And thus I made reply.

1. “Booked,” i.e., officially registered as engaged friends, who advance somewhat exaggerated arguments about the relative merits of nature and of

1. With the following, companion poem, “Expos-books.

tulation and Reply” forms a dialogue between two

764 / WILLIAM WORDSWORTH

“The eye—it cannot choose but see;

We cannot bid the ear be still;

Our bodies feel, where'er they be,

20 Against or with our will.

“Nor less I deem that there are Powers

Which of themselves our minds impress;

That we can feed this mind of ours

In a wise passiveness.

25 “Think you, ‘mid all this mighty sum

Of things for ever speaking,

That nothing of itself will come,

But we must still be seeking?

“—Then ask not wherefore, here, alone,

30 Conversing² as I may,

I sit upon this old gray stone,

And dream my time away.”

Spring 1798 1798

The Tables Turned

An Evening Scene on the Same Subject

Up! up! my Friend, and quit your books;
Or surely you'll grow double:

Up! up! my Friend, and clear your looks;
Why all this toil and trouble?

5 The sun, above the mountain's head,
A freshening lustre mellow
Through all the long green fields has spread,
His first sweet evening yellow.

Books! 'tis a dull and endless strife:

10 Come, hear the woodland linnet,⁰ a songbird

How sweet his music! on my life,
There's more of wisdom in it.

And hark! how blithe the throstle⁰ sings! song thrush

He, too, is no mean preacher:

15 Come forth into the light of things,

Let Nature be your Teacher.

She has a world of ready wealth,

Our minds and hearts to bless—

Spontaneous wisdom breathed by health,

20 Truth breathed by cheerfulness.

2. I.e., communing (with the “things for ever speaking”).

L I N E S / 7 6 5

One impulse from a vernal wood

May teach you more of man,

Of moral evil and of good,

Than all the sages can.

25 Sweet is the lore which Nature brings;

Our meddling intellect

Mis-shapes the beauteous forms of things:—

We murder to dissect.

Enough of Science and of Art;

30 Close up those barren leaves;

Come forth, and bring with you a heart

That watches and receives.

1798 1798

Lines

Composed a Few Miles above Tintern Abbey on Revisiting the Banks of

the Wye during a Tour July 13, 1798*

Five years have passed; five summers, with the length

Of five long winters! and again I hear

These waters, rolling from their mountain-springs

With a soft inland murmur. Once again

5 Do I behold these steep and lofty cliffs,

That on a wild secluded scene impress

Thoughts of more deep seclusion; and connect

The landscape with the quiet of the sky.

The day is come when I again repose

10 Here, under this dark sycamore, and view

These plots of cottage ground, these orchard tufts,

Which at this season, with their unripe fruits,

Are clad in one green hue, and lose themselves

‘Mid groves and copses.0 Once again I see small woods

15 These hedgerows, hardly hedgerows, little lines

Of sportive wood run wild; these pastoral farms,

Green to the very door; and wreaths of smoke

Sent up, in silence, from among the trees!
With some uncertain notice, as might seem 20 Of vagrant dwellers in the houseless woods,
Or of some Hermit's cave, where by his fire
The Hermit sits alone.

These beauteous forms,
Through a long absence, have not been to me
As is a landscape to a blind man's eye;

25 But oft, in lonely rooms, and 'mid the din

3. I.e., a walking trip (with his sister, Dorothy) through the Wye valley in Monmouthshire, the location of the ruins of a medieval abbey, noted for its scenery.

766 / WILLIAM WORDSWORTH

Of towns and cities, I have owed to them,
In hours of weariness, sensations sweet,
Felt in the blood, and felt along the heart;
And passing even into my purer mind,
30 With tranquil restoration—feelings too
Of unremembered pleasure; such, perhaps,
As have no slight or trivial influence
On that best portion of a good man's life,
His little, nameless, unremembered, acts
35 Of kindness and of love. Nor less, I trust,
To them I may have owed another gift,
Of aspect more sublime; that blessed mood,
In which the burthen⁰ of the mystery, burden
In which the heavy and the weary weight
40 Of all this unintelligible world,
Is lightened—that serene and blessed mood,

In which the affections gently lead us on—
Until, the breath of this corporeal frame
And even the motion of our human blood
45 Almost suspended, we are laid asleep
In body, and become a living soul;
While with an eye made quiet by the power
Of harmony, and the deep power of joy,
We see into the life of things.

If this

50 Be but a vain belief, yet, oh! how oft—
In darkness and amid the many shapes
Of joyless daylight; when the fretful stir
Unprofitable, and the fever of the world,
Have hung upon the beatings of my heart—
55 How oft, in spirit, have I turned to thee,
O sylvan⁰ Wye! thou wanderer through the woods, wooded
How often has my spirit turned to thee!
And now, with gleams of half-extinguished thought,
With many recognitions dim and faint,
60 And somewhat of a sad perplexity,
The picture of the mind revives again;
While here I stand, not only with the sense
Of present pleasure, but with pleasing thoughts
That in this moment there is life and food
65 For future years. And so I dare to hope,
Though changed, no doubt, from what I was when first
I came among these hills; when like a roe
I bounded o'er the mountains, by the sides

Of the deep rivers, and the lonely streams,
70 Wherever nature led—more like a man
Flying from something that he dreads than one Who sought the thing he loved. For nature then (The coarser⁴ pleasures of my boyish days,
4. I.e., primarily physical.

L I N E S / 7 6 7

And their glad animal movements all gone by)
75 To me was all in all.—I cannot paint
What then I was. The sounding cataract⁰ waterfall
Haunted me like a passion; the tall rock,
The mountain, and the deep and gloomy wood,
Their colors and their forms, were then to me
so An appetite; a feeling and a love,
That had no need of a remoter charm,
By thought supplied, nor any interest
Unborrowed from the eye.—That time is past,
And all its aching joys are now no more,
85 And all its dizzy raptures. Not for this Faint⁰ I, nor mourn nor murmur; other gifts become discouraged
Have followed; for such loss, I would believe,
Abundant recompense. For I have learned
To look on nature, not as in the hour
90 Of thoughtless youth; but hearing oftentimes
The still, sad music of humanity,
Nor harsh nor grating, though of ample power
To chasten and subdue. And I have felt

A presence that disturbs me with the joy
95 Of elevated thoughts; a sense sublime
Of something far more deeply interfused,
Whose dwelling is the light of setting suns,
And the round ocean and the living air,
And the blue sky, and in the mind of man:

100 A motion and a spirit, that impels
All thinking things, all objects of all thought,
And rolls through all things. Therefore am I still
A lover of the meadows and the woods,
And mountains; and of all that we behold
105 From this green earth; of all the mighty world
Of eye, and ear—both what they half create,
And what perceive; well pleased to recognize
In nature and the language of the sense
The anchor of my purest thoughts, the nurse,
110 The guide, the guardian of my heart, and soul
Of all my moral being.

Nor perchance,
If I were not thus taught, should I the more Suffer my genial⁰ spirits⁰ to decay: creative / powers
For thou art with me here upon the banks
115 Of this fair river; thou my dearest Friend,⁵
My dear, dear Friend; and in thy voice I catch
The language of my former heart, and read
My former pleasures in the shooting lights
Of thy wild eyes. Oh! yet a little while 120 May I behold in thee what I was once,

My dear, dear Sister! and this prayer I make,
Knowing that Nature never did betray

5. His sister, Dorothy.

768 / WILLIAM WORDSWORTH

The heart that loved her; 'tis her privilege,
Through all the years of this our life, to lead
125 From joy to joy: for she can so inform
The mind that is within us, so impress
With quietness and beauty, and so feed
With lofty thoughts, that neither evil tongues,
Rash judgments, nor the sneers of selfish men,
130 Nor greetings where no kindness is, nor all
The dreary intercourse of daily life,
Shall e'er prevail against us, or disturb
Our cheerful faith, that all which we behold
Is full of blessings. Therefore let the moon
135 Shine on thee in thy solitary walk;
And let the misty mountain winds be free
To blow against thee: and, in after years,
When these wild ecstasies shall be matured
Into a sober pleasure; when thy mind
140 Shall be a mansion for all lovely forms,
Thy memory be as a dwelling place
For all sweet sounds and harmonies; oh! then,
If solitude, or fear, or pain, or grief
Should be thy portion, with what healing thoughts
145 Of tender joy wilt thou remember me,
And these my exhortations! Nor, perchance—

If I should be where I no more can hear
Thy voice, nor catch from thy wild eyes these gleams
Of past existence—wilt thou then forget
150 That on the banks of this delightful stream
We stood together; and that I, so long
A worshiper of Nature, hither came Unwearied in that service; rather say
With warmer love—oh! with far deeper zeal
155 Of holier love. Nor wilt thou then forget,
That after many wanderings, many years
Of absence, these steep woods and lofty cliffs,
And this green pastoral landscape, were to me
More dear, both for themselves and for thy sake!

1798

The Ruined Cottage⁶

First Part

‘Twas Summer and the sun was mounted high.
Along the south the uplands feebly glared
Through a pale steam, and all the northern downs,
In clearer air ascending, showed far off
5 Their surfaces with shadows dappled o’er
Of deep embattled clouds. Far as the sight

6. A shorter version of a narrative that comprised the first book of The Excursion (1814). First published by Jonathan Wordsworth in The Music of Humanity (1969).

T H E R U I N E D C O T T A G E / 7 6 9

Could reach those many shadows lay in spots
Determined⁰ and unmoved, with steady beams exactly fixed
Of clear and pleasant sunshine interposed—

10 Pleasant to him who on the soft cool grass
Extends his careless limbs beside the root
Of some huge oak whose aged branches make
A twilight of their own, a dewy shade
W h e r e the wren warbles while the dreaming man,
15 Half conscious of that soothing melody,
With sidelong eye looks out upon the scene,
By those impending branches made more soft,
More soft and distant.
O t h e r lot was mine.
Across a bare wide C o m m o n I had toiled
20 With languid feet which by the slippery ground
W e r e baffled still, and when I stretched myself
On the brown earth my limbs from very heat
Could find no rest, nor my weak arm disperse
T h e insect host which gathered round my face
25 And joined their m u r m u r s to the tedious noise
Of seeds of bursting gorse that crackled round.
I rose and turned towards a group of trees
W h i c h midway in that level stood alone;
And thither come at length, beneath a shade
30 Of clustering elms that sprang from the same root
I found a ruined house, four naked walls
That stared upon each other. I looked round
And near the door I saw an aged Man,
Alone and stretched upon the cottage bench,
35 An iron-pointed staff lay at his side.
With instantaneous joy I recognized

That pride of nature and of lowly life,
The venerable Arnytage, a friend
As dear to me as is the setting sun.
Two days before
40 We had been fellow travelers. I knew
That he was in this neighborhood, and now
Delighted found him here in the cool shade.
He lay, his pack of rustic merchandise
Pillowing his head. I guess he had no thought 45 Of his way-wandering life. His eyes were shut,
The shadows of the breezy elms above
Dappled his face. With thirsty heat oppressed
At length I hailed him, glad to see his hat
Bedewed with waterdrops, as if the brim
50 Had newly scooped a running stream. He rose
And pointing to a sunflower, bade me climb
The [] wall where that same gaudy flower
Looked out upon the road.

7. Blank space in the manuscript.

770 / WILLIAM WORDSWORTH

It was a plot
Of garden ground now wild, its matted weeds
55 Marked with the steps of those whom as they passed,
The gooseberry trees that shot in long lank slips,
Or currants hanging from their leafless stems
In scanty strings, had tempted to o'erleap
The broken wall. Within that cheerless spot,
60 Where two tall hedgerows of thick alder boughs

Joined in a damp cold nook, I found a well
Half covered up with willow flowers and grass.
I slaked my thirst and to the shady bench
Returned, and while I stood unbonneted
65 To catch the motion of the cooler air,
The old Man said, "I see around me here
Things which you cannot see. We die, my Friend,
Nor we alone, but that which each man loved
And prized in his peculiar nook of earth
70 Dies with him, or is changed, and very soon
Even of the good is no memorial left.
The Poets, in their elegies and songs
Lamenting the departed, call the groves,
They call upon the hills and streams to mourn,
75 And senseless rocks—nor idly, for they speak
In these their invocations with a voice
Obedient to the strong creative power
Of human passion. Sympathies there are More tranquil, yet perhaps of kindred birth,
so That steal upon the meditative mind
And grow with thought. Beside yon spring I stood,
And eyed its waters till we seemed to feel
One sadness, they and I. For them a bond
Of brotherhood is broken; time has been 85 When every day the touch of human hand
Disturbed their stillness, and they ministered
To human comfort. When I stopped to drink
A spider's web hung to the water's edge,

And on the wet and slimy footstone lay
90 The useless fragment of a wooden bowl.
It moved my very heart.
“The day has been
When I could never pass this road but she
Who lived within these walls, when I appeared,
A daughter’s welcome gave me, and I loved her 95 As my own child. Oh Sir, the good die first,
And they whose hearts are dry as summer dust
Burn to the socket. Many a passenger
Has blessed poor Margaret for her gentle looks
When she upheld the cool refreshment drawn 100 From that forsaken spring, and no one came
But he was welcome, no one went away
But that it seemed she loved him. She is dead,

T H E R U I N E D C O T T A G E / 7 7 1

The worm is on her cheek, and this poor hut,
Stripped of its outward garb of household flowers,
105 Of rose and sweetbriar, offers to the wind
A cold bare wall whose earthy top is tricked
With weeds and the rank spear grass. She is dead,
And nettles rot and adders sun themselves
Where we have sate together while she nursed 110 Her infant at her breast. The unshod colt,
The wandring heifer and the Potter’s ass,
Find shelter now within the chimney wall
Where I have seen her evening hearthstone blaze
And through the window spread upon the road

115 Its cheerful light. You will forgive me, sir,
But often on this cottage do I muse
As on a picture, till my wiser mind
Sinks, yielding to the foolishness of grief.
“She had a husband, an industrious man,
120 Sober and steady. I have heard her say
That he was up and busy at his loom
In summer ere the mower’s scythe had swept
The dewy grass, and in the early spring
Ere the last star had vanished. They who passed 125 At evening, from behind the garden fence
Might hear his busy spade, which he would ply
After his daily work till the daylight
Was gone, and every leaf and flower were lost
In the dark hedges. So they passed their days
130 In peace and comfort, and two pretty babes
Were their best hope next to the God in Heaven.
“You may remember, now some ten years gone,
Two blighting seasons when the fields were left
With half a harvest. It pleased heaven to add 135 A worse affliction in the plague of war,
A happy land was stricken to the heart,
‘Twas a sad time of sorrow and distress.
A wanderer among the cottages,
I with my pack of winter raiment saw 140 The hardships of that season. Many rich
Sunk down as in a dream among the poor,
And of the poor did many cease to be,

And their place knew them not. Meanwhile, abridged
Of daily comforts, gladly reconciled
145 To numerous self-denials, Margaret Went struggling on through those calamitous years
With cheerful hope. But ere the second autumn
A fever seized her husband. In disease
He lingered long, and when his strength returned 150 He found the little he had stored to meet
The hour of accident, or crippling age,
Was all consumed. As I have said, 'twas now

772 /

WILLIAM WORDSWORTH

A time of trouble: shoals of artisans
Were from their daily labor turned away
155 To hang for bread on parish charity,
They and their wives and children, happier far
Could they have lived as do the little birds
That peck along the hedges, or the kite
That makes her dwelling in the mountain rocks.
160 "111 fared it now with Robert, he who dwelt
In this poor cottage. At his door he stood
And whistled many a snatch of merry tunes
That had no mirth in them, or with his knife
Carved uncouth figures on the heads of sticks.
165 Then idly sought about through every nook
Of house or garden any casual task
Of use or ornament, and with a strange Amusing but uneasy novelty

He blended where he might the various tasks
170 Of summer, autumn, winter, and of spring.
But this endured not, his good humor soon Became a weight in which no pleasure was,
And poverty brought on a petted mood irritable
And a sore temper. Day by day he drooped.
175 And he would leave his home, and to the town
Without an errand would he turn his steps,
Or wander here and there among the fields.
One while he would speak lightly of his babes
And with a cruel tongue, at other times
iso He played with them wild freaks of merriment.
And 'twas a piteous thing to see the looks
Of the poor innocent children. 'Every smile,'
Said Margaret to me here beneath these trees,
'Made my heart bleed.' ”
At this the old Man paused
185 And looking up to those enormous elms
He said, ” 'Tis now the hour of deepest noon.
At this still season of repose and peace,
This hour when all things which are not at rest
Are cheerful, while this multitude of flies
190 Fills all the air with happy melody,
Why should a tear be in an old man's eye?
Why should we thus with an untoward mind,
And in the weakness of humanity,
From natural wisdom turn our hearts away.
195 To natural comfort shut our eyes and ears.

And, feeding on disquiet, thus disturb
The calm of Nature with our restless thoughts?"

END OF THE FIRST PART

T H E R U I N E D C O T T A G E / 7 7 3

Second Part

He spake with somewhat of a solemn tone,
But when he ended there was in his face
200 Such easy cheerfulness, a look so mild,
That for a little time it stole away
All recollection, and that simple tale
Passed from my mind like a forgotten sound.
A while on trivial things we held discourse 205 To me soon tasteless. In my own despite
I thought of that poor woman as of one Whom I had known and loved. He had rehearsed
Her homely tale with such familiar power,
With such an active countenance, an eye
210 So busy, that the things of which he spake
Seemed present, and, attention now relaxed,
There was a heartfelt chillness in my veins.
I rose, and turning from that breezy shade
Went out into the open air, and stood 215 To drink the comfort of the warmer sun.
Long time I had not stayed ere, looking round
Upon that tranquil ruin, I returned
And begged of the old man that for my sake
He would resume his story.
He replied,

220 "It were a wantonness, and would demand
Severe reproof, if we were men whose hearts
Could hold vain dalliance with the misery
Even of the dead, contented thence to draw
A momentary pleasure, never marked 225 By reason, barren of all future good.
But we have known that there is often found
In mournful thoughts, and always might be found,
A power to virtue friendly; were't not so
I am a dreamer among men, indeed
230 An idle dreamer. Tis a common tale
By moving accidents⁸ uncharactered,
A tale of silent suffering, hardly clothed
In bodily form, and to the grosser sense
But ill adapted, scarcely palpable
235 To him who does not think. But at your bidding
I will proceed.

"While thus it fared with them
To whom this cottage till that hapless year
Had been a blessed home, it was my chance
To travel in a country far remote;

240 And glad I was when, halting by yon gate
That leads from the green lane, again I saw

8. High adventures. Shakespeare's Othello speaks "of moving accidents by flood and field" (1.3.134).

774 / WILLIAM WORDSWORTH

These lofty elm trees. Long I did not rest:
With many pleasant thoughts I cheered my way

O'er the flat common. At the door arrived,
245 I knocked, and when I entered, with the hope
Of usual greeting, Margaret looked at me
A little while, then turned her head away
Speechless, and sitting down upon a chair
Wept bitterly. I wist not what to do,
250 Or how to speak to her. Poor wretch, at last
She rose from off her seat, and then, oh Sir,
I cannot tell how she pronounced my name.
With fervent love, and with a face of grief
Unutterably helpless, and a look
255 That seemed to cling upon me, she enquired
If I had seen her husband. As she spake
A strange surprise and fear came to my heart,
Nor had I power to answer ere she told
That he had disappeared—just two months gone.
260 He left his house: two wretched days had passed,
And on the third by the first break of light,
Within her casement full in view she saw
A purse of gold.⁹ 'I trembled at the sight,'
Said Margaret, 'for I knew it was his hand
265 That placed it there. And on that very day
By one, a stranger, from my husband sent,
The tidings came that he had joined a troop
Of soldiers going to a distant land.
He left me thus. Poor Man, he had not heart
270 To take farewell of me, and he feared
That I should follow with my babes, and sink

Beneath the misery of a soldier's life.'
"This tale did Margaret tell with many tears,
And when she ended I had little power
275 To give her comfort, and was glad to take Such words of hope from her own mouth as served
To cheer us both. But long we had not talked Ere we built up a pile of better thoughts,
And with a brighter eye she looked around,
280 As if she had been shedding tears of joy.
We parted. It was then the early spring:
I left her busy with her garden tools,
And well remember, o'er that fence she looked,
And, while I paced along the footway path,
285 Called out and sent a blessing after me,
With tender cheerfulness, and with a voice
That seemed the very sound of happy thoughts.
"I roved o'er many a hill and many a dale
With this my weary load, in heat and cold,
290 Through many a wood and many an open ground,
9. The payment her husband had received for enlisting.

T H E R U I N E D C O T T A G E / 7 7 5

In sunshine or in shade, in wet or fair,
Now blithe, now drooping, as it might befall;
My best companions now the driving winds
And now the 'trotting brooks' and whispering trees,
295 And now the music of my own sad steps,
With many a short-lived thought that passed between
And disappeared.

“I came this way again
Towards the wane of summer, when the wheat
Was yellow, and the soft and bladed grass
300 Sprang up afresh and o’er the hay field spread
Its tender green. When I had reached the door
I found that she was absent. In the shade,
Where we now sit, I waited her return.
Her cottage in its outward look appeared
305 As cheerful as before, in any show
Of neatness little changed, but that I thought
The honeysuckle crowded round the door,
And from the wall hung down in heavier tufts,
And knots of worthless stonecrop started out
310 Along the window’s edge, and grew like weeds
Against the lower panes. I turned aside
And strolled into her garden. It was changed.
The unprofitable bindweed spread his bells
From side to side, and with unwieldy wreaths 315 Had dragged the rose from its sustaining wall
And bent it down to earth. The border tufts,
Daisy, and thrift, and lowly camomile,
And thyme, had straggled out into the paths
Which they were used to deck.
“Ere this an hour
320 Was wasted. Back I turned my restless steps,
And as I walked before the door it chanced
A stranger passed, and guessing whom I sought,
He said that she was used to ramble far.

The sun was sinking in the west, and now 325 I sate with sad impatience. From within Her solitary infant cried aloud.

The spot though fair seemed very desolate,
The longer I remained more desolate;
And looking round I saw the cornerstones,
330 Till then unmarked, on either side the door
With dull red stains discolored, and stuck o'er
With tufts and hairs of wool, as if the sheep
That feed upon the commons thither came Familiarly, and found a couching place
Even at her threshold.

1. Slightly misquoted (“trotting burns”) from Robert Burns’s “Epistle to William Simpson,” a poem in praise of natural feelings.

776 / WILLIAM WORDSWORTH

335 “The house clock struck eight:
I turned and saw her distant a few steps.
Her face was pale and thin, her figure too
Was changed. As she unlocked the door she said,
‘It grieves me you have waited here so long,
340 But in good truth I’ve wandered much of late,
And sometimes, to my shame I speak, have need
Of my best prayers to bring me back again.’
While on the board she spread our evening meal,
She told me she had lost her elder child,
345 That he for months had been a serving boy,
Apprenticed by the parish. ‘I perceive
You look at me, and you have cause. Today

I have been traveling far, and many days
About the fields I wander, knowing this 350 Only, that what I seek I cannot find.
And so I waste my time: for I am changed,
And to myself,' she said, 'have done much wrong,
And to this helpless infant. I have slept
Weeping, and weeping I have waked. My tears 355 Have flowed as if my body were not such As others are, and I could never die.
But I am now in mind and in my heart
More easy, and I hope,' she said, 'that heaven
Will give me patience to endure the things
Which I behold at home.'
360 'It would have grieved
Your very soul to see her. Sir, I feel
The story linger in my heart. I fear
'Tis long and tedious, but my spirit clings
To that poor woman. So familiarly
365 Do I perceive her manner and her look
And presence, and so deeply do I feel
Her goodness, that not seldom in my walks
A momentary trance comes over me,
And to myself I seem to muse on one 370 By sorrow laid asleep or borne away,
A human being destined to awake
To human life, or something very near
To human life, when he shall come again
For whom she suffered. Sir, it would have grieved

375 Your very soul to see her: evermore
Her eyelids drooped, her eyes were downward cast,
And when she at her table gave me food
She did not look at me. Her voice was low,
Her body was subdued. In every act
380 Pertaining to her house affairs appeared
The careless stillness which a thinking mind
Gives to an idle matter. Still she sighed,
But yet no motion of the breast was seen,
No heaving of the heart. While by the fire

T H E R U I N E D C O T T A G E / 7 7 7

385 We sate together, sighs came on my ear,
I knew not how, and hardly whence they came.
I took my staff, and when I kissed her babe
The tears stood in her eyes. I left her then
With the best hope and comfort I could give:
390 She thanked me for my will, but for my hope
It seemed she did not thank me.

“I returned

And took my rounds along this road again
Ere on its sunny bank the primrose flower
Had chronicled the earliest day of spring.
395 I found her sad and drooping. She had learned
No tidings of her husband; if he lived,
She knew not that he lived; if he were dead,
She knew not he was dead. She seemed the same
In person or appearance, but her house
400 Bespoke a sleepy hand of negligence.

The floor was neither dry nor neat, the hearth
Was comfortless,
The windows too were dim, and her few books,
Which one upon the other heretofore
405 Had been piled up against the corner panes
In seemly order, now with straggling leaves
Lay scattered here and there, open or shut,
As they had chanced to fall. Her infant babe
Had from its mother caught the trick of grief,
410 And sighed among its playthings. Once again
I turned towards the garden gate, and saw
More plainly still that poverty and grief
Were now come nearer to her. The earth was hard,
With weeds defaced and knots of withered grass;
415 No ridges there appeared of clear black mold,
No winter greenness. Of her herbs and flowers
It seemed the better part were gnawed away
Or trampled on the earth. A chain of straw,
Which had been twisted round the tender stem
420 Of a young apple tree, lay at its root;
The bark was nibbled round by truant sheep.
Margaret stood near, her infant in her arms,
And, seeing that my eye was on the tree,
She said, 'I fear it will be dead and gone
Ere Robert come again.'
425 "Towards the house
Together we returned, and she enquired
If I had any hope. But for her Babe,

And for her little friendless Boy, she said,
She had no wish to live—that she must die
430 Of sorrow. Yet I saw the idle loom Still in its place. His Sunday garments hung
Upon the selfsame nail, his very staff
778 / WILLIAM WORDSWORTH
Stood undisturbed behind the door. And when I passed this way beaten by Autumn winds,
435 She told me that her little babe was dead,
And she was left alone. That very time,
I yet remember, through the miry lane
She walked with me a mile, when the bare trees
Trickled with foggy damps, and in such sort 440 That any heart had ached to hear her, begged
That wheresoe’r I went I still would ask
For him whom she had lost. We parted then,
Our final parting; for from that time forth
Did many seasons pass ere I returned
Into this tract again.
445 “Five tedious years
She lingered in unquiet widowhood,
A wife and widow. Needs must it have been
A sore heart-wasting. I have heard, my friend,
That in that broken arbor she would sit 450 The idle length of half a sabbath day;
There, where you see the toadstool’s lazy head;
And when a dog passed by she still would quit
The shade and look abroad. On this old Bench

For hours she sate, and evermore her eye
455 Was busy in the distance, shaping things
Which made her heart beat quick. Seest thou that path?
The green sward^o now has broken its gray line— grassy land
There to and fro she paced through many a day
Of the warm summer, from a belt of flax
460 That girt her waist, spinning the long-drawn thread
With backward steps. Yet ever as there passed
A man whose garments showed the Soldier's red,
Or crippled Mendicant in Sailor's garb,
The little child who sate to turn the wheel
465 Ceased from his toil, and she, with faltering voice,
Expecting still to hear her husband's fate,
Made many a fond enquiry; and when they Whose presence gave no comfort, were gone by,
Her heart was still more sad. And by yon gate,
470 Which bars the traveler's road, she often stood,
And when a stranger horseman came, the latch
Would lift, and in his face look wistfully,
Most happy if from aught discovered there
Of tender feeling she might dare repeat
The same sad question.
475 "Meanwhile her poor hut
Sunk to decay; for he was gone, whose hand
At the first nippings of October frost
Closed up each chink, and with fresh bands of straw
Chequered the green-grown thatch. And so she lived

480 Through the long winter, reckless⁰ and alone, not caring for herself T H E R U I N E D C O T T A G E / 7 7 9

Till this reft^o house, by frost, and thaw, and rain, emptied

Was sapped; and when she slept, the nightly damps

Did chill her breast, and in the stormy day

Her tattered clothes were ruffled by the wind

485 Even at the side of her own fire. Yet still

She loved this wretched spot, nor would for worlds

Have parted hence; and still that length of road,

And this rude^o bench, one torturing hope endeared, roughly made

Fast rooted at her heart. And here, my friend,

490 In sickness she remained; and here she died,

Last human tenant of these ruined walls.”

The old Man ceased: he saw that I was moved.

From that low bench rising instinctively,

I turned aside in weakness, nor had power

495 To thank him for the tale which he had told.

I stood, and leaning o’er the garden gate

Reviewed that Woman’s sufferings; and it seemed To comfort me while with a brother’s love

I blessed her in the impotence of grief.

500 At length towards the cottage I returned

Fondly, and traced with milder interest,

That secret spirit of humanity

Which, ‘mid the calm oblivious tendencies

Of nature, ‘mid her plants, her weeds and flowers,

505 And silent overgrowings, still survived.

The old man seeing this resumed, and said,

“My friend, enough to sorrow have you given,
The purposes of Wisdom ask no more:
Be wise and cheerful, and no longer read
510 The forms of things with an unworthy eye.
She sleeps in the calm earth, and peace is here.
I well remember that those very plumes,
Those weeds, and the high spear grass on that wall,
By mist and silent raindrops silvered o’er,
515 As once I passed, did to my mind convey
So still an image of tranquility,
So calm and still, and looked so beautiful
Amid the uneasy thoughts which filled my mind,
That what we feel of sorrow and despair
520 From ruin and from change, and all the grief
The passing shows of being leave behind,
Appeared an idle dream that could not live
Where meditation was. I turned away,
And walked along my road in happiness.”
525 He ceased. By this the sun declining shot
A slant and mellow radiance, which began
To fall upon us where beneath the trees
We sate on that low bench. And now we felt,
Admonished thus, the sweet hour coming on:
530 A linnet warbled from those lofty elms,
780 / W I L L I A M W O R D S W O R T H
A thrush sang loud, and other melodies
At distance heard, peopled the milder air.
The old man rose and hoisted up his load.

Together casting then a farewell look 535 Upon those silent walls, we left the shade;
And, ere the stars were visible, attained
A rustic inn, our evening resting place.

T H E E N D

1797-98 1969

Anecdote for Fathers

“Retine vim istam, falsa enim dicam, si coges.”

E U S E B I U S . 2

I have a boy of five years old;
His face is fair and fresh to see;
His limbs are cast in beauty's mold,
And dearly he loves me.

5 One morn we strolled on our dry walk,
Our quiet home all full in view,
And held such intermitted talk
As we are wont to do.

My thoughts on former pleasures ran;
10 I thought of Kilve's³ delightful shore,
Our pleasant home when spring began,
A long, long year before.

A day it was when I could bear
Some fond regrets to entertain;
15 With so much happiness to spare,
I could not feel a pain.

The green earth echoed to the feet
Of lambs that bounded through the glade,
From shade to sunshine, and as fleet

20 From sunshine back to shade.
Birds warbled round me—and each trace
Of inward sadness had its charm;
Kilve, thought I, was a favored place,
And so is Liswyn farm.

25 My boy beside me tripped, so slim
And graceful in his rustic dress!

2. Latin translation by Eusebius (Preparatio Evan-poetry) to any who would try to coerce the oracle:
gelica 6.5) of a Greek line from Porphyro that pur-“Restrain your violence, for I shall lie if you force ports to be the warning of Apollo (Greek and me.”

Roman god of sunlight, prophecy, music, and

3. Village on the Bristol Channel.

T H E P R E L U D E / 7 8 1

And, as we talked, I questioned him,
In very idleness.

“Now tell me, had you rather be,”

30 I said, and took him by the arm,

“On Kilve’s smooth shore, by the green sea,
Or here at Liswyn farm?”

In careless mood he looked at me,

While still I held him by the arm,

35 And said, “At Kilve I’d rather be

Than here at Liswyn farm.”

“Now, little Edward, say why so:

My little Edward, tell me why.”—

“I cannot tell, I do not know.”—
40 “Why, this is strange,” said I;
“For, here are woods, hills smooth and warm:
There surely must some reason be
Why you would change sweet Liswyn farm
For Kilve by the green sea.”

45 At this, my boy hung down his head,
He blushed with shame, nor made reply;
And three times to the child I said,
“Why, Edward, tell me why?”

His head he raised—there was in sight,
50 It caught his eye, he saw it plain—
Upon the house-top, glittering bright,
A broad and gilded vane.

Then did the boy his tongue unlock,
And eased his mind with this reply:
55 “At Kilve there was no weather-cock;
And that’s the reason why.”

O dearest, dearest boy! my heart
For better lore would seldom yearn,
Could I but teach the hundredth part 60 Of what from thee I learn.

1798 1798

From The Prelude

From Book I

Fair seedtime had my soul, and I grew up
Fostered alike by beauty and by fear:
Much favored in my birthplace,⁴ and no less

4. Cockermouth, a town in the northern part of the English Lake District.

782 / WILLIAM WORDSWORTH

In that beloved Vale⁵ to which ere long
305 We were transplanted—there were we let loose
For sports of wider range. Ere I had told
Ten birthdays, when among the mountain slopes
Frost, and the breath of frosty wind, had snapped
The last autumnal crocus, 'twas my joy
310 With store of springes⁰ o'er my shoulder hung snares
To range the open heights where woodcocks run
Along the smooth green turf. Through half the night,
Scudding away from snare to snare, I plied
That anxious visitation—moon and stars
315 Were shining o'er my head. I was alone,
And seemed to be a trouble to the peace
That dwelt among them. Sometimes it befell
In these night wanderings, that a strong desire O'erpowered my better reason, and the bird
320 Which was the captive of another's toil
Became my prey; and when the deed was done
I heard among the solitary hills
Low breathings coming after me, and sounds
Of undistinguishable motion, steps
325 Almost as silent as the turf they trod.
Nor less, when spring had warmed the cultured⁰ Vale, cultivated
Moved we as plunderers where the mother bird
Had in high places built her lodge; though mean

Our object and inglorious, yet the end
330 Was not ignoble. Oh! when I have hung Above the raven's nest, by knots of grass
And half-inch fissures in the slippery rock
But ill sustained, and almost (so it seemed)
Suspended by the blast that blew amain,⁰ at full speed
335 Shouldering the naked crag, oh, at that time
While on the perilous ridge I hung alone,
With what strange utterance did the loud dry wind
Blow through my ear! the sky seemed not a sky
Of earth—and with what motion moved the clouds!
340 Dust as we are, the immortal spirit grows
Like harmony in music; there is a dark
Inscrutable workmanship that reconciles
Discordant elements, makes them cling together
In one society. How strange that all 345 The terrors, pains, and early miseries,
Regrets, vexations, lassitudes interfused
Within my mind, should e'er have borne a part,
And that a needful part, in making up
The calm existence that is mine when I 350 Am worthy of myself! Praise to the end!
Thanks to the means which Nature deigned to employ;
Whether her fearless visitings, or those
5. Esthwaite, also in the Lakes.

THE PRELUDE / 783

That came with soft alarm, like hurtless light
Opening the peaceful clouds; or she may use

355 Severer interventions, ministry
More palpable, as best might suit her aim.
One summer evening (led by her) I found
A little boat tied to a willow tree
Within a rocky cave, its usual home.

360 Straight I unloosed her chain, and stepping in Pushed from the shore. It was an act of stealth
And troubled pleasure, nor without the voice
Of mountain echoes did my boat move on;
Leaving behind her still, on either side,

365 Small circles glittering idly in the moon,
Until they melted all into one track
Of sparkling light. But now, like one who rows,
Proud of his skill, to reach a chosen point
With an unswerving line, I fixed my view

370 Upon the summit of a craggy ridge,
The horizon's utmost boundary; for above
Was nothing but the stars and the gray sky.
She was an elfin pinnace;0 lustily small boat
I dipped my oars into the silent lake,

375 And, as I rose upon the stroke, my boat
Went heaving through the water like a swan;
When, from behind that craggy steep till then
The horizon's bound, a huge peak, black and huge,
As if with voluntary power instinct,

380 Upreared its head. I struck and struck again,
And growing still in stature the grim shape
Towered up between me and the stars, and still,

For so it seemed, with purpose of its own
And measured motion like a living thing, 385 Strode after me. With trembling oars I turned,
And through the silent water stole my way
Back to the covert of the willow tree;
There in her mooring place I left my bark,
And through the meadows homeward went, in grave
390 And serious mood; but after I had seen
That spectacle, for many days, my brain
Worked with a dim and undetermined sense
Of unknown modes of being; o'er my thoughts
There hung a darkness, call it solitude
395 Or blank desertion. No familiar shapes Remained, no pleasant images of trees,
Of sea or sky, no colors of green fields;
But huge and mighty forms, that do not live
Like living men, moved slowly through the mind
400 By day, and were a trouble to my dreams.
Wisdom and Spirit of the universe!
Thou Soul that art the eternity of thought,
784 / WILLIAM WORDSWORTH
That givest to forms and images a breath
And everlasting motion, not in vain
405 By day or starlight thus from my first dawn
Of childhood didst thou intertwine for me
The passions that build up our human soul;
Not with the mean and vulgar⁰ works of man, commonplace
But with high objects, with enduring things—

410 With life and nature—purifying thus
The elements of feeling and of thought,
And sanctifying, by such discipline,
Both pain and fear, until we recognize
A grandeur in the beating of the heart.
415 Nor was this fellowship vouchsafed to me
With stinted kindness. In November days,
When vapors rolling down the valley made
A lonely scene more lonesome, among woods,
At noon and ‘mid the calm of summer nights,
420 When, by the margin of the trembling lake,
Beneath the gloomy hills homeward I went
In solitude, such intercourse was mine;
Mine was it in the fields both day and night,
And by the waters, all the summer long.
425 And in the frosty season, when the sun
Was set, and visible for many a mile
The cottage windows blazed through twilight gloom,
I heeded not their summons: happy time
It was indeed for all of us—for me
430 It was a time of rapture! Clear and loud
The village clock tolled six—I wheeled about,
Proud and exulting like an untired horse
That cares not for his home. All shod with steel,
We hissed along the polished ice in games
435 Confederate, imitative of the chase
And woodland pleasures—the resounding horn,
The pack loud chiming, and the hunted hare.

So through the darkness and the cold we flew,
And not a voice was idle; with the din
440 Smitten, the precipices rang aloud;
The leafless trees and every icy crag
Tinkled like iron; while far distant hills
Into the tumult sent an alien sound
Of melancholy not unnoticed, while the stars
445 Eastward were sparkling clear, and in the west
The orange sky of evening died away.
Not seldom from the uproar I retired
Into a silent bay, or sportively
Glanced sideway, leaving the tumultuous throng,
450 To cut across the reflex⁰ of a star reflection
That fled, and, flying still before me, gleamed
Upon the glassy plain; and oftentimes,
When we had given our bodies to the wind,

T H E P R E L U D E / 7 8 5

And all the shadowy banks on either side
455 Came sweeping through the darkness, spinning still
The rapid line of motion, then at once
Have I, reclining back upon my heels,
Stopped short; yet still the solitary cliffs
Wheeled by me—even as if the earth had rolled 460 With visible motion her diurnal⁰ round!
daily
Behind me did they stretch in solemn train,⁰ succession
Feebler and feebler, and I stood and watched

Till all was tranquil as a dreamless sleep.
Ye Presences of Nature in the sky
465 And on the earth! Ye Visions of the hills!
And Souls of lonely places! can I think
A vulgar hope was yours when ye employed
Such ministry, when ye, through many a year
Haunting me thus among my boyish sports,
470 On caves and trees, upon the woods and hills,
Impressed upon all forms the characters⁰ signs
Of danger or desire; and thus did make
The surface of the universal earth
With triumph and delight, with hope and fear,
Work⁰ like a sea? seethe
475 Not uselessly employed,
Might I pursue this theme through every change
Of exercise and play, to which the year
Did summon us in his delightful round.
We were a noisy crew; the sun in heaven
480 Beheld not vales more beautiful than ours;
Nor saw a band in happiness and joy
Richer, or worthier of the ground they trod.
I could record with no reluctant voice
The woods of autumn, and their hazel bowers
485 With milk-white clusters hung; the rod and line,
True symbol of hope's foolishness, whose strong
And unreproved enchantment led us on
By rocks and pools shut out from every star,
All the green summer, to forlorn cascades

490 Among the windings hid of mountain brooks.

—Unfading recollections! at this hour

The heart is almost mine with which I felt,

From some hill-top on sunny afternoons,

The paper kite high among fleecy clouds

495 Pull at her rein like an impetuous courser;

Or, from the meadows sent on gusty days,

Beheld her breast the wind, then suddenly

Dashed headlong, and rejected by the storm.

Ye lowly cottages wherein we dwelt,

500 A ministration of your own was yours;

Can I forget you, being as you were

786 / WILLIAM WORDSWORTH

So beautiful among the pleasant fields

In which ye stood? or can I here forget

The plain and seemly countenance with which

505 Ye dealt out your plain comforts? Yet had ye

Delights and exultations of your own.

Eager and never weary we pursued

Our home-amusements by the warm peat-fire

At evening, when with pencil, and smooth slate

510 In square divisions parceled out and all

With crosses and with cyphers scribbled o'er,

We schemed and puzzled, head opposed to head

In strife too humble to be named in verse:

Or round the naked table, snow-white deal,⁰ fine board

515 Cherry or maple, sate in close array,

And to the combat, Loo or Whist,⁶ led on

A thick-ribbed army; not, as in the world,
Neglected and ungratefully thrown by
Even for the very service they had wrought,
520 But husbanded through many a long campaign.
Uncouth assemblage was it, where no few
Had changed their functions; some, plebeian cards
Which Fate, beyond the promise of their birth,
Had dignified, and called to represent 525 The persons of departed potentates.
Oh, with what echoes on the board they fell!
Ironic diamonds,—clubs, hearts, diamonds, spades,
A congregation piteously akin!
Cheap matter offered they to boyish wit,
530 Those sooty knaves, precipitated down
With scoffs and taunts, like Vulcan⁷ out of heaven:
The paramount ace, a moon in her eclipse,
Queens gleaming through their splendor's last decay,
And monarchs surly at the wrongs sustained
535 By royal visages. Meanwhile abroad
Incessant rain was falling, or the frost
Raged bitterly, with keen and silent tooth;
And, interrupting oft that eager game,
From under Esthwaite's splitting fields of ice
540 The pent-up air, struggling to free itself,
Gave out to meadow grounds and hills a loud
Protracted yelling, like the noise of wolves
Howling in troops along the Bothnic main.⁸
Nor, sedulous⁰ as I have been to trace diligent

545 How Nature by extrinsic⁰ passion first unrelated

Peopled the mind with forms sublime or fair,

And made me love them, may I here omit

How other pleasures have been mine, and joys

6. Card games resembling poker and bridge; the defaced.

pack of cards described in lines 516—35 through

7. In Roman mythology, the god of fire, or the long use has been damaged and repaired, with low smith of the gods (hence “sooty,” line 530); his (“plebeian,” line 522) cards made into high father, Jove, once hurled him out of heaven.

(“potentates,” line 525) and others partially

8. A northern gulf of the Baltic Sea.

T H E P R E L U D E / 7 8 7

Of subtler origin; how I have felt,

550 Not seldom even in that tempestuous time,

Those hallowed and pure motions of the sense

Which seem, in their simplicity, to own

An intellectual⁰ charm; that calm delight spiritual

Which, if I err not, surely must belong

555 To those first-born⁰ affinities that fit innate

Our new existence to existing things,

And, in our dawn of being, constitute

The bond of union between life and joy.

Yes, I remember when the changeful earth,

560 And twice five summers on my mind had stamped
The faces of the moving year, even then
I held unconscious intercourse with beauty
Old as creation, drinking in a pure
Organic pleasure from the silver wreaths 565 Of curling mist, or from the level plain
Of waters colored by impending clouds. overhanging
The sands of Westmoreland, the creeks and bays
Of Cumbria's rocky limits,⁹ they can tell
How, when the Sea threw off his evening shade,
570 And to the shepherd's hut on distant hills
Sent welcome notice of the rising moon,
How I have stood, to fancies such as these
A stranger, linking with the spectacle
No conscious memory of a kindred sight,
575 And bringing with me no peculiar sense
Of quietness or peace; yet have I stood,
Even while mine eye hath moved o'er many a league
Of shining water, gathering as it seemed,
Through every hairbreadth in that field of light,
580 New pleasure like a bee among the flowers.
Thus oft amid those fits of vulgar joy
Which, through all seasons, on a child's pursuits
Are prompt attendants, 'mid that giddy bliss
Which, like a tempest, works along the blood
585 And is forgotten; even then I felt Gleams like the flashing of a shield—the earth
And common face of Nature spake to me

Rememberable things; sometimes, 'tis true,
By chance collisions and quaint accidents
590 (Like those ill-sorted unions, work supposed
Of evil-minded fairies), yet not vain
Nor profitless, if haply they impressed
Collateral objects and appearances,
Albeit lifeless then, and doomed to sleep
595 Until maturer seasons called them forth
To impregnate and to elevate the mind.
—And if the vulgar joy by its own weight

9. Coastline areas of the Lake District.

788 / WILLIAM WORDSWORTH

Wearied itself out of the memory,
The scenes which were a witness of that joy
600 Remained in their substantial lineaments
Depicted on the brain, and to the eye
Were visible, a daily sight; and thus
By the impressive discipline of fear,
By pleasure and repeated happiness,
605 So frequently repeated, and by force
Of obscure feelings representative
Of things forgotten, these same scenes so bright,
So beautiful, so majestic in themselves,
Though yet the day was distant, did become 610 Habitually dear, and all their forms
And changeful colors by invisible links
Were fastened to the affections.⁰ feelings
I began

My story early—not misled, I trust,
By an infirmity of love for days
615 Disowned by memory—fancying flowers where none,
Not even the sweetest, do or can survive
For him at least whose dawning day they cheered.
Nor will it seem to thee, O Friend! so prompt
In sympathy, that I have lengthened out
620 With fond and feeble tongue a tedious tale.
Meanwhile, my hope has been, that I might fetch Invigorating thoughts from former years;
Might fix the wavering balance of my mind,
And haply meet reproaches too, whose power
625 May spur me on, in manhood now mature,
To honorable toil. Yet should these hopes
Prove vain, and thus should neither I be taught
To understand myself, nor thou to know
With better knowledge how the heart was framed 630 Of him thou lovest; need I dread from thee
Harsh judgments, if the song be loth to quit
Those recollected hours that have the charm
Of visionary things, those lovely forms
And sweet sensations that throw back our life,
635 And almost make remotest infancy
A visible scene, on which the sun is shining?
One end at least hath been attained; my mind
Hath been revived, and if this genial⁰ mood creative Desert me not, forthwith shall be brought down 640 Through later years the story of my life.

The road lies plain before me—'tis a theme
Single and of determined bounds; and hence
I choose it rather at this time, than work
Of ampler or more varied argument,

645 Where I might be discomfited and lost:

1. Samuel Taylor Coleridge (1772—1834; see pp. 805—31), the poet and philosopher to whom The Prelude was addressed;
Wordsworth's particular friend and collaborator.

T H R E E Y E A R S S H E G R E W / 7 8 9

And certain hopes are with me, that to thee
This labor will be welcome, honored Friend!

1798-1800 1850

She Dwelt among the Untrodden Ways
She dwelt among the untrodden ways
Beside the springs of Dove.²
A Maid whom there were none to praise
And very few to love;
5 A violet by a mossy stone
Half hidden from the eye!
—Fair as a star, when only one
Is shining in the sky.

She lived unknown, and few could know

10 When Lucy ceased to be;
But she is in her grave, and, oh,
The difference to me!

1799 1800

Three Years She Grew
Three years she grew in sun and shower,
Then Nature said, "A lovelier flower

On earth was never sown;
This Child I to myself will take;
5 She shall be mine, and I will make A Lady of my own.
“Myself will to my darling be Both law and impulse: and with me
The Girl, in rock and plain,
10 In earth and heaven, in glade and bower,
Shall feel an overseeing power
To kindle or restrain.

“She shall be sportive as the fawn
That wild with glee across the lawn
15 Or up the mountain springs;
And hers shall be the breathing balm,
And hers the silence and the calm
Of mute insensate things.

2. Several rivers in England are named Dove.

790 / WILLIAM WORDSWORTH

“The floating clouds their state shall lend 20 To her; for her the willow bend;
Nor shall she fail to see
Even in the motions of the Storm
Grace that shall mold the Maiden’s form
By silent sympathy.

25 “The stars of midnight shall be dear
To her; and she shall lean her ear
In many a secret place
Where rivulets dance their wayward round,

And beauty born of murmuring sound
30 Shall pass into her face.
“And vital feelings of delight
Shall rear her form to stately height,
Her virgin bosom swell;
Such thoughts to Lucy I will give 35 While she and I together live
Here in this happy dell.”
Thus Nature spake—the work was done—
How soon my Lucy’s race was run!
She died, and left to me
40 This health, this calm, and quiet scene;
The memory of what has been,
And never more will be.

1799 1800

A Slumber Did My Spirit Seal
A slumber did my spirit seal;
I had no human fears:
She seemed a thing that could not feel
The touch of earthly years.
5 No motion has she now, no force;
She neither hears nor sees;
Rolled round in earth’s diurnal⁰ course, daily
With rocks, and stones, and trees.

1799 1800

Resolution and Independence

i

There was a roaring in the wind all night;

The rain came heavily and fell in floods;

RESOLUTION AND INDEPENDENCE / 79

1

But now the sun is rising calm and bright;

The birds are singing in the distant woods;

5 Over his own sweet voice the Stock-dove broods;

The Jay makes answer as the Magpie chatters;

And all the air is filled with pleasant noise of waters.

2

All things that love the sun are out of doors;

The sky rejoices in the morning's birth;

10 The grass is bright with rain-drops;—on the moors

The hare is running races in her mirth;

And with her feet she from the plashy earth

Raises a mist; that, glittering in the sun,

Runs with her all the way, wherever she doth run.

3

15 I was a Traveler then upon the moor;

I saw the hare that raced about with joy;

I heard the woods and distant waters roar;

Or heard them not, as happy as a boy:

The pleasant season did my heart employ:

20 My old remembrances went from me wholly;

And all the ways of men, so vain and melancholy.

4

But, as it sometimes chanceth, from the might

Of joy in minds that can no further go,

As high as we have mounted in delight

25 In our dejection do we sink as low;
To me that morning did it happen so;
And fears and fancies thick upon me came;
Dim sadness—and blind thoughts, I knew not, nor could name.

5

I heard the sky-lark warbling in the sky;
30 And I bethought me of the playful hare:
Even such a happy Child of earth am I;
Even as these blissful creatures do I fare;
Far from the world I walk, and from all care;
But there may come another day to me—
35 Solitude, pain of heart, distress, and poverty.

6

My whole life I have lived in pleasant thought,
As if life's business were a summer mood;
As if all needful things would come unsought
To genial faith, still rich in genial good;
40 But how can He expect that others should Build for him, sow for him, and at his call
Love him, who for himself will take no heed at all?

7 9 2

/ W I L L I A M W O R D S W O R T H

7

I thought of Chattertoiv the marvelous Boy,
The sleepless Soul that perished in his pride;
45 Of Him4 who walked in glory and in joy
Following his plow, along the mountain-side:

By our own spirits are we deified:
We Poets in our youth begin in gladness;
But thereof come in the end despondency and madness.

8

50 Now, whether it were by peculiar grace,
A leading from above, a something given,
Yet it befell, that, in this lonely place,
When I with these untoward thoughts had striven,
Beside a pool bare to the eye of heaven
55 I saw a Man before me unawares:
The oldest man he seemed that ever wore gray hairs.

9

As a huge stone is sometimes seen to lie
Couched on the bald top of an eminence;
Wonder to all who do the same espy,
60 By what means it could thither come, and whence;
So that it seems a thing endued with sense:
Like a sea-beast crawled forth, that on a shelf
Of rock or sand repositeth, there to sun itself;

10

Such seemed this Man, not all alive nor dead,
65 Nor all asleep—in his extreme old age:
His body was bent double, feet and head
Coming together in life's pilgrimage;
As if some dire constraint of pain, or rage
Of sickness felt by him in times long past,
70 A more than human weight upon his frame had cast.

II

Himself he propped, limbs, body, and pale face,
Upon a long gray staff of shaven wood:
And, still as I drew near with gentle pace,
Upon the margin of that moorish flood
75 Motionless as a cloud the old Man stood,
That heareth not the loud winds when they call;
And moveth all together, if it move at all.

12

At length, himself unsettling, he the pond
Stirred with his staff, and fixedly did look 80

Upon the muddy water, which he coned,⁰ studied

3. Thomas Chatterton (1752-1770), a gifted

4. Robert Burns (1759-1796; see pp. 747-60), young English poet who committed suicide.

who died before achieving his later great renown.

R E S O L U T I O N A N D I N D E P E N D E N C E / 7 9 3

As if he had been reading in a book:

And now a stranger's privilege I took;

And, drawing to his side, to him did say,

“This morning gives us promise of a glorious day.”

!3

85 A gentle answer did the old Man make,

In courteous speech which forth he slowly drew:

And him with further words I thus bespake,

“What occupation do you there pursue?

This is a lonesome place for one like you.”

90 Ere he replied, a flash of mild surprise
Broke from the sable orbs of his yet-vivid eyes.

14

His words came feebly, from a feeble chest,
But each in solemn order followed each,
With something of a lofty utterance drest—
95 Choice word and measured phrase, above the reach
Of ordinary men; a stately speech;
Such as grave Livers⁵ do in Scotland use,
Religious men, who give to God and man their dues.

15

He told, that to these waters he had come 100 To gather leeches,⁶ being old and poor:
Employment hazardous and wearisome!
And he had many hardships to endure:
From pond to pond he roamed, from moor to moor;
Housing, with God's good help, by choice or chance;
105 And in this way he gained an honest maintenance.

16

The old Man still stood talking by my side;
But now his voice to me was like a stream
Scarce heard; nor word from word could I divide;
And the whole body of the Man did seem 110 Like one whom I had met with in a dream;
Or like a man from some far region sent,
To give me human strength, by apt admonishment.

!7

My former thoughts returned: the fear that kills;

And hope that is unwilling to be fed;
115 Cold, pain, and labor, and all fleshly ills;
5. Those who live austerely and gravely. See
And an habitual piety, maintained
Wordsworth's "The Excursion," 1.113—17; the ref-
With strictness scarcely known on English erence is to a Scottish family:
ground.

Pure livers were they all, austere and grave,
6. Aquatic bloodsuckers, once widely used for
And fearing God; the very children taught medicinal bloodletting.

Stern self-respect, a reverence for God's word,

794

/WILLIAM WORDSWORTH

And mighty Poets in their misery dead.

—Perplexed, and longing to be comforted,

My question eagerly did I renew,

"How is it that you live, and what is it you do?"

18

120 He with a smile did then his words repeat;

And said, that, gathering leeches, far and wide

He traveled; stirring thus about his feet

The waters of the pools where they abide.

"Once I could meet with them on every side;

125 But they have dwindled long by slow decay;

Yet still I persevere, and find them where I may."

!9

While he was talking thus, the lonely place,
The old Man's shape, and speech—all troubled me:
In my mind's eye I seemed to see him pace
130 About the weary moors continually,
Wandering about alone and silently.
While I these thoughts within myself pursued,
He, having made a pause, the same discourse renewed.

20

And soon with this he other matter blended,
135 Cheerfully uttered, with demeanor kind,
But stately in the main; and when he ended,
I could have laughed myself to scorn to find
In that decrepit Man so firm a mind.

“God,” said I, “be my help and stay secure; support (noun)
140 I'll think of the Leech-gatherer on the lonely moor!”

1802 1807

It Is a Beauteous Evening⁷

It is a beauteous evening, calm and free,
The holy time is quiet as a Nun
Breathless with adoration; the broad sun
Is sinking down in its tranquility;
5 The gentleness of heaven broods o'er the Sea:
Listen! the mighty Being is awake,
And doth with his eternal motion make
A sound like thunder—everlastingly.
Dear Child! dear Girl! that walkest with me here,
io If thou appear untouched by solemn thought,
Thy nature is not therefore less divine:

7. The “Dear Child” was Caroline (then ten years old), his daughter by Annette Vallon.

COMPOSED UPON WESTMINSTER BRIDGE, SEPTEMBER 3, 1802 / 795

Thou liest in Abraham’s bosom⁸ all the year,
And worship’st at the Temple’s inner shrine, ⁹
God being with thee when we know it not.

1802

1807

London, 1802

Milton! thou shouldst be living at this hour:
England hath need of thee: she is a fen
Of stagnant waters: altar, sword, and pen,
Fireside, the heroic wealth of hall and bower,
5 Have forfeited their ancient English dower
Of inward happiness. We are selfish men;
Oh! raise us up, return to us again;
And give us manners, virtue, freedom, power.
Thy soul was like a Star, and dwelt apart;
IO Thou hadst a voice whose sound was like the sea:
Pure as the naked heavens, majestic, free,
So didst thou travel on life’s common way,
In cheerful godliness; and yet thy heart
The lowliest duties on herself did lay.

1802

1807

Composed upon Westminster Bridge, September 3, 1802

Earth has not anything to show more fair:
Dull would he be of soul who could pass by

A sight so touching in its majesty;
This City now doth, like a garment, wear
5 The beauty of the morning; silent, bare,
Ships, towers, domes, theaters, and temples lie
Open unto the fields, and to the sky;
All bright and glittering in the smokeless air.
Never did sun more beautifully steep
io In his first splendor, valley, rock, or hill;
Ne'er saw I, never felt, a calm so deep!
The river glideth at his own sweet will:
Dear God! the very houses seem asleep;
And all that mighty heart is lying still!

1802

1 8 0 7

8. Where souls in heaven rest (as in Luke 16.22).

9. The holy of holies (as in the ancient temple in Jerusalem);
where God is present.

7 9 6 / W I L L I A M W O R D S W O R T H

Nuns Fret Not at Their Convent's Narrow Room

Nuns fret not at their convent's narrow room;

And hermits are contented with their cells;

And students with their pensive citadels;

Maids at the wheel, the weaver at his loom,

5 Sit blithe and happy; bees that soar for bloom,

High as the highest Peak of Furness-fells,¹

Will murmur by the hour in foxglove bells:

In truth the prison, into which we doom

Ourselves, no prison is: and hence for me,

10 In sundry moods, 'twas pastime to be bound
Within the Sonnet's scanty plot of ground;
Pleased if some Souls (for such there needs must be)
Who have felt the weight of too much liberty,
Should find brief solace there, as I have found.

1802 1807

My Heart Leaps Up

My heart leaps up when I behold

A rainbow in the sky:

So was it when my life began;

So is it now I am a man;

5 So be it when I shall grow old,

Or let me die!

The Child is father of the Man;

And I could wish my days to be

Bound each to each by natural piety.

1802 1807

Ode

Intimations of Immortality from Recollections of Early Childhood

The Child is father of the Man;

And I could wish my days to be

Bound each to each by natural piety.²

I

There was a time when meadow, grove, and stream,

The earth, and every common sight,

To me did seem

Appareled in celestial light,

1. Mountains in the English Lake District.
2. Final lines of Wordsworth's "My Heart Leaps Up" (above).

O D E / 7 9 7

The glory and the freshness of a dream.
It is not now as it hath been of yore—
Turn whereso'er I may,
By night or day,
The things which I have seen I now can see no more.

2

The Rainbow comes and goes,
And lovely is the Rose,
The Moon doth with delight
Look round her when the heavens are bare,
Waters on a starry night
Are beautiful and fair;
The sunshine is a glorious birth;
But yet I know, where'er I go,
That there hath passed away a glory from the earth.

3

Now, while the birds thus sing a joyous song,
And while the young lambs bound
As to the tabor's sound, small drum's
To me alone there came a thought of grief:
A timely utterance gave that thought relief,
And I again am strong:
The cataracts blow their trumpets from the steep;
No more shall grief of mine the season wrong;
I hear the Echoes through the mountains throng,

The Winds come to me from the fields of sleep,
And all the earth is gay;
Land and sea
Give themselves up to jollity,
And with the heart of May Doth every Beast keep holiday—
Thou Child of Joy,
Shout round me, let me hear thy shouts, thou happy Shepherd-boy!
Ye blessed Creatures, I have heard the call
Ye to each other make; I see
The heavens laugh with you in your jubilee;
My heart is at your festival,
My head hath its coronal,⁰ circlet of wildflowers
The fullness of your bliss, I feel—I feel it all.
Oh, evil day! if I were sullen
While Earth herself is adorning,
This sweet May morning,
And the Children are culling
On every side,
In a thousand valleys far and wide,
Fresh flowers; while the sun shines warm,
And the Babe leaps up on his Mother's arm—
798 / WILLIAM WORDSWORTH
50 I hear, I hear, with joy I hear!
—But there's a Tree, of many, one,
A single Field which I have looked upon,
Both of them speak of something that is gone:

The Pansy at my feet

55 Doth the same tale repeat:

Whither is fled the visionary gleam?

Where is it now, the glory and the dream?

5

Our birth is but a sleep and a forgetting:

The Soul that rises with us, our life's Star,

60 Hath had elsewhere its setting,

And cometh from afar:

Not in entire forgetfulness,

And not in utter nakedness,

But trailing clouds of glory do we come

65 From God, who is our home:

Heaven lies about us in our infancy!

Shades of the prison-house begin to close

Upon the growing Boy

But he

70 Beholds the light, and whence it flows,

He sees it in his joy;

The Youth, who daily farther from the east

Must travel, still is Nature's Priest,

And by the vision splendid

75 Is on his way attended;

At length the Man perceives it die away,

And fade into the light of common day.

6

Earth fills her lap with pleasures of her own;

Yearnings she hath in her own natural kind,

so And, even with something of a Mother's mind,
And no unworthy aim,
The homely Nurse doth all she can simple; kindly
To make her foster child, her Inmate Man,
Forget the glories he hath known,
85 And that imperial palace whence he came.

7

Behold the Child among his newborn blisses,
A six-years' Darling of a pygmy size!
See, where 'mid work of his own hand he lies,
Fretted by sallies of his mother's kisses, vexed
90 With light upon him from his father's eyes!
See, at his feet, some little plan or chart,
Some fragment from his dream of human life,
Shaped by himself with newly-learned art;
A wedding or a festival,

O D E / 7 9 9

95 A mourning or a funeral;
And this hath now his heart,
And unto this he frames his song;
Then will he fit his tongue
To dialogues of business, love, or strife;
100 But it will not be long
Ere this be thrown aside,
And with new joy and pride
The little Actor cons^o another part;
commits to memory
Filling from time to time his "humorous stage"

105 With all the Persons,0 down to palsied Age, dramatis personae

That Life brings with her in her equipage;0 group of servants

As if his whole vocation
Were endless imitation.

8

Thou, whose exterior semblance doth belie
110 Thy Soul's immensity;

Thou best Philosopher, who yet dost keep
Thy heritage, thou Eye among the blind,
That, deaf and silent, read'st the eternal deep,
Haunted forever by the eternal mind—

115 Mighty Prophet! Seer blest!

On whom those truths do rest,
Which we are toiling all our lives to find,
In darkness lost, the darkness of the grave;
Thou, over whom thy Immortality

120 Broods like the Day, a Master o'er a Slave,
A Presence which is not to be put by;

Thou little Child, yet glorious in the might
Of heaven-born freedom on thy being's height,
Why with such earnest pains dost thou provoke

125 The years to bring the inevitable yoke,
Thus blindly with thy blessedness at strife?

Full soon thy Soul shall have her earthly freight,
And custom lie upon thee with a weight,
Heavy as frost, and deep almost as life!

9

130 O joy! that in our embers
Is something that doth live,
That nature yet remembers
What was so fugitive!
The thought of our past years in me doth breed
135 Perpetual benediction: not indeed
For that which is most worthy to be blest;
Delight and liberty, the simple creed
Of Childhood, whether busy or at rest,
With new-fledged hope still fluttering in his breast—

3. I.e., playing the parts of characters with various tation from line 1 of a sonnet by Samuel Daniel temperaments, called “humors” by Elizabethan (ca. 1562—1619; for some of his sonnets and other poets and playwrights. “Humorous stage” is a quo- poems, see pp. 230—35).

800 / WILLIAM WORDSWORTH

140 Not for these I raise
The song of thanks and praise;
But for those obstinate questionings
Of sense and outward things,
Fallings from us, vanishings;
145 Blank misgivings of a Creature
Moving about in worlds not realized,⁰ seeming real
High instincts before which our mortal Nature
Did tremble like a guilty Thing surprised;
But for those first affections,
150 Those shadowy recollections,
Which, be they what they may,

Are yet the fountain light of all our day,
Are yet a master light of all our seeing;
Uphold us, cherish, and have power to make 155 Our noisy years seem moments in the being
Of the eternal Silence: truths that wake,
To perish never;
Which neither listlessness, nor mad endeavor,
Nor Man nor Boy,
160 Nor all that is at enmity with joy,
Can utterly abolish or destroy!
Hence in a season of calm weather
Though inland far we be,
Our Souls have sight of that immortal sea
165 Which brought us hither,
Can in a moment travel thither,
And see the Children sport upon the shore,
And hear the mighty waters rolling evermore.
io
Then sing, ye Birds, sing, sing a joyous song!
170 And let the young Lambs bound
As to the tabor's sound!
We in thought will join your throng,
Ye that pipe and ye that play,
Ye that through your hearts today
175 Feel the gladness of the May!
What though the radiance which was once so bright
Be now forever taken from my sight,
Though nothing can bring back the hour

Of splendor in the grass, of glory in the flower;

180 We will grieve not, rather find

Strength in what remains behind;

In the primal sympathy

Which having been must ever be;

In the soothing thoughts that spring

185 Out of human suffering;

In the faith that looks through death,

In years that bring the philosophic mind.

I W A N D E R E D L O N E L Y A S A C L O U D / 8 0 1

And O, ye Fountains, Meadows, Hills, and Groves,

Forebode not any severing of our loves!

190 Yet in my heart of hearts I feel your might;

I only have relinquished one delight

To live beneath your more habitual sway.

I love the Brooks which down their channels fret,

Even more than when I tripped lightly as they;

195 The innocent brightness of a newborn Day

Is lovely yet;

The clouds that gather round the setting sun

Do take a sober coloring from an eye

That hath kept watch o'er man's mortality;

200 Another race hath been, and other palms⁰ are won.

symbols of victory Thanks to the human heart by which we live,

Thanks to its tenderness, its joys, and fears,

To me the meanest⁰ flower that blows⁰ can give most ordinary / blooms

Thoughts that do often lie too deep for tears.

1802-04 1807

I Wandered Lonely as a Cloud

I wandered lonely as a cloud

That floats on high o'er vales and hills,

When all at once I saw a crowd,

A host, of golden daffodils;

5 Beside the lake, beneath the trees,

Fluttering and dancing in the breeze.

Continuous as the stars that shine

And twinkle on the milky way,

They stretched in never-ending line

io Along the margin of a bay:

Ten thousand saw I at a glance,

Tossing their heads in sprightly dance.

The waves beside them danced; but they

Outdid the sparkling waves in glee;

15 A poet could not but be gay,

In such a jocund0 company; cheerful

I gazed—and gazed—but little thought

What wealth the show to me had brought:

For oft, when on my couch I lie

20 In vacant or in pensive mood,

They flash upon that inward eye

Which is the bliss of solitude;

And then my heart with pleasure fills,

And dances with the daffodils.

1804

1807

802 / WILLIAM WORDSWORTH

She Was a Phantom of Delight

She was a Phantom⁰ of delight vivid image

When first she gleamed upon my sight;

A lovely Apparition, sent

To be a moment's ornament;

5 Her eyes as stars of Twilight fair;

Like Twilight's, too, her dusky hair;

But all things else about her drawn

From May-time and the cheerful Dawn;

A dancing Shape, an Image gay,

10 To haunt, to startle, and way-lay.

I saw her upon nearer view,

A Spirit, yet a Woman too!

Her household motions light and free,

And steps of virgin-liberty;

15 A countenance in which did meet

Sweet records, promises as sweet;

A Creature not too bright or good

For human nature's daily food;

For transient sorrows, simple wiles,

20 Praise, blame, love, kisses, tears, and smiles.

And now I see with eye serene

The very pulse of the machine;⁰ organism

A Being breathing thoughtful breath,

A Traveler between life and death;

25 The reason firm, the temperate will,

Endurance, foresight, strength, and skill;

A perfect Woman, nobly planned,
To warn, to comfort, and command;
And yet a Spirit still, and bright
30 With something of angelic light.

1804 1807

The World Is Too Much with Us
The world is too much with us; late and soon,
Getting and spending, we lay waste our powers;
Little we see in Nature that is ours;
We have given our hearts away, a sordid boon!⁰ gift
5 This Sea that bares her bosom to the moon,
The winds that will be howling at all hours,
And are up-gathered now like sleeping flowers,
For this, for everything, we are out of tune;
It moves us not.—Great God! I'd rather be io A Pagan suckled in a creed outworn;

THE SOLITARY REAPER / 8 0 3

So might I, standing on this pleasant lea,^o open meadow
Have glimpses that would make me less forlorn;
Have sight of Proteus rising from the sea;
Or hear old Triton blow his wreathed horn.⁴

1802-04 1807

The Solitary Reaper
Behold her, single in the field,
Yon solitary Highland Lass!
Reaping and singing by herself;
Stop here, or gently pass!
5 Alone she cuts and binds the grain,

And sings a melancholy strain;
O listen! for the Vale^o profound valley
Is overflowing with the sound.
No Nightingale did ever chaunt
io More welcome notes to weary bands
Of travelers in some shady haunt,
Among Arabian sands;
A voice so thrilling ne'er was heard
In springtime from the Cuckoo bird,
15 Breaking the silence of the seas
Among the farthest Hebrides.
Will no one tell me what she sings?—
Perhaps the plaintive numbers flow
For old, unhappy, far-off things,
20 And battles long ago;
Or is it some more humble lay,
Familiar matter of today?
Some natural sorrow, loss, or pain,
That has been, and may be again?
25 Whate'er the theme, the Maiden sang
As if her song could have no ending;
I saw her singing at her work,
And o'er the sickle bending—
I listened, motionless and still;
30 And, as I mounted up the hill,
The music in my heart I bore,
Long after it was heard no more.

1805 1807

4. In Greek mythology, Proteus, the “Old Man of while he takes many frightening shapes. Triton is the Sea,” rises from the sea at midday and can be the son of the sea god, Neptune; the sound of his forced to read the future by anyone who holds him conch-shell horn calms the waves.

804 / WILLIAM WORDSWORTH

Surprised by Joy

Surprised by Joy—impatient as the Wind

I turned to share the transport—Oh! with whom

But thee,⁵ deep buried in the silent tomb,

That spot which no vicissitude can find?

5 Love, faithful love, recalled thee to my mind—

But how could I forget thee? Through what power,

Even for the least division of an hour,

Have I been so beguiled as to be blind

To my most grievous loss!—That thought’s return

10 Was the worst pang that sorrow ever bore,

Save one, one only, when I stood forlorn,

Knowing my heart’s best treasure was no more;

That neither present time, nor years unborn

Could to my sight that heavenly face restore.

1813-14 1815

Mutability

From low to high doth dissolution climb,

And sink from high to low, along a scale

Of awful notes, whose concord shall not fail;

A musical but melancholy chime,

5 Which they can hear who meddle not with crime,

Nor avarice, nor over-anxious care.

Truth fails not; but her outward forms that bear
The longest date do melt like frosty rime,^o thin coating
That in the morning whitened hill and plain io And is no more; drop like the tower sublime
Of yesterday, which royally did wear
His crown of weeds, but could not even sustain
Some casual shout that broke the silent air,
Or the unimaginable touch of Time.

1821 1822

Scorn Not the Sonnet

Scorn not the sonnet; critic, you have frowned,
Mindless of its just honors; with this key
Shakespeare unlocked his heart; the melody
Of this small lute gave ease to Petrarch's⁶ wound;

5. The poet's daughter Catharine, who died in his unconsummated love for a woman he called 1812, at age four. "Laura."

6. Italian poet (1304—1374), whose "wound" was

THE AEOLIAN HARP / 805

5 A thousand times this pipe did Tasso⁷ sound;
With it Camoens soothed an exile's grief;⁸
The sonnet glittered a gay myrtle leaf
Amid the cypress with which Dante crowned
His visionary brow; a glow-worm lamp,
10 It cheered mild Spenser, called from Faeryland
To struggle through dark ways; and, when a damp⁰ dark mist
Fell round the path of Milton, in his hand
The thing became a trumpet; whence he blew
Soul-animating strains—alas, too few!

1827 1827

S A M U E L T A Y L O R C O L E R I D G E

1772-1834

The Aeolian Harp¹

Composed at Clevedon, Somersetshire

My pensive Sara!² thy soft cheek reclined

Thus on mine arm, most soothing sweet it is

To sit beside our Cot,^o our Cot o'ergrown cottage

With white-flowered Jasmin, and the broad-leaved Myrtle,

5 (Meet^o emblems they of Innocence and Love!) appropriate

And watch the clouds, that late were rich with light,

Slow saddening round, and mark the star of eve

Serenely brilliant (such should Wisdom be)

Shine opposite! How exquisite the scents

10 Snatched from yon bean-field! and the world so hushed!

The stilly murmur of the distant Sea

Tells us of silence.

And that simplest Lute,

Placed length-ways in the clasping casement, hark!

How by the desultory breeze caressed,

15 Like some coy maid half yielding to her lover,

It pours such sweet upbraiding, as must needs

Tempt to repeat the wrong! And now, its strings

Boldlier swept, the long sequacious^o notes uninterruptedly flowing

Over delicious surges sink and rise,

20 Such a soft floating witchery of sound

As twilight Elfins make, when they at eve

Voyage on gentle gales from Fairy-Land,
Where Melodies round honey-dropping flowers,

7. Italian poet (1544 - 1595).

a set of strings that vibrate in response to air cur-

8. Camoens (1524?—1580), Portuguese poet, was resents. German and English Romantic writers often banished from the royal court.

presented it as a symbol of the mind.

1. The wind harp (named after Aeolus, Greek god

2. Sara Fricker, whom Coleridge married in 1795.

of the winds) has a sounding board equipped with

He wrote this poem during their honeymoon.

806 / SAMUEL TAYLOR COLERIDGE

Footless and wild, like birds of Paradise,³

25 Nor pause, nor perch, hovering on untamed wing!

O! the one Life within us and abroad,

Which meets all motion and becomes its soul,

A light in sound, a sound-like power in light,

Rhythm in all thought, and joyance everywhere—

30 Methinks, it should have been impossible

Not to love all things in a world so filled;

Where the breeze warbles, and the mute still air

Is Music slumbering on her instrument.

And thus, my Love! as on the midway slope

35 Of yonder hill I stretch my limbs at noon,

Whilst through my half-closed eyelids I behold

The sunbeams dance, like diamonds, on the main,

And tranquil muse upon tranquility:

Full many a thought uncalled and undetained,
40 And many idle flitting phantasies,
Traverse my indolent and passive brain,
As wild and various as the random gales
That swell and flutter on this subject Lute!
And what if all of animated nature
45 Be but organic Harps diversely framed,
That tremble into thought, as o'er them sweeps
Plastic and vast, one intellectual breeze,
At once the Soul of each, and God of all?
But thy more serious eye a mild reproof
50 Darts, O beloved Woman! nor such thoughts
Dim and unhallowed dost thou not reject,
And biddest me walk humbly with my God.
Meek Daughter in the family of Christ!
Well hast thou said and holily dispraised
55 These shapings of the unregenerate mind;
Bubbles that glitter as they rise and break
On vain Philosophy's aye-babbling spring.
For never guiltless may I speak of him,
The Incomprehensible! save when with awe
60 I praise him, and with Faith that inly feels-,
Who with his saving mercies healed me,
A sinful and most miserable man,
Wildered and dark, and gave me to possess
Peace, and this Cot, and thee, heart-honored Maid!

1795 1796, 1817

3. Bright-plumaged birds of New Guinea and nearby islands; mistakenly supposed to have no feet and to spend their lives on the wing.

THIS LIME - TREE BOWER MY PRISON / 807

This Lime-Tree Bower My Prison

In the June of 1797, some long-expected Friends paid a visit to the author's cottage and on the morning of their arrival, he met with an accident, which disabled him from walking during the whole time of their stay. One evening, when they had left him for a few hours he composed the following lines in the garden bower.⁴

Well, they are gone, and here must I remain,

This lime-tree bower my prison! I have lost

Beauties and feelings, such as would have been

Most sweet to my remembrance even when age

5 Had dimmed mine eyes to blindness! They, meanwhile,

Friends, whom I never more may meet again,

On springy⁵ heath, along the hill-top edge,

Wander in gladness, and wind down, perchance,

To that still roaring dell, of which I told;

io The roaring dell, o'erwooded, narrow deep,

And only speckled by the mid-day sun;

Where its slim trunk the ash from rock to rock

Flings arching like a bridge;—that branchless ash,

Unsuned and damp, whose few poor yellow leaves

15 Ne'er tremble in the gale, yet tremble still,

Fanned by the water-fall! and there my friends
 Behold the dark green file of long lank weeds,
 That all at once (a most fantastic sight!)
 Still nod and drip beneath the dripping edge
 20 Of the blue clay-stone.
 Now, my friends emerge
 Beneath the wide wide Heaven—and view again
 The many-steepled tract magnificent
 Of hilly fields and meadows, and the sea,
 With some fair bark, perhaps, whose sails light up
 25 The slip of smooth clear blue betwixt two Isles
 Of purple shadow! Yes! they wander on
 In gladness all; but thou, methinks, most glad,
 My gentle-hearted Charles! for thou hast pined
 And hungered after Nature,⁶ many a year,
 30 In the great City pent, winning thy way
 With sad yet patient soul, through evil and pain
 And strange calamity!⁷ Ah! slowly sink
 Behind the western ridge, thou glorious sun!
 Shine in the slant beams of the sinking orb,

4. In fact, in July 1797, Coleridge's wife, Sara,

5. "Elastic, I mean" [Coleridge's note], accidentally spilled boiling milk on his foot during

6. In fact, Lamb, a devoted Londoner, considered a visit from the poet William Wordsworth (1770—nature "dead."

1850; see pp. 763 - 805); Wordsworth's sister,

7. About ten months earlier, Lamb's sister, Mary,

Dorothy; and the essayist and critic Charles Lamb, in a fit of insanity, had stabbed their mother to whom the earliest printed text of this poem was dedicated.

“Addressed.”

808 /

SAMUEL TAYLOR COLERIDGE

35

Ye purple heath-flowers! richlier burn, ye clouds!

Live in the yellow light, ye distant groves!

And kindle, thou blue ocean! So my Friend

Struck with deep joy may stand, as I have stood,

Silent with swimming sense; yea, gazing round

40

On the wide landscape, gaze till all doth seem

Less gross than bodily; and of such hues

As veil the Almighty Spirit, when yet he makes Spirits perceive his presence.

A delight

Comes sudden on my heart, and I am glad 45

As I myself were there! Nor in this bower,

This little lime-tree bower, have I not marked

Much that has soothed me. Pale beneath the blaze

Hung the transparent foliage; and I watched

Some broad and sunny leaf, and loved to see

50

The shadow of the leaf and stem above

Dappling its sunshine! And that walnut-tree
Was richly tinged, and a deep radiance lay
Full on the ancient ivy, which usurps
Those fronting elms, and now, with blackest mass
55

Makes their dark branches gleam a lighter hue
Through the late twilight: and though now the bat
Wheels silent by, and not a swallow twitters,
Yet still the solitary humble bee
Sings in the bean-flower! Henceforth, I shall know 60

That Nature ne'er deserts the wise and pure;
No plot so narrow, be but Nature there,
No waste so vacant, but may well employ
Each faculty of sense, and keep the heart
Awake to Love and Beauty! and sometimes
'Tis well to be bereft of promised good, 65

That we may lift the Soul, and contemplate
With lively joy the joys we cannot share.
My gentle-hearted Charles! when the last rook
Beat its straight path along the dusky air
Homewards, I blessed it! deeming its black wing 70

(Now a dim speck, now vanishing in light)
Had crossed the mighty orb's dilated glory,
While thou stood'st gazing; or when all was still,
Flew creaking o'er thy head, and had a charm

For thee, my gentle-hearted Charles, to whom 75

No sound is dissonant which tells of Life.

1797

1800

K U B L A K H A N / 8 0 9

Kubla Khan⁸

Or a Vision in a Dream. A Fragment

In Xanadu did Kubla Khan

A stately pleasure dome decree:

Where Alph, the sacred river, ran

Through caverns measureless to man

5 Down to a sunless sea.

So twice five miles of fertile ground

With walls and towers were girdled round:

And there were gardens bright with sinuous⁰ rills,⁰ curving / streams

Where blossomed many an incense-bearing tree;

10 And here were forests ancient as the hills,

Enfolding sunny spots of greenery.

But oh! that deep romantic chasm which slanted

Down the green hill athwart a cedarn cover!

A savage place! as holy and enchanted

15 As e'er beneath a waning moon was haunted

By woman wailing for her demon lover!

And from this chasm, with ceaseless turmoil seething,

As if this earth in fast thick pants were breathing,

A mighty fountain momentarily was forced:

20 Amid whose swift half-intermitted burst
Huge fragments vaulted like rebounding hail,
Or chaffy grain beneath the thresher's flail:
And 'mid these dancing rocks at once and ever
It flung up momentarily the sacred river.

25 Five miles meandering with a mazy motion
Through wood and dale the sacred river ran,
Then reached the caverns measureless to man,
And sank in tumult to a lifeless ocean:

And 'mid this tumult Kubla heard from far

30 Ancestral voices prophesying war!

8. The first khan, or ruler, of the Mongol dynasty, three hundred lines; if that indeed can be called in thirteenth-century China. The topography and composition in which all the images rose up before place-names are fictitious. In a prefatory note to him as things, with a parallel production of the cor- the poem, Coleridge gave the following back- respondent expressions, without any sensation or ground: "In the summer of the year 1797, the consciousness of effort. On awaking he appeared author, then in ill health, had retired to a lonely to himself to have a distinct recollection of the farmhouse between Porlock and Linton, on the whole, and taking his pen, ink, and paper, instantly Exmoor confines of Somerset and Devonshire. In and eagerly wrote down the lines that are here pre- consequence of a slight indisposition, an anodyne served. At this moment he was unfortunately called had been prescribed, from the effects of which he out by a person on business from Porlock, and fell asleep in his chair at the moment that he was detained by him above an hour, and on his return reading the following sentence, or words of the to his room, found, to his no small surprise and same substance, in Purchas's Pilgrimage: 'Here the mortification, that though he still retained some Khan Kubla commanded a palace to be built, and vague and dim recollection of the general purport a stately garden thereunto. And thus ten miles of of the vision, yet, with the exception of some eight fertile ground were inclosed with a wall.' The or ten scattered lines and images, all the rest had author continued for about three hours in a pro- passed away like the images on the surface of a found sleep, at least of the external sense, during stream into which a stone has been cast, but, alas! which time he has the most vivid confidence that without the after restoration of the latter!"

he could not have composed less than from two to

810 / SAMUEL TAYLOR COLERIDGE

The shadow of the dome of pleasure
Floated midway on the waves;
Where was heard the mingled measure
From the fountain and the caves.

35 It was a miracle of rare device,

A sunny pleasure dome with caves of ice!

A damsel with a dulcimer⁹

In a vision once I saw:

It was an Abyssinian maid,

40 And on her dulcimer she played,

Singing of Mount Abora.

Could I revive within me

Her symphony and song,

To such a deep delight 'twould win me,

45 That with music loud and long,

